A Second Glance

By Leon Watson

As Paul Harvey said, "Nobody, but nobody, is in favor of the metric system. Whatever happened to government by the people?"

Amen, Paul. And why is there a movement to get the U.S. changed over to the metric system? Because wealthy world merchants want to make easier their world trade, and to heck with the people.

And why weren't the farmers given parity? Through American Agriculture strike offices across the nation and farmers who went to Washington in January, including some of my family, we have become alerted to an organization called the Trilateral Commission, established in 1973 by the Rockefellers, the major Eastern banks and those of Western Europe and Japan, and political and multi-national corporate leaders.

According to the Congressional Record, Jimmy Carter, himself David Rockefeller's handpicked man, has filled key cabinet posts with fellow Trilateral members, including the Commission's "brainchild" Zbigniew Brzezinski, our National Security Advisor.

Among the Trilateralists who were recently advising the President, and may still be, are Vice President Walter Mondale, Sec. of State Cyrus Vance, Sec. of Defense Harold Brown, Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, Ambassador to the U.N. Andrew Young, and Senator Herman Talmadge, who is chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee. Sec. of Agriculture Robert Bergland is suspected of also being a Trilateral member.

Carter's political strategy so far has been in complete harmony with the aims of the Trilateral Commission, and we have learned that the President, on Oct. 5, 1977, signed two U.N. treaties which will commit the U.S. to giving up our constitutional right to own private property, and our constitutional right to keep the government from confiscating private property without compensation.

These perfidious Human Rights Covenants . . . the U.N. Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, and the U.N. Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights . . . are a direct violation of the 5th and 14th Amendments.

Several farmers visiting Washington were told that the U.S. would be under communism by the later part of 1979. The agriculture of the U.S. will be under the absolute control of the Trilateralist government, which will use cheap food as a tool to manipulate foreign policy to suit its own objectives. Parity for agriculture would mean a major setback in their economic takeover plan. Rather than allow the farmer a break-even price in the marketplace, Carter is doggedly pursuing subsidizing the farmers' loss out of the U.S. Treasury, i.e., the taxpayer's pocket.

Carter is selling out the U.S., and his price tag is the Presidency. But the farmers do not have a price tag on the integrity of the country, and American Agriculture is not merely seeking to fill the farmer's pocket, but has become a last-ditch weapon against an insidious group of powerful, greedy men who will ultimately cut their own throats as well as ours if they do achieve their objectives of socialist world power.

Don't sell the American farmer short. He is the last bulwark if the U.S. is to remain a democracy.

My thanks to Jan Turner, Friona, Texas, for her hours of research in the Congressional Record, where Honorable Larry McDonald, Rep. from Georgia, has recorded the facts about the Trilateral Commission.

Plans Advance For Class Reunions

Plans are advancing for several class reunions during Homecoming for Motley County Ex-Students and Teachers. Dates for this event are set for October 20 - 21.

Extensive plans are underway for the 40th reunion of the Matador High School class of 1938, with Jack Robinson Jr., of Arlington, Tex., promoting the activities.

The retired Lt. Col. of the US Air Force has acquired addresses of members of the class and has mailed letters urging that all attend. The letters have gone out to everyone in the class or to family members to be forwarded.

"I have already had to cancel plans for a week end in Houston in order to make the reunion," he writes. "I plan to spend both days in Matador. I do not want to miss anything . . . I hope you will make similar plans. Wouldn't it be neat if we could have a contest to see who could call the name of each member of the class on first sight. I doubt this would be possible and I am sure most of us will have some trouble. After all, forty years is a long time (in terms of wrinkles, fat, gray hair, etc.)"

Plans for a combined reunion of classes 1951 - 1956 were put in motion recently by Marlene Bailey Hamn of Waco (class of 1953) and are being followed up by Cora Bostick Smallwood, also of that class; Janie Norman Hardin, class of 1955, and Lucretia Edwards Campbell, class of 1956.

Any assistance given these persons in providing addresses, will be appreciated. Hazel Walton Donovan, secretary of the Matador Ex-Students Association also needs any and all address changes that have become effective since last year. Due to increasing postage rates, the association always suffers a loss when letters are returned unclaimed, from an existing address, she pointed out.

Registration Set

Registration for Motley County High School will be held on August 23. Seniors will register at 1:00; Juniors at 2:00; Sophomores at 3:00 and Freshmen at 3:30.

Classes will begin on Monday, August 28.

Resident's Parents In Albany Flood

The roaring, swirling and muddy flood waters at Albany struck close to home when Mrs. Kenneth Thompson learned her parents were at the Hubbard Creek recreation area with their pickup, trailer and boat when the flood hit. They spent the next 15 hours, or so, surrounded by the killing water, which left more than 20 people dead in Central Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Thomas of Jayton were in their trailer near the lake and at about midnight they heard the water. They grabbed clothes, and life jackets, but there were no lights in the trailer by this time, and it was dark.

"They stepped out of the trailer and the water was already over their knees," Mrs. Thompson told the Tribune Tuesday. "It was dark so they held hands and ran across to a boat house and service station. It was about 75 yards away and by the time they got there the water was up to their waists."

When they reached the boat house they found eight more people there, and the men secured a ladder to a tree and they all climbed to the top. There they were marooned in the cold rain until after noon the next day.

"At one time they thought the station was going to wash away," Mrs. Thompson said. "There were some large trees beside the station and they grabbed the trees in case the building went."

The Thomas's trailer was washed down the creek, then crushed by another camper and a building. The pickup washed completely away.

"They got to know one couple they were camping near pretty well," Mrs. Thompson said. "That couple still has not been found. But mother said she was never scared. There were so many people that lost their homes, and my parents said at least they had a home to come back to."

Thirty Albany homes were destroyed, leaving 150 people homeless. National Guardsmen had moved into the area quickly but couldn't enter the town of Albany because of high water. By the next morning Guard and Police helicopters began plucking people from tree tops, houses, and oil rigs. One helicopter lifted the people from the top of the station and took them to some high ground, but was unable to help them any more because they were so busy. Twenty six persons were rescued by the helicopters that day alone.

The Thompsons were going back to Hubbard Lake this week to see if they could find anything of the pickup and other belongings.

Other girls entered are Darla Dempsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dempsey; Susannah Woodruff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Woodruff; Sherrie Doran, daughter of Lonnie Doran and Mrs. Darnell Doran of Dickens; and Gaya Santos.

The contestants are selling saddle tickets for the Alvin Durham Saddle, and the one who sells the most tickets will be declared 1978 Rodeo Queen of Old Settlers.

Any girl in Motley or Dickens Counties and in school is eligible to enter the queens contest. Each candidate gets ten per cent of the saddle tickets she sells and the winner will also receive a sterling silver queens belt buckle.

The Rodeo will be held at the rodeo grounds at Roaring Springs on August 24, 25 and 26 with performances beginning at 8:30 nightly. Crowning of the rodeo queen will be Saturday night, August 26.

There will be two dances each night. Free dancing will be held each afternoon with Leon Rausch and the Playboys.

Two saddles will be given away during the rodeo. One is the Old Men's saddle made by Eddie Collie of Amarillo, and the other is the Drawing Saddle made by Alvin Durham of Roaring Springs.

Candidates Needed For Student Council

Any Senior interested in running for student body president is asked to contact the principal, Dean Stotts, before school starts. You may come by the school any time Monday through Friday from 9:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m.

These officers from each class, along with the Representative and Student body president will make up the Student Council.

KENNEY AND TERRI KIRK

New Pastor At Methodist Church

Kenney Kirk has assumed duties as the new pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Matador effective August 1. He received the appointment to the Matador - Roaring Springs Charge one week before the church building roof caved in.

"This is my first full time church," he said. "I had a student church while at McMurry College."

Kenney and his wife, Terri, moved into their new home here on August 1. They both graduated from McMurry in 1975, then he attended Asbury Seminar in Kentucky.

"The District Superintendent said I was the first pastor to come directly out of seminar and be faced with a major building project," he said. "They also say that I am the youngest."

Kenney is 26, his wife, 24. They have no children. They are small town West Texas people who like to walk down town and visit people.

"I graduated from Seagraves in 1970," he said "Terri is from Brownfield."

Kenney is the youngest of three children. His oldest brother, George, is a coach at Kline, just outside Houston, and his sister Jann Moore, is with the Post Office at Seagraves. His parents now live in Brownfield.

Terri's parents live in Plainview, where her father works for the hospital, as a Pharmacy technician.

"We are trying to get unpacked, settled," he said. "We have been here a week and Matador is already home to us. The people are so nice."

Kenney said he never found himself apprehensive about moving here, even when he was told the church building no longer was standing. He said he found the job exciting.

"The building was lost, but the church still stands. The church still meets and her members are close. One thing I like about Matador is that the people are close. People who are not Methodist have helped us. One of the first persons to welcome me here was the pastor of the Baptist Church."

At this point Kenney says the lawyers and insurance personnel are 90 per cent sure they are not going to pay off for the building, stating that building fatigue was the cause of the cave in. Church members are preparing to clear debris in order to tell what kind of condition the old building is in and to see what the basement foundation looks like.

Kenney said he had a challenge ahead of him, and he believes that the Lord had a purpose in him being sent to Matador.

Rites Set For Marvin Vaughn

Rites for Marvin Vaughn, will be at 11 a.m. Thursday (today) at the First Baptist Church, Matador. Mr. Vaughn died Monday August 7 in Dallas after a lengthy illness.

Survivors include his wife, Earlyne; one son, Key Vaughn of Lubbock; one daughter Mrs. George Tsagaris of El Paso; two brothers, Wayne and George; and two grandchildren.

Jaycees To Meet

The Matador Jaycees will meet tonight, Thursday, August 10, at 8:00 in the Jaycee Building.

Sleeping Sickness Confirmed Here

Two cases of "sleeping sickness" have been confirmed in Motley County, according to County Agent Bill Pallmeyer.

Dr. Tommie Green of Midland and Jimmie Don Green of Lubbock, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Green, were fishing on a tank west of Matador on July 22, and were reported to have been covered by mosquitos. Jimmie Don became sick on the 27th and Tommie came down with the illness on the 28th. Both cases were confirmed by physicians.

"This illness can kill people," Pallmeyer told the Tribune last week. "It is spread by mosquitos only. In the case of the Green boys we have a mighty short incubation period, from the 22nd to the 27th. These mosquitos, the carriers of the illness, could spread to other parts of the county, and prevention is better than the cure. We are encouraging the vaccination of horses against this disease."

Pallmeyer said the symptoms of a human with encephalitic or sleeping sickness, were severe headaches and drowsiness. When a horse comes down with the disease, he will start to stagger, want lots of water because of the accompanying fever, get down and can't get up, and finally began to slam his head on the ground.

"The Lubbock Health Department came over to set out mosquito traps," Pallmeyer said. "We set out traps in the city and out at the tank. If we can find out what kind of mosquitos are at the tank, the carriers, we can tell more about their movement. We pretty well know what mosquitos we have here, but a west wind could blow the carriers into the city. The city is fogging the area to help kill them."

As of early this week the health officials hadn't been able to identify a certain type of carrier. Plans are now to wait until the rainy period is over again, and wait for a hatch of new eggs before trying to catch more mosquitos.

Plans Finalized For Old Settlers Reunion

Motley and Dickens Old Settlers Association announced the plans for the 55th annual reunion, August 24, 25, and 26. Plans were finalized at a recent meeting of the directors, Robert Forbis, Gary Bridge, and John Warren from Dickens County; Bill Peacock, President, J. N. Fletcher Sec. and Treas. Morris Stephens and Don Warren of Motley County.

The parade and rodeo will be the feature of the 55th annual reunion. The parade is scheduled to start at 10 a.m. Thursday, August 24 in downtown Roaring Springs, according to Robert Forbis, parade chairman. Horses with empty saddles with name banners attached to them led by family members will be in tribute to various deceased pioneers and cowboys.

Bands, riding clubs, floats, cowboys and cowgirls, decorated bicycles, antique cars are invited to participate in the parade.

Rodeo performers will vie for spurs, buckles, bits and a saddle according to Morris Stevens, rodeo chairman. The Old Men's Roping Saddle was made by Eddie Collie of Amarillo. The bits and spurs were made by Ed Sims of Uvalde. The rodeo stock will be furnished by Freddie Cordel of the C.C. Rodeo Co. of Childress.

Saddle tickets are being sold by Rodeo Queen Candidates and the winner will be announced Saturday night. This saddle was made by Alvin Durham of Roaring Springs.

There will be a calf Scramble each night for kids 8 years and under.

Dances will be held each afternoon and night according to Don Warren, chairman of the dances.

It was also announced by the parade chairman that the parking space in front of the Pioneer pavilion is to be reserved for handicapped persons, who have had trouble in the past, in finding a place to park.

District Results On 4-H Record Books

Ten Motley County 4-H members submitted records for judging, and the following report was received relative to placing.

SENIOR: Kay Phillips, Matador, 1st in Consumer Education; Shannon Jameson, Matador, 2nd in Agriculture; James Stephens, Barbara Durham and Sharlene Smith, Matador, didn't place in Beef, Foods-Nutrition and Clothing.

JUNIOR: Wade Vandiver, Matador, Photography; Deanna Durham, Matador, Clothing; Kim Hand, Roaring Springs, Clothing; Karl Pallmeyer, Matador, Conservation of Natural Resources, Red Awards; Tammie Brown, Matador, Foods-Nutrition, White Award.

Winning records in the senior division are judged for state honors, with state winners receiving trips to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago, Scholarships and other awards. To be eligible for the Gold Star Award, the highest award given in the county, some type of record must be submitted, with the Design for Discovery forms the minimum to establish eligibility.

Junior records are not placed, but are graded for blue, red or white awards, as the main reason for junior records is to train members how to keep records for competition as seniors.

County Agent Pallmeyer Says

BENEFICIAL INSECTS: No one will deny that there are some beneficial insects, but let's stop and see how they work.

Trichogramma minutum wasps are being released in fields by many to control cotton insects, but if you read how these beneficials work, can they control worms that are already in the field? It is stated that these wasps parasitize worm eggs, and that several may emerge from an egg the size of a pinhead. One wasp may lay several hundred eggs, but are you preventing a worm hatch, or controlling worms that are present in the field doing damage now? The 1952 Yearbook of Agriculture goes on to say that if eggs are not present, the wasps will move or die.

Another paragraph says that "Yellow Jackets" are the main feeders on worms (corn earworm, armyworm, etc.) but the nuisance of these wasps more than outweigh the benefits.

Still another paragraph states that many parasites attack other beneficial insects and are known as "secondary parasites".

Now to LADYBUGS: The book states that the Ladybug larva are the main feeders on aphids, eggs and small worms, with the adult only doing limited feeding.

What type Ladybugs do you buy, larva or adult? When Ladybugs are released, the first thing they do is fly, and where they light, no one can tell. Second, after mating, it takes 7 to 9 days for the eggs to hatch, and the larva feed from 20 to 31 days. If worms are present, can you wait 7 to 9 days before applying controls? Application of these beneficials is the same as for wasps. If food is not present, they either die, or have to move.

All tests using beneficials for insect control are inconclusive, but one thing you can rely on, if there are no beneficials in the field, there is no food there for them, or they have been killed by insecticides. If food is there, they will find it, for they have to feed to live.

Remember the "bug catcher" which appeared on the market about 30 years ago? What were the main kind of insects it caught, harmful or beneficial?

Also try to remember what type of insect has the equipment to get to the boll weevil egg or larva that is sealed up in the cotton boll?

What I am trying to say, is don't waste your time looking for the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. It isn't there! Ask yourself, who are beneficial insects benefitting? The seller, the purchaser or the entomologist. When nature provides the beneficials at the correct time, they are beneficial for the producer, but don't try to help Mother Nature, she doesn't need it! All through history and the Bible we read about insect outbreaks, and I don't look for this to change in the next 100 years.

Today I received the latest Foreign Agriculture Circular on coffee production, and it states that the world coffee crop estimate is up 6 million bags. Do you think this will cause coffee to go down under the controlled market we have today?

RECENT VISITOR
Mrs. Zelma Crump was recently visited by her grandson 2Lt. Payton Fletcher, of Fort Sill, Oklahoma. Lt. Fletcher graduated in June with a BA Degree in Political Science (Pre Law), from the University of Georgia, Athens. He received a Regular Army Commission, Field Artillery, in the U.S. Army, and Senior of the Year award from his fraternity Zeta Beta Tau. Lt. Fletcher is the son of Maj. & Mrs. Bob Fletcher (Ret) of Columbus, Georgia, and began his schooling in Matador, at Miss V. Reeve's private school.

FACTS & FIGURES

The United States has more telephones than any other country in the world. For every 1,000 persons in America, there are 676.5 telephones, or about 144 million all together.

Many phones come from independent telephone companies, such as those in the North American Telephone Association. Though the Bell System has $80 million in assets, it's backing a proposal in Congress that would keep these companies from continuing to compete.

The Federal Communications Commission ordered competition in order to lower consumer prices and to increase consumer options. However, the FCC has reported that the Bell System may be overcharging residential and other basic service customers by $2.25 billion a year in a price war aimed at weakening consumer options. Statistically the overcharge means consumers may be paying $17.78 more for each telephone per year than Bell System costs warrant.

A recent study showed that people who ate within two hours of food shopping bought an average of $7.48 less than they did shopping when hungry.

Employees are Told To Report Cash Tips

Employees who receive cash tips as part of all of their wages have to meet certain responsibilities under the social security law, a social security spokesperson said today.

A record must be kept of all cash tips received by an employee. And, if those cash tips amount to $20 or more in a month working for one employer, the employee must report those tips to the employer. The tip report is due within 10 days after the end of the month in which the tips were received, although an employer can require the worker to report more often.

The representative cautioned that only cash tips must be reported. Tips received in a form other than cash, such as passes, tickets, or merchandise, do not count.

If tips are pooled or shared, only the amount finally received by each worker counts and must be reported.

The Internal Revenue Service has a special form—Form 4070—for reporting tips, which is available at any IRS office. IRS also has a booklet—Booklet 5635—which can be used to keep necessary records.

Other forms can be used, but they must contain the same information as Form 4070. Employers may provide forms or have employees report tips by signing a time card, check stub, or some other document. If this is done, the employer should give employees a statement for their records showing the amount of tips reported.

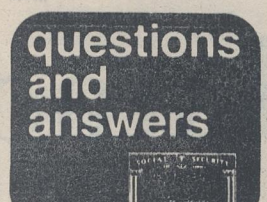

Employees will collect the social security contributions due on reported tips from the employees. He or she can deduct the amount due from regular wages, or the employee can give the employer money.

If the employer collects or withholds too much money, it should be refunded to the employees.

Employees who do not report all their tips to the employer will have to report them directly to IRS when they file their Federal income tax return. The report is made on Form 4137, available at any IRS office.

Social security has a leaflet, Social security and cash tips, which gives full information about reporting tips.

Free copies of this leaflet can be obtained by writing, calling, or visiting any social security office. The address and telephone number of the nearest office can be found in the telephone directory under "Social Security Administration."

Q. My mother recently had a major operation, and the doctor says she'll need a wheelchair and oxygen equipment when she comes home. Will Medicare cover these items?

A. Medicare medical insurance can help pay for durable medical equipment, such as wheelchairs and oxygen equipment, for use in a patient's home if a doctor prescribes it. Your mother can either rent or buy this equipment. For more information, she should read her Medicare handbook or call a social security office.

A. S. MORRIS FAMILY VIEW RELATIVE ON TV

The A. S. Morris family reunion was held August 5-6 at the Flomot Community Center in Flomot. Family members saw their relative, Mrs. Boyd Morris of Bandera, being interviewed on the 6 o'clock and 10 o'clock p.m. Amarillo TV channel news-cast, Saturday night that was filmed following the rampaging flood in Bandera County. The 20 foot wall of water that boiled over the bank of the Guadalupe River completely destroyed Mr. and Mrs. Morris's mobile home, two cars and personal belongings. They informed the relatives by telephone that they escaped the unexpected disaster with only the clothes they were wearing. At that time, 36 inches of rain had fallen.

Those attending the family reunion were Mrs. Gail Prather and daughters of Anchorage, Alaska; Mrs. Jay Barham, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Davis and twin daughters of Hart; Mrs. Nell Ingram of Dimmitt; Kathy Levacy and son of Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. Steve Barrett and children of Claytonville; Mr. and Mrs. R. ## Farm & Ranch News

Questionnaires Completed By Motley Farmers

Farmers in Motley County have been doubling as statisticians in completing questionnaires which become essential links in the sophisticated economic structure of Texas agriculture, Commissioner Reagan V. Brown said.

The county's producers were part of some 30,000 farmers across the state who recently responded to the mid-year survey on summer acreage and production conducted by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. The results of the survey will be issued in an August 10 crop report which is available free of charge.

"Without the availability of unbiased, accurate figures through cooperation between Texas farmers and the Reporting Service, business and government agents from one end of the state to the other would suffer in their ability to predict coming trends and act accordingly," Commissioner Brown said.

He explained that farmers themselves use the estimates as working tools in determining upcoming production decisions. At the same time, the information is used by farm organizations and legislators in planning and administering programs, by extension economists and private farm management consultants in advising farmers, and by almost every link in the agriculture service industry in allocating resources.

Banks and investment corporations also round out their economic profiles of counties through the use of the crop and livestock statistics.

"From the individual who sells fertilizers or designates railroad car placements to the government agent who makes decisions on crop payment programs, everyone in the agricultural production chain needs and uses the information made available through this continuing cooperative effort," Brown said.

"And at the bottom line, of course, is the agricultural product consumer, who reaps the benefits of a more informed agricultural industry, better able to minimize the drastic ups and downs which can translate into unpredictable supplies and prices," Brown concluded.

Former Resident's Daughter Is Named Rodeo Royalty

Miss Kay Durham, willow 21-year-old legal secretary and Heavener High School graduate, Friday night was named Miss Poteau Frontier Rodeo for 1978 as the 24th annual Poteau Frontier Celebration headed into its final big day of activity. Jim Mixon, chairman for the sponsoring Poteau Chamber of Commerce, reported Saturday.

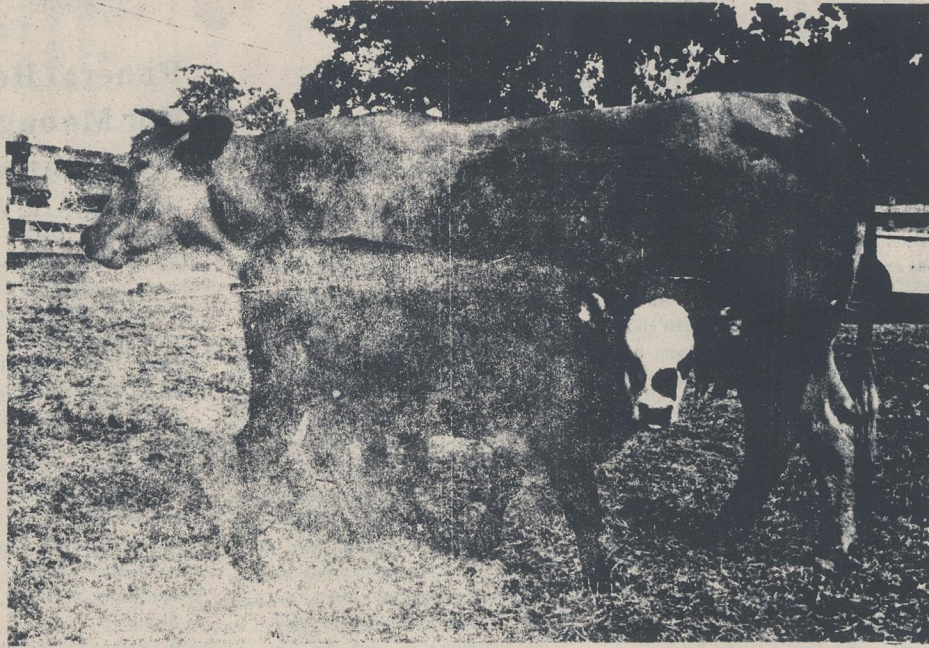

First runner-up to Sherrie Luker a year ago, Miss Durham returned to the pageant this year to take top honors. She will represent Oklahoma at the National IRA Finals Rodeo in Tulsa next winter to compete for the Miss Rodeo USA title, under sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce, according to President Amon McKay.

A longtime horsewoman and rodeo competitor, the new royalty is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Durham. Her father, G.B. "Slim" Durham worked for the Matador Ranch for several years. Kay is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Durham of Roaring Springs.

First runner-up in the contest this year, according to coordinators Emma Johnson and Donna Choate, was 20-year-old Marcinda Mitchell, daughter of Dr. Bob Mitchell and Mrs. Delores Mitchell of Sallisaw. She has held the titles of Miss Sequoyah County Round-Up, Miss Rodeo of the Ozarks, and Miss 101 Ranch Rodeo.

Performance events for the judging came Thursday evening before the second night of the four-day rodeo.

The Scientists Tell Me . . .

Genetic Engineering in Cattle Offers Exciting Possibilities

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

Bold new basic research in cattle could lead to genetic manipulations that would result in cattle with improved characteristics. One possibility would be to increase the amount of lean meat a beef animal produces.

Scientists at Texas A&M University have succeeded in causing two genetically different embryos to be carried by and born from the same cow. The experiment was designed to test the idea advanced by an Experiment Station geneticist, Dr. Nat Kieffer, that doubled muscling in cattle, an undesirable characteristic, could be caused by gene-controlled biochemical products.

To further improve cattle we must know more about the genetic basis of both desirable and undesirable characteristics, so we can better concentrate the desirable and eliminate or modify the undesirable.

The biological basis for the experiment is the fact that in cattle, fusion of the blood vessels of the fetal membrane between twin calves is almost a certainty. Blood vessel fusion allows mixing of blood to take place between twin calves.

The Freemartin condition is a classical example of one of the effects of blood mixing and demonstrated that biochemicals produced under gene control in the tissues of one twin can be carried in the shared blood to the tissues of the co-twin, where it can cause untypical growth of the reproductive organs.

In simplest terms, this means that a female calf, born twin to a male, will be sterile. The testosterone (male hormone) of the developing male influences the female and she doesn't develop normal sexual organs.

Kieffer speculated that if two calves — one genetically double-muscled and the other normal-muscled — could be caused to develop in the same uterus as twins, the muscle development of one calf might be affected by the product(s) of genes for muscle size of the co-twin.

If the muscle development of either calf, whether normal muscled or double muscled, is affected by blood mixing this would indicate that muscle development is under control of a blood-borne biochemical gene product(s).

To test this idea, pairs of embryos were planted in recipient cows. One embryo of each pair was from homozygous (identical genes) double-muscled parents and the other embryo was from homozygous normal-muscled parents.

For the embryo transplant, Kieffer secured the talents of Dr. D. C. Kraemer, a nationally recognized expert, with the College of Veterinary Medicine and the Department of Animal Science at Texas A&M. Kraemer has successfully transplanted embryos (fertilized eggs) between baboons, horses, cattle, and other animals.

Doubled muscling is an undesirable but very distinctive genetic trait in cattle. It was chosen for the test because it is so easy to identify. In addition, in animal breeding, it only appears in offspring when both parents carry the gene.

Twin calves were born to cow 07 on 4-8-78. At birth, the calf with heredity for doubled muscling showed some symptoms of doubled muscling such as thick tongue, inability to nurse, and general dullness.

However, the classical symptoms of doubled muscling, enlarged muscles, were not obvious at birth. Now, at three months of age, the characteristic enlargement of the muscles of the rear quarters is apparent but less than usual.

The normal-muscled twin calf appears to have greater muscle thickness than is expected of a Hereford-Angus cross.

Since there are no objective tests for absolutely identifying an animal as being heterozygous (mixed) for doubled muscling, Kieffer says they cannot be sure of the phenotype (visual signs from environment plus heredity) of the "normal" calf, at this time.

This still leaves in doubt the question of whether cellular excretion (biochemical gene products) can induce doubled muscling. Or whether cellular excretion from the normal calf in the womb, can modify the doubled-muscling tendency.

However, Kieffer says they are sure that blood mixing did take place between the two calves because the chromosome test for blood-vessel fusion was positive.

The genetically normal muscled calf is a female and not only shows symptoms of Freemartinism but has XY lymphocytes (male white blood cells) in her blood which could have gotten there only from blood mixing with her male co-twin.

Ninety-six percent of the blood lymphocytes of the male co-twin were XX, which again is not only proof of blood mixing but is an unusually high percentage of lymphocyte exchange.

It is believed this is the first time that principles of genetic engineering have been applied to domestic animal breeding.

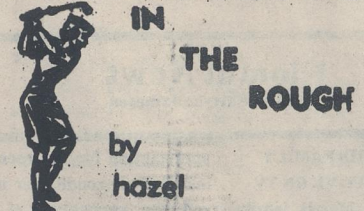

Kieffer and Kraemer emphasize this is only a start but the fact that they succeeded in causing two genetically different embryos to be carried to term in the same uterus is significant.

This is an exciting experimental technique that opens up a whole new dimension for defining the biochemical products of genes that control heredity. It can possibly lead to genetic manipulation that would permit more rapid improvement in cattle.

For example, if it is proved that double muscling is produced by a biochemical and that chemical can be reproduced synthetically, then it might be possible to induce a degree of heavier muscling in normal cattle. This, in turn, would increase the yield of lean meat.

The decoration for the table was a floral center piece of white daisies, small white cysanthemems and babys breath, flanked by miniature figurines of a bridal party. A delicious salad plate

Other guests present were: Mrs. George Cullin, paternal grandmother of Burkburnett, Charyn Cullin, sister of the bride-elect of Santa Fe, N.M., her aunt, Mrs. Jim Allison, Carla Christian, sister of the prospective groom, Matador and Mrs. R. E. Campbell Sr., great-grandmother of the bride-elect, Matador.

A gift of lingerie was presented to the honoree by the hostesses.

Charise Cullin Is Honored At Shower

Miss Charise Cullin, bride-elect of Craig Christian, was honored Saturday afternoon with a pre-nuptial miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Thompson.

Hostesses for the courtesies, with Mrs. Thompson, were Mesdames Freddie Welling, Bennie Keltz, Raby Webb, E. A. Day, B. H. Hobbs, Dean Turner, James Ed Russell, Joe Smith, Bonnie Vandiver and Bill Dunning.

Guests were received and registered by Mrs. Keltz, and gifts were listed by Mrs. Dunning.

SPORTS SHORTS

In 1933, Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune, conceived the idea for a baseball All-Star Game. Although baseball owners resisted the idea initially, the first All-Star Game was played in Chicago's Comiskey Park that July. Today the All-Star Game is one of baseball's most popular events. In what has become the nation's largest non-political election, the fans will again elect the starting lineup for this year's game to be played in San Diego on July 11. The voting, underwritten by the Gillette Company's Safety Razor Division, runs until July 2. Ballots are free at retail stores featuring a Gillette All-Star display and at major and minor league ballparks.
