BE GENTLE.
SUPERIOR PEOPLE.
LETTERS.

People are needlessly mean to each other. We would all be better off if gentler in our manners. Occasionally a man must be rough, but as a very general rule gentleness is easier than a fight.

"The real fool is he who does not know himself," said Oscar Wilde. — I have always believed everyone knows himself, and lies when he says he does not.

Those odd persons who believe they are superior to the plain people, and struggle unsuccessfully for years to prove it have a very poor opinion of us. Their formula of abuse is always about the same. One of them lately wrote: "Another eager human soul on the threshold longed to find some suitable high work in the world, all unwitting of the fact that ideal strivings are everywhere despised and discouraged." — Clarence Whistler, a real Art man who could at least paint pictures which sold readily, and afforded him a living, said there never was an artist period; never an art-living nation.

I have observed that the more lenient the world is with criminals, the bolder and more impudent criminals become.

In reading I often encounter letters from famous people. They usually are dull, though exploited by the magazines or news paper in which I see them— Letters have not been marked in my life as a means of imparting wisdom. I find conversation more valuable. A large per cent of it is foolish, but in the steady stream a jewel is frequently encountered. My objection to print is that it is monotonous big talk from persons on parade trying to attract favor by flattering the prejudices of prejudiced persons. — It is in conversation one finds real opinions.

Oscar Wilde, most tremendous of critics of plain people, once made an admission I thought surprising. He wrote: "One who is entirely ignorant of the modes of Art in its revelation, or the moods of thought in its progress of the pomp of the Latin line, or the richer music of the vowel-ed Greek; of the Tuscan sculpture or Elizabethan sing, may yet be full if the very sweetest wisdom." Most of the really important things in the world have been accomplished by men who knew nothing of Tuscan sculpture, vowel-ed Greek or Latin line.

A Circus-Party

A Circus party was enjoyed by about thirty-five members of the Presbyterian Sunday School and Church on last Friday night. The Rev. Guy Davis coming out for the occasion. Decorations were of balloons and brightly colored crepe paper, and features of the evening included the Merry-Go-Round, Weaver's Relay, Animal Hunt, and a peanut hunt that ended with a feeding of the monkeys. Not the least enjoyable of the stunts were the three ring circus performances. The boys and girls staged a huge rattle snake; another group, monkeys; and the third performance was by the elephant, Mr. Tom Jones. Under the direction of Mrs. George Williams, delightful refreshments of cake, sandwiches, and cocoa were served. The closing number of the party was the familiar song "I Went to the Animal Fair", after which all joined hands and sang one verse of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" and the Rev. Davis dismissed us with prayer.

BRIDGE PARTY

Mrs. Luke Thompson entertained the Eldorado Bridge Club Wednesday November 27, with 2 tables of Bridge. After playing five hands of Bridge High score prize was awarded Mrs. H. T. Finley.

High School Museum Receives Souvenir Of Timber Removed From The White House After 112 Years Of Service

The Eldorado High School Historical Museum has just obtained from the National Lumber Manufacturing Association, Washington, D. C., an interesting souvenir of historical interest in the form of a block of wood made from the timbers of the wood trusses which were removed from the roof of the White House at the time it was remodeled two years ago. The block will be placed with the historical collections of the school and kept as a permanent display at the school.

In 1814, the British soldiers with their flaming torches came thronging up Pennsylvania Avenue and burned the White House the fire destroying the interior and seriously damaging some of the masonry. President Madison and his wife, Dolly, made a dramatic departure from the Executive Mansion, fleeing up the avenue just ahead of the British. Soon after the fire the reconstruction of the White House was begun, the new roof being held in place by sturdy wooden trusses. When the old roof was removed, in 1927, it was found that practically all the wood was sound and strong after 112 years of use.

Miscellaneous pieces of the old timber have been sold at auction and a number of patriotic and historical societies have bought large pieces of the old trusses. The old hand-wrought nails of our forefathers days, used in holding the timbers together, today rusty, bent, and showing signs of having yielded to time, are now being eagerly sought as souvenirs.

The Eldorado High School is attracting quite a bit of attention from visitors from other parts of the state. Many relics of great interest are being collected a museum which is donated and loaned to the collection. A room in the school building is partially set aside for this museum. The acquisition of the souvenir timber of the roof of the old White House is considered an important addition to the museum.

Oliver — Buie

Mr. Otis Buie and Miss Tommy Dee Oliver were united in marriage at the Methodist Church in Eldorado on Friday afternoon at six o'clock, p. m. The Reverend L. D. Hardt, pastor of the Methodist Church, officiated. The relatives and a few of the friends of the couple were present at the ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Polk Oliver and is a member of a well known and prominent family of Schleicher County, having been reared on a ranch near Eldorado. She has attended the University of Texas and has taught in the schools of the county for three sessions. Recently she has been engaged in teaching the Cliff school, southeast of Eldorado. Mr. Buie is a prominent young ranchman and is well known in this section. The young couple will make their home on the Buie ranch a few miles from Eldorado.

Worker's Council Organized

The officers and teachers of the Presbyterian Sunday School were organized into a worker's Council on Thursday afternoon November 14. The Council will meet the first Sunday afternoon of each month to discuss the work and problems of the Sunday School. The members of the Council include; Mr. Sam Jones, Superintendent; Mrs. Lewis Stockton, Beginner Teacher; Mrs. Lewis Whitten, Primary Teacher; Mrs. W. B. Cobb, Junior Teacher; Mrs. Joe Edens, Young People's Teacher; and Mrs. Georg Williams, Bible Class Teacher. Members of the Council should take note of the fact that Sunday afternoon, December 1, is time for the regular meeting and plan to be present.

The devotional was led by Miss Martha Taylor reading from Matthew 24. Roll call of the members and reports followed. The only item of old business considered was White Cross Work. It was voted to make bandages at the next meeting. Mrs. Joe Edens was appointed by the president, Mrs. S. W. Holland, to conduct the Hime Mission Study Book, "The Crowded Way" by Sears. The first lesson will be given next time. Mrs. Leslie Baker was made chairman of a committee to investigate plans for setting out shubbery and beautifying the Church lawn. Mrs. Bert Page presented the Auxiliary work this year by a poster of the church. The completed church means that all goals are reached and it is the desire of the Auxiliary members to complete every goal. Plans were also made to serve the Lions a turkey dinner next week, and incidentally the Auxiliary will sell dinners to others wanting them. The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Holland. Mrs. Frank Bradley and Mrs. Leslie Baker as hostesses served a lovely plate to those present.

REAPING PROSPERITY

PROSPERITY does not come of itself. It is always the result of a background of earnest effort, painstaking development and whole-hearted cooperation. To reap prosperity it is necessary to plant the seeds of prosperity by engaging in our pursuits on a high ethical plane and in a true spirit of brotherhood.

Competition has given way to cooperation. The merchants affixing their names to this declaration are in accord with that principle. We envision a greater town, more advanced and more prosperous, as the outcome of this era of cooperative activity.

PRESS AND SCHOOL IN EDUCATION

Every day 24,000,000 American children attend school. Every day 40,000,000 newspapers go to American readers. Every contact of school or press shapes opinion closer to the sharp line of truth. There are no other institutions in the world that can compare with these two in power and influence.

The school takes the mind while it is plastic. It bestows upon the child a knowledge of the best that the race has learned in the age-long school of experience. The press builds upon these fundamentals the towers of opinions that shape the skyline of today's world.

Back of these two great educational institutions are 23,000 editors and 800,000 school teachers. Their services are so closely akin that only blindness could be responsible for a lack of mutual understanding and accord.

The interdependence of press and school is widely recognized. Particularly has the press come to the aid of the school whenever the efficiency of its service has been threatened by close-sighted attempts at retrenchment. Newspaper men have endeavored to educate the schoolteacher to a sense of the news values in his methods, aims, and results. The response to this training is indicated by the growing number of public school systems which have a member of the staff to assist the news reporters in uncovering facts of interest to readers.

On the other hand, the schools are increasingly making use of the newspaper. There are very few school libraries today that do not have current news sheets on their racks. Schools are educating their pupils to rely upon the press for their continuation education.

The high characters of most newspapers today admits them without question to the position of textbooks in the schools. Unfortunately all newspapers are not written upon the same high plane. School teachers deplore this. Frequently they are heard to say that newspapers are too sensational and cheap to use in the schoolroom. Undoubtedly some of them are. Whose fault is it? Where is the taste of the American reading public created? It should at least be deeply influenced in the schoolrooms.

If the taste of reading public is for information that is not only unwholesome but harmful, there is important work for the schools to do. In that work they need the co-operation of purposeful editors.

The schools have no desire to censor the press. What the press needs is some sort of an educational philosophy, just as the educators have. Editors should draw up a statement of general principles of education through the press. They might well state in a general way their objectives their methods, and the character of the content of their newspaper education. In the preparation of this statement, the educators might be of help. Likewise the educators could wisely include editors in their conferences on educational philosophy. On through some such system of co-operative effort can the foundations and superstructure of education be consistent.

THE STOCK MARKET AND PROSPERITY

While stocks "faw down and go boom" and a multitude of speculators find themselves the victims, our national prosperity continues on an even keel. During the height of the Wall Street slump public officials as well as business leaders have come forth to reassure the public that the slump in the market should have no great effect on our national prosperity.

Level headed government, a sound banking system, and above all good business organization, keeps the indisposition of Wall Street from throwing the entire nation out of whack.

At the same time, we are confronted by a statement by Alexander Legge, Chairman of the Farm Board, that the shrinkage in stock values has had a very deteriorating effect on the prices of wheat. This only goes to show that other industries, because they are organized, and work cooperatively, are safer than the farm industry from the effects of a stock Exchange slump. When the good work being done by the Farm Board and other agencies finds fruition in a thorough organization of the farm industry, farmers will have less to fear from irregularities in Wall Street.

AN INVENTORY

What have I done, and what am I doing to make people love and respect me? Am I doing anything, consciously or unconsciously to make them dislike or hate me? I am in daily contact with folks—droves of them; they are going to think of me one way or the other. Even if they regard me with indigence, that is of no benefit to me. I'd rather their opinions of me were good, and it is wholly with me whether they are. Nobody loves a human hog—the sort that lives solely for him self. I've seen them, so have you.

The human hog roots strictly for himself; he knows no Sunday. Seven full days per week he moils ever looking down at his sordid pile; he never looks toward the blue heavens. He serves one god—the golden calf—and never for a moment takes his eyes off it; for him, there is no security or safety in any other sort of God. Let misfortune touch him on the pocket book, and he crumples like a leaf. When his god shatters, as all earthly things must shatter, he is wrecked morally, physically, and spiritually—if a hog has a spirit. He hasn't the true and splendid manhood to rise above the ruin of his broken idol.

Am I a human hog? Are you? The answer is—No! Need I ask why. For one thing, good people don't cast pearls before swine, lest the beasts turn upon them and rend them. Just why any sane being can adopt the tactics of the hog and live only for his own greedy self, has always been a mystery to me.

The human hog never sees the error of his way. And he wonders why people don't feel sorry for him when his boat capsizes. He is willing to accept the best people have, but he has nothing to give in exchange. His superb selfishness blinds him as it leads him slowly to destruction. If he could find fault with him self, he would not be a human hog.

Fred O. Green, local Telephone Manager has started construction of a new brick home in the Glendale Addition. This building will be five rooms and bath which will cost Mr. Green approximately $4500. The foundation has already been run and work on the upper part will be under way shortly. This is the second home that is being built in the new addition within the past two weeks and more are being planned. Quite a number of lots have already been sold. The improvements of this addition will greatly improve the beauty of our little city.

For instance Sam Roberts is a Llano County man, the editor and Lewis Ballew are from San Saba and our friend John F. Isaacs a Valley Springs product in Llano County. Now look these specimens over for the production of the named counties. "Quite an advertisement for the counties."

SHE WAS A GOOD DOG ANYWAY

This composition by a pupil of foreign parentage is making Board of Education members chuckle: "I have a pet dog. His name is Nell. My dog can do many tricks. He can stand on his two last feet and beg for eats. He is always by my door when I come home from school. One day my dog made four pups. One was a spaniel, one was a bull and two were hounds. He always stayed by his pups. He was a good mother."

Mrs. John Cristy, of Rankin, has been visiting her sister Mrs. Sam Roberts this week. They left Wednesday of this week for Llano where they will visit for a while. They were accompanied by Mrs. Robert's son James Bryan.

COMMENTS ON SPORTS

Eldorado 7 — Sonora 37

The Eldorado Eagles completed what looks to be in the eyes of the fans as a very unsuccessful season last Wednesday at Sonora, losing by the score of 37 — 7. The Eagles have won only one game this season but the close follower of the game could not call this season an altogether unsuccessful. It was in the way of winning but it was not in the way of building a foundation for a team in the coming year and proving the true sportsmanship of the boys on the field. They never alibied for their losing. They never accused the opponents of anything but winning by superior playing. They took their defeats just as though it was a victory. This year's team should be praised for their sportsmanship and loyalty although playing under great handicaps and against great odds.

Aggies 13 — Texas U. 0

The farmers of A. & M. College, the underdogs of the past season rose up in their glory Thanksgiving day and completely outplayed the strong team of the Texas University, which was claimed a few weeks ago as one of the best in the south. The Aggies from the first whistle had the Longhorns in danger and after two attempts at the Texas goal line from the four yard line and one foot line failed to net a score the Farmers on the third chance put over a score with a pass. The next score came from a triple pass where Conover Aggies back went across the line without being touched. Captain Mills of the Aggies led his team for his last time and he himself showed his superiority over any man on either team in carrying the ball for long gains and then tossing passes that fell true in the hands of waiting ends and backs. This is the second game won in the conference by the A. & M. team but it was a sweet victory and revenge from the 19 - 0 defeat handed them at Austin last year.

S M U vs. T C U Saturday

The outstanding contest of the weekend will be played at Ft. Worth Saturday afternoon between S M U of Dallas and T C U of Ft. Worth. Both teams are undefeated but S M U has been tied by Texas. T C U has won nine straight games which is among the best in the United States. Only new teams remain undefeated and only two of these have played the amount the Ft. Worth team has. This game Saturday will decide the championship of the Southwest Conference. A win or tie by the T C U team will give them the championship and a win by S M U will give the championship to them. Most everyone is giving the odds to the T C U team which has a very strong aggregation but Coach Morrison of the Dallas team has turned in the unexpected so often we would not be surprised at anything as a result and are picking the S M U team to win. The Dallas team has only a two pound average over the T C U team which does not help matters any. From all angles this will be one of the most daring games of football that has been played in the South this season as both teams will be driving for victory and nothing will be held back.

In discussing over the outcome of the SMU-TCU football game Saturday with Frank Bradley, and Mr. Bradley thought T. C U would win. The conversation became hotter as the other was in favor of SMU and ask Frank to give six points. But to his astonishment Frank said "that he saw in the paper the other day where SMU was going to have 11 men on the field to start the game." Had he not read the paper he would probably give the six points.

News arrived in Eldorado Tuesday morning that Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sweatt have an eight pound girl. They are in San Angelo at present but plan to return to the ranch near Ft. Stockton soon.

TARIFF TANGLES interests, "Eastern" manufacturers and communities are struggling to gain advantages over other sections. The frank Mr. Grundy, representing the Pennsylvania manufacturers, tells a Senate committee that he regards other states as "backward" and regrets that they have equal representation in the Senate. Senator Moses of New Hampshire lowers his dignity enough to term the Western Senators who disagree with him "sons of the wild jackass."

The present tariff law provides a Tariff Commission and gives it and the President ample power to revise tariff rates whenever and however national interests require such revision. Some simple minded folk thought that was going to end the spectacle of the suspension of other public business in Congress while localities and local groups fought each other for the extra dollars.

General Winfield Scott Hancock ran for President in 1880 against General James A. Garfield. General Hancock didn't know anything about politics, but he had a lot of common sense. His most famous campaign utterance was: "The tariff is a local issue." That ineptitude ruined General Hancock politically. Yet it was true and is still true, but the politicians do not want the public to believe it. Their jobs too often depend upon making their constituents believe that the country will go to ruin if tariff rates are not increased, or reduced, or something.

The current squabble in the Senate over the proposed new tariff law furnishes new proof of General Hancock's dictum. Local interests are dominant in the discussions, active in the lobby. "Southern" groups, "Western"

PARK AS YOU WOULD BE PARKED BY

If there is any time of the year when automobile parking is vital to community Business, it is now.

The amount of Christmas business Eldorado does this year will depend in no little degree on the number of automobiles that can be parked, and the "turn over" of each parking space. For that reason every possible parking space should be made to pay a maximum profit, which means that no car should occupy a space for longer period of time than necessary to transact business, and that "dead head" cars should not be allowed parked in the business district at all.

The habit and practice of local business and professional people of converting "live" parking space into dead storage by parking their personal cars for long periods of time, thereby monopolizing in on day, space that could be used by five "pay" or customers cars, is not only a Community Business liability, costing YOU money, but a means of actually driving business away from their own stores.

Here are a few suggestions for those who want more business.

Wise merchants associations will arrange with garage and parking lot proprietors for parking to be free to all those holding sales slips for purchase of goods over a specified amount; they will clean up and convert every vacant lot near the business district into parking space, arrange for special police to guard cars so parked, and see that maximum number of cars are accommodated, and both facts widely advertised.

Stores can well afford to deliver purchases to cars parked in garages and lots, the attendants accepting such deliveries and supervising placing of such deliveries in proper automobiles. At this season many boys, and even men, can be secured for this work at reasonable compensation.

If an arterial highway runs directly through the main business section, reroute this traffic until after busy buying season.

Keep trucks and all slow-going vehicles out of business district as much as possible.

Make special effort to solicit the cooperation of regular and special policemen, earnestly asking that they do everything possible to be friendly and courteous with everyone with whom they come in contact, and at the same time enforce parking regulations affably. The policemen are the floorwalkers of your Community, and can make or break Community Business.
