Vivian Green celebrates 80th

A "young" Vivian Green celebrated her 80th birthday last Sunday afternoon, Feb. 27, when a host of children, relatives and friends gathered at the Church of Christ Fellowship Hall.

All of her children except one son and his family were able to attend. However she received a telephone call from R.C. to help complete the celebration. Other children helping to make her day a success were Mr. and Mrs. Joel (Adelaide) Wheeler of Albuquerque, Mr. & Mrs. John (Virginia) Alley of Tulsa, their daughter Jinny Alley of Abilene. Also, from Abilene were Mr. and Mrs. Euline Green and children, Rho, Tuell, and Lenna. Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Green, Mr. and Mrs. B.J. (Glenda) Renner of Gruver helped host the affair.

Texhoma sets Collector's Show & Sale

The Texhoma Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a collector's show and sale. We would appreciate any assistance you can provide with promoting the event.

The Texhoma Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring its Seventh Annual Collector's Show and Sale March 12 and 13 in Texhoma's old high school gymnasium. Hours of the show and sale are 9 a.m. - 6 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. on Sunday.

Again this year the Chamber will be selling chances on a door prize, a portable remote telephone, which is usable for a distance of up to 600 - 700 feet. A local merchant has donated a clock to be awarded as the second prize. Door prize will be given at hourly intervals as well.

There will be a concession stand, and Chamber members will furnish homemade pie to be sold by the slice.

The cost of table rental is $10, and dealers can begin setting up on Friday afternoon. Security guards will be provided. There will be complimentary donuts and coffee for dealers.

Dealers from the five-state area will be participating in the event. On display and available for sale will be antiques, coins, glass, guns, crafts and other collectibles.

Anyone wishing further information may call the Chamber office at 405/423-7341 or evenings call Emery Elliott at 405/423-7121.

Veterans can get more information and assistance from any American Legion Post or Veterans Administration Office. — Jack Flynt, National Commander.

FDA & PACKAGING

Consumer alertness and the introduction of tamper-resistant packaging have "vastly reduced" the chances of a repetition of last year's Tylenol poisonings, a deputy commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration said recently.

BASE CLOSINGS

A key defense official says the Pentagon may haul out a list of proposed base closings and challenge congressmen to bear some of the brunt "if the heat gets heavy" for deep cuts in the military budget.

Spearman Music Club Meets

The Spearman Music Club, a member of the National and State Federation met on Tuesday, March 1, 1983 at the First Christian Church. The evening began with all present repeating the club collect.

Altha Townsend brought the business meeting to order in which the following items were discussed. It was agreed to submit Patti Sheppard as the club's nominee for the Texas Panhandle Award for Outstanding Service given by the West Texas State University. The official call was received for the State Federation's 68th annual convention in Houston, TX on March 16th, 17th and 18th. The National Federation's Convention is April 21st thru the 25th at Columbus, Ohio. All were reminded that National Music Week is May 2-9. A possible recipient of the scholarship which the club has for a student furthering their education in music was discussed. This Susan Larson Memorial Scholarship is given every year with the funds coming from memorials received and fund raising projects the club has through out the year.

Following the business meeting a practice session was held where the songs for the easter program were rehearsed. The program is to be given for the Twentieth Century Club at 2:30 p.m. on March 24th at the Methodist Church.

Cake and coffee were served by Myrna Biggers and Altha Townsend. Members present were: Myrna Biggers, Fran Glass, Janie Kunselman, Celia Krug, Audrey Leighnor, Bonita Reimer, Margy Schoenhals, Altha Townsend and Sammie Goering.

You know the old saying, you learn something new everyday. Well, today, I learned how you take Alka-Seltzer Plus. First off, this morning, the boss sent one of the girls across the street to get some Alka-Seltzer Plus, and then when she got back he wanted her to get him 3 cups of water. About this time I got curious, because when I take Alka-Seltzer, I simply put it into some water and when it stops bubbling I drink it. Anyway he gets the three cups of water and puts the two tablets in one cup and let it set until I'm sure it was flat, and then he took a drink of it, followed by a drink of water. He repeated this procedure several times before finishing the Alka Seltzer. I'll wait and see if this method does any good.

I'm sure that you are like me, and am tired of reading and hearing about murders, burglaries, drug pushers, terrorists, bombs, etc. that fill up the daily newspapers and newscasts today. I ran across this story from "The Good News Report" and thought I would share it with you. This is a story of courage and character. Those qualities belong, in this case, to a remarkable woman named Emma who, in her final days, brought much inspiration to those with whom she came in contact.

"Her name was Emma; an elderly black lady unencumbered with life's material possessions. No one knew how she travelled from New York City to Washington, D.C.; only that one morning in the bitter chill of February, she was there. "Dr. Veronica Maz, founder of the House of Ruth, a hostel for women in need of help, was told of Emma's arrival by some of the men who made their homes in abandoned autos in a former parking lot behind the hostel. They didn't think it right or proper that a woman of Emma's age and condition should be living in the rusted hulk of an automobile. Neither did Veronica. She offered Emma the hospitality of the House of Ruth, but Emma said, no thank you. And that was all she had to say.

She settled down in a vehicle whose interior had been stripped. The men brought cardboard from packing crates and fashioned a floor of sorts. They filled in the empty window spaces and did what they could do to make the car's shell a dwelling. Emma's only warmth was a thin overcoat. Yet with that and little else she managed. She decorated the interior with faded family photographs and old newspaper clippings. What little food she ate was supplied by the men around her who were worried about her frailty. Daily, Veronica brought her a cup of soup and a jar of water.

"It was the water that made them friends. A board member for the House of Ruth complained about the waste of a dripping outdoor faucet and announced she would have the water supply cut off. Emma overheard Veronica's spirited defense of the need for the water. It was basic, she argued, to those living in the area, not only for drinking but washing as well. When Veronica turned away she saw Emma smiling a toothless grin of approval through the open window of her car.

"After that Veronica visited Emma several times a day just to sit and talk. Emma had nothing to say about herself. Mostly she talked about God as a personal friend who was with her always. Veronica found that Emma's personality exuded a special kind of warmth that refreshed her in her own endeavor. She had never known anyone quite like her.

The cold months went by, and in early April one of the men came to Dr. Maz and said that Emma would like to borrow $80.00. Veronica able to obtain that amount, but the request puzzled her; it was so out of character. She planned to query Emma the next day. But the next day Emma was gone. She had wanted to say good-bye, had waited until the last minute, the men told Veronica, but the bus she was taking would not wait. Emma's car-dwelling neighbors had taken her to the station and bid her farewell.

"Veronica thought she might receive a card from Emma, but there was nothing—nothing until the following October when Ezekiel arrived. He was 18 years old and one of Emma's great grandsons. He had come to repay the borrowed money for the bus fare to the town in Alabama to which Emma had returned. She had been away from home for more than 30 years, had gone north to New York to earn money to send to her family. She had finally come back because she knew she was dying, and she wished to be among her people. Ezekiel said she was 92 when she passed peacefully away.

"He had volunteered to bring back the money and had done so, working his way job-by-job to Washington. At Veronica's insistence he remained with her for three days but only on the condition that he work for her at the House of Ruth. He had a fine manner and a look in his eye that reminded Veronica of Emma. He said he wanted to be a preacher, but now he had to leave so he could get home to help his father and brothers with the crops. When he left Veronica presented him with a striking religious banner that had been sewn by the Catholic Order of the Poor Clares. She asked that it be presented to the family's church in memory of Emma, a remarkable little lady who had stopped to rest awhile on her long journey home."

Moncrief named director of Animal Health Commission

Dr. Monte Moncrief is now area director of the Texas Animal Health Commission. Area office headquarters is in Amarillo at 128 Hamlet Shopping Center on North Fillmore Street.

Counties in area one of the TAMC are Armstrong, Briscoe, Carson, Castro, Collingsworth, Dallam, Deaf Smith, Donley, Gray, Hansford, Hartley, Hemphill, Hutchinson, Lipscomb, Moore, Ochiltree, Oldham, Parmer, Potter, Randall, Roberts, Sherman, Swisher, and Wheeler.

Dr. Moncrief has been with the Texas Animal Health Commission for the past six years as area director in Stillmanville. He received his degree in veterinary medicine from Texas A&M University in 1949.

The Texas Animal Health Commission is one of the oldest state agencies; it was created in 1893 by the State Legislature.

Brucellosis, screwworms, scabies, fever ticks, and other animal health matters are among responsibilities of the agency.

New, free Cancer number

HOUSTON, TX--It's new. It's free. It's easy-to-remember--1-800-4-CANCER.

The University of Texas M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute's Cancer Information Service (CIS), the statewide telephone line that answers Texans' questions about cancer, now has a phone number that spells its purpose.

This easily recalled number will help make the CIS more accessible to the general public, according to Jo Ann Ward, director of the M.D. Anderson CIS.

"The CIS will still be providing the same kind of current, factual cancer information, but it is our hope that now we will be able to serve even more people who have questions about cancer—a disease which in some way affects two of every three families," said Ward.

"The M.D. Anderson CIS will share this phone number with 20 other CIS offices across the country, allowing Texans to pass it on to out-of-state friends and relatives who automatically will be connected to the CIS office serving their area."

Only people calling 1-800-4-CANCER from within Texas will be connected directly to the M.D. Anderson office.

Established in 1975 as a public education program of UT M.D. Anderson Hospital, the CIS's goal is to enable people to have immediate access to the latest information about cancer. In addition to providing assistance over the telephone, the CIS also mails free, printed materials about cancer to callers who request it, serves as a source of referral to community services for cancer patients and their families and is a contact point for the latest information about cancer research.

Over the years, the CIS staff of trained volunteers has assisted more than 50,000 Texans with their cancer concerns.

The M.D. Anderson CIS is just one part of a nationwide network of offices, based at major cancer centers and funded by the National Cancer Institute. Included in this network are 21 regional offices serving 65 percent of the nation's population. The rest of the nation is served by an office operated at the National Cancer Institute, which also handles late-night calls until midnight (Eastern time), and weekend calls. Since the program began these offices have fielded more than a million calls.

Borrowers can use a GI loan to buy a condominium or mobile home instead of a house, to refinance an existing loan and to repair their home or add energy-conservation improvements. Those who used their entitlement before Oct. 1, 1980 — when the maximum VA guarantee rose to $27,500 — have additional government-backed borrowing power.

Good news for Texas livestock producers

Progress in eradicating screwworms in Mexico is good news for Texas livestock producers, Dr. John W. Holcombe, executive director, Texas Animal Health Commission, said today.

"We had only six confirmed cases of screwworms in Texas during all of 1982, and that, too, is good news. But as we move in 1983, livestock producers should continue to be on the lookout for possible screwworm infestations, especially those producers along the Texas-Mexico border," Dr. Holcombe said.

He said sample submission of screwworms to the fly laboratory at Mission is only about 30 percent of the 1982 figures. "That means we may be a bit complacent about the screwworm situation, and there is a need to be on our guard," he said.

The overall goal of the screwworm program is to have a barrier zone along the Isthmus of Tehuantepec in Mexico during 1984. That area would be seeded with sterile screwworm flies to prevent migrations northward. The Isthmus of Tehuantepec is about 1,200 miles out of the Texas-Mexico border.

Three states in Mexico—Baja California, Chihuahua, and Sonora—have been declared screwworm free.

However, there were isolated outbreaks of screwworms in 1982 in Mexico within 150 miles of the Texas border. "This is why it is important for Texas' livestock producers to check livestock regularly for possible screwworm infestations," Dr. Holcombe said.

From 1944 through early 1982, veterans obtained over 10.8 million GI home loans totaling $197 billion. The Veterans Administration guarantees part of a bank or other loan to help a home-buying veteran get a mortgage, often with no down payment and at lower than market rates.

Program begun in inform property owners of rights, etc.

AUSTIN—Kenneth Graeber, executive director of the State Property Tax Board (SPTB), today announced the beginning of a statewide program for 1983 to inform property owners in Texas of their rights, remedies and responsibilities as taxpayers.

In conducting the multifaceted program, Graeber said, SPTB will be working with appraisal districts, local tax offices and the state's news media to help make Texans aware of property rendition requirements, available tax relief measures and of what property owners do to obtain any tax relief to which they are entitled.

"It is important that taxpayers file renditions and applications for tax relief by May 2 this year," Graeber said.

"Major changes in the state's tax laws were effective last year with implementation of the Texas Property Code and the new central appraisal districts," he noted.

Graeber said that provisions of the code not only make it possible for taxpayers to file all exemption applications and property renditions with one office in a county rather than with multiple tax offices, but also permit onetime applications for homestead exemptions and special open-space land valuation, rather than annual applications as previously required.

However, the tax official said that in appraisal districts which did not implement their operations in 1982, requirements for taxpayers to file renditions and applications will differ. In all except 15 of the state's 254 counties, he said, appraisal districts were in full operation in 1982.

Fourteen of the remaining districts started full operations this year, and the Harris County Appraisal District began serving a portion of that county.

In districts which began full operation in 1982, property owners who received homestead exemptions and open-space ("I-d-1") land valuation last year need not apply again for 1983, unless the chief appraiser requests confirmation of current qualification by sending a notice and an appropriate application form, or unless their eligibility has changed.

Graeber noted, though, that applications must be made this year for homestead exemptions and I-d-1 valuation by taxpayers who have never received them on their present homes or land and by property owners in the 15 appraisal districts implementing for the first time this year.

Applications for disabled veterans' exemptions and agricultural ("I-d") valuation must be made annually in all appraisal districts.

The 15 districts Graeber listed as implementing this year are Bexar, Glasscock, Gray, Harris (partial implementation), Hartley, Jasper, Jeff Davis, King, Leon, McMullen, Moore, Oldham, Rockwall, Stonewall and Zapata Counties.

Exemption applications should be filed with the appraisal district office, or, in the case of Harris County, with the district or appropriate local tax offices.

"State law also requires any person who owns or manages income-producing personal property on January 1 to file a rendition statement with the appraisal district," Graeber said.

Special rendition procedures pertain to property on which an exemption applicable on January 1 terminates during the tax year. In such a case, the person who owns or acquires the property on the date eligibility for the exemption terminates must render the property for taxation within 30 days.

Additionally, the chief appraiser may require rendition of other taxable property upon notice to the owner or manager.

Transportation companies subject to regulation by the Railroad Commission must render the value of their intangible property to the State Property Tax Board.

Banks and railroads must file special rendition statements with the appraisal district chief appraiser.

Graeber said rendition forms are available from appraisal district offices or local tax offices in Harris County. Transportation businesses may obtain property report forms from the SPTB.

Complete information on available tax exemptions and rendition requirements for the general public is contained in "Taxpayers' Rights, Remedies, Responsibilities," a pamphlet produced by the SPTB.

The pamphlet also includes suggestions on how to prepare and present an appeal to the appraisal review board and is available at no charge from appraisal district offices or from the SPTB in Austin.

"The property tax is the primary source of local government revenue in Texas," Graeber noted. "It will generate about $7 billion this year to help fund operations of public schools, cities, counties and special districts."

"We urge all property owners to become familiar with the tax process, to file renditions and to apply for all exemptions or other tax relief measures to which they are entitled," Graeber concluded.

Cancer Society has variety of services available

The American Cancer Society in Hansford Co. announced today that it has a variety of services available to cancer patients without charge.

"Many people are unaware of all the services we can provide right here in this town," Mrs. N.F. Renner, rehabilitation chairman, said. "And all that is required in most cases is written permission from the patient's physician."

Loan equipment such as hospital beds, wheel chairs, commode chairs and walkers are available as well as expendable items including dressings, hospital gowns, bed pads, pillows and other items.

"These are all in addition to our basic information and referral services," said Mrs. Renner. "And, depending on location, we also have several rehabilitation programs including Reach to Recovery for mastectomies, esophageal speech lessons for laryngectomies, ostomy rehabilitation and related patient and family support groups."

The concept for these rehabilitation programs is the volunteer-to-patient relationship, added Mrs. Renner. "We have many volunteers who are themselves former patients and who are specifically trained by the Society to help other patients and even their families adjust to living with cancer."

Mrs. Renner cited that when most people think of the American Cancer Society, the relate to cancer research. "While it is true the ACS funds millions of dollars for cancer research, we are also a community-based organization providing many local services. These patient services as well as education materials of all types are just a few of the ways we can help."

Anyone needing more information on these services may call Mrs. N.F. Renner at 659-2335.

Spearman Buyers Guide planned

The Spearman Chamber of Commerce is making plans for a Buyers Guide.

Each business will have a picture of the business and a list of brands they have and/or services offered to the public for $100 per page.

The booklet will also feature: Community Profile (facts about Spearman); List of doctors, dentists, hospital, nursing home and locations; Emergency phone numbers; Sheriff's phone number; where to go for Drivers License; Car Tags; Tax Information; Schools & locations;

Churches; Senior Citizens (Golden Spread); YMCA; Swimming Pool; Clubs and Organizations; A little history on Spearman and Hansford County.

These guides will be distributed in motels, hotels and each participating business plus they will be delivered to newcomers.

Businesses that are interested in advertising in the guide should have their check for $100 and the information for the guide to the Chamber of Commerce by March 21, 1983.

Ducks lay eggs only in the morning.

Current high interest is preventing many young vets from buying a home, even with this government guarantee. Last year, a veteran needed a gross annual income of $28,000 to meet the $910 monthly payment on the average new GI loan of $54,000 at 16 percent interest.

This year VA started two programs to encourage lenders to finance more GI loans. Under the "buy-down" plan, VA will okay creative financing when the seller agrees to lower the interest rate for the first three to five years of the loan. In the "guaranteed mortgage payment" plan, VA will back loans with a down payment where monthly payments start low and rise 7.5 percent a year for the first five years.

The long-range outlook for a child stricken with cancer has changed dramatically in the past two decades, according to a recent broadcast sponsored by the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center and The Prudential Insurance Company.

Dr. Giulio D'Angio, director of the Children's Cancer Research Center at Children's Hospital in Philadelphia, said, "There is now more than a vague hope of control. To achieve this result, however, parents must immediately consult with a center dedicated to the management of malignant disease in children."

The tremendous advancements in cancer treatment are largely responsible for the much-improved survival of childhood cancer patients. "We have a multitude of new approaches that can reverse a seemingly discouraging situation," said Dr. D'Angio. These approaches, though not foolproof, do provide parents with a reasonably optimistic outlook."

Dr. D'Angio points out that doctors now have the opportunity to consider the future of the childhood cancer patient. "It's only a partial success for the cured child to become a chronically ill adult because of treatment he or she received for cancer," said Dr. D'Angio. "We are now focusing more not only on the cure, but also the quality of life which they will lead."

Air Ionizers Combat Pollution In Home

I'm often asked what food we should avoid to feel better. Yet we let something else enter our body, besides food, that has just as much influence on our health. It's the air we breathe.

Each day we inhale about 2,500 gallons of air to survive. When it's polluted with dust, pollen and smoke, the air is harmful and can make us feel irritable and stuffy.

Avoiding bad air though is difficult. Pollution is everywhere, from the countryside to our office, and it strips the atmosphere of the negative air ion which science has shown to be vital to life and health.

Now, however, ion generators have been developed to stabilize the air by discharging millions of negative ions into a room. Several models are on the market and our research shows that any priced below $100 are not usually effective.

You can pay up to $300 for some excellent units, but for normal office or personal use such expense is not necessary. One, the Home-Ions from Paradise generator is mid-priced and has been written up in several consumer and scientific journals. It looks to be the best of all.

Summer Salad Savvy

Summertime is salad time. With all the variety of vegetables and fruits that are available, salads are a great way to pick up wily appetites — and an easy way to add special flair to any menu.

For example, each region of the country has its own favorite combinations. So, the next time you put a salad together, instead of lettuce, tomato and whatever, why not let your food take you on a visit?

East Coast salads show the influence of European cuisine, especially French and Italian. The result — pasta salad, a colorful, economical meal-in-a-bowl. Simply toss chilled, cooked pasta with a combination of colorful raw or parboiled vegetables like zucchini and broccoli. Add olives, cheese and shrimp or flaked fish. Top with Italian style croutons, like Salad Crispins, and serve with oil and vinegar.

Southern salads, like Summer Waldorf Rice Salad, combine sugar and spice and everything nice. Mix whipped topping, sugar and mayonnaise together with celery, apples, raisins and peanuts. Fold into chilled rice and serve.

For a hearty Midwest salad, try German Potato Salad or Kidney Bean Salad. As you might expect from the great rangeland, they're both excellent accompaniments to an outdoor barbecue. To make the bean salad, combine canned red kidney beans, apples, celery and sweet gherkins with mayonnaise. For extra zip, add a touch of cider vinegar.

In Western salads, the sky's the limit. The use of avocados, artichokes, crab, peaches, pineapple and tacos was pioneered by California cooks. For example, use a taco shell for your salad "bowl." Add shredded beef and lettuce, onions, cheese, egg, tomato and avocado. Top with sour cream, black olives and American style croutons. Ole!

The real key to any salad's success is to have absolutely fresh vegetables and fruits, along with a good imagination. Mix well, add a sense of adventure and enjoy!

Just hours before deadline . . .

Harris unopposed for Gruver mayor

The city of Gruver came down to the deadline with only three candidates filing for the one alderman's seat becoming vacant and only the incumbent seeking the office of mayor. Incumbent Roy Byrd, Rocky Antalek and Clyde Soapes, Jr. are the official aspirants for Byrd's seat on the city commission. For Byrd, it was an about-face from his decision at the regular city commission meeting where the election was officially set. At that time, both Byrd and Gruver Mayor J.C. Harris announced they would not be candidates for re-election. In a matter of almost hours a preponderance of public opinion closed in on them and both said they would seek re-election and filed their candidacies.

As the March 2 deadline neared, Antalek and Soapes added their names to the roster of official candidates for the alderman post. At press time, no one had filed in opposition to Harris for the office of mayor. While press time came a bit before the filing deadline, it appeared

Mayor Harris would run unopposed. Harris and Byrd, along with Alderman Rex Shapley and City Manager Jim Ratliff were instrumental in acquiring the water and gas utilities for the city. Despite a gas supply cost crisis that is nationwide, the vast majority of Gruver citizens expressing themselves, feel utilities services have already improved greatly and heartily approved the plans of the present leadership for continued improvement of these services. While this public consensus was not official being expressed at such informal public forums from coffee cups to direct personal appeal to Byrd and Harris, it was felt by those making such expression that the polls April 2, would show those who have not yet spoken feel the same way.
