With the announcement last week that mortgage interest rates on homes had climbed to between 14% and 16%, a shudder went through the housing industry. The new interest rates will probably stop all buying and selling of houses until rates go back down...if they ever do.

I know people who put off buying a house several years ago because they were waiting for interest rates to go back down to 6 percent!

What does the new interest rate do to prospective home owners? I asked Roger McCracken at the bank last week to check some of their charts, and this is what he came up with. If you wanted to buy a house today for $60,000 (Listed by most authorities as the "average" price of a new home in today's inflated market), and you wanted a thirty-year note on which you would make monthly payments, you would be looking at $710.93 per month payments (this does not include insurance or taxes which you would add another $200 to $300 per month). The total interest on a loan like that over the thirty year period (at 14 percent) is $195,934.80! The total amount you would pay back is $255,934.80!

This makes the price of owning a home so exorbitant that very few of today's young married couples will be able to realize their dream of owning a new home. With interest rates this high, there will undoubtedly be a horrible depression in the construction industry which eventually will spread to the rest of the economy.

I wonder if this tight money will cause values of homes to decrease. Some people might be so anxious to get rid of their homes that they would be willing to sell at a cheaper-than-market price.

I noticed in a paper that we get from Massachusetts that there was not a house listed for sale for less than $130,000, and that one was pictured in the paper, and looked like a very ordinary wood-sided small house!

And by the way, the interest rates are rising so fast, that not even the banks can keep up with them. Roger said that the bank didn't have a chart on 16 percent interest yet!

For the first time, I am really concerned about the state of the economy as our political leaders shilly-shally around, and seem unable to make any hard decisions to bring inflation under control. Businessmen are caught in the vicious cycle of having to raise prices so that they can pay their bills, and each time one business raises prices, some one else has to raise prices to compensate, until we are caught on this crazy inflation merry-go-round. If you have an answer to the problem of inflation, I'm sure that President Carter and the Congress would welcome your suggestion. In fact, if you have a suggestion on how to keep personal spending in line with income, we would appreciate your suggestions!!!

After I bought The McLean News, I took quite a bit of ribbing from some of my "male

Deadline For Tax Exemption Is April 1

The deadline for filing for homestead exemption on school taxes in just a few days away, and over 100 homeowners have still not signed up, according to Mrs. Shirley Johnson, school business manager. All persons are entitled to receive an exemption of $5,000 from the market value of their residence homestead for the purpose of school taxes, but to qualify, an application must be filed with the school district tax office by April 1, Mrs. Johnson said.

In addition to the $5,000 exemption, persons who are 65 or older or under a disability for purposes of payment disability benefits under Federal Old-

Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance are entitled to an additional exemption of $10,000 the business manager said.

Mrs. Johnson urged all homeowners in the district to take advantage of this tax benefit by signing up before the April 1 deadline.

The council decided to postpone calling a town hall meeting until after the April council meeting. The meeting will be to discuss hiring a city policeman and investigating methods of paying for the officer.

The council was told that they could not allow public skating in the Marie Foundations building because insurance costs would be prohibitive.

Bill Heasley gave the city an easement to install five permanent connections for a house trailer park.

The rate request by Southwestern Public Service was suspended for 120 days.

The council discussed combining the city and school taxing units to save on costs.

The council discussed hiring another employee to take the place of Bill Heasley who resigned March 7. Council members decided to wait to hire another employee until a later date.

The group agreed to have a book return installed at the Lovett Memorial Library as soon as possible.

The council reappointed Catherine Weaver and Frances Kennedy to the board of the Lovett Memorial Library.

Attending the meeting were council members Dale Glass, Miro Pakan, Boyd Meador, George Terry; mayor Sam Haynes; city secretary Stella Lee; and city superintendent Bob Glenn.

Former Resident Murdered In Missouri

Patrick Trimble, 20, of St. Charles, Mo., has been indicted for capital murder in the death Nov. 12, 1979, of Jerry James Everett, 20, of Jackson, Tenn. Everett, the son of former McLean residents Mr. and Mrs. Petie Everett, was found dead in a jail cell in St. Charles, Mo.

JERRY JAMES EVERETT theft, and put into a cell block with seven other prisoners, including Trimble.

The death was at first ruled a suicide, based on testimony given by Trimble, who was a cell-block mate.

At the time of the suicide verdict, Everett's parents began an intensive investigation into the death. According to their investigation, Everett had apparently run out of gas in his vehicle and crawled into the back of a van to sleep until he could find help. The van had been stolen in St. Charles the day before.

Everett was arrested by the St. Charles sheriff's department on suspicion of vehicle sequently tortured and molested by Trimble, and forced to write a suicide note when Trimble realized that charges against Everett were to be dropped and he was to be released. The prosecution maintained that Trimble was fearful of Everett's telling authorities about the torture, and murdered Everett, later claiming that the boy had hanged himself.

The trial for Trimble will be in Harrisonville, Mo., in May or June. The penalty in Missouri for capital murder is death in the gas chamber.

Trimble will stand trial April 17 on eight counts of kidnapping, rape, and sodomy of two nine-year-old girls.

Tiger Band Receives I In Sightreading

The McLean High School band received a Division I rating in sightreading and a Division II rating in concert at the University Interscholastic League contest in Canyon Tuesday. The band, under the direction of Mrs. Bonnie Brass, played two numbers for their concert contest. They were the first band to perform in the contest.

"I'm very pleased with the sightreading score," Mrs. Brass said. "The band performed exceptionally well in both events. Of course, we were disappointed not to receive a Division I rating in concert, but I felt that our position as the first band to play probably hurt us."

Last year the band received a Division II in both concert and sightreading.

McLean Receives Tax Rebate

State comptroller Bob Bullock Friday said city sales tax rebates for the first quarter of 1980 grew substantially compared to the first quarter of 1979 but the increases don't fare as well under close inspection.

The apparent increases are partly offset by the fact that during the first quarter of 1979 sales tax allocations were down due to late filings and a backlog of 2,400 returns in the agency's accounting system, Bullock said.

System improvements have eliminated the backlog and strengthened the agency's ability to quickly handle returns and put more money into the system for rebates, he said.

OPINIONS

VIEWS ARE WRITTEN BY LINDA HAYNES, UNLESS OTHERWISE NOTED - IF YOU HAVE AN OPINION ON ANY CURRENT SUBJECT WE WELCOME YOUR SIGNED LETTERS.

HATRED IS DANGEROUS EMOTION

Hate is one of the most destructive emotions that men have. Doctors now believe that hate and its sister emotion, stress, can cause heart attacks and strokes, and perhaps even cancer.

You think this is a strange subject for an editorial? Not so. Since I have been writing these editorial opinions, some people have disagreed with statements I have made, which is, of course, every person's right.

Voltaire said "I disapprove of what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it."

But all too often that disagreement has taken the form of subtle harassment, open contempt, and raw hate.

Now, no one likes to be disliked, much less hated, and I am certainly no different than anyone else. We each have a basic need to be loved and appreciated.

But it is an editor's responsibility to speak his mind on different subjects, even if that means that he will offend long-time friends.

My concern is for those of you who cannot stand to be disagreed with, and show your disapproval by hating the person who disagrees with you.

Hatred only destroys the person who is doing the hating. You may cause me some stress, but you are taking a chance with your own health, and perhaps more.

When Jesus Christ said to "love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you," I think he was talking about the best way for us to live a healthy and happy life.

I have discovered how to deal with your animosity so that I do not cause myself undue stress, and that is by remembering the above words of Jesus. That calms my stomach and eases my mind.

You'll have to worry about your own hatred.

TAX THE WINDFALL PROFITS ON FIREWOOD

(Reprinted with permission of The Wall Street Journal, copyright 1980, Dow Jones and Company, Inc. All Rights Reserved.)

By David Hale

There is an urgent need for the federal government to impose price controls and a windfall profits tax on New England firewood.

Congress has done its best to protect the northeastern states from greedy oil and gas companies, but so far it has ignored the economic injustices being inflicted upon the region by the profit hungry woodlot barons of northern New England.

The price of firewood has practically tripled since 1973. The cord of Vermont wood which once fetched $30 now sells for $80-$90 locally and almost twice as much in Manhattan. The forest lords of New England are making obscene profits at the expense of both fireplace lovers in the big cities and their own village neighbors.

One-half of all homes in Vermont, New Hampshire, and Maine now have wood burning stoves or furnaces, but only a small number of homeowners have their own private woodlots. Most are totally at the mercy of local lumber men who charge whatever the market will bear for firewood. In some cases they also insist upon bargaining only in French.

Despite their courageous attacks on the oil industry, northern New England Congressmen have refused to speak out against the firewood price gouging. The political and financial power of the woodlot barons is so great that they have intimidated local politicians into complete silence. In fact, a few Congressmen have become nothing more than mouthpieces for the firewood lobby. But as the price of firewood today testies, there is a strong argument for federal intervention in the industry as soon as the New Hampshire primary is out of the way.

First, Congress needs to establish a Department of Renewable Resources to regulate the growing, harvesting and marketing of firewood in New England and other regions where it is now commonly used. The present Department of Energy has only about 20,000 employees and is too busy regulating the oil industry to be saddled with responsibility for managing firewood supplies. It will take at least five hundred federal foresters to police the woods of Vermont and New Hampshire, alone, plus a support staff of several thousand lawyers, accountants, and public relations experts to interpret and administer the government's new firewood laws on a nation-wide basis.

Secondly, Congress needs to draft a price control code for firewood. It could use several different formulas to determine firewood prices, but federal oil legislation probably provides the best model for how to proceed. The price of firewood should be a function of a tree's age.

Firewood from trees which started growing before 1973 should be priced at the lowest possible level in order to prevent New England woodlot barons from taking advantage of the 12-fold increase in oil prices since that time. Most New Englanders with old trees did not foresee the current scarcity of energy, so they should not be allowed to charge a high price for their wood today. A maximum retail price of $35 per cord plus some modest inflation adjustments would be perfectly reasonable.

Firewood from trees planted after 1973 should be priced according to a sliding scale. The younger the tree, the higher the allowed price for its firewood. There should be no price controls at all on trees planted after 1980 in order to encourage woodlot owners to plant new ones.

Because of transportation problems, the federal government also will have to develop a flexible pricing code for wood from remote locations. The New Department of Renewable Resources should create geographic sub-classifications such as mountain wood, ledge wood, swamp wood or wood stunted by acid rain.

The federal government permits the petroleum industry to charge a high price for Alaskan oil. Congress might officially designate Maine's Indian reservations as new Alaskas for purposes of firewood price control.

Whatever the exact particulars of the new price control code, though, Congress should not spend more than one session writing it. Federal auditors will want to begin marking New England trees with spray paint for price control compliance by this summer.

History shows that price controls usually create shortages, so Congress will want to back up the price controls program with severe penalties for violators. The government should punish first time offenders by making them keep a federal auditor on their payroll, imprison second time offenders, and burn down the trees of third time offenders.

The best way to punish greedy forest owners and people willing to pay firewood prices above officially proscribed levels is by reducing the amount of wood available to everyone. As many forward-thinking Massachusetts politicians have noted in past debates about federal oil policy, "the smaller the supply of wood or any other form of energy in the nation, the easier it will be for the government to regulate it."

If this policy causes wood shortages to become a serious political problem in New England-say people freeze to death-the federal government can import wood from Quebec and finance it with a windfall profits tax on firewood from trees planted after 1980.

Like the proposed windfall tax on oil, this levy should not actually be a tax on firewood profits. It should be an excise tax on firewood sales. Such a tax will guarantee the government some revenues even if inflationary cost pressures and federal price controls put most woodlot harvesting operations out of business.

The United States government can't prevent Arabs and French Canadians from taking advantage of the fact that energy is now a scarce commodity, but we certainly don't want any New Englanders who are not on the federal payroll to look for solutions to the problem. Such efforts might lead to private profiteering, arouse strong public resentment, and reduce the ability of our political leaders to control energy supplies.

The energy policies which are good enough for the nation's oil industry are more than generous enough for New England's firewood barons.

chauvinist" friends about being a woman invading a man's world. I told one man friend that the women were taking over, and that he was going to be first on our list to exterminate when we gained control!

It is true that more and more women are assuming positions of responsibility, and the stereotype of "women's work" and "men's work" is fast disappearing.

This is true in the newspaper business as well as in other fields.

In fact, the only other paper in Gray County, The Pampa News, now has both a woman publisher and a woman editor! I haven't checked their history, but I'm sure this is the first time that The Pampa News has had a woman publisher, and I'd like to congratulate Louise Fletcher on her new job.

Louise is a native of Pampa and has worked for The Pampa News for many years.

We're looking for great things from The Pampa News!

Letters To The Editor

You seem to take great pride in your town and people through your editorials so you can understand my wanting to tell you how much I appreciate all the help McLean has given us in our community improvement effort.

I believe if you live somewhere you should be proud of that place, and the majority of us up here are. So we doubly appreciated all the work the boys who work for the County did these past days. We were once slapped by the misnomer of Ghost Town, but slowly and surely we are removing all the old houses and trash with which they judged us. We hope to eventually draw all concerned into our efforts to make a community beautiful to live in.

So thanks, neighbor, for all you have done so far, and we hope we can continue to be good neighbors.

Why joggers ache

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) - A physical education professor at The University of Texas knows why runners and joggers ache.

Because he has diagnosed hundreds of runners in UT's Rehabilitation Laboratory, Prof. Karl Klein says most running problems occur because one leg is shorter than the other, ankles turn inward, the tension between muscles on the front and back of legs is unbalanced, and many fail to run "pigeon toed" (a toe inward position with the outside of the feet parallel).

He advises stretching exercises for muscle flexibility and, in the running shoe, heel lifts (to balance posture) and podiatric designed devices (to turn ankles outward).

REBATE

McLean will receive $3,429.19 this quarter, compared to $3,002.79 in the same quarter of 1979. The amount is a 21 percent increase, and brings the total rebate for 1980 to $5,038.44.

Pampa will receive $168,645 for this quarter as compared to $117,266 for the same quarter last year. The total for the year is $317,124, an increase of 55 percent.

Bullock said 1980 rebate payments to cities from the first of the year total $138.7 million, compared to 1979 payments of $100 million over the same period, an increase of about 38 percent. He said 924 Texas cities will share $78.6 million in sales tax rebates during March, compared to $56.6 million in March of last year.

"A 38 percent growth at first blush seems astonishing, but my current estimate projects that sales tax revenue would grow 26.5 percent during the current budget period and we've got 17 more months before we'll close the books," Bullock said.

Houston will receive $14.9 million in rebates, bringing the city's 1980 payments to date to $27.3 million.

Dallas will get a check for $9 million, pushing the city's 1980 payments to $16.4 million.

Bullock also sent multi-million Metropolitan Transit Authority rebates to San Antonio and Houston. San Antonio will receive $1.1 million and Houston will receive $8.9 million.

The city sales tax is collected by merchants and other sales tax permit holders along with the state sales tax and is rebated monthly to cities in which it is collected by the Comptroller's office.

Sherrod Chosen 'Young Careerist'

Georgina Sherrod has been chosen "Young Careerist" this year by the Claremore Business and Professional Women in Claremore, Okla.

Mrs. Sherrod is presently a law student at Tulsa University. She is married to Joe Sherrod, who is formerly of McLean.

Area businessmen were solicited and asked for nominations to the position, resulting in about 20 names. Out of those twenty, four were picked to submit resumes and give speeches to BPW members at a dinner meeting.

Only three gave speeches that night when Mrs. Sherrod was chosen to represent the club.

The speeches were to be about themselves, and Mrs. Sherrod told of her growing up years on a Texas ranch, college experiences at Oral Roberts University and activities with youth ministries. She came into contact with over 2,000 teenagers in 10 churches through work with the ministries.

Mrs. Sherrod attended Texas Tech in Lubbock two years, but was graduated magna cum laude from ORU in 1978 with a Bachelor's degree in communications.

She was in honor societies at both schools, on Mortar Board at ORU and was a member of the Texas Tech freshmen Women's Honor Society.

Also at Texas Tech, she was the first freshman to be elected to the student senate. Mrs. Sherrod was a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority.

While at ORU, she worked as a prayer tower guide, and considers the experience a highlight of her career because she was able to meet so many people.

She was honored as outstanding communications student her senior year at ORU, and received both professional and academic scholarships throughout her college career.

Mrs. Sherrod's husband, Joe, is music minister at Claremore First United Methodist Church, and Mrs. Sherrod works with the youth there.

The Sherrod's resided in Broken Arrow until recently moving to Claremore. Mrs. Sherrod was employed with Hess from May, 1979 to January. The Hesson general manager nominated her for the "Young Careerist" award.

"That was a really good experience," said Mrs. Sherrod. "I got to meet a lot of people in the community."

Mrs. Sherrod will receive her law degree at TU in December of 1981.

She realizes that people need spiritual help, but also need assistance on the legal level. "You can really use a Christian perspective in law," she says, giving the subject of divorce as an example.

"I can use my own personal beliefs and still use a legal criteria," she says.

Gone Fishin

by Jeanette Fish

Living in California can make you forget who you are and who you used to be. By the time a Californian says-I-with a long vowel sound, four times, in one sentence, your attention wanders. Most of them are from Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas. You know it and they used to know it.

I tried to talk like them. It wore me out. Listening to a caphophony of I's, you guys and you dahg (dawg) will deafen a Texas ear real fast. They get just as tired of trying to figure out what you said.

The main topic of conversation in thousands of Monday morning offices is, "How was your weekend?" They mean it! "Oh we went up to Big Bear and bobsledded off of this twenty foot cliff. Boy was it exciting! The paramedics had to put six of us into one ambulance." A story like that is worth showing up for work, to hear.

In Texas, your friends may ask about your weekend two Mondays in a row. After hearing, "I vaccinated 100 cows and got kicked by a horse"---they won't ask again.

Eating out is big business in California. There are old restaurants made into churches and old churches made into restaurants. These people could eat a mile below the sea in a converted submarine and the Monday morning recap is still, "How was the food? How was the service?" No establishment scores both points. If the soup was bad, the waiter served it with a silver spoon. If it was good, he dropped it in your lap.

The West Coast "daily shall we have for dinner"---daily is equal to "Will they sign the treaty and what if they don't?" They don't eat breakfast, dinner and supper. It is breakfast, (brunch after 10 a.m.), lunch and dinner. Texans show up for the wrong meal until they learn the ropes.

We went to pretty parties at pretty houses. Heating vents were hidden behind beautiful paintings. The hostess wore a chiffon gown as she poured from a silver tea service. When we were ready to move back to Texas, one of the ladies at church charged my daughter with secretly asking if I would like a silver tea service or a clock. Secretly she said, "Hey mom they want to know if you want a tea service or a clock."

"SILVER, SILVER, YIPPEE, I WANT IT! I WANT IT!" I got it.

I am at home in Alanreed now. The ironing board is behind the kitchen door with a vacuum cleaner hose hanging on it. There is a Folger's coffee can filled with water sitting on the dining room stove so the windows won't sweat to death.

Three of the people I SAW FIRST when I got back were Bryan McPherson, Wardie Carnes and Joe Leonard who had last SEEN ME picking cotton. After several months of polishing the silver set weekly and never once pouring tea in a chiffon gown, I put it in a plastic bag, I wish I had that clock.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Freddie Cody, Gerleine Connel, Vera Minter, Celia Smith, Helen Allison, Ruby Blackwell, Imogene McMinn, Bennie Williams, Marie Julian, Evelyn Wallis, Nita Harkum, Rene Dunham, Betty Lee and Betty Jackson.

Field events will begin at 8:45 a.m. and running events will begin at 10 a.m.

City elections have been set for April 5. Running for mayor are Wendell Akins and J.W. Franks. For the three councilmen posts, Ralph Hix, Royce Gee, Stephen Mills, Ed Story and Jesse Baker are running.

The next city council meeting will be April 21.

COWPOKES, NESTERS, AND SO FORTH

By Judge Orland L. Sims
This volume, written by Judge Orland Sims, even though a personal recounting of the incidents, personalities and places which played a part in his life, also is a remarkable history of the progress of West Texas from the 1880's until the present time.

Judge Sim's biography as he recounts his life as cowboy, cowman, legislator, and judge, contains all the components for interesting reading as he brings a down to earth, witty, and humorous aspect to the mundane, monotonous and sometimes dangerous incidents surrounding pioneer life.

Friction caused by the arrival of the nesters, and the manner in which both cattlemen and farmers finally learned to co-exist peacefully, is a story repeated across the entirety of the west and southwest, and will bring back memories which will excite anger in some and humor in others.

Sim's descriptions of every facet of cowboy life, (which through necessity he learned every part) dispel some of the romantic myths about cowboys, and gives an extremely intimate view of the every day life on the range.

Many of the occurrences around Judge Sim's home of Paint Rock, Texas, are relived in this work, and cover the development of the area from the earliest cowboy days, and the arrival of the oil business, to the society of modern-day west Texas.

"Cowpokes, Nesters and So Forth" is replete with the humor and wisdom displayed by Judge Sims as he dealt with his fellow man from his cowboy days to his days on the bench. It will certainly be enjoyable reading for people in this part of the country, and is now available at Lovett Memorial Library.

Head in clouds
AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — A woman student at The University of Texas has reason to have her head in the clouds.

Charlotte Smith is one of 10 women in the nation accepted for jet pilot training in the U.S. Air Force. A physics major, she is a cadet in the UT Austin Air Force ROTC, where she is deputy commander of the John H. Payne Squadron.

It is no coincidence that she is interested in flying. Her father is a career Air Force pilot. She hopes eventually to become a flight instructor. Under Air Force rules, she is barred from flying combat missions.

Ambassador To Be In Amarillo Today

The South African Ambassador to the United Nations, J.A. Eksteen, will be in Amarillo on Thursday. He will speak at 7 p.m. in the Multipurpose Room on the second floor of the Amarillo Public Library, Central branch, 413 E. 4th. The speech is open to the public free of charge. Eksteen's visit to Amarillo is being sponsored by the Amarillo Council on International Affairs.

Ambassador Eksteen was born in the Transvaal region of South Africa in 1942. He earned a Masters degree in Political Science before joining the Department of Foreign Affairs in 1964. He served as Head of the United Nations/South West Africa Sections of the Foreign Affairs Department and participated in the proceedings before the International Court of Justice in the South West Africa cases in 1966. The Ambassador also served in the South African Embassy in Washington and was a member of South African delegations to international conferences for the negotiation of patent and telecommunications treaties.

In 1978, he served as a member of South Africa's delegation for discussions with the Five Western members of the U.N. Security Council on the future of South West Africa/Namibia. Eksteen was appointed Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary and Permanent Representative of South Africa to the United Nations in August, 1979.

Anyone interested in joining the Council should contact Doak Bishop at 372-5671 or write to P.O. Box 31718, Amarillo, Texas 79120.

Loose Marbles

by Lisa Patman

While the Robin traditionally has been the first harbinger of spring, in certain cultures a new custom has been established. You can still, of course, figure that warm weather is just around the corner when you see the budding crocus or watch the birds return from their southern vacations, but the most sure sign, the one that all the experts agree is the true indication of the beginning of spring is the Glassy-Eyed Husband.

There are two varieties of the Glassy-Eyed Husband--The Glassy-Eyed Golpher and the Glassy-Eyed Phisher. Both are easily recognizable.

The Golpher is known for the spikes on the bottom of his feet, for his red, sunburned nose, and for the strange appendage which, in springtime, appears in either his right or left hand, depending upon the right or left-handedness of the aforementioned Golpher. This long, rod-like appendage with a strange-looking hook on the end is called a Klub.

Apparently the Klub is used in the defense of the Golpher, for it is a common sight to see the Golpher flailing away at the dreaded Golph Ball in an attempt to bury it in a small hole provided by concerned members of the Golphers Wildlife Conservation Society.

Golphers, which are land creatures by nature, can be found wandering around certain wildlife resorts which are called Golph Greens or Golph Courses.

One of the unhappy facts of the Golpher is that he is prey to something called Sand Traps. These are apparently quite lethal, judging by the number of Golph Widows found during the spring season.

As for the Glassy-Eyed Phisher, he also is known for his red, sun-burned nose and his strange hand appendage. However, the Phisher is a water creature and is found on or near any navigable body of water. His appendage, known as a Phishing Rod, is more flexible than that of the Glassy-Eyed Golpher, and is equipped with a long, string-like substance which lengthens and shortens at the Phisher's will. And while the Golpher uses his Klub for defense, the Phisher uses his Phishing Rod for the procurement of food, called Phish.

Using a whipping motion, the Phisher tosses the string into the water and attaches it to a nearby Phish. Then, by contracting the string, the Phisher retrieves the Phish and puts it into his mouth, which is located on his side, near where a real person's waist would be. The mouth closely resembles a wicker basket.

Both the Glassy-Eyed Phisher and the Glassy-Eyed Golpher quite often are in grave danger, for oddly enough, it is during the springtime that their mates become quite irritable and threatening.

Watch for the emergence of either species of the Glassy-Eyed Husband. When you see one you'll know for sure that spring has indeed sprung.

In The Kitchen

by Linda Haynes

My favorite cookies are sugar cookies, but I have found that this simple cookie is sometimes difficult to make the way I like them. I tasted a cookie last week that was just right! but I had trouble getting the recipe because the cookies were baked by none other than Loose Marbles! You might know that she calls them tea cakes instead of cookies, and I'm afraid this recipe reads like one of her columns.

But try to muddle through it, because they are delicious!

TEA CAKES
Lisa Patman
2 cups sugar
1/2 c. butter
3 eggs
2 tablespoons water
2 tablespoons baking powder
1 tablespoon vanilla
Enough flour for stiff dough Combine sugar, butter, and eggs. Add water, baking powder, and two cups of flour. Mix with mixer. Continue adding flour and stirring with a spoon until the dough is stiff. (Marbles doesn't know how much flour!). Add vanilla. Put dough on floured board and knead in more flour.

Roll out dough and cut with cookie cutter.
Place on greased cookie sheet and bake at 375 degrees until done. (Cookies will no longer be shiny)
Cool and ice with powdered sugar icing.

POWDERED SUGAR ICING:
Melt a stick of margarine, add powdered sugar until of correct consistency. Add about 1 tablespoon of milk. Drizzle over cookies.

You'll save money on decorating by using paint or wallpaper that's grease and moisture resistant. Then stains can be wiped off.

RHONDA WOODS, McLEAN's representative in the Miss Irish Rose Contest, won the honor when she was chosen 'Miss McLean' last month. Miss Woods was one of several girls who competed for the Miss Irish Rose title at the traditional St. Patrick's Day celebration in Shamrock.

Haynes of McLean, Mrs. Sloan's father, tells us he was under the impression that she had never accepted the nomination, but had taken it under advisement. The main reason for Mrs. Sloan not making the race is presumed to be that, being married, she is legally disqualified from holding office in Texas, which fact Pampa citizens overlooked when they chose her as their candidate for treasurer. 11-3c
