Serving McLean and the Area Since 1903

Volume 78 McLean, Gray County, Texas 79057 Thursday, January 15, 1981 Price 25¢ Number 2

Each season of the year seems to bring its pleasures... and disadvantages. January seems to be a slow, quiet month for most people. It is the time of the year for small family gatherings, watching football games on television, and just generally hiding from the cold, nasty weather.

But the weather in McLean this January has been so beautiful, with warm, dry days that the normal schedule is totally ruined. Some of the spring flowers are trying to come up, and the grass is trying to turn

If this weather holds for a few more weeks, it may mean that we will have a cold, snowy spring. But then who knows?

A man told me the other day that you can always identify a newcomer to the Texas Panhandle....he's the one who believes the television weatherman (or anybody else) can predict the weather around

Like most other businessmen, I go through a January ritual each year that I don't particularly enjoy...and that is writing off bad debts. Before I had any experience in the business world, I didn't realize that merchants had to go through this routine. We look at our books in January, and decide which accounts we will probably never be able to collect, and go through a book-keeping process of "writing them off." I'm happy to say that most of the bad debts I was forced to write off were out-oftown people. In our experience, the local people (with a few exceptions) are good at paying what they owe.

I think the most irritating thing for us at the News office is bad debts on printing. We have to pay for the printing, whether our customer does or not, and sometimes we're left holding the bag. I'm not sure how people justify not paying their debts. I know that sometimes people have problems and just can't pay for awhile. However, every businessperson I know would prefer the customer to come and tell him why he can't pay, and perhaps pay a portion of the debt. Anything would

It might be a good idea for our Chamber of Commerce to think about publishing a list every three months of people who don't pay their bills, or people who give "hot" checks. What do you think, Chamber members?

The Chamber of Commerce is beginning its membership drive this month in McLean. Members of the Chamber are trying to recruit new members to help with various projects that the club has started. The organization was reorganized in McLean in September of 1979. Those who joined then will not have to pay dues again until 1982.

The Chamber has been a little slow to get going, but the projects that have been attempted have certainly benefited the town. The group can look back over the last year to these accomplishments: the

Basketball Teams Play For Consolation

The Tigers and Tigerettes each won one game in the White Deer Tournament to compete in the consolation fin-als Saturday.

The Tigerettes lost 46 to 38 to White Deer in the first game of the tournament Thursday. The McLean girls started slow, scoring only 6 points in the first quarter and 8 in the second. They came back to score 24 points in the second half, but were unable to catch up with the host team. Tammy Killham scored 20 points for her sea-son's high to lead the McLean

The Tigers also faced the host White Deer team and lost 42 to 69. The Tigers played an even first quarter with the Bucks, with each team scoring 12 points, but White Deer began to pull away in the second quarter, outscoring Mc-Lean 22 to 10. Timmy Killham led the Tigers with 15 points, and David Via scored 10.

amnorwood 41 to 17 to place in he consolation finals. Samnor-wood was playing short Sally Kincannon who has scored heavily for the team. McLean's Missy Billingsley scored 12 points in the victory to lead the Tigerettes.

Tim Smith led the Tigers in their 60 to 32 victory over Higgins Friday. Smith scored 16 points, and Timmy Killham scored 11 for the Tigers. The McLean boys led 24 to 13 at half-time, but scored 22 points in the third quarter to ice the

In the finals of the consola tion bracket, the Tigerettes lost to Groom 41 to 32. McLean allowed Groom to score 20 points in the first quarter and then allowed only 21 points for the rest of the game. The Tigerettes were never able to undo the damage of the first quarter, even though most of the girls on the team were scoring consistently. Leslie Skipper scored 8 points, and Missy Billingsley, Rozanna Eck, and Tammy Killham each

In the consolation finals of the boys division, McLean faced a hot River Road team. The Tigers scored 12 points to River Road's 17 points in the first quarter, but from that point on, the game belonged to River Road who led 35 to 21 at half, 60 to 35 at third quarter, and then won 89 to 42. Tim Smith and Mike Lane both scored 10 points.

The Tigers and Tigerettes were scheduled to meet Lefors Tuesday night, but the results were too late for press time.

School To Dismiss Today At 3 p. m.

School will dismiss at 3 p.m. Thursday, according to Superintendent Carl Dwyer. The teachers will use Friday for a work day, since it is the end of the semester, Dwyer said. Stu-dents will have a holiday Fri-

Classes will resume Monday as usual, Dwyer said.

NEW SUPERINTENDENT BEGINS MONDAY

The McLean School Board sped through a long agenda Monday night during their regular meeting, the last for Carl Dwyer as superintendent of schools. Dwyer officially submitted his resignation to the board during the meeting, al-though he had told the board several months ago that he would resign in January. The board has hired Jim Rutherford as superintendent. Dwyer said that Rutherford would officially take over as superintendent

In addition to approving the checks, the December financial statement, the December tax assessor's report, and the cafe-teria report, the board officially set the trustee election for April 4. Two three-year terms and one one-year unexpired term will be open on the board. The terms of June Suggs and Tony Smitherman are expiring. The one-year term is the rest of Joe Magee's term of office. Magee resigned last year.

Election officials will be Roger McCracken, judge; Mary Powell, Pat Durham, and Sue Simmons. Judy Morris and Emma Jean Tate will serve as absentee voting officials.

Shirley Johnson, MISD business manager, told the board that the state has cut back on the amount of reimbursement to the cafeteria for paid lunches. She said this will make the financial balance in the cafeteria worse in the future.

The board discussed the complicated question of the tax appraisal district. Board superintendent Jim Allison reminded the board that Gray County does not have a tax appraisal district yet, since the question is still in litigation. Reappraisal must begin in 1982, board members said, but they questioned whether the appraisal district would be formed by that time. Members decided to conany concrete proposi from Gray County Commis sioners concerning reappraisal calendar for 1981-82 to the board. The calendar calls for four in-service days during th. year which will be sponsored by the Panhandle Education Service Organization in Amarillo. The board decided to wait until the February meeting before approving the calendar.

In other business, high school principal Ron Cummings mentioned to the board that the senior class was talking about having graduation exercises at the football field this year. The board discussed the matter. and one member asked Cumsidered the traditional bad weather in McLean during May. Cummings said that several aspects of the problem had been discussed with the class. Board members took no action.

Board member Tony Smitherman said that he had been contacted by some people on the substitute teacher list who wondered why they were not called to work more frequently. Principals Cummings and Dorman Thomas explained to the board that they had called everyone on their lists during the year, but that some people were easier to contact. Dwyer said that he had found when he was a principal that he learned to depend on certain people who would come when called. The principals said that there was no set procedure to deter-mine who was called.

Attending the meeting were board members Tony Smitherman, Lloyd Hunt, J.C. Mc-Anear, June Suggs, Jim Allison, and Darryel Herndon, Shirley Johnson, Carl Dwyer, Ron Cummings, and Dorman

Chamber Plans Annual Banquet

The McLean Chamber of Commerce met last week to discuss plans for its annual membership drive and ban-quet. President Jim Barker appointed Ida Hess and Linda Haynes to head an arrangements committee for the banquet. The committee was told to plan the banquet for sometime in March.

Barker emphasized to the group that current members will not pay dues this year. We have enough money in the treasury to operate on and this way we can give the members a

Novice Hunter Stalks Elusive Quail

By MIKE HAYNES

Sports Editor Humble Echo.

I never developed a desire to go hunting.

While growing up near McLean, the wildlife opportunity was great, and many of my family and friends caught the fever at least once a year, usually at the beginning of quail season. But all the walking and waiting never appealed to me, especially when I could get instant gratification back at the house, making a basket out on the driveway or throwing a touchdown pass to a brother or sister in the front yard. I traveled back home recently expecting the usual slate of activities when my family gets together: a little basketball, a little one-hand-below-the-waist football, and maybe a few sets of tennis between gorging on Mom's cooking and helping Dad with some of the ranch chores. The weather was perfect for sports: clear skies and warmer than the usual West Texas winter.

But noooo, this time my brothers and sister and Dad met me at the front porch with their shotguns in hand and somebody's old 20-gauge (that's a type of gun, for you outdoors novices like me) leaning against the wall. "That's for you," they said. Well, since they were all fired up about it, and I wouldn't have anyone to play one-on-one with anyway (Mom spends all her time in the kitchen), I didn't put up a fight. I had been out stalking the cute bobwhites twice before, at least a decade ago, and I figured if I could endure this third safari, maybe it would satisfy the family for another 10 years.

I should emphasize that although I knew next to nothing about hunting, I was familiar with the essential safety rules. My Dad had taught me the great importance of NEVER pointing the gun at anyone, whether loaded or not, using the "safety" lever, and in general, to be as serious as an airline attendant about guns. Although my interest in the sport never had lasted long, each exposure to it had begun with a safety lecture.

Now you avid hunters might laugh not only at me, the rookie, but the entire crew which drove to the pasture last week. You wouldn't exactly call it professional when you're using a bird dog (borrowed from a cousin) who forgets the quail every time a jackrabbit

But the other six hunters in our party had at least bagged a few birds in their day, and they fully expected to come home with enough quail to feed a few of us, at least.

THE HUNT

With seven vested humans tramping stealthily across an alfalfa field like the National Guard advancing on a riot scene, it might seem a little unfair to the poor birds. But it wasn't; not the way we were shooting, anyway. And those quail have a way of scurrying on the ground to safety even if the line of hunters does cover 200 yards.

My best chance of hitting a quail came five minutes after we got out of the pickups and started our sweeping operation. With a fluttering sound, two or three of the bronze-colored birds ascended into the air. I had been assigned a spot on the left end of the "wall of human flesh" (I assume to minimize my chances of shooting someone), and one of the quail streaked diagonally in front of me, no more than 15 yards away.

"What luck," I thought. "How can I miss? The little pellets fro my shell will scatter far enough that I don't even have to aim!" I pressed the trigger; the pear-shaped bird flew over the hill. My shotgun hadn't been on "safety," but the mechanism that you push up and down to put a shell into the chamber was only half advanced. I began to remind myself, "See why hunting is no fun?" We continued our trek into the pasture, with Rusty (the dog) traipsing back and forth, in and out of the plum thickets, between the clumps of sagebrush. Occasionally he stopped -- Is he pointing?

--No, he was gnawing his paw, ridding himself of the stickers or cockleburrs he had picked up.

Rusty doesn't exactly point, anyway. But we knew when he was sniffing quail. His nose hugged the ground, and his quick pace slowed to a creeping crawl. With that behavior, we knew the birds were about to "get up."

The red and white hound did a pretty good job of flushing quail, I thought. Of course, I've never seen a real hunting dog work. But when we yelled, "Rusty, hunt birds!" Rusty would hunt birds. And when we hollered "Come here," he would quit chasing that rabbit. When we said, "Fetch, dead bird," he would search the sandy ground until he found the quail that my Dad or brother or uncle (no At least he was more efficient than Brutus. Brutus is a bird do by bloodline only. After we made the mistake of not tying him in the yard during our excursion, my Dad's yellow and white hound followed us the mile or two into the pasture and made wide circles in front of us -- scaring some of the prey away before we even got

And then Brutus had his big moment. One of the hunters hit a quail, and it fell close by in a dirt road. Brutus raced to the bird, picked it up -- and made a beeline home. That quail would never be on anyone's supper plate, but at least the sleepy-eyed dog stayed away the rest of the afternoon!

I didn't get another chance as good as that first one. I used 11 of the lipstick-sized shells as 11 sets of wings fluttered by. (Six more of the 30-cent projectiles slipped out of the hole in my borrowed vest; they were just as productive as the ones I shot!)

After almost four hours, I still hadn't hit anything. But enoug birds had flown to keep me interested, and my companions had totaled six among them. Much to my surprise, I didn't even feel tired until we were almost back to the vehicles. As futile as my efforts had been, the hunt had kept my mind off the feet which trudged half a day over plains and rolling hills and cattle trails.

My Dad had decreed a change in the traditional hunter's etiquette that you "clean" what you shoot: He said whoever DIDN'T get back to the house with a bird had to pluck and dress all the group's quail. Of course he was kidding (I hoped.)

As the sun dropped behind the red dirt hill that overlooks much of the ranch, I turned to one of my brothers. "What does it take to hit one?" I asked. I had picked up some hunting knowhow during the afternoon, but I still had no idea what it feels like to "score." Was I shooting from too far away? Was I aiming too high? Too low?

Even with the frustration and a bruised shoulder, I knew that Even with the frustration and a bruised shoulder, I knew that I'd had a good time. Even going 0-for-11, it was good to be in the great outdoors, to stalk flying creatures which were reasonably abundant, which we could fry and eat if we were successful. Doing it with family and friends probably accounted for half the enjoyment, but the sport itself had shown its potential. I'll probably try it again one of these days. I still doubt that I'll become a regular hunter, buy my own double-barrel or 410 shotgun or bird dog. But you know, if I ever did actually HIT a quail, it sure WOULD be fun! I might even try fishing sometime. I could be wrong about that,

Here They Come!

Get ready for the onslaught! The people in the rest of the country have found out our secret, and they are moving to Texas in droves.

The 1980 census figures are finally official (maybe) and they tell the story of a giant exodus out of the Ice Belt of the Northeast, into the warm climes of the greater Southwestern United States. Because of this exodus to the sunshine, the state of Texas will have more political clout than in recent years. We now rank third in population, and have picked up three seats in the House of Representatives because of the population shift.

All of this change in population means that officials on the state level, officials on the county level, and city officials need to begin looking ahead and planning for a growing population.

We should learn a lesson from the over-crowded, poverty stricken areas in the Northeast, and plan the growth in this state. Some of Texas' metropolitan areas are already experiencing severe pollution and dangerous overcrowding. But progressive thinking state officials can prevent further problems by working at long-range plans for state growth.

Sudden growth and the arrival of many new people is a 'problem" that many residents of McLean would like to see happen to our town. But this boon could become a curse if proper planning is not done.

The city council, the Chamber of Commerce, and other organizations concerned with McLean need to begin thinking about the future and developing plans for it.

A study showing projected population, possible needs for water, natural gas, and electricity, housing needed, health facilities needed, and public school facilities needed should be undertaken in the near future by these groups, because sooner or later this phenomenal growth in Texas will come our way.

Are we ready for a McLean with a population of 3,000?

Aging Gives Tax Advantage

Growing older may have its blems. But when it comes to your federal income tax return, you'll find a few nice breaks awaiting you as the years go by.

For tax purposes you're con-sidered to be 65 years old on the day before your 65th birthday. You can claim the benefits set aside for those 65 and older for the entire year in which you turned 65. For instance, if your 65th birthday falls on Jan. 1, 1981, you can claim the tax benefits set aside for older Americans for the entire year of

IRS Says Employer Must Give W-2

Employers must provide each employee with a completed Wage and Tax Statement, Form W-2, for 1980 by February 2, 1981, the Internal Revenue Service says.

If the Wage and Tax Statements are not issued on time. employers may be penalizing employees who will have to wait employees who will have to want until February or later to file their tax returns, possibly mis-sing out on the faster refunds available to early filers.

For additional information on the proper distribution and handling of Wage and Tax Satements, employers may get a free copy of IRS Publication 15, "Circular E, Employer's Ta Tax Guide," from the IRS.

They also serve who only stand and wait. They also get ulcers and go crazy as bedbugs. Think---how much of your life has been spent waiting---for things to happen. It starts when you're eight or nine years old, waiting to be ten or eleven---to get out of the fourth grade--sixth--eighth--to be pretty, handsome, skinnier, fatter.

Waiting through high school, college---for that special day when you will wake up and life will be RIGHT and you will feel good about it--and yourself.

Marriage, babies, more waiting---house, car, furniture, success. By then you could pretty much look around at the people you know--a mirror-they're waiting for something too-dental appointments, vacations, kids to get over measles, more rain.

Wouldn't it be great if we could all get--de-programmed-brought back from tomorrow--to today--out of the waiting room, with our lives out of the holding pattern.

No time like the present?

Better yet--no present like time
--a gift which must be used immediately--does not keep overnight.

IBRARY NOTES by Sum Haynes

The Great Southwest
Charles McCarry
Come with me for an exciting and enchanting visit to a large part of our country known as the "Sun Belt," and come to realize why so many of our nations disgruntled citizens are moving en masse to this booming area of our nation.

A region of dramatic contrasts, the Southwest contains inspiring mountains and forbidding deserts, broad prairies and deep canyons. Much of this now-arid land has lain beneath recurring prehistoric seas. For thousands of years, Indians lived quietly in balance with nature. Todays Southwesterners shape nature to their will. Digging mines, damming rivers, irrigating fields, building cities, they have fashioned an optimistic society that attracts thousands of new adherents every week.

This volume contains many, many beautiful pictures and much interesting information about the states of Nevada, California, Utah, Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Texas, and also affords the reader excellent historical facts from the days of the earliest settlers to the present time.

You will be glad you availed yourself of the opportunity to read this book, as you marvel at the grand canyon, and you will feel a part of the action as you see cattle being worked on a dusty Texas ranch.

"Not Now, Darling" Is On Stage In Amarillo

"Not Now, Darling," a of Amarillo's Country Squire through February 7.

comedy of mix-ups and mer
Dinner Theatre Tuesday Appropriately for winter Donald, Maura Soden, and riment, is brightening the stage through Sunday evenings

Sometimes when life seems a bit dull, I wonder if writing my life in italics and adding a few adjectives would spice it up a little. On a typical day, when my life is in simple, unadorned block letters, my story might read something like this:

Patman Spends Day With Usual Tasks Lisa Patman woke up today, made the bed, brushed her teeth, threw on some clothes, went to work, ate lunch, went back to work, went home, cooked supper, took a shower and went to bed. She slept with her mouth open and often drooled. Her dreams were, as

With a little imagination that boring stuff could be transformed into really exciting material. See if this doesn't sound better:

Columnist Leads Exciting Life

The sultry and exciting Lisa Patman awoke to a sun-filled room, stretched her arms above her head, and shouted to the world in general "Here. I come. World. Watch out!" Scrambling out of bed. she danced into the powder room where she attacked the toothpaste with the same vigor she faced the day before her. "Nothing will get me today" she cried. Singing "I am woman, hear me roar...", she trod purposefully to her closet and drew out her garments, donning her armor for the day. After fighting her way through McLean's early morning traffic, she arrived at her exciting job as one of the top executives in her office. Her morning was filled with terribly interesting telephone calls, and, after a quaint but chic lunch, she spent her afternoon hours writing fantastic texts. [Someday a bright publisher would discover her and make her a millionaire, but for the time being she was content to ply her trade at her lovely desk, happy to be simply creative and fascinating.] Finally it was time to return home, a quiet place she had transformed into a haven of fashionable elegance where friends gathered for stimulating conversations. After a simple but delicious meal she pampered her body with a stimulating, steamy shower which gave her skin a subtle radiance. Gracefully she reclined on the bed, [clad in a designer gown, of course] closed her eyes and sighed "I made it! I struggled with normalcy and won! Tomorrow I'll return to the battle!" Eagerly she faced a night of thrilling dreams.

Whew, I'm really exhausted. I had no idea I led such an eventful life. I think I need a nap. It's amazing what an exclamation point or two can do for a person

Notes From Your County Agricultural Agent

FARMER'S TAX DEADLINES APPROACHING

While most taxpayers have until April 15 to file their 1980 income tax returns, farmers and ranchers face a much earlier filing date. Agricultural producers who do not file an estimate of their income by January 16 and do not pay estimated taxes must file their tax returns and pay due taxes by March 2. However, if farmers file an estimate, they have until the April 15 deadline to file final returns. Texas farmers and ranchers should note the following considerations as they prepare their 1980 income tax returns. Filing requirements for 1980 are the same as in 1979. For example, an individual must file a return if his gross income is $3,300 or more, and a married couple under 65 years of age must file if their joint gross income is more than $5,400. If both are 65 or older, they may make $7,400 before a return is required.

In contrast to the 1979 op-by Joe Van Zandt tional standard mileage rate of 18-1/2 cents rate per mile for 1980 is 20 cents for the first 15,000 miles of business travel in your automobile. The rate has increased to 11 cents from 10 cents for business travel of more than 15,000 miles or when one's automobile is fully depreciated. The standard mileage rate of 9 cents per mile is permitted as a deduction for charitable, medical and moving expense purposes.

A taxpayer should determine his actual transportation ex-penses (according to IRS guidelines) before deciding whether to use the standard mileage rate or to use his actual transportation expenses.

New installment sales rules recently passed by Congress significantly changes the rules for reporting gain from sales of real property and personal property. The changes which become effective for 1980 in-

•Repeal of the requirement that no more than 30 percent of the selling price be received in the tax year of sale to qualify for installment reporting. *Two or more payments are no longer required. •Installment sales tax treatment is automatic unless rejected by the taxpayer.

The selling price for sales of personal property no longer have to exceed $1,000. *The rules are tightened on installment sales between certain related parties -- whether through kinship or through business organizational struct-One report has stated that the new Installment Sales Revision Act of 1980 would

'simplify the installment sales tax rules. Other changes concern business energy investment credit and alcohol fuel credit as well revenue procedures, tax cases and minor law changes. For information on these and other changes and for assistance in filing your income tax return, we suggest several IRS publications (Revised 1980 editions)-"Your Federal Income Tax" and the "Farmers' Tax Guide". Copies of the "Farmer's Tax Guide" are available in the County Extension Office.

Courthouse Annex, Pampa. WEED CONTROL IN ALFALFA

Now is a good time to fertilize alfalfa and to spray for winter annual weeds. A good stand of alfalfa that is adequately fertilized with phosphorous (100 pounds of P2 O5 per acre) will usually not require weed control. Thinner stands should season applications.

GETTING IN, OUT OF AGRICULTURE:

If you're interested in getting into farming or ranching, if you're already in the business and want to expand, or if you're thinking about retiring and turning the farm or ranch over to someone else, then there's an upcoming conference designed just for you.

The conference is called "Getting In -- Growing -- Getting Out of Agriculture," and is being sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Texas Farmer-Stockman magazine. It will be at the Texas A&M University Research and Extension Center, 6500 Amarillo Blvd. - West,
