4th brings more traffic enforcement

Texas Highway Patrol troopers will be out in force during the days leading up to the July 4 holiday. Troopers will be looking for people who are driving drunk, speeding or not properly secured in safety belts.

During the July 4 weekend last year, DPS troopers arrested 1,128 drivers for driving while intoxicated.

"We'll be out aggressively looking for people who are DWI. If you're driving drunk, we will arrest you, for your safety and the safety of other Texans out on the roads," said Col. Thomas A. Davis Jr, director of the DPS.

Texas is one of several states participating in Operation CARE (Combined Accident Reduction Effort), a nationwide campaign by state police agencies to reduce fatalities during holiday periods. All available troopers will be patrolling Texas roadways targeting speeders, drunk drivers and seat belt violators during the Fourth of July holiday weekend.

"Stay sober, slow down and make sure everyone in your vehicle is properly secured," Col. Davis said.

Here are some driving tips the DPS recommends for travelers during the extended holiday weekend:

- Do not drink and drive; rather, find a designated driver.
- Have everyone in the vehicle properly secured, either with a safety belt or in the appropriate car seat or booster.
- Slow down, especially if weather and road conditions do not allow for the designated speed limit.
- Save your phone calls for home or find a safe place to pull over to place or answer mobile calls.
- Be polite and courteous while driving—do not practice road rage behavior.
- For long trips, have the car checked to make sure it is roadworthy.

Wildfires still a concern despite recent rains

COLLEGE STATION, Texas—Texas has experienced widespread rainfall in the past two weeks; however, most of the coverage was spotty as best, and some areas of the state are still critically dry. Texas Forest Service is urging everyone to take care during the July 4 holiday.

"While some areas have seen enough rain to begin greening up the grasses again, there is a good portion of the state that hasn't seen a drop," said Tom Spencer, wildfire risk assessment coordinator with Texas Forest Service. "We have several areas throughout the state that we view as still critically dry, and it will take much more rain to the alleviate the problem."

Because of the continued dry weather and hot temperatures, some counties have issued fireworks restrictions. Texas Forest Service recommends that people in all parts of the state should practice good fireworks safety. With the state experiencing such dry conditions, something as small as a spark from fireworks could start a major fire.

Spencer suggests that anyone wishing to use fireworks should contact their local fire department or county officials to make sure that fireworks use will be allowed. Compliance with any restrictions on fireworks use or outdoor burning should be followed so that possibly disastrous fires can be avoided.

Sheriff David Doran looked over the damage Tuesday to this U.S. Customs airplane after it nosed into the ground at the Schleicher County Airport. Pilot Byron Paul said he was performing touch-and-go landings when the Cessna Stationair suddenly lost power. Neither Paul nor passenger Evan Ralph, reported any injuries. Both men are from San Angelo and are employed as U.S. Customs Service agents. DPS Trooper Early Williams was called in to investigate the accident.

County renews burn ban

Fire Chief Jerry Jones urged Schleicher County Commissioner on Monday to reinstate the county-wide burn ban. Jones cited extremely dry conditions and a lack of rain as reasons.

As the men discussed the issue the topic of fireworks came up. County Judge Johnny Griffin noted that there has already been a fireworks stand set up in the county and said it wouldn't be fair to ban fireworks now.

With that, the men voted in favor of a county-wide burn ban, but took no action on fireworks. The burn ban any outdoor burning in the county, but excludes prescribed burns that are supervised by a certified prescribed burn technician. Commissioners Johnny Mayo, Kirk Griffin and Matt Brown voted in favor of the burn ban. Commissioner Bill Clark had stepped out of the meeting and was not present for the vote.

In other business, the commissioners voted to call for bids on a transport load of diesel fuel. Judge Griffin then briefed the court on a proposal to repair the stone facing on the courthouse. The proposal came to $30,170.00 and the men tabled the item without taking action.

The commissioners next voted to continue contracting with Tom Green County Juvenile Probation Services for juvenile detention. Under the new contract the county's cost of housing a juvenile will increased to $83.00 a day.

Judge Griffin asked the commissioners for guidance in writing a job description and qualifications for a maintenance supervisor. The court discussed some qualifications, but the job description will be addressed at the next meeting.

Griffin then advised the commissioners that he had contacted architect Gary Donaldson to assess the cost of adapting the current courthouse courtroom to comply with the Americans with Disabilities Act, or build a new courthouse annex.

Next, the commissioners designated Judge Griffin as agent for Schleicher County when dealing with the Texas Department of Transportation Aviation Division during the airport runway renovations.

The men then discussed setting a time to meet with Pickett tax appraisal firm to review the county's mineral tax roll. Griffin told the court he would set a meeting for the same day Pickett met with the Appraisal District board and would send out the meeting information for the commissioners.

Before adjourning the commissioners reviewed and authorized payment of the county's bills.

Others present for Monday's meeting included Road Superintendent Clay Bureson, County Treasurer Karen Henderson and Deputy Clerk Mary Ann Gonzalez.

AZ grand jury seeks answers from 10 loyal Jeffs followers

State prosecutors in Arizona appear determined to compel testimony from ten members of the FLDS church, despite the fact that they have been unable to serve the men with subpoenas.

Now, the Washington County, Utah Attorney's office, acting on behalf of Arizona, has published a notice commanding the ten men to appear. The men are: Drue Cornel Cooke, Thomas Arden Holm, Brian Richard Jessop, Jonathan J. Jessop, Wayne Jessop, Willie Jessop, Lawrence Stubbs and Janet White.

If the men do appear, they will likely be served with a subpoena compelling their testimony before an Arizona grand jury. Authorities say they will issue arrest warrants for the men if they don't appear.

Some of the men are believed to be connected with FLDS controlled companies involved in construction at the YFZ Ranch here in Schleicher County, Texas. The companies include: JNJ Engineering, Wedgewood Development, Paragon Contractors Corp., R&W Excavating and Samcor Inc.

TCEQ WANTS MORE FINES

The Texas Commission on Environmental Quality is seeking fines totaling $14,140.00 against the YFZ Ranch for a second round of environmental violations occurring during the summer of 2005. The ranch previously paid $20,373.00 in fines for violations occurring in 2004 and Spring of 2005.

Public comment on the second round of violations is being sought by the agency until July 17.

YFZ officials have denied a list of seven allegations brought by the agency, but have tentatively agreed to correct the items and to pay the proposed fine provided the TCEQ executive board agrees with the recommendations of its staff.

The alleged violations, reported in June 20, 2005 and September 29, 2005, include:

- Piles of contaminated surface soils and ash accumulated at burn sites on the YFZ property;
- Composting of mixed municipal solid waste including plastics, treated scrap lumber and sheetrock;

The Wonder of Voodoo Economics

Who says you can't cut taxes, increase spending and reduce the federal budget deficit all at the same time? That's what the Bush administration has managed to do. Two decades after then-presidential candidate George H.W. Bush characterized Ronald Reagan's idea that tax cuts would spur revenue-generating economic growth as "voodoo economics," the witch doctor is again at work.

When President Bush pledged in 2004 to cut the deficit in half by 2009, critics guffawed. The Boston Globe headlined a story, "Bush's plan to halve federal deficit seen as unlikely; higher spending, lower taxes don't mix, analysts say." "Fanciful," "laughable" and "all spin," said the critics.

The Rich Lowry column

Well, it turns out that 2009 might be coming early this year. The 2004 deficit had been projected to hit $521 billion, or 4.5 percent of gross domestic product.

Bush's goal was to cut it to 2.25 percent of GDP by 2009 -- not as stirring a national goal as putting a man on the moon, but one that was nonetheless pronounced unattainable. This year, the deficit could go as low as $300 billion, right around the 2009 goal of 2.5 percent of GDP.

The key to the reduction is revenue growth, which has been stoked by economic growth. Government revenues are up 12.9 percent in the first eight months of this year over the same eight-month period last year -- without any tax increases. When individuals, investors and corporations have more cash in a growing economy, they send more to the federal government in tax payments.

A couple of rounds of Bush tax cuts also played some role in the economic expansion and therefore are responsible, partly, for the increased revenues. This doesn't mean that tax cuts "pay for themselves," as their most fervent advocates say. But they certainly can offset some of their own cost.

According to Brian Riedl of the Heritage Foundation, if annual spending increases in the Bush years had been limited to the rate of the Clinton years, roughly 3.3 percent, there would be a federal surplus now. Instead, spending has been growing at 8 percent a year. That demonstrates that the formula for deficit reduction from the 1990s -- moderate-spending restraint coupled with higher-than-expected growth-generated revenues -- would work again today, if only someone could manage the moderate-spending restraint.

Another similarity from the 1990s is that the revenue surge is driven by high-end earners and corporations. Liberals always rue it when the rich get richer, but when they don't, the federal fisc tends to be ruined because they are the ones who pay most of the taxes. Almost 47 percent of income taxes are paid by those making more than $200,000 a year, and they are thriving again after taking a bath early in the decade. A chunk of the current revenue surge is also from corporate income taxes, which are up 30 percent over last year.

There are limits to voodoo. Today's fiscal improvements will be overwhelmed by the exploding costs of entitlements just over the horizon. In light of that, we should be maintaining a high-growth, low-tax economy to reap all the benefits of growth, but dutifully restraining entitlements. That's not sorcery, but just good sense.

Would George Washington even recognize his country?

I fear that George Washington, first American president, the hero of the American Revolution, and Father of our country, has become little more than a cartoon character in the eyes of modern Americans. So addicted have we become in this shake and bake society to our instant rewards and microwave miracles that we no longer have the patience for complex thought, much less the stomach for protracted difficulty.

I doubt very much if we would have ever won our independence had General Washington found the ranks of his fledgling army filled with sunshine patriots like those who now clog the airways and besot the editorial pages of the our major daily newspapers.

As you pause next week to celebrate this country's 230th birthday, I hope you will take a moment to remember the man who held our tiny nation together. He was the one man who refused to quit when all about him were fleeing in panic. He was very possibly the only man who could mold a mismatched band of farmers and shopkeepers into an army capable of facing down Great Britain, the world's only superpower at that time. He was George Washington and he deserves to be remembered.

Here for your consideration are a few of Washington's own words.

"Discipline is the soul of an army. It makes small numbers formidable; procures success to the weak, and esteem to all."

"Be courteous to all, but intimate with few, and let those few be well tried before you give them your confidence."

"How soon we forget history... Government is not reason; it is not eloquent; it is force. Like fire, it is a dangerous servant and a fearful master."

"I hope I shall possess firmness and virtue enough to maintain what I consider the most enviable of all titles, the character of an honest man."

"If the freedom of speech is taken away then dumb and silent we may be led, like sheep to the slaughter."

"If we desire to avoid insult, we must be able to repel it; if we desire to secure peace, one of the most powerful instruments of our rising prosperity, it must be known, that we are at all times ready for War."

"Let us raise a standard to which the wise and honest can repair; the rest is in the hands of God."

"Liberty, when it begins to take root, is a plant of rapid growth."

"My mother was the most beautiful woman I ever saw. All I am I owe to my mother. I attribute all my success in life to the moral, intellectual and physical education I received from her."

"The time is near at hand which must determine whether Americans are to be free men or slaves."

"To be prepared for war is one of the most effective means of preserving peace."

"It is far better to be alone, than to be in bad company."

"When we assumed the Soldier, we did not lay aside the Citizen."

"Worry is the interest paid by those who borrow trouble."

"Associate yourself with men of good quality if you esteem your own reputation."

"Few men have virtue to withstand the highest bidder."

The Minnesota ice is gone, but it'll be back

Early this spring I ventured north to Minnesota in hopes of recording some frogs for my collection of wildlife sounds. The frogs weren't quite ready for prime time (just a few little chirps, not even a croak yet) so I had some time to spend with my Army buddy, Manny. He lives in an area of many lakes and goes ice fishing on huge Lake Mille Lacs when it freezes over. The lake is nearly square, 20 miles across in any direction.

"The lake starts thawing out in March," says Manny. "When they can go about twenty miles across the lake without seeing any big floating chunks of ice, they consider the lake clear and thawed out, safe for boaters."

He says occasionally the wind blows those big chunks right up on land.

"Sometimes they land on the highways and that creates problems for motorists. Bull dozers have to come along and push them off and break them up."

This stuff sounds so foreign to me. I don't think I've ever seen a

by Tumbleweed Smith

Texas lake freeze over enough to have icebergs.

"These big ice chunks will uproot big trees, just push them out of their way," says Manny. "They'll move anything in their path."

People living by lakes in Minnesota have docks on wheels so they can roll them onto land in the fall before cold weather hits.

"Otherwise these big ice flows could just flip them over. Some of them are as big as a car. They can be a foot thick."

This year he rolled his dock down into the water the second week in April, a little earlier than usual. After he cranks the wheels up, he lowers steel poles with pads on them into the water. Manny has a canoe, a fishing boat and a pontoon party barge. In the winter he pulls them on land and stores them a good distance from the shoreline.

Minnesotans do all kinds of things outdoors on frozen lakes during the winter. The ice gets to be three feet thick by late December.

"When I go ice fishing, I take an ice auger that's 4 feet long so I can bore through the ice. Sometimes I've gone down so far only the handle is above the ice."

On Lake Mille Lacs, as many as 5,000 ice fishing houses are all over the lake. Some are equipped with all the modern conveniences like TV and microwaves. People live in them in winter. Just drive their cars right up to the front door and stay there. One guy has a double wide on the lake with a fireplace and about a dozen fishing holes drilled in the floor. Manny says it looks like a dance hall out there. The fish houses have to be off the lake by February 28.

The lake has roads on it. Snowplows come by regularly to make the 130 miles of roads on the lake passable. I'll tell you, for a Texan this is a strange sight.

Ballot will show five candidates running for governor

By Ed Sterling

AUSTIN — Independent candidates for governor Kinky Friedman and Carole Keeton Strayhorn will be on the Nov. 7 ballot.

On June 21, the secretary of state's office told the two they gathered several times more than the required number of valid signatures.

Independents must petition for a ballot spot, because they have no statewide primaries. Their campaigns had the 62 days prior to May 11 to come up with at least 45,540 signatures, or 1 percent of the total number of registered voters in the state.

Secretary of State Roger Williams, the state's chief elections officer, indicated ballots probably will list the two as Richard S. "Kinky" Friedman and Carole Keeton Strayhorn.

Strayhorn wants "Grandma" added to her name. Williams said Grandma is more of a slogan than a nickname, and state law prohibits slogans on the ballot.

Also running for governor are incumbent Republican Rick Perry, Democrat Chris Bell and Libertarian James Werner.

"Not one but two viable independent candidates have made the ballot for the first time in nearly 150 years," Friedman said. "This tells us what we've long suspected: the two-party system has failed our state. ..."

Strayhorn decries foster system

Comptroller Strayhorn said her agency has turned up a list of problems with the state's foster care system.

She cited reports of Medicaid prescription fraud and abuse, poisonings, rapes and pregnancies of children in the state's foster care system.

Strayhorn said Fiscal 2003 information from the Texas Department of Family and Protective Services documents that 30 foster children died in the state's care; in Fiscal 2004, 38 foster children died; and in Fiscal 2005, 48 foster children died.

Strayhorn said she urged Gov. Perry to create a family and protective services crisis management team by executive order in 2004, but the governor failed to act.

Chevron joins cigarette pact

Texas Attorney General Greg Abbott announced Chevron has agreed to do more to prevent minors from buying cigarettes.

CVS Pharmacy, Conoco Phillips 7-Eleven, Wal-Mart, BP Amoco, Walgreen Drug Stores and Exxon Mobil have already agreed to do the same.

These companies post "We Card Under 30" notices and verify the age of the cigarette purchaser. And, they don't display self-serve tobacco kiosks, vending machines, free samples and cigarette look-alike products.

Redistricting decision due

A case over the Texas Legislature's remapping of congressional districts is on the U.S. Supreme Court docket and may soon be decided.

The Republican Party gained five seats in Congress after lawmakers redrew the boundaries in the 2003 legislative session. The legislation prompted many House and Senate Democrats to temporarily leave the state in protest.

The high court heard oral arguments in late February. The outcome may affect the Nov. 7 election.

Skeptic dishes border plan

CNN commentator Lou Dobbs has been calling states' sending National Guard troops to duty assignments on the U.S.-Mexico border a publicity stunt.

Dobbs most recently made the remark June 25 on ABC-TV's "This Week" with George Stephanopoulos.

Gov. Perry has sent about 100 troops for border duty so far. He plans to send about 2,000 Texas-based troops to assist in a federal homeland security operation to protect the border.

Katrina money goes to Houston

Gov. Perry released $19.5 million in federal money to the city of Houston and Harris County to support public safety efforts in response to the ongoing impact of Hurricane Katrina. The federal grant funds are part of a congressional earmark to support hurricane recovery efforts in Texas.

Busy park not taken for 'Granite' in the Hill Country

by Mark K. Campbell
 In these drought conditions, it's rare to find a constant level body of water in Texas.

But you - with thousands of others who already knew - can find it at Inks Lake State Park.

Part of seven lakes that make up the Hill Country's Highland Lakes chain, Inks Lake maintains a steady water level.

And that brings out boaters and campers far and wide. The park is west of Burnet and down three miles on Park Road 4. Just farther past is Longhorn Cavern State Park - a place we went wild caving in a few years ago and where I probably accidentally drank an endangered species.

Inks Lake offers a golf course that apparently isn't played a lot. There aren't many places you can get right on but this might be one. Carts and clubs are available for the 9-holer.

The main attraction is camping. Inks Lake is loaded with sites: a mind-boggling 289 of them. And often every one is taken. We lucked out, however, and snagged a "mini-cabin."

The "mini-cabin"

Right across the water - the lake is really a wide stretch of the Colorado River - is where the rich people reside. Huge houses and summer resorts, some with massive water slides and colorful sailboats, line the opposite shore. The wealthy looked like they were having fun.

We are not rich, and, while we had fun, we did not stay in a mansion. Our small cabin - $45 nightly and modeled apparently after a prison cell with bunk beds, a cement floor, and an overhead light that was queerly flashing so much that at first we grooved to the strobe effect then we got nauseous and had to sit down - was perched about 100 feet from the water.

There was a small table inside and four chairs. But no linens. So we went to Wal-Mart (the nearest one is in Marble Falls) and slept on newly-unwrapped sheets that still had that freaky chemical smell, kind of like a greeter.

Anyway, the place was more than adequate and being next to the bathroom was a bonus. The cabins have no facilities for personal hygiene or inside cooking.

But it does have wonderful refrigerated air conditioning and at 3:30 p.m., that is all you'll care about.

If you have a problem using a community restroom (where the humidity is unearthly and dirt daubers live by the millions), you should visit the park headquarters where the lobby is open 24 hours and is air conditioned. You can't shower there, but you can take care of most everything else. (Be advised, however, that Texas Parks and Wildlife has managed to purchase the thinnest sheets of toilet paper ever made; you could read a prospectus through it.)

The showers are ancient, but after a day of hiking/boating/swimming/etc., you won't mind. (However, don't use that soap someone left behind. This is the reason you always snatch up those teeny soaps and shampoos during hotel stays.)

It's at the bathrooms that you'll see the most disregarded sign in Texas: "No one under 21 can ride in the back of a pick up. Sept. 1, 2001." Never has a law been so blatantly blown off - kids hang off trucks like they're in a parade.

The best cabins are 1 through 5 which are grouped together. The very best is No. 7 which is right near the lake. Avoid Nos. 13 and 14 which are far too close to some stagnant water.

Campers have near-the-waves options or spots recessed a bit back to get away from the Shiner chug-a-lugging Big City clientele who have come out from Austin or San Antonio to seek nature.

The lake

Boats galore hit the water here, including anglers.

The lake contains several sloughs etched through towering granite. Behind the park store, canoes, kayaks, and paddleboats are available for rental. The lake's surface is gentle most of the time - especially in the sloughs - so getting around is no problem.

Anglers get out early while parents and kids can be seen tooling around the calmer, no wake waters near the bank.

Swimming opportunities vary. At our nearby bank, the surface underwater was filled with slick, crushed granite, but it gently sloped out and was safe for kids and the big women who kept flipping over on their $1.50 Wal-Mart air mattresses.

The main body of the lake is controlled by speeding ski boats

Buffalo Soldiers impart living history at summer events

Famed historical re-enactors currently participating in Intercultural Camp at Ft. McKavett

AUSTIN, Texas — This summer, the Texas Buffalo Soldiers have a full schedule of activities including presentations at youth camps, a Last Frontier Heritage Tourism event in Cochran County and three weekends of celebrations at the HemisFair Plaza in San Antonio.

In 1999, the Texas Legislature proclaimed July "Texas Buffalo Soldiers Heritage Month," making this the only state in the Union that recognizes the Buffalo Soldiers with a month-long celebration. The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's "Texas Buffalo Soldier" Outdoor Educational Programs utilizes a network of Buffalo Soldiers volunteer groups and community partners to stage and produce living history encampments, trail rides and other events.

American Indians dubbed the African-American regiments "buffalo soldiers." Some say the Indians thought the soldiers' curly hair resembled the buffalo's sacred mane, while others believe the Indians were referring to the soldiers' fighting spirit.

The program's youth outreach focus has expanded to encompass Hispanic Vaqueros, American Indians, Frontier Women and other cultural groups contributing to the rich history of the 1800's. They conduct ongoing cultural research, coordinate dozens of living history events for schools and youth groups across Texas each year and promote the Texas Buffalo Soldiers Heritage Trail, which follows routes taken across Texas in the 1800's by military personnel and civilians.

Camp Coca Cola, held at the Parrie Haynes Ranch, will feature a session with the Buffalo Soldiers as one element of the multi-week camp program. The camp is a one-month immersion in leadership training and community service for at-risk youth. The Buffalo Soldier events are scheduled for June 8, June 15, July 8 and July 15.

Cochran County's "Texas Last Frontier Heritage Celebration," based at Cochran County Park in Morton west of Lubbock is a free event open to the public the weekend of June 23-25. Here visitors of all ages can listen to Buffalo Soldiers stories and experience what daily life was like in camp and on patrol.

Buffalo Soldiers will also be featured in Texas' first intercultural youth camp at Fort McKavett from June 24 to July 1. Youth ages 9 to 12 will participate in a program called Old Stories, New Voices, which spotlights the contributions of African Americans, American Indians, Hispanics, and Anglos to Texas' history and culture. Old Stories, New Voices is a project of the Colorado Historical Society, made possible with grant funding from Texas State Parks and Wildlife, The Texas State Historical Association, The Bob Bullock Texas State History Museum, The Colorado Historical Society, The National Park Service and The National Endowment for the Humanities.

At San Antonio's HemisFair Plaza, the Buffalo Soldiers Living History & Heritage Organization will sponsor the annual Texas Buffalo Soldiers Month Celebration. The event takes place July 1, 22 and 29.

and jet skis; the aquacycles follow the former's wake like cowbirds do cattle.

But you can canoe and kayak safely just off the shoreline and explore the ample cut-outs. One slough hides the best part of Inks Lake.

The Devil's Waterhole

The Devil Went Down to Georgia and apparently he stopped by the Lone Star State on the way. In Texas there's the Devil's Backbone (a Hill Country scenic drive) and the Devil's Sinkhole (which you'd think would be in Florida but is a bat habitat in Texas). There's Devil's Rope (barbed wire), dust devils (whirlwinds), and the Devil's shoestring (a cactus). At Inks Lake, you'll find the Devil's Waterhole.

It's easy to access from the far northeastern part of the camping area. Parking can be tough there, however, so some folks lay claim to camp sites 247, 248 and 250. From there, not only do you have easy access, but you can see the kind of weirdos - like us - who venture past by the hundreds daily.

The short, downhill walk is easy and only about 1/4 mile long. Staking out a place to throw a towel is limited. It's best to just go right under a large overhang - watch out for that massive wasp nest - and enter the water there.

The Waterhole - which you can barely see a part of from a scenic pull-off up on Park Road 4 - is a deep chasm cut between the rugged granite. On the far side, folks leap into the deep green water.

Heights vary from one foot to 20 (where I dared to sail off, once) to atop a towering boulder that creates a 40-plus foot drop.

It's great fun, but like everything else, there are plenty of teen-agers and 20-somethings who feel compelled to impress their comrades and others by cussing a lot. Especially when they jump.

One serious caution: the exposed, smooth granite is extremely slippery. Most jumpers wear water shoes of some sort. You'd hate to roll Homer Simpson-like down the rock then catapult into the water. People would laugh, if you surfaced.

The Devil's Waterhole was the gem of the park. You can paddle from around the corner or hike to this terrific, unique swimming hole. The place is much less crowded on weekdays.

Hiking

Even in the Texas heat, you can get up early enough to take a nice hike. Inks Lake not only offers several miles of trails, but, out of the blue, pink granite formations erupt from the earth to be scaled. We hiked the 2-mile trail that begins near headquarters and hugs the lake. (The other two paths venture to the opposite side of the park road, one to primitive camping.)

Our trail meandered through sweetgums and junipers - and the ever-present cedars, of course - before occasionally going straight up a granite face.

We spied plenty of "wildlife" - the deer are plentiful and they don't even flinch at humans and the fox we were excited to have spied in a deep thicket turned out to be a near-pet that visits several camping spots nightly. We were pleased to discover a painted bunting - a brilliantly colored bird that's skittish and seldom seen.

The only problem with our trail was that it often bent close to the park road where traffic zoomed by.

Except for that dead-of-night mockingbird that perfectly mimicked a car alarm, we had a pleasant stay at Inks Lake.

A spray away: insect repellent best way to prevent West Nile

With warm weather here to stay, mosquitoes are multiplying across the state — some of them carrying the West Nile virus. But there is a simple way people can bite back: insect repellent.

"Use a good insect repellent. Use it every time you are outdoors. That's the No. 1 thing people can do to protect themselves from mosquito-borne illnesses," said Jim Schuermann with the Zoonosis Control Group at the Texas Department of State Health Services (DSHS). "It's tough to tell people to wear long sleeves and long pants in the Texas heat."

West Nile virus can cause serious illness in humans. Mosquitoes get the virus from feeding on infected birds. West Nile virus cases usually begin in late spring, peak in early August and continue through the fall. Last year, 128 human cases of West Nile virus were reported in Texas, including 11 deaths.

"West Nile virus is here. We know it's not going away. Now is the time people need to think about prevention," Schuermann said. "If you go outside, wear repellent."

Look for insect repellents that contain DEET, picaridin or oil of lemon eucalyptus. According to a 2005 DSHS analysis, 60 percent of the people who got the most serious forms of West Nile infection never used repellent.

"Use a good repellent on bare skin and follow the directions on the label," Schuermann said. "DEET is the standby — long-lasting and effective. Picaridin-based repellents are new, tend to smell better and are less oily. Lemon eucalyptus-based repellents are ideal for people who are sensitive to — or just don't like using — chemical repellents."

DSHS offers these recommendations:

- Store insect repellent at the front and back doors of your home and apply when you go outside. Keep extra repellent in outdoor areas such as patios and decks.

- Mosquito-proof your home. Make sure door seals are secure and window screens are intact.

- Drain standing water from around your home. Empty cans, buckets, tires, rain gutters and saucers under potted plants regularly. Change the water in pet bowls, bird baths and wading pools several times a week.

- Limit the amount of time you spend outdoors from dusk to dawn. These are times when those mosquitoes likely to carry infections are most active.

The risk of exposure to West Nile virus is relatively small. Not all mosquito species can transmit the virus. Of the species that can, only about one in 100 mosquitoes will carry the virus. Eighty percent of people infected with West Nile virus have no symptoms and recover on their own. But the virus can cause serious illness.

Symptoms of the milder forms of West Nile illness include fever, severe headache, muscle and bone aches, nausea and drowsiness. Symptoms of more serious forms of West Nile illness include a stiff neck, visual problems, altered taste, body tremors, mental confusion, memory loss and seizures. Symptoms usually appear from three to 14 days after a person is bitten.

People most at risk of developing symptoms include those older than 50 and those with compromised immune systems. If West Nile illness is suspected, people should contact their local health care provider. A blood test can confirm West Nile infection. There is no specific treatment for West Nile infections.

West Nile virus was first identified in Texas in 2002 and has since been found throughout the state. DSHS conducts surveillance testing on mosquitoes in many areas of the state. DSHS also provides kits to local health departments, animal control facilities, veterinarians, county extension offices and other local entities for testing birds for West Nile virus.

People should not handle dead birds with their bare hands. Instead, use a shovel, protective gloves or plastic bags. Throw birds away in an outdoor garbage can. Most bird deaths pose no threat to human health, but if West Nile virus is suspected contact your local health department.

Other mosquito-borne illnesses include St. Louis encephalitis, eastern equine encephalitis, western equine encephalitis and dengue fever. For more information visit the DSHS Web site, www.dshs.state.tx.us.

TEXAS COMMISSION ON ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY

NOTICE OF RECEIPT OF APPLICATION AND INTENT TO OBTAIN WATER QUALITY PERMIT PROPOSED PERMIT NO. WQ0014722001

APPLICATION. YFZ Land, LLC, P.O. Box 715, Eldorado, Texas 76939-0715, has applied to the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality (TCEQ) for proposed wastewater disposal Permit No. WQ0014722001 to authorize the disposal of treated wastewater at a volume not to exceed a daily average flow of 100,000 gallons per day via irrigation of 125 acres. The domestic wastewater treatment facility and disposal area are located approximately 6.0 miles northeast of the intersection of U.S. Highway 277 and County Road 300 in Schleicher County, Texas. TCEQ received this application on June 8, 2006. The permit application is available for viewing and copying at the Schleicher County Courthouse, County Clerk, Courthouse Square, U.S. Highway 277, Eldorado, Texas.

ADDITIONAL NOTICE. TCEQ's Executive Director has determined the application is administratively complete and will conduct a technical review of the application. After technical review of the application is complete, the Executive Director may prepare a draft permit and will issue a preliminary decision on the application. Notice of the Application and Preliminary Decision will be published and mailed to those who are on the county-wide mailing list and to those who are on the mailing list for this application. That notice will contain the deadline for submitting public comments.

PUBLIC COMMENT / PUBLIC MEETING. You may submit public comments or request a public meeting on this application. The purpose of a public meeting is to provide the opportunity to submit comments or to ask questions about the application. TCEQ will hold a public meeting if the Executive Director determines that there is a significant degree of public interest in the application or if requested by a local legislator. A public meeting is not a contested case hearing.

OPPORTUNITY FOR A CONTESTED CASE HEARING. After the deadline for submitting public comments, the Executive Director will consider all timely comments and prepare a response to all relevant and material, or significant public comments. Unless the application is directly referred for a contested case hearing, the response to comments, and the Executive Director's decision on the application, will be mailed to everyone who submitted public comments and to those persons who are on the mailing list for this application.

If comments are received, the mailing will also provide instructions for requesting reconsideration of the Executive Director's decision and for requesting a contested case hearing. A contested case hearing is a legal proceeding similar to a civil trial in state district court.

TO REQUEST A CONTESTED CASE HEARING, YOU MUST INCLUDE THE FOLLOWING ITEMS IN YOUR REQUEST: your name, address, phone number; applicant's name and proposed permit number; the location and distance of your property/activities relative to the proposed facility; a specific description of how you would be adversely affected by the facility in a way not common to the general public; and, the statement "[I/we] request a contested case hearing." If the request for contested case hearing is filed on behalf of a group or association, the request must designate the group's representative for receiving future correspondence; identify an individual member of the group who would be adversely affected by the proposed facility or activity; provide the information discussed above regarding the affected member's location and distance from the facility or activity; explain how and why the member would be affected; and explain how the interests the group seeks to protect are relevant to the group's purpose.

Following the close of all applicable comment and request periods, the Executive Director will forward the application and any requests for reconsideration or for a contested case hearing to the TCEQ Commissioners for their consideration at a scheduled Commission meeting.

The Commission will only grant a contested case hearing on disputed issues of fact that are relevant and material to the Commission's decision on the application. Further, the Commission will only grant a hearing on issues that were raised in timely filed comments that were not subsequently withdrawn.

MAILING LIST. If you submit public comments, a request for a contested case hearing or a reconsideration of the Executive Director's decision, you will be added to the mailing list for this specific application to receive future public notices mailed by the Office of the Chief Clerk. In addition, you may request to be placed on: (1) the permanent mailing list for a specific applicant name and permit number; and/or (2) the mailing list for a specific county. If you wish to be placed on the permanent and/or the county mailing list, clearly specify which list(s) and send your request to TCEQ Office of the Chief Clerk at the address below.

AGENCY CONTACTS AND INFORMATION. All written public comments and requests must be submitted to the Office of the Chief Clerk, MC 105, TCEQ, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, TX 78711-3087. If you need more information about this permit application or the permitting process, please call TCEQ Office of Public Assistance, Toll Free, at 1-800-687-4040. Si desea información en Español, puede llamar al 1-800-687-4040. General information about TCEQ can be found at our web site at www.tceq.state.tx.us.

Sister Maria Josefina offered her first vows of chastity, obedience and poverty on Saturday, June 22, 2006, before a large crowd in the chapel at the Our Lady of Grace Monastery. Here she is shown accepting a decorated candle from Most Reverend Michael D. Pfeifer, O.M.I., D.D., who lit it with the Paschal Candle. Sister Maria Josefina, formerly Jannie Gonzales of Bryan, TX, is one of five nuns who make their home in the monastery located in eastern Schleicher County. She is the first native Texan to take her vows at Our Lady of Grace Monastery.

YFZ Ranch seeks new permit for wastewater treatment plant

- Outdoor burning of plastics, computer parts, cardboard and insulation;
- Failing to properly manage spent sandblasting media generated during the refurbishing of equipment at the ranch's proposed sewer plant;
- Unauthorized discharge of wastewater from a wastewater holding tank;
- Failing to properly dispose of hydraulic oil found on the ground surrounding a 500 gallon above ground storage tank; and
- Construction and operation of a cement silo that emits air contaminants without a required TCEQ permit.

WASTEWATER REDUX

YFZ officials are once again pursuing a permit for a wastewater treatment plant at ranch. This time the proposed permit calls for all effluent to be used for irrigation on the YFZ property. (See Public Notice on Page 8)

The ranch's first attempt at obtaining a permit ended in failure when neighboring ranchers and a coalition headed by the Upper Colorado River Authority opposed the application. The main cause for concern, the discharge of effluent into Milligan Draw, a tributary of the South Concho River, seems to have been addressed by the irrigation provisions in the new permit application.

Persons wanting more information about the proposed TCEQ fines or the new YFZ wastewater permit are encouraged to contact the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality in San Angelo at 655-9479.

WAYFARING PROPHET

All attempts to locate fugitive FLDS Prophet Warren Jeffs have so far been in vain. The elusive leader of the polygamous Mormon sect now building a new town on the YFZ Ranch landed on the FBI Top Ten Fugitives List in May. At that same time, authorities offered a $100,000.00 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of Jeffs.

Jeffs is wanted on two federal charges of Unlawful Flight to Avoid Prosecution as well as Rape as an Accomplice charges in Utah. Jeffs is wanted in Arizona on charges of Sexual Conduct and Conspiracy to Commit Sexual Conduct with a minor. Both the Arizona and Utah charges stem from Jeffs' alleged involvement in arranging and performing under-aged marriages.

Persons with information concerning the whereabouts of Warren Jeffs are asked to contact the Schleicher County Sheriff's Department at 325-853-2737 or the FBI field office in San Angelo at 325-942-8588.

Celebrate the 4th With the Fresh Flavors of Summer

Chipotle-Glazed Alaska Salmon With Northwest Cherry Firecracker Salsa

FAMILY FEATURES

This summer, fireworks won't be the only dazzlers on the Fourth of July — or at your summer backyard barbecue. When you gather friends and family, serve up the best of the season with flavors that sparkle, sizzle and satisfy.

First, make it easy. Pour your guests a restaurant-quality, ready-to-serve Jose Cuervo Golden Margarita. Blended with the rich orange flavor of Grand Marnier, this golden margarita is great served frozen or on the rocks — whichever you prefer. You also can use golden margarita in vinaigrettes for salads or in bastes and glazes for grilled food, or you can drizzle it over desserts. Or pull out the blender to make a signature Northwest Cherry Bomb Margarita with sweet cherries and a squeeze of fresh lime juice.

Next, stir together a Firecracker Salsa or a crisp salad made with fresh sweet cherries from the Pacific Northwest. Cherries remain one of the last truly seasonal fruits. Their short but oh-so-sweet season begins in early June and runs through mid-August. Add them to your favorite recipes or simply eat these two-bite-size beauties out of hand. Sweet cherries contain antioxidants and are rich in vitamin C. They're a good source of fiber, yet fat- and cholesterol-free, with a Glycemic Index of only 22.

Then, fire up the grill. What better entrée to sizzle on the grill than fresh, wild-caught Alaska salmon from sustainable fisheries. Alaska salmon have firm flesh and great taste from cold, clean waters. Choose from among five different species: King, Coho, Keta, Sockeye or Pink. To heighten salmon's superb flavor even more, brush on a grilling glaze flavored with golden margarita and chipotle. Then celebrate that something that tastes this great can be so good for you. Salmon, as you know, is high in omega-3 fatty acids that contribute to heart health.
