WASHINGTON AND
"SMALL BUSINESS"
By C. WILSON HARDER

The 13th amendment to the United States Constitution prohibits anyone being forced to involuntary servitude, or in other words, work for nothing.

It so happens in Waterloo, Iowa, a D. J. Spensley firmly believes in this amendment. He takes the position that the United States government owes him some money for the time he has been forced to spend in preparing reports on his 21 employees in his dry cleaning establishment.

He recently presented the Internal Revenue Service office in Des Moines with a bill for service rendered totaling $3,000. Needless to say, he has not now failed to receive payment.

But his position is that over the past five years to complete and file the various tax forms on the income tax withholding and social security taxes has required a total of 800 hours of his labor. He feels he is entitled to $3.75 per hour pay.

Of course, Mr. Spensley did not really expect a check reimbursing him for his labor. But he is hopeful that with enough employers raising this issue, the Congress will see the justice of the position.

In fact, he actually does not particularly care if the government gives him a check in one lump sum. He has explained he would just as soon take reimbursement by deducting it small service fee from the employee taxes he turns in to the government until such time as the account is squared.

This matter of making the employer an unpaid collector of taxes has become quite a major one. Not only has the Federal government kept businessmen tied up for unaccounted hours of involuntary servitude, but state and sometimes even city government have followed this pattern.

There is also a consumer angle in this matter. While Mr. Spensley apparently is able to perform this unpaid labor himself, in many operations it is necessary to employ extra people to do the work.

These extra costs are, of course, added to the price customers must pay for goods and services. But the smaller businessmen, not having a large enough force of employees, must either find time during the working day, or in the evenings, or weekends.

It's quite a paradox, when one thinks about it.

Less than 75 years after an amendment was made to the Constitution making it illegal to force anyone to work without compensation, the first laws were passed requiring businessmen to work for nothing. There is only one apparently legal loophole. The 13th amendment did state that anyone convicted of a crime should be subjected to involuntary servitude. Thus, it is possible that under the present day trend of decisions, the U.S. Supreme Court could hold that it was the intent of the Congress to declare it a crime for anybody to be in business.

Fix Up... Paint Up... It's Spring!

4-H'ers Pitch Right in to Beautify Homes

SPRING, or any other time, is just right for adding a bit of cheery color, a cozy nook, draperies, or an entire new decor to the home. At least that's what scores of 4-H Club members are doing as part of their home improvement project.

It is amazing what these teenagers, and even pre-teens, have done to beautify their own rooms, and often all the other rooms in the family dwelling. Projects vary according to ability and need, but the young homemakers learn the basics of painting, papering, choice of color, texture and design, furniture and floor refinishing, sewing and purchasing.

Awards Given

At the close of the 4-H Club year, the 4-H staff of the Cooperative Extension Service will judge completed projects for county, state and national awards. Donor of the home improvement awards for the fifth straight year is The S&H Foundation, Inc. Six $500 scholarships will go to national winners.

Examples of what 4-H'ers can accomplish is told in the records of three recent national scholarship winners, all named Linda.

Linda No. 1 had the thrill of helping to renovate an old farmhouse which her parents had purchased to make more room for the growing family of six. Linda tackled painting, tiling, sanding floors and refinishing furniture. She did research on lighting and also made bedspreads and curtains for her own room. A brand new house was the starting place for Linda No. 2, who had previously collected an idea scrapbook on home beautification. She took on a mansized share of the interior decorating from the bare walls to making a novel lamp from a "large balloon and spray starch." More than 70 different home improvements were scored by the third Linda over a seven-year period. She studied flower arrangement, color, texture and design as she advanced in her projects. Her method for making glass mosaics gained national fame. After transforming her bedroom into a cozy retreat, Linda went to work on her brother's room. She used the bright hues of his miniature car collection for the decorating colors.

Lt. Ray Hupp and his wife, Kathrine, have returned to their home in Columbus, Ga., after a visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Hupp.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Petty were visitors Thursday and Friday of Mr. and Mrs. Horace M. Petty at Vernon. They were accompanied to Vernon by Howard Hardin, who spent the night with his brother, Gordon Hardin, and wife.

FIX-IT TIP

Test washable wallpaper first to be sure that it won't blur or wrinkle.

Use clear warm water for delicate papers and add mild soap flakes or mild detergents for heavy ones. Work from the bottom up so that when the water dribbles down a difficult-to-remove streak won't appear on soiled paper. Use light strokes and overlap each cleaned area. Pat dry as you proceed.

Lacquered papers can be washed with warm suds and those coated with wax can be wiped with a damp cloth.

BACK TALK

One of my Alanreed friends told me last week that he thought the greatest advancement in agriculture in the last several years has been, "you can no longer tell the farmer's daughter from the city girl."

Can any of us conscientiously say that our country can keep on spending, and raising taxes as if there were no limit on expenditures, whether it be local, or Federal. This is one fact we all know and need to face. In our country everyone's needs are basically the same as mine and yours, that is, "somewhere to live, something to do, and someone to care." Let's help keep it that way.

Resume of portion of my platform:

1. No secrecy in government, this includes secret salary raises.
2. I am for equal treatment of all individuals, with only two questions asked. Is it right, is it fair?
3. Improved business practices, such as stock records, work orders, regular inventories.
4. The minutes of the Commissioners court to be published in the local paper.
5. Extreme effort to keep all 4 precincts R&B fund at peak efficiency so that we can think in terms of reducing taxes.
6. A map of all roads in each precinct with type material comprising the roadbed, amount of travel or road miles.
7. Minutes of Commissioner's court to be taken by the County Clerk and not the County Judge. You know that I am in no position to question what anyone tells me. You be the Judge.

A drunk walked into an open elevator shaft and fell three stories. Gingerly he stood up, brushed himself off, rechecked his hat. "D---," he exclaimed. "I said up." One farmer said, "If it hadn't been for this late freeze I would have had apples so big it would only take four of them to make a dozen." Still another claims the fast guns on TV would be no real match for an oldtime gunslinger he knew, said he could stand in front of a mirror and beat himself to the draw. This one I believe, a little old lady entered a suburban bungalow and found a lad of four in sole possession, playing with his train. "You don't know me," said the old lady "but I'm your grandmother on your father's side." Without looking up from his train, the lad replied, "I'll tell you right now you're on the wrong side."

I had a terrible dream last night, the election was over, the votes were counted and I only received 5 votes, myself, my wife's and our three children. To every one of you kind enough to read any of these articles, they are totally my own work and I accept full responsibility for defending any time or any place what I have said. I wish to thank you gratefully and deeply appreciate any consideration that you will give me on election day MAY 7.

TIPS for OUTDOORSMEN

Reversing line
Reversing the line on a reel can be a dreary job at best. But you can make the operation ten times easier by using your home as a king-size spool.

The free end of the line to a corner post or door knob, or any other handy projection, then walk around the huse until the reel is unwound.

This is guaranteed to prevent tangling.

Treatment for Burns
Camp burns can be treated with at least two common substances that doctors suggest.

First is tea. Tannic acid in tea soothes blistered skin and is excellent for treatment of sunburn.

Second is the white of an egg. Albumen is the stuff in eggs that dyes and heals.

Apply one or the other and let dry. Then repeat the treatment.

Stop Short Strikes
Often when trailing a pork rind on your lure, especially from a bait equipped with a treble hook, the fish will strike short. There are two ways to remedy this.

First is to switch to a tail-hook pork rind.

Second, open the eye of another hook and attach it to the shank of one of the treble hooks.

Inexpensive Rod Carrier
You can make a serviceable rod carrier out of unwanted cardboard rug tubes.

Use tin cans (picked to fit) to close the ends.

Soak the cardboard in cheap paint and it will last a long time.

Emergency Ice Box
To transport fresh fish home-ward when you have no ice chest, pack the fish in some ice in the spare tire well of your car.

For added protection and to preserve the ice, cover the well with a wet tow sack.

When you arrive home simply remove the fish and flush out the well with the garden hose.

Rubber Bands on Trotlines
Trotlines usually tie lines ashore to limber tree branches that will give with the strike of a heavy fish.

In places where there are no branches to tie to, use large rubber bands cut from old inner tubes and tie to a stake driven in the bank.

Protection for Rods
Plastic cement "painted" on the metal surfaces of rods or reels will help prevent the severe erosion problem caused by salt water.

Wire for Sinkers
You can make emergency sinkers out of discarded electrical wire bent to form a loop.

Sinker slides over the catchiest bottoms, yet still gets the bait down.

Silencing the Bow
Why take a chance that even the slightest twang of a bow string might scare game and give away your position?

You can silence your bow string with rubber bands cut from an inner tube. Bands should be at least six inches long and tied top and bottom to bow string about two inches from tip.

Marshmallows for Bait
When catfish won't hit anything else, try soaking a marshmallow with olive oil.

Gets Rid of Fish Smell
To remove the fish smell from your hands after cleaning your catch, try washing your hands with chlorophyll toothpaste.

Lemon juice also will deodorize the fish smell.

Better yet, avoid the smell in the first place by wearing thin rubber gloves while cleaning the fish. A pair of gloves like housewives use while washing dishes will fit nicely in the tackle box.

Nylon Hose Protect Gun Case
To put your gun away for a long time, grease it well and slip it into a discarded nylon stocking. Then place the gun in the regular case.

The nylon will keep the grease and oil from soiling the interior of your gun case.

For Cleaner Windshields
Add a teaspoon of detergent to the water in your windshield cleaner reservoir and see how fast tough road grime washes away.

Keeps Hunter's Seat Dry
When deer hunting, tuck a square piece of heavy weight, waterproofed canvas in your belt. You can use it to keep your seat dry while sitting on damp earth.

Shadows Scare Fish
Fish can see you. And they can detect shadows.

So, keep low when you approach clear water. And, never fish so your body throws its shadow across the water.

Wash to Remove Hairs
Dip squirrels, rabbits and other hairy small game in water before skinning. This keeps tiny hairs off the flesh.

Hide Keys in Hub Cap
Taking car keys on a long hunt can cause problems. While changing pants or when sitting down you may lose the keys.

Here's how to lock your car and still have the keys handy. Just pry off a hub cap, toss the keys inside and replace the cap. They will be there when you return.

Policeman's Ball
The Canon City, Colo., city council, overriding protests of alleged obscenity, has sanctioned dancing by go-go girls in nightclubs. But it said the dancing would have to be done to only recorded music, and a policeman must be present to observe each act.

A HUGE SUCCESS—Bus driver R. C. Marchman takes a close look at a mockup of the Lockheed C5A in Marietta, Ga. The airplane, when completed, will be the world's largest and will be able to hold six buses like the one Marchman drives.

Today I received a letter stating, "The Alanoed Community in Gray County placed first in division one of the community improvement contest." This is all the details I have on the matter. They will now compete for state honors. If they are in the finals, they will probably be visited by a state judging team.

SLAUGHTER CATTLE PRICES
The market is in a slip at present. However, the cattle feeder seems to be on the hunt end of the crop. In a Texas livestock market news, the price had dropped only slightly at Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio and Houston in the distributive wholesale meat trade.

We are wondering if the wholesale beef price and the retail price of beef will follow the downward adjustment in live cattle prices.

The recent cattle on feed report showed 13 per cent more cattle on feed in 32 cattle feeding states. Most of the increase from a year earlier was in cattle weighing between 700 and 1100 pounds.

Some of the experts think we will have a slaughter cattle market that will sag about $2.50 per cwt. from its high point, level off at this figure for two to three months and recover to the earlier level. We wouldn't try to pinpoint anything. As the little boy said, "About all we know is what we read in the paper."

But we see nothing to get shook up about in the market. Most feeders still have a comfortable margin in their cattle. The economy is booming. If the retail trade will drop their prices accordingly we can eat our way out of any temporary surplus situation.

Total red meat production is still relatively low in comparison to human population. The average slaughter weight is still about the same as same time in 1965. The 1965 figure is substantially lower than preceding years. The new grading system has changed this.

"It was almost letter perfect—she left out one 'T' in Wolcott," Markham said.

The Things We Say

By Ruby Shannon

When Americans visit England for the first time many are dumfounded to see Englishmen driving to the left along their highways. Much of America was settled by the English. Why, then, do we drive to the right?

It all started with a covered conveyance known as the Conestoga wagon, which was built in Conestoga Valley, Lancaster County, Pa., about 1725. The wagon was high at each end and sway-backed in the middle. It was pulled by six horses whose reins were held by the driver who rode the wheel horse on the left so he could look out for possible danger.

The driver rode the left wheel horse because of the problem of mounting. No real horseman would try to mount a trained horse from the right, and the best spot from which to guide a wagon when passing another is on the near side.

When automobiles replaced the wagon, the steering wheel was placed to the left in a position similar to that taken by the driver of the Conestoga wagon.

Gray County Needs New Initiative In County Government

Elect

HAROLD L. COMER

GRAY COUNTY
JUDGE

GRAY COUNTY CITIZENS:

Good government on any level, federal, state or local, depends on the good will of an informed public. It is my belief that the county can't have the good will of its people unless they are informed of what the county is doing and why they are doing it. This requires communication between the county administration and its people. I can't think of any other way the county can be responsive to the needs of its people and the people to be informed of county affairs. Lack of communication leads to misunderstanding and misunderstanding eventually leads to mistrust. If elected, one of my primary goals would be to promote a working relationship between the county and its citizens which would allow the people a greater voice in their county government.

FIX-IT TIP

To remove blisters from veneers, split the blister lengthwise with a razor blade and insert liquid glue under the raised portion, using a stick or small brush.

Cover the break with several layers of newspapers and place a weight on it. When glue has set, remove paper by soaking it with olive oil and scraping lightly with a razor blade. Then sand the area carefully, starting at the center and working toward the edges. If patched surface is discolored, touch up with varnish or shellac.

● Before peeling oranges or grapefruit, try putting them in hot water for 30 seconds. It loosens the peelings and helps to remove them easily.
 ● Small frozen juice cans are excellent to store refrigerator cookie dough. Save an end to push the dough out. Cut and your cookie is preshaped!
 ● Use a buttered ice cube tray when making fudge and you will find that the fudge hardens quicker.
 ● A teaspoon of lemon juice in the water you cook rice in will whiten and fluff the rice.

Old-fashioned star-spangled savings scheme

There's nothing new about U. S. Savings Bonds. Millions of Americans have built their savings plans around them for years.

And that's the beauty of it. Bonds are a proven way to save—and they carry a guaranteed rate of interest. You'll get back $4 for every $3 you invest when your Bonds are held to maturity.

Just the tax angle alone is pretty enticing. You pay no state or local income tax on E Bond interest—and you can defer federal tax until you cash your Bonds. What's more, your Bonds convert easily into cash when you need it.

There's nothing old-fashioned about the way your Bonds go to work for your country. Every penny invested helps to keep America strong and promote the cause of freedom.

Make U. S. Savings Bonds a regular part of your family's savings scheme. It's the old-fashioned, star-spangled way to insure your future.

Quick facts about Series E Savings Bonds

- ✓ You get back $4 for every $3 at maturity
- ✓ You can get your money when you need it
- ✓ Your Bonds are replaced free if lost, destroyed or stolen
- ✓ You can buy Bonds where you bank, or on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work

"I Learned Law
The Hard Way"
Says Candidate
G. L. "Nat" Lunsford

Some doubts have been raised about my qualifications for County Judge because I am not a lawyer.

In reply to this statement I wish to state that when I was first elected County Commissioner, each of the Commissioners was presented by the Judge a large volume containing all of the laws affecting the County Commissioner. We were told by the Judge to study this book and we would learn our duties and obligations. After about eight years, I learned all of these laws in detail. I then decided to study more law books and studied each one until I felt that I knew it. When I was elected to the Justice of Peace office, I found that I needed more law so I borrowed more books and studied the civil and criminal statutes. I have also studied probate proceedings and all phases of the law which is used by the County Judge. It has been a long and slow process but I now feel that I have fully qualified myself, and that I have learned sufficient law to handle any matter which may come before the County Judge.
