Serving McLean and the Area Since 1903

VOLUME 77 McLEAN, GRAY COUNTY, TEXAS THURSDAY, AUGUST 28, 1980 PRICE 20¢ NUMBER 39

Bill Howe, the spirited editor of The Shamrock Texan, recently had his 65th birthday, and now seems obsessed with being a senior citizen. We watched Bill outdance all the younger guys at the press convention last spring, so we're not worried about his being over the hill.

However, I enjoyed this little ditty from one of his columns HERE'S HOWE: LIFE AFTER 40...HOW TO KNOW YOU'RE GROWING OLDER:

Everything hurts and what doesn't hurt doesn't work.

The gleam in your eyes is from the sun hitting your bifocals.

You feel like the morning after the night before but you haven't been anywhere.

Your little black book contains only names ending in M.D.

You get winded playing chess.

Your children begin to look middle aged.

You join a Health Club and don't go.

You begin to outlive enthusiasm.

Your mind makes contracts your body can't meet.

You know all the answers, but nobody asks you the questions.

You look forward to a dull evening.

Your favorite part of the newspaper is "25 Years Ago Today."

You sit in a rocking chair and can't get it going.

Your knees buckle and your belt won't.

You regret all those mistakes resisting temptation.

You're 17 around the neck and 42 around the waist.

You stop looking forward to your next birthday.

Dialing long distance wears you out.

Your back goes out more than you do.

A fortune teller offers to read your face.

You turn out the light for economic reasons rather than romantic ones.

You remember today, that yesterday was your wedding anniversary.

You are startled the first time you are addressed as "Old Timer."

You burn the midnight oil after 9 p.m.

You sink your teeth into a steak and they stay there.

Your pacemaker makes the garage door go up when you see a pretty girl go by.

You get your exercise acting as a pallbearer for your friends who exercise.

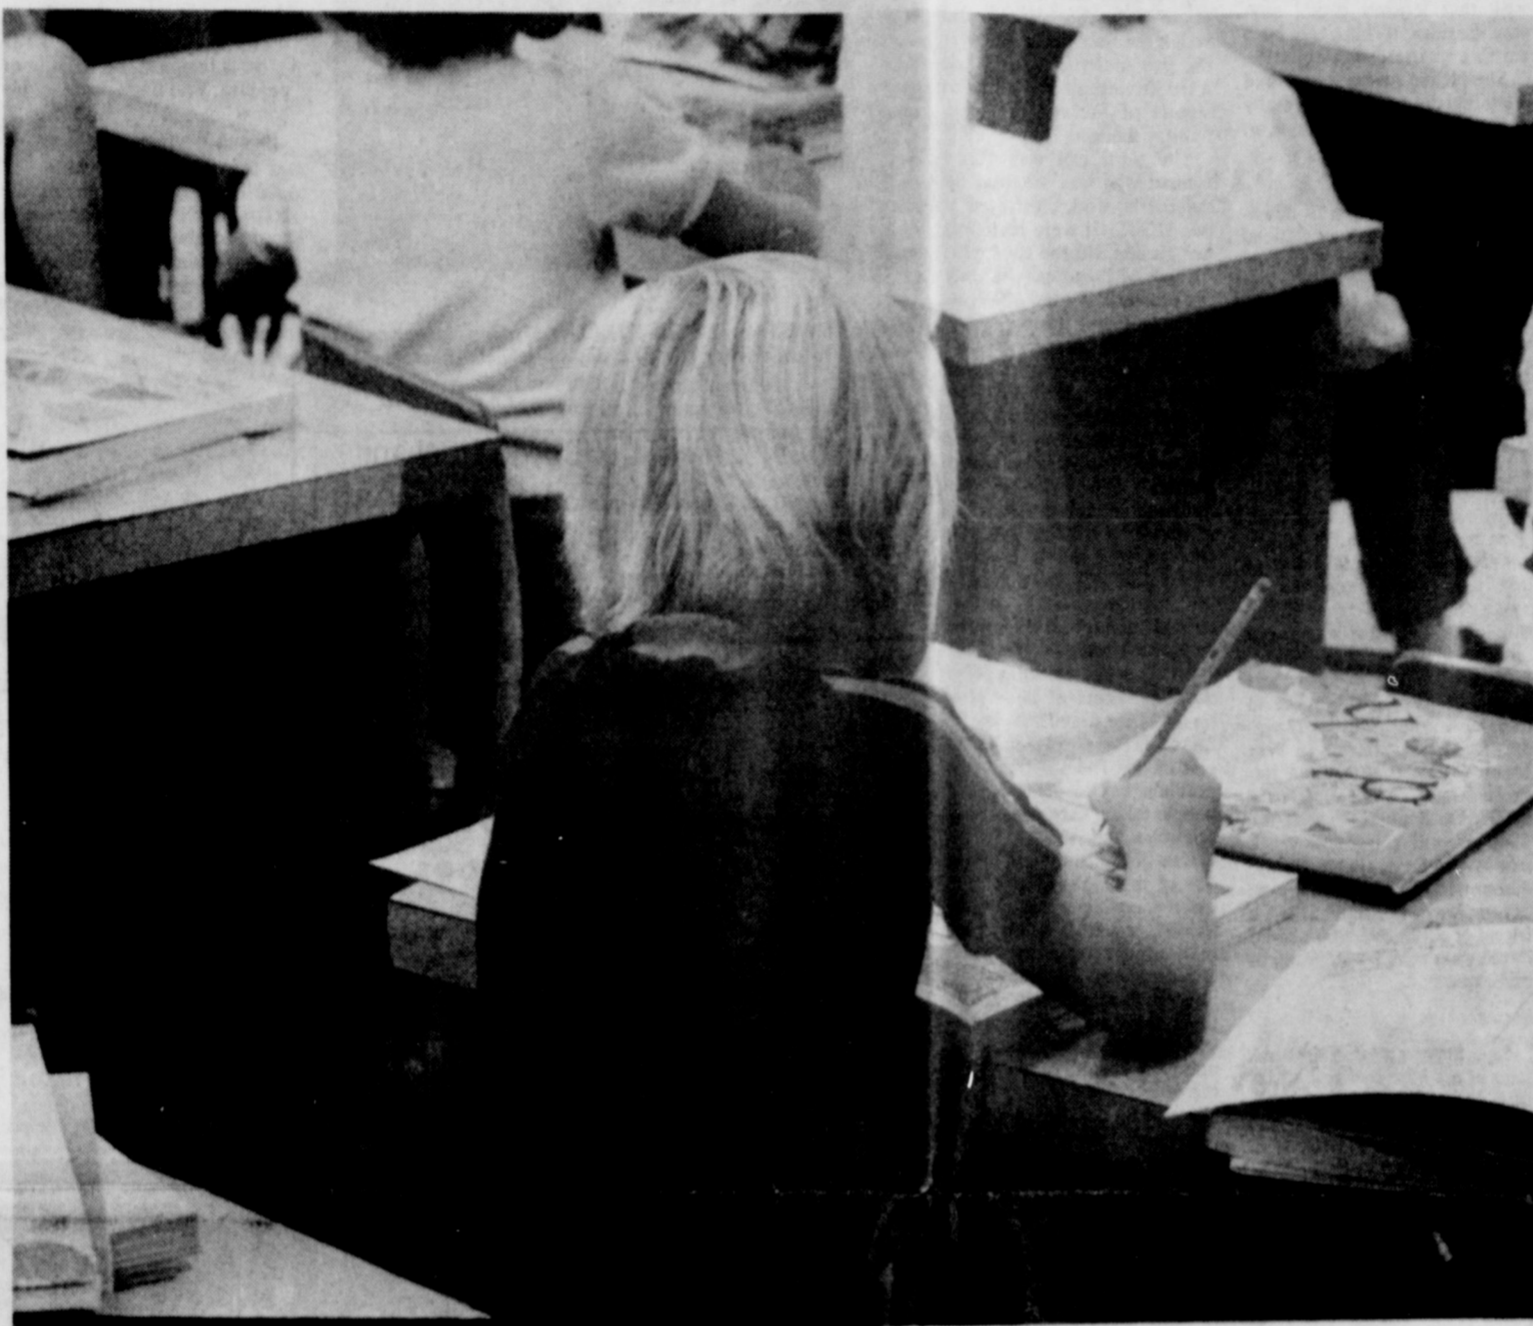

You get too much room in the house and not enough room in the medicine cabinet.

The best part of your day is over when your alarm goes off.

Thomas Nursing Home Plans Open House Sunday

The Thomas Nursing Center in McLean is hosting an Open House Sunday afternoon from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. at the home. Refreshments will be provided by the nursing home's auxiliary club.

Nita Vick, director of activities, said that four groups will be on hand for entertainment during the open house. Jane Simpson, the Wheeler County quartet, a western band and Steve Myers band will all perform.

The facility which was given final approval in February 1978 has been operating in McLean since March of 1979. The 18,000 sq. ft. brick veneer building can house 59 patients, although there are only 39 residents at this time, according to manager Bill Thomas.

The home employees 37 people, Thomas said, and could employ more if the facility was full. "We would like to urge everyone to tell people about the fine care that our residents receive," Thomas said. "We need to be operating at full capacity to provide the best service for McLean."

The nursing center, one of the most modern and well-equipped facilities in the area,

School Opens With 286 Students

School bells rang for McLean youngsters Monday with total enrollment at 286, according to superintendent Carl Dwyer. "Enrollment in the elementary building was down from what we had expected," Dwyer said, "but we will probably get more students during the week."

In grades kindergarten through eighth grades, 179 have enrolled, and 107 have enrolled in high school.

The high school enrollment is freshmen 32, sophomores 25, juniors 19, and seniors 31.

The kindergarten class which will go to school for a half-day all year long for the first time this year has only 14 students enrolled, Dwyer said. Lela Skipper, teacher, said her pupils were Peggy Adams, Michael Allen, Michael Barker, Patsy Barker, Michael Campbell, Melissa Darsey, Holly Hefley, Sissy Hill, David Hutchison, Frankie Lara, Beck McCarty, Clay Reynolds, Vance Rodgers, and Sheryl Trotter.

Early activities for the school year include a shot clinic planned for the week of Sept. 8, all school pictures on Sept. 10, and vision and hearing screening for the entire school on Sept. 24.

McLean students will get a holiday Monday for observance of Labor Day.

Tigers Claw Cowboys In First Scrimmage

The McLean Tigers roared onto the field at Happy last Friday night leaving a shaken Cowboy team scoreless. The Tigers scored early in the scrimmage on a run by James Matheny, while the hapless Cowboys threatened only once, and that was against the junior varsity.

"We just didn't make any mistakes on offense," Coach Jack Dorsett said. "That's the best I've seen a Tiger offensive team play this early in the season since I've been here. We made some mistakes on defense, but I guarantee we're going to be in the ball game with everyone we play this year," he continued.

The Tigers will play their second scrimmage of the season Friday night in McLean against Valley, the top-ranked Class A team in the state. "Valley scored almost at will against Groom in their scrimmage last week," Dorsett said. "I think from reports that I've received that they certainly deserve their first place ranking, but we'll sure play with them."

The Tigers open their 1980 season against Shamrock Sept. 12 in McLean at 8 p.m.

Season tickets for Tiger fans are available from an of the coaches. "We have misplaced the reserved seat chart from last year, but we want everyone to get his place back," Coach Joe Riley said. "If the people will let us know as soon as possible about the tickets, it will insure that they get the right seats."

Oklahoma Woman Killed In Collision

Nancy Ellen Mayfield, 39, of Tulsa, Okla. was killed about 7:30 a.m. Thursday when the pickup she was driving collided with a semi-tractor trailer truck about nine miles west of Alanreed at the west end of the two-lane stretch of Interstate-40 known as "Death Alley."

The eastbound pickup apparently crossed the center stripe and struck a semi driven by Richard Caldwell, 40, of La Puente, Calif. The semi truck was partially off the roadway at the point of impact, indicating the driver had tried to avoid the collision.

McLean ambulance crew used its "Jaws of Life" tool to free the woman who was trapped in the pickup. She was pronounced dead at the scene.

Her father, Howard B. Dalton, 64, of Tulsa, a passenger in the pickup was treated and released at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo. The driver of the semi was taken to Northwest Hospital and was reported in serious condition.

The pickup was filled with a large amount of ammunition, several rifles and handguns. Holland, the owner of a gun store in California, was transporting the guns.

DPS officials said that the guns had been inspected by a federal arms inspector, who found that they were being transported legally.

Mrs. Mayfield is the 15th fatality on the two-lane stretch of I-40 that has gained the name of "Death Alley." The highway became two-lane in January of 1979, and the first fatalities were recorded in May of that year. All of the fatalities have involved head-on collisions.

Texas Highway crews have installed over 200 signs and warnings to try to alert travelers to the dangers of the road, and the DPS added extra patrols on the road this summer hoping to cut down the number of fatal wrecks.

However, Mrs. Mayfield is the third victim in the last month on the fatal stretch.

McLean To Take Pledges

In conjunction with the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon, McLean young people will combine their efforts to operate a pledge center in McLean.

Sharlotta Cole is coordinator for the center this year, which will be located at First Baptist Church on East First St. The pledge center will be open during the same hours as the Telethon, from 8 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 31 until 6:30 p.m. Monday, September 1.

All interested McLean young people are invited to volunteer their services for the event, which will start with a lock-in at 8 p.m. in the Baptist church basement. The event is non-denominational, and all are urged to attend.

Pledge center volunteers also are planning a door-to-door drive for Labor Day. Children interested in helping Jerry's Kids in this manner should come by the center location on Monday, September 1, to pick up an official canister, telephone badge, and instructions. In addition, anyone wishing to volunteer time to answer phones or assist with pledge

Sarpalius Is The Answer

The 31st senatorial district needs effective representation in Austin and the only way we are going to get it is to promote the candidacy of Bill Sarpalius for Senate.

Our senatorial district had one of the best senators in Texas history when Max Sherman served this area, but since he left the office and Bob Price became our Senator, we have taken a step backwards.

Not only has Price been one of the most free-spending Senators, he also failed to pass a single Senate bill out of the 27 he introduced in the last session of the legislature.

He managed to spend over $95,000 for office expenses and other items during the fiscal year which ended Aug. 31, 1979. During a comparable period, his predecessor Sherman spent $46,801.

Bob Price gained his office because his name was easily recognized by many voters, but he has proven during his term of office that the "Price is not right" for the Texas Panhandle. In fact, the price is just too high.

Bill Sarpalius is a quiet spoken, courteous young man who seems to be interested in working hard for the people of this area. He seems uniquely qualified to deal with the major concerns of the Panhandle in that he has both a Bachelor's and a Masters degree in agriculture so he certainly understands that business. He was reared at Boys Ranch and went back there after college to teach, so he understands a great deal about education and the needs of both school children and the school system. He has worked as a legislative aide, so he understands the way the Senate works.

When you go to the polls in November, regardless of who you plan to vote for President, be sure that you mark Bill Sarpalius' name for State Senate. It's time this area got back to having one of the best Senators in Austin, not one of the 10 worst.

center activities should contact Mrs. Tommy Cole, the center coordinator.

Other activities include a talent show, scheduled Monday afternoon at 2 p.m. on the new parking lot of the American National Bank, at the southeast corner of First and Main. Everyone is welcome to participate in the event.

The telethon will be broadcast in the Panhandle area by KFDD-TV, channel 10, which will cut away from the network show for approximately 15 minutes out of every hour.

The cut-aways will feature recognition of fund-raising events in the Panhandle area, in addition to first-hand reports of pledge center activities.

Residents in McLean can call a special number during those hours to make pledges to the telethon in support of the Muscular Dystrophy Association. The number which has been assigned to operate during the 21 1/2 hour telethon will be 779-2409.

Sarpalius touched on the main issues of the campaign and expressed his concern regarding the lack of representation by our current State Senator. "I believe that to be an effective voice for the people of the Texas Panhandle you must make yourself available to the people. I intend to do this through the use of a mobile office traveling throughout the district on a regularly scheduled basis. I do not intend to be seen only at election time."

Sarpalius discussed other issues pertinent to his campaign: Agriculture, Education, Water legislation, Right to work laws, State spending, and Taxation.

some of our subscribers, particularly those who live on a fixed income.

So I was steeling myself for complaints the first week that the new price went into effect.

Sure enough, here came a sweet little white haired lady into the News office to buy a copy of the paper. When her first question was "Has the price gone up on this paper?" I nodded my head yes and began preparing my speech about how our wholesalers had increased their prices and how we had to pay so much more for everything than we did last year. But before I could begin, she smiled and said "Well, good! It's about time you went up on the price. I couldn't do anything with that leftover nickel anyway. Besides, if this paper isn't worth a quarter, nothing is!"

She picked up her paper and went merrily on her way, totally oblivious of the stunned look on my face!

Aren't people terrific?

If you have been in downtown McLean, you have noticed that the downtown parking area and park are progressing. The American National Bank is financing the project to provide a place for people to sit outside, and also provide a place for parking for bank customers and employees.

One of the structures to be included in the park is a memorial dedicated to the men from McLean who lost their lives during wartime. We asked several months ago for those of you who were interested to make donations to a fund at the bank, but so far the idea has not caught on like I hoped it would.

McLean should have a war memorial. If you would like to donate to this worthy cause, you may send a check to War Memorial Fund, American National Bank, McLean, Texas 79057. Do it today so that the planners will know how much money will be available for a monument. There could be no better way to remember a friend or a relative who served in the wars than by donating to this cause.

I get to wear a lot of different hats in my life. To some of my little friends, I am simply "Dollie's mother", some of you know me only as the editor of the paper, to four precious little children I am "Granny Honey", and at home when I answer the phone, I am the mayor's wife!

Some of the telephone calls I have taken as the mayor's wife have been serious business.

William Ira Moore, 68, died at his home in McLean Aug. 22 at 3 a.m.

He was born in Emory, Texas, Oct. 11, 1911, and moved to McLean from Amarillo in 1977.

He married Lucille Hale in New Mexico in 1932. He was retired as a truck driver for ICX where he had worked for 29 years.

Survivors are his wife of 47 years, Mrs. Lucille Hale; three daughters, Mrs. Mary Green of Conroe, Mrs. Currie Main of Palestine, and Miss Mary Elizabeth Driscoll of Dallas.

Services were held in Palestine. He was buried in Star Hill cemetery under the direction of Haskell and Foster Funeral Home.

As far as the hogs are concerned, I think I would try to find the owner and ask him to pay for the damage that the animals did, and if they ever came back, I would call a packing house to come get them and I would have some good pork chops to put in the freezer!

He was a member of the Methodist Church.

Letters To The Editor

The sponsors of the McLean High School Rodeo Club would like to clarify any possible misunderstanding about the high school rodeo club. Even tho it is no longer a school club, as such, it is still a sanctioned and official organization in McLean through the Tri-State High School Rodeo Association. The club itself is for high school students of McLean or any town/school who wishes to join and participate through our club. It has been verified and cleared through the Tri-State board of directors and is well within the laws and limitations of the Tri-State High School Rodeo Assoc.

Membership in TSHSRA is open to any boy or girl that is in grades 9-12 in high school and a member of a high school rodeo club. High school rodeo clubs shall have a sponsor." p. 5-TSHSRA rule book. The sponsor, however, does not have to be the school, school board, or school officials or teachers. Several TSHS Rodeo Clubs are not a school club, but are separate with parents and adults serving as sponsors. Rodeo club monies are then handled separately and in club accounts without going into school funds. McLean's club is not one of this type. All high school students wishing to gain or participate are welcome and encouraged to do so.

The McLean TSHSR Slub will be hosting their rodeo on Oct. 11-12. On Sept. 7 a playday will be held and the club will sponsor a derbytown Jubilee on Sept. 13 in the high school auditorium.

JOHNSONGRASS CONTROL:
Cotton farmers with Johnsongrass in their fields should make every effort to use the herbicide Roundup to control this pest. Use of various types of rope wicks can lower the costs considerably. Also spot spraying can be used, but this will be more expensive. This material should give good results when applied to full-grown Johnsongrass that is headed out and still growing. If you have questions about this, please give me a call at 669-7429.

COMPENSATION LIMITS FOR STOCK WITH TB:

U.S. Department of Agriculture officials have raised the limits for compensations paid to livestock owners whose cattle must be destroyed because of tuberculosis. For the first time, indemnities will also be allowed for swine exposed to tuberculosis-infected cattle when the cattle herd is depopulated.

The high indemnity levels will provide more equitable compensation to owners whose animals must be destroyed. The USDA will increase the maximum federal indemnity for disease-affected cattle from $350 per head to $750.

tuberculosis-exposed cattle will be $450 per head. This had been $100 per head for non-registered cattle and $200 per head for registered animals.

When swine are destroyed because of exposure to cattle infected with bovine TB, owners may be compensated up to $200 per head. Previously there was no federal indemnity authorized for swine losses.

These payments, together with any state indemnities, may not exceed the appraised value of animals destroyed and will make allowance for the salvage value of animals slaughtered. Producers wanting more information about indemnities for tuberculosis-affected cattle and swine should check with state or federal animal health officials.

HEDGES PROVIDE BEAUTY, PRIVACY:

Well cared for hedges can provide beauty, privacy and texture to your landscape. Hedges can be used as screens or baffles to define specific areas of the yard. Taller hedges around patios or fences can result in "semi-private" outdoor rooms, while carefully placed hedges can become wind or sound barriers for added privacy.

Many types of deciduous or evergreen plants can be used for hedges. The smaller leaved species generally have a neater appearance after shearing. The larger leaves often turn brown at the cut edge.

A well developed hedge will be part of the landscape for many years, so careful selection and preparation is a must. This may require a soil test, addition of a fertilizer or organic material, and removal of all weeds from the area.

Smaller plants, nine to twelve inches apart planted in a single row, generally provide a healthy, easily established and easy to care for hedge. Larger plants need to be placed two to five feet apart.

We recommend cutting the plants severely at first to produce low, dense growth. The hedge can then be built up gradually to the desired height. Once the hedge is established, trimming will be needed two or three times a year. Trim the hedge wider at the bottom than at the top to allow more light to reach the lower leaves.

Hedges which flower in the spring should be trimmed immediately after flowering so that next spring's flower buds will have time to set. Summer flowering hedges should be trimmed in late summer before the first frost or in early spring.

The biggest drawback in using hedges is the amount of space and extra maintenance they require.

Loose Marbles

by Lisa Patman

Sunday afternoon a very nice lady stopped me in a local restaurant and said "We think you're Loose Marbles. Are you?" When I said that I was indeed Miss Marbles, she then asked if two young men and the one old man with me were the family I write about. When I replied that the boys were my sons Bluto and Jaws, and that the old man was Old Dad, she looked us over for a bit and in a strange voice, said that she read the column quite often and that she enjoyed it very much. "Thank you!" I said in my most humble-but-I-need-every-bit-of-praise-I-can-get voice. Unfortunately before I could get the lady's name, or a notarized copy of her compliment, she had bolted for the door, afraid, I assume, that marbles are contagious. Even so, I was very pleased and proud to be complimented. "How" I said to my family, "do you suppose she recognized me? Could it have been the look of extreme intelligence on my face? Perhaps she overheard some terribly witty remark in my conversation. Maybe, unbeknownst to me, I have been listed in Who's Who and while she was thumbing through a copy she happened upon my biography. It even could be my sophisticated, career woman-of-the-world attitude that clued her in. What do you guys think?" "I think it is because you are fat and your hair is stringy," remarked Bluto. "I think it was because you were talking with your mouth full--of my food," said Old Dad. "I could just die of embarrassment," said Jaws. "Maybe it was the chenille marks on your face, or the fact that you're still wearing your robe even though it is after lunch and you are at a fancy restaurant," remarked Bluto. "Get your hands off my dessert," said Old Dad. "I hope none of my friends see me," said Jaws. "Of course, it could be the fact that you have spinach on your chin, or the way you tripped and knocked over the waitress when we came in," added Bluto. "Leave the boys' food alone!" hollered Old Dad. "I'm going to crawl under the table until you're gone," whispered Jaws. "Maybe it's the way you waddle, or that you're wearing high topped tennis shoes, and rollers in your hair," offered Bluto. "Get the french fries out of your pockets," ordered Old Dad. "Is there any legal way a kid can divorce his mother?" asked a voice from underneath the table. "Perhaps it's the way you have 'Loose Marbles' embroidered on the back of the shower cap you're wearing," mused Bluto. "Wait a minute, you guys," I interrupted. "It could be that she is a woman of extreme intelligence who is sensitive enough to know true talent when she sees it." "I don't know why she would be talking to you then," replied Bluto. "Dad's the one who has the talent to support us." "Right, my darling son," added Old Dad. "Lisa, try to get the catsup smeared off your face, tie your shoes--no, not to each other, dummy,--and let's get out of here before anyone else recognizes us." "Do you think anyone will know who I am if I wear the tablecloth over my body until we get home?" mumbled Jaws. "Never mind," I said "Let's go."

Gone Fishin

by Jeanette Fish

"Everybody has got at least one good book locked inside their heads." That's what they say. You could write a book if you want to. You are the only someone born at a certain place and time into this one family of unique circumstances. You may think that what you have to say is of no interest to anyone besides you. Not true. Those things you saw, heard and did growing up have a very special quality unknown to the rest of us and experienced only by you.

Pulling words out of your head is hard. Some people find it easier to sit with a tablet and pencil writing it out in long-hand. It can be typed later. Most people are put off at the start because the thought of writing a whole book seems impossible when you look at the big picture.

Recently going through some old school papers of my children I found a story started by my daughter when she was 8 years old. "Once upon a time there was a little boy and this little boy was meant for dogs." A good beginning. You need to be able to state in one sentence what the book is about. It could be—"This is the story of a man who never cared about other people and how he learned to care." Or—"This is the story of a little boy who yearned to be accepted by his friends and how he achieved this goal."

Don't get bogged down in plot, style, character. After you write the one sentence theme, write a few paragraphs expanding on it. Get some words on paper. Write as if you were telling a friend exactly what happened. The first time around is getting it out of your head. The second time around you can worry about it looking good. Good writing is accomplished in the re-writing. Many novelists rewrite chapters 20 to 50 times.

Shakespeare probably said "I think I'll go to bed. Maybe I'll have a good dream tonight."—before he came up with "To sleep, to sleep, per chance to dream." My newspaper columns which most of the time don't amount to much are still the best writing I can do at that moment and day. They take two to three hours. After all this time I still have to go back and cut out all the "just, so's, very's and really's." They add nothing, yet they creep in. Sometimes you may write 10 paragraphs then discover the ninth one belongs at the beginning. Rearrange. It's o.k. Remember it is your story.

golden ideas would barely make a weekly column.

If you want to write—write! It is the one place in the world where you are boss, dictator, have the magic wand. It is lonely but it can be anything you want. It is yours and only yours.

Clarendon College Announces Shamrock Classes For The Fall Semester

Clarendon College has announced that three college classes will be offered in Shamrock this fall. The classes scheduled are English 113-Freshman English, Government 223-State and Local Government, and Business 214-Principals of Accounting. The number enrolled in each course will determine if they can be offered by the college. The classes will meet from 7-10 p.m. each night and the courses carry three semester hours of credit.

Dr. Bob E. Riley, Dean of Instruction at Clarendon College stated that numerous inquiries have been made from the Wheeler, McLean, and Shamrock area for college classes and it appears that there will be enough students enrolled for the classes to be taught.

Registration will be held on Thursday, September 4 from 8 to 9 p.m. in the Shamrock High School Library. Classes will begin the week of September 8 and will conclude during the week of December 15. Dr. Riley went on to say that "these classes may be of particular interest to area veterans who still are eligible for G.I. Bill educational benefits. For example, a veteran who is married with two children would receive $224 per month if they enroll in two courses."

For further information, interested persons are requested to contact Mr. Ron Gregory, Shamrock High School at 256-2241 or Dr. Bob E. Riley, Clarendon College 874-3571.
