ROYALTY

Fifteen years ago, the news that the Kaiser's grandson was working in Henry Ford's assembly plant in Buenos Aires, Argentina, for $3 a day would have furnished a topic for Sunday pages in the big newspapers. Now the fact that the son of the Crown Prince as ad to go to work under the name of "Doctor Ferdinand" is hardly a theme for a passing paragraph.

Some of the results of the Great War may be debateable, but that it finally exploded the old idea of royalty ruling by Divine mandate is all to the good. COOPERATION

The purpose of the Federal Farm Board is to convert farming from a hit-or-miss mode of living into a business. It can share in the nation's general prosperity only by adopting business methods. In the process, many farmers will have to give up farming and go into something else. That may sound harsh, but it is the plain logic of the trend of events.

William M. Jardine, former Secretary of Agriculture and himself a successful practical farmer, says there are too many farms and farmers. In any sound business, producers regulate their output to the demand for their products. Farmers have not done that because they have never worked together.

The Farm Board program is the greatest experiment in cooperation ever attempted in the world. Its success will depend upon the intelligence and vision of the men who run it.

DAWES

They are talking about Chas. G. Dawes for Mayor of Chicago. The election will be in April, 1931. If the former vice-president, present Ambassador to Great Britain, can be nominated he probably can be elected. If he is elected, Chicago will get the most complete cleaning-up it has ever had. The trouble will be to get the nominally Republican but actually bipartisan machine which controls Chicago politics to let him be nominated. The ostensible basis of opposition will be that he is not a resident of Chicago but of the adjoining city of Evanston.

POPULATION

Take out your watch and look at the seconds hand. Count thirteen seconds. Somewhere in the United States a baby has been born. Follow the hand to the 23-rd second mark. Someone has died. Watch it for a minute and a half. Another immigrant has landed on our shores. Hold it for five and a half minutes. Some body has sailed away from America to stay.

The average of all those computations, worked out by the United States Census office, is the addition of one person to our total population every 23 seconds. While you slept eight hours last night, 2,215 babies were born, 1,208 persons died. The net increase in population is 3,624 a day. At midnight on December 31, as the first stroke of 1930 sounded, there were 121,873,140 living inhabitants of the United States, the Census people figured.

If there were no immigration and nobody left the country, the excess of births over deaths would add 3,000 a day to our population, or more than a million a year.

FOOTBALL SWEATERS AWARDED IN ELDORADO HIGH SCHOOL

Sweaters were awarded to seventeen boys in a special assembly in the Eldorado High School on Tuesday morning. Coach H. R. Smart after explaining what the award meant and what it meant to wear the letter, gave sweaters to the following boys: W. McAngus, K. Green, J. C. Kinchen, Edwin Kent, Albert McGinty, Elzie Moore, Eli McAngus, Carl Kerr, Jack Kerr, Luther Parker, Aubrey Smith, Aaymond Smith, Marshall Chick J. A. Cates. Reserve letters were awarded to Fred Williams, Lawson Edmiston and Jim West. Only three of these boys are to be lost to the team by graduation and most of the players who were awarded sweaters are freshman or sophomores. The sweaters awarded this year are black slip-on style with a gold letter "E".

York, with the name of an ice-cream maker on the side and the words "Temperature 105 degrees below zero". Freezing ice-cream so solid that it will keep for weeks of stored at any temperature below 32 degrees is only one of the commercial applications of the new freezing processes in which both liquid air and solid carbon dioxide are used.

Fish, meats fruits and vegetables frozen so quickly and thoroughly that their juices do not form ice-crystals to rupture the fibers are now on the market in the large cities. They taste, when thawed, just like fresh food. Chicago packers are preparing to put out frozen meats in the forms of single steaks, chops, roasts, each sealed in cellulose and shipped in containers designed to keep them frozen until delivered to the consumer.

If this method develops as it promises, the world center of the meat industry may shift from the United States to Argentina, Australia or South Africa, where land and labor are cheap and cattle and sheep can be raised at small cost.

SHOWER GIVEN MRS. SPENCER

Mrs. Henry DeLong and her Sunday School class gave a pretty miscellaneous shower at her home Thursday afternoon for Mrs. Elton Spencer (formerly Miss Mildred McKee) of Eldorado.

An enjoyable afternoon was spent and Mrs. Spencer received such pretty gifts.

After refreshments of hot chocolate and cake were served Mrs. Spencer read a beautiful poem composed by her father-in-law thanking every one for the wedding shower. —Christoval Observer.

DISMUKES—HILL

Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Hill received a telegram from their son Grady Hill, dated Sunday at San Antonio, announcing his marriage to Miss Mabel Frank Dismukes of Uvalde.

The bride and her mother spent two months here last summer.

The young couple are expected here tomorrow by Mr. and Mrs. Hill.

The young benedict is a member of the reportorial staff of the San Angelo Standard-Times and has a bright future before him as a pencil-pusher. The Observer wishes the newlyweds all the joys and blessings of a happy wedded life. —Christoval Observer.

THE MEASURE OF MAN

Not "How did he die?"
But "How did he live?"
Not "What did he gain?"
But "What did he give?"
These are the units
To measure the worth
Of man as a man,
Regardless of birth.
Not "What was his station?"
But "Had he a heart?" And
"How did he play
His God-given part?"
"Was he ever ready
With a word of good cheer,
To bring back a smile,
To banish a tear?"
Not "What was his church?"
Nor "What was his creed?"
But "Had he befriended
Those really in need?"
Not "What did the sketch
In the newspapers say?"
But "How many wept
When he passed away?"
—Eye Witness

STEADY GROWTH CONTINUES IN ELDORADO

The steady building growth which characterized the last half of 1929 in Eldorado and which saw the erection of about fifty homes, on brick church and a half dozen store buildings continues unabated into 1930. Although the cold weather of late has greatly delayed construction work, there is noticeable progress taking place in the construction of six new homes which are located in the Glendale Addition and belong to D. Gregory, W. D. Cope, Mrs. Polk Oliver, and Mayor Fred O. Green. Two of these are brick-veneer and the others are stucco. During the past week work has begun on the foundations of the Presbyterian Manse, the contract for which was awarded to O'Conner, San Angelo. This is to be brick-veneer building and is to cost between $3,500 and $4,000. It is to be located near the Presbyterian Church. Work on the foundation of a stucco, six-room home was also begun during the past week by the Ratliff Brother. This is to be located near the Church of Christ. In addition to these homes now being constructed there are several frame houses under construction.

Three filling stations are now being erected in Eldorado. One of these belongs to Mayor Fred O. Green and is located on the lot adjoining the Trail Garage. It is being constructed of brick and is to be modern in every way. The other service stations are located in the southwest part of Eldorado on the highway near the gins.

A number of business buildings are now being planned for erection in the near future. The First National Bank, W. H. Parker and Son, and T. K. Jones are among those who plan to erect brick buildings.

Just now the east part of Eldorado is a tent city and is some ways resembles a boom oil town for there are dozens of tents stretched on the divide. These are occupied by the hundred of railroad workers who are employed in construction work in the vicinity of the town.

When you think of cats remember Wright's Cash Store can't be beat for price and quality. (adv)

RAILS NEARING ELDORADO

The laying of the rails on the new railroad is now going on only a few miles from Eldorado. Railroad dreams and hopes of past have at last materialized in to parallel lines of steel extending in the general direction of Eldorado from the north. When the track is laid into Eldorado the railroad subscriptions which were pledged by the citizens of Schleicher County are due, according to the agreement of the Schleicher County Railroad Committee which J. B. Christian is the chairman. Although the subscriptions are payable to the railroad committee when the track reaches Eldorado the money is not to be paid to the Railroad Company until the road reaches Sonora. It is expected now that the track will be in Eldorado by February 1st and a significant event in the history of the county will thus be realized.

SONORA TIES ELDORADO IN BASKETBALL SERIES.

The boys basketball team of the Sonora High School defeated the Eldorado team at Sonora on Thursday afternoon in the second game of a series of games between the two schools. The score was 14 to 8.

J. R. PAGE DIES IN ELDORADO.

James Robert Page, 74, a native Texan and a pioneer of this section, died suddenly at the home of his son, Bert Page, at 10:45 o'clock Tuesday morning. Mr. Page had started to town from his home when he suddenly became ill. He was taken to the home of his son, where he died a short time later.

Funeral services were conducted at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the Bert Page home with the Rev. C. H. Richards officiating. Mr. Page was a member of the Primitive Baptist Church.

He is survived by five children, 3 sons and 2 daughters. He was buried by the side of his wife, who died here about 18 months ago. The Robert Massie Company of San Angelo had charge of the funeral arrangements.

The sons are Bert, and O. B. Page of Eldorado and A. J. Page of Mineola, the daughters are Mrs. E. B. Knighten of Fred, Texas and Mrs. Beulah Leeves of Houston.

Paul bearers were G. W. Faught, G. E. Woods, W. F. Faught, Wade King, H. E. Sharp and Sam E. Jones.

STATE HEALTH NURSE TO BE IN ELDORADO SATURDAY.

Through the Parent Teachers Association of Eldorado and the Health Department of the State a state Health Itenerent Nurse has been acquired in Eldorado and Schleicher County for a period of four weeks.

A meeting will be held at the Court House Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock and its wish of the nurse and the Parent Teachers that all who can will attend this meeting.

This nurse will give county wide service and this service will not be limited only to school children but to pre-school children and any one that might desire her assistance.

The State Department of Health pays the expenses of this nurse and the P T A of Eldorado furnish the equipment for her use while here and there will be no further charges for her services. There will also be a Permanent County Health Committee appointed at this meeting and every one is invited to attend Saturday and get an explanation of her work while here.

TOWN GOSSIP

Jim Williams, stock farmer who lies Southeast of town was in Eldorado Monday and reports very good luck with his lambs during the recent cold weather. Mr. Williams is a breeder of fine Rambouillet sheep and was in the midst of his lambing when the cold weather started. He reports the loss of only two lambs.

Edward Willoghby, Schleicher County ranchman, was in Eldorado and states that his stock went through the cold weather in fairly good condition.

We note in the Windmill Column of the San Angelo Times that E. P. Sweatt, Pecos ranchman was all smiles over the report of a gas well within three miles from his ranch. The well he thought was on the Roy Girvin lands. Mr. Sweatt also stated that stock was doing nicely and that he was not feeding.

Politics are getting a little hotter, especially state politics. John I. King was in the Success office giving his opinion rather John I. is a very good politician as well as a goat and sheep man. freely 1st Saturday morning.

Every one of us all smiles last Monday and were chasing over town in their shirt sleeves, enjoying the first warm day in several weeks, but Tuesday morning the tide turned and the smile was wiped out and turned into frowns and groans, more fuel ordered as a fresh norther following a light rain was the cause of it all.

Some have not entirely forgotten the County Clerk's office, a little above north of the bridge, not every now and then but soon cools off after a round or two and decides that he should practice a little more often.

The Brady trial at Austin is warming up considerably. The first thing that happened as the court opened was a fight between two lawyers, not a cuss fight of flowery words but a real fight.

Bunch Brittain who has been suffering from a sprained ankle received from a fall from a horse was able to get around without the aid of his crutches last week. There has been numerous reports handed around as to the cause of this trouble but we are not believing them all.

Major J. B. Sammons was looking around last week trying to buy some thread. We presume he is trying to re-organize the old time "sewing bee."

Riding to town with one of the city officials Tuesday morning, we made one of the turns on main street and quite a bump was received as the car struck a considerable chug hole. The City Councilman admitted rather freely that the place should be mended. We agreed with him without further argument and thought that this was a very lucky occurrence.

PARAGRAPHS BY WRIGHT

Well since last week things in Grand Old Schleicher has thawed out a little, but might be frozen before this appears.

Workmen are busy preparing the Depot grounds in Eldorado and raising the old dump that will bring the rail into Eldorado in a short while.

Several Eldoradoans went to the new townsite north of the Catcote ranch Sunday and for the first time saw a train in Schleicher County. A switch is being laid at the new town and several car loads of material were being unloaded.

The first dollar received by the Schleicher County Histories now being published by The Eldorado Success, was received from Mrs. Sallie Murchison, who is one of Schleichers early settlers and a daughter of F. C. Bates Sr, Schleicher's oldest citizen in age.

Schleicher County has become so prosperous that one of the Smiths families can build a new home.

Jim Ferguson now tells how come him to fall out of bed and break his collar bone, he was trying to swim the Mississippi River in his sleep, and in his struggles fell out of bed.

Now t behooves a woman of Meddina County, to throw all Texas Rural School in a panic, she got out an injunction against the $5,000,000 appropriation and has it tied up so it can't be used, and many schools will ave to suspend or seek aid from other sources.

The farmer that has had eggs for sale for the past twelve months is the guy that knows his chickens, and has his tax money already gathered.

The poultry industry in Schleicher County is a profitable business and demands are always good.

THE STATE OF TEXAS

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Schleicher County—Greetings:

YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to summon Jim Hogg Finley, by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in any newspaper published in the 51st Judicial District; but if there be no newspaper published in said Judicial District, then in a newspaper published in the nearest District to said 51st Judicial District, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Schleicher County, to be holden at the Court House thereof, in Eldorado, Texas, on the 2nd Monday in March A. D. 1930 the same being the 10th day of March A. D. 1930, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 28th day of September A. D. 1929 in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court as No. 426, wherein W. L. McWhorter and C. M. McWhorter are Plaintiffs, and H. W. Finley, Faye Finley, Joe Finley, Etta May Finley, Jim Hogg Finley, H. T. Finley, William Haskell Finley, Edmond Finley and Annie Pearl Finley are Defendants, and said petition alleging Plaintiffs sue Defendant H. W. Finley for the full amount of the principal, interest, interest on past due interest, and ten per cent attorney's fees averred to be due and unpaid on written promissory note signed by said Defendant, dated Sept. 24 1928, due May 1, 1929, payable to the order of W. L. McWhorter, and C. M. McWhorter, for the principal sum of $1427.49, with ten per cent interest payable annually, and containing provision for ten per cent attorney's fees if collected through any legal proceedings, and also for the principal accrued interest and interest on past due interest and ten per cent attorneys fees on a written promissory note dated August 15th, 1923, for the principal sum of $1243.00 with interest at ten per cent per annum from date, payable annually, past due interest bearing interest at ten per cent per annum, and likewise providing for ten per cent attorney's fees if placed in the hands of an attorney for collection, signed by H. W. Finley and payable to the order of W. L. McWhorter & Brother (who are these plaintiffs), and due Oct. 1, 1925; and for the further sum of $463.50 with 6% interest thereon from August 31, 1929, advanced by Plaintiffs at the special instance and request of said defendant to pay the past due interest due the State of Texas, on the herein-after described section of land; and sues all of the defendants (the others being averred to be all of the children and heirs at law of Annie B. Finley, wife of defendant H. W. Finley who died intestate after the indebtedness which was alleged to be represented by said notes was incurred and which was a community debt) for the establishment and foreclosure of the following liens on and against the following lands: the lien of a deed of trust of date August 15, 1923, recorded in Vol. 7, page 479, et. seq., Deed of Trust records of Schleicher County, Texas, upon all of Sec 144, Block A, Cert. 74, H. E. & W. T. RY. Co., Surveys in said county except 200 acres out of the N. E. corner, reserved as a homestead; the lien of a deed of trust dated Oct. 1, 1924, and recorded in Vol. 9, p. 471, of the Deed of Trust Records of said county, given by said H. W. Finley to secure the payment of said $1427.49, note above described upon his undivided half interest in the same identical 440 acres above-described; same being subject to the deed of trust lien first above-mentioned, the indebtedness of $1427.49 being a renewal and extension of the first-mentioned indebtedness; the lien in favor of the State of Texas originally and to which the Plaintiffs are subrogated by reason of their payment of said indebtedness of $463.50 interest at the request of H. W. Finley against the whole of said Sec. 144. Plaintiffs allege that defendant H. W. Finley promised and became lawfully bound and obligated to pay said notes, according to their face and tenor, and promised expressly to pay said $463.50, but that though often requested he has failed and refused and still fails and refuses to pay same or any part thereof to their damages in the sum of $5,000.00. That whatever interest any of the other defendants have in said land being acquired by them as heirs at law of the community interest of their deceased mother in said land is subject to said indebtedness and liens and is charged therewith and is no obstacle to the foreclosure thereof.

Plaintiffs pray for citation judgment for their said indebtedness and damages and the establishment and foreclosure of the said liens on said land securing the same as against all the defendants, for general and special, legal and equitable relief, and their costs. (For a more particular statement of Plaintiff's Original Petition and First Amended Original Petition on file herein)

Herein Fail Not, and have before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

GIVEN UNDER MY HAND and Seal of said Court, at office in Eldorado, Texas, this 28th day of January A. D. 1930.
John F. Isaacs Clerk,
District Court, Schleicher County.

RUPTURE
Expert Here

C. F. Redlich, Minneapolis, Minn., nationally famous Rupture Appliance Expert, will demonstrate without charge his unequalled method at the Roberts Hotel, San Angelo, Texas on Tuesday February 11 from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.
Mr. C. F. Redlich says:
The "Perfect Retention Shields" hold the rupture perfectly, no matter what position the body assumes or how heavy a weight you lift. They give instant relief and contract the opening in a remarkably short time.

The secret of their success is in their simplicity. An expertly adjusted device seals the opening without discomfort or detention from work. It is practically everlasting, sanitary, comfortable and actually holds ruptures which heretofore were considered uncontrollable.
"IF YOU WANT TO HAVE IT DONE RIGHT SEE—REDLICH."
Doctor J. W. Seaver, for many years in charge of the Physical Education of the students of Yale College, has recorded 75% cures with this system.
Mr. Redlich is internationally known and speaks English, German and Spanish.

BATHTUBS AND OTHER LUXURIES

Have you a bathtub in your home? No, that isn't "Foolish Question Number Umpsteen." There are nine million homes in America without bathtubs, according to the Statistical Abstract of the United States. Only two houses out of three have them. A few years ago, as time goes, nobody had a bathtub. There was one in the White House when Lincoln was President, and when President Cleveland wanted to have a second one put in members of Congress made speeches denouncing the bad example of luxury which the President would set! The first bathtub with fixed plumbing was installed in Cincinnati less than 100 years ago and physicians denounced the habit of bathing as injurious to health.

Times change and luxuries multiply. Today 15 million homes have electric flatirons, 7 million have vacuum cleaners, 5 million have washing machines, nearly three quarters of a million have electric refrigerators. The time is coming, and coming soon when these and other electrical appliances will be regarded by everybody in America as of as great importance as the bathtub, but may be another hundred years before everybody has them, and even then there will probably be some homes without bathtubs.

Conrad Hubert came to America from Germany as a young man. He worked in an electrical shop in Jersey City and invented the first successful pocket flashlight. He died two years ago, leaving instructions in his will that his estate should be divided principally among religious, educational and charitable institutions, to be selected by a committee of prominent citizens appointed by his executors.

For six months three "prominent citizens" whose names are Calvin Coolidge, Alfred E. Smith and Julius Rosenwald met every two weeks to consider the hundreds of applications for part of the $6,000,000 which Conrad Hubert left. When they gave their final decision the other day named a list of colleges, hospitals, relief organizations and charities on which they had agreed unanimously. In each case the institutions to be benefited will have to raise from other sources more than the amount awarded them. That is the modern American way of giving money to worthy causes, to require them to match the gift by inducing others to give.

The whole incident strikes us as peculiarly typical America. Where else in the world could a poor immigrant accumulate $6,000,000 and more without being heard of? Conrad Hubert's name never got into the newspapers until he was dead. He made his money honestly, without injuring anyone else but rather enriching the world through his invention. That was typically American, too, and so was the spirit which prompted him to leave the bulk of his fortune to assist others.

And where but in America could one see the spectacle of a former President of the United States, the ex-Governor of New York and the nation's greatest merchant giving their time and serious attention to carrying out the wishes of one of the country's adopted citizens?

Where, for that matter will you find a Protestant, like Coolidge, a Roman Catholic, like Smith, and a Jew, like Rosenwald, working together for the common welfare? That is typical of America, too.

Conrad Hubert, alive, was not even a name to the world at large. Conrad Hubert dead has left a monument more enduring than brass in the example his bequest has supplied of the spirit of America.

THE ELECTRIC YEAR

During 1929 the electric industry experienced one of the greatest periods of progress in its history.

Production of electricity for public use totaled approximately 97 billion kilowatt-hours, an increase of nine billion hours over 1928 and 17 billion hours over 1927. This output equaled that of all the rest of the world combined.

The industry gained 850,000 new customers during the year, bringing the total to almost 25,000,000. Nearly 20,000,000 of these are household users. In 1929 factory consumption of power increased 10 per cent and domestic consumption 16 per cent.

About 68 per cent of the population of the United States now live in electrically wired homes, and a multitude of new homes are added yearly, due to the fact that electric progress is outstripping population growth. Between 1912 and 1927 the population of the United States increased 24 per cent, while electric generation increased 626 per cent and the number of customers 465 per cent.

Over 500,000 farms are now electrified, half of which have been given service during the past three years. Three-quarters of all industrial power is now electrical and, on the average, each worker has nearly five horsepower at his command.

Electric power rates have gone down despite the fact that living costs are 70 per cent above 1913 levels. Average prices for household power decreased three per cent last year. Plans for 1930 assure still greater progress and it is forecast that for the first time in history output will exceed 100 billion kilowatt-hours.

New Beauty for the New Ford

THE NEW FORD TOWN SEDAN

In the Town Sedan you see a distinguished example of the unbroken sweep of line which adds so much charm to all the new, roomy Ford bodies. Radiator, hood, cowl, lower roof line, fenders, wheels — every point of design reflects the new style and beauty that have been placed within the means of every one. All of the new Ford cars are finished in a variety of colors.

ANOTHER STEP FORWARD

THE introduction of the new Ford bodies has set a high standard of motor car value.

From the new deep radiator to the tip of the curving rear fender, there is an unbroken sweep of line—a flowing grace of contour gaining added charm from the rich and attractive colors. “ “ “ “

You will take a real pride in the smart style and fresh new beauty of the Ford just as you will find an ever-growing satisfaction in its safety, comfort, speed, acceleration, ease of control, reliability and economy. In appearance, as in mechanical construction, craftsmanship has been put into mass production. New beauty has been added to outstanding performance. “ “ “ “ “ “ “ “

A feature of unusual interest is the use of Rustless Steel for the radiator shell, head lamps, cowl finish strip, hub caps, tail lamp and other exposed metal parts. This steel will not rust, corrode or tarnish and will retain its bright brilliance for the life of the car. Here, as in so many other important details, you see evidence of the enduring quality that has been built into the new Ford. “ “ “ “ “ “ “ “

SONORA vs. ELDORADO

The number of High School students who started out at the beginning of the year to engage in Newspaper work has been considerably lessened recently. In the first place some students found that they did not have time to do the work; again other students lacked interest enough to stay with the project. Still others have had to be eliminated because their scholastic record does not permit them to take part in any extra-curricular activities. In spite of this fact, however, those who are still interested are determined to work harder than ever and to try to make the time spent well worth while both to themselves and to others. Not every person on the staff has evinced as much interest as he should, but each is now resolved to do better.

The work of the newspaper staff thus far has not been so successful as we would like it to be. This is no doubt in greater part due to our own lack of experience and enthusiasm but we also feel that we need the support of the entire student body in this movement. The newspaper column is beneficial to the school because it connects the home and the school more closely, enabling the patrons to know about our activities and in this light the newspaper work should be of interest to each student. Therefore, we are asking for the cooperation of the student body. Let us know that you are better work.

REWARDS FOR THE STAFF

The students on the newspaper staff who keep on working and who turn in acceptable copy for the remainder of the school term will be given rewards. Just what form these rewards will take is not yet known but they will be something of which one may be proud and which will mean real endeavor on the part of those earning them. The staff members are determined to secure these rewards and it seems an activity worth pursuing.

The newspaper staff as it now stands includes: J. C. Bullion, editor; Victoria Jones, Elizabeth Bradley, William McAngus, Kenneth Green, Loyce Sharp, Alta Stevens, Vera Wade, Hazel Bruton, Joe Muller Christian, Eli McAngus, Margaret Williams, Pauline Kent, Garland Bullion, Gusta V. Graves, Lucile Oglesby, Lola Davis, Lela Belle Crooks, Claude Jecrey, Hollis Alexander

P. T. A. MEETING

A meeting called of the Parent Teacher's Association was held at the school building Friday, January, 2b. Mrs. Joab Campbell, president, presided. Mrs. A. J. Roach secretary, was absent, Mrs. L. M. Hoover acted as secretary since about twenty members were present.

A letter from the nurse who is employed by the state to visit schools and examine the children states that she will be here Saturday February 1. All who are interested in this work should meet at the court house Saturday at 3:00 o'clock to hear the nurse lecture. The materials which she will need are already on hand.

Founder's Day of Parent Teacher's, which is February 17, will be observed by the local association. Mrs. W. O. Alexander is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the day.

The Eldorado Association has recently ordered a slide for the younger children of the school. All the students should appreciate the interest of their parents.

There was a round-table discussion of the question, "Shall We Graduate Our Children?" Some interesting comments were made by Mr. Holt and others.

The next regular meeting will be on February 14. All members are urged to be present and to cooperate with each other in an effort to be some really constructive work.

Thursday, January 23, after several postponements three cars of Eagles accompanied by Mrs. Kerr and Miss Victoria Jones, motored to Sonora and played a basket ball game.

The game was called about 4:5. During the first quarter Tommie Smith made a perfect shot, giving the Eagles a lead. Kidd of Sonora looped one bringing the score even. Others were shot by Kidd, giving Sonora the lead. Kent shot a goal bringing the score 4 to 4 at the end of the first half.

During the last half Kidd shot two for Sonora and Trainer shot two and Lancaster shot two bringing their score to a total of 4 points. During the last half the Eagles followed the eight points by four points made by Kent and Smith. The game ended with Sonora 4, Eldorado 8.

The Line ups were: Sonora: Trainer, F; Brown, F; Taylor, C; Kidd, G; and Lancaster, G.

Eldorado: Elzie Moore, F; Jack Kerr, F; McAngus, C; Tommie Smith, G; and Eli McAngus G.

Substitutes were, Sonora: Adams. Eldorado, McGelvray F, Kent, F; Fred Williams, F.

WHAT THE FRESHMEN THINK ABOUT BEING "FISH"

Do they like it? Well I guess not. The Freshmen hate very much to be called "Fish". They claim that they don't live in water and therefore should not be called "Fish," "Slime," and a few other names. The poor "Fish" do not seem to realize that they are just dry land suckers.

One day a senior was lecturing to a freshman girl about how the fish should be handled and she informed him rapidly and abruptly that she was not a fish and that no one was going to use a paddle on her. Then she said a few bad things about the high and mighty seniors. The senior class immediately informed the opinion that the girl was a cat-fish. She was so caty, you know.

If you want to step on the young, handsome, and dashing Freshman's toes, take my advice and call him "Fish". Also take my advice and have plenty of room in which to run.

A Sophomore

THE DUTY OF A SENIOR TO A FRESHMAN

Freshmen, Freshmen every where and a mind in sight. That as a general rule, is a senior's idea of a freshman's brilliancy. But should they look at them in that sense? I should say not. Every senior has at one time been a freshman, and if they wish to amount to much in the world they must be a freshman again in college. "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." I expect that if every senior would follow that commandment there would be less shy freshmen. When they come into high school, they come expecting to be tittered at from start to finish of the year.

It is, therefore, the duty of the senior to help the freshman in every way. Take the shyness out of him and transplant it with dignity. Don't laugh at them because you were laughed at when you were a freshman. "Return good for evil." Teach those who do not know. Help them to become acquainted with high school, and then the senior can watch the freshman "Sturt their stuff" not because they are freshmen, but because they feel that they are beginning to grow up.

ALL STUDENTS SHOULD TAKE AT LEAST ONE YEAR IN PUBLIC SPEAKING

This is the first year that a course in Public Speaking has been offered to the students of this school. There are only six teen in the class, but these are doing good work. A course in Public Speaking teaches one to speak distinctly, effectively, and directly. It also teaches one poise.

Some pupils say, "What's the use in my spending my time studying Public Speaking? I've not going to be a lawyer." Every pupil in school should study Public Speaking no matter what he is going to be. Premier Salisbury said, "Power is with the tongue. Whether we like it or not, power is with the man who can speak." Today more than ever before a man must be able to speak thoughts clearly and effectively before he can be successful in the business or social world. Speech is the medium by which men convey their ideas.

Public Speaking will teach a person to speak well therefore every boy or girl should have some training in Public Speaking. Public Speaking also teaches one poise. What would any speech be with out poise? If Woodrow Wilson had not had good poise when he made his great speech before the Senate, would he have succeeded in getting what he wanted? Certainly he would not have. If a person applying for a position and has no poise he will probably fail to get the position. Why? Just simply because no business man wants a person in his business who has no poise. Public Speaking teaches one poise and self-confidence.

There are many other values of a Public Speaking course, but there is not enough space to tell about them. Public Speaking is a course well worth taking and all students should take at least one year of it.

FUNNY ANSWERS GIVEN BY HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS ON EXAMINATIONS

In History II class one pupil said that the Institution of King was an ancient costume.

Another said that Alexander the Great was the first Prime Minister of England.

In English (all four sections) there were several peculiar answers given on the mid-term examinations.

One pupil spelled trochee—trokey.

One pupil said that iambic is a flower.

One pupil said that iambic is a place where you put commas. One pupil said that iambic is a kind of literature.

On the mid-term examination the seniors were asked to write a letter to a former teacher. One senior wrote Miss Allen and begged for mercy.

In a letter of application one pupil wrote a letter applying for a position as a dog-catcher.

Several pupils spoke of famous men by their first names.

Another pupil said that Cicero was a Roman King.

Another said that the Tiber River was in Scotland, while still another spelled noise, noise.

Here is the way that a freshman told the life of Shakespeare.

Mr. Shakespeare moved to a town where Wm. could complete high school. He lived to be 75 years old. He made poor grade in college and decided there was no use in staying there and going to school so he quit and came home. When Wm. was very young he had a spell of sickness and was kept in bed for some while. He ranged mirrors around his bed so he could watch the army in the valley near his house. Wrote 14 books. Studied Law.

Several pupils said that Franklin was the president of the United States.

CASTLES IN SPAIN

I have been reading the story of Cecil Rhodes. His life was full of adventure: it makes excellent reading. But the passage that interested me most was this:
Riding to the Matoppos one day at the usual four miles an hour, Rhodes had not said a word for two hours, when he suddenly remarked: "Well, le Sueur, there is one thing I hope for you, and that is that while still a young man you may never have everything you want."
"Take myself, for instance: I am not an old man, and yet there is nothing I want. I have been Prime Minister of the Cape, there is De Beers (the diamond mines that Rhodes controlled) and the railways, and there is a big country called after me, and I have more money than I can spend."
"You might ask, 'Wouldn't like to be Prime Minister again?' Well, I answer you very fairly—I should take it if it were offered to me, but I certainly don't crave for it."
At twenty-five he was so rich that he did not want for any of the things that money can buy; at thirty-five he did not want anything at all; at forty-nine he died.
I hope I may never be guilty of writing anything intended to make poor people contented with their lot.
I would rather be known as one who sought to inspire his reader with a divine discontent. To make men and women discontented with bad health, and show them how, by hard work, they can have better health. To make them discontented with their intelligence, and to stimulate them to continued study. To urge them on to better jobs, better homes, more money in the bank. But it does no harm, in our striving after worthwhile things to pause once in a while and count our blessings. Prominent among my blessing I count to joys of anticipation—the delights of erecting Castles in Spain. If you would discover the really happy men of history, look for those who have striven forward from one achievement to another, drawn by the power of their own anticipations. They have made every day yield a double pleasure—the joy of the present, and the different but no less satisfying joys provided by a wise imagination. I believe in day-dreams. I am strong for Castles in Spain. I have a whole group of them myself, and am constantly building improvements and making alterations.

I do not let my work upon them interfere with my regular job. Rather, it reinforces the job. My castles are incentive to efficiency: they give added reason and purpose to the business of being alive.

BAILEY RANCH NEWS

By Doc

Bailey Ranch school has enrolled a new pupil, Mr. J. B. Hefflin who is a valuable addition to the Junior Gangster base ball squad as he has caught for them the past two years. We are glad to have him back.
Thursday, January 23, Bailey Ranch Senior gangsters went to Christoval where they lost their third basket ball game of this season to a town team composed of former high school players such as H. Chapel, Rogers, and others. This was a fast game and it was much enjoyed by players and spectators. The game was called about 8 o'clock in the evening with Referee Services of Christoval acting as official. He called a splendid game. Christoval got off to an early lead when H. Chapel looped two close shots; in spite of desperate Gangsters efforts, this was held the rest of the game though the outcome seemed doubtful in the third quarter. when Bailey Ranch was only one behind. They could not hold their offensive however, and the final score was 25 to 15 in favor of Christoval. Gangsters who made the trip were Robert Hobb John Cain, Truett Stanford, Peyton Cain, and Coach Smart, Mr. Redford and Edwin Kent.
Sunday, January 26, Mrs. Oddest Sudduth gave a family dinner to the following group: Mr. and Mrs. Archie Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Stevens, Alta, Carl, Colleen, Mr. and Mrs. Vernal Suddeth, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Suddeth, Mr. and Mrs. Elton Spencer, and Mr. and Mrs. Will McKee of Christoval. All report an excellent dinner and a splendid time.
Little Miss Alice Mund has been too ill to attend school the last few days.
Little Miss Ouida Cheatham and her brother, Glen have been seriously ill with pneumonia and influenza. We are glad to report that Ouida is better but Glen is still in bed with high fever. A trained nurse has been in charge the past week.

Mrs. John Rodgers was ill last Thursday night. Monday she made a trip to town to consult Doctor Weidenman.
Mr. Louis Kerr and Mr. Andrew Nixon are so sick with colds this week that they are unable to attend school. There seems to be a regular epidemic of a very bad variety of cold attacking Bailey Ranch at present; we are hoping for speedy relief.
Miss Marjorie Parks and Miss Lois Russel have been awarded their second prize for spelling a thousand words without error.
Mr. Virgil Copple spent Sunday with Mr. Ira Copple.
Friday evening, Bailey Ranch Juniors went to Eldorado where they went down in defeat before Coach Redford's Junior Eagles in a 24 to 4 score. Junior Isaacs was highpoint man in this game with about 12 points to his credit. Reverend Hardt refereed.
Mr. Ward Parks made a business trip to San Angelo Saturday.
The Sherman Nursery Company of Dallas carries on hand all classes of shade trees, Pecans, Shrubbery, Roses in fact any thing you need and is represented by Sam Stokes, of Sonora, who will be in Eldorado every Saturday during the winter and will be pleased to take your orders.
Sam Stokes.
Dr. W. D. Patton has been confined to his home for several days and is not able to do any practice, especially office practice and answer calls. His friends hope that he will soon be able to be out again.

SCHOOL NOTES

but it is being gradually added to. There are many interesting things in this museum. The high school history classes are gathered up the articles that you will find there.
A few of the articles in the museum are listed here. A shoe maker's hammer that came from Germany was donated by Mr. John Luedecke. There is some confederate money, too. Mr. Benson donated a bill fold that he made during the Civil War. Mrs. J. A. Whitten donated an embroidery needle that was used to make sweaters during the World War. This needle is very very unlike the ones we have to-day. This needle is hand-made, too. Mr. J. A. Whitten also donated a hand-made pin and some knitting needles. In this museum there is a very queer pistol, and it was donated by Mrs. Samples. We find, too, Mexican money in our high school museum. Mr. W. R. Lewis donated an Indian tomahawk. In this museum we find a piece of wood which was removed from the White House. Mrs. A. K. Bailey loaned some plates which came from England. The surveying chain that surveyed the townsite of Eldorado is in this museum. There are many pictures of Eldorado in its first days. There are, also, some very interesting old letters that date back as far as 1900. We find a number of books that were used by our fathers in their school days. There are quite a number of Indian (and arrow and spear heads that were collected by Joe Hearne Moore. Albert Martin gave the museum a Spanish spur. Dogie Finley donated a gas mask. There are several German helmets, too. W. B. Gibson donated some petrified wood. Mrs. J. E. Tisdale loaned some hand-hammered silver spoons that were given her by her great grand mother. Lucile Page loaned the museum a ladies side saddle. In this museum is an army mess kit that Mr. R. D. Holt used during the World War. There is a ladle that is 150 years old that came from Scotland. This ladle was presented to Mrs. F. M. Bradley by her grand parents. Another interesting article is a pair of glasses which were found on a dead German Soldier. Another interesting article is a wine glass which is over 100 years old. It was handed down to Mrs. Kinchen by her ancestors who were originally of the French Colonies of Louisiana.
The things in this museum of our high school are very interesting, I am quite sure the high school history students would appreciate any donation from the town people. If you have anything of interest in your home that you do not wish to keep, bring it up here to our museum. We are glad to accept anything of that sort. Our museum is very small now, but we expect to keep adding to it.
The following students composed the class which started the museum. Lela Parker, Estelle Johnson, J. C. Bullion, Wince Murphy, Garnette Luedecke, Vera Wade, Fannie Hardt Elta Mae Luedecke, Bernice Newlin, Mable McClatchey, Annie Pearl Finley, and Dalia Fae Johnson.

SHOULD APRIL FOOL BE FISH DAY?

The big question before the now is, "Should April Fool be Fish day?" Although the Fish have their opinion of this question, the affirmative has the floor.
Now folks, since all upper classmen have learned not to take April fool so seriously, and the Fish always celebrate that day by playing "hooky", we think April fool should be Fish

GUNMAN'S BLUFF

Edgar Wallace

COPYRIGHT BY EDGAR WALLACE

SECOND INSTALMENT SYNOPSIS

Margaret Leferre, engaged to marry Luke Maddison, wealthy banker, is with him when he encounters Gunner Haynes, an American crook, apparently by accident, in a London hotel lobby. Danton Morell, a friend of Margeret's brother Rex, is watching them, and wonders whether the Gunner recognizes him after seven years. That night Rex is found dead with a revolver by his side and a note addressed to his sister saying that he has been ruined by taking Luke Maddison's advice. Morell tells Maddison later that Rex cashed a check for Eighteen Thousand Pounds ostensibly signed by Maddison.

Now Go On With The Story

"My name was forged to it. I did not give Rex a check for that amount. I have been taking inquiries. I find that he was heavily involved in a derehot West African gold-mining syndicate, most of the shares of which you bought for a song less than a year ago. He has been buying these shares on margin and they have been steadily dropping in value. On the day he paid you eighteen thousand five hundred pounds there came another demand for a larger amount."

Danty's heart sank though he gave no visible evidence of his perturbation. This man knew more than he had dreamed could be known. Here was a crisis in Mr. Morell's affairs which might easily lead him to ruin and undo all those fine schemes of his.

"I do not exactly know what you are suggesting," he said. "My interest in the company is a very slight one, and I was horrified when I learned that Rex had been gambling in the shares I give you the fullest permission to make any investigation you wish."

Luke opened the drawer of his desk and took out a check. From where he sat Danty thought the signature was a tolerably good forgery. He had thought so when Rex had brought the check to him. It is the simplest thing in the world to forge a name, and so far as he had been able to judge there were no flaws in Rex Leferre's essay in that dangerous game.

"You realize what is wrong with this check?" asked Luke. The other shook his head. "Are you suggesting that I knew the check was forged?" he asked.

Before he could reply there was a tap at the door and Luke looked up angrily.

"Come in," he said. It was the apologetic manager "I am sorry to interrupt you, Mr. Maddison, but will you see Mr. Bird of Scotland Yard?" In spite of his self-possession Danty half arose from his seat. The Sparrow was the last man in the world he wanted to meet that morning.

Luke thought for a minute. "Just a moment."

He rose and opened the door leading the corridor.

"I shall want to see you again about this check, Mr. Morell," he said.

"Why not see me now?" It was a challenge, but Luke Maddison could sense its sincerity.

"Mr. Bird has come to see me on quite another matter," he said. "In due course we will interview him together."

He closed the door on his visitor as the Sparrow was shown in through the other door. Mr. Bird came heavily into the room and favored every corner with a long scrutiny.

"Havin' a visitor, Mr. Maddison? I thought I saw somebody come in whilst I was waiting in the street outside."

Luke nodded curtly. "Mr. Danton Morell," he said. "Do you know him?"

The Sparrow smiled. "As one knows the Lord Mayor from a distance. I'm humble. You never find me bargain in on society. I've had one dress suit seventeen years and wear it twice a year—once for the Police Dinner and once for to give the moths a cold."

"Do you know anything about him?"

The Sparrow's wide smile grew wider. "His name an' address—an' that's as much as any policeman wants to know about anybody. Bad business this young Leferre case, Mr. Maddison. You don't want to appear in it, I suppose?"

Luke looked at him, startled. "I? How on earth do I come into it?"

Mr. Bird coughed. "Well, you do, and you don't," he said. "I happened to search the body an' the room. I found three loose checks on the Northern & Southern Bank—that's where you keep your private account, ain't it? Ain't this—" Very leisurely he took out a fat and worn leather case from his pocket, laid it flat on the desk and rummaged in the inside. After a while he found what he was looking for—two rodded sheets of paper, evidently torn from a school exercise book. He smoothed these flat and Luke saw a succession of signatures, one under the other: "Luke Maddison—Luke Maddison."

"Looks almost as though you had been scribblin' absent-mindedly." The detective's shrewd eyes were on the young banker. "But at the same time I couldn't imagine a business man like you doin' anything so silly! If you'll excuse the liberty. I called at the Northern & Southern Bank yesterday afternoon, but they were reticent—reticent is a god word—an' referred me to you. But by an underhanded an' despicable trick I found that young Mr. Leferre cashed a check the other day for eighteen thousand."

"Yes—I gave him a check for that amount."

The Sparrow was frankly skeptical. "Did you now? Maybe you'd like to show me the counterfoil of that check?"

For a second time Luke was taken back. "If there were any reason for doing so, I could," he said coldly, "but I see no reason."

Mr. Bird was not abashed; he leaned his huge arms on the table, and when he spoke his voice was serious.

"I've no right to ask—I'm not the sort of a man who would attempt to pull a bluff on a gentleman like you. I'll put my cards on the table. That check was met in notes and I want to know where those notes went. There's a bird in London I want to catch. I've got one of the best little cages for him that was ever built an' while it's empty sit in my heart. If that check was a forgery it might get the deceased a bad name, but it would make it very easy for me to pull in a certain man for 'uttering'."

"I'll tell you the truth, Mr. Maddison; I want that man's finger prints so much that I wonder I don't knock him down in the street an' take 'em!"

Luke's eyes were averted; he gave no sign until the detective had finished. "I'm sorry I can't help you," he said. "The check was drawn by me and signed by me."

Mr. Bird rose with a sigh. "You're too kind to the criminal classes, Mr. Maddison," he said. "No wonder Gunner Haynes thinks you're a good fellow—six months he got yesterday for bein' a suspected person. What a man! When I tried to pump him about your friend he wouldn't let n that he knew him even."

"Morell?" Luke was thrown off his guard, as he saw by the Sparrow's grin.

"That's the name. What's the use of talkin' at cross-purposes? He's the—"

"I know nothing about Morell Luke was emphatic. "He was a friend of Rex's—of Mr. Leferre's. I'd rather not discuss him."

The Sparrow sighed again, gathered up the papers on which the unfortunate Rex had practised the signature, and stuffed them back in his pocket-book. "Nobody helps the police," he said dolefully. "All hands are against the natural guardians of the children of the poor. I'll be getting along."

He offered a limp hand and went heavily out of the room. The door had hardly closed upon him before the telephone bell rang, and for the first time since the tragedy Luke heard the voice of the woman he loved. "Will you see me tomorrow, Luke?" Her voice was very low.

"Now, if I may—darling, let me come to you now!" But her level voice denied him. "To-morrow—after this ghastly business. Luke did Rex owe you any money?"

The unexpectedness of the question threw him off his balance, and when Luke Maddison was hurried he was invariably incoherent, for the same reason as others are incoherent in the circumstances—he thought too quickly for speech. "Yes—but it isn't worth discussing. He was heavily insured, you know, and I don't think the policy is invalidated. . . ."

He heard the quick breath and grew panic-stricken. "I was thinking of you—that there was no need to worry about his affairs. He owes me practically nothing."

"Will you see me to-morrow?" Before he could reply he heard the click of the hook being depressed.

 "I see no reason why the wedding should be postponed, Luke. The hideous business of coroner's inquisition was only a day old, and an accountant's statement that the dead boy's affairs were involved was accepted and no details were asked."

Margaret Leferre could not understand herself; her own calm astonished her. Had she ever loved this suave man who stood before her, apparently agreeing, as though Rex were his dearest friend? Sometimes she was afraid that he would read her loathing of him in her eyes—she was amazed to find herself telling him now, with the greatest calmness and in a tone that was sadly sweet, that she saw no reason why the ceremony should be postponed.

"My poor darling." He took her in his arms, and she did not resist. Rather, she raised her cold lips to his, and hated herself. But the Judas kiss was his, not hers—that tattered comfort.

"There is nothing in the world I would not do to make life a little more smooth for you," he saw saying. "If money could buy you happiness I would beggar myself!"

She smiled faintly at this. Here was a man ready to betray his gods. He had ruined Rex; he had always hated him. She remembered half-forgotten phrases of his, little irritated comments upon Rex's carelessness in financial matters.

He put her at arm's length and scrutinized her a little sadly. The pallor and the soft shadows beneath her eyes gave her an unearthly loveliness. "Naturally I've been worried sick. What a fool I was on the phone to talk of insurance—it was indecent. I just didn't know what to say—"

"Luke are you awfully rich?" She was always staggering him with questions like that.

"Why? Yes, I suppose I am. The bank isn't doing terribly well—on the trading side. We are meruhants as well, you know—but I have over half a million private fortune. I thought you knew."

She smiled faintly. "I have never asked you. I'm worried about—poverty. We have been poor—desperately. My father left us nothing, poor dear. It must be wonderful to be so rich—to have command of money—never to feel the frantic urge to go out and earn some thing."

He was regarding her in open eyed astonishment.

"But I never knew, my dear, how awful! I thought you had an income?"

She shook her head. This time she was not acting.

"If money will give you a sense of security, and of course it will, I'll—why, I'd give you control of every cent I have in the world."

He saw her incredulous smile and was angry with himself, as though in that gesture of unbelief he detected some reservation, some gesture of insincerity in his offer.

"Why not? Thousands of men put all their property in their wives' names. It's a sane thing to do—it keeps a man steady and it will make us really partners. Wait."

He was at the phone—as eager, as enthusiastic as a boy pursuing some new and delightful idea.

"Luke, is that your lawyer you're calling?"

Conscience overwhelmed her with a sudden fear; she realized for the first time the enormity of her treachery and was terrified.

"Yes, Hilton—it is Luke Maddison speaking. . . you had the draft of the antenuptial contract Well, include everything! You have the list of my securities? . . . Yes, all. And the cash in bank—everything. My interest in Maddison's . . . no, I'm not mad! "You are!"

She was standing by him now, her face was white as death. The words came tremulously. "You're mad, Luke—I didn't mean it."

WHEN CHILDREN Need a Laxative
"We have used Theford's Black-Draught in our family for nineteen years. I have found it of great help in raising my family."
"I have given it to all six of my children. Whenever they complain of upset stomach, or begin to look pale and sickly, I make a tea of Black-Draught and begin giving it to them. In a day or two they are all right."
"I give it to them for constipation, and my husband and I both take it. I always give it for colds in winter, for I believe a way to prevent them is to keep the system clean."

Industry Stimulator

Lord Charnston, British financier, on his recent trip to West Texas, said:

"There's no chance of comparing America and England. You have the cheapest power possible. Everybody can use it, whereas in England it can't be done. I pay 25 cents a kilowatt hour for electric service. It is impossible for all classes to have this convenience. For instance, in the agricultural areas, where laborers are paid 31 shillings a week, they could not afford to buy electric service."

"West Texas should be very thankful for cheap power and for its availability to all. Big power companies certainly are of great stimulation to Texas industry."

MERCHANT AND COMMUNITY

Do you realize how badly we would fare if our merchants had to go out of business and leave us dependent upon mail orders or stores miles away from home?

People are beginning to consider the fact that, after all, they owe a debt to their home merchants. The man who makes it possible for us to get what we want when we want it is entitled to consideration for the service he gladly renders his fellow citizens.

Now, since we are to work for the growth and welfare of ELDORADO, let us first support the merchant who plays such a vital part in the development of our community.

The man or woman who is not outspoken for his or her Home Town is against it. What attitude you take toward ELDORADO and its merchants has much to do with the reputation and standing of our community among our outside friends.

The merchant is needed to bring your town into its own.

SCHOOL NOTES

Celtic speaking tribes to the north and west of the island. The language of these Teutons was the low German language.

The English language is a direct development of the Anglo-Saxons. Now some people insist that English was always English and never was Anglo-Saxon. They call the English of the old times "Old English". It is now thought best by most good authorities to call it Anglo-Saxon instead of "Old English".

The English language has not been allowed to develop regularly and naturally as most languages have. The Norman Conquest was what caused the change in language. It produced a much more sudden and complete modification of the grammatical structure than would have been had the language developed gradually. The conquest also gave a composite character to the vocabulary of the language.

The immediate big result of the language of the Normans came the chief literary language of England. The conquest by the Normans was made in 1066.

The Saxons in the country that the Normans conquered used the Saxon language and the Norman rulers had a difficult time making them selves understand and in understanding the Saxons finally the Normans began to learn and use the language of the Saxons. Writers would use both the Norman and the Saxon language in writing so that the articles could be understood. In this way there was a gradual fusion of the two languages.

The Roman missionaries that converted the people of the island in 596 A. D. brought many new words and ideas to Britain with them. In this manner several Latin words were introduced into the language of the Century. Some of the Latin words introduced were: altar, mass, psalm, temple, kitchen, palm, pear, and tunic. Skeat says that there were one hundred and forty Latin words introduced.

In 1362 the rulers in England ordered that English be taught in schools. There were very few schools and few people had the opportunity to study English. The early part of what we now call the Middle English period was marked by many kinds of Confusion. All the early improvements that were important took place during this time.

At the present time there are very few monuments existing of the language that permits us to go much further back than the time of the great literary monarch King Alfred. We have records of a few writers further back than Alfred. They are: Bede, Caedmon, and Cynewolf. All these men wrote some very good literature.

Wherever Englishmen have gone they have absorbed into their language words describing local ideas and objects. In the early days of England many French words were used by the nobles, kings, and other persons of high ranks. In later times French words were very noticeable in the writings of Chancer and Gower. The English have always adopted words from every language to suit its purpose.

On up through the ages the English language has grown and developed until now both England and the United States speak good English. In the United States the same kind of English is spoken in every part, but in England the style is somewhat different in various parts. The English we use today is not what it should be perhaps. But we are doing everything possible to make it the best and we are leaving records of our language so that our descendants may see what our English language was and may profit by our mistakes.

BLIZZARDS

If there is anything I hate, it is a blizzard. At night the water pipes freeze, and you have to carry water. The wood on the woodpile has ice an inch thick on each stick, and your hands get red and raw from handling it. Each thing that happens during a blizzard is distasteful to me, no matter what it is.

In the morning when you wake up, the first thing I hear is dad calling brother.

"Morris, get up and build a fire."

Silence is the usual answer to that command.

Then, "Morris?"

There is a question to it, and Morris usually responds with a faint, "All right."

After a while, mamma gets up and calls "Bernice, Edith, you girls get up."

I will tell anyone who asks me that it is just "awful" to have to get up and dress in a cold room, but it has to be done, and I think that I would not mind it half so much if we did not have old cold blizzards half the time. Then when we go to the fire there is usually one little thin blaze rising, and we have to stand and shiver until we can get a fire built. My brother is entirely too delinquent in fire building, particularly on cold mornings.

If you want my opinion of blizzards, I will tell you, truthfully that I hate them!

Bernice Bricker.

The burning of the Art Gallery of Eldorado was a disaster to the people. It caught on fire by an electric wire, which had broken while in an electric storm. We fought fire as long as we thought we could save anything. We did not have anything to fight the fire with except buckets.

The most important thing that we wanted was the picture of Abraham Lincoln. It was in a very difficult corner to get to. The fire had started very close to where the picture was. The last we saw of it was to smoke going up over Abraham Lincoln face.

This picture was dear to every one. When the picture was burned everyone began to cry over the loss of this beautiful picture. This picture had been hanging in the Art Gallery for about seventy-five years. The loss of this picture was the disaster of the city.

The loss of this great picture turned the looks of the whole city. The people had always been visited by several thousand people every day. The people came from all over the world to see it. After it was burned Eldorado was the loneliest city in the world. This picture was painted by a notorious artist, who died a few years after the burning of the picture. This was Fred Williams, who in his early life sold hamburgers.

OUR LIBRARY

The patrons of the school know that we had two drives for library funds during the fall term. These were very successful and the funds are now being invested in new books for our library. Just now the librarians are busy in an attempt to find shelf-space for our latest additions.

The very sight of these books makes one want to read. The bindings are attractive and neat and look as if they would be serviceable. We, however, are more concerned with what is inside the covers. Although we haven't had time to read much yet, we know that these books will be entertaining and instructive, for they have been carefully selected.

Some of our new books are as follows:

"Vanity Fair" by Thackeray.

"Evangeline" by Longfellow.

"Hamlet" by Shakespeare.

"The Heart of Midlothian" by Scott.
