After watching the Houston-Los Angeles game last week, I may not trust referees for years! How come the officials of the National Football League use films to make final decisions about bad calls, but refuse to use the instant replay devices? Bum Phillips asked that question, and I think it is one that should be considered. The referees either need more training, or they need to use the instant replays.

Of course, we don't have instant replays for high school games, and from what I have seen recently, as many bad calls as some of our basketball refs make, it would take hours to play a game if each call had to be checked on video.

At a recent high school game, the refs made several bad calls. They were not particularly prejudiced as they were making as many bad calls on our opponents as they did on our team, but one particular call brought me to my feet, screaming at the refs! Our coach was also disturbed and drew a technical, but it was one time when I think he was totally justified.

After the game, a friend was chastising me for my poor sportsmanship, and I told him it was one of the joys of no longer being a schoolteacher! When I taught school, I was very aware that teachers were not supposed to yell at the referees, but since I am now just a newsman, I can yell...although I know that it is crass behavior...and yes, Mr. Dwyer, I will try to behave at the next game...but I sure wished I had had my camera at that game...I would like to have a picture of that referee to throw darts at!

One improvement I noticed at the high school gym this week is the ticket office where teachers can sit in some comfort to sell tickets. It was a much needed improvement as I remember spending many evenings freezing by the door selling tickets. Someone had a good idea!

And for those of you who have wondered why our new scoreboard is not working...there is an interesting story behind that.

School officials realized long before basketball season that something was wrong with the scoreboard and so they wrote to the company and ordered a part.

The day of the first basketball game a package came from the company, so school officials called George Terry to install the new part.

They took down the scoreboard...opened the package...and found an empty box with a note, asking them to ship the old, defective part back to the company in the box!

As of this date, the company has not sent the new part.

Do you think it is strange that one of our area theatres showed a very suggestive R rated movie called "10" last week, is showing "Jesus" this week, See DISTAFF, Page 2

Former Resident Begins Plans To Mass Produce Fuel Alcohol

Former McLean resident R.T. Woods, now of Amarillo, is one of two Amarillo businessmen who are planning to mass-produce fuel alcohol.

According to an article in the Amarillo Daily News by Ron Gaston, Woods said that a $15,000 initial investment will purchase a still capable of producing 75 to 100 gallons of alcohol per day.

Woods is working with J.D. Dodson out of Dodson's welding company in Amarillo to produce the stills.

The reason behind the pair's interest in the stills stems from their backgrounds in ranching and farming and a resulting desire to assist farmers in the current energy plight.

A 14-year employee of the Texas Department of Agriculture, Woods has been in contact with dozens of farmers he believes will be potential buyers for the stills. The recent retirees stress that once the initial capital outlay is made the stills are capable of producing very nearly cost-free fuel.

"If you take $5 worth of corn, ferment it and boil off the alcohol, you will still have $5 worth of corn you can use as feed," he said. "In fact, it will enrich feed because the distillation process enhances its protein content."

The alcohol by-product of the process can be mixed with gasoline in ratios of up to 50 percent and used in any internal combustion engine without major modifications, Wood said.

Both Wood and Dodson realize their new venture cannot be successful unless they convince those with the necessary investment capital-large farmers and bankers-that the stills can do what the men claim they can do. With that in mind, an invitation-only gathering of potential investors is being planned soon at the welding company to give interested parties an opportunity to inspect the apparatus.

Responsibility for overseeing operation of the stills will fall to the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission. According to the commission's Amarillo district supervisor, Clide Crain, all a potential still operator needs to set up business in a diagram of the system and a permit.

Blood Pressure Clinic Set

There will be a free Blood Pressure Clinic at the Senior Citizens Center, in McLean, on Thursday, January 24th. The Texas Department of Health nurses will be there between 1 and 4 p.m., everyone is invited.

School Trustees Hire Two Teachers, Extend Contracts

The McLean school trustees met Monday night to call the school election, hire two teachers, and approve several items of business.

The April 5 election will fill three spots on the board. Boardmembers whose terms are expiring are Jim Allison, Joe Billingsley, and Darryel Herndon. No one has filed for the vacancies at press time.

Filing will continue until Mar. 5. Absentee voting will begin Mar. 13 and end April 1. Roger McCracken was appointed election judge and clerks are Barbara Trew, Sonie Heasley, and Pat Durham.

The board approved the hiring of Anita Hall as kindergarten teacher at state schedule salary plus $25. Bonnie Brass was hired at state schedule plus $1550 (prorated) as band director.

Mrs. Hall is beginning her twelfth year of teaching. She taught for five years in Oklahoma and six years in Texas in elementary and kindergarten.

school gymnasium which requires organizations to check out a key from the business office, pay a $5 fee for utilities and be responsible for damages. The $5 fee will be re-evaluated each year.

The board discussed the Gray County Appraisal Board and agreed to pay a proportionate share of legal fees to Grandview Hopkins for their litigation. The board also approved the City of Pampa and Pampa Independent School District's compromise proposal for 5-4 representation on the appraisal board. School officials will meet with Pampa and officials from other taxing entities tonight (Thursday) to discuss the board.

Bids were opened on roofing repairs, and the board accepted the bid of Locklear Brothers Roofing of Hollis, Okla. which offered a five-year guarantee, and the bid of Coy Smith of McLean for repairs on roofs of school buildings.

The trustees agreed to help the Lions Club sponsor the All Sports Banquet on a 50-50 basis or a prorated share if other clubs decide to participate.

The board extended Superintendent Carl Dwyer's contract for one more year, through 1982-83, at $3200 above state schedule.

Shirley Johnson, business manager for the school, was also rehired at $2000 above schedule.

The group voted to allow the McLean High School Future Business Leaders of America to fly to the state convention in Dallas with parental consent.

The purchase of chairs for the band hall and the cafeteria and desk and tables repair and replacement was discussed and the board decided to take bids for the purchases.

The new minimum wage laws were discussed and the board decided to raise wages for auxiliary personnel to minimum wage.

The board decided that a track meet scheduled during the Easter holidays should be cancelled but that the coaches could have voluntary practice during the holidays since district track meet is the day after school reopens following the Easter break.

Attending the meeting in the school business office were board members Tony Smithe-man, June Suggs, Darryel Herndon, Lloyd Hunt, Joe Magee, Joe Billingsley, and Jim Allison; business manager Shirley Johnson, Superintendent Carl Dwyer, Mr. and Mrs. Casper Smith, Bill Thomas, and Sonie Heasley.

Council Discusses Boards

A graduate of Altus, Okla., high school, she received her bachelor of science and master of arts degrees from Southwestern Oklahoma State University in Weatherford, Okla.

Her husband Raymond is a quarter horse breeder.

Mrs. Brass is a graduate of Huron, S. Dak., high school and Southwestern Kansas University in Winfield, Kan. She has taught for three years in Kansas and North Carolina, primarily in choral music. She and her husband Charles, who is a rancher, have three children Tony, Benjamin, and Jessica.

In other business the board approved a policy for using the McLean City Council met Jan. 8 in regular session to discuss several items. The group discussed the Gray County Tax Appraisal Board and a compromise to the problem offered by the Pampa taxing entities. The compromise would set up a nine-man board with Pampa having five members on the board. Representatives of the city and the McLean Independent School District will meet with officials from all the taxing entities in Gray County tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. at Lefors to try to agree on a solution to the tax appraisal board.

The appraisal board, mandated by the legislature in Senate Bill 621, has been the subject of controversy in the county for several months. The board was originally to be composed of five members, with members chosen by majority vote. The smaller taxing units signed a resolution through a provision in the law asking for a seven man board with four members coming from the small units and three from Pampa. A court suit filed by Grandview-Hopkins to settle the issue was recently dropped.

Superintendent of schools Carl A. Dwyer attended the meeting and told the council that he would discuss lights for the track field with the school board.

Doyle Moore of Amarillo, representing Southwestern Public Service, told the council that his company will send approximately 300 more letters to industries to try to help locate a factory for the city of McLean.

Moore also explained to the council the importance of having an industrial development board which would encourage industry location in the county. He said however that the group should be a county wide organization. Moore said that he planned to talk to officials in Pampa about joining with McLean to form the council.

The council voted to raise the county's rent on the Justice of the Peace office from $40 per month to $60, and to require the county to pay utility bills.

The group discussed the theft of the nightwatchman's lights a few weeks ago, and voted to offer a $100 reward for the return of the lights which were not insured.

April 5 was the date chosen for the city election in which three spots on the city council will be filled. Councilmen whose terms are expiring are Miro Pakan, Boyd Meador, and George Terry. Terry is the only one who has filed for re-election.

March 5 was set as the final date for filing for office, and S.A. Cousins was named election judge. Absentee voting will be held Mar. 13 to April 1 in the city hall.

Attending the session were councilmen Dale Glass, Miro Pakan, George Terry, Boyd Meador, Ruth Magee, mayor Sam Haynes; superintendent Dwyer, Foster Whaley, Lloyd Hunt, and Doyle Moore.

Come To Run For Re-Election

Harold L. Comer has announced his intention to run for re-election as district attorney for Gray County. He has served as district attorney for three years.

Comer was born in Longview, but has lived most of his life in Pampa. He attended the Pampa public schools and graduated from Pampa High School. He was graduated from Texas A&M with a B.A. degree and from the University of Texas Law School with a L.L.B. degree.

He is married to the former Jean Hendricks, who was born in Pampa, and they have three children, Carrie, 20, Laurie, 16, and Chris, 13. They are members of the First Christian Church.

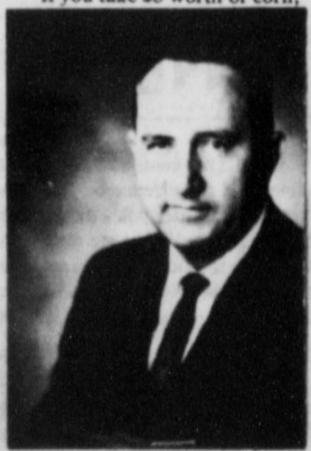

He is the incumbent District attorney of the 31st and 223rd Judicial Districts which serve Lipscomb, Gray, Wheeler, Hemphill and Roberts Counties of the Texas Panhandle.

Five Bandsmen Chosen All-Regional

Five members of the Pride of the Tigers High School band qualified for the All-Region band in tryouts at Gruver Jan. 10.

Brad Melton was chosen second chair trombone, Trudy Stewart was chosen first chair trombone, Terri Glass was chosen 14th chair clarinet (out of about 40 contestants), Rhonda Woods was chosen 6th chair alto sax, and Randy Suggs was chosen second alternate on the snare drums.

The group is under the direction of Mrs. Bonnie Brass.

FOSTER WHALEY

Foster Whaley Will Run Again

State Representative Foster Whaley of Pampa formally announced his candidacy last week for a second term as State Representative for Legislative District 66, which comprises Gray, Wheeler, Collingsworth, Donley, Armstrong, Hall, Childress, Briscoe, Floyd, and Motley Counties.

In making his announcement Whaley said, "I made few promises when I ran for State Representative in 1978. I believe my score on promises kept would hit 100 percent. One promise was to devote full time to the job...and this has been done. Lois, my wife, as an unpaid helper has devoted many long hours in our goal to break all records in being of service to the people of the 66th District."

Whaley was selected by an Austin bi-monthly publication as the most effective freshman legislator.

Whaley, a long-time resident of Pampa, is completing his first term in the state legislature.

MARGIE GRAY

Pampa Woman Will Vie For County Office

Margie Gray, a 44-year resident of Pampa, has announced that she will run for Gray County tax assessor collector. The office is now held by Jack Back who has announced that he will not seek re-election.

Mrs. Gray has been a deputy in that office for 18 years.

Mrs. Gray and her husband Jack have one daughter Diane Enterline of Pampa.

"I have enjoyed my career serving the people of Gray County, and will continue to do so," Mrs. Gray said.

VIEWS ARE WRITTEN BY LINDA HAYNES, UNLESS OTHERWISE NOTED - IF YOU HAVE AN OPINION ON ANY CURRENT SUBJECT WE WELCOME YOUR SIGNED LETTERS.

WE NEED A POLICEMAN!

McLean still needs a city policeman! I'm not sure where the City Council will find the money to finance such a department, but I hope they begin looking for the funds soon.

McLean has always been a great place to live, but times change, and behavior patterns change, and apparently we have several people in this town who refuse to obey the law and can no longer be left "on their honor" to do so.

A recent incident on Main Street when a vehicle crashed into the lawn of a residence, tore up the landscaping, and landed just inches away from a home is a case in point.

I don't know if the driver of the car was speeding or not. That will be up to the law officers to decide, but excessive speed or reckless driving or carelessness caused that incident.

And that is not an isolated case in McLean. Shortly after the incident with the car (which happened about midnight) another resident on that street looked out and saw several cars driving at breakneck speed in the park!

The streets are getting worse and worse at night, and since there is not a city policeman on duty, the reckless drivers feel free to do as they please.

Even when some of the bad drivers are arrested the fines set by the State are so minor that the offenders go out again. Why haven't their driver's licenses been suspended? Why are they still on the streets, terrorizing the town?

The tax money paid by the residents of McLean is supposed to insure good streets, certain services, and PROTECTION!

It is pointless to argue about the number of law enforcement officers in McLean. The fact is that when we had a city policeman last summer the streets were quiet and safe, and we need another city officer...soon!

REMEMBER THE KHYBER PASS?

A place name in a recent news story about the Russian invasion of Afghanistan made my blood run cold. According to the story the Russians were making a move to occupy Jalalabad, which is the main city between the capitol Kabul and the Khyber Pass.

As a student of history, I am well aware of the importance of the Khyber Pass. This is the area which separates present day Afghanistan from Pakistan, but it is also the pass which the great fifth-century Persian King Darius conquered in a famous battle, and was one of its at that pass which Alexander considered one of the most important in his conquest of the world.

The British always had trouble with the tribes around the Khyber Pass and considered it a vital link in their Empire. Watch the news about Afghanistan. If the Russians are able to subdue the tribes around the Khyber Pass, you can bet that they will go on to Pakistan, which is the historical road to the conquest of India and that entire region.

Pinching Congressional Pockets

Surprisingly, there was good news for the American taxpayer from the nation's capital. At least it will be good news if Rep. Ron Paul (R-Tex.) can convince his colleagues to go along with his proposal. What Rep. Paul wants to do is freeze the salaries of congressmen and reduce them each month by the increase of the cost of living. Such a concept warms the hearts of all taxpayers. But even more noteworthy is the language Rep. Paul used in announcing his bill. Said the solon: "Congress causes inflation, but it insulates itself from the effects with big salaries, lush fringe benefits and generous cost-of-living raises. The American people, who pay the bills, are left to suffer."

California, Here We Come

With Proposition 13 firmly entrenched in California, and doing quite well we might add, a sister proposition has recently been passed in that state. This one is called Proposition 4 and was sponsored by the co author of Prop 13, Paul Gann. The new measure is designed to keep government from jacking up other taxes to replace "lost" property tax revenue as a result of Prop 13, which reduced California property taxes by 57 percent. If the Golden State keeps this up, it could well become the tax-relief base for income-starved Americans — and it could accomplish this in spite of Jerry Brown, Jane Fonda, Tom Hayden and San Francisco.

We received a letter last week from a professor at Wichita State University requesting information about a Transcontinental Foot Race Marathon (also known as "The Bunion Derby") which came through McLean in 1928. Apparently, James Thomas is writing a book about the race, and wanted any information we had about it.

The McLean News of April 5 and April 12, 1928 had two stories about the race, which apparently provided a lot of fun for the participants and the on-lookers.

According to Thomas, Harold "Red" Grange, the well-known football star of that era, was among the troupe of personalities and the side show which accompanied the race.

Any of you who lived in McLean remember any more details about the race? Did anyone meet Grange? If you have some information, we will be glad to pass it on to Thomas.

We learned last week that Milton Watson, son of former McLean football standout L.M. Watson, Jr., now of Dallas, and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. L.M. Watson of McLean, played split-end for the Cotton Bowl champion Houston Cougars! Wish we had known that before the game so we could have watched for young Watson!

Isn't it interesting how progress in athletics seems to run in families? Groom has had a long line of Brittons who were standouts. Wheeler had a dynasty of Porters several years ago, and McLean has had several good athletes with the same surname. L.M. Watson is almost a legend among those who have watched McLean sports and his brother Jim was also a standout. Some of the families have stayed in McLean and we are beginning to see second and third generations playing now.

I remember when I first came to McLean, someone from Groom asked me if McLean was ever going to run out of Croc-kets on the football team! That was when Dick was a junior, and after he graduated there was a period when there were no Croc-kets playing for the Tigers but this year we have Brock, and I noticed that among the youngsters enrolled in kindergarten were two Croc-kets, Juliana and another David! So our opponents had better settle back...we may never run out of Croc-kets. Now if we could just talk Eddy, Clyde and Pat Windom into moving back to McLean and bringing a fourth generation of Windoms to play for the Tigers...and let's see there were the Fuller boys (Steve, Drew, and Johnny), the Duniven boys (Tommy, Alan, Marty, and Dennis)...and so many others, including three generations of Hayneses....

It's great to see new names on the athletic rosters, but it is also fun for us long-time fans to see children and grandchildren of some of the great athletes of McLean play.

Be watching the Houston Cougars next year for the Watson boy.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Mrs. Haynes:

I am enclosing a story about my son's wedding. My mother, Mrs. Minnie Fulbright, attended the wedding with me and my late wife's mother, Mrs. Blanche Floyd, of Mayfield, Kentucky. If you have room to run the story in the McLean News, I know that it would be of interest to a few who may remember me from my years in McLean.

I have appreciated receiving the McLean News and am enclosing a renewal check. I am not sure when my subscription runs out, but I do want to continue to receive the paper.

The emphasis which you place on high school sports on the front page is always somewhat surprising to me, but I realize that it meets the interest of your readers. Being farther away from the town, I am more interested in the activities of the adults of the community. At times I get the feeling that everybody in McLean must be under the age of 18. But that doesn't mean that I don't enjoy keeping up with McLean in the best way that I can.

Yours truly,
E.G. Fulbright
P.S. I've enjoyed your recipes. Being my own cook now keeps me looking for things to take to pot-luck suppers and you've given me some good ones.

Dear Editor:

Cattlemen must register at their local A.S.C.S. office from Jan. 18 to Feb. 6 in order to be able to vote in the so-called "Beefendum" in February 1980. I would urge them to do so and to vote NO at the election.

The "Beefendum" is a blind leap into a bureaucratic thicket from which cattlemen will find it most difficult to extract themselves.

If passed, the "Beefendum" will impose a withholding tax on the sale of cattle. Each buyer of cattle will be required to withhold from the seller 2% of what he owes the seller. Two-tenths of 1% doesn't sound like very much until a cattleman sits down and does a little figuring:

Say a cow-calf man raises and sells 500 calves per year, the calves average 500 lbs. per head, and sell for $8.00 per lb. That makes the average sales price per calf $400. 2% X $400 = $8.00 per calf withheld from the rancher at the time of sale. $8.00 X 500 head = $4000. The cow-calf man has given away one calf to the Beef Board created by the passage of the "Beefendum". He will continue giving away one calf every year to this Beef Board. This is true no matter what the selling price because a withholding rate of .2% is the same as giving away one head per 500 regardless of the price per lb. or per head.

Moreover, the "Beefendum" gives the Beef Board the power to raise the rate of withholding by 250% without any vote by cattlemen. This means they can raise the rate to .5%. Now, our cow-calf man, who raises and sells 500 calves per year, will have withheld from him an amount equal to the sales price of 2½ head. He will continue to give these 2½ head away to the Beef Board each and every year.

The "Beefendum" does give the seller of cattle the right to apply for a refund of the withholding. This application must be made within 60 days of the end of the month in which the sale was made. The Beef Board then has 60 days within which to make the refund. That means from the time a man sells his cattle until his money is returned to him may be a period from 2 to 5 months. With the interest cost of money today, not having the use of the sales price of 2½ head for every 500 that you've sold for a period of 5 months is not an inconsequential cost.

Moreover, can anyone who has applied for a federal tax refund or who has filed out the forms necessary to report withholding from employee wages have doubts as to the paper work and time that will be necessary in applying for a refund.

"Passage of the 'Beefendum' is important," its advocates maintain, "to meet challenges to red meat consumption." The merits of this argument are by no means certain. Especially so, when one considers the vast amount of research being done into these and related matters at land grant colleges and universities, in medical schools, and by the government through the U.S.D.A. and F.D.A. Furthermore, it gives the American people little credit to believe that they can be led from beef consumption by the scientifically unsupported claims of a few, OR that they can be led to greater meat consumption by the research findings from studies financed by a Beef

Board that would very obviously have an axe to grind.

For the cattlemen who do favor the creation of a beef research and information program, the current "Beefendum" creates a bureaucracy for the spending of his withheld money over which he will have no control. The "Beefendum's" passage would establish a 62-member Beef Board. These 62 members will be chosen by existing farm organizations having heavy memberships of cattlemen. Most likely the Beef Board members will be chosen by these organizations' boards of directors. The 62 people on the Beef Board will in turn elect an 11-member Executive Committee. A paid professional staff will then be chosen, and they will then proceed to allocate the cattlemen's money for various purposes such as research and the distribution of information.

Proponents of the "Beefendum" argue that if cattlemen lead the program too burdensome or running amuck, it only takes a petition containing 10% of the number of voters voting in the original "Beefendum" to call for a new election. However, as we know from sad experience, a bureaucracy once in place is a most difficult thing to disentrench. Moreover, these proponents fail to point out that this recall election will not be on the same one-man-one-vote principal as the original election. A majority of cattlemen owning a majority of the cattle must vote to kill the Beef Board.

Sincerely,
Larry Franklin

At the Thursday night meeting of the Lefors ISD school board, the most important issue was the new tax board. This is as it should be. I am, however, most disappointed in the action taken. Instead of calling this the Lefors school, we should rename it Pampa School, Lefors Campus South. Our schedule is fixed to fit Pampa's, our school calendar is made to coincide with theirs. It seems we cannot do anything without following their lead.

Now, we are going to call for a compromise to give them control of my taxes. I'm far from understanding what is going on except that there seems to be a general lack of backbone from our board members and lack of any sort of leadership from the superintendent to do anything which might upset anyone...in this case, Pampa school officials. I admire the other schools and cities for not being run over by the Big Bully. Good luck and I hope you win it.

NAME WITHHELD BY REQUEST

EDITOR'S REPLY:

The issue of the Gray County Tax Appraisal Board is indeed a complicated issue, but our writer is misinformed about the action taken by the other taxing entities in the county.

The groups are meeting in Lefors tonight to try to decide on some sort of compromise settlement of what could otherwise be a long and costly court battle.

In point of fact the City of Pampa and the Pampa school will pay approximately 80 percent of the cost of the appraisal district and in my opinion are entitled to a majority on the board.

The compromise offered by Pampa to the earlier proposal is that Pampa have five members on a nine-member board, which is a bare majority, and not 80 percent of the board.

In my opinion, most of the squabbling over this board is a tempest in a teapot anyway, because once the board is organized, the State of Texas will, in effect, set the values on all property and the board will probably be little more than a figurehead.

What I think we should all be trying to do is to urge our legislators to repeal Senate Bill 621 in the next session, and admit that they drew up a harmful, ridiculous bill.

By accepting a compromise with Pampa, the taxing bodies in the county will save several thousand dollars...money that can be spent on our school children, instead of given to a lawyer. I'm not sure what action the smaller communities and schools will take tonight, but I hope they decide to avoid a court fight.

Bob Orben, former speech writer for ex-President Gerald Ford, gave this definition of a brokerage office: "A place that people drive to in a Mercedes to get financial advice from people who came to work on a bus."

Taxpayers Should File Renditions

The McLean Independent School District tax office will be mailing out rendition forms and exemption forms this week. All taxpayers are urged to complete the forms and return them to the tax office promptly. All homeowners are again eligible to file for the $5,000 homestead exemption, and all homeowners over the age of 65 are eligible to file for an additional $10,000 exemption. However, the tax laws enacted by the legislature in 1979 gave a deadline of April 1 for filing for any exemption, and by law there can be no time extensions. For this reason, it is very important that all taxpayers who wish to claim an exemption should return their rendition to the tax office in a timely manner.

The last legislative session also provided for the valuation of agricultural land according to production. Taxpayers who own rural land will be receiving an application for this purpose. It is optional for the taxpayer to file the agricultural use exemption form, but it should be advantageous for this and future years. By law, the tax assessor is now required to present both a market value and an agricultural value on land to the Board of Equalization, and the landowner is taxed on the lowest price if he has filed the agricultural use exemption form. If no exemption is filed, the land then will be valued at market value for tax purposes. It is to be noted, however, that agricultural land will not be figured according to production on an individual farm basis. According to law, the tax assessor is ordered to compile agricultural use values on a typical operation basis for the entire district, using guidelines provided by the State Property Tax Board. These guidelines take into consideration land use, soil type, yields, etc. Income attributable to the land, including government payments and hunting leases, is considered; and all expenses attributable to the production of the crops or livestock on the land is also considered in the formula for arriving at the net income to the land. After the net income per acre to the land is determined, this figure is capitalized by the Federal Land Bank of Houston's interest rate as of December 31, 1979, plus 2½ percent, and this is considered to be the agricultural use value of the land.

Mrs. Shirley Johnson, tax assessor-collector for the McLean Independent School District, stated that anyone having problems completing the rendition and exemption forms is urged to call the school tax office, or come by the office, and they will be glad to help complete the forms. Elderly or disabled persons who are physically unable to come by the tax office are asked to let Mrs. Johnson know if they need help in completing the forms, and someone from the tax office will go to their homes to assist them. Again, it is particularly important that the forms be filed by April 1, 1980, in order to qualify for any exemption.

David and Ann Brown of Hedley are the parents of a boy, Jason S. Brown, born Jan. 11 at 6:30 p.m. at Highland General hospital in Pampa. He weighed seven pounds.

Take Two, They're Small

A woman who was part of a contingent of Kuwaitis watching a recent Texas A&M - Rice football game, was so impressed with the precision and talent of the 300-member Aggie Band of A&M that she wanted to buy the band and take it home with her. Instead, she had to settle for an Aggie Band record of school songs.

Expensive Game

Washington Post columnist Bill Gold recently reported the following chain of events that befell a man from the Washington, D.C. area who decided to attend a World Series game in Baltimore: On his way to the game he was charged with speeding, paid a "tancy" price for a ticket, had his wallet — containing money, credit cards and ticket — pickpocketed and, to top off the evening, found that one of his tires was flat when he returned to his car.

Record Peppered

A 29-year old plumber suffering from an ulcer ingested the Guinness Book record for jalapeno pepper consumption by firing down 100 of the little devils in 14 minutes and 19 seconds. After the searing feat, Ronnie Farmer of Pampa, Tex., said, "My stomach felt like a small campfire. I really hurt and my throat felt like sandpaper." The old record, set by a Michigan man, was 94 peppers in 1 hour and 51 minutes.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Gasohol, once considered an "exotic fuel," at least in Governor Bill Clements' words, is fast becoming all the rage at the State Capitol.

Texas family farmers fought all last year to initiate gasohol production in the state and up until now have enjoyed limited success. Their hopes were boosted during the last legislative session when Reps. Dan Kubiak and Bill Keese successfully pushed through the legislation legalizing alcohol fuel production in Texas, but the necessary funding has not come through.

All that is changing. Following President Carter's partial embargo of grain sales to the Soviet Union, gasohol's destiny has taken an upswing. Carter intends the federal government to buy the 17 million metric tons of grain and use much of it in the rapid production of gasohol. The benefits are two-fold: America can become more self-sufficient in terms of energy, and farmers can enjoy a solid domestic market for grain.

Amid all the busting, Texas farmers leveled a strong blast at Governor Clements, charging him with breaking a promise to their group by stifling gasohol production. They see Clements ties to the oil industry (he is the founder of SEDCO, Inc., a Dallas-based oil well drilling firm) as the reason for his inaction.

"Oil Baron Governor"

Specifically, the state coordinator of the American Agriculture Movement, Mike McCathern of Hereford, said:

"We have an oil baron governor who doesn't want any competition with oil, and a liquor lobby controlling the Alcoholic Beverage Commission and we can't get anything done."

The commission, which normally oversees drinking alcohol regulation, is the agency which handles alcohol fuel production permits. During the recent year, the ABC has given out less than 25 permits across the state.

The farmers push was highlighted by a hunger strike beginning Friday by one of their leaders, Charlie Fitts of Milam County. Fitts is camping out in front of the Governor's Office at the Capitol to draw attention to the farmer's beef with Clements.

ENERGY UPDATE

The Final Solution

At last it has come out. After months and years of debate over ways to end America's dependence on foreign sources of oil, Sen. Paul Tsongas (D-Mass.) has come upon a method that will end for all time our energy woes. Says Tsongas, "If we are really serious about producing new oil, I suggest that the best, the simplest, indeed the only solution is a major research and development program in dinosaur resources. We will raise them, bury them and produce oil from them." How come no one thought of that before now?

Heavy-Handed Lobbying

Treasury Secretary G. William Miller recently completed a swing through the Mideast's oil-rich countries and reported that he was told that a "windfall profits" tax must be passed by Congress in order to prevent another increase of oil prices. Their concern with U.S. oil politics, however, should not come as a shock. Countless studies have been released in recent months saying that government decontrol of the U.S. oil industry, without an accompanying "windfall profits" tax, would increase American production of oil and thereby reduce our dependence on foreign oil producers. OPEC (the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries) sheiks know that if decontrol comes to the U.S. oil industry without a "windfall profits" tax, then the axe that they presently hold over our heads will be severely blunted. It is up to our representatives in Washington to determine who they'll believe — U.S. economists and researchers, or Middle East oil sheiks.

Another Call For Decontrol

A study released by the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research found that price controls on oil were costing Americans more than $3 billion a year because they fostered excessive demand, discouraged domestic production and involved the government and private industry in red tape. The study was conducted by economists Kenneth J. Arrow and Joseph P. Kalt. In its conclusion, the study said that petroleum price controls led to an inefficient use of resources due mainly to an underproduction of domestic crude and an overconsumption of foreign oil, the latter induced by artificially low prices. As for the cost of complying with federal regulations, the study said that the sum total was $700 million a year — $500 million for the oil producers to comply with the regulations, and $200 million for the government to administer them.

Strong Message For Anti-Nukes

Former Secretary of Energy James Schlesinger said recently the "rather sanguine projections" that conservation and stepped-up oil production can solve America's fuel crisis reflect the "triumph of hope over evidence." According to Schlesinger, the only way to meet America's energy needs without reducing the standard of living in the country is to go with nuclear energy. The former secretary said the United States has "no serious alternative to the use of nuclear energy over the course of the decades ahead. If we fail to make use of nuclear energy this economy will grow more slowly and we'll have higher levels of unemployment and higher levels of political dissatisfaction."

A committee was appointed to investigate plans to keep the railroad in operation, and the group plans to meet again to review plans.

HALF THE LOAD
By Jeanette Fish
I had to go to club today,
I didn't want to go,
I'd rather rest and read a book,
Or just sit down and sew.

Our club works hard and who's to know,
It really isn't play,
Oh we make lots of money,
And give it all away.

Bake sales, Rummage sales,
Contests large and small,
So much worry, so much work,
Is it worth it all?

Evenings spent away from home,
Meetings here and there,
To help someone, that I don't know,
Why should I even care?

I went to visit school today,
The special children's class,
I had to stand beside the door,
To let a wheelchair pass.

I sat down and looked around,
At things our club had bought,
Records, books, and other things,
So that they might be taught.

The one who wore the hearing aids,
With faces all agleam,
Heard their own voices singing,
On our bake sale tape machine.

A little girl who could not talk,
Smiled sweetly back at me,
While working puzzles that we bought,

From contest number three.

A blue eyed boy on crutches,
Walked across the floor,
He flashed a great big grin at me,
As I went out the door.

As I left, I saw a mother,
Standing by the wall,
She put her hand upon my arm,
As I went down the hall,

"I'd like to thank you for us all,
And for the children too,
You give your time, you give yourself,
The things we couldn't do."

"In his own way, God equals things,
For all those on life's road,
We care for them, you work for them,
You carry--half the load."

"These things you give--for years to come,
Will all be used and treasured,
They're bought with hard work and good will,
Such effort can't be measured."

I thought of my own children,
So healthy, strong and straight,
I had to hurry on to club,
Why I could hardly wait!

As I brushed a tear away,
I rushed on down the road,
To jump right in and start again,
To carry--Half The Load.

MR. AND MRS. RODNEY BAILEY

English, Bailey Exchange Vows

Jan English and Rodney Bailey exchanged wedding vows Nov. 17 in the First United Methodist Church in Eunice, N.M. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John English of Eunice, and Bailey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vestal Bailey of McLean.

Best man for the groom was John Hunt of Dallas, and matron of honor was Earen Colburn of Eunice.

The church was decorated with three candelabra with fall colored flowers and beige candles. The altar had cut bronze and yellow chrysanthemums.

Organist was Candy Sisson, pianist was Melissa Wissman, and soloist was Linda Frost.

The bride wore a Quiana and lace dress featuring a high neckline and bishop sleeves. The molded bodice had ruffled lace that cascaded down the skirt in an asymmetrical effect to encircle the chapel length train. She carried a bouquet of red roses, bronze chrysanthemums, salmon sweetheart roses and beige lace on an ivory carved fan.

Her attendant's gown was terra cotta colored Quiana. The bodice wrapped around into a V, with sleeves slit down the center.

A reception for the couple followed the ceremony in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

Reception tables were covered with tangerine cloths with lace table covers over them. The cake was a three tier chocolate pound cake with chocolate icing. Each layer was decorated with autumn colored flowers. A silver coffee server and punch bowl accented the table.

The couple took a wedding trip to Carlsbad and Ruidoso, N.M.

The bride graduated from Artesia High School and attended Bauder Fashion College and New Mexico State University. She is employed by Misco United Supply Co. in Eunice.

Bailey is a 1971 graduate of McLean High School, and a 1976 graduate of West Texas State University. He is a lab technician for Getty Oil Co.

IT SEEMS THE plastic industry is conquering the world. There is a cemetery in Noumea, New Caledonia, that looks like a magnificent garden. Each grave has bowls and vases on it that the natives have filled with bright flowers. But alas, most of the flowers are plastic-made in Hong Kong.

Loose Marbles

by Lisa Patman

Erma Bombeck was right when she said the worst four letter word in the English language is "Diet." Probably the definition of that dastardly utterance should read something like this: Diet--a condition known to drive sane women crazy, often referred to as "the pits."

I don't know about the rest of you, but for me dieting ranks right up there with ax murder, remodeling, and stretch marks as one of the top evils of the world.

A friend of mine, who knows that I constantly struggle with the problems of fat, asked me recently just how much weight I had lost in the past year. Before I had a chance to reply, another friend, one who really knows which one of us, the scale or me, is winning, broke in with this nice remark "I think she's lost about 733 pounds." Just when I was about to thank him for the complement he added "Unfortunately, she has also gained about 750 pounds." The sad thing was that he was right. And while I was beating him over the head with my baked potato (with butter, sour cream, bacon, and cheese added) I resolved to go back on my diet.

It was then that I discovered, or rediscovered rather, all the things I remembered about the pitfalls of dieting. For no matter how much will power you have, certain things inevitably will happen.

Just at the time you have decided, "This is it, Fatty, it's time to get rid of all this excess baggage," your best friend will take you to the nearest pizza joint where you will go berserk and stuff mountains of Super Supreme in your mouth.

Or, if you have been dieting sensibly for a week or so, you will go to visit your mother, who has been nagging at you for years about your widening dimensions. Mother will turn into a sort of Jekyll/Hyde personality when she discovers that you are dieting, offering you all your favorite foods and pointing if you don't have at least three helpings of each. Mothers-in-law have quite similar traits.

Another thing, if you have managed to keep to your diet, and have been able to lose about ten pounds, thereby giving yourself the inspiration to start on the next ten, you almost surely can count on overhearing one of your children referring to you as "Big Mama". (I understand that this is one of the leading causes of child abuse.)

If you try to divert your attention from the constant craze of hunger by going to a movie you will miss most of the plot. Your eyes will be watering and you will drool so at the smell of popcorn that you will have to give in and buy a tub of buttered popcorn, three chocolate bars and a dill pickle. (The only other alternative is to lie in the aisles and kick your feet and scream, but usually the manager will ask you to leave.)

I recently was sitting in the middle of a group of teenagers at an ice cream parlor, watching them eat things like banana splits and double decker sandwiches with nuts and whipped cream (when you're dieting you know everything about what everyone else is eating) bemoaning the fact, that my glass of water was not exactly the most exciting nor satisfying thing I could be indulging in at that moment. But I was really proud of myself for my superb control--until I got home a while later and found myself trying to stuff three cold salmon patties in my mouth at the same time.

I don't know what the answer is for the habitual dieter, but I do know there is one more little danger I have just discovered--Just writing about dieting makes me hungry.

Lefors Board Meets Thursday

The Lefors School Board met Thursday evening and one of the items on the agenda was the tax board set up by Senate Bill 621. After a long discussion, the board decided that the answer to the problem was a compromise. Earl Tarbet led the discussion by explaining events which concern the bill. The board passed a motion to begin talks with the City of Pampa and Pampa ISD officials in the hope of averting court action.

Another item on the agenda was extracurricular activities. According to Superintendent Jerrell Julian, certain unnamed extracurricular activities have become less than profitable due to inflation and other expenses. He stated that the $12,000 budgeted this year might not be enough. The next board meeting will be February 7.

IN THE MEDIEVAL CITY of Dinkelsbuhl in West Germany, a "Children's Festival" is held each July. It's not a festival to entertain children—but to thank them. It commemorates the role of children in saving the city from destruction during the Thirty Years War, which was fought from 1618 to 1648.

"BRITANNIA RULES THE waves!"—or should we say "The Waves Rule Britannia?" There is no place in England that is more than 75 miles from the sea.

In varsity action, the Tigerettes played a see-saw game with the Irish Lassies. The first quarter ended with McLean on top 12 to 9 but the final score at half time was 25 for Shamrock and 23 for McLean. In the third quarter, McLean scored 10 points and held the visitors scoreless, and the game ended with McLean on top 42 to 31. Top scorers for the Tigers were Randy Suggs with 10, and Brad Melton with 9.

When the teams travelled to Briscoe Friday night, the MHS squads picked up two wins in three games.

The JV boys lost to Briscoe by a score of 39 to 30. Scoring for the Tigers were Billy Bybee and David Reid with 6 each, and Tom Cunningham, Theron Stubbs, and Bobby Sprinkles with 4.

In varsity action, the girls, playing without starter Judy Trew who was sidelined with an ankle injury, faced a slow team but got into early foul trouble to keep the game close. Briscoe led 10-9 at the end of the first quarter, but the Tigerettes came back in the second quarter and were never out of the lead again, winning 39-31.

Scoring for the Tigerettes were Jill Trew and Joy Rhine with 11, Ann Skipper with 8, Nora Gately with 5 and Sally Haynes with 4.

The Tigers fell behind Briscoe early in the game with the host team scoring 10-6 in the first quarter, and leading at halftime 21 to 17, but the Tigers, paced by a sensational 25 points by Randy Suggs, came back in the second half to tie the score at the end of the third quarter 29-29, and win the game 46 to 38. In addition to Suggs, James Matheny scored 12 points.

Souled Named Census Chief

Mr. William E. Soule has been named Manager of the temporary 1980 census district office in Amarillo.

The announcement of Mr. Soule's appointment was made today by Mr. Percy R. Millard, Director of the U.S. Bureau of the Census Regional Office in Dallas.

The Amarillo census office, to be located in Bldg. 7205, T.S.T.I. Campus, 7205 Avenue B, will employ approximately 400 temporary workers at the peak of census operations next spring. Hiring for most of these jobs will begin early in 1980. The temporary Amarillo office will remain open until census operations are completed, expected to be sometime during the summer of 1980.

The 1980 census will be taken largely by the mail-out, mail-back method. On Friday, March 28, 1980, the Postal Service will deliver a census questionnaire to each U.S. Household. Residents will be asked to complete the questionnaire and return it four days later, on Tuesday, April 1-Census Day-in a postage free envelope. The questionnaires will be returned to the temporary census office where they will be checked and processed by census workers. If questionnaires are not mailed back, census takers will make household visits to get the required information.

Mr. Soule is one of 21 census district office managers to be named in Texas and one of 409 to be selected throughout the nation.

Contract Awarded On Construction Between McLean And Alanreed

The State Highway and Public Transportation Commission has awarded contracts to two firms on projects involving highway work in Gray County.

A.L. McKee, SKHPT Amarillo District Engineer, said Kent Nowlin Construction, Inc. of Labuquerque, N.M., was awarded the contract at $20,583,553 to build 7.1 miles of Interstate Highway 40 from 1 mile west of McLean to 1 mile west of Alanreed. Three bids were received by the commission on this project.

Also, the commission awarded High Plains Pavers, Inc. of Plainview the contract to seal coat some 83 miles of Panhandle highways during the summer of 1980, including State 273, from FM 750 in Pampa south 1 mile to Loop 171, and FM 2300, from US 60 south and west 21 miles to the Carson County line.

Hing Plains Pavers' bid of $1,225,670 was the lowest of four submitted to the state commission, McKee said.

The IH 40 project includes dirt work, paving the main lanes and frontage roads, construction of two interchanges and one grade separation. Plans call for letting a contract for signing, striping and delineation just prior to completion of the paving work.

The district engineer said the sequence of work on the Interstate project is arranged so that eastbound and westbound traffic will be carried through the project on separate roadways while construction is underway.

T.R. Kelley of Pampa, SDHPT Supervising Resident Engineer, will direct work on this project, while Henry L. "Lou" Gallegly of Dalhart, SDHPT Supervising Resident Engineer, will oversee work on the seal coat project.

The seal coat, application of asphalt and rock, promotes waterproofing and helps maintain roadway strength. The seal coat provides a better riding and skid-resistant surface for motorists.

energy answers

from the Texas Energy Extension Service

We have a 30-year old home, and no crawl space above our ceilings, so we can't blow in insulation. Our heating bills are pretty high. What can we do to stop heat loss through the roof? D. R., San Antonio.

There are three possible solutions to this problem, all of which are expensive measures because of the complexities involved.

One possible solution is to add insulation board above the existing roof and then re-roof above that.

A second possible solution might be to inject ureaformaldehyde foam into the void space. If not applied with care, however, ureaformaldehyde will experience considerable shrinkage. There may also be unpleasant odors for a time, and these will persist if the ureaformaldehyde has not been properly installed.

A third possibility would be to remove the sheet rock from the ceiling, install the insulation, and put up new sheetrock again.

Can you give me a few tips on the kind of firewood to buy, whether it should be hard or soft, wet or dry, etc.? R. T., Livingston.

Density of the wood is an important factor to consider when determining the type of firewood to buy. Hardwoods, such as oak, have a higher density and weight per cord than softwoods such as conifers. Because of the higher density, hardwoods provide a higher heating value per cord.

Softwoods, on the other hand, ignite easily and provide good kindling. (They also have resins which produce corrosive creosote when burned.)

When purchasing firewood, make sure it is reasonably dry without being overly dry. If wood is too dry, the rate of combustion is very high, a condition which increases exfiltration and requires large amounts of wood. In contrast, moisture-laden or "green" wood is more difficult to combust and burns very slowly or not at all.

The best combination consists of dry and green wood, and large and small pieces for a controlled combustion rate. Dry wood is easily recognizable by its color, texture, and cracks at the ends of the logs.

To determine the availability of the best wood for fuel in your area, consult the county extension or forestry agent.

If you have a question about energy conservation around the home, send it to ENERGY ANSWERS, Texas Energy Extension Service, Texas A&M University, College Station, TX 77843.

Among the 49 seniors completing their degree work with the end of the fall semester at McMurry College is Jerry Bill Shadid of McLean.

SP/4 Jimmy DJ. Anders, stationed in Vietnam, recently wrote his mother, asking her to thank Jenny Everett on the behalf of his entire company for the nice Christmas letter that she had printed on the Christmas edition of the McLean News. Jimmy wrote that they thought the letter expressed a very nice Christmas wish and it was read to the 584th Engineer Co. while they were standing in formation. The affair will be held at the new Chevrolet garage, which will be comfortably prepared for the occasion, and the banquet will begin promptly at 7:30 o'clock. ***

C.E. "Tiny" Pipes, deputy sheriff of Gray county for the last four years, announced his candidacy for sheriff this week. One of the first to aspire to fill the position which Sheriff E.S. Graves has held for nine years. Mr. Pipes stated that if elected he would endeavor to keep Gray County the "cleanest of county in Texas," which, he said, is the reputation it has earned during the administration of Sheriff Graves. ***

EYE ON TV
Although television was invented back in the 1920s and now reaches almost every home, the National Society to Prevent Blindness says there's more we should know about watching it than just turning the dial. For one thing, despite what some believe, you cannot "wear out" healthy eyes watching television. But, to avoid TV fatigue, be sure that the picture is in clear focus, there is correct lighting in the room, you are sitting the right distance from the screen and the set is positioned correctly. Give your eyes periodic rests when you are watching a lot. If you suffer discomfort after watching TV, and the set and setting are correct, you may have an eye problem that needs professional attention.

A "MAGIC" PREPARATION that is sometimes put together by natives in Morocco, includes the tusk of a wild boar, the blood of the hoopoe (a bright-hued bird)--and a few scorpions. They believe it can perform miracles for them.

PICTURES I WANTED TO PAINT AND THINGS I WANTED TO SAY
By Kenneth Wyatt

A very lovely addition to the Lovett Memorial Library is this book by Kenneth Wyatt, well-known and highly acclaimed artist and author.

Donated by the Pioneer Study Club in honor of Dixie Nell Meacham, this volume is a collection of paintings and poems by the well-known western author mentioned above.

Pictures such as "Mama Like the Wildflowers," "The Quilting," "The Card Game," and "The Windmill," with corresponding poems, grace the pages of this true-to-life representation of western Americana.

Wyatt's work has been acclaimed as among the very best of this period, and the works previously mentioned, as well as the others in the book are not only pleasant to look at and read, but will certainly bring back memories to the older timers and create an aura of excitement and enchantment to others.

"Pictures I Wanted to Paint and Things I Wanted to Say" is now available at Lovett Memorial Library.
