Certification For Chemical Use New Requirement

The Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act, as amended, enforced by the Environmental Protection Agency, includes among other requirements (1) classification of all uses of pesticides as either restricted use or general use and (2) certification of applicators (private and commercial) as a requisite to the legal use or supervision of use of restricted-use pesticides.

The Texas Pesticide Control Act establishes an additional category of pesticide applicator, the noncommercial applicator and requires certification and licensing of each as a requisite to the use or supervision of use of restricted-use as well as state-limited-use pesticides. The commercial applicator as defined by the TPCA means "a person or government agency or department which wants to use restricted-use or state-limited-use pesticides and does not qualify as a private applicator and is not required to have a commercial applicator's license." Certification is granted by the state regulatory agencies on the basis of a written examination.

Workshops providing training opportunities for those who may seek certification as commercial or noncommercial applicators, will be conducted by personnel of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Dates, locations and times of the workshops will be announced in the near future.

The full implementation of the amended Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act is scheduled for October 21, 1977. On this date, barring any changes in the law, certification will be a requisite to using or supervising use of restricted-use pesticides.

Beef Promotion Finance Outlined

Financing plans for the proposed Beef Research and Information Program have been tentatively outlined, announces Joe VanZandt, County Extension Agent. The Act is Public Law 94-294 and is enabling legislation similar to that for wheat, potatoes, cotton and eggs.

"Funds would come from assessments on producers' receipts from sales of cattle," he explained.

The law sets a maximum check-off assessment rate of one-half of one per cent (0.5 per cent) of the live animal value, but for the first three years, the rate has been set at 3/10 of one percent. The funds would be collected according to a "value-added concept," which would assess all sellers in the marketing chain. The concept is similar to that of "pencil shrink."

However, emphasized the Extension agent, sales of breeding cattle may be exempt until the animals are sold for slaughter.

The initial purchaser in the marketing chain would deduct the amount of assessment from his payment to the original owner. Each succeeding purchaser would deduct an assessment based on the current market value, representing an amount equal to the previous assessment plus an added assessment resulting from the animal's increased value during the seller's period of ownership.

"The purchaser at the point of slaughter would remit the assessment to the Beef Board, as proposed in the Act. Consequently, packers would be responsible for maintaining records of the transactions, deducting the assessment from the sale of the animal and forwarding the money to the Beef Board.

Provisions of the Act also allow for producers not wishing to participate in the program to request and receive a refund upon application to the Beef Board. To qualify for this refund, however, the request must be made in writing and sent--along with a copy of the sales slip--within a 60-day period after the end of the month in which the assessment was paid.

Based on an expected beginning assessment rate of 0.3 per cent of the value of each animal slaughtered, nearly $40 million would be generated in the program's first year of operation.

Duniven Drafted by Bengals

TOMMY DUNIVEN

Ex-McLean Gridder Going To The Pros

By Mike Haynes

The National Football League's Cincinnati Bengals have enabled McLean's Tommy Duniven to begin the next phase of his grid career by picking him in the sixth round of the NFL college draft.

Duniven, who made national headlines in 1974 when he was named The Associated Press Back of the Week after leading Texas Tech to a 26-3 upset of the Texas Longhorns, was the 21st player chosen in the sixth round. He was injured most of his senior year at Tech.

Duniven was an all-district performer for the McLean Tigers before being recruited by the Red Raiders and is believed to be the first person from here to be drafted by a pro football team. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Duniven of McLean.

Duniven will go to Cincinnati this weekend for a two-day orientation camp. He said the Bengal training camp will begin the first part of July. He said in a television interview that the Bengals have two fine quarterbacks and that he looks forward to playing with them. Duniven said he has a tough job ahead of him.

Cincinnati finished with 11-3 and 10-4 records the past two years behind quarterback Ken Anderson and his back-up, John Reaves. Boyd Dowler, the Bengals' offensive coordinator and a former Green Bay Packer receiving star, said the Bengals plan to carry three quarterbacks in 1977.

"Tommy has the raw ability to possibly develop into an NFL quarterback. He has the size and a strong arm," said Dowler.

Another Southwest Conference standout drafted by Cincinnati was defensive tackle Wilson Whitley of the University of Houston, chosen in the first round. Linebacker Thomas Howard of Lubbock was the only other Tech player taken in the draft, going to the Kansas City Chiefs in the third round. Red Raider defensive back Donald Roberts of Seminole later signed a contract with the New Orleans Saints as a free agent. Roberts split some time at quarterback with Duniven in 1974.

Mental Health Drive Underway By Local Workers

Mrs. Irene Pakan of McLean announced that several Bellringer workers will go house-to-house during May collecting for mental health, including members of the Lions Club.

Irene Pakan is Bellringer chairperson for the drive benefiting the Mental Health Association in Texas.

As a volunteer agency, the association works on behalf of the mentally and emotionally disturbed and to promote mental health. The association is not a state agency and so must exist entirely on private contributions such as funds collected in the Bellringer drive.

The need is great. Mrs. Pakan cited these reasons.

*One in four families is affected by mental illness.

*An estimated 75% of those who attempt suicide are seriously depressed.

*Mental illness is America's most costly health problem - excess of $21 billion.

Bellringer workers collecting in McLean are Laverne Carter, Francis Kennedy, Joyce Eck, Mary Groves, Margie Fish, Irene Ellison, Fern Boyd, Isabel Cousins, Catherine Weaver, Mayme Hathaway, Frieda Holland, Shirley Stokes, Ruth Magee, Loree Barker, Fayette Belle Barton, Martha Parker and June Suggs.

Lions Helping In Mental Health Drive

McLean Lions will be canvassing local businesses May 17th for donations to the Mental Health Association of Texas. Mrs. Irene Pakan is chairperson. She and her workers will be seeking donations in the residential section of the city.

300 Water Related Deaths Predicted This Summer

Based on figures compiled during the past five years, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department estimates that 300 people will die in water-related accidents in June, July and August of this year.

Of the 300 fatalities predicted for this summer, 60 percent of the victims probably will be under 30 years of age and 80 percent will be males. Some 70 percent would be able to save themselves if they could swim.

Ninety percent of the fatalities will be in the public waters of the state -- rivers, creeks, bayous, streams, lakes, bays and the Gulf of Mexico.

And if statistics run true to form, Harris County will have more fatalities than Dallas, Tarrant and Bexar Counties combined.

Last summer bad weather kept many recreationists from the water and the number of deaths dropped to 241 during the three months.

'New Song' To Appear in McLean

New Song, a music group from Oral Roberts University in Tulsa, Okla., will be appearing May 15 at 7:00 p.m. at United Methodist Church.

New Song, under the direction of ORU senior Chuck Wilson, is composed of five men and three women, all students at ORU, with majors varying from Music to Physical Education. New Song's goal is to present a "new song," the message that Jesus Christ came to give everyone life. According to Todd Pettygrove, one of the group members, "Music is my special way of expressing my love for God. My hope is that through our music and lives, we can reach out to those we sing for."

New Song is one of 9 groups touring the United States, singing in various denominations. The group usually spends two to four days in each church through their 10 and 1/2 week tour. Their program will include a variety of singing, sharing and drama skits, which will appeal to all ages.

The group, New Song, is part of the Summer

Music Ministries program at ORU, which is under the direction of Jerry Florence. The program began two years ago with a group which toured throughout the southeast part of the country. This first group was so widely accepted that in the following year ORU sent out four groups to about 20 states. This summer's music teams involve 80 students and a recent campus survey indicated that more than 600 ORU students would like to become involved in the program.

The public is cordially invited.

Everyone involved in the establishment and maintenance of turfgrass is invited to attend the field day.

4-H Looking To Save Energy

The energy crisis won't slow down 4-H members bent on having some real fun this summer, points out a 4-H and youth specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Such activities as canoeing and sailing are just the thing for adventuresome families and are considerably less expensive than motorboating. These two exciting watersports open the door to a wide variety of outdoor skills ranging from sport fishing and white-water racing to silent communion with nature. And there are hundreds of styles of boats to fit every need and pocketbook.

Plant A 4-H Mini-Garden

CHICAGO—Lack of yard space won't keep urban and suburban 4-H members from enjoying nutritious home-grown vegetables from their town gardens this year.

With a little ingenuity, 4-H'ers 9-19 are planting mini-gardens on patios, balconies, windowsills, and sunny sides of garages or apartment buildings. Their gardening projects and activities are supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service and supported by Ortho Division, Chevron Chemical Company.

4-H'ers have discovered the key to successful mini-gardening is choosing a small number of vegetables and ones that take up little space (radishes and carrots are good examples). Dwarf and miniature varieties can be used when available. Vine crops like pole beans, peas and tomatoes are space savers because they can be trained to grow vertically on stakes.

Making a plan showing the size and shape of the mini-garden is also helpful. It can indicate where each vegetable is located in each row and can show dates of planting and expected harvesting.

Mini-gardening is a learning-by-doing experience that 4-H'ers can carry out on their own, with other young people in their club or group, or as a project involving community members of all ages. Raising vegetables, fruits, flowers or ornamentals—even producing a commercial crop or tending a well-manicured lawn—can be fun as well as educational for 4-H'ers on farms, in cities, suburbs and small towns. And an outstanding 4-H gardening project can bring recognition at all levels of participation.

Through National 4-H Council, Ortho provides a full schedule of awards to 4-H members: up to four medals of honor per county, one $50 U.S. Savings Bond per state, 18 sectional trips to National 4-H Congress and eight $1,000 scholarships at the national level.

Winners are selected by the Extension Service and will be announced prior to the 56th National 4-H Congress in Chicago Nov. 27-Dec. 1.

More information on the national 4-H gardening program is available from county extension agents.

At 90 years of age, Frank R. Phillips, first Dean of the School of Agriculture at West Texas State University will return to the campus for a visit with his ex-students and friends.

On Saturday, May 14, a reception will be held from 10 to 4 p.m. in the new office building of the Opportunity Plan, Inc., at 504 24th Street, in Canyon. At 2:30 p.m., a plaque will be presented to Mr. Phillips. The public is invited to the ceremony.

From the 1930s until the 1950s Mr. Phillips owned and operated Western Life Camp, a summer camp for adolescent boys and girls in the mountains above Las Vegas, New Mexico. "ACTION AREAS" FOR COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

Community leaders should look at the "action areas" when searching for industrial development, says a community resource development specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. According to the U.S. Department of Commerce, major industries that anticipate product shipment gains include steel, automotive, aluminum, foundries, paper and paper boards, computers and related equipment, industrial and organic chemicals, commercial printing, drugs, electric components, meat packing plants, construction machinery and aircraft.

Undecided Vote Important To Beef Checkoff Outcome

A survey of 450 Texas beef producers indicates that the undecided vote is likely to be the key to whether or not the beef checkoff program is activated, points out an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. At the time of the survey 53 percent favored the checkoff, 30 percent were opposed and 17 percent were neutral or undecided. At least 50 percent of the producers who register must vote in the referendum and two-thirds of those, must vote in favor of the beef checkoff program before it actually begins. The registration period is June 6-17 and voting will be from July 5-15. The survey also showed 53 percent of the producers favoring the right to request a refund from the program and 65 percent favoring voting on the basis of a single vote per producer.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Problems with special telephone directories marketed by independent firms or individuals not connected with the telephone company have come to the attention of our Consumer Protection Division.

Our attorneys are currently investigating complaints from several business consumers that they have been the target of possible false, misleading, or deceptive trade practices.

In most of the cases, this is the usual method of operation: An entrepreneur appears in a two- or three-county area or an area of small communities and begins to tout the advantages of an independent telephone directory. The directory would combine "white page" information about names, addresses, and telephone numbers of individuals for several nearby communities into one.

The next step is to talk with merchants in the communities or counties pointing up the advantages of advertising in the "yellow page" section of such directories.

"People from these other towns (or counties) drive over here to buy, so you should be advertising in a spot where all of them will see your message," the entrepreneur might say. "You can make your advertising dollar go much farther—don't just advertise locally."

Very often, the entrepreneur will hire local youngsters, well-known to town business persons, to sell the advertising, and it's these local fellows' names that appear on the ad contracts.

Advertisers are "encouraged" strongly to pay for their ads when they are placed, rather than later when they will appear in print, by significant "discounts."

The usual sequence of events is that the directory publication is delayed. "It's a little later than scheduled, but it'll be out by the Fourth of July," the merchants who have bought (and paid for) ads may be promised.

After that, it may be "We've had some printing problems, but the directories will be delivered before Labor Day, for sure." Two years later, there still is no directory, and even if it did come out, it would be very much out-of-date.

The entrepreneur usually disappears, and the merchants are out their money, with no advertising to show for it. Yet, because local folks they know were selling the ad contracts, merchants often are reluctant to file complaints or to prosecute. In turn, the sales persons, who made their sales in good faith, often would like to be able to refund the cost of the ads, but have no way to get in touch with the entrepreneur, who left with all the profits.

Our Consumer Protection Division attorneys caution business persons in small communities where such directories may be marketed to make sure the person or firm selling them is reputable. Check to see if there is a local office. If your community does not have a Better Business Bureau, often the local Chamber of Commerce can tell you something about the length of time a company has been operating.

Ask to see other directories that have been published. Check with some of the advertisers to be sure they were satisfied with the arrangements. And be sure never to pay in advance for such a listing.

If you have a consumer problem, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division in Austin, Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, El Paso, Lubbock, or McAllen. Outside those areas, call this toll-free number: 1-800-252-9236.

We Can Grow Fuel for Vehicles

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

The feasibility of supplementing our fuel supplies with alcohol is being investigated by scientists with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES), in cooperation with Louisiana, Florida and USDA.

An automobile engine can be adjusted to run on fuel that's partly alcohol. And alcohol can be made from many of the crops we raise as food or feed.

Already many countries are having to cope with shortages and fuel prices that make our situation in the U. S. look desirable.

Brazil, for example, has gasoline prices three times as high as ours, in the range of $1.80 to $2.00 per gallon.

At present, Brazil is using an estimated 500 million liters of alcohol per year in their gasoline (a 5 percent alcohol-gasoline mixture). Plans call for an increase of alcohol production to 3,000 million liters per year by 1980 to allow for a 20 percent alcohol-gasoline mixture.

Sugar cane and cassava are used in Brazil for manufacturing alcohol, according to Dr. Fred Miller, an Experiment Station grain sorghum breeder.

Miller recently returned from Brazil where he conferred with agricultural officials. Acting on his recommendation that they consider TAES improved sweet sorghums as an additional resource, Brazilians have ordered tons of seed from here.

Estimates are that Brazil's present production of about 66 million metric tons of sugar cane will have to be increased to 100 million metric tons to provide the additional alcohol.

Though no more sugar will be produced, Brazil will still benefit in two ways: 1) it will reduce the drain of money for imported fuel, and 2) it will increase employment in sugar agriculture.

In the cooperative research being conducted by Texas Experiment Station scientists and those in Louisiana, Florida and USDA, "total biomass" are key words. This means the plant material that can be produced per acre, according to Dr. Sim Reeves.

Reeves is located at the TAES Weslaco Center and is conducting research on the use of sweet sorghum for alcohol production. Scientists in Florida and Louisiana are working on sugar cane the same purpose.

In recent years, TAES scientists have greatly improved sweet sorghum varieties to extend both the milling season of Texas sugar mills and the area of production. Sorghum can be produced in areas not suited to sugar cane.

According to Miller and Reeves, the improved variety can be grown to harvest in 135 days and in Southeast Texas this permits two crops per year. This gives one per acre of about 3 1/2 tons sugar per year. Another variety, Roma, is expected to give even higher yields.

Alcohol production from this sugar is about 250 gallons per acre per year. The leaves and stalks can be converted to another fuel, methanol, or can be used in the sugar mills.

In the years to come, Texans may have cause to doubly bless the relatively new sugar industry the Experiment Station and USDA were instrumental in developing. Their sugar may help fuel their cars as well as sweeten their food.

All people should be mindful of the many priceless gifts bestowed upon us by our Creator -- air, soil, water and sunshine -- which make all living things possible.

CROP AND LIVESTOCK OUTLOOK

Texas Extension marketing economists have prepared information on the Outlook for various Agricultural Commodities. I am listing only brief summaries of their complete analysis of each commodity. If you want a copy of their complete report, call or come by the County Extension office.

For cotton, Charles Baker believes that the 1977 cotton crop cannot return total stocks and carryover stocks to normal, so the stage is set for another year of good prices. We could have a repeat of last year with one inch Strict, Low Middling Light Spot ranging from a high of 70 cents down to 60 cents and back up to 70 cents.

For wheat and feed grains, Roland Smith thinks wheat prices have minimum chances for a significant increase. All factors point to pre-harvest and harvest prices in the Southern Plains being close to the loan rate - about $2.25 per bushel.

Sorghum carryover is projected very close to last year's level and corn could be up 200-300 million bushels. With reasonable prospects for a good 1977 feed grain crop, this carryover should moderate any price increases in the next few months.

Ernie Davis predicts market hog prices will be in the $33.00 to $37.00 range during May-June. For the July-August period he says prices will improve up to the $37.00 - $41.00 range.

The beef cattle price outlook, as given by Ed Uvacek, for 600-700 pound choice feeder steers to be in $45.00-$47.00 range for April to June, while in July to September, prices should range between $46.00 - $48.00. During the last quarter, October-December, he thinks the price range will be $44.00 - $47.00.

Meanwhile for choice fat steers (900-1100 pound) Uvacek thinks the current quarter prices will average between $44.50 and $46.50. During the summer (July-September) prices are expected to average $46.00 to $48.00. For the last quarter of 1977 fed cattle prices are forecast for $44.00 to $47.00.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Windom, Jr. visited their sons and families, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Allen and family of Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Eddy Jay and family of Dallas, the Pat Windoms of Plano, Texas over the weekend.

by Joe VanZandt
CATTLE GRUB CONTROL

John Tripplehorn came by the office recently inquiring about the time to use a "pour-on" for grub control on his cows.

Now is the time! Anytime between May 1 and September 1 is recommended as the time to control cattle grubs. Grub control is a proven management practice. Heel fly attacks and grub infestations cause indirect losses such as reduced weaning weights of calves.

Heel flies and grubs may reduce beef cow milk production by enough to produce 40 pounds of additional calf weight at weaning time. Grubby animals may require up to 15 percent more feed for the same amount of gain than grub-free animals.

For effective grub control, treat cattle with systemic insecticides, which are chemicals absorbed into the animal's body where they control grubs by contact action. Systemics are available as sprays, dips, backline pour-ons, spot-ons and as feed additives or mineral mixtures. Choose the insecticide and treatment method that best fits your operation. Be sure and follow label directions.
