BOOKS

The United States has become the greatest nation of readers in the world. We read more newspapers and magazines than all the rest of the world put together, and now we are becoming the greatest book readers. Only Germany and Denmark print more books in proportion to population. And we are reading books of real value. This most popular book of the day is the most powerful argument against war ever penned. It is called in its English translation "All Quiet on the Western Front" its author, Erich Maria Remarque, served in the trenches with the German army. In America, England, France, as well as in Germany, it has outsold the most popular novels ever published. Next in popularity is a biography, "Henry VIII," by Francis Hackett.

TAFT
On the night of November 3rd, 1908, the telegraph operator at a temporary instrument set up on the back verandah of Charles P. Taft's home in Cincinnati received a dispatch reading "Bryan concedes Taft's election." He rushed into the great art gallery and shouted the news to the little group assembled there. Alice Roosevelt Longworth ran the full length of the big room, threw her arms around the neck of the President-elect and gave him a resounding smack. Her kiss was the first congratulatory gesture of the evening.

Everybody was invited to drink to the health of the host's distinguished brother. Will Taft hesitated. Then:
"I'll take water, Charlie," he said. "I think the President of the United States ought to set the example of temperance."

That was many years before Prohibition, but everybody present agreed and applauded the spirit which moved the new President. From then until the end of his term in the White House Mr. Taft never took a drink except an occasional glass of wine at state banquets.

CHURCHES
The Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America has for its purpose the effort to bring all of the various Christian denominations into cooperation for social service and to make common cause against the pagan spirit which denies the value of spiritual things. Against this materialism it is making surprising headway. Great leaders in business and industry and in the professions are joining the movement and pledging themselves to the maintenance of Christian standards in their business relations.

Sectarian lines are disappearing. The movement for the union of the Protestant Episcopal, Methodist Episcopal and Presbyterian churches into one great denomination is making headway. The Congregational and Christian (Disciples) churches have already united. All the signs of the times indicate an approaching great spiritual revival, with the various sects making common cause against the pagan materialism which has been infecting the youth of America ever since the war.

MORGAN
The name of J. P. Morgan is known all over the world as that of the world's greatest banker. Those who have never met him picture him as a cold, hard, unapproachable sort of super-human being. The town of Glen Cove, Long Island, where he lives knows him as a friendly, kindly

Rails Nearing Eldorado

The rails for the extension of the Santa Fe Railroad from San Angelo to Sonora are now within about five miles of Eldorado. The dreams of the old timers that tried very hard several years ago to get the Orient thru here are nearing a reality now. It will not be very long until the first whistle of the old Iron Horse will be heard in Eldorado. The Stock pens are being built north of Eldorado and will be completed in the near future. There will be another loading pen near by but the construction on these pens have not begun. The delay of the laying rails was held up for a few days on account of the rilling was getting along faster than the dump construction. The first work train will probably be in Eldorado by the tenth or fifteenth of March.

Reynolds School Puts On Bazaar

The Reynolds school which is under the instruction of Mrs. W. M. Davis had some beautiful little gifts that were made by the fifth and sixth grades on display at the H. W. Parker store last Saturday. These two grades which have only about six or seven pupils in them are planning an annual for this year and are working on several plans of defraying the expenses of this annual.

The Reynolds school has twenty two pupils and under the supervision of Mrs. Davis has organized two literary societies and put on programs each week. Quite a bit of enthusiasm comes from the different contests of these societies.

Considerable improvements are going on in the Reynolds district in a farming way as well as the school. There has been several new families moved in and quite a bit of new land is being put into cultivation. Seven or eight new windmills have been erected in sight of the school house since the opening of the school.

R. A. McDONALD LEASES HAYNE'S CONFECTIONERY

R. A. McDonald who has been employed in the Mund Barber for the past two years has leased the Haynes Confectionery for a period of one year. Mr. McDonald is well known in Eldorado and has made many friends in this section of the country. He is entering this business for the first time but from past experience in public work, he will make Eldorado a very progressive merchant.

He will carry a fresh line of fruits, vegetables, lunch goods, and a variety of candy, both box and assorted chocolates. Mr. McDonald says "his aim is to please at all times and give service equal to any business house in town."

MUCH TERRACING BEING DONE IN SCHLEICHER

Quite a number of the farmers in Schleicher County have begun terracing their land this week. In many places terracing is done to conserve the soil but in this section of the state is carried on for the preservation of water as the rain fall is lighter than in other sections. With a very small amount of rainfall and the work of terracing good crops can be raised each year. This county has been compared with other counties and crops can be raised on a smaller amount of rainfall than any other county in the state. Men that own farms in several counties give this estimate as their experience.

Those that have started terracing are, Bill Boothe, Hugh Mc Angus, Charlie Yancy, J. A. Ruff C. O. Bruton, George Wood and others are to start soon.

Terracing has been practiced for only a short while here and has proven successful on all the farms that have been terraced.

ANNOUNCES FOR CONGRESS

R. E. Thomason of El Paso was here this week and announces in this issue of the Success as a candidate for Congress from this district. He is the Mayor of El Paso and has been for three years. He was raised near Gainsville but has been in West Texas for 20 years. He was a member of the State Legislature for several years and for two years was Speaker of the House, being elected without opposition. He had many friends in this county in his race for Governor in 1920. Mr. Thomason feels that his experience in law, business and legislation has specially qualified him for this office. He knows the varied interests of the district and expects to fight for the live stock people and the farmers. He is for a tariff on wool, mohair and hides. He expects later on to make some speeches in this county giving his views on all public questions. Mr. Thomason was educated at Southwestern University, at Georgetown and at the State University. He is married and has two children.

RECEIVED SAD MESSAGE

Mrs. D. H. McCartney, received a message from Junction that her sister Mrs. Bailey had fallen and hurt herself from which she died Tuesday, February 18. Mrs. Bailey was 88 years old and frequently visited her sister here, or the two were the only ones left of their families. Mrs. McCartney is 83 years of age and did not attempt to attend the funeral. She is one of our oldest citizens and her many friends extend condolence in this her sad bereavement.

Charlie Watkins of Petersburg, Texas will begin a ten-day meeting Saturday night at the Church of Christ. You are invited to attend this meeting by order of the Church of Christ elders.

VOTES TO TAKE HUGE DROP THIS

COMING SATURDAY NIGHT

CONTESTANTS CALLING ON FRIENDS FOR HELP—WINNER, MAY BE DECIDED ON THIS WEEKS WORK—ADVERTISING NOW PLACED—FIVE YEAR SUBSCRIPTIONS BIG FACTOR

WARNING

If you think you're beaten, you are,
If you think you dare not, you don't.
If you'd like to win, but think you can't
It's almost a cinch you won't
If you think you're lost, you're lost;
For out of this world you'll find
Success begins with a fellow's will.
It's all in a state of mind.
It's just a matter of hours now.
Just a few more circuits of the minute hand and—TOO LATE!

If today and tomorrow pass without speedy action on your part the responsibility rest upon yourself.
Saturday night at 9:00 o'clock, not one minute after—marks the close of the "First Period," in The Success subscription campaign. After that time, and through out the remainder of the campaign there is a material decrease in the voting power of subscriptions.

As the clock ticks away the golden hours between now and Saturday night, those who avail themselves of the golden opportunity of this period and utilizes every minute of the remaining time to the best of his advantages will unquestionably be numbered among those who qualify in the finals for the major rewards.

In any event you can only lose by holding subscriptions now, and after the time for action has passed, all the regrets in the world won't undo what's been done. Now is the time to secure unsurmountable votes. Now is the time to make reasonably sure of the prize you most desire. The crucial test is now at hand. If you intend to do anything big in this race, do it now! Instead of being down in the line, get to the top and stay there. Never again will it be possible to secure the maximum number of votes on subscriptions.

This is the final warning. If you entertain any desire of being declared the winner of the $225.00 to be awarded on March 15 don't fail to turn in every available subscription to your credit before the close of the first period and don't forget the winner means an earning of $112.50 per week for the next two weeks. Don't throw away golden chances between now and Saturday night. Get every subscription you can. Every one counts toward winning the grand prize. Redouble your efforts during the remainder of the campaign because this may mean the winning of $225.00.

Don't stop to figure how many votes it will take to win for you will surely fail to get enough. Do not be afraid of having too many votes. It would be better to win by a million votes more than necessary than to get left by a few thousand.

Don't let this happen to you. You would never forgive yourself for the fatal error. There will be a cause for regret if you will heed expert advice and back it up with a goodly amount of subscriptions. At any rate this Saturday night will to a great extent tell the story. Your fate is in your own hands. We can help you only by telling you how. You can sweeten or embitter it yourself—your own subscription will count.

The "First Period" will end

Sewer System Discussed At Council Meeting

At a meeting of the local City Council held last Wednesday night it was voted to accept a proposal submitted by the Municipal Engineering Company of Dallas, Texas, whereby that concern will represent the city as engineers in preparing complete plans and estimate of cost relative to a modern system of sanitary sewers for Eldorado.

A representative of the Municipal Engineering Company met with the city officials and presented their proposal in detail together with credentials and references as to the ability and financial standing of the concern which were entirely satisfactory. The Company is by no means a stranger in this section, having built the sewers at Marfa, the water and sewers at Junction, the sewers at Coleman, the sewers, paving and water improvements at Cross Plains. The company has specialized exclusively in this character of work about thirty years during which period they have designed and supervised the construction of some three hundred projects in towns throughout the entire southwest.

In taking this action city officials appreciate the need of improving and extending our water system and also the completion of our railroad facilities before it will be practicable to take definite steps relative to the building of sewers. However, since it usually requires some four to six months before actual work can be begun on a project of this nature, it is believed that the other matters mentioned will be out of the way within that time.

The engineering will first make a complete instrumental survey of the town, including the compiling of an up to date map of the entire town on which all houses and buildings now existing will be shown. Based on the data thus obtained the company will then prepare a tentative design of the proposed sewer system which will be submitted to the council for their approval. When definite plans have been drafted and approved the company will prepare an estimate of cost which they will guarantee. Complete plans for the proposed work will be submitted to the citizens of Eldorado and every effort will be made whereby those interested in the project may be fully informed as to its value and benefits to our town.

FIRE RATE LOWERED IN ELDORADO

Statements showing that the loss ratio of Eldorado for the years 1927, 1928, and 1929 is .237 have been filed with, checked and approved by the Fire Insurance Department. Under the provisions for credit for good fire record in cities and towns shown on pages 27 and 28 of the 1922 edition of the Texas General Basis Schedules, this record entitles Eldorado to a credit of 15% which local agents are to deduct from the Final Premium on all POLICIES WRITTEN ON, OR AFTER, MARCH 1, 1930, TO FEBRUARY 28, 1931, ONLY, and covering property located within the corporate limits of Eldorado.

NOTE—POLICIES EFFECTIVE PRIOR TO MARCH 1, 1930, are not affected by the above credit unless a change in hazard of the individual risk occurs on or after March 1, 1930, and the rate on such risk is revised by printed Supplement. When a rate is revised by Supplement on account of change in hazard in a risk, existing policies may be adjusted to conform to the revised rate from date of Supplement to expiration of policy, and such a revision should take this credit into consideration.

This credit does not apply to policies written after February 28, 1931.

Lamb Show To Be Held At Fair Grounds Wednesday March 5th

The members of the 4-H Club who are feeding lambs for the Fat Stock Show will show their lambs at the Fair Grounds next Wednesday afternoon, March 5 at Four O'clock. All lambs should be there at this time. The Judges of this show will be from the Experiment Station, according to Mr. L. E. Sumner, County Agent.

There are 68 lambs that are being fed by the Club boys and in this bunch there are many of the most uniform lambs that can be found in many adjoining counties and are likely to be several of the lambs in the winning column at the Show at Fort Worth next week. The following boys are feeding lambs to enter, Johnnie Lueddecke, is feeding lambs furnished by Luke Thompson, Cecil Moore, Jess Koy lambs; Bill Sample, T. R. Henderson lambs; Louie Nolen, B. F. Nolen lambs; Thomas Richard Jones, Doc Kerr lambs; Frank Bradley Jr, John Rae lambs; Garth Clark, J. F. Runge lambs; Glenn Green and Jim Tom Roach, J. W. Lawhon lambs; Dee DeLong, D. E. DeLong lambs; Gene Koy, Jesse Koy lambs; Banning Wade, Hensel Matthews lambs; and Hollis McCormick a calf furnished by Don McCormick.

The heaviest lamb in the show from Eldorado weighs 123 pounds and several of the groups average a hundred pounds.

Mr. Sumner also stated that the lambs were to be taken to Fort Worth by truck and will probably be loaded out Wednesday night. It was thought of first that the transportation would be over the Santa Fe but G. B. Shoemaker has made a special rate for the boys and the trip will be made much easier.

Mr. Sumner added that all lambs should be brought to Eldorado wrapped in blankets, as they would have to go to the show this way and this would be a great help in keeping out the dust and dirt from the wool during the trip.

Interest In Eldorado Gin Sold

R. A. Hall of San Angelo who has been interested in the Eldorado Gin Co., for the past year has sold his three fourths interest to Mr. R. S. Crain and Son R. T. Crain of San Saba.

Mr. R. S. Crain has been engaged in the Ginning business for the past 25 years in San Saba County and his son also has been engaged in the business for the past six years in South Texas. With experience added to the experience of W. E. Cobb who operated the Gin last season will assure the farmers of a real service in the ginning of their crop this fall.

The management of the Gin will be in charge of Mr. R. T. Crain.

Conner Receives Order For Three Car Loads Of Horses From Old Mexico

O. E. Conner, of this City, received a letter Wednesday from Juan B. Avila, of Durango, Mexico, stating that the latter desired to purchase three car loads of Texas horses. Mr. Conner has been in communication with Senior Avila for some time.

According to the letter, the horses are desired for the Mexican Army and must be of solid colors, and of a certain height. It is expected that Senior Avila will be here inside of a week to oversee the purchase of the horses, for it is probable that they will be gathered from ranches over a wide area in the west.

When purchased, the buyers will probably ship via El Paso, thence to Durango, Mexico.

PREVENTION OF FIRE

By Bernice Bricker

All people should do something toward prevention of fire. It would not be right for us to go to our neighbors house and set fire to it, but we sometimes neglect our property until it does cause damage to our neighbors property.

Houses should be built to prevent fire from starting in them as well as they should be built to keep water out. Do not neglect your property and cause death of someone dear to you, but build your house to prevent fire. If you are careful of how you do things, that is no sign that everybody else is. A hired man or child could easily set fire to your house, and it would not be your fault.

Cellars of houses should be constructed of good material and only strong, substantial material should be used for building them. Concrete is not expensive so use it. Ceilings should be fitted tightly, and a piece of lumber or lath that backs half an meeting the top should not be considered a "good enough fit". If a piece of lumber does not go as far as intended, fortar, lime or plaster should be packed in the unfilled space. Metal laths are best for fitting on top of the wall to hold them firmly. Grid ers or posts made of wood should be creosoted to prevent worm-eating or rotting.

A cellar should be tightly sealed to prevent fires from spreading to the upper house.

All heating and lighting equipment should be well insulated to prevent fire from starting. Lumber should not be placed within five inches of a chimney or flue.

The outer walls of a house should really be built of brick. This is cheaper in the end, for brick will not burn, and it wears longer than other material.

The roofing used on a house should be tested to see if it is fire resisting before it is put on. Some types of roofing: tiles, slate, and special roofing have been tested and are the best roofing for a house. No material should be put on a house without being proven fire proof. If shingles are used at all, they should be dipped in creosote before being put on.

Stairways in case of fires, act as chimneys to spread fire from one story of a house to another. Stairs should be closed either at the bottom or the top, and additional fire stopping should be used. More than one stairway should be provided to prevent people on the upper floor of a house from being cut off in case of fire. Walls on the inside of a house should be plastered, and the floors should be made of substantial, fire-proof material. As little wooden material as possible should be used in constructing a house.

If everybody would build their houses with fire proof material, there would be less fires.

RESPONSIBILITY OF THE POLICY-HOLDER

By Kenneth Green

Many people go to their insurance agent to insure their property against fire. They sign the papers that are put before them, pay the required amount of money for the insurance and feel that their property is safe under all conditions. This is a serious mistake made by many who are called good business men.

One busy man insured his barn against fire. Late one afternoon, after he had heated water over an open fire near the barn to use in butchering his hogs, he noticed that the building was on fire. As the hired men began to run for buckets and water, he calmly remarked, "Let it burn; I've got it insured." The barn burned and the owner, after three or four days, went to his agent and demanded the money for the destroyed property. Upon being questioned under oath and before witnesses, he found that no money was coming to him. Yes, he thought he had the building insured, but he had not taken a few minutes to read and study his policy.

This man has many associates in the business world who fail to know the conditions of their insurance policies. The greatest responsibility of the insured is to read his policy carefully and know what it contains so that he will be more careful to prevent fires and save expense. The policy holder who does not know his policy causes great expense to himself in hiring a lawyer to help him get the insurance money, to the courts in considering the case, and to the insurance company in its own defense. Usually this kind of a man suffers great loss from fire because he seldom gets his insurance and has to bear the expense of his case in court.

Another great responsibility of the policyholder is to prevent as far as possible all destructive fires. He should encourage those about him in the prevention of fire. He should co-operate with all fire prevention societies. Every destructive fire decreases the assets of the property owner, the community, or the insurance company. It hurts the financial condition of the whole country. Several million dollars in the United States go into flames yearly. But fire does not stop its piercing teeth with the destruction of property. It takes the lives of about 15,000 human beings yearly in the United States, the value of which cannot be estimated. Some one must assume the responsibility of preventing and encouraging the prevention of fires. No one should feel this responsibility more than the policy holder.

Many great fires can be prevented by using the right kind of building material, destroying all rubbish in and near buildings, and using carefully, not abusing, all fires about buildings.

"A BARGAIN IN EVERY PURCHASE"

Miss Lucile Oglesby entertained six of her girl friends Thursday evening with a Valentine dinner party. Those present were: Margaret Bradley, Willie Ruth Nicks, Pauline Kent, Grace Ratliff, Pauline Rape, and Gusta V. Graves. All the girls had a wonderful time.

The ninth and eleventh grades have finished their themes on Fire Prevention. The ninth grade studied Fire Resisting Construction and the eleventh studied Fire Insurances. Both of these are important subjects and the students learned something worth while from the study.

PROGRESS MADE BY LEAGUE WORKERS

Entrants in the Interscholastic League work are progressing nicely, although as yet not so many have entered. That is, in literary events, but in athletics we can assure you that all the school is taking part.

Many boys from grammar school are coming out every evening and under the coaching of Mr. Redford are progressing splendidly.

We certainly want to comment Mr. Redford in his interest in the boys and in having them all work together.

Coach Smart reports that we have some good material in High School for practically every athletic event, and he has them out there every evening grinding them out.

The prospects for success in field events are good and in a short while we can tell you more about the literary events.

WHAT IF: Garland were a "Wreath?" Bruce became a "Spruce?" Dahlia Fae graduates this year? Helen Craddock bobbed her hair? Dixie fought? Lucile failed to jump in center? Garnette failed to primp? Luther Kent were sent to the office to pay his respects to Mr. Holt? Clemmie Mercer won the spelling contest?

Willie Ruth Nicks made a "B"? Frances Blew? J. A. Cates should mysteriously change back to a blonde? Bernice Bricker failed a course? Gusta V started wearing long dresses? Miss Orsborne were a blonde? Miss Bradshaw couldn't drive a Ford? Mr. Smart went to church accompanied by two young ladies? Vera should "Wade"?

FRESHMEN

Hollys Alexander little but loud, is a good worker on the newspaper staff and is also taking Extemporaneous Speaking. He is a good speaker and is improving with practice. The big thing about Hollys is that he is willing to try. This is what it takes to succeed in anything, just plenty of effort.

Claude Jeffres, class editor, is one of the best pupils in the Freshman Class. He is trying out for debate. The school is glad that these Freshmen are taking part in League work, for the Freshmen now will soon be upper classmen and the work of the school will depend upon them to a great extent.

CHRISTOVAL GIRLS DEFEAT ELDORADO GIRLS

The Eldorado Basketball team suffered its first defeat Friday at Christoval. The home team led the first quarter, but after that the Christoval team took the lead and kept it.

The Christoval Court was in very poor condition and the goals were absolutely no good. Every time the ball would hit the goal it would roll off.

The girls played a good game but could not beat Christoval. The game ended with Eldorado 18 and Christoval 30.

It is thought that Christoval will come here for a return game on Friday of this week. The girls expect to beat them then. Margaret Bradley, will likely be back on the team at that time.

MANY HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS

ENJOY BRIEF VACATION

Who says that women are not lucky? Most of the girls in high school have been down helping the nurse and have missed many long and hard classes. But what of the boys? They have been doing exactly what they do every day in the week sit in class and work.

It seems rather funny that the nurse should prefer girls. Most women prefer the opposite sex to assist them. Anyhow the girls missed several classes. Now I ask you, is this right? Why not give the poor boys a chance to loaf on the job?

PERSONALS

Miss Bradshaw spent the week end at her home in Abilene. Miss Allen visited at her home in Graham this week-end.

The Mark of Genuine Aspirin

BAYER ASPIRIN is like an old friend, tried and true. There can never be a satisfactory substitute for either one. Bayer Aspirin is genuine. It is the accepted antidote for pain. Its relief may always be relied on, whether used for the occasional headache, to head-off a cold, or for the more serious aches and pains from neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism or other ailments. It's easy to identify Bayer Aspirin by the Bayer Cross on every tablet, by the name Bayer on the box and the word genuine printed in red.

published in the nearest District to said 51st Judicial District, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Schleicher County, to be holden at the Court House thereof, in Eldorado, Texas, on the 2nd Monday in March A. D. 1930 the same being the 10th day of March A. D. 1930, then and there to answer Plaintiff's First Amended Original Petition, filed in said Court on the 28th day of January, 1930, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court as No. 426, wherein W. L. McWhorter and C. M. McWhorter are Plaintiffs, and H. W. Finley, Faye Finley, Joe Finley, Etta May Finley, Jim Hogg Finley, H. T. Finley, William Haskell Finley, Edmond Finley, Annie Pearl Finley, and H. W. Finley, Guardian of the Estate of Edmond Finley and Annie Pearl Finley, Minors, are Defendants, and said petition alleging Plaintiffs sue Defendant H. W. Finley for the full amount of the principal, interest, interest on past due interest and ten per cent attorney's fees averred to be due and unpaid on written promissory note signed by said Defendant, dated Sept. 24, 1928, due May 1, 1929, payable to the order of W. L. McWhorter, and C. M. McWhorter, for the principal sum of $1427.49, with ten per cent interest from date and on past due principal and interest from its maturity, interest payable annually, and containing provision for ten per cent attorney's fees if collected through any legal proceedings, and also for the principal accrued interest and interest on past due interest and ten per cent attorney's fees on a written promissory note dated August 15th, 1923, for the principal sum of $1243.00 with interest at ten per cent per annum from date, payable annually, past due interest bearing interest at ten per cent per annum, and likewise providing for ten per cent attorney's fees if placed in the hands of an attorney for collection, signed by H. W. Finley and payable to the order of W. L. McWhorter & Brother (who are these plaintiffs), and due Oct. 1, 1925; and for the further sum of $463.50 with 6% interest thereon from August 31, 1929, advanced by Plaintiffs at the special instance and request of said defendant to pay the past due interest due the State of Texas, on the hereinafter described section of land; and sues all of the defendants (the others being averred to be all of the children and heirs at law of Annie B. Finley, wife of defendant H. W. Finley who died intestate after the indebtedness which was alleged to be represented by said notes was incurred and which was a community debt) for the establishment and foreclosure of the following liens on and against the following land: the lien of a deed of trust of date August 15, 1923, recorded in Vol. 7, page 479, et. seq., Deed of Trust records of Schleicher County, Texas, upon all of Sec. 144, Block A, Cert. 74, H. E. & W. T. Ry. Co., Surveys in said county except 200 acres out of the N. E. corner, reserved as a homestead; the lien of a deed of trust dated Oct. 1, 1924, and recorded in Vol. 9, p. 471, of the Deed of Trust Records of said county, given by said H. W. Finley to secure the payment of said $1427.49 note above described upon his undivided half interest in the same identical 440 acres above-described; same being subject to the deed of trust lien first above-mentioned, the said indebtedness of $1427.49 being a renewal and extension of the first-mentioned indebtedness; the lien in favor of the State of Texas originally and to which the Plaintiffs are subrogated by reason of their payment of said indebtedness of $463.50 interest at the request of H. W. Finley against the whole of said Sec. 144, Plaintiffs allege that defendant H. W. Finley promised and became lawfully bound and obligated to pay said notes, according to their face and tenor, and promised expressly to pay said $463.50, but that though often requested he has failed and refused and still falls and refuses to pay same or any part thereof to their damages in the sum of $5,000.00. That whatever interest any of the other defendants have in said land being acquired by them as heirs at law of the community interest of their deceased mother in said land is subject to said indebtedness and liens and is charged therewith and is no obstacle to the foreclosure thereof. Plaintiffs pray for citation judgment for their said indebtedness and damages and the establishment and foreclosure of the said liens on said land securing the same as against all the defendants, for general and special, legal and equitable relief, and their costs. ("For a more particular statement of the nature of Plaintiffs' cause of action see Plaintiffs' Original Petition and First Amended Original Petition on file herein.")

Herein Fail Not, and have before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

GUNMAN'S BLUFF

Edgar Wallace
COPYRIGHT BY EDGAR WALLACE

SIXTH INSTALMENT

While they were talking Gunner Haynes was introduced. Morrell says her not to see him and when she insists, Morrell hides in another room. Haynes admits that he is a jewel thief and that he is just out of prison but Luke Madison had once tried to do him wrong and he wants to return if possible. He asks if Danton Morrell is a friend of hers and if her husband left her.

Now Go On With The Story

"I should be a little worse than impertinent. And yet, Mrs. Maddison, I have very deep interests in your husband's affairs. I have many bad qualities, but loyalty is not one of them. Your husband went out of his way to warn me, at a moment when he knew the police were coming to arrest me. If ever there was a white and wholesome man, that man is Luke Maddison. I ought not to have asked you the question and I could not very well expect a satisfactory answer. The only thing I am anxious to know is this: have you any idea where your husband is?"

"Do you wish to find him?" she challenged.

He shook his head. "No, but I'd like to know exactly where he is. I have a very special reason for asking this. Is he in London?"

She shook her head.

"He's in Spain at the moment but I'm afraid I cannot give you the address."

"Mr. Morell—is he in Spain?" pardon me, Mrs. Maddison, but if I have a reason for asking you the one question, I have a doubly important reason for asking the other. Morell is the kind of man that no decent woman should know—"

She walked to the table and pressed the little onyx bell push. This time he smiled.

"That means you're going to turn me out and I don't blame you. I'm afraid I've blundered this interview, which I intended should be very discreet and diplomatic. I particularly wished to know where Mr. Maddison was—"

"I have told you," she said, as the maid appeared in the doorway.

"As far as Danty Morell is concerned—" he began.

Her hand pointed to the door. "I am not prepared to discuss my friends—even with the criminal acquaintances of my husband," she said, and she heard him chuckling as he went down the stairs as though at a very good joke.

Margaret walked slowly along the asphalt path. As she did so she saw a car coming slowly along the tan on the other side of the road. It was an electric brougham containing two people: a beautiful-looking girl, fashionably dressed; by her side his face half hidden under a broad-brimmed Stetson hat, a bearded man of striking appearance. Ahead of her was walking a stout-looking man, and by his side a rather pretty girl. As she over-took them she heard the stout man say:

"Take a look at that swell woman! That's Jean Gurlay—the biggest crook in London, my dear."

Those ahead of her she recognized as the Sparrow and his companion, and, not wishing to be seen by them, sat down on a garden seat, her eyes following curiously the electric brougham. She saw the machine turn at the Marble Arch and come slowly along by the side of the curb, and she watched with a detached interest the beautiful girl and the bearded man, whose head was turned toward his companion. As they passed she heard the man say:

"This is all very mysterious. What does it mean?"

In an instant she was on her feet, pale and shaking; she had recognized the voice of the bearded man. It was her husband.

In the interest of his new, strange life, Luke found it fairly easy to forget. The spirit of adventure was on him. Margaret belonged to a dim, almost unbelievable, past. She was of the substance of dreams.

He went gaily to a rendezvous with a fair-haired girl on the following afternoon, and was delighted to find how springy was step. He had hardly taken his place in front of the Guards Memorial when he saw an electric brougham approach and, catching the girl's signal, stepped to the side of the road as the car stopped.

She was in excellent spirits.

"It's a great idea to let yourself be seen in a certain kind of car," she said. "You don't know what I mean? I'll bet you don't!"

They crossed into Hyde Park, made a slow progress near the edge of the sidewalk, and he found himself enjoying the novel experience. She was pretty, though older than he had thought.

"Do you see that fat man over there? That's the Sparrow. You want to keep away from him."

He started at the name.

"You mean Bird?" he stammered, and looked guiltily in the direction she indicated.

He saw Mr. Bird. He was walking with a very pretty girl, but the woman who was at that moment seating herself on one of the park benches he did not recognize.

As the brougham turned and came back on the other side of the road, she said suddenly:

"There will be a car waiting near the Cavalry Barracks. I hope you can drive?"

"Another car?" he asked in astonishment.

She nodded.

"I want to try you out."

He laughed.

"All this is very mysterious," he said.

The car was waiting for them, a closed light car of English make. There was nobody in attendance, but without hesitation she stopped the brougham and gave the driver instructions.

"Here it is," she said. "Get in."

Luke sank into the driver's seat and put his foot on the self-starter, and she came in after him, slamming the little door behind her.

"Grafton Street," she said, in a business like tone. "Pull up opposite the Rean Club."

He thought she was testing his driving ability, for he had to pass through three traffic blicks before he brought the machine to a standstill at a place she indicated.

"Now you understand," she said, dropping her voice and speaking rapidly, "I'm going in to see my husband."

She looked straight in the eyes.

"If he makes a fuss I shall expect you to help me. If he doesn't make a fuss, we'll drive quietly away down Albemarle Street, make for Vauxhall Bridge and Tooting Common."

"Your husband?" he stammered.

She gave him one quick look of suspicion.

"That is what you tell the flattie if there is any fuss."

What a flattie she did not explain, and was gone before he could ask her. He kept the engine running according to her instructions. She was gone some twenty minutes. Presently looking out, he saw her turn the corner from Bond Street and walk with apparent unconcern toward him. As she stepped in to the car, a man in his shirt-sleeves darted around the corner few at her and gripped her by the arm. She tried to wrench herself free, and before Luke realized what he was doing he had struck her assailant and sent him tumbling to the pavement.

"Drive!" she snapped, and mechanically Luke Maddison sent the machine leaping forward.

They crossed Oxford, down St James's Street through the park, and were over Vauxhall Bridge before he partly realized what had happened.

"Why did that fellow grab you?" he asked.

"My husband—I had a row with him," she said calmly. And then: "I knew Connor was wrong," she said, and whistled. "If I hadn't had my wits about me and started that husband story, I'd have been half-way to Holloway!"

He saw her look at every policeman they passed, out of the corner of her eye, and his heart was beating faster as they came to the edge of Tooting Common, and at her command he stopped the car.

"We'll get out here," she said.

"You can go back by bus, I'll take a taxi. If Connor comes to-night, tell him I've got the stuff."

She turned to go, but he caught her by the arm.

"What stuff?" he asked sternly.

And then he saw the kat case she carried under her leather coat.

"My God! gasped Luke Maddison. 'You stole that!'"

There was amusement in her fine eyes as she nodded.

"Of course I did, you poor simp."

A taxicab was passing and she hailed it. Slowly his grip on her arm relaxed. He watched the taxi recede like a man in a dream, too stunned even to think he could never remember that journey back to Lambeth. He had crossed Westminster Bridge when he saw a newsboy with a placard: "Daring West End Robbery." He stood dead still, gazing openmouthed at the contents bill, and then he felt in his pocket and dropped a penny from his trembling hand into the newsboy's palm.

He dared not look inside the newspaper until he was in a quiet street. Then he read: "DARING WEST END ROBBERY"

Bearded Man and Pretty Girl Rob Taffany's of $20,000 Diamond Necklace

A daring robbery was committed this afternoon at Messrs.

Taffany's jewel shop in Bond Street. At about 3:50 a well-dressed woman walked into the shop and asked to be shown some plain gold rings. Whilst the assistant's back was turned she must have broken a glass with a rubberhammer. When he came back he found not only the woman but a valuable diamond necklace had disappeared. He flew out into the street and overtook the woman as she was entering a motor car. He was immediately struck down by her companion, who is described as a man of great height, with a fair, well-trimmed beard, dressed in a gray tweed suit. . . . "That's me," groaned Luke Maddison, and almost swooned.

For a quarter of an hour he sat and watched his tea growing cold, his mind vacillating between horror and amusement. He, Luke Maddison, was a thief, a gangster, an active member of an organization which had robbed Taffany's! He knew Taffany's rather well; he had bought Margaret's engagement ring over the very glass counter that had been smashed. He was helpless—the idea of going to the police and betraying his associates never occurred to him. There was only one thing to be done and that was to steal away at the first opportunity. He had written for his check book to be sent to Ronda, and it was a simple matter to reach Spain. Was it, though?

With a gasp he realized that he had no passport! And without a passport it was impossible to reach Spain, of all countries, where every man and woman who passed across the frontier were closely scrutinized. If he had not dismissed his servant it would be easy to creep back to his flat one night, pack a bag, and fade away into a Continental limbo. But probably his solicitor had the key of the flat. A new hope awakened. Hulbert had an apartment in St. James's Street. He was a bachelor and accessible.

How Big Is Your Town?

POPULATION figures have lost their significance as a measure of the importance of communities. Today, towns are valued not so much by the number of inhabitants they house but rather by the productive power of the community as a whole. The productivity of a community is largely determined by the available power supply.

On this basis, the communities in the territory served by this company may compete favorably with the large metropolitan centers, for these communities today are equipped with improved transportation facilities and an ample and economical electric power supply.

Interconnection of the electric generating and transmitting equipment of this company provides a broad, ample pool of power for industrial, commercial and domestic use. On the firm base of this power pool the future growth and development of these communities is based.

FIRE INSURANCE RATE REDUCED IN ELDORADO

Mayor Fred O. Green has recently received a letter from the Texas Fire Insurance Department at Austin to the effect that the key rate in fire insurance for Eldorado has been reduced fifteen (15) per cent. The reason for this was the low fire records for Eldorado during the past three years.

The farmers and ranchmen are living in hope of a rain. With the warm weather we have been enjoying, a small amount of rain would certainly do a great deal of good in bringing up the weeds for the stock and insuring the farmers of a good season with which to start their spring planting.

MEETING CLOSSES

The Presbyterian meeting which was conducted for one week in Eldorado ended Sunday night. The Rev. B. B. Hester, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Sterling City, did the preaching and Mr. A. W. ELDORADO MASONS HOLD WASHINGTON BIRTHDAY MEETING

The Eldorado Masonic Lodge held their Washington Birthday memorial program at the local Masonic hall on the evening of February 24th, with a large crowd present. The principal speaker for the evening was the Hon. Pat Murphy, of San Angelo who traced the work of Washington as a general, as an executive, as a man and as a mason. He also traced the history of the Masonic Lodge in the United States. The Reverend M. M. Fulmer, of Ozona, who was also to be one of the speakers for the occasion was unable to attend. Short talks were also made by Mr. E. D. Cox, of San Angelo, Mr. Joe Logan, of Sonora, Rev. L. D. Hardt, of Eldorado and Mr. Ervin Mund, of Eldorado. Another interesting feature of the program was a reading by Mrs. Jarvis.

Among the visitors present were: Mr. and Mrs. Joe Logan, Sonora; Mr. and Mrs. Davis, Sonora; Mr. Bob Glasscock and Mr. C. E. Stites, of Sonora; Mr. and Mrs. Pat Murphy, and Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Cox, of San Angelo; Mr and Mrs. Jarvis, Shell Pipe Line Station; and others.

After the program refreshments, consisting of sandwiches potato chips, olives, cake and coffee were served to about seventy-five masons and their wives.

Mrs. J. T. Bowman, who has been employed at the Evans Commission company for the past year, has resigned her position. Mrs. Bowman's resignation was not unexpected, but her desire to oversee the building of their new home in the Glendale addition was given as the cause. The Evans Commission Company were reluctant to accept Mrs. Bowman's resignation for she has proven an apt and willing worker, and has kept the routine of the office work speeded up.

HONESTY IN BUSINESS

I graduated from college when making was in its greatest glory.

The magazines and newspapers and reformers had filled our youthful minds with so much convincing information that we hardly knew whether the world was a safe place for us to step out into or not.

We looked askance on all the fellows in college whose fathers had made money. To be sure, the fathers seemed decent enough old codgers when they visited us at the fraternity house. But we felt that something was dark and bad in their past somewhere.

A business man was a being without conscience or intelligence, like a slot-machine. You gave him a nickle and he gave you a nickle's worth of goods.

If he took your nickle and withheld the goods, then he was a successful business man.

We know better now. In fact, I believe it could be shown that the greatest force for righteousness in the United States today is nothing more nor less than the once maligned BUSINESS.

Business is the greatest ally and promoter of Honesty. And more and more I have come to feel that Honesty is, after all, the corner-stone of all the virtues.

Nothing has impressed me more than this: Get to the top of a big business enterprise, and nine times out of ten you will find an idealist.

You will find a man who has long since ceased to be interested in mere money-making who is staying in business because of what he wants his business to do for his employee, his community, and his country.

I do not say that Business is perfect. Far from it.

But I do say that the time is past when the young man who goes into business needs to feel that he is making a selfish choice—a choice that cuts him off from service to his fellow men.

"Be not slothful in business," said St. Paul, "fervent in spirit; serving the Lord."

Many a man, building a big business in America, has, as a by-product of his building, strengthened the character and lifted the ideals of hundreds of his associates, and helped in the regeneration of a whole community.

And the number of such men—the idealists of BUSINESS in America—is increasing very fast.

Today and Tomorrow—

neighbor. The Glen Cove Chamber of Commerce has just elected him its first honorary member. "Mr. Morgan has endeared himself to his fellow-townsmen by the keen interest he has shown in civic matters," said the president of the Chamber. "He has been an active member for ten years and always the first to pay his dues."

CORN

The Indians grew corn for thousands of years before the white man came to America. American farmers have been growing it for three hundred years. Still we have not learned everything about corn. Dr. Donald Jones of the Connecticut Experiment Station tried crossing a leaming dent corn with a Canada flint, and has produced a new variety, Canada-leaming, which ripens in 110 days, thus enabling Northern farmers to harvest their corn and fill their silos before September frosts.

Corn is our greatest crop and America's most useful contribution to the world's food supply. Converted into pork, it is the base of our principal meat food; we eat much more pork than we do beef. Such a discovery as Dr. Jones' means more to national prosperity than a dozen new steel mills.

BANKERS REPORT DROP IN SAVINGS

Lure of Stock Market Partly to Blame, but Slackened Speculation Expected to Bring Return to Thrift.

The first recession in the nation's savings account in banks in the twenty years during which records in this field have been kept by the American Bankers Association was disclosed for last year in the recent annual compilation prepared by its Savings Bank Division. The shrinkage amounted to over $195,000,000, on the basis of figures for the year ending June 30, 1929, whereas a year earlier the reported increase was over $2,300,000,000, the largest ever recorded. The number of savings depositors also decreased during the year covered by more than 500,000 accounts. The lure of the stock market and affiliated activities are cited as part of the explanation for these changes.

The association's statement says that savings deposits in banks and trust companies of continental United States on June 30, 1929, stood at $28,217,656,000. The recession in savings, it declares, indicates a fundamental change in the savings situation, irrespective of whether it is temporary or not.

How Savings Used to Grow
"In 1928 savings deposits increased $1,562,000,000, in 1927 almost $1,400,000,000 and in 1926 over $2,300,000,000," it says. "It appears now that some influences in one year have taken the gain that might reasonably have been expected in savings deposits for 1929 and lowered them from the high mark of the preceding year. This recession is not one coming as a result of drought, famine, unemployment or conditions outside of the United States."

"A year ago it was stated: 'The year closing June 30, 1928, registered the largest gain in savings deposits in banks and trust companies of continental United States ever recorded in the history of this country.' What a difference one year makes! From a gain of more than 2 1/2 billions of dollars in savings deposits to a loss of almost 200 millions!

"The loss in savings deposits is reflected also in the loss of savings depositors. The year 1929 showed a total of 52,664,127 depositors, against 53,138,348 for 1928, a loss of 524,221."

"Industrial production was much higher last year than the preceding year. Factory payrolls were considerably greater. In production, employment and trade, advances were made over the preceding year. In the farm areas the improvement noted for 1928 did not recede in 1929 and the livestock industry in all its branches was prosperous."

The Causes of the Drop
"The causes of the recession are possibly multiple. There is scarcely any reason to doubt that one of the important factors draining away savings and decreasing depositors has been the lure of profits to be made in stocks. For a number of years the people have been regaled with stories of profits made in stocks in all types of companies. During the last few years there has been a specious philosophy preached that panics such as formerly occurred were no longer possible.

"If it was the lure of profits in stocks which caused the recession in savings, then a factor in future savings will be the success attendant upon this venture of savings depositors in stocks. If the experiment did not prove generally successful, then another year will doubtless witness an increase in savings deposits as well as in savings depositors."

HELPING YOUNG FOLK TO BECOME BANKERS

Through the American Institute of Banking, which is the American Bankers Association's educational center, the banking profession is educating 35,000 bank men and women in the technical and scientific departments of their work. These students are enabled by this institute, which is entirely non-commercial in its operations, to obtain a grasp of the finer points of banking without interrupting their employment or interfering with their earnings, in their bank jobs.

The courses given, including banking economics and law and bank administration in all the departments, have been worked out under the direction of senior college educators and the lectures are always given by practical men, such as lawyers in the legal courses, experts in banking operations and college professors in the economics courses. There are chapters with meeting rooms in over 200 cities and also a number of smaller study groups are fostered with correspondence aid.

It has been said that the A. I. B., as it is familiarly known throughout the banking field, is the greatest adult educational organization in the world and is supplying the banking business with the largest supply of trained workers each year that any comparable line of business is receiving. The organization holds an annual convention attended by hundreds of young bank workers as well as senior bank officers actively interested in furthering the institute's educational work, at which numerous technical subjects of practical banking application are presented and discussed. This year's convention will be held at Denver, Colorado, June 16 to 20.

GOOD PLAYGROUNDS FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS

By Lorene Shoemaker

In the schools of today the need of good play grounds is becoming more and more essential. Small, growing school children shut up in the house all day or at least the biggest part of the day need all the exercise during their recesses and noon periods they can get. If the playground is not equipped with various things for amusement the child does not get the proper enjoyment out of playing and does not get the needed amount of exercise.

In a large school where there are many children the majority of them want to play at recesses and noons. If there are just a few play things on the playground they all can't enjoy these things and have to seek amusement as best they can. This is not fair to the students and they should have a well equipped playground with amusements enough for all.

March 2nd is a date which we should not forget. Just ninety four years ago upon that date Texas declared herself independent of Mexico. As loyal Texans we should remember the day and what it has meant to Texas. The students of the University of Texas long ago instituted the custom of observing it as a holiday. They obtained this night only by rebellion against the authorities, but they still have it. Now Texas-Exes all over the world observe it by meeting together. Why should not all Texans remember the date and why should we not observe it?

Miss Moore spoke to the high school students Monday morning. She stated that health should be the first object of each boy and girl. Food was named as the first essential to health; one must have a balanced diet and eat regularly and slowly to have good health. Cleanliness and posture were other items named in the pursuit of health. She urged the students to hold the ideal of service before themselves and to cultivate their minds, bodies, and souls with this end in view. The students enjoyed the talk very much and hope that she will address them again before she leaves.

The Junior English class is now studying journalism. We hope to obtain some good material from their class exercises in writing news stories and editorial. The knowledge the students gain should be practical as they are studying newspaper and magazines at first hand in an effort to understand something of their make-up and contents.

Six week's reports will be given out this week. There seems to have been a general "slump" in the students interest and so of course in grades this term, but that is no reason that we should continue so. It is to be hoped that everyone will begin work with renewed energy this week, for school will soon be out and we certainly don't want so many failures.

CHAPEL PROGRAM

The entire student body marched to the auditorium Wednesday morning for the chapel program which was to be rendered by Miss Lee's class. Her excellent program showed that she had worked both diligently and faithfully with her small pupils. Little Mr. Hop Ashmore Jr. did the announcing. Mr. Holt commended him for his announcing. The first number was rendered by Rosalind Jones. She sang and played her own accompaniment. Speeches and plays followed this. Little B. F. Jones also sang a song. A number was a song entitled "Scatter Sunshine" by a group of girls.

After seeing this program the students were thoroughly convinced that they would have to work pretty hard if they were successful in "putting the first graders in the shade."

The time has about arrived for the public speaking students to another program. They are planning to give three. Look out for them!

QUESTION FOR DEBATE

There are several debating teams in High School this year. Last year no debating team represented this school at the county or district meet.

The question for debate this year is: "Resolved, That The Sterling Plan for Financing a State Highway in Texas Should be Adopted." This is a question which people all over Texas are deeply concerned with.

Briefly "The Sterling Plan" is a plan to issue $350,000,000 worth of serial bonds to build highways, $350,000,000 to be paid to counties in proposition to roads already built, $3,000,000 to be used in highway building over a period of twelve years. The plan further provides for payment of bonds and interest by means of a state gasoline tax. The three big things "The Sterling Plan" will do is (1) to put 17,000 to 20,000 miles of hard surfaced road in Texas in a short time, (2) that the system will be completed under a policy of state initiative, (3) that the users of the road will bear the cost.

The question of highway financing as I have said before, is a good showing this year.

one which every person in Texas should take interest. A good way to find out more about this plan is to hear the debates given by debaters of Eldorado High School and of other High School.

BROTHERS HESTER AND BROTHER DAVIS VISITS SCHOOL

The whole school was assembled Friday morning to hear an address delivered by Brother Hester who is holding a religious services at the Presbyterian Church.

Brother Hester made a very interesting talk about placing emphasis in the right place in life and in words.

He said that in a few years the boys would be falling in love and proposing to some fair maid and that the young man should place the emphasis on the right word.

The most important place to place emphasis, however, is on the good things of life. Brother Hester told how most of the young people of today are running after the things that glitter and shine and are leaving the real worth while things behind in their made search for pleasure and the false things of life. It is well to remember that "all that glitters is not gold". The whole student body enjoyed the talk very much and cordially invites Brother Hester to visit the school at any time he can.

Brother Davis also gave a short talk and a prayer. After the prayer all pupils marched back to classes and the daily routine of labor followed.

THE TRACK MEET

All the neighboring towns are to go to Sonora soon for the annual track meet. As everyone knows Eldorado won the cup there last year and there is no reason why we should not keep it. It is true that some of our men have graduated, but with new material from the grammar school we should be able to make a good showing this year. The meet is divided into two divisions, Juniors, for boys under fifteen years of age last September and Seniors for boys about that age. All contestants must be passing their school work to be allowed to compete. So the boys who are behind had better get busy if they want to be "O. K." for the meet.

Physics Class Shows Great Improvements

Due to the patient work of Mr. Smart, the physics class has reduced its number of failures from the entire class to none in four months.

During the first few weeks of school, the physics class appeared as if it was going to be complete failure. Everyone in the class was failing.

Mr. Smart immediately began working but it seemed that no good was being done. No one would study and for that reason the class was still failing.

About the middle of the second six weeks term, Mr. Smart work began to show up and at the end of the term, ten students were passing.

With new courage, Mr. Smart began with a greater determination to have an "A-1" class.

At the end of the first semester there were only five failures in the entire class. The first six weeks term of the second semester has ended and Mr. Smart repeats that there is not single failure in his entire physics class.

If this improving continues it is evident an "A" class he will have by the end of school.

REASSURE A MOTHER

By Bruce Barton

A mother writes me about her son's reading. Among other things, she says:

"In spite of all I can do or say, he insists on reading stories. How can I correct this habit?"

Frankly, madam, I do not know.

It is about as easy to cure a boy of eating as it is to destroy his love for good stories.

Centuries before there was any writing, story-tellers drifted about from village to village, gathering the people together and telling them stories.

The love of fiction is as old as that—older than recorded history, older even than civilization. It can not be rooted out: its roots run back too far.

And why should you want to root it out?

The greatest Teacher that ever lived spent half His time telling stories to His disciples. "Without a parable (a story) He taught them nothing." These stories have transformed humanity.

One great story written in our own country, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," so stirred men's hearts that they said, "Slavery must go."

Good stories will not hurt your boy: they may if he is the right kind of boy, inspire him to real achievement.

And they will do something else for him, equally important. They will develop his imagination.

We have too little regard for the high value of the imagination, we Americans. We are too matter-of-fact. We forget that all great inventions, all great discoveries, all great some achievements in science or business, came to pass because some man first had imagination enough to conceive them.

Many men have been hit on the head by a falling apple. Newton when the apple hit him, had imagination enough to formulate the law of gravitation.

Many men have been burned by their wives' tea-kettles. Watt had imagination enough to conceive the steam-engine.

Look through the pages of his story, and you will discover that the leaders of men have been those who could dream great dreams and carry them out—the men of powerful, intelligent imagination.

Because this is true, the editor of a magazine that prints stories has a responsibility that he must take seriously if he is any sort of man at all. He is intrusted with the duty of stimulating the imagination of thousands of children of mothers like you.

He may, if he choose, publish stories whose appeal is to the baser side of the imagination—and even achieve a certain sort of circulation increase for his magazine by so doing. Or he may regard every mother among his readers as if she were his own mother, and every mother's son as a younger brother.

You need not concern yourself because your boy likes stories, but are the stories he reads the right kind of stories—do they appeal to his imagination on its best and highest side?

That is the important question for you.
