Fire Sweeps Across Drought Stricken Ranch Land

The Motley County Fire Department wants to encourage caution this year with fireworks for July 4 celebrations.

Due to the extreme dryness this year, there is a high risk of grass and pasture fires.

The past weekend the Fire Department had several grass fires. On June 17, lightning set a fire at the Lucky Knob camp of the Matador Ranch in the North-east part of the county, June 18, a call Salt Creek area of the Matador Ranch Cattle Co. in the southeast part of the County where approximately 1,000 acres burned. June 19, some land north of Matador caught fire and also that day the

from the Tongue River Ranch and the Bob Jameson, Jr. car caught fire on Hwy. 70, east of Matador. The fire department was called back to Tongue River Ranch to put out fire again on Sunday evening and on Tuesday evening.

Roaring Springs Cafe Has New Owners

Barbara Marvel & Mitzi Christopher

The Cafe in Roaring Springs now has new owners-managers. Mitzi Christopher and her mother, Barbara Marvel signed the lease-purchase agreement with the city of Roaring Springs about 2 weeks ago.

They have re-named the cafe the Dream Cafe, because this has been a long time dream for Mitzi. She has worked since she was nine years old in the Roaring Springs cafe for various owners. So the cafe business is in her blood and there is probably not anything that she doesn't know about it.

Barbara has worked in the cafe business through the years and is experienced as a cook and waitress.

Mitzi is married to John Christopher, an employee at Thacker Supply in Roaring Springs and they have two children, Crystal, who will be going into the third grade and T.J., who is four years old.

Barbara is married to Kenneth Marvel, a local Carpenter. They have three other children, besides Mitzi.

The Dream Cafe offers a wide variety of meals from their menu. Their specialties are the daily lunch buffet, Friday night fish fry and the Sunday Buffet, which is an all you can eat deal.

Hours are Monday through Thursday, 6:30 a.m. - 2:00 p.m.; Friday, 6:30 a.m. - 9:00 p.m.; Saturday, 6:30 a.m. - 2:00 p.m. and Sunday 7:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m.

They would like to invite everyone to come try out their good country cooking and the happy atmosphere.

Dr. A.C. Traweek, Pioneer Doctor

by Marisue Potts

Except for a brief stint in Memphis, Texas, Dr. A.C. Traweek practiced medicine for his entire career of over sixty-two years in Motley County.

In September of 1897, Dr. Traweek and his fifteen year old bride, Allie Rainey, came to Matador, then a raw village with a few scattered wooden buildings and plank sidewalks.

The country doctor operated by lamp light, set broken bones on splints he whittled, doctored snake bites, and treated everything from the flu to pneumonia. In a time when midwives and home remedies were the order of the day, often he wasn't called until the patient was seriously ill or dying.

One almost impossible case involved Mrs. Gober of Matador who during the evening's milking was hooked by her cow. With her stomach ripped open, intestines spilled to the ground in the lot. Somehow she managed to gather up her own intestines in her apron, get back to the house, and send for the doctor.

Dr. Traweek worked half the night cleaning cow manure from the perforated intestines and sewing the organs back in place. Considering her injuries, her recovery, in the days before penicillin and antibiotics, was astounding.

Dr. Traweek employed every possible means of transportation to reach his patients in their isolated dugouts, homesteads, and ranches. Before roads he traveled by horseback, his medical instruments stowed in saddle bags.

When cowtrails gave way to wagon ruts he bounced along in a horse-drawn buggy. Once he rode a bicycle over rugged and hilly dirt roads from Floydada to Childress. He even bought a motorcycle in which to make housecalls.

So naturally, the good doctor was among the first to have a new-fangled horseless carriage, a 1907 Bendix which he drove with abandon.

With a twinkle in his eye, he often told of an unwary hitchhiker, riding in a car for the very first time, who bailed out rather than continue the ride.

"I was going along at a pretty good clip, when the fellow said, 'Well, here is where I'm going,' opened the door and jumped out. I had to stop and treat him. It liked to have killed him."

Traveling over the area as he did, Dr. Traweek was among the first to recognize the importance of good roads. Two roads which he and friends established was the one northward to Northfield and another eastward to Paducah.

A progressive citizen, Dr. Traweek supported every movement to improve the economy and commerce of the area. He built the first hospital in the county, a modern, state of the art, two-story brick building.

He was among the first to install a telephone, electric lights, radio, and television. He advocated the building of dams in the streams and rivers west of Matador to provide a source of irrigation and recreation grounds. He was an investor and director of the short-line Motley County Railway.

As county health officer for many years, the physician was responsible for the general well being of the people and the prevention of outbreaks of cholera, typhoid, and other devastating diseases.

In 1947 he warned residents that "a serious danger of typhoid hangs over the town" due to open sewers which produced not only an unbearable stench but a breeding place for disease and mosquitoes.

Rate west Matador property owners stormed a city council meeting when the Southwestern Sewer Co. refused to extend lines to the expanding city and the mayor declared the city had no funds to clean the streets and alleys.

Over the years Dr. Traweek, a graduate of Fort Worth University of Medicine with a medical certificate from Baylor University, kept current with the advancement of medicine by doing post-graduate work at Chicago Polyclinic and New York Polyclinic.

Recognized as an outstanding figure in the medical profession not only in Texas, but outside of the state, he was a Fellow of the American College of Physicians, one of the highest honors in the field of medicine, and a member of the American Medical Association. As a member of the Texas State Medical Society, he served on the Society's House of Delegates for over 40 years. He was very proud to be a long-time member of the Dallas Southern Clinical Society.

A Methodist church member, Traweek was also a charter member of the Matador Lions Club, the Matador Masonic Lodge #824, and the former Chamber of Commerce.

The Traweek children were Albert Carroll Traweek Jr., M.D.; Dr. Mary Traweek Rosenstein Potter (dentist); Lucile Traweek Wells (teacher); John Traweek (died in an auto accident as a young man); Allie Traweek Dockendorff (teacher); and Howard Traweek (attorney).

Eighty-three year old Dr. A.C. Traweek died on January 10, 1959, at Quana Memorial Hospital. The cause of death: pneumonia, an illness he had treated so successfully in his own patients through the years.

Barbara's Bylines

The City Park is beautiful. I hope everyone has driven by the City Park. The newly painted red, white and blue fixtures and new wood on the sea-saws and merry-go-round really look great.

We were told this week that the park is being used, but someone used it Saturday night and left their mess. This City Park is for everyone to use and enjoy but please leave it nice and clean for the next park guests.

I don't know if you have been to any of th Baseball games or not. If you haven't, you have missed seeing some 'cute kids' and delicious food at the Concession Stand. (I have enjoyed the Taco Salads, someone had a good idea for summer food) good work Baseball Moms!

Lots of people taking vacations, some go where it is cooler and some where it is hot, but lots to do. I hope everyone gets to go somewhere for a vacation.

Well it finally turned summer and would you believe everyone is wishing for 'Snow' and it seems I remember when it was snowing, people were wishing it was summer! Are we never satisfied?

It sure is nice to know the Roaring Springs Ranch Club is getting back on it's feet, everything looks so pretty and green and trimmed and clean down there, and the water is still as cold as ever. Hope everyone enjoys their summer.

LIBRARY NOTES

BY JIMMIE HUNTER

Skylar Clifton, Derrick Cruse, Monty Darsey, Andy Paul Jones, Casey Dee Lawrence, Brittany Perryman, Rachelle Renfro, Brenda Gillespie, Hannah Boedecker, Luke Boedecker, T.J. Christopher, Amanda Hurt and her brother, Tommy, Katie Lockhart, Ashley Stevens, and Nicholas Zarate have all joined the Read-To-Me Club and I believe most of them were here Tuesday morning to see the filmstrip "Tatties River Journey," and sing "Bluebird," "Skip to m'Lou," and "Old Roger" with Robin Boedecker and Lola Pohl. Before checking out their books, they each made a pack horse with moveable head, a glued on pack, and a yarn tail. With the help of several mothers, the pieces prepared by Mrs. Lee, went together quickly. Next meeting day, June 28th, they will make a coonskin cap. This was Mont Darsey's first time to attend, so he wanted his dad, Robin, to stay with him, and promised to bring his dad again, so we hope Robin will not be working the morning shift and have to miss. Mr. Darsey realized what wonderful training your children are getting from these gracious volunteers, Mrs. Boedecker, Mrs. Pohl and Mrs. Lee.

We are also pleased to have Dina Patel working with us this summer. We keep her hopping from nine to five. She is so quick to catch on to new duties, and always looking for the next job.

We appreciate the loan of Regina Cruse from her work at the school library to help with the registration of children for the Trailblazers and Stargazers Texas Reading Club of 1988. I don't know whether it was the excellent help or greater space that made registration go so smoothly, but after the bottleneck of registering more than forty children in the American Legion Building last year, Earline Vaughn and I were really impressed with the smooth way thirty five were registered last Thursday. By the time we finished seeing "Anatole and the Piano" and "Tatties River Journey," Regina and Dina already had the registration slips sorted into the proper age group, alphabetized and a list typed. Thank you, girls. Three more young people joined our club today, they are relatives of Mrs. Ossie Brown of Roaring Springs, Chrystal Leday and Chris James of Houston and Lemond Jefferson of Las Vegas, Nevada.

Our display case was not empty long. Joan and Opal Pipkin, with the help of a few bystanders, arranged an intriguing display they titled "Ladies of the Century." It is China plates with portraits of lovely ladies displaying the varied costumes from 1865 to 1965. Dresses in 1965 certainly took a lot less material than the one worn by Scarlet in 1865.

The Library has been well used today. Reading Club at 10:30 a.m. Do Gooders Club from Flomot this afternoon at 2:00 p.m., and a group to organize for caring for the city park at 8:00 tonight. We like to see you taxpayers getting your money's worth. Someone at the management workshop in Midland said, "We shouldn't say it's free at your Library, but it's already paid for, so come in and get your share."

The Stargazers and Trail Blazers met with nine members and they are: Monica Clifton, Robert Gillespie, Dusty Jackson, Devin Perryman, Bert Darsey, Kandi Keltz, Ryan Martin, and Kevin Keltz.

Visitors to the library this week were: Clayt, Becca and Jane Bridge of Afton, Texas; Angela Jefferson of Las Vegas, Nevada; Crystal LeDay of Houston, Texas; Kay Smallwood of LaPryar, Texas; Mike, Frank, and Jama Capshaw of Boise, Idaho; Johnnie and Wm. (Buddy) McCarty from Irving; James and Norma Cooper of Grants, N.M.; Sarah Nell Smith of Paris, Texas; and W.T. and Frances Marshall of Lubbock.

TUBAL INSERTION FOR TOTS' EAR INFECTIONS HAVE PROS AND CONS

Ear infections and the earaches that go along with them are a common early childhood ailment. In the past few years, inserting tubes in a child's ears has become an increasingly common method for dealing with the problem.

Now, however, some physicians are beginning to question this medical procedure. A tube is inserted in one or both ears to allow continuous draining of the blocked ear passage which means the child can hear normally. The tubes stay in for about 6-7 months before dropping out. During this time the ear must be kept out of water.

Reasons for the operation include, of course, ending the infection and relieving the child's earaches. But it's also thought that children with a history of ear infections may also develop problems in the area of speech and language.

Physicians who question the need for the operation express concern about exposing young children to the hazards of anesthesia. They also point to the fact that abnormalities in the eardrum may occur as a result. These doctors argue that children can compensate for a temporary loss of hearing and it should not effect long-term learning.

How can parents tell, then, if the tubal insertion procedure is really necessary? As with all surgical procedures, it's probably wise to consult more than one physician for a second opinion. Be sure to ask about the pros and cons of the procedure in your child's case and what other medical options are also available.

Matador Taxes Show Large Increase

AUSTIN, TX - State Comptroller Bob Bullock said Friday that Texas cities can expect handsome revenue increases from their local sales taxes as the Texas economic recovery continues to pick up steam.

This month's city allocation checks showed a 23.5 percent increase over June 1987, a growth rate too high to attribute to the broadened sales tax base.

"Local governments will continue to see a healthy increase in revenues from their sales taxes as the state's economy mends and consumer confidence grows," Bullock said.

Texas' economic outlook will continue to improve, barring a national recession or a collapse in oil prices, according to Bullock.

Checks totaling $65.1 million were sent to 878 cities that collect local option sales taxes at either one or one and one-half percent.

Since January, the state has sent $465.9 million in local taxes to cities across the state, an increase of 10.3 percent over last year's allocations during the same period.

This increase is too great to be attributed to the Legislature's broadening of the sales tax base, which was estimated to bring in an extra 3.5 percent in local revenues," Bullock said.

Bullock projected that local sales tax revenues statewide will continue to increase at an average rate of more than eight percent a year through 1991.

Bullock said counties that began collecting a half-percent county sales tax in January can also expect to see increasing revenues throughout 1988. Checks totaling $6 million were sent to 80 counties on Friday, Bullock said.

Houston saw the greatest increase in revenue this month - their check of $11.2

million was a whopping 35.6 percent increase over last year's June payment. Dallas' payment of $7.4 million reflected a healthy increase of 18.1 percent, while San Antonio's $3.9 million check grew by 17.7 percent over June 1987.

El Paso County received the largest payment totaling $870,828. Jefferson County's check of $556,464 was the second largest, and the third largest payment, $459,637, went to Lubbock County.

Bullock said the state's six metropolitan transit authorities received $28.8 million in June allocations, an increase of 18.4 percent over last year's payments.

El Paso received the first allocation check this month for the city transit department tax, which went into effect on April 1 this year. June's allocation payment was $684,508.

The MTA's and the CTD should continue to see an increase in revenues along with the cities and counties, Bullock said.

For Motley County the totals are as follows:

Matador: net payment this period, $2,436.57; comparable payment prior year, $786.03; % change, 209.98%; 1988 payments to date, $12,657.63; 1987 payments to date, $10,878.29; % change, 16.36%.

Roaring Springs: net payment this period, $524.38; comparable payment prior year, $0.00; % change *, 1988 payments to date, $5,581.09; 1987 payments to date, $5,265.92; % change, 5.99%.

County total: net payment this period, $2,960.95; comparable payment prior year, $786.03; % change, 276.70%; 1988 payments to date, $18,238.72; 1987 payments to date, $16,144.21; % change, 12.97%.

READER'S COLUMN

The Way It Was

by Emmitt Jenkins

As prohibition was still in force, the law officers were kept busy trying to catch the boot leggers, and locate the Whiskey stills, the source of the Corn liquor. It was a Penitentiary offence to be caught selling or to be in possession of a pint of "Corn Whiskey."

In the late 20's, a big still was raided, not too far from Matador. The news spread around town. There was a rush to go see. I have no idea how many cars were in the Stampede, but I was in my Model T Ford, going where the excitement was.

The law officers included the local Sheriff, deputy, and the Texas Rangers. The still was a large one, capable of producing a lot of the forbidden nectar.

They poured out the mash that was fermenting, in fifty gallon barrels. It must have been very potent as there were several hogs that had eaten some of the mash and they were pretty well inebriated. They would walk a few steps, then lose their mobility, fall and squeal. I sorta felt sorry for them. We could not tell if they were happy or sick.

I know of a man who was sent to the Penitentiary for possession of a pint of liquor. If everyone had been caught, that at one time possessed liquor, a large segment of the population would have been branded as criminals and sent to prison.

A lot of people died, or were crippled from drinking wood alcohol, artificial Jamaica ginger, (Jake), which brought paralysis in the hands and feet, from which they never recovered. Some were blinded from the wood alcohol.

Home brew was a very popular drink in those days. It did not take much of an outlay to get into business. A five or ten gallon crock jar. Some yeast, sugar and whatever they could think of, to put in it, some brown bottles and a bottle capper. They called it "Setting the Hen."

While working in Burk Burnett, one of my fellow barbers had bottled his beer, a little premature. His house was on a high foundation, so he stored his concoction way back under the house.

He came back from lunch one day. He was scared half to death. The day was hot and the bottles had begun to explode. He tried to crawl under the house to retrieve them, and one would explode, sounding like a pistol shot. The glass would fly and he would have to back off. Knowing the penalty if he was caught, he thought he was really in trouble. Finally it self destructed. The law men did not hear and the good neighbors "did not tell."

It was not uncommon to see fights on the street. New kids from the country were "picked on" one had to fight or run. If they would fight, win or lose, they were accepted. People in this day and time have the knack of getting along with each other, much better than they did, in those days.

That was the way it was in the "Roaring Twenties"

Then came the financial collapse in 1929 and the "great depression".

In 1929, everything was still going at a fast clip. Then things began to happen. The few people who owned a radio could hear it, but did not realize what was going on. All one could hear was the Stock Market Crash.

As I have said before, the 20's was a gambling area. People who borrowed and were buying on a small margin, were the first to go. Stocks began plummeting. The rich had to put up more money to save their stock. The bottom fell out. Many who had lost their life savings, could not bear the thought of poverty, and ended it all, one way or another. To my knowledge, no one here was involved, but we reaped the results of the crash, along with the others.

The Banks began to fail. Almost everyone in this area, except the First State Bank, Matador.

Very few people had money. Everything was cheap, but we had no money to buy.

The barber business had hit bottom. We cut the price of haircuts to thirty-five cents. That did not help.

At Plainview, there were "Price Wars". Haircuts were ten cents and a shave was five cents. They were getting Lockney's business, so Lockney went "for free".

One day I had sat, to around 3 o'clock. Not a customer. I went out to Johnny Vaughn's farm. Cotton pulling was twenty-five cents per hundred. I pulled one hundred and thirteen pounds, and came to town. I decided that was a poor way to earn a living. The pay was twenty-nine cents. I got the exact amount. "Not one penny more."

The pay was one dollar per day, for cutting concrete. There was a bridge being built, on the river between Matador and Whiteflat, one of the barbers worked there awhile. There were no concrete mixers, it was all done by hand.

There were still crowds of people in town, on Saturday, but they had no money.

We would stand and look out the window. Very few came in the shop. You could see every kind of haircut. Some had hand clippers, but did not know how to use them.

Some of the wives used sewing scissors, to cut their husband's hair. A few were shaved all around to the crown of the head. Many were not cut.

Remember When

By Annie B. Cloyd
Box 22
Flomot, TX 79234

Hello Neighbors, I have gotten so many nice letters and some have wondered why I missed a week or so and didn't get my writing in the paper. Well, I'm sorry about that, but Leon was in the hospital for a while and, even though he is home now, he is not very well and I just didn't take the time to do much writing. I will try to do better now.

Mrs. Elizabeth Black wanted to know if I was on vacation. She hoped I would take one and come to Tennessee for a visit. That would be nice. Mrs. Allen Matthews, of Turkey called and said she is having the Tribune sent to her son, Rodney Hammonds, and he sent me word to just keep up the good work. Another letter came from Matador from Mrs. Luther Green and she said that Luther's mother could remember lots of things that I and our readers would get great fun out of reading. I hope to visit with her soon. It's fun to hear from all of you. Keep writing.

Not only have we gotten all these nice letters about "Remember When" but we have a great number of 'cheer' and 'get well' cards as well as cards that say 'we are thinking of you' and we thank you all. It's so good to be remembered. Thanks for all the good food you brought to us too.

Mrs. Frank Pohl sent such a nice note of remembrance. I think her writing is so beautiful. I still have the book she made for us when these great friends of our's gave us the 'House Warming' so many years ago. I had it out just the other day looking and thinking about the fun we all had. All of these 'keepsakes' are in the cedar chest and in looking for something else, I found that book and took up a lot of time just looking back and remembering. Thanks again, Lola and Frank.

Not only have we received cards and letters but so many folks have come to visit and would you believe - the one afternoon that Leon felt like riding around - why, we had someone come by and leave me a lot of magazines about "Old Times and Old Things". I do want to thank you for them. Evelyn Garrison from Matador had told me she had them for me and when I didn't get by her house - well - she brought them by and I'm sorry we were gone. They sure do have some good stuff in them and I'll read them from cover to cover and may get some of it in my 'remember when' for you to enjoy along with me.

Will stop for now but I'll be back next week and we'll think about some more good old times.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Barbara,

Had two Tribunes waiting for me at home when returned recently from visit with my youngest son in Dallas. Enjoyed so much the recent articles on Leon Ice Co. and Schweitzer Saddle Shop. They were both most important parts of Matador Living when I was younger and lived there and worked in the old Magnolia Cafe, across from Ice House. Yes there was always something "going on" across the way at the Ice Dock.

Please send to me a copy of "Recollections". Enclosed find check. Some of my happiest memories during High School were of going out to his house and spending nights. He helped me with my debating team work. And when I used my notes from discussions with him, we usually won.

Thank you,
Madge Nichols Renfro

Dear Barbara,

The Motley County Tribune continues to be enjoyed and appreciated.

Emmett Jenkins has several attributes on his side - longevity, excellent memory, the desire to let us all know "how it was" with a unique ability to express himself. I can visualize each incident. Keep the stories coming, Emmett.

The letter from Mr. Sanders was very touching. We all learn a lot when we keep parents and attempt to look after them, don't we.

Enclosed is my check for another year.

DPS Says Check Vehicles Before Leaving For Vacation

Vacation time means fun time. With the warm weather and the green foliage in abundance, the citizens of the State of Texas will be enjoying their vacations at the many different areas that this great state has to offer. With the additional people on our streets and highways, there are additional precautions that need to be taken also.

Before leaving on long trips, we need to take a little time to check over our vehicles. Vacations are no time for a breakdown. So, checking simple items such as tires, cooling system, battery, belts, and hoses can prevent unwanted and unnecessary breakdowns. But, nothing can spoil a vacation anymore than having an accident. Major Vernon Cawthon, Regional Commander of the Texas

Department of Public Safety stated, "The number of vehicles on Texas highways is increasing each year and unfortunately, traffic accidents are increasing also."

The best defense against accidents is to always be a defensive driver, obey the speed limits, and wear your safety belts. Major Cawthon stated, "We, as members of the Texas Department of Public Safety want each and everyone of you to enjoy your vacations. Therefore, we urge you to always stay alert, always being mindful of the other driver, take frequent rest stops on long trips, and obey all traffic rules and regulations."

The Troopers of the Texas Department of Public Safety want the summer of '88 to be the safest yet for the Texas motorist. Please drive friendly and have a good vacation!

1988 Pecan Problems

Are your pecans shedding? Pecan growers across Texas are loosing their crop because of drought. The 1988 state crop was only average after pollination and now the trees are shedding additional pecans to compensate for water shortage. If rains or irrigation do not come, nuts will continue to shed. Pecans require one ounce of water per week and three weeks is the maximum period they can go without shedding. Orchards or door yard trees with shallow clay soil, poor weed control or crowding would shed all of their pecans if rain does not come.

Shoot die back on young pecan trees is being reported from Oklahoma to South Texas. This is due to the freeze on March 16-17, 1988. It was very warm prior to the freeze and young trees had active sap and freeze injury to the cambium tissue resulted. The buds were not hurt and new shoots appeared normal for six weeks.

We have had no reports on large trees. The healthier young trees appear to be damaged the most. The freeze injury was severe and tree death resulted in several cases where nitrogen was applied late in the 1987 season. Pecan growers should not use nitrogen on young trees after the month of June, because it can keep the sap active late into the winter and freeze injury could result. Shoot die back from freeze injury can appear as late as July. It is also possible for three separate shoots to develop, then die, from the same node before the main limb dies.

Do not prune out freeze injured limbs until new growth is clearly established and strong. It is best to reduce zinc and nitrogen on young freeze injured trees. By slowing growth, injured cambium tissue can repair sufficiently to keep the remaining new shoots healthy.

When To Water... A Real Mystery

By Dr. Sam Cotner,
Extension Horticulturist-Vegetables
College Station

It's safe to say that successful gardening in most areas of Texas depends upon a good source of water. Although gardens can be grown "dry land", the chance of success with vegetable gardening is greatly increased if a water faucet is nearby.

To many, one of the most enjoyable aspects of home gardening is watering. It can be quite enjoyable to see garden vegetables respond to a "drink" during the heat of mid-summer. Despite the fact that watering can be a great deal of fun, it is often associated with many problems. Many of the things which can plague gardens each year such as bitter fruit, sunscald, disease problems, poor fertility, poor quality, poor yields, and a dozen other things, can be related to poor and improper watering.

Many Texans enjoy watering their gardens after a hard day's work of just as a form of relaxation. So it is not at all unusual that many gardens get watered two, three, or more times a week. Unfortunately, in most cases, this is one of the worst things gardeners can do since it can result in poor root development and reduced yields.

Light, frequent waterings have a tendency to cause a concentration of roots in the top inch or two of the soil. This type of "limited" root system does not pose any real serious problem early in the season when plants are young and sufficient moisture is generally available. However, as the season progresses and moisture becomes less and less available, the gardener may be forced to water several times a week just to keep plants from wilting severely. This practice results in insufficient nutrient uptake, poor growth, and disease problems.

Water the garden not by looking at the plants but rather by examining the soil. Look at the soil surface. If it appears dry, then scratch to a depth of one to two inches to determine if soil moisture is present. If the soil is relatively dry beneath the surface, then watering is necessary. If sufficient moisture is available, wait a couple of days before applying additional water. Another point to consider is the garden soil. Obviously a sandy soil that drains well will require more frequent watering than a heavy soil which hold water.

How much water to apply is another mystery that confronts gardeners. The amount of water to apply must be determined for each and every garden. Apply enough water until you feel your garden is well watered. Then, take a sharpshooter or shovel and dig down to see if the soil is wet to a depth of at least six inches. If the soil is wet at that depth, you have watered enough. If it is relatively dry, then water some more. After doing this a couple of times, experience will tell you when you have watered enough.

How you water the garden is important, but adequate watering at the right time and in the right amount is more important than the method used. Most gardeners prefer the furrow or flood system as a means of applying water. Others prefer to use a sprinkler.

There are advantages and disadvantages to each method. The primary advantage of flood or furrow watering is that individual rows can be watered while this is not generally possible with a sprinkler. The main advantage with a sprinkler is that large areas of a garden can be watered without moving the hose from row to row or from area to area. One disadvantage of the sprinkler system is that wet foliage can lead to disease problems. If a sprinkler is used, water in the morning to allow foliage to dry off before cooler evening temperatures set in.

Another method gaining in popularity is drip or trickle irrigation. This system is an effective and efficient means of watering a vegetable garden, but its initial cost may be high.

Proper use of water in a garden will be reflected in the amount of fresh produce taken from the garden to the kitchen.

Mrs. Hunter concluded the program showing slides of the Centennial Birthday celebration of the Texas State Capitol that she and Mr.

Hunter attended in May.

Have You Ever Noticed Poems Hardly Rhyme No More?

By H. Soltwisch

*Some people are overlooked,
Some people are looked over;
Some people are looked up to,
Some are looked down on.
Some are included,
Some are excluded,
Some people are boss,
Some are just bossy.
Some people sing from the heart,
While others sing from the mouth;
Some know the difference,
Others don't.
Some never take time to smell the roses,
Others plant them.
God knows your heart,
No one else does.
Have you ever noticed,
poems hardly rhyme no more??*

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has adopted requirements that all public water systems notify their customers about lead exposure. This notification is intended to educate and inform consumers on this issue in light of the fact that your drinking water may be a potential source of lead exposure. This is being done even though your water system is not in violation of the current standard. There are also other potential sources of lead contamination in the environment.

The following specific language is required by EPA in this notice:
The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets drinking water standards and has determined that lead is a health concern at certain levels of exposure. There is currently a standard of 0.050 parts per million (ppm). Based on new health information, EPA is likely to lower this standard significantly.

Part of the purpose of this notice is to inform you of the potential adverse health effects of lead. This is being done even though your water may not be in violation of the current standard.

EPA and others are concerned about lead in drinking water. Too much lead in the human body can cause serious damage to the brain, kidneys, nervous system, and red blood cells. The greatest risk, even with short-term exposure, is to young children and pregnant women.

Lead levels in your drinking water are likely to be highest:

1. if your home or water system has lead pipes, or
2. if your home has copper pipes with lead solder, and
 - if the home is less than five years old,
 - if you have soft or acidic water, or
 - if water sits in the pipes for several hours.

Ways to avoid potential lead exposure are to "flush" faucets before use and to use cold water for drinking and cooking. You may wish to have your home tap water tested for lead content by a competent laboratory. You may also wish to check to see if lead pipes, solder, or flux were used in your home plumbing.
