E. E. (PAT) MURPHY VISITS ELDORADO

E. E. (Pat) Murphy, of San Angelo, who is making the race for Congressman for the 16th Congressional District was in Eldorado last Saturday meeting many of the voters.

Mr. Murphy who has been in West Texas all his life and has been engaged in the ranch business states that he knows the needs of the people of this district and if elected will give them he besa he has. He is a strong believer in the methods that C. B. Hudspeth has been using in helping the people of West Texas and promises, if elected to give the same satisfactory service that the people of this section have been receiving.

Mr. Murphy announces that he will be back in Eldorado in the near future and explain his platform more thoroughly to the ranchmen and farmers of this county.

He states that he is a strong believer in high prices of wool and realizes the need of the ranchman in receiving these prices.

Mr. Murphy was in the World War and is highly thoughtful of by all the soldiers that came in contact with him. He was in the same company with some of the Schleicher County boys. He also believes in the maintenance of the Government Hospitals for the ex-soldiers and that the ones that received wounds or injuries in any way during the war should in some way have their share of compensation.

B. B. BRITAIN ANNOUNCES FOR COMMISSIONER OF PRECINCT NO. TWO

Mr. E. B. Britain has authorized us to place his name in the Announcement columns of the Success as Candidate for Commissioner of Precinct No. Two. Mr. Britain lives in the East part of the County and believes that he knows the needs of the people in that precinct in the way of road building. He has been in the County several years, and is well liked by the people and needs little introduction to the voters. He first began business in a confectionery but later took up the ranching business on the R. A. King ranch.

duchess answered. "I do not know what we would do, but I can tell you one thing we would not do," she replied. "We would not complain."

The man who told me of the incident was one of the noblemen who was at the party. He has a good job in New York and only a few intimate friends know that he had a high title and a great estate in his native Hungary. Like the rest, he lost all, but does not complain. The Archduchess was right. They are taking their medicine and smiling at the dose. That is true nobility.

THRIFT
Savings deposits throughout the nation are showing an upward trend again. They were considerably depleted for a while, money being withdrawn for stock speculation. Life insurance investments are steadily climbing.

Henry Ford was right when he said that most men should not deprive themselves under forty in order to save. The old idea that thrift means living a stunted life in youth in order to eke out narrow and bare existence in old age has gone the way of the twelvehour day and the ox-team. Every worker today has a surplus above normal living costs out of which a small percentage of savings will insure comfort in later years. In the meantime, Americans are fortunate in being able to enjoy a wide range of luxuries while still laying something by.

P. T. A. MEETS

The Eldorado Parent Teacher's Association met Friday, February 14, at 3:30 o'clock at the school house. Mrs. Joab Campbell presided. About thirty members were present.

The Association will observe Founder's Day, February 17, with an appropriate program. The Association is thirty-two years old and now has over one million members.

Mrs. George Williams was the leader for the day. Mr. Holt spoke upon the subject of "Moral Training in the Schools of To-day." He asserted that health is the first aim of education moral character is the second and mental training is third. He endeavored to show how morals are taught to-day. His talk was both instructive and interesting. Miss Moore then addressed the Association, urging several plans to carry on the work which she is so ably getting in the health education of our school. These plans are under consideration, and the Association will announce them later. Miss Moore's talk was highly inspirational, making both parents and teachers present realize anew the importance of training in health habit.

After the business meeting was over, the members enjoyed a social half-hour. Dainty refreshments were served.

CLEAN UP CAMPAIGN GETS RESULTS

The Clean Up Campaign that was put on in Eldorado last Thursday and Friday went over in a very large and pleasing way to the people of Eldorado. The vacant lots were the only ones that were not cleaned during being cleared of all litter and the small mesquites that were scattered over them are being cut down and burned. The town looks quite different now. Instead of being a sight for sore eyes, it will give the stranger nothing to say about the town only in a complimentary manner. All the weeds are being burned, the paper piled and burned, leaving nothing but a clean space behind which insures a more beautiful and attractive town.

O. E. CONNER ENTERS SHERIFF'S RACE

Mr. O. E. Conner has authorized us to place his name in the announcement columns as a candidate for Sheriff and Tax Collector for Schleicher County. Mr. Conner solicits your support and says if elected to the office that he will do his best to treat every one alike and give his best services to the requirements of the office and the interest of the people.

H. W. FINLEY ANNOUNCES FOR COUNTY JUDGE

H. W. Finley who has been filling the chair vacated by the retirement of Judge G. D. Hines, by appointment from the Commissioner's Court has made official announcement to enter the race for election to this office for the next term. SCHLEICHER SHERIFF DECLINES TO RUN FOR EIGHTH TERM

A. F. Luedecke, present sheriff and tax collector of Schleicher County who is now serving his seventh term in that office, has announced to his friends that he would not be a candidate for re-election. He believes that fourteen years in the same office is enough for any man and so will be ready for some one else to bear the burden and "tote the gun" of the office after next January. Mr. Luedecke is well known in West Texas, having come in contact with hundreds of people from other counties while he has served as sheriff of Schleicher County.

During his fourteen years as "the law" is one of the rather thinly populated but one of the most peaceful and quiet counties of the state, Mr. Luedecke has fearlessly performed his duties and on more than one occasion has been in some pretty tight places. He has arrested some eight hundred lawbreakers most of whom were wanted in some other place. He recalls only five murder cases in the history of the county and only two of these have been while he held the office of sheriff. He has lost only one man and that was a Mexican who evaded the searching party and finally got into Old Mexico. He has never had a jail-break and has never lost a prisoner. On one occasion only has he ever had to draw his gun in making an arrest and that was in arresting a bad Mexican who showed fight with a long knife.

Mr. Luedecke recalls that during the month of February, several years ago, a Texas Ranger stopped in Eldorado for several days and because everything was so quiet and peaceful the sheriff all the time was gentle and old-timers assert that they would pitch and try to run almost every time they hitched up. Mr. Luedecke and his partner sold these horses all the way from Brady to Belton and did not receive less than $50 for any one of them.

Sheriff Luedecke says that he is in no hurry to decide what he shall do after this term in office expires and as yet he has no definite plans.

In making the announcement that he will not be a candidate for re-election, Sheriff Luedecke asks the Success to express his thanks to the people of Schleicher County for their support and cooperation during the time he has served as sheriff.

election he has had one or more opponents in the race but it is the common opinion that he would still be a hard man to beat if he wanted to remain in the office.

"August", as the gray-haired sheriff is called by his friends, first came to Schleicher County, from Jones County, in 1906. For several years he was engaged in the ranching business and for a time worked on the Thomson Brothers ranch. When Mr. Luedecke first came to Schleicher County it was fenced in big pastures with three barbed wire fences and little farming was done in the county. Whenever a person wished to go either east or west from Eldorado he would have to travel through the pastures and would have to open gates after gate. In those days they did not think much of taking the fence down wherever they came to it and crossing over but now that the country is fenced and cross fenced with net wire it would almost be worth a man's life to try such. Mr. Luedecke has seen the big pastures cut into farms and into small stock-farms and he believes that the resources of the county are largely undeveloped at the present time.

Eldorado, when Mr. Luedecke first saw it, had a population of about three hundred. The mail came in from San Angelo on a stage coach which was drawn by four horses. Tom Savell was the driver of the stage and when he later replaced the horse drawn vehicles with Cadillac automobiles, Mr. Luedecke and a partner bought the twenty stage horses at a price of ten dollars per head. Not a horse in the bunch was gentle and old-timers assert that they would pitch and try to run almost every time they hitched up. Mr. Luedecke and his partner sold these horses all the way from Brady to Belton and did not receive less than $50 for any one of them.

Sheriff Luedecke says that he is in no hurry to decide what he shall do after this term in office expires and as yet he has no definite plans.

In making the announcement that he will not be a candidate for re-election, Sheriff Luedecke asks the Success to express his thanks to the people of Schleicher County for their support and cooperation during the time he has served as sheriff.

SENIOR PLAY

Miss Orsborne will have charge of the Senior Play this year. The Seniors are pleased with her as a coach.

No play has been selected, yet but several are trying to select one and the play will be selected in the near future.

Work will not begin on the play until some time in March.

TRACK MEET

The track meet which will be held March 1, 1930, at Sonora will be of very great interest to E. H. S. and also the citizens of Eldorado because, as you all know we won the "cup" last year and are to win it again this year. After we win the cup this year we will only have to win it one more year in order for it to belong to E. H. S. permanently, so let's every one get interested in this event and get every one around you interested. If you can not enter any event, then be at Sonora boosting old E. H. S. so she'll come out on top. She can! She will.

Mr. Redford will have charge of all Junior boys that is the boys who are under fifteen years of age and Mr. Smart will have charge of the Seniors or those above fifteen.

We have plenty of material to work with and if we can get some encouragement from the citizens of Eldorado and the pupils of the school we can win. Help the boys to win and be there to see them win March 1st at Sonora.

ATTENDANCE RECORD

Last year the best attendance record in the High School was held by Viola May. She was neither absent nor tardy a time.

This year there has been no close check up made on both these records. However there is on an average from two to three absences for almost every student. Some students have not been absent any but there are quite a number of tardies.

BOYS HIGH SCHOOL TENNIS CLUB

The boys tennis club has been progressing rapidly during the good weather we've been having. The court is in good condition at last after much dragging and rock removal.

The boys have plenty of competition to keep them working, especially in Mr. Redford, seventh grade teacher, who is a very good player.

If possible, games will be matched with one or two of the surrounding towns, so if you want to see a good game just come around when you hear we are going to have a match game.

JUNIORS

So far only a few Juniors have entered any of the events of Interscholastic League. However, those who have entered are taking a prominent part and we hope there will be others join in later.

Among those entering events are: Viola May, Spelling, Hazel Bruton, Essay writing.

Let's come out and help win Juniors!

CHAPEL

On Wednesday morning Mrs. McClain the second grade gave the assembly program. Theirs was one of the best programs of the year. The naturalness of the young performers impressed the audience. The variety of numbers shows great promise for these youngsters. Part of the program was devoted to arousing our appreciation of Lincoln and his greatness. Every one thoroughly enjoyed the program.

Eldorado Girls Still Victorious

Who said the Eldorado Girls Basket Ball Team could not beat Sonora? The girls beat Sonora 32 to 12 on Sonora's court.

At first the girls did not know whether they would be able to hold their own as Sonora's court is covered with two of three inches of dust which makes falling an eas yjob. They soon found, however, that Sonora's girls fell down quite as much as ours did.

The first quarter Sonora was holding her own very well, but Eldorado was a few points in the lead. The second quarter, our girls did much better. At the half the score stood 24 to 10, Eldorado leading. In the next half, Sonora made but one goal, while Eldorado made eight more points.

Many times Eldorado went over the line or outside on account of the dust. Sonora went over just as many times, if not a few more. It seemed as if Sonora was always awarded the ball whether one of our players or theirs had hit it last. This is not a personal opinion. Ask some of the others who were standing around.

Sonora made no substitutions and Eldorado only made one. At the half, Evelyn Anderson took Lucile Oglesby's place as jump center. Victoria almost had to get out at the first quarter as she turned her ankle but she kept on. Those playing were Alta Stevens, captain, F.; Pauline Rape, F.; Victoria Jones, R. C.; Lucile Oglesby, J. C.; Evelyn Anderson, J. C.; Ruby Wilson, G.; and Frances Ballew, G.

All of our players did well, better than they had ever done before. Come on girls, let's beat the rest of them just a little worse.

PERSONALS

Margaret Williams has been absent from school several days on account of an accident by falling over a wire.

Carland Bullion will probably become interested in extemporaneous speaking.

Why does Jack Elder not like debating? Answer—For the same reason that he does not like any kind of work.

Eli does not like to make speeches because of a funny feeling that comes over him while before the room. This feeling disappears and speech flows freely when he sits down.

From all appearance now, R. D. Holt, Jr. will soon be a big boy.

AND OUT!

The master, the impress and his pupils the need of thinking before speaking, told them to count 50 before saying anything important and 100 if it was very important.

Next day he was speaking, standing before his fire, when he noticed several lips moving rapidly.

Suddenly the whole class shouted, "Ninety-eight, ninety-nine, a hundred. Your Coat's on fire, sir!"

Teacher: We must always remember we are to help others". Susie: Yes, Miss Perkins, but what are the others here for?"

SCHOOL TEAM DEFEATS TOWN GIRLS

On Wednesday afternoon the girls played the town girls on the home court. Several times the High School team allowed the town girls to out play them on certain plays, but due to the fact that the school girls were in practice, they overcame the others by a score of 40-21.

Values Of The Interscholastic League To A High School

By Jack Elder

To my mind there is nothing which brings out the school spirit, loyalty, and good fellowships like the events of the Interscholastic League. When a school joins and the students and teachers cooperate, right then that school has started its history. Until it does join people imagine it is just an excuse for a school. They have no way of knowing about its ability to put out material ready for the problems of life. Really it can not put out material which will be in demand if this material has not had experience in declamation, debating, essay writing, and field training.

Take for instance this school. For the last five years before 1927 this school had just been rocking along. It had good material, but it had no chance whatever to show it or get any outside praise. There were several good football and basket ball teams, but what did they gain? Nothing. It was just a won or lost game. Other schools won loving cups for both Literary and field events while we looked on in envy while we could just as easily have been winning trophies had we been in the League.

In 1928 Mr. Holt got the school interested in this League. There was very little progress that year but it created the spirit to put the old school on the map. Although the boys did not enter the two meets held in this district they visited and began preparing for the future.

In 1928 the Eldorado High School entered the League. It did not win any honors but it created the spirit. Which was to be so instrumental the following year. The school was represented in most of the literary events and one or two field events.

In 1929 the Eldorado High School took up the work for what it could get out of it. At the Sonora Invitation Meet Eldorado's track team carried off the loving cup. At the district meet we had five men to go to state in track and one in literary. In that way our school has been put on the map by just having someone to back up the school and get it started in the right way.

Not only has the joining of the League won us honors, but has helped in many other ways. There has been more enthusiasm in sports and literary work, better school spirit, more becking by the town, and a smoothing running school. The one requirement of the League "A student entering in any event must have been in school the preceding semester and have passed in three out of four subjects is instrumental in causing a more regular attendance and better grades. In the League there is every thing to gain and nothing to lose. Just think of the training a person gets out of this work for the future use in life. He learns the true spirit of the sportsman "Be big enough to lose without howling or t win without gloating."

CITY COUNCIL SECURES DUMPING GROUNDS

The City Council reports that they have secured grounds to serve the people as a dumping ground. Considerable trouble has been experienced by the Council in securing a convenient place for this. The site chosen is just east of the Santa Fe Right of way in the Ed Ratliff pasture. About three and one half acres was purchased and will serve the people quite awhile if they will be careful in the dumping of their rubbish. The officials ask that the rubbish be dumped at the extreme back and that every thing be burned, if possible. They ask for the hearty cooperation of the town people in this matter.

SOME CLASS

Eldorado boys are getting very classy lately. Two of Eldorado's gift of young men, Jack Edmiston and Cecil McClatchey motored to San Antonio last week and while there saw many wonderful sights. On returning they decided not to be bothered with the troublesome job of driving and from an information bureau secured the services of a Colored Chauffeur. On returning home they expressed themselves as having a wonderful time in the big city and a very pleasant trip home with no worries about the road.

THE MODERN "MAN ON HORSEBACK"

At a dangerous street corner in New York City where two street-car lines cross at an angle in front of a Subway station and heavy crosstown traffic complicates an already difficult situation, stands a large sign in the shape of a tombstone. It reads "Sacred to the Memory of 1,846 persons killed in automobiles in the city this year." The number is changed every day. It never grows smaller; the dead do not come back to life.

Ohio for some years marked the scene of every fatal accident on a State highway with a white cross. It is reported that the state has abandoned this practice; the crosses became too thick in some spots. This is a step in the wrong direction. Warnings like that may be disregarded and usually are by most motorists, but enough drivers will be shocked into at least temporary caution to be more careful at that particular spot.

It is merely for the protection of drivers and their passengers that such warnings are needed. The man on foot still has first rights on the highway, and his life is as valuable as that of the man who rides. Out of all the immense toll of motor deaths in 1929, nearly a third were of pedestrians struck by automobiles.

In the old feudal days in Europe the man on horseback felt that he was superior being, and the poor people who had no horses had to agree with him or be ridden down. One of the things our fathers came to America for was to change all that. It would almost seem as if we were losing ground. There is something about driving a car which makes many persons utterly reckless of the rights of others. That these reckless ones are not always very young and are not necessarily intoxicated, only makes the situation all the worse.

EVERYDAY MIRACLES

The younger generation accepts as commonplace things which those who can remember the time when there were no telephones, no electric lights, no phonographs, no automobiles, no motion pictures, no airplanes, no radio, no submarines, still regard as some what miraculous, when they stop to think about them.

Fifty years ago when anyone suggested the possibility of any of these things the universal answer was "It can't be done." A hundred years ago if anyone had been rash enough to predict any of them society would have locked him up in a madhouse for its own protection. Two hundred years ago they hanged men and women who were merely suspected of doing things which are matters of everyday experience now. A hundred years before that the Church was excommunicating and sometimes executing men for daring to suggest that such things were possible.

Suppose, for example, that someone had reported to the Spanish Inquisition or to the witch-finders of Salem that a man sitting in a chair in New York had, in the space of forty-five minutes, first talked with a man in London, then sent a message through the air to a point near the South Pole, from which the message was repeated to another man who was at that moment flying like a bird a hundred miles away and a couple of miles up in the air; that the man in the sky had replied to the message and the man in New York had received the reply, all in three-quarters of an hour.

Witchcraft, Sorcery, Black Magic! The pious authorities of our earlier day would have seen the handiwork of the Devil in such a manifestation as that which happened on January 22nd, when Captain Bailey called up London on behalf of his friend Admiral Byrd to inquire what assistance the British whaling fleet might give in breaking a way through the ice floes to let the Antarctic explorer's relief ship get through, then passed the information on to the admiral. Yet the news report of this occurrence passed almost unnoticed.

We have got out of the habit either Divine assistance or the machinations of the Devil. We boast of them as achievements of the human mind. But the greatest men of science today affirm their belief that the human mind derives its almost illimitable power from some source which all of the experiments have not disclosed.

We are performing new miracles so fast that it seems as if there must soon be an end to human progress. Science says "no" to that. Mankind has hardly begun its upward flight in the conquest of matter, time and space. In the laboratories new discoveries about the properties of matter, far beyond any that have yet been applied

HOW FORD METHODS CUT COST OF DISTRIBUTION

Lower profits in selling save you at least $50 to $75 in addition to the many savings in manufacturing

TWENTY-SEVEN years ago the Ford Motor Company was formed to provide reliable, economical transportation for all the people. That original purpose has never changed. The constant effort in every activity is to find ways to give you greater and greater value without extra cost—frequently at lowered cost. This applies to distribution and similar important factors, as well as manufacture.

For the Ford Motor Company believes that its full duty is not only to make a good automobile at the lowest possible price, but to see that there is no waste, extravagance, or undue profit in any transaction from the time the car leaves the factory until it is delivered to your home. It is obvious that hard-won savings in production will be of little value if they are sacrificed later through excessive selling costs.

EVERY purchaser of a motor car has the right to know how much of the money he pays is for the car itself and how much is taken up by dealer charges. If these charges are too high, one of two things must happen. Either the price of the car must be raised or the quality lowered. There is no other way. The money must come from somewhere.

In the case of the Ford, the low charges for distribution, selling, financing and accessories mean a direct saving of at least $50 to $75 to every purchaser in addition to the still greater savings made possible by economies in manufacturing. Ford charges are not marked up or increased to cover a high trade-in allowance on a used car.

The profit margin on the Ford car has always been fair to both the dealer and the public. Within the past three months, it has been possible to effect still further economies. Today, the discount or commission of the Ford dealer is the lowest of any automobile dealer. The difference, ranging from 25% to nearly 50%, comes right off the price you pay for the car.

THE business of the Ford dealer is good because he makes a small profit on a large number of sales instead of a large profit on fewer sales. He knows, too, that the extra dollar-for-dollar value of the car makes it easier to sell and more certain to give satisfactory service after purchase.

Consider also that the Ford car is delivered to the purchaser equipped with a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, an extra steel-spoke wheel, and bright, enduring Rustless Steel for many exterior metal parts, in addition to four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers and fully enclosed four-wheel brakes.

If for any reason you wish to buy certain small accessories, you will find that these, too, are sold at the usual Ford low prices. Replacement parts are also available at low prices through Ford dealers in every section of the country.

THESE are important points to remember in considering the purchase of a motor car. They show why it is possible to put so much extra quality into the new Ford and still maintain the low price. They are also the reasons why more than 35% of all cars sold today are Model A Fords.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY

LYING ADVERTISEMENTS

The Federal Trade Commission has taken another step toward truth in advertising. It has obtained from a prominent cigarette manufacturer the promise not to use any longer a class of misleading statements to the general effect that smoking its particular brand of cigarettes promotes health and helps women to keep slender. The advertising complained of was particularly blatant. "Testimonials" signed by actresses and motion picture stars were published, which were themselves untruthful and which, in some cases, the supposed author had never seen before they were published, although they accepted money for the use of their names. The actresses, the Commission reports, "were not cigarette smokers and did not stay slender through the smoking of the respondent's cigarettes." "In truth and in fact," says the Trad Commission, "health and vigor to men, slender figures to women, and reduction of flesh in all cases, will not necessarily result from the smoking of respondent's brand of cigarettes."

Whatever may be anyone's personal ideas on the subject of cigarettes, the fact remains that their use has become so well-nigh universal that nobody any longer takes seriously the occasional efforts to punish either the sellers or the smokers. But the claim that cigarettes-smoking is beneficial to health is absurd on its face, and to attempt to uphold such a claim one wonders how much truth there is in the contention that modern business, especially "big" business, is conducted on higher standards of honor than it once professed.

Another shock, quite a few we might add, has been experienced by the writer on making the turn at the post between the Ford and Chevrolet garages. One of our prominent city officials made a confession that it should be fixed some time ago. Maybe it is just time that they need.

Tom Love is having a hard time convincing the Democratic Committee that they are dumb Tom is just a black sheep in the flock and they are trying to keep him cut back. They are having fair luck so far.

Bad business is again found or rather supposed to be found in the Texas government. The auditor has found quite a deficiency in some of the State's money. Texas has got entirely to much money or the officials are dumb book-keepers, maybe we had better send them to business college for a short course.

"Old man Henderson" must have gotten hold of some high-powered liquor a few nights ago. He was certainly in the air and was getting this little old world told, "doggone yeh."

TOOLS HUNG IN PAGE WELL

Following an oil showing at approximately 2200 feet in the test for oil being made on the Bert Page ranch about ten miles southeast of Eldorado, the well caved in above the bit and on attempting to raise the tools, the engines were unable to loosen them. This will cause some delay in deepening the test as the cable will have to cut at the top of the bit and grabs will then have to be sent down for the stem at the bottom of the well.

MRS. L. J. SHUGHART

I have returned to Eldorado and solicit your nursing and sewing. Phone 125.

Mr. Harold Jackson was in Eldorado Monday night from the Ranch. While in town Mr. Jackson was hit by one of the campaigners and he become a subscriber of The Success.

ELDORADO BOY WINS OVER 120 ANNAPOLIS BOXERS

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Wright, of Eldorado, have received a letter from their son, Taylor, who is attending the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, telling of his record in boxing. He is on the "Plebe" team and represented his school in a tournament with V. M. I. in the 115-pound class. In order to make the team he had to win the decision over 120 class mates. Taylor Wright graduated from the Eldorado high school in 1928, and although he was exceptionally light, he represented the high school in football, basketball, track and baseball.

PHENOMENAL GAIN IN TRUST SERVICES

By JOHN G. DONSDALE
President American Bankers Association

So phenomenal has been the increase of trust business that statisticians are unable to keep a true record of its advancement. There are now something like 2,500 active trust departments in banks in America, while in 1900 only 165 active trust departments had been established. In becoming the custodians or the guardians of the property of others, bankers assume what has been fittingly described as one of the "most exalted human relationships ever created by law." They become at once a big brother, a big sister, an advisor, or a confessor, sworn to conduct themselves that clients will be won to them by their ability and integrity.

Thousands of little children have received an education and have been started off right in life through the trust department's safe keeping and guidance of the family estate, numberless widows have been protected from merciless stock swindlers, many thousands of business men have been relieved of troublesome details in the conduct of their business through the creation of a living trust and still others have safeguarded their business enterprises through life insurance trusts.

The favorable reaction of the public toward trust department service is not accidental. It may be traced jointly to the growing intelligence of the American people in financial affairs and to advertising to the world at large the merits of trust services. Advertising used in a sensible, judicious way is necessary, a power that has accomplished much good for humanity.

Among the detailed services, rendered by a trust department the one that seems to be winning favor the fastest is the life insurance trust. Life insurance is the quickest known way of creating an estate. In reality it affords the possessor the opportunity of setting up a positive monetary safeguard for his family and then paying for it on the installment plan.

A married man is not fair to his family if he fails to carry life insurance. I would say to the young man, "Buy insurance before you buy the ring," and to the young woman I would say, "Marry no man so thoughtless as to scoff at life insurance."

MODERN EDUCATION REVERSES OLD IDEAS

Business Institutes Use the Plan of Getting People to Think Rather Than Merely to Learn.

There is one general principle at the basis of all good teaching and it is that a person learns more readily by assimilating the experiences which he himself encounters than in any other way, says Harold Stonier, National Educational Director of the American Institute of Banking. This institute is the educational section of the American Bankers Association through which 35,000 bank men and women are receiving scientific instruction in their chosen business.

"The most advanced people in teaching today are emphasizing the importance of activity on the part of the student," he says. "In the school-room of former days we often heard such phrases as, 'Be still, 'Learn by heart, 'Don't do that, 'What does the book say?' The newer education asks, 'What do you think?', 'What was your reaction to that experiment?', 'What did you discover?', 'What reasons have you for answer?'

The New School Calls for Action "The 'expressing' school is taking the place of the repressing and listening school. The classroom is becoming an open forum, a studio of self-expression, a place of mental growth. The modern concepts of education are personal experimentation, individual investigation, critical discussion and creative self-expression. The pupil really learns only as he is able to assimilate the new meanings of facts and principles with his previous experiences. Activities therefore constitute the pivotal force around which are grouped the new factors in education. The primary responsibility of the teacher is to furnish a constant stream of activities which will afford the stimulating urge to mental growth.

"Education is a process of experimenting, and the program of the institute is so arranged as to give the greatest opportunity to gain by such experience. Through this we develop the art of thinking. Thinking has been described as the ability to handle experience and to bring it to bear on a problem. Effective thinking arises when we are presented with the choice of conduct. Our previous experiences become helpful as we marshal them and bring them to bear upon the matter of our choice."

The students in the American Institute of Banking by reason of the fact that they continue to go on about their employment in banks while taking the banking association's study courses have an opportunity to combine learning with practical thinking and action.

GEORGE WASHINGTON
 By Willie Ruth Nicks

I often wonder what George Washington would do and think if he were living now. Would he like aviation and the other modern systems of living? If he could change places with Herbert Hoover and spend one year in this old world again, what would he do?

I had a vision of this scene in a dream I had the other night. It seemed as though I was in a very strange country. I walked along a beautiful path with flowers on every side and everything seemed to be at peace and rest. I traveled all day, but I did not get tired. At dusk I came upon the terraced porch and gazed at the dying sun in the west. It was a beautiful and vivid scene.

I rang the door bell, and a maid with a happy and welcoming smile came to the door. She told me that I had reached the home of George and Martha Washington. I entered the door and came into a beautiful room. In one chair, I saw a man with white hair, true blue eyes, and an honest and pleased look on his face. In another chair, I saw Martho Washington.

In a very short time, I was in a deep and interested conversation with Mr. Washington. He asked me to tell him about the old world, the one in which he had won fame and happiness. He seemed delighted to hear of the wonderful progress made by

He spoke of the days when he was a young man of America. He told me about the surveying he did for Lord Fairfax and of the trip he made from Virginia to the French command. He told me of his courtship with Mrs. Martho Custis, to whom he had lost his heart at first sight. He told me when he entered her home, her sweet smile made him happy. He was so happy he stayed there a few days and then made frequent visits to her home. At last, his heart reached to an extreme where he could no longer resist the temptations. He proposed to her and they were married. He was very happy living at Mount Vernon. The estate which his brother Lawrence left him.

He told me of his life at Washington and what a hard time he had drawing the plans for Washington, the American's famous and renowned capitol. He was glad to know that the Americans were now in peace. He told me he would like to be living now so he could ride in airplanes and go to the South Pole with Admiral Byrd, but he had had a hoppy and long life and was satisfied.

When I awoke I found this was only a dream. I had started a theme on George Washington, the hero of the American revolutionary war and the first president of the United States when I fell asleep.

A survey of the town shows that the street leading to the depot has no outfit. It goes thru several lots belonging to the townsites Company according to the engineer French and French, this can be remedied at a small cost now but later on it might be rather expensive. The townsites has offered to donate the land to the city if they pay for the re-mapping. A real liberal offer it seems and should be accepted we think.

There are other lots in the city that run directions and from many different angles and triangles that could be adjusted, according to these engineer's. The writer for one can verify the statement as to some lots located in this town forming a rather peculiar triangle.

There will come a time some day when there will be no capital punishment, but the time is not here to do away with it. People must learn to live within the law of God and man and then Another Mexican President has been shot and wounded in Mexico, but not fatal. The would be killer has been caught by the law, and will no doubt get his deserved punishment.

Prof. O. J. Curry returned from Cameron, Sunday, and report that Mrs. Curry and daughter will come about March 1st.

A. D. Wright and wife, Maurice Jones and wife and daughter, and J. A. Holland, were over from Brady Sunday getting something to eat and enjoying the fresh ozone of this delightful section of Texas, and incidentally looking for a place to live in the future, that is the Jones's were. We have several families of Jones' that have moved here from McCulloch and Mason Counties and we guess we can stand a few more if they should see fit to move here.

The cry comes from all over the world and New York for the farmers to decrease the cotton acreage this year. But until the farmer listen to them. Will it do them any good to decrease the acreage less cotton, get more money for it and then pay more for cotton goods. Who will realize the greatest profit the farmer or the manufacturer?

Some expemimnts are being made in several places as to the amount of money being spent with mail order houses and how much of this actually comes back. One instance shows from a check up made by the Chamber of Commerce of a small city that approximately $200,00 had been sent away from that town and county during a year. The C. of C asked the mail order huse t help by contributing to good causes in the various needs of the town. The mail order huse came very near bank rupting the stockholders. The sent in $250. just imagine. Trade at home folks.

Our friend A. B. White is a good farmer, if he doesn't get mixed up to much this year in politics, A. B. seems to think that the Will Cox party, is going to make a lot of good Republican

MARVIN SHAFER TO OPEN GROCERY STORE

Marvin Shafer who at one time operated a grocery store in Eldorado and then moved to San Angelo an opened the same business there has now returned to Eldorado to re-enter the business again. Mr. Shafer will carry a complete line of Groceries. The business will be in the McKnight building recently used by the Stewardson Grocery Store.

ELDORADO BAKERY SELLS

Mr. J. W. Luckett announced that he had purchased the entire business of the Eldorado Bakery which had a joint interest with Roy Andrews and R. C. Morgan. Mr. Luckett has been in the baking business for the past eight years, operating a bakery in Eldorado at one time before he returned the last time. Mr. Luckett is a first baker and will do his best to give the people of Eldorado and vicinity the best possible service.

REPORT OF HEALTH CONDITIONS IN COUNTY VERY FAVORABLE

Miss Celia Moore, State Itenerant Health Nurse who has been in Eldorado has turned a very favorable report of the health conditions prevailing in the entire county. She has inspected seven rural schools and examined 114 children. She has found about ten per cent of the children under weight. She has made twelve health talks in the county. Two hundred and forty four children have been emmunized against diphtheria. Forty of these were infants and pre-school children. Miss Moore found thirty one defects in the examination of sixty four infants and pre-school children.

She has given the following recommendations for rural schools to follow, Sanitary pit tiles, sanitary drinking fountains, walks to buildings and toilets.

Miss Moore made the statement that "the children in this county have the fewest cavities in their permanent teeth than in any other county I have been. They are Milk drinkers and do not get too much sweets." This assertion made by her should be very interesting to the patrons of the county.

It will not be long until the spring gardening and flower planting will be under way. This will help in adding beauty to the town site. A beautiful lawn, covered with grass and flowers is certainly not hard to look at. It will make the traveler drive slower in admiring the beauty of the place and thus to pause long enough to ask some questions and that will be enough. He will have to come back after finding out what we have to offer him here.

Our friend E. E. Britain has finally gotten into politics. He has announced for Commissioner. We are glad to see this young man come for this office as he can easily take care of all the cussings that are freely offered as pay in this office. He is very broad shouldered and will be new at the job so it will not hurt him a great deal to receive extra pay.

GUNMAN'S BLUFF

FIFTH INSTALMENT SYNOPSIS

Margaret Leferre's brother, Rex, has been found dead with a note addressed to his sister stating that he has been ruined by investments recommended by Luke Maddison, wealthy banker, to whom Margaret is engaged. Danty Morell, a rather shady character, informs Maddison that Rex had cashed a check for 18,000 pounds bearing Luke's signature. Detective Bird, known as "The Sparrow" calls on Maddison, who refuses to take any action although his signature was forged to the check. Maddison does not know of the dead man's accusation of him, Margaret does not know that her brother was a forger. Her love for Maddison turns to hate when she decides to keep her promise to marry him. She is desperately poor and Maddison makes over his entire fortune to her, everything he possesses. In the background of these events is the figure, still shadowy, of Gunner Haynes, a famous American crook, who had encountered Maddison and Margaret, apparently by chance, the evening before Rex's death.

After the wedding Luke is approached by a man named Lewing who brings him the news that Gunner Haynes has been arrested and is in need of money. Maddison gives Lewing ten pounds. At two o'clock Luke Maddison and Margaret are married at the Registry Office. She goes to her house, where Luke joins her. She refuses to let him kiss her, and asks to postpone their wedding journey. Luke remembers that he has certain payments to meet which he had forgotten. He asks his wife to give him a check for 97,000 pounds out of the fortune he has made over to her. She amazes him by refusing, saying that he shall never have a cent of the money back; it belongs to her and she will keep it in revenge for his ruining her brother. He is unable to reply, and leaves her. He wanders to the Thames Embankment, trying to guess what the trouble is.

There is something mysterious about Gunner Haynes, and an even greater mystery as to who killed Lewing while he is talking with Maddison himself. Luke recovers consciousness two weeks later in a hospital, with nothing to indicate his identity. He has a heavy beard and the hospital people call him "Smith". Margaret sees a photograph of the mysterious "Smith" in a newspaper but does not recognize it. Meantime, she gets a telegram from Paris, signed "Luke," saying he will not come back and will supply evidence for a divorce. Luke Maddison, in the hospital, knowing nothing of this, decides that he will keep on calling himself Smith and see what happens.

Now Go On With The Story

"A friend of yours wishes to see you," she said. "He says he knows you."

Luke frowned.

"A friend?" he repeated. "I'm sure he's mistaken me for somebody else."

"No he particularly asked for you. He said the man who was stabbed; of course, I didn't tell him your name was Smith, because it isn't."

"Oh, yes, it is, sister—I'm profoundly curious; let him come in."

The man who came in he had never seen before. His shabbiness was relieved by a collar of such surprising whiteness that Luke guessed it had been bought for the occasion, as also had the violent necktie. He was a man with a very small face, sharp-featured; his heavily lidded eyes glanced furtively left and right before he came stealthily to the bed.

"All right, sister." His voice was high and husky (Luke remembered that Lewing's voice was that way, and wondered if this was a relative).

"Is this your friend?" asked the nurse.

The man nodded.

"That's him all right, miss." The nurse disappeared, and the man bent over the bed. He smelt musty and unsavory, as though his clothes had been stored in a damp place.

"Joe says that as you didn't squeak he's going to make things right for you."

"Didn't what?" asked Luke.

"Squeak. Don't be funny! When you come out see him."

He slipped a dirty piece of paper under the pillow, and Luke heard a well-remembered rustle.

"There's a fiver there for you, Joe says he'll look after you."

"God bless him!" said Luke soberly, "for if ever there was a man who wanted looking after, it's me!"

He left the hospital on a sunny afternoon, and could walk out without assistance, for he had carried no baggage. He was strong enough to walk, for he had taken an appreciable amount of exercise on the terrace of the hospital; but he had lost weight and his clothes hung loosely upon him. The mysterious man had told him to go to Mrs. Fraser, at 339 Ginnett Street.

He pushed open the door; a cracked bell clanged, and after a while there emerged through a door leading to the shop parlor a sharp-featured woman with brassy hair, who greeted him with all the superficial unfriendliness which he discovered was the normal attitude of the small tradesman in this neighborhood.

"I am Mrs. Fraser," she said.

"I was told to call and see you, he began, when she interrupted him quickly.

"Are you the man from the hospital—Smith?"

Luke smiled and nodded. She lifted the flap of the counter.

"Come in will you?" Her tone was respectful, almost fawning. "I thought you wasn't coming out till to-morrow."

She led the way into a frowsy little parlor and closed the door communicating with the shop carefully.

"It's lucky I had the room done up for you to-day," she said. "I'm a rare one for getting things done in time. Will you come this way, Mr. What's your name?"

Curiosity impelled him to follow her. At the first sight of that dingy shop he had been tempted to turn back, to find a new foothold to life; but now he went after the woman almost gaily. For that was the ineradicable weakness of Luke Maddison: a consuming curiosity as to what would happen next.

At some time or other there had been built a small annex to the house; the floors were firmer, the doors seemed heavier. She opened one of these and showed him into the room, the comfort of which was rather staggering. He expected to see something particularly uninviting, and it is possible that had this been the case, he would have declined the lodging and gone elsewhere. But the bed was neat, the sheets spotless; the furniture, though plain, was ample, and a small fire burned in the grate. "To air the room she explained, almost apologetically, and led him to understand that this luxury was permanent.

Danty looked at Margaret in horrified amazement. His consternation was almost comic.

"You've given back all the money he gave you?" he stammered.

"Why shouldn't I? I have enough to live on," she said. "Mr. Stiles, as trustee of the fund, is making me a sufficient allowance."

He could only gaze at her, dumb-founded. All his fine schemes had been blown away as a feather of steam is blown by a gale. She saved him the trouble of speaking and gave him time to recover himself, for she went on:

"Luke has never been in Paris since he went away—some interested person must have sent that wire. I almost feel as though I willed it to be sent, to give me some excuse for the terrible way I treated Luke."

She smiled. "I should be awfully uncomfortable if I thought my money made any difference to you in your scheme, Danton. Happily, you're a rich man."

Danty nodded slowly. He had that morning received a warning letter from his banker, for he had been spending money and losing large sums at his favorite gaming house in the faith that his financial position would soon be unassailable.

With an effort he recovered his balance and forced his voice into a tone of indigence.

"I'm not sure that you're wise. Did not consult your lawyer?"

She shook her head.

"In matters of conscience one does not consult lawyers," she said quietly.

It was difficult enough even to make intelligent conversation. Her attitude was a dead wall built across his easy path, and at the moment it seemed unscalable. He had to play for time now; his native cunning told him that so long as he had her on his side there was no reason why he should lose hope.

He had dreamed of hundreds of thousands; he had been certain of tens of thousands; there was still an odd thousand or two for the picking and possibly a greater haul if he played the game shrewdly.

"When do you expect to leave for Ronda?"

"In two days' time," she said quickly—so quickly that he realized she had worked it out to the hour. "As soon as I am certain that Luke is in Ronda I shall go to him."

"Exactly what will you say to him?"

He could not resist asking this question though he realized even as he spoke the words that he was guilty of a tactical error.

He saw her stiffen; that cold look came back to the beautiful eyes.

"That is entirely a matter between Luke and me," she said. "I have made this mess, I am afraid, and I must get out of it."

In his desperation he blundered again.

"You owe something to Rex's memory," he said. "I don't know what you're feeling about Luke, but there's a fact that can't be blinked. Luke could have saved your brother's life; instead, when he found he was ruined, he hounded him still further into the mire. His god is money."

"Yet he gave me everything," she said quietly; "and when I refused him money, he went away without a word. Don't you realize, Danton, that had he gone to his lawyer, had he gone to the courts—had he done anything—I must have given him the money back, not because he had any legal right to it but because I would not have dared to a public inquiry. He may have been mean, he may have been terribly cruel, but I cannot right one wrong with another. That is the consideration which made me give back the money to Mr. Stiles," she went on in a voice less tense, more agreeable, almost friendly. "We shall have to thresh out this business of Rex—it's very ugly and hurtful and I can't think of it calmly even now. Luke may have some explanation; there may be a very excellent reason why he refused any further help to poor Rex. At any rate, it's my job to find the truth."

He was almost livid with a fury he could hardly disguise. His lips curled in a sneer.

"It seems to me that the result of your conciliation—I suppose that's what it is coming to—will be to leave me in the lurch and put me wrong with anybody. Financially it may ruin me. Luke had a big influence in the City, and even now the mere suggestion that I was antagonistic to him is making a big difference."

To his surprise she laughed.

"Danton," she said, almost gaily, "you're making me feel a pig! You don't imagine I would allow a friend of Rex's to suffer because of the help he tried to give me?"

Danton Morell was puzzled. Why was she so cheerful? And then he remembered—she would be in Ronda in a few days, would be united with her husband. The thought made him wince; he was beginning to understand how big a place this girl had made for herself in his life. It was not like Danton Morell to allow any woman a foothold in the cold thing he called a heart; but insensibly, and for some reason which he could not understand, she whom he had intended as a dupe had become a factor. It was almost unbelievable.

And with this came another realization that momentarily left him aghast. She was in love with her husband!

He had opened his lips to speak when there came a discreet knock at the door and the maid entered.

"There's a gentleman wishes to see you, madam—a Mr. Haynes."

Had Margaret been looking at him she would have seen Danty face go pale.

"He says he knows Mr. Maddison slightly," the girl went on "and he wants particularly to see you."

Danty gaped at her.

"You didn't tell him I was here, did you?" he began, and saw the look of astonishment in Margaret's face.

Do you know him?

He nodded and glanced significantly at the girl.

"Just wait a moment outside, will you?" said Margaret, and, when the maid had gone and the door was closed "Who is he?"

"He's a man I don't wish to see, and a man I don't think you ought to see. He's a criminal, the fellow who was arrested that night at the Carlton. If you take my advice you'll send him away."

She hesitated.

"If he knows Luke—" she began.

"He doesn't—that's just a trick to see you. He'll probably want money, and he's a pretty dangerous man."

"Then you'd better be here when he comes," she said, and saw by his consternation that this was not an acceptable suggestion. "I'd better see him," she said. "Will you wait in the little drawing room?"

Margaret in that mood he could not combat; he agreed sulkily to her suggestion, and was in the little drawing room when he heard the quick step of the Gunner pass the closed door.

Margaret was unprepared for the type that came into the drawing room. The tanned hawk face had a strength and a certain refinement which she had not expected.

"Are you Mrs. Maddison?" drawled the visitor, and she inclined her head slightly. "My name's Haynes—the police know me as Gunner Haynes. I'm a jewel thief among other things," he said.

His tone was as calm as though he were announcing himself the member of an honorable guild.

"I met your husband once; he tried to do me a service—I should like to do him one, Mrs. Maddison."

Again she nodded.

Mr. Danton Morell is a friend of yours, isn't he?" he asked.

"Yes," she said coldly. "Why? She saw his lips twitch.

"I was wondering... Mrs. Maddison, would you think I was impertinent if I asked you why your husband left you?"

Her steady eyes met his.

"Do you think you would be?" she asked quietly, and saw that faint smile of his.

SCHLEICHER COUNTY RANCHES HAS HIGH BLOODED STOCK

Jess Koy, Schleicher County ranchman has something to be proud of in the way of stock. Mr. Koy who has been in the county for some time has improved the cattle and sheep in this county to a great extent in the breeding of high grade stock. He began this business years ago with a good breed of stock but has taken great pride in the breeding of a higher class of stock and has at present many pure blood stock and several registered bulls. He has one of the best herds of Hereford cattle in the County.

Mr. Koy is also furnishing five lambs to be fed by the members of the 4-H Club of Eldorado and these lambs are being fed by his son Gene. These lambs are almost in perfect condition and will be very hard to beat at the Fat Stock Show in Fort Worth. He is also feeding out a herd of about 125 hereford calves to be shipped to the spring market.

The attitude of the Democratic Executive Committee is autocratic and smacks of political despotism. If any such epithet as bolter is to be applied to either of the factions in Texas, it certainly cannot apply to those who refused to follow a candidate who bolted the fundamental ideals of Texas Democracy and engaged in an unauthorized assault upon the Federal Constitution, a candidate who dictated a platform overthrowing the age-old principles of the party on the tariff and their vital issues. The Executive Committee, representing only a minority of the voters, reveals anew an autocratic spirit by refusing authority. They defied the solemn opinion of the Attorney General in order to penalize those who were patriotic enough to circumvent making of us a Tammanized liquor party which would have meant the utter destruction of the party. I cannot conceive that red-blooded, free-born, liberty loving men and women will meekly submit to any such humiliating terms. It is time that the forces representing the majority of Texas sentiment organize to reclaim the machinery of their own institution.

Jewel P. Lightfoot, Fort Worth.

American Legion Meeting in San Angelo

B. H. Murphy, membership chairman of the 16th district of the American Legion, and out of town publicity chairman for the 5th division American Legion Convention to be held at San Angelo March 15 and 16, and Craig Laine, past commander and present adjutant of Louis Halphen Post of the Legion at Kerrville, Texas, also publicity chairman for the 5th division were in town last Saturday meeting the exservicemen and stirring up some interest in the convention.

The Hilton Hotel at San Angelo will be the scene of some lively discussions, while the dance on Saturday night and the banquet on Sunday noon will be the lively social occasions.

Murphy and Laine believe that a post of the American Legion could be established locally and conferred with H. T. Finley and J. B. Sammons regarding this possibility. Laine is particularly interested in marshaling ex-servicemen's opinion on the subject of legislation in favor of the disabled men. Halphen Post, of which he is the Legislative chairman, recently addressed a petition to Congress, which was placed in the Congressional Record by Senator Tom Connally, asking that the adjusted service certificate be cashed, that additional compensation be paid those sick men who are securing treatment at home, that the date of presumption of service connection be advanced from Jan. 1, 1925 to Jan. 1, 1930 in all cases of tuberculosis, mental and nervous diseases and other constitutional illnesses. Halphen Post, one of the largest in the state, has a membership of 450 of which 400 are disabled and taking treatment in the Veterans Bureau Hospital at Leigon, 3 miles from Kerrville.

NEW BOOKS IN LIBRARY

Several new books have been added to the library since last week. Some of these are fiction, especially the more modern fiction, and these are intended primarily for the higher classes in the high school. Others are books of travel and adventure which should prove to be very interesting for everyone. The new books are: Familiar Quotations by Bartlett, Drums by Boyd, Jane Eyre by Bronte, Brother Saul by Byrne, My Antonia by Cather, Short History of England and Great Britain by Cross, So Big, by Ferber, Tramping Through Mexico by Franch, Vagabonding Through Changing Germany by Franch, Glorious Adventure by Halliburton, New Worlds to Conquer by Halliburton, Rise of Silas Lapham by Howells, Afoot in Enland by Hudson, Rough Riders by Roosevelt, Captain Blood by Sabatini, Spaulk by Schulz, O'Henry's Biography by Smith, Short History of the World by Wells.

"Rooster" has got it in his head that he is a "spotted hero" and that all the teachers are afraid of him. Now, I ask you just what is to be done with a boy like that? ? ?

FIRE DRILL TO BE GIVEN

The observation of Fire Prevention in the Eldorado High School will begin this week. If we do this, we reduce the fire insurance rate three percent. Fire drills will be held, posters will be made. Different classes will be assigned different projects in connection with the work. In high school the ninth and eleventh grades are asked to make a special study of some of the phases of fire prevention. Some interesting papers should be written by these students.

SEVENTH GRADE

The seventh Grade Agriculture class has planted many different kinds of seed to watch them germinate. Only a few have germinated so far. It is very interesting to watch them. I think every one likes agriculture this year.

SERINITY OF SCHOOL BROKEN BY MAD YELLS

The unusual serinity that pervades the school-building during study hours was broken by shrill wails Friday afternoon.

This unusual interference was very pleasing to the Freshmen ways welcome any change in the dull, daily routine. Investigation showed that the shrieks were emanating from the mouth of the smaller children who were being inoculated for diphtheria. Miss Moore, stat health nurse, gave the serum to the younger children whose parents wished them to be inoculated.

The grammar school students have been weighed. Some of them have had their eyes examined. Last Wednesday Miss Moore gave a very interesting talk on Health to the grammar school students.

The children are much interested in health now, and the campaign going on will surely be of great benefit to everyone.

Should Freshmen Be Abused By Upperclassmen?

Well, I happen to be an upper classman. Probably you have already guessed what sidt I am going to discuss. Did you guess right? Well if you guessed "that I prefer abusing the freshman", you are wrong. My policy is to "give the Freshmen a chance." Give him a chance to learn the customs of school. If we make fun of a person while he is learning, he will probably become disgusted and quit. That is why so many pupils quit school when they enter the higher classes and also when they begin their work in college.

General abuse is something that a pupil can not tolerate. It makes him feel that he is a beast or some other lomer being that is only in school for the upperclassman's amusement.

Every person who has passed his freshman year should do his best to help the freshman begin his climb. There is a saying "That a good beginning makes a bad end." This would not be true when it pertains to Freshmen.

It shows cowardice when three classes jump on to one. I think that the upperclassmen can find some other amusement besides beating and knocking on the freshmen. How often has a poor beginner in college exclaimed, "Oh, such a life, I had rather go back to the farm. And so he goes with the expression, "Live, Love and die on the farm."

It would be fine if every upper classman would adopt a policy

some thing like this, "Stand up for the Freshman."

And then you could just watch the "fish" go on with a smile on their faces. And you could just hear them say "I am going to school for four years. I have been in a rut all my life and I am going to pull out." And when the upperclassmen hear them say that, they can bet that they have done a good deed.

WASHINGTON

Long are the years since he fell asleep

Where the Potomac flows gently by,

There where Mount Vernon's greens stretches sweep

Under the blue Virginian sky.

Warrior and statesman and patriot true,

Well had he welded both sword and pen.

Truly, they said as they laid him to rest,

"First in the hearts of his countrymen."

Long are the years and the land he loved

Stand among nations, grown strong and great;

True to the visions of long ago,

Proud of the hand that so shaped her fate.

Time but adds splendor to fame so fair,

Years but test greatness and now as then

Sleeps he in peace on Mount Vernon's hill,

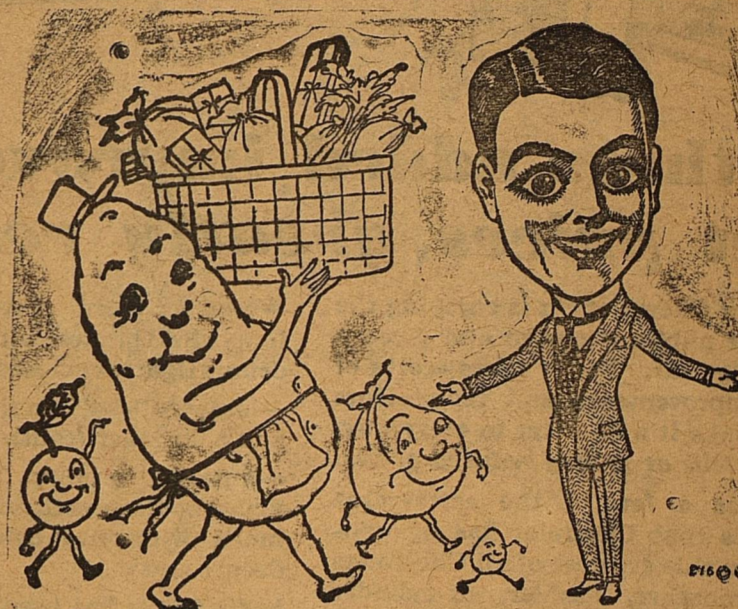

"First in the hearts of his countrymen."

To Identify Genuine Aspirin

THE increasing use of Bayer Aspirin every year is proof that it has no ill effects. It is the accepted antidote for pain. It always helps; it never harms. Quick relief when you've a headache, or cold; or are suffering from neuralgia or neuritis. Rheumatic pains yield, too, if you'll only give these tablets a chance. But you want genuine Aspirin, so look for the Bayer Cross on every tablet. The box always bears the name Bayer and the word genuine printed in red.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monacochloster of Salizylatol
