S.W. Public Service Completes Survey Taken in Area

The Area Development Department of Southwestern Public Service Company has completed a survey of industries in the area served by the electric company.

The first phase of the survey, completed in March, was made in all of the towns that SPS serves in Texas except Amarillo and Lubbock. The second phase of the survey covers these two metropolitan areas.

"The purpose of the survey is to assemble information that will aid in the design of programs to assist existing manufacturers expand their production facilities," commended Larry Milner, Area Development manager for SPS in Amarillo.

The survey, representing twenty-three communities on the North and South Plains reveals that 52.4 percent of the existing industries responding to the survey plan future expansion. Forty-seven of the companies surveyed plan expansion within the next twelve months, while another sixty-one plan expansion in the next three years. During the next five years, twenty-five more companies plan expansion.

Employment expansion for the near future was projected in the range of forty-three percent.

The survey covers general manufacturing, agri-related, and oil and gas related industries, with a total employee representation of more than 14,000. Of this number, about 9,000 are productive workers, 1,000 are management employees and the remainder work in clerical or administrative jobs.

In discussing the survey, Milner said, "Some of the major problems faced by industry when planning expansion are labor supply, reduced sales, resources, financing, lack of technical information, transportation, building space, management and air pollution laws.

"Helping all the towns in our service area with new and existing industries is one of our primary functions. We feel that the information in

This industrial survey will aid us in providing that help, Milner concluded.

Finances Plague McLean Hospital

Numerous inquiries have been made of the McLean Hospital employees regarding the status of the hospital, with rumors that the hospital had fired a number of employees, and that the hospital was on the verge of closing.

When questioned concerning the rumors, Mr. Lee Miles, Assistant Administrator in charge of the hospital, stated very firmly that the hospital was not going to be closed down, nor had any employees been fired. He stated, however, that several employees had been laid-off temporarily due to the low patient census. Those that have been laid-off will be brought back into employment as soon as possible, depending on the work-load demands. At the present time most hospitals throughout the Panhandle area are suffering the same low patient census.

It is reasonable to assume that most people realize that finances necessary to keep a hospital going must come from patient revenue, and when a hospital suffers a low patient census, it likewise suffers weak revenue. But, as in times past, the slump is not expected to last long.

"No Soliciting, Please"

Do door-to-door salesmen have a legal right to come calling at your home? Generally speaking, they do indeed, according to the United States Supreme Court. "The knocker on the front door," the Court has ruled, "is an invitation."

But invitations can be revoked. And one way you can revoke this particular invitation is by posting a notice saying "NO SOLICITING, PLEASE" -- or words to that effect.

Any solicitor who disregards such a notice would probably be considered a trespasser. This, in turn, would reduce your chances of liability in case he happens to stumble over a stray toy or trip on a broken step.

For the duty of a householder toward a trespasser is slight. You are not required to clear away hazards on your premises, but merely to refrain from injuring him recklessly or on purpose.

What about "NO SOLICITING" signs on apartment houses? Often posted by landlords, these signs have been attacked in court as an infringement of free speech--that is, the freedom to speak directly to individual tenants.

But courts have held that this is a reasonable and lawful way for a landlord to protect his tenants from being pestered.

This does not mean, however, that the landlord has unlimited control over access to the apartments in his building. In one case, an apartment house owner forbade any and all tradesmen to enter his building. When a grocer arrived to deliver fresh vegetables to a tenant, the landlord threw him out bodily.

In short order the grocer filed suit for damages, and the landlord was held liable on grounds of assault and battery. The court said the tenant had the right of access to his own apartment, and, by ordering merchandise to be delivered, he had extended that right to the grocer.

PETS OF DISTINCTION

LOST IN SIN — SEPARATED FROM GOD

John by the inspiration of the Holy Spirit declared: "The whole world lieth in wickedness" (1 John 5:19). As this was true in John's Day, it is likewise true today. Ezekiel, the prophet, wrote: "The soul that sinneth, it shall die" (Ezek. 18:20). Isaiah said of the people of his day: "Your iniquities have separated between you and your God, and your sins have hid his face from you" (Isa. 59:2).

In the first chapters of the Roman letter, Paul considered the spiritual condition of both Jew and Gentile and offered the inevitable conclusion in these words: "What then? are we (Jews) better than they (Gentiles)? No, in no wise: for we have before proved both Jews and Gentiles, that they are all under sin; as it is written, There is none righteous, no, not one; there is none that understandeth, there is none that seeketh after God. They are all gone out of the way, they are together become unprofitable; there is none that doeth good, no not one". (Rom. 3:9-12).

It was in view of the lost condition of men in sin that God sent Jesus, His Son, into the world to die for them. (John 3:16-17). Jesus understood the mission upon which His Father had sent Him, when He said: "The Son of man came to seek and to save that which was lost" (Luke 19:10). Again, He said: "The Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many" (Matt. 20:28). John wrote: "We have seen and do testify that the Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the World" (1 John 4:14).

With the lost condition of the world in mind, Jesus commanded, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature, he that believeth and is baptized shall be saved, he that believeth not shall be damned" (Mark 16:15-16). Paul tells us that God "now commandeth all men every where to repent" (Acts 17:30).

The real purpose of the gospel is to meet man's need as a sinner. Without the gospel, the whole world is hopelessly lost. This was true before Jesus came to earth and remains true of all who are either ignorant of it, or who have heard it and rejected it. But neither ignorance or rejection of the gospel is the primary reason for their lost condition. They are lost because they have sinned.

The Gospel IS NOT an instrument of death--it is AN INSTRUMENT OF LIFE; but only if used! Men are lost in sin, and unless the gospel is heard, believed and obeyed (Acts 18:8, Mark 16:15-16), they die without any promise of hope beyond this world, "but a certain fearful looking for of judgement and fiery indignation, which shall devour the adversaries" (Heb. 10:27).

AUSTIN — Gov. Dolph Briscoe's veto of 136 college building projects (which he estimated would cost more than $1 billion) may be the subject of a court case.

University of Texas Board of Regents Chairman Allan Shivers said UT regents will defy the veto and go ahead with at least two of the rejected projects.

Shivers claims the veto is unconstitutional. He said the attorney general long ago held the governor cannot veto appropriations bill riders which do no call for specific expenditures.

The chairman further contends that UT projects will be financed with constitutional funds which cannot be controlled by an act of the legislature.

Briscoe maintains that UT, like other schools, must get College Coordinating Board approval of its construction projects under a new law—or specific legislative approval. He voted the projects, in the first place, because he interpreted them as an effort to bypass the new statute by a subterfuge prior legislative approval through the appropriations riders.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock has indicated he will approve none of the UT building project vouchers in controversy without an attorney general's opinion. It has been hinted regents may seek a declaratory judgement in court to uphold their position.

Campaign Begins

Campaign for adoption of the proposed new state constitution November 4 already is shaping up.

Former Texas Supreme Court Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert will lead the drive for voter support.

Top officials who are supporting the new charter include Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, House Speaker Bill Clayton, Atty. Gen. John Hill and Supreme Court Chief Justice Joe Greenhill.

Governor Briscoe did not attend the initial meeting to kick off campaign plans. He made clear later that he has not made up his mind whether or not to support the revision. He has never been a supporter of annual legislative sessions. Briscoe reminded. The new constitution would provide for annual legislative sessions. It also would broaden power's of the governor considerably.

Committee Recesses

A House committee studying possible impeachment proceedings against 229th District Judge O. P. Carrillo recessed until July 9 to allow its staff time to catalogue evidence.

Chairman Rep. De Witt Hale of Corpus Christi said he is hopeful the committee will complete its work and vote on its recommendations by August.

If the committee recommends impeachment, the House will convene three weeks later to hear the case. Should the House vote articles of impeachment, the Senate then must "try" the case. A two-thirds majority would be necessary to impeach.

Courts Speak

The State Supreme Court upheld an intermediate court judgment dissolving an injunction by Judge O. P. Carrillo against oil operations on the Clinton Manges Duval County ranch.

The Court of Criminal Appeals affirmed a life sentence given a Laredo rancher in the 1972 shooting of five Mexican aliens on his ranch.

A $535,866 judgment for a truck driver who was disabled when he ran into a train on a foggy night was upheld by the Supreme Court.

Truckers' $363,646 breach of contract suit verdict against the Houston Chronicle was affirmed by the Supreme Court. At issue was an agreement to transport newspapers.

An Austin district judge stopped Austin and Dallas commercial colleges from enrolling new students until they refund $230,000 in tuitions to former students. The judge also restrained an Indiana truck driving school from violations of the propriety school act.

Agriculture Hearing To Be Held In Amarillo, July 12

Congressman Jack Hightower today announced that the Senate and House Agriculture Committee will hold public hearings July 12 in Amarillo and July 19 in Omaha, Nebraska to amend and update the 54-year-old Packers and Stockyards Act.

"I am delighted that the chairmen of the committees accepted my invitation to conduct the hearings in Amarillo," Hightower said. "Amarillo is the center of one of the largest beef producing areas in the nation. Locating the hearings there will facilitate maximum participation with the least inconvenience for the participants."

The Amarillo hearing will be conducted by the House Livestock and Grains Subcommittee of which he is a member. The subcommittee is headed by Congressman W. R. Poage, D-Texas, who is also Vice Chairman of the full house Agriculture Committee to participate in the Amarillo hearing. House Agriculture Committee members have been invited to be a part of the Omaha hearing.

Hightower said spokesmen for all phases of the livestock and packing business will be invited to appear at the hearings to discuss their problems generally, as well as pending legislation.

Basically, the 1921 Packers and Stockyards Act applies to transactions involving producers, handlers such as commission houses and auctioneers, and packing firms. It outlaws certain discriminatory trade practices.

Congressman Hightower introduced a bill Wednesday that would clarify the relationship between buyer and seller by providing greater protection to the seller without imposing any additional burden on the reputable, solvent buyer.

Hightower's bill, H.R. 8233, provides protection for sellers of livestock and poultry by:

1. Clarifying the transactions subject to the Packers and Stockyards Act.

2. Requiring that packers:

A. Pay promptly for livestock.

B. Refrain from practices calculated to delay collection of funds and increase "float" time.

C. Refrain from encumbering livestock, inventories of meat or poultry products or accounts receivable derived therefrom, except to the extent they exceed the amounts owed for livestock.

D. Buy only on a cash basis unless current assets exceed current liabilities. In other words, any packer operating in an insolvent condition must buy livestock on a cash basis.

3. Giving the Secretary of Agriculture the authority to seek injunctions when a packer fails to pay promptly or operate in an insolvent condition.

4. Giving debts or a bankrupt packer that are owing for livestock purchases a priority under the Bankrupt Act.

The congressman said persons wishing to testify at the Amarillo hearing should communicate promptly with his Amarillo office at 310 Post Office Building, Amarillo, or call 806/376-2381.

People once thought that holding a lion's ear to a deaf ear would restore hearing.

Your Child's Sight Is Important

Blurred, fuzzy, or double images may be the way of sight for your child, but he may have no idea that this is not normal since a child has no point of comparison between what is normal or abnormal sight.

So warns the Texas Society for the Prevention of Blindness, which announced this month the availability of a free new pamphlet for parents "Your Child's Sight, How You Can Help", and two new films.

TSPB, an affiliate of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, points out that one in every 20 children between 3 and 5 years of age is handicapped by eye problems.

Parents often are lulled into a false sense of security, as the new parent-education folder points out, because a child is not likely to complain about a vision defect as he would with a toothache or stomachache.

The free folder, which may be obtained from TSPB, Post Office Box 13400, Houston, Texas 77019 (or Box 339, Euless, Texas 76039); lists in succinct, simple language the signs that may indicate vision difficulties in young children and necessitate a professional eye examination.

TSPB also has two brand new films available on free loan to community groups. At present, there is a limited number of prints available and there could be a waiting period for free loan of the films.

INDEPENDENCE DAY

It ought to be commemorated as the day of deliverance!

John Adams

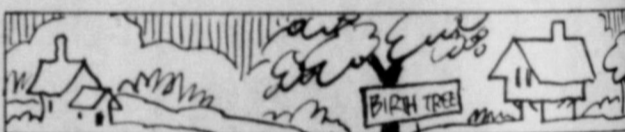

GOOD REASON TO CELEBRATE

Late one night in July, 1776, a young man from the Massachusetts colony, exhausted from the day's labors, emotion-charged to sleep, took quill pen in hand. With his wife Abigail by candle light from stifling boardroom quarters, he described a momentous event which had just taken place in Philadelphia. In years to come, he predicted, would be remembered as "the great anniversary Festival. The man? John Adams.

The event? Adoption of the Declaration of Independence which he hoped would be commemorated as "the Day of Deliverance, by solemn acts of Devotion to God Almighty."

His vision was indeed prophetic.

One year from now, Americans across the land will celebrate the bicentennial of the American Revolution. Traditionally, we have celebrated Independence Day with gaiety and solemnity. This year, as we prepare for the Bicentennial, a joyous yet reverent, prayerful and dignified celebration order as never before in our history.

Some people believe that a "birth tree" planted at the time a child is born will reflect in its growth the nature of the child's life.

Lives Expected To Be Lost Over 4th

"Traffic speeds are up and more people are expected to be on Texas highways this Fourth of July Holiday," advises Major C. W. Bell, Regional Commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Fifty-four persons are expected to die in the three-day holiday period starting 6:00 PM July 3 and ending midnight July 6.

It is most tragic that the start of the Bicentennial Anniversary of our country may be one of the most wasteful in terms of loss of human life. "We will have Operation Motorcade in full scale operation throughout the holiday period with every available trooper on the road at all times.

Major Bell added that two violations will lead to the greatest loss in life; they are speeding and drinking while driving. "Every driver should be aware of both the condition of the road and vehicle as well as his personal condition before he gets behind the wheel. Also, he should drive as if his life depended on it, because it does." With more and more drivers on the road, and with more persons showing a higher disregard for the speed limits, Operation Motorcade will take on an even more important role in an attempt to control the high highway slaughter.

The Texas Department of Public Safety urges each and every driver to do his part this holiday period by "Driving Friendly" and practicing Defensive Driving to stay alive.

Some North American Indians conciliate the animals which they kill and eat.

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

Add this to the list of things you should try to avoid this summer--ticks.

Ticks, chiggers, mosquitoes, flies, ants, snakes and poison ivy are among the many hazards encountered in the outdoors. One of the pests, or a combination, can help spoil a picnic or camping trip, says the Texas Department of Health Resources, formerly known as the Texas State Department of Health.

But aside from being pests which attach themselves to the skin of their victims, often producing infections, ticks can be the carriers of Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

Spotted fever is known by many names, such as "mountain fever", bull fever, black fever or blue disease.

But however designated, the only known natural transmission of this endemic, potentially severe, febrile disease is through the infective tick. This may be accomplished by contamination with crushed tissue or feces of the tick or, perhaps more commonly, by the actual biting attachment of this disease-carrying pest.

At least two deaths in Texas this year have been credited to Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

One victim was a 41-year old Tyler man, who apparently picked up ticks in Van Zandt County while working with cattle.

A case was clinically dianosed in a 17-year-old woman, who lived in a rural Cass County setting. Other suspected cases have been investigated.

Rocky Mountain spotted fever got its name because of early experiments with ticks in the Rocky Mountain area at the turn of the century. This has led to the misconception that it is found only in this region, but most cases have been reported from the eastern United States, Virginia and North Carolina had almost one-third of reported cases in 1974, according to the U.S. Public Health Service.

Most Texas cases reported to the Bureau of Communicable Disease Services have been from the northeastern and southeastern areas of the state.

A number of different tick species are found in these areas, according to Paul V. Fournier of the Department's Medical Entomology Division. However, wrote Fournier in a Texas Health Bulletin article, only a few are thought to be involved in the direct transmission of this disease to man.

Investigations have shown that the three main culprits in Texas are the American dog tick, the lone star tick and the brown dog tick. Although the brown dog tick seldom attaches to man, it is thought that this tick may transmit the disease to canines, and then on to man by other ticks.

Ticks must pass through several stages of development. The basic life cycle includes: eggs, larvae, nymphs and adults. They feed only on blood, and most species must find new hosts (or reattach to the same host) several times during their life cycle. The tick is well-adapted to survival, and some species may survive for more than a year without feeding, says Fournier.

It has long been known that the rickettsial pathogens of Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever may be passed along from one generation to another through infected eggs. Therefore, any stage of an infected tick can transfer the disease to man.

Completely avoiding ticks would appear to be the ideal way to ward off infestation, but this is too impractical. Farmers, ranchers, foresters, nature lovers--virtually anyone who ventures into the outdoors--can expect to run into ticks at one time or another.

There are some precautions which can be taken, says Fournier. One of the easiest is to use commercial repellents, which also are effective against chiggers and mosquitoes. Since there is a connection between the length of tick attachment and severity of the disease, it would be well to remove all ticks just as soon as possible. A thorough inspection of the body should be made as soon as possible after returning from the outdoors. While there is no one recommended manner of removing ticks, use of tweezers is preferred over the fingers. The reason is that the disease can be transferred by crushing the tick while removing it. This is especially true when removing engorged ticks from a pet.

The infectious agent in Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever is the Rickettsia rickettsii named after the man who pioneered some of the research into the disease.

Because of the rise of the disease in Texas, a tick surveillance program has been established through the Department of Health Resources. The program has been established through the Department of Health Resources. The program is in response to the need for determination of the species present in infested areas, and the testing of tick samples for rickettsial pathogens.

Boom, Boom, Boom . . . Good News For Livestock . . . How Long Will It Last? . . . Milk Production Up and Down.

Although they will fizzle in some parts of the state, crop prospects this July 4 week-end should be booming. Cotton planting is finished on the High Plains and harvesting is underway in the Valley; grain sorghum harvest is well underway in South Texas as planting is finished and in the north; prospects for many crops are now the best they've been in years.

If you're going to celebrate July 4 week-end this year, plan to make it an all-Texas food affair. You can enjoy peaches produced in Texas; watermelon season is with us; cantaloups are being harvested; and there are plenty of fresh vegetables such as tomatoes, onions, cucumbers, sweet corn, squash, and many others. And be sure to include Texas-produced beef.

Wheat harvest is about half complete; oat harvest is nearing the final stages; peanut planting is nearing completion; and soybean seeding is about finalized.

All in all this July 4 week-end, crops are looking good over most sections of the state.

GOOD NEWS, a thing which has been hard to find in agriculture in the past couple of years, is making inroads in the livestock industry.

Cattle on feed in Texas, as well as the major cattle feeding states, is showing an upward trend. Cattle feeding in the state is up six per cent, from a month ago.

Even though the June 1 estimate is 42 per cent below a year ago, cattle feeding has shown a turn-around.

Cattle on feed in Texas as of June 1 totaled 1,128,000 head. Texas cattle feeders placed 288,000 head into their lots during May.

Cattle and calves on feed June 1 in the seven major feeding states totaled 5,841,000 head. Although this is down from a year ago, it is an increase over a month ago. May placements of cattle and calves on feed is up 20 per cent compared to a year ago.

Cattle feeders are showing some profit now. How long will this last? Economists note that more cattle will be coming to market in the months ahead, and this will tend to lower prices to producers later this year.

But for the time being, cattlemen are seeing some signs of improvement in their price situation.

MILK PRODUCTION is having its ups and downs in Texas. During May, milk production in the state was five per cent above last month, but one per cent below a year ago.

Production per cow is the same as last year but is above a month ago. Milk cows on farms are down one per cent from a year ago. Milk cow numbers declined 26,000 from April, the largest month-to-month drop nationwide since the month of January, 1974.

HAVE YOU DONE IT YET? Have you returned your census of agriculture form? About 99,000 Texas farmers have failed to do this, so the Census Bureau is urging you to get the census form completed and returned as soon as possible.

And they emphasize the figures you send in will not be used by an other government agency. Individual reports will be combined into county, state, and national totals.
