Several More Streets May Be Paved

Announcement has come from the Mayor that an order has been given that more paving is to be done in Eldorado. This order however does not mean that the streets are going to be paved, but it means that there has been many citizens that have signed a petition that several blocks be paved in Eldorado. The street leading out by the Post Office, the street by the telephone office and West Texas Lumber Company and the one by the Eldorado Hardware Company to the Presbyterian church. Practically all of the people owning property on these streets have signed up but West Texas Utilities and they are ready to sign a check for the paving as soon as it is finished.

The three blocks of paving that has recently been completed has been a great improvement to the town and especially during the recent rains that the paving fever has been rising among the other property owners. The city will take up the matter with the commissioners court and see if they will give any assistance in topping part of the road. The council believes that once the pavement is carried to the Presbyterian Church that it will be taken to the depot, one of the worse mud roads in the city limits. During a real wet spell it is almost impossible for cars to reach the station.

thinks that medical research will find means of prolonging mental life as well as physical life.

In the matter of length of life we have made great progress in a short time. The normal age to which each newborn child can expect to live in America is 50; in India it is only 20. In Colonial days in America, in the 1600's the average age in this country was only 20, because so many children succumbed early to the hardships of pioneer life.

The time will come when nobody will die, except from accident, under 70, and many will live, and be physically and mentally active, to 100.

Eldorado Takes Count At Sonora 13-6

The Eldorado Eagles again came out second best in a close tussle at Sonora last Saturday, 13-6. The game was very interesting according to all those that attended and the best half was Eldorado's part of the game. But the Eagles could not overcome the thirteen point lead that the Bronchos piled up in the first half. Captain McGinty was again the power through the line. He made many lengthy gains over the line while Williamson was skirting the ends with several sensational runs. Old Lady Luck was again at the boys from the Divide. Williamson made a long run for a touchdown in the last half but was called back for running out of bounds. Only a few more inches to the inside and the game would have resulted in a closer score.

MRS. TOM R. HENDERSON ENTERTAINS WITH BRIDGE

Mrs. Tom R. Henderson entertained the Eldorado Bridge Club Thursday October 30 at 2:30 o'clock.

After the arrival of the club members and guests, five games of Bridge was played and delicious refreshments carrying out the color scheme of Autumn, was served to a number of twenty. Prizes were awarded Mrs. L. T. Barber, high club; Agnes Wright, high guests; and Mrs. Jim Hoover, high cut.

Those present were Mesdames: Luke Thompson, H. T. Finley, Leonard Baugh, L. T. Barber, Lewis Baugh, J. C. Crosby, Melvin Crabb, V. G. Tisdale, J. W. Lawhon, Sam Roberts, A. P. Bailey, Jim Hoover, Terry Crane, Clarence Knight, J. N. Davis, Muller, Joe Williams and Miss Agnes Wright and Ruth Espy. Messers: Melvin Crabb and A. P. Bailey.

Mrs. Ben Hext, and Mr. Bob Hext, of Marble Falls, Texas were visitors to friends and relatives last week in Eldorado.

S. J. Booth, one of Schleicher's progressive farmers, was in the city Tuesday boasting the fact that he lived in West Texas. Mr. Booth has some Mississippi citizens on his farm, that tell him he should be thankful he lived in Schleicher County.

Mrs. G. H. Davis

Mrs. G. H. Davis, nee Miss Nettie Rodgers, was born in Johnson County February 27, 1882, and passed away in Eldorado, Texas, November 5, 1930, being 48 years and 8 months old. She was married to G. WITH OUR EXCHANGES

The Mertzon Star reports that about 1200 lambs were sold delivered in the stock pens at Mertzon at 4 1-2 cents per pound, they averaged 54 pounds per head.

Reports were received here to the effect that a Mexican boy was shot by some white boys near Concho. It seems that the boys decided they would have a little fun and one of them shot at him with a 22 cal. rifle. The bullet struck the boy just above the knee and lodged there. We were unable to get any particulars concerning the case although the boy is in a sanitarium at Ballinger.—Concho Herald.

Which reminds us that some of our boys thought they were having fun on Halloween night, when they threw some rotten eggs into a crowd hitting some people who were really having fun, in the face. Such fun is a contempt upon society and ceases to be fun for the boy who was guilty. He should have talked with his father under the woodshed and plead for forgiveness while "the old man poured it out."

The Miles Messenger reports that Rannels County ginned 20,077 bales of cotton this year, up-to-date.

The Kerrville Mountain Sun reports that a man by the name of Wedding secured marriage license for wedding.

NOTICE OF SALE

The State of Texas County of Schleicher

Whereas by virtue of an order of sale issued out of the District Court of Schleicher County, Texas, on the 30th day of September, A. D. 1930, by the judgement rendered therein on September 16, 1930, in favor of Bates-Cavit Lumber Company against Ella Douglas, Frank Douglas, and Nora Douglas for the sum of One Hundred thirty-three & 65-100 ($133.65), with interest from said date at eight per cent per annum, being cause no. 415 on the docket of said court, I did on the 6th day of November, A. D. 1930, at ten o'clock a. m., levy upon lot 8X (6) in block K of the town of Eldorado, Schleicher County, Texas, as the property of the defendants, and on the 2nd day of December, A. D. 1930, being the first Tuesday of said month between the hours of ten o'clock a. m. and four o'clock P. M. on said date at the court house door of said county, I will offer for sale and sell at public auction for cash all the right, title, and interest, which defendants had in said property on the 14th day of November, 1930, or any time thereafter.

Eldorado, Texas, this 6th day of November, A. D. 1930.
A. F. Luddecke, Sheriff, Schleicher County, Texas.

Ira McDonald was in from the ranch Tuesday meeting friends and transacting business.

Lions Club Has

Good Attendance gram To Be Given Soon

A large number was present at the meeting of the Lions Club Wednesday. Considerable business was taken up during the hour. The main discussion was centered on good roads and street lighting for Eldorado. The proposed buying of machinery for the city to take care of their streets was discussed and heartily favored by all members present. The city has also discussed the means of taking over the burden of handling the finances of the street lights but found that they were not able at the present time to take full charge of the affair because the tax rate was not set for this extra expense but favored the idea very much. The street light finances has been getting in bad shape and the upkeep of these lights has been placed on the shoulders of a few business men in town and many of the people in the city are getting the good from them and are not paying a cent.

Quite a few of the men in town think this unfair, as the lights serve the entire population and every one should pay their part.

WRIGHT'S PARAGRAPHS

According to recent reports of the condition of the First National Bank of Eldorado shows a deposit increase. It is interesting to note that some money is drifting back to West Texas.—Mertzon Star.

The thrifty people of Schleicher County have, cattle, sheep, goats, cotton, maize, feed, chickens, butter, eggs, cream etc. too sell why shouldn't our bank swell in deposits. We would have "busted" the vault had the amount not visited us.

Since a few days of sunshine the farmers are busy trying to harvest the rest of their crop.

Rev. J. D. McWhorter, wife and daughter Miss Lucile, came in last Friday and are now domiciled in the home of Mrs. Louise Wright, awaiting some needed repairs on the Methodist parsonage. Bro. McWhorter and family came from Sterling City and are just pilgrims for a short while in our midst.

Well if you are not satisfied with your lot in Schleicher County, just take a trip and come home feeling better. We doubt if any one has ever witnessed a more trying time than this—we are going through financial unrest everywhere, when you disturb the financial interest of the county, you hit each and every being. We have all been living on expectations or futures, and beyond our income. Pay day has arrived, the men who has been generous enough to make us a loan wants to get it back and put it up, count the shiny coins and feel them with his fingers. We owe a loan. Let's leave off the frivolous things and drop back to that honest living for God and neighbors, and we can soon set the machinery back in motion and prosperity will return.

New Idea In Pets
Sidewalks on Park Avenue were almost jammed the other day when a well-dressed man strolled out of the crowd, Vanderbilt leading a healthy young lion cub on a leash.

The cub and its owner are said to be regular residents at the hotel. When in public they never fail to attract a crowd.

Now that is my idea of a pet, I would like to keep him until he became large and ferocious: for breakfast every day, a taxi driver; for lunch, a taxi driver; and for dinner, a taxi driver.

Big Road Ballyhoo Program To Be Given Soon

At the last meeting of the Lions Club there was considerable interest taken in the prospective Highway running east and west across the county. The road situation is coming rapidly to a decision one way or the other. Everything has been completed, practically, and the decision is left to the State Road Commission.

The engineers have already been called out to investigate the road situation and the decision will lay in the report that they send back to the Commission. A big road jubilee is being planned by the Lions Club and at this meeting there will be many representatives from each section of the county and also the Divisional Engineer and other officials of the state. The reason for the big noise is to give the desire of Schleicher County people of getting a state highway east and west through the county. The deed of the road is being expressed very freely by the voters of the county and by the people that live in the east and west end of the county.

The outcome of the meeting and the report that will be sent to the State Road Commission will greatly be aided by the impression made by the people will probably be the result of the getting of the highway.

The needs of the highway, the number of people it will help, the connection of other highways made by this road, the amount the county will do on the road and many other things that will be in the report and all these will determine the decision made by the Commission.

Watch for the announcement of this program and be there to help give the right impression to the engineers when they come to Eldorado.

Menard, Ozona and several citizens in Sutton are anxious for the building of this highway across the county. The Commissioners Court in Schleicher are heartily in favor of the road and are going to do their best in getting it through. There seems to be no fear that a road bond would carry in order that the road would be built. But all this will be decided in the near future and practically everything is now left up to the determination of the people of the county forming the impression before the engineers that they are really interested in the building of the road.

THE FARM BOARD IS LEARNING

The Federal Farm Board has had about sixteen months of experience in its work of administering the Cooperative Marketing Law. Its members have learned a great deal in that time. In the beginning they were new to the job. Only one of them, Chairman Legge, had had anything which might be called national experience in agricultural problems. The others were able enough men, but their individual experience was limited to territorial activities or to the marketing of certain commodities.

There is evidence that the Farm Board members are acquiring a national point of view, and that they have discovered several fundamental facts, concerning which there seemed at the beginning to be some doubt among the Board members. Those facts, as stated by Mr. Teague in a recent address, are:

Agricultural problems will not be solved by legislation.

The law of supply and demand can not be ignored.

The greatest assistance to agriculture by the Government will be the gradual development of grower-owned marketing systems.

Now that the Farm Board has learned those things, and we have Mr. Teague's word for it that all of the members now accept them as truth, there is hope that more rapid progress may be made in bringing agricultural marketing to a point where the growers really get what their products are worth.

HALLOWE'EN

Hallowe'en—the eve of All Hallow, as the old English term goes, All Saints Day in the church calendars—has long been regarded in the folklore of northern Europe as the night when witches turn out in force and the powers of magic are loosed in the land.

The superstition seems to have its root in the idea that on All Saints Day the powers of evil must take an enforced vacation. They may muster strength to cope with a single saint, but not with all of them. So the night of October 31 is a witches' frolic, up to the stroke of midnight, and those who would invoke the aid of supernatural beings to shape or foretell the future, or who would pacify them, can call upon them on Hallowe'en with a surer certainty of response than on any other night of the year.

Doubtless among some of the primitive peasantry of Europe there still persists a genuine belief in the power of witches to do actual harm. We know that there are American communities of foreign stock in which the belief in witchcraft is still prevalent and active. But to the general run of Americans Hallowe'en is not a night of terror but rather one of jollity for the young folks, seeking and half believing in the disclosures of the mirror in the dark or the shape of the apple-peel cast over the left shoulder.

Every section we were going to say every community, has its own special tradition for the celebration of Hallowe'en. It used to be much more the excuse for mischievous boys to lift gates from their hinges, hang "rick-tacks" at windows and otherwise raise Cain in ways only small boys can invent, than it is now. Hallowe'en nowadays is more of an excuse for giving a party, with or without the ancient custom of "bobbing" for apples in a tub of water or walking backward down the cellar stairs holding a lighted candle in one hand and a mirror in the other in which the face of the lucky girl's future husband may be discerned.

"BUY NOW"

Philadelphia deserves credit for initiating the "Buy Now" movement, which is being taken up by Chambers of Commerce all over the United States.

It is sound advice. If everybody would act upon it, business would pick up rapidly.

Everybody needs something. Many are holding off their purchases hoping for better times. So long as they continue to hold off, business will not improve. The way to make business better for everybody is to buy now.

That does not mean merely "do your Christmas shopping early," though that advice, always sound, is sounder than ever this year. It means going ahead with the purchases you would like to make but have been hesitating about making.

If everybody, or even half of the people of the United States were to act on this advice and buy now, the backbone of the business depression would be broken. That does not mean that the return of prosperity would be instant, but it would be greatly hastened.

Every retail purchase not only depletes the merchant's stock, making it necessary for him to order new goods, but it puts money or credit in the merchant's pocket with which to pay for the new goods he orders. His order in turn, added to those of other retail

ASH TRAYS AND BUZZERS

YEARS ago I had an appointment with a corporation president. The secretaries, door men, and general factotums in the great man's outer office made it clear that their boss was Some Pumpkins and hat I was assuming a great deal in asking to see him.

When I finally worked my way through the last of them and stood in the president's private office, I saw in the corner a red-faced, bald-headed man seated at a plain wooden desk. His coat was off and his sleeves were rolled up to reveal a pair of solid, hairy arms.

"Ah, Mr. Barton," he said, "would you mind standing on guard beside that door? My tailor has just sent me over a pair of cooler pants, and I want to put them on."

So I stood guard while he stepped out of one pair of pants and into another, chatting sociably all the time.

I was reminded of this incident by the remark of a friend who was recently transferred from the branch office to the New York headquarters of a certain business.

Some of the men in the organization were jealous of his promotion, and he has carefully watched his step. "The president gave me my choice of two offices," he told me. "One was a grand room on the executive floor. The other a queer little dump two floors below. I took the little office. It will be perfectly all right until I show that I need something better. I have enough problems at the beginning without the additional handicap of a luxurious office."

An office manager who has watched men come and go in a big corporation tells me that he can predict just about how long a new man will last. "If his first requisition is for a lead pencil and a blotter and some ink, I put him down as permanent. But when a man sends me an initial requisition for an ash tray and an electric buzzer I notice he never stays over a year."

Napoleon was quite a trial to his courtiers because he did not pay more attention to the trappings of his office. When Bourrienne was telling him that he must do so and so or the older reigning families in Europe would not recognize him, he had the sure answer of a man who knows his strength.

"If it comes to that I will destroy them all," he exclaimed. "Then I shall be the oldest sovereign among them."

Generally speaking, those who like lots of fuss are light weights. The surer a man is of his own capacity the less he cares for externals—including all fancy trappings and the criticism of the uninformed.

Ballinger Marble Worker's Wife Gains Daily Since Talking Argotane Now Recommends It From Experience

"I have gained daily on my first bottle of Argotane and feel every bit of five years younger," said Mrs. Wellhausen, residing at 405 Fifth St., Ballinger Marble Works and has a host of friends throughout the city who are remarking at her wonderful change in health.

"I was in a very, much rundown condition," she explained, "from stomach disturbances, and almost every thing I would eat gave me trouble. My food would sour on my stomach and form gas that made me miserable for hours. My nerves were all on edge so I got little rest at night and when morning came I almost as tired as when I went to bed. I had terrible headaches most all the time add felt so wretched and no-account I hardly had any energy or life left to do anything."

"I heard so many people telling about the good that Argotane had done them that I decided to try it. The way it took hold of my trouble was one grand surprise and I hardly know how to begin telling of all the benefits I have derived from it. I can say, though, that it has made a new person out of me, and as soon as I get out of bed in the morning I feel like doing my housework—something that I never felt like doing in years before. My complexion has cleared up wonderfully, and I have no trouble with my digestion and I sleep like a baby. Argotane has been a fine thing for me and I certainly am glad to

TEXAS AND TEXANS

By Will H. Mayes
Austin, Texas
"All Texans for all Texas"

Inviting Business Slumps

I have before me the same week's issues of three of the best small-city weekly papers in Texas, the Rockdale Reporter, the Eagle Lake Headlight and the Elgin Courier, all conducted by men of unusual ability, who have spent their lives in newspaper work and who are doing their utmost to help build up the business interests of their towns.

The Rockdale Reporter's local business consisted of a few small ads, only one of which quoted prices and those were enlarded with offerings for "Saturday" only. A dry goods store advertised it would sell a broom Saturday for one cent to any one who paid $3.00 cash for a line of merchandise, named but not priced.

The Eagle Lake Headlight carried even less advertising and in a front page editorial stated that "Local advertising has been withdrawn altogether and curtailed to such an extent" that its present standard could no longer be maintained, and that it would have to be reduced to four pages.

The Elgin Courier on the other hand, was crammed full of well-written, price offering ads, telling readers just how little they would have to pay for goods bought in Elgin. Grocers quoted prices in detail that compared favorably with lowest city markets. Editor Smith made an offer that if any subscriber would read the Courier's ads regularly for a year and try to profit by them, and would then come in and say he had not saved more than the $1.50 paid for subscription he would gladly refund the $1.50 and add another $1.50 to the refund to pay for the trouble.

There is little or no complaint of hard times at Elgin. The merchants there evidently have learned that those who make money must advertise their goods and they quote trade-drawing prices every week. Other towns are doing it, too, and getting the business. With good roads and automobiles running in every direction people are not to be blamed for leaving home or travelling farther to buy from merchants who carry better stocks and quote the best prices.

Most of the so-called "business slump" complaint comes from those who are still hoping to do business on methods that progressive merchant threw overboard a half century or more ago. The business average throughout the country is about as good as it has been for several years, but the trade is going to the towns and cities that are seeking it most. Can you blame it? "Keeping everlastingly at it" makes business.

Nothing Wrong Except

The Alice Echo says Jim Wells county never was in better condition than now, with more money in the banks, more dairy cows, more feed, better roads, more debts being paid, more improvements in town and country.

The Echo adds that there is nothing wrong except the adverse mental condition caused by "hard times" talk and that this comes largely from people from other sections. This is true of two-thirds of Texas. The trouble with most people is hard time ophobia.

He's Not Howling

The Wellington Leader shows a picture of a Wellington truck grower with eight bushel baskets of tomatoes he has just sold from one morning's picking at 5 cents a pound, his car containing a variety of other truck he has brought to town. From one acre of tomatoes he gathered 3,000 pounds every week in September, selling them at an average of 5 cents a pound, and from the same acre during July and August. The land is sub-irrigated.

Cabbage Brings Money

Cabbage marketed early in this season in Texas has been bringing the growers from $170 to $240 an acre. The time has passed when one can express contempt for another by calling him a "cabbage head."

Action is Needed

The folks at Brady are now talking "Flood Prevention," a popular topic since a large part of the town was flooded. Flood prevention and irrigation are measures that should go hand in hand. Brady should make ready to capture the next flood waters for irrigation instead of allowing them to damage the town. But the movement should be started quickly before the people forget.

Mass Before Hunting

Over at Albuquerque, which is close enough to Texas to be mentioned here, early mass has been made earlier so duck hunters may attend church before starting out to kill ducks purposely, and occasionally folks and other things accidentally.

Critics Still Carp

Critics, whether overt or covert, and there are plenty of both, have not been able to checkmate the flood control and reclamation project on the Trinity-river, according to the Dallas News, progress having been faster than anticipated. The critics would be advised to go jump in the river when the next flood gets it deep enough for convenient drowning.

Wearing Texas Clothes

Col. Bill Talbot, Republican candidate for governor, was wearing Texas made clothes, made from Texas products, while campaigning. Of course he did not expect to be elected, but he was pulling a fine publicity stunt. If he will wear only Texas products for the next two years and induce all Texas supporters of Hoover to do the same thing, he will bring an era of Texas prosperity that will sweep him right into the Governor's office. This is a challenge to both parties to start something really worth while in Texas.

Make It In Texas

That Texas will in time become the center of many industries is prophesied by the Dallas News. Yes, but why let those we have starved to death now? Texas has about 25 cotton mills, none of which are running full time because Texans do not give preference to Texas products. Most of the cotton sacks used by Texas cotton pickers are made somewhere "up North". A New Braunfels mill makes gingham as fine as any in the country, but can't sell all it can make in Texas, because Texans buy Northern-made gingham. The News makes a misstatement when it says "Texans are eager to buy Texas-made goods when these are known and are of guaranteed quality." They should be, but they are not. Texas needs a thorough awakening on the thought that "What Texas Makes Makes Texas."

Unusual Grave Stone

W. E. Gilleland founded the Baird Star some 43 years ago. Before that he had owned the Tecumseh Banner and the Belle Plains Clarion. He died a few years ago and his family has had a grave stone of unusual design placed at his grave. It is made of two printer's imposing stones, such as are used to make up the newspaper forms on, embedded in a base of concrete, which covers the grave. On top of this is a smaller imposing stone of marble. At the side is a marker of Texas granite. The concrete base is reinforced by the iron roller cores, and the old Prouty press used 30 years ago was broken up and put inside the concrete foundation. It is just such a structure as would be pleasing to the veteran and stalwart newspaper man whose convictions were always as firm as this memorial.

TENTH INSTALLMENT WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Giles Chitttenham swears to avenge the death of his young half-brother Rodney, driven to suicide by the notorious Julie Farrow who had spurned his love. He will make Julie love him, then throw her aside as she threw Rodney. He meets her in Switzerland, goes with her to the hotel on the St. Bernard Pass, and succeeds in winning her love. To his amazement, he discovers that he has fallen over his head in love with her himself! And he is married, to an American girl with whom he has nothing in common.

Then he discovers that the girl is not the same Julie Farrow who ruined Rodney, but her cousin of the same name. She scorns him when he confesses his love and his ability to marry her. They meet later in London, where she is going the pace that kills. An other man, Lawrence Schofield wants to marry her, in spite of her wild life.

Through his friend Lombard, Giles Chitttenham meets the "other Julie", the notorious woman who had ruined Rodney's life. She tells him that she is going to die; the doctors have given her up as incurable and she is leaving England. She is worried about her cousin, the girl Chitttenham loves. That Julie—his Julie—is going in fast company, among them a common little American girl named Sadie Barrow.

And Sadie Barrow is Giles Chitttenham's wife. He did know that she was in England. That night he meets her at a party at his mother's house. They pretend to be strangers.

Giles learns that Sadie Barrow, his wife, has gone in for spiritualism and is attending seances by a medium named Chrysler.

He calls on Julie, who is cold to him. He reproaches her for her reckless life. They quarrel, and she leaves with Lawrence Schofield. Her friend, Bim Lennox, tells Giles that Julie really loves him. Lombard calls on him and says he is in need of money.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
"My dear fellow, isn't it almost the only thing any one is ever in a fix about? How much do you want?"

Lombard gulped down his whisky. "It's awfully sporting of you—if I could have five hundred. It's only a temporary loan."

Giles laughed shortly. "Do you take me for a millionaire?"

"I'll lend you fifty if it's any use." There was eloquent silence, then Lombard turned.

"Look here, Chitttenham, it's serious I'm fighting up against it. You've got to let me have it," he said desperately.

"Got to!" For a moment the two men looked at one another silently, then Chitttenham laughed.

"Sorry, but that's a thing no man can say to me." He made another move to the door, but Lombard caught his arm.

"Chitttenham, Chitttenham stood still. "What do you want it for? What have you been up to?"

The other man's eyes fell. "I can't tell you."

"All right, then you won't get any thing."

Lombard looked up suddenly. "Oh yes, I shall," he said with detestable inflection.

There was an ugly silence. "Oh, yes, I shall—" he said again as Chitttenham did not speak. "And if you refuse I shall tell Schofield and any one else who might be interested, that you and Julie Farrow spent the night together up at St. Bernard."

It was such an unexpected challenge that for a moment Chitttenham could find no words. Then with a great effort he pulled himself together.

"And do you think any one will believe you?" he asked.

Lombard laughed. "They'll be glad enough to believe me. Scandal is the salt of life to Julie's friends. She's not altogether popular at it is, and if I tell them—it's no use getting violent—" he added hurriedly as he saw Chitttenham's hands clench into fists. "I'm in a position to prove what I say, remember!"

"Prove it, then and be damned!" "Very well—" Lombard shrugged his shoulders with well-assumed indifference and turned to the door. Chitttenham let him open it, then he called after him sharply.

"Lombard. Come back." Chitttenham caught him, by the shoulder and jerked him back into the centre of the room.

A slyly amused smile crossed Lombard's face, and Giles broke out avagely:

"Damn you; do you think I'm afraid for myself? If it were only a question of that, I'd give you the biggest thrashing you ever had, and kick you out in the street. But as there is some one else in the case—"

"And some one for whom you have a great regard, eh?" Lombard sneered. "My dear fellow, don't think I'm not sympathetic. I know a great deal more than you think I do. For instance—our mutual friend, the charming little American—"

"What the hell do you mean?" "Only that I overheard last night—quite by accident—something which both of you apparently are most anxious to keep from the rest of the world. I've always found it's most dangerous to talk secrets in a crowded room, and your wife, you will agree, has rather an insistent voice—"

"You sneaking hound—" Lombard shrugged his shoulders. "As you please! I'm not in a position to resent anything you say. After all, it's common knowledge that opportunity makes the thief—"

"And if I refuse to give you anything at all?"

"Then probably Mrs. Chitttenham will be very pleased to buy the information I have to sell."

"Then go to her, and be damned to you."

"So Julie Farrow's reputation is nothing to you, after all?"

Giles went very white. He knew he was in Lombard's power. "Get out, or—" The door closed hurriedly between them.

It was not true that Julie had promised to marry Lawrence Schofield, but when, after her stormy interview with Chitttenham, he again urged her to accept him, she suddenly gave in. She felt over-wrought and weak, almost as if the combat between herself and the man she loved had been a physical one.

Lawrence Schofield's kindly devotion was like a cool hand laid on her feverishness, and when once again he asked if she could not make up her mind to marry him, she suddenly gave in—

"Very well—if you are willing to take the risk."

"I am quite willing."

He wanted to go straight away and buy her the finest diamond ring in London, but Julie would not allow it.

"Not yet. You must give me a little time to get used to it. I don't want people to know just yet."

He was disappointed, but he fell in with her wishes.

"Just as you like. Everything shall always be just as you like."

Sudden tears filled her eyes.

"That's foolish of you," she told him. "But it's dear of you too. I'm not half good enough for you, Lawrence."

It was a bright, sunny afternoon, so he would not let her go back to the flat when they had lunched.

"I'm going to take you for a drive in the country. London is racketing your nerves to pieces."

They stopped at a little country inn for tea. In one of the rooms somebody was playing a gramophone, and there was the sound of laughter and dancing feet.

"They sound happy, don't they?" Julie said with an effort.

"I hope they are as happy as we are," Schofield answered impulsively. "My greatest happiness will be in giving you everything you want."

Julie laughed brokenly.

It was on her lips to say that if she had been rich she would not have consented to marry him. It was more than she could bear; she started restlessly to her feet.

"Shall we go? It's getting dark and the country is so dreary when it gets dark."

They drove back to London and dined together.

"What shall we do now?" Schofield asked.

"I don't mind what we do," Julie said. "Go to a theater, if you like. I can go home and change."

But he would not allow that; he said he could not bear to let her out of his sight on this day of all days. In the end they went to a cinema. Julie did not care for the pictures but at any rate it did away with the need to talk, and the darkness was restful. She only looked at the screen when Schofield drew her attention to something being shown upon it. It was as if Fate were relentlessly pursuing her, determined to torment her and keep her pain alive, for the second picture was of the Monastery at St. Bernard and of the snow-clad mountains.

Julie sat up stiffly, her heart beating fast.

"I've been there—" she said in a strange little voice. "I drove my car up there only a month or two ago!"

EAGLES LOSE GAME TO SONORA SAT. NOV. 1

The game started at 3:30 with everybody on their toes, waiting for the first few plays to partially determine the way the whole game was going to go. This was not the case in this game, however, because Sonora outplayed us in the first half and we outplayed them in the last half.

Sonora kicked to our 20 yard line on the kick off, Williamson punted on fourth down to their 40 yard line where we covered the ball but in four downs gained nothing. They intercepted a pass and we were penalized 5 yards for offside, which brought the ball to our 10 yard line. They had three downs and 5 yards to go when the quarter ended.

Ratliff was substituted for Moore at the quarter. Their fourth down carried the ball to our 2 yard line, making them a first down, which gained nothing. They carried it across on the second down, a kick for the extra point failed. We kicked and they were downed on their 32 yard line. On their first down, Trainer received a pass and of loose to make another touchdown. They made the extra point by a place kick.

Sonora kicked off and Williamson returned the ball about 18 yards. He passed to Lefty Smith and made another first down. Jones was substituted for Ratliff. After an incomplete pass, we punted to their 5 yard line where they were downed. They punted and Williamson received on our 40 yard line. A pass was incomplete. They made 20 yards on a pass just as the half ended with the ball on our 30 yard line.

During the half, the Sonora pep squad marched out on the field and formed an "S" poured red and black paper on ground and turned toy balloons loose which were immediately caught by a gang of children. The Eldorado pep squad then went on the field and formed an "E" and gave several yells.

Sonora kicked and Lefty Smith returned ball to center of field on 20 yard run. A pass failed and then Williamson punted from center of field and Eli McAngus covered the ball back of the goal line for a touchdown.

Eldorado kicked and covered ball. Williamson carried ball ten yards. A pass was intercepted. Williamson got badly jarred up in the next tackle but stayed in. Lefty downed the man with the ball just as he caught it. They kicked to our goal line where we were downed. Williamson carried the ball from the goal line round the left end to across their goal line but it was found that he had stepped out of bounds on our 20 yard line so the play did not count. A pass failed, but Albert McGinty went thru line for a 20 yard gain. They covered ball on a fumble on 40 yard line and Lefty broke up a pass. A second incomplete pass caused a penalty of 5 yards and the ball went over. Williamson took ball round right end for a 15 yard gain just as the quarter ended.

He received pass and ran 20 yards to their 25 yard line. A pass failed, but Williamson ran 9 yards round right end. Bullion went thru line for about 5 yards and first down. Williamson made 2 yards on end run and Sonora player was knocked out for a while when he tackled Williamson.

The ball went over on their 10 yard line where they punted. We were downed on our 31 yard line, and a pass was intercepted on their 25 yard line. They punted out of bounds in the center of field, Moore was substituted for Ratliff. Two incomplete passes to Smith caused a 5 yard penalty. We failed to make first down and ball went over. A pass failed and the game ended with the ball on our 30 yard line and the Score, Sonora 13 Eldorado 6.

We greatly appreciate the good representation we had at the game. There were about as many people from Eldorado as there were from Sonora. We have Sonora here Thanksgiving day, and we want every body to be talking it up because we believe that you will see a game well worth your time and small cost. The price of admission to the Thanksgiving game will be just the same as for the other games, 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for all school pupils. The Eagles play at Rocksprings Saturday (tomorrow), November 8th.

CAMP FIRE MEETING TO SAN ANGELO

Friday afternoon, Oct. 31, a group of camp fire girls with their guardians Miss Meyer and Miss Turney went to San Angelo to attend a Halloween party at the Log Cabin Village, given by the camp fire girls and boy scouts of San Angelo.

The price of admission was an old garment that can be used by the girls to give to people less fortunate than us.

On arriving we were given our badges and then joined the "supper line." There was plenty to eat consisting of barbecue, beans, doughnuts and soda pop.

After eating we were given orders to get in line for the death march. On this march we shook hands with dead people, felt of tonsils and witches hearts, ate worms, felt eyes and entered tents where our fortunes were told and other interesting things were seen. All reported a good time and it has made us more interested in our own organization.

Those attending the party from here were: Elnora Andrews, Lorene Shoemaker, Marjorie Thornton, Pauline Kent, Mary Dell McGilvary, Willie Ruth Nicks, Margaret Sheen, Lucile Oglesby, Margaret Bradley, Bina Sue Martin, Anna Ruth Spurgers, Isabella Isaacs, Mrs. Nicks, Mr. and Mrs. Puer Miss Turney and Miss Meyers.

CAMP FIRE MEETING BY MARGARET BRADLEY

Last Wednesday the junior-senior and freshman-sophomore sections of the camp fire girls both met together to plan a hike. This hike will be the first we have had and is called a bad-on and egg hike. We imagine the girls will have scrambled eggs before they get through frying them on rocks.

After we had discussed our hike the junior-senior group selected their name. We all decided on "Cogel-I." The "Co" stands for cooperative and courageous, "e" stands for cheerful, "ge" for generous, "l" for loving, and "a" for ambitious. "I" is a secret to this group. They also decided to begin working for honors.

On the preceding afternoon both sections met to mend books for the library which is a hand craft honor. They are planning to work diligently for many more honors.

This organization is very beneficial to the girls and is the first thing of this kind we have had in Eldorado for a long time. These girls aim to continue this work in an upright manner and to do many useful deeds.

SOLID GEOMETRY CLASS

The Solid Geometry class is making much progress. They are about one half way through the text book. There are only five pupils taking Solid Geometry so it is much easier to learn. They are now studying the polygons. Some of the different kinds of polygons are prisms and parallelepipeds. The parallelepipeds are box shaped figures.

The Solid Geometry class has had about 40 proposition while the Plane Geometry class has had only a few propositions.

Solid Geometry will last until mid-term and then Advanced Arithmetic will take its place for the rest of the year.

ALGEBRA I

The Algebra class is progressing nicely this week. They are studying the multiplication of monomials and polynomials. The class has been cut into two classes which will make it better for the pupils and teacher. Everyone can go to the board every day when there are not so many in each class.

If more cars don't stick in front of the school building and have the exhaust pipe smashed, the algebra class will progress nicely.

THE SPANISH EXHIBIT

The Spanish classes have been collecting articles for a Spanish Exhibit in order to produce a Spanish effect for the students atmosphere.

The Spanish room is highly decorated, and they have oh, so many things. There are pictures of Spaniards and Mexicans and Spanish and Mexican towns and old missions; from these you can clearly see how they dress and their customs. Proverbs, poems translated by pictures, and original poems written by the Spanish II class are put on the black board. In the windows there are different hand made articles, which were made by Mexicans; there is every thing from a hand made handkerchief to a meter.

The most interesting thing of all is the miniature Mexican town. The town has a saloon, with the Mexican flag waving from the top, a mission (San Juan) and other stores and residences. The streets are paved and the Spanish people are seen going busily down the streets and in and out their homes. Several different trees are growing there. There is, also a well at one end of the town. All of this is mounted on a sand table borrowed from the primary rooms. About sixty high school students are enrolled in Spanish.

IN THE RACK

By "Maggie" Zine

Miss Allen, our English teacher, has a favorite magazine in the rack that she readily recommends to anyone who is seeking a magazine with many helps. This is a monthly publication called "Correct English". It is also called a current literary review. "Correct English" carries the following departments: "Errors of Authors; Questions and Answers; Correct Business English for the Business Man and the Stenographer; The Art of Local Letter Writing; Your Speaking Voice, How to Improve it; and Helps for the teacher and pupil. It also carries Literary Reviews.

Of all the magazines that boys rush to the rack for the most is the "Modern Mechanics and Inventions." It is a monthly publication, but one issue could keep a person occupied for three months. It carries "How to build series and departments in radio, aviation, new inventions, etc. and an article every month by Sam Brown on tricks and magic. The most interesting column is the Shop Mail Box by Andy Crammer. This column is not the best in English but it is very humorous. With all the wonderful articles on "How-to-build" makes us see what a pity it is for us not to have manual training in our high school.

ASSEMBLY, WEDNESDAY

Assembly was opened by a song, "He Leadeth Me", led by Elhora Andrews and accompanied on the piano by Lucile Oglesby.

After this, the program was turned over to Mr. McWhorter, the new pastor of the Methodist Church. Mr. McWhorter's talk was appreciated by the student body and wish that he might be with us often.

The classes then returned to their daily work by a march played by Miss Lucile McWhorter.

WOMAN'S CLUB MET WITH MRS. D. GREGORY

The Woman's Club study is advancing rapidly with South American history and much interest and enthusiasm is being shown. The period of history, 1825-1865 is one of development and growth of civilization in the different republics. A special study of Uruguayan, Brazilian, and Argentinian Independence movements was made November fourth. Mesdames Holt, Hill and Edens discussed the special topics and told many interesting facts related to this part of South American history. At the close of the lesson all members entered into a free discussion of questions which covered the lesson and a review.

The Club councillor Mrs. John, Rae read the Message of Mrs. R. F. Lindsay State Pres of Federated Clubs, to the club. She also discussed the amendments and federated club womens part in legislation.

Other things of interest on the program were: patriotic quotations, flag salute led by Mrs. E. C. Hill and Parliamentary drill conducted by Mrs. V. G. Tisdale. Mrs. Gregory, the hostess, served lovely refreshments to the following members: Mesdames E. E. Hill, V. G. Tisdale, V. H. Humphrey, H. W. Wiedemann, W. N. Ramsay, Holt, Rae, D. C. Hill, J. B. Edens, Jarvis, Royster, C. M. McWhorter, and W. T. Whitten.

BROKEN

She laughed with shaken excitement. "I stayed at the hotel—it so cold and cheerless."

"It looks wonderful," Schofield said. "I've never been out of England myself," he added humbly.

"Yes—it was wonderful," Julie whispered. She sat with her hands clasped together, her eyes fixed on the screen. It was as if some one had taken her back three months, and was making her live those few hours of complete happiness once more.

"That's the Monastery—" she said. "You could hardly see it for snow when we were there—"

"We?" Schofield said quickly. "You were not alone then."

"There are always a great many tourists," Julie answered.

A newsboy came along crying his news.

"Tragic death of a well-known society beauty—"

"I'll get a paper," Schofield said. They stopped under a lamp to read the short paragraph on the front page.

"What is it?" Julie asked. She bent lower to read the words. Then suddenly she gave a cry. "It's Jewel! My cousin! Oh, poor Julie—"
