Gas Production Estimated At 5 Million Cubic Feet Daily

PROSPECTS FOR GOOD PRODUCER DRILLING AT 5,400

After being gauged at 3,480,000 cubic feet of sweet gas per day, gas production in the John M. Cooper's Bert Page no. 1 has continually increased its production and is now estimated at approximately five million cubic feet per day. The gauge test was declared inaccurate because of leaks which allowed a large portion of the gas to escape without being gauged.

Dressing tools took most of Thursday; but drilling was resumed last night at 5,400. Since the shutdown, two weeks ago, the well has been deepened 56 feet up to the resumption of drilling last night. According to information given to the Success yesterday, the well is being deepened at the rate of about one foot per hour, but drilling is sometimes slower, depending on the hardness and structure of the formation.

As drilling was resumed last night, drillers were confident that pay production had been reached. The well, according to those in charge, will blow itself in. If it fails to blow itself in, acid or blasting will be employed, the drillers stated.

The formations in the Bert Page well are considerably over a thousand feet above those in the Whitten well, and according to report, the chances for good production in the Bert Page are much better than they were for the Whitten well. The formations in the Bert Page still remain unidentified, positively.

The showing of sweet oil which made its first appearance Sunday, June 10, has gradually increased, and production has been estimated at anywhere from 1 to 15 barrels daily. A conservative report has placed the present oil production at three barrels. Drillers report that the flow of gas from the Bert Page well is of a commercial quantity.

Several deals have been made in Schleicher recently in the strength of the new oil developments. The Success could not verify all of these deals, but those that were verified can be found on page 6 under "Oil Leases."

This is one of a series of amendments simplifying local government, one of which, county home rule, already has been adopted. Others are for abolishing the fee system, merger or abolishing counties, permitting See Proposed Changes, page 6

Interpretative Flashes

June 15 passed with only one of fourteen nations paying her war debts to the U. S. Finland paid. Several Nations declared that the Johnson act, which declared them total defaulters if they did not make complete payment, kept them from making token payments. Other nations blamed the defaulters for their failure to pay war debts. The truth of the matter is that European nations were looking for an excuse to keep from paying the debts. It means that Europe's credit with this country is ruined, and in the face of the now smoldering war embers in Europe, it may be a good thing that they have defaulted. The only trouble with the whole situation is that American tax payers will bear the brunt of the war debts now because the U. S. Government borrowed the money to loan to Europe and the government must pay it back.

The disarmament conference will drop out of the picture for the time being. Committees have been appointed to "study" the situation. It's just an easy way of saying, "we have failed again." After all, the easiest (Continued on page 6)

EDITOR RECEIVES LETTER COMMENDING EDITORIAL

Abilene, Texas
June 17, 1934

Editor Success: I have just received your issue of June 15, 1934. I am glad to see that you are doing a good job of educating the public. It seems to me that our entire educational machinery through public schools, on through colleges is geared up to alienate young people from vocational or any other life except professional, and teaching school predominates by about 54 per cent. Not long ago I asked a young man, teacher why in the heck did all young men who graduate from college try (See Editor Receives, p. 5)

Texas Wool Market Opens; Eldorado Co. Completes Shipment of Government Mortgaged Wool

The first sale of a sizable accumulation of Texas Wool was announced early this week by Schleicher Wool & Mohair Company of Kerrville. Hilliard & Son at prices ranging from 23c to 26c per pound.

Reports vary as to the average price for wools included in this sale, but it is generally believed by those in touch with the situation that the price average of the sale was around 25c per pound or a clean cost delivered Boston from 68c to 69c.

At the close of the previous week deals had been consummated at other points in the territory at prices ranging from 25c to 28 1/2c per pound.

The Eldorado Wool Company local wool & mohair warehouse, completed shipment this week of government mortgaged wools consigned under Farm Credit Administration regulations to eastern marketing agencies. The total tonnage of those wools shipped amounted in the aggregate to 145,000 pounds. With the movement of these wools completed, the warehouse has on hand now approximately 1,100,000 pounds of the spring clip.

WRIGHT, FORMER EDITOR OF SUCCESS, PRAISED BY FLORENCE EDITOR

The retirement from the newspaper field of A. T. Wright, editor and publisher of the Eldorado Success, is noted with regret. Editor Wright has just completed 28 years of service in this capacity, keeping the best interests of his community always in mind. Editor Wright is one of the few weekly newspaper publishers still openly and fearlessly fighting the liquor traffic, and was recently rewarded by a 7 to 1 vote against beer for his precinct. Reading between the lines of his farewell announcement a possibility is seen that this retirement may not be permanent. As one who has read the editorial contributions of Editor Wright with both enjoyment and appreciation, we hope this may be so. —Florence Vidette.

500-MILE RACE RECORD LARGELY DUE TO SAFER TIRES

When you consider that tires are made largely of vegetable compounds—namely, rubber and cotton—it seems almost beyond belief that for all of the 33 entries in the Indianapolis 500-mile race there was not a single tire failure.

Few would have thought that centrifugal force at such speeds increases the size of the tire at least ten percent. This action of the tires is an indication of the terrific forces that are straining and pulling at them, and it was only the advanced engineering by Firestone—that provided the necessary strength and safety for such a tire ordeal. All the cars that qualified were equipped with Firestone tires.

Record speeds combined with the sun to impose the ultimate of grueling tire tests—for heat and speed are the greatest enemies of tire life. The first ten laps over the hot tracks averaged more than 115 miles per hour. The new world record of 104.865 miles per hour for the 500 miles meant 150 miles per hour on the straightaways.

In racing and motoring, the two chief causes of premature tire failure are tread separation and internal friction. These two difficulties are overcome by the Firestone patented process of Gum-Dipping by which the high stretch cords are saturated and coated with liquid rubber so that the tread and body of the tire can be welded into one cohesive unit. This means that the cords and fibers of the tire are insulated against the heat of internal friction.

The greatest proving ground in the world—the Indianapolis Speedway—has proved that the new Firestone High Speed tires for 1934 are the safest, strongest, longest-wearing tires ever made.

THE POLITICAL RAMBLE

(Clip and keep this column each week. It will help you choose your candidates for state offices.)

Editor's note: This column was begun last week and will continue as long as we can get the proper "low down" on the candidates. We are carrying this column in a special effort to aid the voters of this county to pick a clean government for our state in 1935-36. We haven't been able to get much inside information on some of the candidates, due to the fact that they seem more interested in letting us know where they were born and where they are going to speak "before a large and interested crowd" than they do in letting us know just exactly WHAT THEY KNOW AND FOR. We are inclined to believe that some of them stand for a little of nothing.

THE GOVERNOR'S RACE:

Tom F. Hunter: against out of state chain stores and for individual business man; for shifting tax burden to wealthy; relieving the real estate tax burden which pays 77 percent of our ad valorem tax but brings in only 13 percent of our income; abolition of ad valorem tax; do away with poll tax, reduction of utilities rates; better schools; reorganization of state government. (We will give a resume of Hunter's tax platform next issue.)

Clint S. Small: Against crime; a gainst pardons; statewide police force.

James V. Allred: Against chain stores and monopolies.

PRICE MARK-UP STILL REMAINS A PART OF NRA

BROWNWOOD, Texas, June 21.—Stabilization of industry and removal of business uncertainty can be expected to result from the new NRA "pricing policy" which more firmly imbeds into the fundamentals of NRA policy antichiselers price protections. Dodge Price, Executive Secretary of the Brownwood Area No. 10, Local Food and Grocery Distributors' Code Authority, asserted today in commenting on the effect of the new ruling on the largest single NRA code.

The food code, embracing close to 400,000 wholesale and retail grocery establishments doing more than ten billion dollars' business, protects every member of the sales practices by a provision to insure a return of a part of the labor costs involved under NRA increases. Mr. Price specifically explained that the labor mark-up remains undisturbed as an integral part of the NRA policy by the price policy announcement.

"The grocers have fought for years to protect themselves and their customers from uneconomic competition and also from unnatural restraint on competition. With NRA cooperation, the trade is moving toward a rational solution of the price problem," he stated.

Mr. Price cited the following statement by A. W. Riley, Administrator, Division 6, NRA, who is the Administrator of the food code:

"NRA announcement of price policy does not amend any approved codes; (Wholesale Food and Grocery Trade and Retail Food and Grocery Trade) code is in full effect as now written and continued compliance with all provisions is required. Stop. Please give full publicity to this telegram."

DENNIS WALLER TAKES DEAD BROTHER'S PLACE

AUSTIN, Texas, June 21.—Dennis Waller, brother of Rex Waller who was shot at Trinity, Texas, May 23, has announced his intentions of continuing his brother's campaign for State Treasurer. Rex was waging his campaign for this office at the time of his death. He was shot, according to Dennis Waller, the present candidate, because of his possessing an extortion letter written by the man who did the shooting.

Mr. Waller promises to continue his race for the office of State Treasurer on his deceased brother's platform which principally declared that the state treasury would not be used as a dumping ground for worthless securities, that no taxpayer's dollar would be tied up in insecure banks, and that there would be no job selling in the treasury department. Mr. Waller flayed Mr. Lockhart, present treasurer for his failure to live squarely up to a public trust.

Feels a Lot Better When Black-Draught Relieves Constipation

From many states come reports like the following from Mr. W. M. Henderson, of Jasper, Fla.: "I have been taking Thedford's Black-Draught twenty years. I take it for constipation that gives me a dull, tired, aching feeling, and I have headache, too. Black-Draught relieves me of this trouble. After a few doses, I feel as good as new. I keep it in my home. I have a big family. When one of us is ailing (from constipation), we take Black-Draught and almost always feel a lot better. It has been worth its weight in gold to my family."... Sold in 25¢ packages. "Children like the Syrup."

"REMEMBER GIRLS
... I must leave at 4 to cook supper ..."

"Goodness, Evelyn," says Rose, "when will you ever make up your mind to get an Electric Range? We girls also have to have 6:30 suppers, but it's no problem at all with automatic cooking. We just put the entire meal in the oven before going out, set the clock control, and supper is being cooked while we play. The same control automatically turns off the current when the cooking process should stop, and the insulated oven retains sufficient heat to keep the food tender and piping hot to serve when we want it."

"Don't say you can't afford one. Really, it's so economical. Costs less than a penny per person, per meal, to operate, and you can buy one on a small down payment and easy terms. I wouldn't be without one, would you girls?"

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule... and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

DO YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

Our Excuse

This editor is very young at the game of editing, this being our third edition; and having never worked on a newspaper in an editorial capacity before we may have to be excused several times for errors of thought, tactics, and policies. We will ask our readers to bear with us because we are trying hard to give you a paper that you can appreciate.

But that is neither here nor there. We started out in this column to defend our best decisions; and we thought, before we started defending anything we had said, that we might better attribute some of it to ignorance.

INFLATION VS. CIRCULATION

A scribe in the Dallas Morning News intimated in the issue of that paper dated June 15 that we might be one of his inflationist friends just because we stated that the purpose of the silver bill was to expand currency and improve the general circulation of money. We were merely stating a fact. That is the purpose of the silver bill. We are not a die-hard inflationist; on the contrary, we claim to be only a progressive conservative who likes to see things improve along practical, sensible, and conservative lines.

But we do maintain our point that an increased circulation of money will help things in America. The Dallas scribe made the statement that America does its business on the credit. That's just it—too much credit business has ruined America financially; and what we need now is some good old hard cash with which to transact business, and if there is more money in circulation, there is more to be had. We don't want worthless money like our inflationist friends' either, but if silver were a money standard, then money backed by silver would be "good" money. There is not enough gold in all the world to back all of the money that would be necessary to pay American debts. A bimetal standard wouldn't be radical, and it most certainly would improve the circulation of currency. Did the United States go off of the gold standard just because she wanted a change? You guess the answer.

After all has been said, let me ask you this simple question: What is money anyway? Answer: It is purely a medium of exchange. Question: What is the only requirement necessary to constitute "good" money? Answer: any medium that will be acceptable generally with the public. A dollar in one's pocket simply means that one's has been productive enough at some time or other to deserve a certificate of award—that certificate (in the case of a dollar bill) being guaranteed by the government, and the other fellow accepts it as such and trades other results of productivity such as work, raw materials, or finished products, for it. People could barter with work, raw materials, or goods as of old if it were not so much trouble, but we found a better way: that of trading through a medium which represents in a ratio of set values, our productivity of labor, materials, or goods. The truth of the matter is, any medium backed by a stable government is generally accepted by (and worthy of acceptance by) the citizens of that government. (Note: we say stable government). But when an accepted medium is not available in sufficient quantities, what are the people to do? Circulation of money is what we need—no question about it. We may be a greenhorn editor of a hick paper in a small town, but we know when the public has need of money—not credit; and it is our belief that if money were backed by dust with Uncle Sam's signature on it, the people would take it. When Uncle Sam speaks, his loyal citizens are ready to cooperate. We are not advocating any such thing as inflation (the Dallas scribe left the impression that we might be), but we are here to tell you that all of this of air and red tape about what money must be backed with before it is "good" money is just about three degrees beside the point when a great people are in grave need. Let's be a little more practical and consider what's best and what's right in behalf of humanity—not what some inebriated traditions has set up for us. If the people had always accepted timeworn traditions there would not be any America to be thinking about. Had you ever thought of that?

We are neither an inflationist, as we have already said, nor a technocrat but we believe that our medium of exchange should be more of a representative certificate of our productivity, than something that—no matter how hard a person labors, no matter HOW MUCH or HOW WELL HE PRODUCES—HE CAN NOT EASILY OBTAIN. That kind of money which is so difficult to obtain, regardless of one's productivity, doesn't represent anything but the stamp of injustice. Had you ever thought of that?

But we had better close this discussion before we waste all of our inspiration on this one subject. Too, somebody else might accuse us of being an inflationist. Everybody to his own opinion of course, and our opinion is that a sufficient circulation of representative certificates is necessary to the wellbeing of any nation when we consider the necessity of the presence of an unhampered buying power to the life of trade. Ho—hum; useless to try to change anyone's opinion or to reform a world, isn't it? But let us say this one other thing: when any system of this old world's organization begins to change for the better, let er change! The man who tries to prevent a change for the better, just because tradition and convention will be broken, is narrow. Many years of oscillating experiences with their successes and failures should finally teach us what is best and what is not best if we are not too selfish, too stubborn, or too fossilized.

HELEN'S REWARD

(A STORY BY LOCAL TALENT)

To the casual observer passing along the street, the lovely Helen Walters would have appeared to be a care-free fairy, or an angel, enshrouded in a pink cloud. She sat on the veranda of her palatial home, which was all that remained to them of their father's one time large fortune, dressed in a flowing pink evening gown and scarf. A closer observation, however, would have revealed a pair of blue, tear-stained eyes, belonging to a very sad little girl.

Helen was in distress. She had been so for more than a year. "I won't go—I simply won't go," she cried, half aloud, as she arose from the hammock in which she had been sitting. This little flurry of anger, or sadness, whichever it may have been, subsided just long enough for Helen to walk to the rose garden at the side of the house and thoughtlessly gather a few beautiful buds.

She looked blankly at the beauty in her hands, half-conscious that she held it. Yet it seemed to give her some respite from that which troubled her. As suddenly as the previous emotion had left her, she began sobbing again. This time it seemed as though she were not to be freed from the grip of dependency.

Crushing the roses in her palms, she dropped their crumpled petals, and ran into the house, closing the door after her with such force that the little oval glasses in its massive panels escaped damage only by a miracle. "Jennie, Jennie!" she screamed. "What is it, Miss?" Jennie asked in a subdued tone.

"I won't go—I won't go!" Helen screamed hysterically; and she stamped the floor so hard that the heel of her dancing slipper was torn off. "And just look what I've done to my slipper," she continued, sobbing. "Jennie, when Mr. Elton calls for me tell him that I am ill. Besides, I've ruined my only decent slippers. I won't go with him, Jennie!"

Helen literally flew up the stairway. She went to the room she had often fondly called her "own retreat." Locking the door, she flung herself across the neat little bed and cried convulsively. Jennie had watched Helen's flight up the stairway with sympathy clearly showing in her face. Jennie turned back to her dusting and polishing. "I've never seen Miss Helen so frightfully torn up," she thought. "Once she smiled all time—so pleasantly. Now, she never smiles. If I could have my way her brother and that Melton Elton would be in a modern Bastille."

While Jennie was in the midst of her sympathetic thoughts, one could have made a perfect character study of her. She appeared to be about twenty-two. She was, however, twenty-eight. Like her mistress, she was blessed with soft yellow hair with a natural wave and a silken luster. Her eyes, too, were a sparkling blue, much like those of her mistress, although Helen's eyes had lost some of their sparkle during the period of her troubles. Jennie was an energetic girl, and a very pleasant associate. Yes, she was French; but for three generations her people had lived in various parts of the United States and Jennie had lost most of her French identity. Jennie, herself, had been born in the same West Texas city in which she was now employed.

Since the death of Helen's mother, a year ago last April, Jennie had been more than a hired girl to Helen. She had been a true companion. Helen had often said to her, "Jennie, if it weren't for you, I would have been in my grave months ago."

Jennie was thinking of this, and had added the thought, "I wish I could do more for her," when the door bell rang. She rose disgustedly from her work. Knowing who was at the door and what she might expect, she prepared herself to carry out her mistress's bidding.

When she opened the door, the familiar salutation, "Hello, sweet Jennie Bee," accompanied by the smell of "Old Mexico's Best," greeted her.

Jennie stood for a minute with the door half open as though she did not know what to do.

"Well, why don't ya call Miss Walters?" the man questioned curtly.

"I am sorry, Miss Walters is ill."

"Then you'll do in a mesh like this," he floundered.

"I'll not either," Jennie replied snappily.

As though she anticipated what Melton Elton would do next, Jennie shut and locked the door. She had not been any too soon for Elton was preparing to force an entrance.

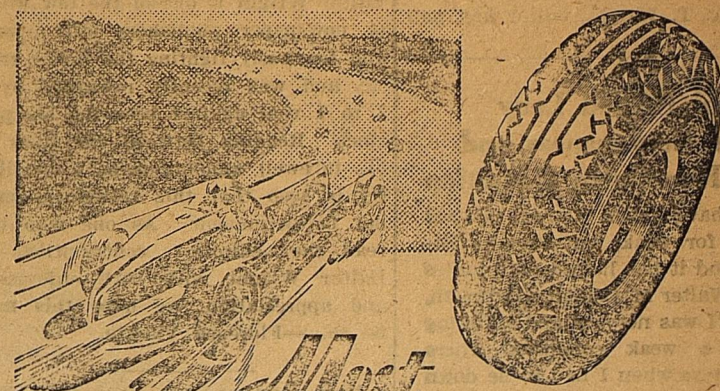

Melton Elton stood for a moment, preplexed. Unsteadily he made his way into the street. Under the street lamp, one could see that he would have been a handsome person had not the effects of dissipation shown so plainly in his entire mien. He was sallow-complexioned and undignified. His dark eyes were sunken into their sockets; his dark wavy hair was unkempt. Elton's dress suit was neatly done; but it, as well as his tie, was awry.

The disappointed man drove angrily away from the curbing and down the wrong side of the street.

How long she lay on the bed, Her-er did not know. It must have been an hour or more. At last, she cried herself to sleep.

Sometime later, she was aroused. Someone was pounding on the door. (To be continued next week)

Most Amazing Proof
OF EXTRA STRENGTH • SAFETY AND DEPENDABILITY
Ever Known!

WORLD RECORD BROKEN!

IT IS almost inconceivable that human ingenuity could build tires that would withstand the terrific punishment of the 500-mile grand at Indianapolis, May 30.

Round and round the blistering track they streaked, hour after hour, under the blazing sun . . . the low moan of powerful motors rose to a terrific roar as they bit the straightaways at 150 miles or better—grinding, pulling, pounding around treacherous tire-destroying curves faster than they ever dared before. Sliding into the turns at these terrific speeds, there was nothing to hold the car to the track except the tire.

Mile after mile, lap after lap, greater and greater heat and increased centrifugal force developed to separate the tread from the body of the tire. Every conceivable force known was working to tear the tires to pieces—yet Firestone High Speed Tires, with Gum-Dipped High Stretch Cords, withstood this most grueling test.

Thirty-three demons of speed—thirty-three cars equipped with Firestone High Speed Tires—all protected by Gum-Dipped High Stretch Cords—entered the Annual Speed Classic. Every tire was bought by the driver or owner of the car.

In all the heat—in all the grinding—in all the straining and pulling—not one cotton strand loosened—not one life was endangered by tire failure—not one car was forced out of the race by tire trouble. Six of the winners finished without a tire change.

What a tribute to the Extra Strength—Safety and Durability built into Firestone High Speed Tires.

WHAT THIS MEANS TO YOU

The amazing record of Firestone dependability at Indianapolis was made possible by the Firestone patented process of Gum-Dipping. Every fiber of every cord in every ply of the tire is saturated and coated with pure liquid rubber; there are eight extra pounds of rubber to every 100 pounds of cotton cords.

There is greater adhesion between the plies of the Gum-Dipped Cord body and between the body and the tread. As a result of this patented process of Gum-Dipping Firestone engineers have been able to build a wider tread of flatter contour, with more and tougher rubber and deeper non-skid, giving you more than 50% longer non-skid mileage.

Don't delay! Call on the Firestone Service Dealer or Service Store in your community today and equip your car with the new Firestone High Speed Tires for 1934. Drive with security and peace of mind.

FLY CONTROLL IN CLIFF COMMUNITY

W. H. McClatchy of the Cliff Community has been trying to control the flies on his ranch by the use of fly traps baited with "Black Leaf 40". Mr. McClatchy uses a half barrel for a trap. He puts enough water in the barrel to cover the bottom about 6 to 8 inches deep. To this water he adds about a teaspoonful of "Black Leaf 40", to a gallon of water. The carcass of a rabbit is put in the barrel to cause the flies to collect around the barrel. The flies drink the poison water and a large number of flies are killed by this method according to Mr. McClatchy. Mr. McClatchy says that one will have to visit these traps every two or three days to remove the flies as it will take about that long to cover the water so that the flies can not get to it.

Mr. Forrest Runge of the Cliff Community has out two fly traps that are 18 inches by 22 inches and 4 inches deep and during the fly season he has removed from these traps as much as 5 gallons of dead flies at a visit. During the fly season he visits his traps every two or three days.

In the Cliff Community there are 8 ranchmen that are using these traps to control the flies. They are: W. H. McClatchy, Hollis Nutt, Forrest Runge, Will O'Harrow, Robert Milligan, Joe Tisdale, C. R. Hiner, and S. D. Harper.

MAC'S MESSAGES

(Sense and Nonsense)

As I am supposed to be young and callow and full of enthusiasm I might as well say something about religion and politics, the first I've been accused of being lacking in; the latter not knowing anything about, therefore I feel qualified to offer my assistance.

On religion, many of us do not have enough religion to fuss about, so let's all go to church Sunday and feel better next week.

Now about politics, it is easy enough to elect a man, but the good Lord will have to take care of 'em after we get 'em in office. Also let us remember the politicians are all a friend to the "common" people. Isn't it nice to be common.

Our government is trying to pay its debt out of the profits it will make by spending borrowed money. In other words it makes a profit by spending money it does not have. How does it work? I shall go foot. You answer it.

There is an increasing amount of ill-informed but sagely conducted conversation about the weather. I say, rain on you.

I have sniffed this stogie cigar twice waiting for you to introduce the subject, but I can't wait longer. I want to say something about our depression. The farm is mortgaged from the bottom of the well to the roof. Just twenty eight more payments and the cook stove will be ours. We have to trade all our produce, because we are not able to carry the cash. The boss and manager of our household needs a new pair of shoes, she is nearly on her feet again. I am depressed.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH ANNOUNCEMENT

SUNDAY, JUNE 24

Editor's Note: Rev. Wilkinson's announcement was sent to us by mail from Brownwood and we did not receive it in time to get it in the regular Church Directory.

At the hour of morning worship the sermon subject will be "Where We Often Fail." A children's sermon will also be preached at this hour. The sermon for the evening hour will be "The Trial of Your Faith." A cordial welcome awaits all at the services of this church.

N. P. Wilkinson.

to teach school. He bantered: "Well, what else can we do? We don't know how to do anything else unless it is to chop cotton, and we sure don't want to do that."

Although the teaching profession is supersaturated, it being acknowledged that we have already trained 10,000 more than there are positions for, and consolidation of districts going steadily on, eliminating teaching positions, yet the young people crowd our colleges as never before, hoping to find positions. Thousands will be disappointed, and will prefer to remain idle year after year, waiting for a "break."

Having acquired a college education and finding no job is like being all dressed up and no where to go. In other words a degree and no job produces disappointment, bitterness, restlessness, envy and has in some countries lead to revolution, war.

When I note so many masters in their various lines, as Henry Ford, Jesse Jones, Lindbergh, Will Rodgers, O. O. McIntyre, who never went to college a day, yea, even Vice President Garner, and note so many college graduates, yea, even with master degrees who are failures, I am made to wonder. Some articles will take polish and be improved thereby. Education may help some people, but not "take" on others, when it becomes a source of disappointment and bitterness.

STRONGER BUSINESS AND STRONGER BANKS

By F. M. LAW
President American Bankers Association

DURING the crisis when confidence was shattered, bankers were properly concerned in liquidity. Their main thought was to prepare to meet any demand for withdrawal of funds. They were more interested therefore in collecting loans than in making them. For this they cannot be justly blamed. It was a proper procedure.

Now that confidence has been so largely restored banks will naturally resume a more normal lending policy. This does not mean they will or should extend loose or unsound credit, but that in the utmost good faith bankers will perform their proper part in recovery by a sympathetic and constructive attitude in the making of sound loans. Nor should commercial banks make capital or long time loans, for the reason that their loans are made from funds derived from deposits payable for the most part on demand.

When the return of confidence is further on its way, business men will find need for credit in making their plans. Then good borrowers, who for the most part have been so conspicuously absent from the market, will return. They will be warmly welcomed by the banks.

Business Men's Fears

Business men have not yet laid all their fears. They worry about what Congress may or may not do. They concern themselves about a trend toward control of business by government. They fear taxes beyond their power to pay. These are real sources of worry and when they are reassured along these lines they will be more inclined to take a fresh look at the future and to make plans to go forward.

As a matter of fact there are tangible evidences of recovery. The Federal Reserve Board officially has stated that prices, wages, business activity and production were back to the highest peak since early in 1931. Commercial failures in the United States are being cut almost in half as compared with the same period last year. It has been reported that the decline in export and import trade was definitely checked in the middle of 1933 and replaced during the last half of the year by a substantial recovery movement.

Among favorable factors is the improved condition of the banks. It is doubtless true that the banking structure of the country has never been in a sounder, stronger and more liquid condition than it is today. My authority for that statement is the Comptroller of the Currency. No longer is there any fear or thought of bank runs. Depositors once more know that their money is safe and the banker, thrice armed in the knowledge of his own strength, is looking forward.

Training for Bankers

The American Bankers Association has been active for many years training young men and women in order that they may be duly qualified for the business of banking. Standard courses are furnished with able and experienced teachers. This work is done under the direction of the American Institute of Banking Section of the association. Over two hundred chapters, or local banking schools, are in active operation throughout the country and thousands of the younger generation of bankers are being graduated each year. These students are taught not only banking practices and policies, but they are also well grounded in the highest ideals and standards of business ethics. A proposal is now under consideration to establish a central school, which will offer advanced or graduate work to a selective list taken from those who have completed the standard courses—F. M. Law, President American Bankers Association.

Banks Repaying Loans From R. F. C.

Although banks and trust companies have been the largest borrowers from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, they have exceeded all other classes of borrowers in the rapidity of their repayments. Since the inception of the R. F. C. in February, 1932, loans have been authorized by it to 7,080 banking institutions in the amount of $1,995,000,000. Of this sum $442,000,000 was not taken by the borrowers, the actual advances being $1,553,000,000.

Repayments against these advances through April 30, 1934, aggregated $925,000,000, or about 60 per cent. The ratio of repayments for all classes of borrowers has been only about 37 per cent. These rapid repayments by the banks are taken by competent observers as a strong indication of returning normal financial and banking conditions.

Bankers Finance Scholarships

The American Bankers Association Foundation for Education in Economics has since its establishment in 1928, awarded 354 college loan scholarships, the total loans repaid in that period being $282,000 and the amount now outstanding $86,900. The total investments of its funds are $540,000.

SPORTS

BY MAC

The first great and important game of softball is to be played Sunday afternoon. All local boys have been working hard for places on the first string...

The probable line-up is as follows: Pare, c. Isaacs, C. B. Darls, l. h. McCutcheon, ss., Isaacs, 2nd b. Davis, ss. Carr, 3rd b. Hamilton, p. or H. McClatchey, c. J. Joiner, rf. Others who will play are Wheeler, Doyle, Alexander, Leaman and Mathews. Go see Eldorado pour it on Cox Rashing of San Angelo, double header.

Friday evening the Telephone Co. will play Leaman Coll. There is some discussion as to the merits of each team. Go see the boys in heated action, as well as hearing a verbal version of each team as the game progresses. It's all free at the High School park.

Glenn Ratliff broke his racket. Jim Hoover is out of town. The sport of tennis playing is going to suffer, unless the ladies of the town take a hand. Jane's Henderson, Mrs. Bradly, Mrs. Kenn's Carey and Mrs. Jeffy Haynes, have already been playing. They will not let our tennis succumb to warm weather.

No new golf news, the golf news agent is away from town. Dr. Wiedemann still keeps the game going. This golf caddy is going to challenge the Doctor soon. You may wager on the results now.

Our golf and tennis playing Lions will have an opportunity to have a real fight scrap at the district Lion meet to be held in San Angelo, as is mentioned in another department of this paper. We have been invited to bring our clubs and rackets. Let's take them on, or you may miss it.

FORMER ELDORADOAN COPS

W. T. U. GOLF TOURNAMENT

T. J. Bailey, a former Eldoradoan copped the annual West Texas Utilities golf title last Saturday afternoon at Abilene. Bailey defeated McNabb runner-up. In the tournament, 3-2 Bailey shot three over par on 18 holes while McNabb shot nine over par. Bailey gained a four-stroke lead with a birdie two on the fifth hole in. McNabb gained on the sixth hole in but was unable to overcome Bailey's lead. The scores on the championship flight were: Bailey out 63 534 535-37; McNabb out 65 544 544-42; Bailey in 63 534 535-37; McNabb in 65 544 544-42.

T. J.'s letter concerning the tournament follows: "I've heard that two hits a day will always keep the manager away and I am learning that two good puts out of every three holes will win a golf match. I won a G-E oscillating fan for first prize and a season membership in our tournament just closed—the membership given for medalist prize."

Bailey adds in his letter: "What's going on at home? When are you going to turn loose of that wool? I am beginning to believe that you are not going to sell it. Come to see us when you can."

Congratulations, T. J.; just another Eldorado product making good.

The Highway Dept. will be crushing rock at the Tom Jones quarry, for the next month. Let the good work go on.

A third working of the cemetery will begin at 8 o'clock next Tuesday morning. Those who are unable to help with this work are asked by the committee to hire their lots cleaned. A person may hire his lot cleaned for a very small sum, and the committee requests that those who wish that sort of work done to please give the information to the committee. The cemetery committee hopes to conclude its cleanup campaign this week. It is a matter of importance to our community that such work be carried on.

PROPOSED CHANGES

more frequent city charter amendments, and extending city officers' terms to four years.

This amendment, proposed in House Joint Resolution No. 13, provides the commissioners' court may set up a form of county administration, and pay officials by salary rather than fees. It says the legislature may set up a different plan of county government, subject to adoption by voters or a county. It proposes to combine the offices of district and county clerks, and to permit consolidation of the county treasurer and county surveyor's offices with any other. It says counties and cities may contract for the performance of duties for either by officers serving the other.

S. J. R. 2 proposes abolishing the fee system for all district officers, and for all county officers in counties of over 20,000 people.

In S. J. R. 21 an amendment is proposed for the November election to allow the legislature to consolidate or abolish counties.

H. J. R. 41 proposes to let cities amend charters by election each year instead of every two years; and H. J. R. 42, to permit cities to fix four-year terms for officials, instead of two years.

Three of the eight pending constitutional amendments deal with state taxation. They are:

S. J. R. 16, to let the legislature make classification of various types of property or values for taxation, and to charge different rates. This designed to reach property, other than land, now unrendered.

H. J. R. 30 proposes to tax university lands for county as well as school purposes.

S. J. R. 13 gives voters an opportunity to fix a limit of the ad valorem tax at a rate limiting the returns to $22.50 per capita, and requiring that all other types of revenues shall be included in fixing the total state revenue at this per capita. The property tax rate will be reduced according to the amount of other types of tax revenues. — San Angelo Standard Times.

"KNOW YOUR COUNTY" PROGRAM BEING CARRIED OUT BY DEMONSTRATION CLUB

The Eldorado Home Demonstration Club met last Friday, June 15, at the home of Mrs. E. C. Hill. A program of "Know Your County" is being carried out. As a feature of the "Know Your County" program, Miss Mabel Howell, Schleicher County Home Demonstration Agent, demonstrated the scouring of wool.

"When scouring wool, make a mild warm suds of Ivory flakes or Lux. If very dirty or greasy, use sal soda. Wash the wool up and down, being careful not to use a whirling motion as the washing machines does. Rinse the wool three times, having the water slightly cooler each time." Miss Howell told the club.

After the business session of the club refreshments were served to ten members.

The next meeting of the club will be held on June 22 at the home of Mrs. W. N. Ramsey. The program of "Know Your County" will be continued. All members are urged to be present and to bring new members.

way to state off war is to provide an adequate and formidable national defense. Instead of taking things too easy, the U. S. ought to be prepared. Nobody is going to "jump on" the man who is well prepared to defend himself.

Industrial leaders who met at Hot Springs, Va., declare that the NRA should become a permanent part of American business and economics. Federal supervision of business would be much better than government ownership of business, and a basis of fair play in business must be set up by someone. Why not let the government do it?

Unemployed industrial workers are now on the move. The Federal government is using its means and influence to place such people on small tracts of land upon which they can earn a living. This move has been initiated at Wichita Falls, Texas, where fifty homes are being built on irrigated tracts. The unemployed may get a break yet.

Trade recessions are less so far this summer than in many years. Business always slackens in the summer months, but it is holding its own this summer. A good sign.

The papers are singularly free lately of the capers of erstwhile desperadoes. Maybe the $25,000 reward offered by our Federal congress for the capture of bad men has had something to do with it. Anyway, publicity and the law together are getting the upper hand of the criminals in this country, and it's about time.

President Roosevelt now has the power to appoint boards to act as intermediaries in disputes between capital and labor. Same reasoning, rather than migrant and impulsive moves should have long ago been employed to settle disputes. The labor dispute boards will have the power to arbitrate in disputes which generally end in strikes, riots, and other labor upheavals.

Germany will not pay any of her debts to foreign countries for six months. This has been said to be one of the causes for failure of the Allies to pay war debts. There's really nothing to it. Germany's announcement came after the decisions of other nations, and she is probably just jumping at the chance to follow suit—but it doesn't suit Germany's creditors. They can easily refuse to pay their war debts, but when Germany refuses to pay her debts to them, they "squawk" pretty loud.

It may be possible that debtor nations with the help of Roosevelt, will try to arrange a scheme for paying off the war debts in goods. It will be a very complicated matter since foreign countries must have American money in order to continue trade with this country, and it would be a rash thing to kill our trade with foreign countries by taking the war debts up in goods. Roosevelt's idea, however may work. He wants to take the goods and sell them to foreign importers. The foreign importers will then bring the goods into the United States as usual and the U. S. will have money to credit to the debts of the debtors. It's worse than raising more hogs to buy more corn to raise more hogs to...

UNIVERSITY ENROLLMENT INCREASES; NUMBER OF ELDORADOANS ATTENDING

AUSTIN, Texas, June 21.—The largest registration for any term of summer school in the history of The University of Texas ended with a total enrollment of 4,977 students. There has been an increase of 1,812 over the enrollment of the first semester of 1933. It is expected that there will be a still larger increase when the second term begins July 1st.

There are several Eldoradoans attending the University of Texas, summer session, this year: Mrs. Robert Milligan and other daughter, Wilma, who enrolled at the University last week. It is reported that there are others from Eldorado, either already enrolled or planning to enroll. The names of other University students from Schleicher could not be ascertained by the Success.

PICNIC, THURSDAY

A large number of people of Eldorado and from all parts of Schleicher county attended the picnic at Lottin or Toenail. The Pat Martin horse won the last horse race. Much enthusiasm was manifested about this race.

All candidates spoke to an attentive audience. Each candidate felt better (from his looks) after he had finished his speech. Eldorado lost the ball game to Christoval, too bad.

Here is some dope on the picnic and people at the picnic. First it was estimated that there were 600 people present. Buck Bailey pitched the Eldorado — Christoval... baseball game to 10 to 2 loss for Eldorado.

Dinner was served at 12:30 p. m. Barbecue, pickles, bread, feed tea, coffee and cake were served free to the crowd.

Judge Bradley introduced the candidates, and had them make speeches. Bronc riding was next on the program. Ed Erskine rode Whirwind, Jim Bridges rode "Old Paint".

Also Jim Bridges fell in a car after he had ridden an old gray mare.

Saddle pony race for 320 yards was won by Howell Burk with Bob Whitley second.

The 400 yard saddle race was won by Roy Locke, second O. B. Page.

In the goat roping contest Hugh Harske, from Christoval, won first. Finkelator Hardware Co. of San Angelo awarded Harske a new jacket. Time 11.8 seconds, second William Jackson.

In the match goat roping contest, first Kinst, time 68 seconds, Robert Baker the other contest made it in 69.

In another match roping Leonard Isaacs, first, the other contestant Joe Thornton. J. C. Crosby won in 23, other contestant L. L. Baugh. Time 11.8 seconds.
