Texas Governor Rick Perry signed Senate Bill 6 into law Tuesday. The bill beefs up the state's child protective services agency and strengthens Texas marriage laws.

Governor Rick Perry signs SB 6 into law

Texas Governor Rick Perry signed Senate Bill 6 into law Tuesday, June 7, 2005, ending a months' long battle to bolster the state's child protective service agency. The bill, sponsored by State Senator Jane Nelson (R-Flower Mound) and State Representative Suzanna Hupp (R-Lampasas), carried an amendment authored by Rep. Harvey Hilderbran (R-Kerrville) that elevated bigamy and polygamy from a misdemeanor to a felony and raised the state's age of consent from 14 to 16.

Hilderbran first offered the legislation as House Bill 3006 and rallied to get it through the House Juvenile Justice Committee where Utah Attorney General Mark Shurtleff and Jon Krakauer, author of "Under the Banner of Heaven" testified on behalf of the bill. Private Investigator Sam Brower of Cedar City, Utah and Randy Mankin, publisher of The Eldorado Success also testified in favor of HB 3006.

Despite receiving unanimous committee support, Hilderbran's bill died on the House calendar as the deadline for new bills expired before it could be called for a vote.

"I felt that HB 3006 might not get through this session," Hilderbran stated recently. "So I looked for a bill to amend and Senate Bill 6 was an obvious choice."

Hilderbran's amendment, containing almost all of the pertinent language from HB 3006, was the 50th amendment made to SB 6 once it reached the House floor. There would be a total of 64 House amendments before it was all said and done.

But Hilderbran's amendment would be one of the few that made it off the floor and through the House/Senate conference committee before SB 6 got its final vote in both chambers on May 29, 2005.

Governor Rick Perry weighed in on the final negotiations, helping to hammer out a compromise with House/Senate conferees.

The governor's signature means the bill will go into effect on September 1, 2005.

The final text of the bill may be found online at: <http://www.myeldorado.net>.

Coach Grubbs leaving to head Kermit program

Rutherford & Schoenhals leaving, too

SCISD athletic director Gary Grubbs submitted his resignation this week to Superintendent George Blanch after accepting the athletic director and head football coaching position at Kermit High School. Grubbs and his wife Margaret, who worked at the school as an aide, have called Eldorado home for the past three years.

Also announcing their departure from Eldorado are Matt and Amy Rutherford. Matt Rutherford has been the EHS tennis coach for several years, taking numbers of singles and doubles players to the state meet and capturing state titles in singles, doubles and Team Tennis.

Matt Rutherford also taught high school English while his wife, Amy, was a high school science teacher. The couple are moving to San Angelo where they plan to continue teaching.

Coach Doran Schoenhals is also leaving SCISD, submitting his resignation this week to Supt. Blanch. He is reportedly moving to Temple.

Utah judge extends freeze on UEP assets

Arizona signs on to case as property disappears from C-City/Hildale

Even before law enforcement officers and private investigators could serve papers on trustees of the United Effort Plan trust (UEP), notifying them that the trust's assets had been frozen by a Utah court, faithful followers of FLDS Prophet Warren Jeffs gathered last weekend at two UEP sites to dismantle buildings and remove equipment.

Private investigator Sam Brower was on hand to watch as a large steel building, once occupied by Cozy Log Homes, was dismantled and loaded onto trucks. A video photographer named Mark Folkerson was also present to witness and document the activity.

Their reports, along with photos, made it into the hands of Attorney General Mark Shurtleff, whose office stepped up efforts this week to track down the relocated property. The AG office even went so far as to post a plea on polygamy chat sites on the Internet asking for information.

Meanwhile, the push to wrest control of the UEP away from Warren Jeffs and his lieutenants continued on several fronts, including here in Schleicher County where two sets of court summons were served on YFZ Ranch officials, but not on Warren Jeffs himself or any of the other UEP trustees.

A public notice appearing in this week's Success (see notice on Page 7) along with other notices appearing in newspapers in Arizona, Utah, Colorado and British Columbia, Canada, is aimed at satisfying court requirements that Jeffs and the other trustees be notified of the upcoming hearing.

Twelve hundred miles north and west of Eldorado, Assistant Utah Attorney General Tim Bodily appeared before a judge in Salt Lake City, UT on Monday to argue that the temporary restraining order freezing UEP assets should remain in place until a hearing on June 22. The judge granted the request and also allowed Arizona Attorney General Terry Goddard's office to join the action as an interested party.

Interestingly, a group of former FLDS members, including Richard Holm, John W. Nielson and Merrill T. Stubbs, are supporting the effort to oust the current UEP trustees and are recommending a new slate of trustees be appointed to guide the trust fund. Among the new trustees being proposed is Caroline Jessop, former 4th sister wife of Merrill Jessop, the man who reportedly oversees daily operations at the YFZ Ranch near Eldorado.

Other former FLDS members who appear on the list of proposed trustees is Rayo S. Johnson, of Hildale, UT, a man who was recently excommunicated from the church, and Winston Blackmore of Bountiful, British Columbia, widely known as the Bishop of Bountiful and a former follower of former FLDS Prophet Rulon Jeffs, late father of Warren Jeffs.

Blackmore's inclusion is interesting since he is also listed on court documents as one of the current trustees the plaintiffs are trying to remove. In fact, Blackmore was a UEP trustee, but was informed that he had been removed from the office by former Prophet Rulon Jeffs before the senior Jeffs' death in 2002. However, Blackmore disputes the removal, claiming that Rulon Jeffs was incapacitated by a series of strokes at the time he supposedly ousted Blackmore. Supporting that claim is the fact that documents officially removing Chief Deputy George Arispe took Victor Manuel Chavarria of Muzquiz, Coahuilla, Mexico, into custody on Monday, June 6, 2005, after DPS Trooper Danny Nunez stopped the man near the traffic light in the center of town. Nunez discovered some $16,000 in cash hidden in the man's vehicle. Chavarria remained in jail Wednesday morning at the Schleicher County Law Enforcement Center.

City again considers accepting YFZ wastewater

The City of Eldorado will once again consider accepting wastewater from the YFZ Ranch at the city sewer plant. That word came during Monday night's meeting of the Eldorado City Council. Mayor John Nikolauk explained to the council that he had been in contact with Merrill Jessop, the man who oversees daily operations at the YFZ. Nikolauk said he was checking with Jessop to make sure that YFZ personnel were not having problems dumping their garbage at the city landfill. He said that sometime during the conversation the topic of hauling YFZ wastewater to the city sewer plant came up.

The council seemed favorable to the idea and discussed options for charging for the service. It was finally decided that Mayor Nikolauk should contact Jessop and offer to accept the wastewater at the sewer plant for 14 cents per gallon.

The meeting was the council's regular monthly session and was called to order by Mayor Nikolauk at 6:05 p.m. with council members Bill McCutcheon, Toni Sudduth, Dora Bosmans, Richard Mendez, and Jaquin Rojas in attendance. Also present were City Secretary Carolyn Mayo and Utility Superintendent Floyd Fay. Councilman Tommy Minor was absent.

The meeting began with a public hearing on three proposed city ordinance changes. With no one from the public present to support or object to any of the ordinances, the council voted unanimously to amend the city's traffic control ordinance and designate a 15 mph speed limit in all public alleys. Changes to the utility and animal control ordinances were postponed until next month, giving the council time for further review.

Continuing, Mayor Nikolauk advised the council that he had been engaged in negotiations with the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality in hopes of reducing the amount of fines levied against the city at the landfill and wastewater plant. Nikolauk advised that he had had some success and was hoping to get the fines further reduced.

The council then agreed to support the Hazard Mitigation Plan as prepared by the Concho Valley Council of Governments and Fire Chief Jerry Jones, acting as the city's emergency services coordinator. The plan will be put in place across the 13-county CVCOG region and was required if the city hoped to qualify for additional grants in the future.

Next, the council appointed Dana Owens and Mayme Green to serve two-year terms on the board of the Eldorado Housing Authority. Other board members are Rosetta Lozano, Sarah Yates, and Jim Martin. Their terms expire in 2006.

Utility Supt. Floyd Fay then reported on activity in his various departments. He informed

Cops say tire slashings tied to burglary

Schleicher County Sheriff David Doran and Chief Deputy George Arispe say they are confident they have solved a burglary that occurred May 31st at the county swimming pool, along with a rash of tire slashings that were reported across town last week.

"It involved a group of juveniles," Sheriff Doran said and we still have to get them before the magistrate but they'll soon be going to the juvenile detention center."

The Sheriff's Dept. received 11 calls last Thursday and Friday, reporting slashed tires in almost every part of town.

The pool burglary was discovered by Coach Rene Villariano who telephoned the Sheriff's Office to report that bandits reportedly got away with $588 worth of candy.

Local youths receive 4-H scholarships at Roundup

Word reached the Success office late Tuesday afternoon that Will Griffin and Emily Newman, both recent graduates of Eldorado High School had each received a 4-H Foundation Scholarship at the annual State 4-H Roundup held this week in College Station.

Will Griffin received a $15,000 San Antonio Livestock Show scholarship while Emily Newman received a $12,000 Houston Livestock Show scholarship.

Fear Not China

by Sheldon Richman

China. Why has that word for so long struck fear in the hearts of Americans? During the Cold War people harbored terrible fantasies about hordes of Chinese swarming over them and imposing a virulent Oriental communism. Now the Cold War is over, and although China still has a communist-inspired authoritarian government, this is not your father's Red nemesis. Much has changed in the world's most populous country.

Commentary
by Sheldon Richman

Yet we remain in fear. But now it is an economic fear: China will buy up all the beef. China will buy up all the wheat. China will make all the textiles and clothing and take our jobs. China's trade surplus with the United States will put us hopelessly in debt. Nonsense. It's about time we kept our heads and applied some basic economics to what's going on.

Economically, the Chinese are freer than they used to be. Chinese entrepreneurs can raise capital, and foreigners can invest their money, to create productive enterprises. Chinese workers have far more choices than they used to have. The result has been stunning economic growth and an export boom fueled by low-priced high-quality products.

Predictably, this worries some people, specifically, Americans and other nationals who make what the Chinese are now selling so successfully. This isn't worrying American consumers, who find that, because their dollars stretch further, they have more to invest or spend on additional things.

But some people just can't take good news. They have to look for the gray lining in every silver cloud. The success of the Chinese sellers and their American customers, we're told, is really not good news. Why not? Because Americans are losing their jobs. Because the Chinese aren't buying enough American goods and the resulting trade deficit puts us more and more in their debt. Because the Chinese government is artificially holding down the value of its currency in order to make exports more attractive (as if politicians know what the exchange rate should be). Because ... because ... because. But the what about the great deals at the stores? Their Marxist (Groucho, that is) response, in essence, is: who are you going to believe, me or your eyes?

I say believe your eyes. None of the objections is valid. A highly advanced economy always is — and always should be — losing some jobs. They are replaced by technology in some cases, by cheaper lower-skilled foreign labor in others. This is progress, because new and higher-paying jobs take their place. In 1905 lots more people were growing food than are today. Were we better off then? The Chinese inroads into the American market have made things more difficult for workers in Bangladesh than for workers here. We demanding consumers deserted other third-world producers as soon as we saw what the Chinese were willing to provide.

Let's hear no more trade-deficit-equals-debt uncombs. First, there is no reason to expect bilateral merchandise accounts to balance. None. Second, that deficit is perfectly offset by the capital-account surplus with China: what they don't spend here they invest here. Period. Anyone who is concerned about China's being a creditor should direct his wrath at the U.S. government. It's the one engaging in deficit spending and selling Treasury bills to the Chinese. If none were sold, none could be bought.

The new anti-Chinese hysteria makes less sense than the old did. When will we get it through our heads that it is good for others to get rich? It makes us even richer.

Law Enforcement Update: Concealed Handgun License Recognition

My office frequently receives letters about the Texas concealed handgun license law. Many of these come from people who plan to travel in our state and want to know if the concealed carry permit issued by their home state will be valid here. As law enforcement officials, you may encounter visitors who hold out-of-state concealed handgun permits.

We also receive inquiries, many from law enforcement officers, about whether Texas permits are valid in other states. This question is more difficult to answer, as the laws of other states change on a regular basis. Some do not recognize permits from other states, and those that do often have detailed provisions about what kinds of permits are recognized and when and where concealed weapons may be carried.

I hope this column will assist you in determining which permits are valid and which are not. This information is current and accurate as of May 19, 2005, but remember that Texas statutes and the laws of other states are subject to change at any time. Please note that this column addresses only citizen-held permits. As a law enforcement officer, different laws may apply to you. For more information, contact the

New Process for Out-of-State License Recognition

In 2003, the Texas Legislature amended the concealed carry statute to say that the governor shall declare other states' CHL permits valid in Texas if they meet certain legal and procedural requirements. The principal statutory requirement for recognition is that, as part of the concealed handgun licensing procedure, permit applicants in the other state must undergo a specific background check that looks at whether they are eligible to possess a firearm under federal law before they can get a permit.

When Texas and another state each declare the other's permits to be valid, the Texas governor and an official from the other state sign a mutual recognition agreement. The governor issues a unilateral proclamation when Texas recognizes another state's CHL permit but the other state does not recognize Texas permits. In revising the law, the legislature deleted a requirement that other states recognize Texas permits as a condition of their permits being valid here. If another state's CHL permits meet the requirements set in Texas law, the governor is required to affirm that the permits are valid here, either by unilateral proclamation or through a mutual recognition agreement.

This law, Government Code Section 411.173, instructs the Attorney General to determine whether permits issued by other states qualify for recognition in Texas. Pursuant to this statute, my office has been reviewing the laws and practices of all other states to determine whether they meet the eligibility re-

Bell rings on Legislature without school finance fix

by Mike Cox

AUSTIN — Gov. Rick Perry made the school finance issue an emergency item on the Legislature's agenda, but the final bell rang on the 79th regular session May 30 with the matter still unresolved.

Not that lawmakers didn't give it the old prep school try in the waning hours of the 140-day session, but negotiations fell apart and House Bill 2 — the measure that would have overhauled how Texans pay for public education — did not get to graduate into law.

Next step would be a special session, but no official word yet.

The numbers...

The governor has on his desk 1,389 enrolled bills to consider before his June 19 sign-or-veto deadline. Of those, 876 are House bills, 513 Senate bills.

After the last regular session, Perry vetoed 51 bills, compared to the 82 bills he nixed following the 77th Legislature.

Budget certified...

Comptroller Carole Keeton Strayhorn did quickly certify the $139.5 billion state budget. She said it balanced but didn't go out of her way to support it.

The governor's deadline to sign bills into law or exercise his constitutional veto power is June 19. If the governor does not sign a bill that passed, it becomes law automatically.

Hutchison still not talking...

U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison told partisans last week that she appreciated their support of her possible quest to provide "additional leadership in Austin by running for state office" but still didn't say if she intended to take on Perry.

She did join many other Texans in expressing her dismay at the performance of the Legislature, saying in an e-mail, "Like many Texans, I am disappointed that ... major problems facing the state failed to be addressed during the recent legislative session."

Combs sows campaign seeds...

The campaign picture for next year got a little clearer last week with Agriculture Commissioner Susan Combs' announcement that she'll run for the comptroller's job next spring.

The same day, Sen. Todd Staples (R-Palestine) announced he would try to move up the elective food chain to replace Combs as ag guru.

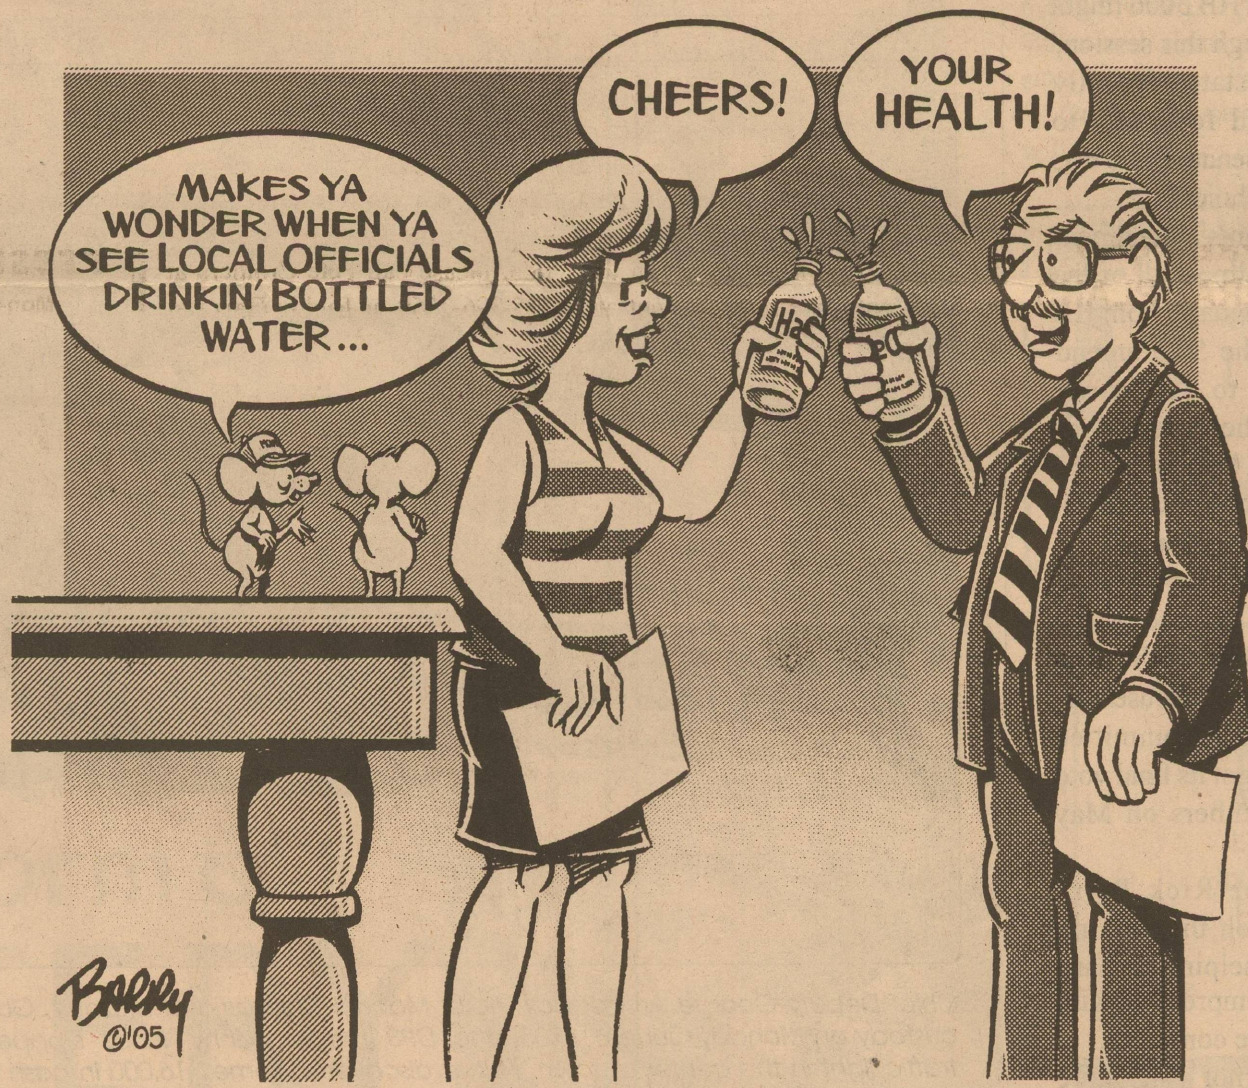

Strayhorn still hasn't said what she intends to do in the spring.

A Democrat is third in line...

Should something happen to the governor and lieutenant governor, the person who would assume the status of chief executive in Texas will have a "D" after his name, not an "R."

That person is Sen. Frank Madla (D-San Antonio) who was elected president pro tempore of the Senate before the Legislature adjourned last week. Though the job is mostly ceremonial (he'll get to be governor for a day at some point), he's the guy technically in charge when the governor and lieutenant are out of the state. In the event of their deaths, he automatically moves up.

Occasionally, the pro tem has to take serious action. In 1943, while serving in that capacity, the late Sen. A.M. Aikin of Paris had to order Department of Public Safety troopers, Texas Rangers and national guardsmen into Beaumont to suppress a riot that broke out when the top two officials happened to be gone.

A university course in Rock & Roll

"It's just amazing to watch kids grow musically. And they do it so quickly."

Dr. Dan Keast teaches music at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin in Odessa. He has been involved with music a long time.

"I started in Elementary School playing clarinet and pretty soon I became a tuba player because the school needed a tuba player. And from there I just enjoyed every weekend going somewhere to perform a solo, to march, to play in a band. I just found a home in music."

Dr. Keast is new to the University. He's just finishing his first year.

The school had a music program years ago, but it was discontinued.

"I've been working with the University administration and looking over the cultural opportunities here in Odessa. It's really amazing what's here. It's quite a lot. I think we're going to offer a wide range of music courses and focus on Mariachi music and Jazz music."

The University has fifteen courses

by Tumblweed
Smith

es in music now.

"A lot of them are individual classes. I'm the only fulltime music professor here, so if a student comes in and wants to play guitar, I'll place that student with a person who is extremely competent on that instrument. Our music appreciation course is quite popular. We've got a band now at the University and we're working on some ensemble singing groups."

Since UTPB has no practice rooms, Dan will play a variety of instruments in his classroom. The doors to the classroom are open, so people nearby hear music from a piano, trumpet or drum. Dr. Keast says plans are underway to get some state of the art practice rooms.

One course being offered this summer is titled Jazz, Pop and Rock & Roll.

"I put it on the course docket hoping it would fill up," says Dan. "I taught it back in Nebraska a few years when I was teaching in public school and I taught it at the University of Missouri while I was working on my doctorate."

"We start off with jazz history and we do it the same way we do music history. We start at the very roots of it, Ragtime, and we trace it to New Orleans, to swing bands, bop music, cool music and then all of a sudden we have the splinters of jazz, going into jazz fusion and jazz rock and all these other little splinters, then into the neo-classic stuff that we're enduring today. We spend the third week of the course in popular songs, such as Tin Pan Alley, and how that music exploded into Rock and Roll in the 1950's."

"I like to cover how society reacted to Rock & Roll. Time magazine referred to it as the most hideous form of music ever conceived by the mind of man."

Sweetwater gears up for 50th anniversary of Elvis Presley's historic 1955 concert

SWEETWATER, TX – In June 1955, Elvis Presley was still trying to establish himself with the fledgling rock and roll audiences of the South. It wasn't long before he was the most celebrated popular music phenomenon of his era.

And at the heart of his emerging career were two concert dates at the Sweetwater Municipal Auditorium.

The 50th anniversary of Elvis' first Sweetwater performance will be celebrated June 11 with an Elvis tribute concert on the very same stage on which he performed June 9, 1955. (Elvis returned to Sweetwater on Dec. 16, 1955, for a holiday concert.)

Activities planned for the once-in-a-lifetime event include a classic car cruise, arts and crafts fair, Elvis look-a-like competition, Elvis music, hound dog coloring contest for the children and silent auction of Elvis memorabilia. The featured event of the celebration will be an 8 p.m. concert starring Elvis tribute artist Donnie Roberts, widely regarded as the premier "young Elvis" impersonator.

Tickets for the concert are $10 for general admission and $15 for priority seating in the 750-seat Municipal Auditorium, 400 Locust. Tickets are available at the Sweetwater Chamber of Commerce or by telephone at 325/235-5488 or 800/658-6757.

Concert-goers can participate in the silent auction, as well as capitalize on photo opportunities with "Elvis" following the performance.

The day-long commemoration is a fundraiser for the Trail of Lights, Sweetwater's renowned holiday lighting display which runs Thanksgiving Eve through New Year's.

The Elvis tribute will climax June 12 with a concert from Elvis' gospel roots during the morning worship service at Sweetwater's First Christian Church, 1611 Hailey.

Concert Tour Ignites Elvis Mania

It was late in 1954 and particularly in 1955 when Elvis embarked upon a torrid series of almost daily live concert dates throughout the South. Billed as "The King of Western Bop" and "The Hillbilly Cat," his lukewarm reception at the Grand Ole Opry in October 1954 exploded into a fanatical mania by America's new youth culture.

Elvis was the first real rock and roll star. He was a white southerner singing the blues laced with country and country tinged with gospel. He was what Sun Records owner Sam Phillips termed "a white man with the Negro sound and the Negro feel." Elvis brought together American music from both sides of the color line and performed it with a natural hip-swiveling sexuality that made him a teen idol, and a role model for generations of cool rebels. He was repeatedly dismissed as vulgar, incompetent and a bad influence, but the force of his music and his image was no mere merchandising feat. Elvis signaled to mainstream culture that it was time to let go.

The Elvis revolution was a free-wheeling routine in which he cascaded across the stage and plunged to his knees at dramatic moments in a song, actions remarkable for the period and which prompted a near-riotous fan craze. His unusual style, sexy moves, good looks and charisma caused excitement wherever he played.

From Would-Be Truck Driver to Music Legend

Born into the humblest of circumstances in a two-room house in Tupelo, Miss., Elvis planned to follow his father's vocation as a truck driver after graduating from L.C. Humes High School in Memphis. Elvis even wore his long hair pompadoured, which was the truck-driver style at the time.

But Elvis cuts a demo acetate at Sun Records, and studio owner Phillips is intrigued by this unusual-looking and sounding young man. What began as a fascination by Phillips became the first of a long list of hits when Elvis recorded "Blue Moon of Kentucky" and "That's All Right," a showcase for his rich, multi-textured vocal dexterity which alternated his unorthodox low-key delivery with a high-pitched whine. The songs were played on a Memphis radio station, and audience response was overwhelming.

Not everyone appreciated Elvis' quirky vocal. His October 1954 appearance at the Grand Ole Opry was a painful disappointment in Elvis' early career, with one Opry official suggesting that the singer go back to driving a truck.

Just two weeks later, Elvis made his first appearance on the Louisiana Hayride, a live Saturday night country music radio show originating in Shreveport. The show is the Grand Ole Opry's chief competitor, and is carried by 190 radio stations in 13 states. By November 1954, Elvis signs a one-year contract for 52 Saturday night appearances.

Elvis Dates at the Sweetwater Municipal Auditorium

At the heart of Elvis' 1955 tour were dates in the Texas Midwest. Elvis traveled to West Texas early in 1955, and returned often to the Lone Star State. His dates often required considerable travel as he crisscrossed the South while staying close enough to Shreveport for his Saturday night concerts at the Louisiana Hayride.

Elvis started June 1955 with dates at Guyton, Okla.; Amarillo, Tex.; Lubbock, Tex.; and back to Shreveport. The tour continued with concerts in Hope, Ark.; Marianna, Ark.; and Andrews, Tex., then Elvis and his entourage headed to Sweetwater, Tex.

Scheduled for June 8, 1955 – and virtually every Elvis website still reports the date as the concert date – the performance was postponed until June 9 due to an early summer storm in Sweetwater which probably knocked out electricity. (No reports indicate exactly why the concert was postponed.) The June 9 concert at Municipal Auditorium was followed by a date in Breckenridge, Tex., and then it was back to Shreveport.

As Elvis' tour dates grew, so did his popularity. By the time he returned to Sweetwater on Dec. 16, 1955, for his second performance there, he was on the verge of immortality. In April 1956, he signed a seven-movie deal with Hal Wallis and Paramount Pictures, and his records – especially "Heartbreak Hotel," "Hound Dog," and "Don't Be Cruel" – were played on radio stations nationwide.

TDLR adopts 2005 NEC as state's electrical code

Code sets basic requirements for wiring in Texas homes and businesses

The Texas Commission of Licensing and Regulation Wednesday adopted the 2005 edition of the National Electrical Code (NEC) as the state's basic electrical requirement, effective July 1, 2005. The new code supercedes the 2002 edition of the NEC, which was adopted by the Commission in January 2004. The older version of the code has served as the state's electrical code since September 1, 2004.

"As the National Electrical Code is updated it is important that we also adopt the improvements," said Commission Chairman Leo Vasquez. "Safe and efficient delivery of electricity is an evolving science. For home and business owners of Texas to be protected, we feel it is important to adjust the minimum electrical requirements as advances and improvements are made."

Prior to September 1, 2004, Texas did not have a statewide electrical code. Cities and regional authorities were authorized to adopt and enforce local electrical codes, but many areas of rural Texas had no basic requirements. House Bill 1487, a law passed by the 78th Texas Legislature that created the Electrical Safety Program and a state electrical license, also authorized the Texas Commission of Licensing and Regulation to adopt the NEC as the statewide electrical code, and to adopt the revised version of the code as it is updated every three years.

DPS: Texas crime rate declines 2.2% in 2004

The major crime rate in Texas decreased 2.2 percent in 2004, according to data compiled by the Texas Department of Public Safety Uniform Crime Reporting Program.

Compared with 2003, the crime rate the number of crimes per 100,000 population in Texas decreased 2.2 percent in 2004. The violent crime rate decreased 2.1 percent and the property crime rate decreased 2.2 percent in 2004.

"We are encouraged that the crime rate decreased once again in 2004, but there is still a lot of work left to be done," said Col. Thomas A. Davis, Jr., director of the DPS. "Citizens and law enforcement working together can accomplish many good things."

The total number of major crimes committed was down 0.5 percent in 2004 compared with 2003. Of the seven index crimes, murder was down 4 percent; rape was up 5.2 percent. The total number of arrests in Texas increased 6.0 percent in 2004. The number of juvenile arrests increased 6.1 percent, while adult arrests increased 6.0 percent.

The Texas Uniform Crime Reporting Program also collects statistics on hate crimes and family violence incidents. In 2004, Texas law enforcement agencies reported 285 incidents of hate crimes involving 317 victims and 314 offenders.

Law enforcement agencies reported 182,087 family violence incidents involving 195,042 victims and 190,865 offenders in 2004.

The UCR Program

In an effort to quantify the increases and decreases in the number of crimes committed in Texas, the Uniform Crime Reporting program (UCR) collects reports of crimes and arrests from Texas law enforcement agencies. This information is printed in Crime in Texas and in periodic special news releases.

Crime Index

To track the variations in crime, the UCR data collection program uses a statistical summary tool referred to as the Crime Index. Rather than collecting reports of all crimes that were committed in a particular year, UCR collects the reports of seven index crimes. The crimes in this group are all serious, either by their very nature or because of the frequency with which they occur, and present a common enforcement problem to police agencies.

Crimes within this index can be further categorized as violent crimes, which include murder, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault, or as property crimes, which consist of burglary, larceny-theft and motor vehicle theft. By reducing the overall occurrence of crime to this Crime Index, the annual comparison of crime trends is simplified.

Although arson is an index crime in that the number of reported offenses are collected, arson is not included in the Crime Index.

Index Crime Volume

The total estimated number of Index Crimes reported for 2004 was 1,131,698. This volume of crime represents a decrease of 0.5 percent when compared to 2003.

Index Crime Rate

The crime rate reported by UCR is defined as the number of crimes committed per 100,000 population. This mechanism allows comparisons between periods of time to be made without being affected by population swings. For 2004, the Texas Crime Rate was 5032 crimes per 100,000 population, a 2.2% decrease from 2003. The crime rate is based on the 2004 Texas population of 22,490,022.

Data Estimation

Although the Texas UCR program enjoys a high rate of participation among Texas' law enforcement community, not every agency reports its crime information. To provide data that is comparable to other years, it is necessary to estimate the information for non-reporting agencies. In 2004, 1,007 law enforcement agencies participated in the UCR program representing 99.6 percent of the population.

City Council

the council that a recent lightning storm knocked out the "SCADA Unit" that controls the city's wells, resulting in low water pressure. Fay said he is exploring three options for repairing the system, which has proven to be very vulnerable to lightning. Fay noted that lightning also knocked out the computer module on the DAF unit at the sewer plant.

Mr. Fay went on to note that recent rains had flooded the landfill again and that the city is having Tom Thorp Transports pump out the water.

Carolyn Mayo then updated the council on the city's financial position and offered an amendment to the budget which the council approved. She advised that she needs someone to conduct a survey to determine how many city residents would benefit from upcoming grant programs. Ms. Mayo also noted that a new company, Kinder/Morgan Construction, had asked for a regular trash pickup on U.S. Hwy 277 South.

Before adjourning the council approved the minutes from the May 9 meeting and okayed the payment of the current bills. They also approved a resolution to participate with Schleicher County in its TCDP grant project. The project is comprised of the completion of the water and sewer systems in the Orient Heights. The city will pledge $10,000.00 and will waive the fees for 17 residential water and sewer taps.

The Eldorado City Council will meet next on July 11, 2005 at 6:00 p.m. at City Hall.

The Cemetery Chapel Committee encourages everyone attending Mias Amigas, Saturday June 25 to take a tour of the new Cemetery Chapel at the Eldorado Cemetery. Chapel construction was made possible with the help of the Schleicher County Commissioners, taxpayers of Schleicher County and the generous donations of many others. The chapel is free for any, or everyone, to use in their time of sorrow. The Cemetery Chapel Committee hopes the comfort of the chapel will make your loss less painful.

Fate of UEP Trust rests with Utah district court

Blackmore from the UEP board of trustees were never filed in court.

Still, the plaintiffs want Blackmore to remain as a trustee. He was excommunicated from the FLDS church by Warren Jeffs and has been one of Jeffs' most outspoken critics. He has a large number of followers in Canada and influence within Colorado City/Hildale.

Jeffs' brother ousted from YFZ?

As the court battle over control of the UEP, and ultimately the FLDS church continues to rage in Utah, Leroy Jeffs, brother of Warren Jeffs and former resident of the YFZ Ranch, was reportedly excommunicated from the church. Leroy Jeffs is also listed as one of the current UEP trustees that plaintiff groups are trying to remove from leadership of the trust.

Waiting for the other shoe to drop

Late Tuesday evening rumors were swirling in Utah and Arizona that criminal charges against Jeffs or some of his lieutenants might be forthcoming with one source telling the Success that word on a criminal indictment would be forthcoming "very soon." Still, a spokesman for Arizona Attorney General Mark Shurtleff said that his office was not involved in a criminal investigation into the FLDS or the UEP trust.

Easy summer living: Attracting birds to your backyard

One of the most aesthetically pleasing and rewarding elements to your landscape is the addition of birds. These beautiful creatures come in all shapes, sizes and colors; and compliment your yard to the fullest. Although they make a great attraction, birds can be a little tricky to retain in your yard. With a little pre-planing and simple maintenance, you'll be able to keep the wonderful works of flight around.

Providing the Basics: Food and Water

The quintessential elements that attract birds are food and water. Without the basic elements, it is guaranteed they will not stick around your yard. Many experts suggest that providing a water source is the most important. Bird-baths are a common way to fill this need. All baths should gradually deepen, and be no more than two to three inches deep. There should also be some form of rocks or stones added for the birds to perch on.

Birdbaths must be placed in an open area or clearing, away from all trees and shrubs. This ensures that the birds can keep a look out for all predatory enemies. For the best results, try to find an y type of moving water system. Birds are drawn to noisy water, and by adding equipment such as a mister, dripper or circulation pump to your bath, the number of birds will soar.

Birds also need a food source. They eat constantly, so there needs to be an ample amount of food available. Like a bath, a birdfeeder is a simple way to attract numerous types of birds. Experts at Wild Birds Forever, an online nature store, suggest placing a wide variety of bird feeders and types of food around your backyard. Providing different options attracts the widest variety of wild birds.

Another way to lure birds to your area is by gardening. Birds love to feast on many of the insects that inhabit the common garden. This not only rids your garden of pests, but replaces the need for harmful chemicals that are typically used to destroy the intruders.

Shelter

Planting trees and shrubs is another surefire way to attract birds. Birds love the source of food that these plants produce, as well as the shelter that each plant provides. All birds need a place to nest and protect their young, and trees are the best source for it. According to the US Fish & Wildlife Service, you'll get the best results by planting trees or shrubs that are native to your area. This will greatly increase your chances for bird watching, as the creatures are more familiar and accepting of regional food and shelter sources.

Update on Texas Concealed Handgun Laws

My office is currently reviewing the laws of the remaining states to determine their eligibility. Some states may not qualify for recognition because their eligibility standards are different from those required by Texas (e.g., they don't fully verify the applicant's eligibility under federal law before issuing a permit), or because they simply don't issue concealed handgun licenses to the public. As of May 19, 2005, the ineligibility list includes Alabama, Illinois*, Kansas*, Missouri, Nebraska*, New Hampshire, Ohio, South Dakota, Vermont*, Washington, and Wisconsin*. (States with an asterisk don't currently issue concealed handgun permits, although Vermont allows anyone to carry a handgun without a permit, whether concealed or not.)

formation is currently valid, but may change at any time. If you are planning to travel to another state, contact law enforcement officials there to verify local rules for carrying a concealed firearm.

Not All Permits Valid; Some Restrictions

In some cases, other states issue several types of concealed carry permits (temporary vs. permanent, statewide or county, etc.). Not all of those licenses may be valid in Texas. For example, Connecticut has both state-issued, permanent permits, which qualify for Texas recognition, and temporary paper permits known as '60-day permits' issued by local authorities, which do not qualify for recognition. Any special limitations like that will be noted on the face of the mutual recognition agreement or unilateral proclamation, available from the DPS website. Again, that's www.txdps.state.tx.us. If you are unsure about the validity of an out-of-state concealed carry permit, check the website or contact the Concealed Handgun Licensing Bureau at DPS for assistance, at (512) 424-7293.

Even if another state's license is recognized here, the license holder is still subject to the regular rules and regulations governing concealed carry in Texas. For instance, another state's license may be a "weapons" permit, entitling the holder to carry a wide range of firearms, or may allow someone under 21 to carry. While in Texas, that license holder may carry only a "handgun" as defined by Texas law and must be 21, just like Texas license holders, among other requirements.

What About Texans?

Having a Texas concealed handgun license does not automatically permit the holder to carry a weapon in another state, even if Texas recognizes the other state's license. For instance, four of the states that Texas recognizes as valid - Connecticut, Nevada, New Mexico and Iowa - do not recognize permits from Texas or any other state.

A Texas license is only valid if the other state recognizes Texas permits. If you plan to travel to another state with a handgun, you should contact each state you plan to enter to see whether your permit will be honored and to find out what limits or conditions the other state may place on the carrying of concealed weapons. Remember that the OAG and other Texas authorities have no control over whether Texas permits are declared valid by other states, nor over the conditions or limits of use that other states may set on non-resident permit holders. My office only determines whether permits from other states should be recognized in Texas.

The Blotter is a summary of the previous week's activity by the Schleicher County Sheriff's Dept. For practical reasons of time and space, The Blotter does not include every call made to the Sheriff's office, nor does it include routine security checks, minor traffic stops or routine patrols. Incidents of major impact will be reported separately. Subjects reported to have been arrested are presumed innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

by Steve Byrn

SAN ANGELO — The North American Hair Sheep Symposium set for Oct. 6-8 in San Angelo, has confirmed its speakers and named their topics.

The event will be held in San Angelo's Spur Arena adjacent to the San Angelo coliseum and fairgrounds.

The symposium, which targets the first-time hair sheep producer, is sponsored by Texas Cooperative Extension, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the Texas Hair Sheep Association.

Dr. Frank Craddock, Extension sheep and goat specialist at San Angelo and the symposium's coordinator, said interest in hair sheep production is growing.

and other experts from across the U.S., Canada and Mexico. We'll also offer a healthy dose of reality provided by some top producers currently in the hair sheep business.

"The first day will provide a history of the better-known breeds currently in the U.S. The second day will cover marketing issues, general production and budgets. And the final day will deal with breed and breeding stock selection. A Texas Hair Sheep Association-sponsored sale will follow the symposium on Oct. 8."

Alaska Surimi Seafood Thai Salad

Imitation Is the Sincerest Form of FLATTERY

FAMILY FEATURES EDITORIAL SYNDICATE

When savvy shoppers find designer style at a great price, that's a bargain. When good cooks find an imitation ingredient with all the flavor and texture of the original, that's dinner!

Surimi is an imitation crabmeat made from Alaska pollock, a member of the cod family harvested from the cold, clear waters of the Bering Sea and the Gulf of Alaska. This high-protein, low-fat seafood mimics the taste and texture of real, hard-shelled crab, but at a fraction of the cost.

So, go ahead. Be lavish! Make more, more, more of your favorite hot "crab" dip. Arrange a generous mound of surimi on a platter, surrounded by dipping sauces, for a sophisticated appetizer. Fold surimi into gourmet sandwich and wrap fillings. Add it to chilled seafood salads or warm, creamy pasta sauces. You'll find lots of ways to use delicious and nutritious surimi. Your secret is safe with us!
