STUBBORNNESS. AMATEUR WRITING. DRUNKARDS.

A reader asks: "What actuates a stubborn man?" . . . Answer—Meanness: Scare him sufficiently, and he will come out of it.

I find satisfaction and value in the writing of amateurs. Their halting fear of an audience appeals to me, and I am more readily disposed to approve than when I pick up a book of an old professional like Bernard Shaw or H. G. Wells. Both these men (and most of the noted) display contempt for us readers too frequently, whereas by reason of our great number, we have accomplished more than the few authors with all their skill manipulating the make-up box. . . . I find very good things in amateur writing. I have before me a modest book by Alfred Hitch, published by the author in the usual amateurish style, from which I quote samples: Virtue is its own reward: anything else is a bribe. . . . Not to fear is not courage, but insensibility. Courage is to fear and still attempt. . . . The possible always happens sooner or later. . . . The less people have in themselves the more they seek the society of others. . . . The Rubaivyat of Omar Khayyam celebrates that disgusting trait in man to get drunk when anything goes wrong (whereas adversity is the precise time one should remain sober). It is not strange that in the custom of "treatment" a friend, the custom is to offer him poison that should go to an enemy? . . . Dogs are dogs whether they are under on top. . . . The only immortality of which man is worthy would be that of preservation in alcohol with other reptiles and insects; and two or three specimens would be enough. . . . Give me facts, and I will not ask for truth. The Russians and Germans cheerfully followed their sovereigns through pillage and murder, and turned from them only when they failed.

I have never been able to understand a drunkard. Every man may be pardoned for making a fool of himself occasionally; and, if a man is behaving when we hear of his folly, it helps with the public. But the folly of the drunkard is continuous; he punishes himself every week or very day, and knows the loss is greater than the profit; not one drunk in the many he has engaged in has paid him. Therefore how does such a man satisfy his conscience? An old drunkard tells me the exhilaration of a good stiff drink of whisky lasts forty minutes. For such exhilaration one pays with busthead lasting several hours; in the case of a drunkard, he pays with the contempt of everybody. Unless heir to a fortune, he accepts the unnecessary disgrace of failure and poverty—and even if born with a silver spoon in his mouth, he soon spews it out, and substitutes pewter. What is the philosophy of the drunkard? Or of the idler, the bore, the dead beat, or other persistent violator of rules of human society? They have excuses, but usually these are merely exercises in the trade of a liar, wherein one insults himself with further injury.

Schleicher County Soaked By Large Rains

Beginning Saturday afternoon between five and six o'clock, and lasting through the night and practically all Sunday, Schleicher County received one of the most needed rains in several months. Following a recent rain some weeks ago, this rain will be difficult to estimate as to worth in dollars and cents. Although a little late for winter grass for cattle, it will make an abundant supply of grass and winter weeds for sheep. Specially where there is a great deal of old grass giving protection from early frosts and freezes, this rain will do the most good. The county, in most places has a great deal of this old grass left and the ranchmen seem well pleased with the possibilities of plenty of vegetation for their stock to go through the winter on.

The amount of rain, following over the county ranged from 2 1/2 to 3 inches, falling slow and sinking into the ground.

Schleicher County Ranking Near TOP in Sheep Raising

There are a total of 187,772 head of sheep assessed for taxes in Schleicher, according to the tax roll of the County Assessor. The great percentage of these are ewes and are kept for stock. It is estimated that some 100,000 head of sheep leave the county each year, either for market directly or for the feeding pens. The shippers are principally lambs. It is estimated that the wool production of the county during 1929 has averaged almost eight pounds per head or a total of some 1,500,000 pounds of wool.

According to the United States Government Department of Agriculture, report of 1925, Schleicher County had a total of 173,794 head of sheep and produced 1,203,523 pounds of wool or an average of about seven pounds per sheep. At that time Schleicher ranked fifth in the number of sheep in the county. The counties which had a greater number of sheep were Crockett, Val Verde, Sutton and Edwards. Practically all the areas of these counties is given over to stock raising while farming is carried on extensively in Schleicher county. Few counties in Texas can boast of the agricultural and live stock resources which are to be found in Schleicher County.

The publicity campaign to be staged by the members of the Lions Club of this city and any one not a member that wants to help in the work is being worked on by the committee. The first step in the campaign was brought up before the club at the last meeting, by R. D. Holt, Superintendent of the Eldorado High School and a member of the Committee. This plan was the publication of the History of Schleicher County in pamphlet form and selling them at one dollar each and getting each member to take copies. If the people of the county will take some of these copies and see that they are distributed in places outside of the county this will give the county and town quite a bit of publicity. This is only one of the plans that is being worked on and before the campaign is fully under way there will be a complete program from which to work from.

Miscellaneous Shower

On Saturday afternoon, October 12th, a miscellaneous shower was given in honor of Miss Marie Doty, of Eldorado, at the home of Mrs. Ed. Hill. Miss Doty is to be married to Mr. Stephen Perner, of Ozona, on October 20th. After about sixty guests had arrived a messenger Jim Tom Roach, appeared at the door. He was dressed as a typical cowboy and bore a note from Mr. Perner inviting Miss Doty to the ranch. The program which followed carried out the ranch setting and was unique and cleverly arranged in every detail. Three cowgirls next appeared on the scene. These were Lois Sharp, Ethel Enochs and Margaret Tisdale. Miss Tisdale sang Miss Doty's favorite cowboy song, "Cowboys Sweetheart," written by Mrs. Edwards of Big Springs, Texas. A miniature ranch scene had been prepared in the center of the room and beneath this the gifts had been hidden. The cowgirls found the gifts and all the guests were given the opportunity of looking at the many tokens of friendship. Soon the guests heard the call, "chuck-come and get it!" and all enjoyed home-made ginger bread and punch served in tin plates and cups.

The out of town guests were Miss Elizabeth Hinyard, of San Angelo, and Miss Lois Riddle, of Ozona. The hostesses for the shower were Mrs. J. E. Hill, Joe Edens, A. J. Roach, W. N. Ramsey and V. G. Tisdale.

Another shower is to be given in honor of Miss Doty at the home of Miss Mollie Turner on next Friday afternoon. The hostesses for this occasion are to be Mrs. D. E. DeLong, Mrs. A. J. Roach and Miss Turner. Miss Doty was also given a shower at Ozona on Saturday morning, October 12th. She schools of Ozona and will make her home near Ozona after her marriage.

Lions Vote To Retain County Agent

A motion was made by Mayor Fred O. Green and heartily sanctioned by the other members present that a petition be placed before the Commissioners Court at their next meeting that the present County Agent, L. E. Summers be retained. The Commissioners at their last meeting voted to stop the regular monthly pay by the county for the services of the present Agent as they had not received the reports from him that they believed should be turned in to the court. On this hearing, the farmers immediately brought out a petition to retain the Agent and that the county put him back on the pay roll.

The county needs a county agent and can hardly get along without one. We are not familiar with the trouble between the Court and the present Agent but the trouble seems to be in the failure of the County Agent to make necessary reports on his work and his not meeting with the Court at any time. We sincerely hope that this will be cleared up and the affairs get back to normal in the near future.

ANOTHER PROOF!

The readers of the Success can easily recall several articles written in its columns, on "Trading at Home", in issues past, and we still believe that there should always be a few lines on this subject in every issue. Tuning in on old Brother Henderson at Shreveport, Louisiana, Tuesday night the writer learned that there was another strong believer of the "Trade at Home" Proposition. His ideas cooperated in many respects to those published heretofore in this paper but expressed in some ways differently. Mr. Henderson, in one of his illustrations, told of his father coming home late one night, and his mother wanting him to hang a picture. Taking the hammer and a nail or two and with two or three licks the hammer cracked in half. As he expressed it the thing was made of cast iron. Who ever heard of a hammer made of cast iron, only from a mail order house or a five or ten cent store. In his talk he gave many other illustrations where people, who believe they are saving money, pay dearly for what they think are saving money on.

REALLY MAKING ELDORADO

There are always individuals and corporations ready to monopolize anything that "looks good", and shows the possibility of cash returns. You will find in Eldorado individuals ready to do anything if paid. In a way these people help build up a town. They are welcome. However, in every town you will find a few men and women willing to do something without expecting cash. These folks generously give some of their time for the general good, and very often are overlooked by most citizens. Now, without undertaking the "go-getters" who usually get theirs, this community should appreciate the efforts and activities of the few who often give of themselves for the common good. They get no cash, and unfortunately, seldom receive thanks. Smart business men build up the community and industry of Eldorado but the man or woman who gives time for community enterprises makes Eldorado fit to live. Don't forget that or them.

THE BAND

A band is rapidly being organized in Eldorado. Some twenty-five or thirty members have already enrolled and more are waiting for their instruments BUT—this band that later on will be called the Eldorado Band or Our Band is receiving no cooperation from the town whatsoever. It will be entirely the boys band and the parents that are interested enough in their children belonging to a band will have to be given the praise for the organization. The band is getting well organized and they have no place where they can practice. But they have not been able yet to find any. They have asked for the Courthouse but have been refused the privilege of using this place. There is no other available place in town to offer them. The citizens of Eldorado should get behind this band proposition and see that they receive a suitable place to hold practice.

"MUSIC"

Music brings optimism and happiness into the home. Music is a tonic—a fountain of youth. Music affords recreation: it is a sure cure for the blues. Ability to play any one or more instruments is as necessary for the girl and boy, as reading, writing and arithmetic. Without this accomplishment they are wallflowers all through life. It pays the boy and girl to know how. Any one who can play is always popular, and it leads them into ways of advancement. Learn to play any instrument from Pipe Organ down. When you are young, and everyone will love you through life, and double love you when you are old. Ira Newfield instructor on any instrument Band director Eldorado, Texas.

TWELFTH INSTALMENT

He was so thwarted and rejected that he sent her home alone. She was grateful for that. She toiled all the while at her own technic. When she finished the hort comedy with Ned Ling she was drawn back to the Bermond studio for the principal role to be featured with a young man, Clive Cleland, who was spoken of as Tom Holby's successor.

Young Cleland fell prey to her growing fascinations, but he was so much her business rival and their professional love scenes were such duels for points, that she could not think of him as an amateur in love. Besides, an unsuspected loyalty to Tom Holby was awakened in her heart by the pretense that this raw youth was Tom's successor.

Holby was out in the Mojave Desert on location, and his absence pleaded for him like a still, small voice that interfered with the murmurs of nearer overs.

She was full of impatience of every sort.

She had fallen out of love with herself.

Mannerisms that directors or critics pointed out, or that she discovered for herself, vexed her to distraction. It was a strange thing to recognize in herself a fault that she detested in others and was yet unable to eradicate. Striving to avoid these recurrent tricks, she grew self-conscious, and people said that she was getting a swelled head when she was most in a panic. What they took for conceit was the bluff of a rabbit at bay.

And all he while the longing for a home, a single one with normal average life alternated with onsets of cynical defiance for the conventions.

She was in a marriage mood and her heart and her friends gave her conflicting counsel: Don't marry an author! Don't marry a business man! Don't marry anybody.

Ned Ling was one of Mem's most abject worshippers. He had taught her the mechanics of comedy and helped her tragedy thereby. Without being able to laugh at himself, he taught her to laugh at herself and at him.

He grew morbid for her. He cast away his fears of love and his horror of marriage and his sense of humor at the same time he flew into tempests of anger at her unresponsiveness and became a tragic clown at whom she could not help smiling.

He made comic exits from her presence, swearing he would never see her again and comic returns. But Mem would only flirt with him, and with anyone else who amused her.

Tom Holby came back from the desert browner than ever, less subtle, more undignified than ever. He fought hard for her in the spirit of the hero he was playing at the time, a man who acted in theory that the cave man is woman's ideal and that she prefers above all things to be caressed with a club.

But these highly advertised tactics were not to Mem's liking at least at the moment. When he grew fierce she struck him in the mouth with a fist that had stout muscles for a driving bar, and she brought blood to his nose with a slash of her elbow.

She railed at his awkward confusion, but thereafter she was out when he called.

Eventually she met him again at the golden wedding anniversary of an old actor and accepted his apologies and his company home.

"How wonderful," she said on the palm-gloomed way, "to be loved by one man for fifty years!"

"I could love you for a hundred years," Tom proaned. "Let's get married and quit wasting so much time."

"I wouldn't give up my career for all the happiness in the world."

"I don't suppose any woman ever gave up her career when she got married."

"How do you mean?"

"Most women have been brought up for a career of house-keeping. A father or mother told them what to do, and scolded them when they did something else. They learned how to make dresses and sew and cook, and that was their business. When they married they just moved their shop over to their husband's home and expected to provide the raw stock and tell them what to do and scold'em if they didn't do it, or spank'em."

"But you'd be hugging other girls before the camera—and other men would be hugging me."

"As long as it didn't mean anything."

"But it might come to—"

"Well, for the matter of that, a lot of hugging goes on in a lot of homes—and outside of them. No guaranty ever went with marriage that was good for anything and there's none now. We've got as good a chance as anybody."

"But what if we should fall out? Divorces are so loathsome."

"They're pretty popular, tho. They're more decent than the old way-and divorces are as ancient as the world. Moses brought down from heaven the easiest system."

"Yes, but Christ said—"

"Christ said nothing about a woman ever getting a divorce at all. He only allowed a man to get it on one ground."

He took her in his arms, but Mem was not in a gambling mood and withdrew herself. She wanted to ponder a while longer.

When she was under Tom Holby's spell, she was easily convinced that the ideal partnership was an actor and an actress. She had been of a mind that actress and director made the perfect combination. Claymore had left his autograph on her soul.

Then a rich man fell into her orbit and wanted to put "big money," back of her, organize The Remember Steddon Productions, Inc., and make her pictures exclusively for her. But he talked so large that he frightened off her love.

This love business was driving Mem frantic. In all the pictures she had played, as in the traditions of her girlhood, love was a thing that came once and never came again. Good women knew their true-mates at once and never swerved in their devotion.

Yet here she was, passionately interested in several gentlemen, finding each of them fascinating just so far, and faultful thereafter. Instead of giving herself meekly to the bliss of matrimony she was debating its advisability, practicability, and profit. She must be at heart a bad woman; one of those adventuresses.

Then came the Pause. Hard times struck the movies so hard that in studios they became no times at all.

Most of the motion-pictures factories disarmed entirely, and the rest of them nearly. The Bermond Studios kept one company at work, and it was not Mem's company.

She was stricken with terror as she confronted her problems.

What could she do now—not to perfect her shame, but to make a living? She would be poorer than her father. She would have to discontinue the installments of that "conscience fund" which she had learned to expect from Doctor Bretherick. She could not even pay the installments on numerous vanities she had bought for herself from the shops.

Her lovers were as defutored as herself. Authors, actors, directors—all instead of marriage they talked poverty.

No one had talked hard times longer or louder than Bermond. Having heard him croak of disaster so long, Mem assumed her contract would be cancelled. Bermond sent for her and she went prepared for the guillotine. He said:

"I like you Miss Steddon. You've worked hard. I find that the exhibitors are wiring in: 'Give us more Steddon stuff. Why don't you star her?' What the exhibitors say goes—as far as it can."

"We can't star you now. But I believe in you. I want people to know you. And when the good times comes again you must be ready for them. So I'll go on paying you your salary and send you out on a tour of personal appearances."

"Your last picture looks like a knock-out. I'm going to take down Clive Cleland's name and feature yours alone. I want you to go East to New York and Boston, Philly, Chi., all the big cities, and let the people see you when they see the picture."

"We'll pay your traveling expenses and so your mother can go along as your guest."

"Of course!" Mem cried. And it's ever so kind of you."

The abandoned suitors of Mem made a sorry squad at the Santa Fe station. They stred at her with humiliated devotion.

Bermond sent a bushel of flowers and fruit to her drawing-room. He saw to it that there were reporters to give her a good send off.

Soon after her arrival the papers of New York were publishing her engaging eyes, the billboards all about town were announcing her, and in paragraph and advertisement she was celebrated. But so many others were also claiming the public eye! other new-comers and favorites in impregnable esteem.

People who had come from Calverly were claiming Mem as a fellow-citizen and feeling that they gained some mystic authority from mere vicinity. Some of them called upon her in prison or by telephone and set her heart agog.

The night her own picture was shown she stepped out before what seemed to be the world in convention assembled. She felt as tiny as she looked to the farthest girl in the ultimate seat up under the back rafters.

She parroted the little speech that Bermond's, publicity man had written for her and afterwards wondered what she had said. There was a cloudburst of handclapping and a salvo from the stage into the wings.

And that was that!

She did not know that one of the town's wealthiest men was lolling in a fauteuil down front and that her beauty and her terror smote him.

His motto had been, "Go after what you want, and bring it home!" He prided himself on being a go-getter who had not often come back foiled. He wanted Mem and he went after her. He was willing even to bring her home.

There was no difficulty about meeting Mem for a man whose name spelled of millions honestly amassed and gracefully dispersed.

Austin Boas came humbly to Mem to pay his respects, and his enormous name made her tremble as her bisque daintiness set him quiver. He was shy, ashamed of his own lack of heroic beauty; and Mem was dazed to find herself feeling sorry for him. Pity was a dangerous mood for her.

He might have won Mem via pity, if he had not tried to win her from her career. He was a monopolist by inheritance, and he wanted all there was of Mem. Boas had one terrific rival, the many headed monster.

It is not hard to seduce an actress from the stage, but it is hard to keep her off. There is a courtship that the public alone can offer, and no one man can give her as much applause as a nightly throng's. That form of polyandry is irresistible to most of the women who have been lucky enough to get on the stage or the screen and to win success there.

One day Bermond summoned her to his New York office and said:

"How about getting to work again? I've got a great story for you and they need you at the studio. On your way back you can make personal appearances at four or five cities, but it's back on the job for you, eh? That's right! That's a good girl!

Bermond offered Mem neither ease nor devotion—except devotion to her publication. He offered her toil and wages, hardships and discontent, sleepless malaise, and bad press notices.

And she could have flung her arms about him and kissed him. Austin Boas was at the station to see Mem off. For his last fling he filled her drawing-room with flowers poor things that dropped and died and were flung from the platform by the porter.

Long after their spell had been forgotten, the sad gaze of Boas as he cried good-by haunted her.

She had murmured to him, "When I make another picture or two I may decide to be sensible, and then—if you are still—"

"I shall be waiting," said Boas. And he gave up with a groan: "Marry me anyway and have your career, too. I'll put more money into your company. I'll back you to the limit."

At Buffalo and at Cleveland

she paused to come before huge audiences and prattle her little piece. When she reached Chicago she found awaiting her a long letter from the manager of Calverly. He implored her to visit his old home town and make an appearance at his theatre. He promised that everybody would be there.

This was success indeed! To appear in New York was triumph but to appear in her native village was almost a divine vengeance.

MILES DEFEATED BY ELDORADO HIGH

The little Eldorado High School Eagles flew high, wide and handsome last Friday afternoon and defeated the husky Miles eleven by a score of 13-0. The Eldorado Eagles played so hard and fast that the miles bunch came out of the game without having made a touch down and wondering just how it happened that they did not.

The miles team was big and strong, but it did not have the speed driving power of the smaller but much faster Eagles. The Eagles made long runs around Miles' ends and through their lines and Miles could not stop them. J. A. Cates, Eagle quarterback, threw his passes straight and true, and the ends caught them like old and experienced players. The Eagles completed more passes in this game than they have in all the other games this season.

The winning of this game put more confidence in the Eldorado High School as to the playing ability of it's team. The Eagles are to lay the Sonora Bronchos here next Friday and every person in Eldorado should go out and see the home team win another football game. The team can play football; so go out and see the boys "Strut their stuff" in the next game.

CHAPEL PROGRAM

Wednesday morning the student body assembled for the second chapel program of the year. The program was sponsored by Miss Osborn, teacher of reading in the grammar grades and Public Speaking in High School. Her pupils put on the program; it consisted mostly of pantomimes. Pancho Bradley and Cecil Moore told some stories. Vera Wade and J. D. Bullion gave pep talks which were succeeded by two peppy yells led by Victoria Jones, J. C. Bullion and Lois Sharp. The program opened with the song "Dixie Land". Elize Moore jiggled it first, and then led the singing. An animal app was put on by some of the grammar grade students. The Public Speaking class acted out some historical pantomimes; such as: Sir Walter Raleigh and Queen Elizabeth; Columbus' discovery of America, A western skit, and others. The assembly then sang the "Star Spangled Banner". The students all marched back to their rooms ready for a peppy days work.

What if:—
 Bill Currie couldn't type?
 Fannie Hardt were a blonde.
 Grace Ratliff were short.
 J. C. Bullion were fat.
 Cora Sauer were sweet
 Jack Kerr weren't a football player.
 Garnette weren't dignified.
 Coach Smart didn't blush.
 Mr. Holt didn't make announcements.

JOKES

J. C. Bullion: gave Elizabeth Bradley a bunch of roses. She said: "Oh, they look so fresh. Is there any due on them?"
 J. C. (blushing) "Yes, there's $1.50 due on them."

Miss Bradshaw was explaining the word "parallel" to her Geometry class. To fix it well in mind, she said, "Now think, what are two straight lines side by side, spaced evenly?"
 "I know," said Jimmie West, "Parking space."

Joe Hearn Moore is the most conservative guy I ever saw! I'll bet if he had seen Noah's flood he'd have called it just a good sprinkle.

ALONE ON THE DESERT

On the desert alone, no rapture or thrill,

 With the sun breathing down upon me,
 There was no peace,
 I had gone to remember,
 And th desert called me on.
 That earth was bare for miles,
 A haunting vision,
 I tried to smile,
 But could not.
 I had gone there to remember
 To seek my God, to bar punishment and to be punished.
 The hot rolling lands before me,
 Did I dare try to understand?
 The white glare of the night
 Seemed to put out my sight.
 There was nothing living;
 I was there to remember,
 Not to die.
 When by the wayside I had fallen,
 I rested, wished that this were the end.
 And I would remember, I had not gone alone to the desert to die,
 but to remember.
 And that was wasteland called me on.
 I passed many and many a man
 but each alone sought gold,
 The incessant hawl of the cayote and the bay of the hurree made me sadder,
 For I was out there alone to remember.
 Daon through the valley's
 Living! Living! on everything!
 The mountains called me on
 On? Yes to my destination.
 Not to forget, but to remember.
 Loneliness that was unbearable
 There is nothing that could be as terrible,
 When I tried to forget,
 Out from somewhere there came a cry
 "You are here to remember!
 not to forget!
 The winds blew upon me like heat from a furnace,
 They blew on me to strike me,
 to parch my lips.
 That desert moan was haunting
 There were sounds like the groan of the dying
 All thru the night the fierce winds moaned,
 Stars faded, and morning dawn
 ed,
 I arose to face my future,
 A duty, to stare into this black ness and remember.
 Remember! Remember!
 The burn, the throb, the pain
 That came from life on the hot lands,
 And I lived on only to remember.
 I was as much alone
 as the Desert in its loneliness,
 Such a loneliness to same is un known,
 But I had gone there to live and remember.
 This poem was written by Garnette Luedecke, a senior of the Eldorado High School.

YOUTH--AND THE NEW LEADERSHIP

By CRAIG B. HAZLEWOOD
 President American Bankers Association

LEADERSHIP is a picturesque word. With it, one pictures Hannibal fighting his way through the passes of the Alps—Napoleon in his campaigns—or Washington holding together his half-frozen army by the sheer magnetism of his character at Valley Forge. But I visualize something that holds a more astounding spectacle in many respects than any of these.

Craig B. Hazlewood

It is the onrush of our business life. Our economic progress plunges ahead at a rate unheard of in the history of the nations of the world and every industrial and financial leader is daily brought face to face with new and perplexing problems requiring the highest courage and intelligence for their solution.

Ninety billions a year, they tell us, this country is now producing in new wealth. The rate of increase is even more staggering than the amount. It is difficult to say where it may lead us in even ten or fifteen years.

We are moving exceptionally fast. Our economic and industrial structure is placing before us problems of greater and greater magnitude. Few men can see far ahead. Few are in complete control, for this is a changing world, as even the most inexperienced business man will readily testify. Our methods of adjusting ourselves rapidly to economic changes and of cooperating are far from perfect.

What an opportunity the leadership of five, ten or fifteen years from now presents! What an adventure it will be! What responsibilities it will lay upon the broadest shoulders that may be found! This is the challenge to leadership as I see it. In the hands of the young men must rest the responsibility for this leadership.

Boys Who Reached the Pinnacles
 Business is full of the romance of youngsters whose chief characteristic was working hard and keeping at it. There was a green farmer boy who decided he would rather stand behind a counter than follow a plow. He seemed so obviously lacking in sales ability that for a time no merchant would hire him. He failed in his first position, and in his second his salary was reduced. He even agreed that he was a misfit—but he stuck. Out of his first five stores, I believe, three failed. But he persisted and worked hard. And that boy, Frank W. Woolworth, became the greatest retail merchant in the world with a store in every city of eight thousand or more population in this country.

There was another lad who clerked in a grocery store sixteen hours a day and studied mathematics in his odd moments. He became interested in the doings of the steel plant whose employees traded at this store. He began to study steel and sought a position in the plant. He carried a surveyor's chain and drove stakes. At night he studied mathematics and engineering. He did not despair. He could not be diverted. He kept the pressure on for seven years. And that boy, Charles Schwab, mastered the iron industry and became one of the country's great industrial leaders.

There was a lad who sold papers on a train. When he grew up, several million men and a score of billions of dollars of capital were given profitable employment through his inventions. Even in middle life, Thomas Edison continued to work twenty hours a day, if necessary to achieve his purpose.

Leadership is not play. Leadership offers countless positions of varying opportunity, of which the highest pinnacles will mean almost unbearable responsibility in the new era. There will be men with the fire and iron to qualify even for these places. Such men must have had the very finest preparation and the most grueling tests. Their reward will be the attainment of these highest pinnacles of achievement, and the rendering of an immeasurable service to their times.

Bank depositors in apartment and office buildings, thus divulging the depositors' balances and supplying models for forged checks. As a step to put customers on guard against these methods, banks are urged to instruct every depositor to whom they mail statements of deposit accounts on the last business day of each month to notify them promptly if such statements are not received by the close of the next day.

Also banks should educate depositors to safeguard blank checks and cancelled vouchers as they would money. Such paper stolen by forgers soon puts real money in their hands. If all blank checks and cancelled vouchers were securely kept in safes instead of filing cabinets or desks, the check crooks would be denied their chief stock in trade, namely, genuine blank checks and signatures. Warnings to depositors against leaving blank or cancelled checks accessible to sneak thieves or burglars should be sent out at once.

Estimates broadcast by surety companies indicate that individuals, merchants, hotels and others outside of banking are shouldering more than 99 per cent of the total amount of forgers' losses. The bulk of forgers' losses on checks is sustained by those who are willing to risk accepting them without reliable proof of identity or title of the presenter.

"Years ago the Protective Department of the American Bankers Association adopted the slogan, 'Strangers are not always crooks, but crooks are usually strangers. If those outside of banking could be prevailed upon to observe this rule and think about it when considering accepting a check for their merchandise or services, for which they are also asked to give a substantial sum in cash in change, one of the biggest aids to the forgery business would be denied the crooks."

Ford Oglesby was in Eldorado Wednesday and while in town attended the meeting of the Eldorado Lions Club. Mr. Oglesby says that he only received about an inch of rainfall but it was certainly welcome and he seems as well pleased as those that received two inches or more.

PAINFUL INDIGESTION

"I suffered from indigestion—everything I ate gave me heartburn," says Mrs. Mattie Mullins, of Pound, Va.

"For months, I did not see a well day. I worked along, but never felt well. I got a package of Thedford's Black-Draught at the store and began taking it—a dose every night before going to bed. I had been having an awful pain. After I had taken Black-Draught, this pain entirely stopped. I began to gain in weight, and rested well at night. In a few months I was feeling fine. My health was better than it had been in years."

"I keep Black-Draught in our home, and we all take it for constipation and upset stomach."

AMERICA'S RADIO LEAD IN DANGER

Gen. J. G. Harbord Sees a Threat to Our Nation's Place in British Merger.

The recent successful effort of the British to bring about consolidation of their cable and radio interests is a serious challenge to the radio supremacy of the United States, and of more importance to our country than all or merchant marine at this moment, according to General J. G. Harbord, who was chief of staff of the A. E. F. and now is President of the Radio Corporation of America. "Great Britain being the great cable-controlling power of our planet," General Harbord explained, "the combination there of cables and radio im-perils American leadership more directly than that of any other country. "The answer to this challenge cannot be made by private interests under our existing laws. It is for our people to decide whether they think it is worth making, and if so, to make it possible. It is a case where no action, or action much delayed is surrender; or even worse, aid and comfort to foreign against American industry."

GENERAL J. G. HARBORD

Other Countries Alert

The effect of this advanced system of international communication is a subject of discussion in the chancelleries of the world, General Harbord says, and is not viewed with indifference by any great nation aspiring to foreign commerce, unless it be the United States.

"Communications play an important part in national defense," he continues. "This is especially true of radio, and with countries having distant possessions such as the Philippines, Alaska and Hawaii or Australia, Canada, South Africa and India." Great Britain approached this problem with the seriousness its importance demanded, in the opinion of General Harbord, and on March 15 of last year, as a result, the principal communications rivals in Great Britain, the Eastern Telegraph Company, Limited, representing cables, and the Marconi company, radio, announced a merger in the form of a holding company. The government will have representation on the board of directors, which with the vote of either the cable or radio interest, will be controlling. The press approved this merger.

"This new combined British communications interest will affect American relationships in every part of the world," General Harbord asserts. "There will hardly be a port or principal city on the planet which will not be reached by British communications. American trade in every quarter of the globe cannot but be profoundly affected. The national defense of the United States must reckon with the planetary domination of communications by the British, such is the result of the action of the farseeing British race under the lash which American progress in radio has accomplished—a wise old people which centuries ago underwent the diseases of national adolescence through which we still are passing. Her politicians abuse one another, as do our own, but as against the outside world Britain's policy changes little with the advent of one party or another on the political stage.

Hard to Understand

"The time when Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany are uniting radio and cables seems to be the time taken by our country to keep them apart. What others unite to secure leadership in communications we divide. The long deliberations which preceded the consummation of the cables-radio merger in Great Britain saw in our country the enactment of the White Act of 1927, which in plain terms forbids any purchase of radio by cables or vice versa. While this provision is understood to have been inserted under the minority lash in the last days of the drafting of the law, its purpose no doubt was to preserve the competition, in form at least, between the two methods of international communication—radio and cables.

"Sitting between the hind legs of the British lion with the tail of that noble beast wrapped around his neck is a poor perch for the American eagle from which to recover lost leadership in world communications."

Fight Fans Roar Approval of Giant Campolo

VICTORIO CAMPOLO
THE GIANT ARGENTINE

Devoted followers of the fistie sport are going loco over the 28 year old cowpuncher from Buenos Aires, Victorio Maria Campolo. The awe whippers that followed his smashing knockout of gallant Tom Heeney have grown to delirious yells of approval. The suspicion that the giant Argentinian is the Champion the fight world is seeking, has become a certainty to some excited fans.

COMMENT ON SPORTS

When Connie Mack started the World Series with Howard Emke in the box we knew that anything in the world could happen. Here was a complete upset in the doopot, a pitcher that had been little service during the season proceeding nonchalantly and with devastating effect, tantalizing the Cub swatters with side arm and slow ball deliveries.

Root, Cub hurler, lived up to his reputation regardless of the outcome of the game, pitching a splendid brand of baseball, one that deserved to win almost any game. The manner in which Emke whiffed the heavy hitters of McCarthy however was the feature of the game and when the same hitters went through the same humiliating performance in the second game as Messrs. Earnshaw and Grove shot them past, it was evident that the offensive power of the Cubs was not what it used to be supposed.

Talk all you please about baseball however and the hold that it has on the old public but you realize as the football teams swing into action, that college football has the sport field hogged and gagged into complete submission. The great inter-sectional games attract vast attention and huge crowds, with few stadiums capable of accommodating the hordes that seek admission.

The football season is too early to support any definite outline of the best teams. There was a time when the East had the good teams and the rest of the country sought experience. Nowadays, there is no telling from section of the country the National champions will appear. The South at last begins to show impressive teams, catching up with the rest of the country to a great extent.

We thought that it was tough enough on baseball umpires in the United States but we see that it is still a shade rougher on them in Cuba. In our country the umpires have to dodge bats and pop bottles but in Havana the other day an umpire called one that did not exactly suit the batter and in return the ump caught some air with the batter in command with a revolver. The umpire gained his normal eyesight and found an opening hurriedly.

Just who will be at the helm of the New York Yankees still continues to be uncertain. Some think that Babe Ruth will succeed the midget manager Miller Huggins but it is doubtful.

ELDORADO EAGLES WIN ONE

The Eldorado Eagles snatched into the stride of former teams and took a hot contest from the Miles team last Friday afternoon. Although the writer did not witness the game, the report came to him as a very hard fought game with the Eldorado boys displaying a great deal of football ability that they have not heretofore proven. They have now cracked the ice that has held them up for several games and now the fans are expecting some more wins from them.

The strong Sonora Bronchos come here Friday for a game with the local team and we are predicting one of the hardest games of the season for the home boys. These two teams have been rivals in the sport world since the organization of sports in this section and both teams when they step on the field will give everything they have for a victory. Clean sportsmanship connected with the rivalry displayed by both these teams always give the fans a real treat in a game. Every fan in this community is urged to come out to this game and give the home boys their heartiest support. They deserve it and they are going to need it.

HOUSEHOLD GOODS
At a Bargain for cash for the next few days at W. E. Cloud's.

New Sets Use Screen Grid Tubes

Two new Radiolas employing the new AC screen grid tubes and a new power amplifier in a specially designed circuit to bring out their full capabilities, have been announced by E. A. Nicholas, vice president of the Radio-Victor Corporation of America.

One of these sets, Radiola 44, is a table model, and the other, Radiola 46, is a console with a built-in electro-dynamic loudspeaker. Both receivers are encased in cabinets of two toned walnut veneer.

"Radiola 44," the announcement of Mr. Nicholas explains, "utilizes three UY-224 screen grid tubes, two of which serve as radio frequency amplifiers, and the third as a power detector. The new UX-245 power amplifier tube is used in the single stage of audio amplification. The receiver has three tuned radio frequency circuits, but because of the characteristics of the screen grid tubes, has as much selectivity as a set having four tuned circuits and using the standard three-element tubes. The two UY-224 tubes which are used as radio frequency amplifiers give as much amplification as four of the ordinary three-element tubes.

"The screen-grid power detector tube gives such a strong signal that it makes possible the elimination of one stage of audio frequency amplification, reducing to a minimum the possibility of distortion, sometimes present where successive stages of audio amplification are used. The output energy from the plate of this power detector tube is transferred by a choke and filter system to the UX-245 power amplifier tube instead of through a transformer. This results in an exceedingly high quality of musical reproduction and brings out particularly well the full tones of the bass register. As an additional precaution to insure undistorted reproduction, the UY-224 power detector tube has a radio frequency filter which prevents any radio frequency disturbance from being carried over into the audio amplifier.

"The UX-245 power Radiotron used as an audio amplifier is capable of delivering a power output equal to that of the UX-210 Radiotron, but operates with a lower plate impedance which results in a greatly improved quality of tone reproduction. As used in Radiola 44, the UX-245 Radiotron will give undistorted volume in excess of the requirements of the average home."

An unusual type of selector dial is employed in Radiola 44. In addition to the usual scale markings of zero to one hundred, the selector dial has approximate kilocycle markings to facilitate tuning. When the set is in operation, the scale markings and numbers, greatly magnified, are projected upon a small translucent, composition screen in the center of the escutcheon plate. Another unusual feature is a two-in-one tuning and volume control, arranged concentrically so that they appear to be one control, adding materially to the external appearance and enabling the user to operate both controls simultaneously with one hand. A local distance switch maintains the quality of reproduction for both strong local and weak distance stations.

The same radio circuit and Radiotrons as used in Radiola 44 are incorporated in Radiola 46, together with a built-in electro dynamic loudspeaker of the Model 106 type.

TOP OF THE DIVIDE
 J. W. Lawhon Jr. of the Thompson Brothers ranch south of town was in Eldorado Tuesday. Dick was all smiles and had his hand stuck out to all his friends. Evidently he was somewhat tickled over the good rain he received this week.
 Dick is manager of the Thompson Bros. ranch which runs one of the largest flocks of high grade sheep in the county.

Mr. Sam E. Jones, another successful Schleicher County ranchman, was all smiles Tuesday and did not have much time to smoke for talking about the rain. He believes that this rain will bring up plenty of grass and winter weeds for the sheep to go through the winter on. Mr. Jones is one of the many ranchmen who went through the big drouth of 17-18.

Practically every ranchmen who had any experience with this drouth, seem to have had a hard time forgetting about it. They recall many things that went on during these lean years. We suppose that will always be a dreader memory in the minds of the ranchmen who were in the thick of it.

The World Series is over, and won by Philadelphia, many records being tied and broken—many new heroes made and probably many pocket books slimmer than before the series. Chewing gum will probably go up now since the Chicago cubs owned by the chewing gum Magnate, William Wrigley, did not get so far in this series. Never before in a world series has the deciding game been so exciting. The winners trailing by two runs until the last inning, with one man retired, then the thrill that will possibly come to the lengthly out fielders of the athletics just once in a life time. Crash es one over the fence scoring two runs and putting his side back into the ball game and paving the way for victory.

The publishers of The Success wish to appologize for being so late with the last issue. Due to press trouble and some extra work we were unable to get it out on time. Anyone coming into the office and glancing around a few moments could easily see that the old devil, young devils, and others were not throwing off any on the job.

C. A. Spencer was in Eldorado Tuesday. Mr. Charlie has been having trouble trying to find out just how many papers he is taking. During his stay at Kerrville last summer he had his paper transferred there and on his return was not dropped from the mailing list. We hope we get things straightened out satisfactorily.

SUBSCRIPTION CAMPAIGN TO THE SUCCESS TO START SOON

The Eldorado Success in cooperation with the Eldorado High School will put on a campaign to increase the subscription to the Home Paper. The subscriptions will be taken by the High School students and out of every subscription secured, twenty-five cents will go to the school to be placed in the buying of books for the library or any other needed item of the school.

The best chance that you have ever had to help two institutions that any town can not get along without. A town without a school is no town at all. And a town without a newspaper is practically in the same condition. The subscription list to the Success is far short of what it should be. When the oys and girls of the Eldorado High School call on you, just get that old measly dollar and a quarter out and give it to them. Help to build a good paper and at the same time help build your school. Send it to your friends that do not live in the county. This will be a good way of advertising your town.

RADIO TELEGRAPH NOW GOES INLAND

Fourteen Cities in Nucleus of Network, With Plans for Twenty-nine as Wave Lengths Are Granted.

Plans for the immediate establishment of a radio-telegraph system serving all the interior of the United States through fourteen strategic cities just have been announced by General James G. Harbord, president of the Radio Corporation of America. The service will be managed and operated by the Corporation's subsidiary, R. C. A. Communications, Inc.

The stations will be at New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle, Denver, New Orleans, Kansas City, Detroit, Cincinnati, Cleveland, St. Louis, Boston and Washington, General Harbord's announcement reveals.

The establishment of the new service, which will give the inland cities direct communication with the world wide wireless networks radiating from New York and San Francisco to foreign countries, was made possible by the recent grant of ten exclusive channels and five shared channels from the Federal Radio Commission.

The above map shows the twenty-nine cities which the Radio Corporation of America hopes to include in an inland radio-telegraph network soon. Work already is under way to give radio telegraph service to fourteen of the cities, on wave lengths already granted. These stations will be at New Orleans, Kansas City, Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago, Los Angeles, Seattle, Denver, St. Louis, Cincinnati, New York, San Francisco, Boston and Washington.

"We hope to extend the system," General Harbord said, "to the full list of 29 cities contemplated in our original application as soon as additional wave lengths are made available."

Other cities whose commercial importance and strategic location justified a place in the new radio network, General Harbord said, were Philadelphia, Miami, Fla., Savannah, Minneapolis, Memphis, Pittsburgh, Houston, Norfolk, Buffalo, Portland, Me., Rochester, Schenectady, Portland, Ore., Milwaukee, and many others which it is hoped will eventually be added to the radio-telegraph chain.

"Establishment of a new service," General Harbord said, "will give the leading commercial and industrial centers of America a new, quick and reliable means of communication with each other.

"But its greatest significance, as the United States turns more and more to foreign markets, is that it brings Europe, South America and the Orient closer to America through radio's new and efficient avenues of communication."

Supplementing General Harbord's announcement, W. A. Winterbottom, vice-president in charge of communications, revealed that the construction program for the fourteen cities was already under way. Three million dollars has been set aside for the initial expenditure.

YES—here at last is freedom! You can have more time to do those things you like to do. . . . Because the new Fedelco Washer cleans clothes safely and quickly—just five minutes to the tubful! . . . the Ironing? It, too, can be done in less time than you can imagine. . . . the Fedelco Ironer attends to that. You but guide the clothes through the ironer and each piece is finished perfectly. . . . every homemaker who wants to enjoy life's pleasures should have this laundry equipment. . . . the Fedelco Washer, Ironer and Dixie Twin-Tubs (which are included), and the cost is but $174.50!

May Luck

Joe Dowry, ditch digger, uncovered a tin box containing 10,000 one dollar bills. Joe immedately resigned his position and rushed to the bank to get bills of larger denominations. The bank pronounced his find "count erfit" and Joe went back to his job.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all our friends and neighbors for their many kindnesses shown us upon the tragic death of our dear husband and daddy.

Especially do we thank Dr. Patton, who has proven his faithful friendship so many times.

And we do so appreciate the comforting words of Bro. Davis.

To those who sent flowers, let us say that even the tiniest blossom gave its message of sympathy.

And now we ask you to pray that we may be able to say "Thy will be done."

Mrs. Polk Oliver and family.
