Tips on Touring

Women's Travel Authority

What does the winner do after she wins it—count her winnings and rest comfortably on her laurels? Not if she's Mrs. William C. Black of Ithaca, N. Y., top individual winner of the 1953 Carol Lane Awards for Traffic Safety.

Mrs. Black, a busy housewife and mother, won the award—a safety "Oscar" and a $1,000 defense bond—last October for her significant traffic safety achievements.

And since then, she's been busier than ever trying to prevent accidents and save lives.

Mrs. Black's activity is an example of effective work being done by women and women's groups in the traffic safety field. Other such projects are eligible for the 1954 Carol Lane Awards, which are open through June 30, 1954. The Awards, the only ones which recognize the achievements of women in the field of traffic safety, are administered by the National Safety Council through a grant from my company, Shell Oil. Further information about the awards may be obtained from Alice C. Mills, National Safety Council, 425 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago 11, Ill.

AS GENERAL ELECTRIC SEES IT

Few people realize how rapidly America's economy is growing

General Electric is backing its belief in a long-term period of industrial growth by the biggest building program in its history, spending more than a billion dollars since 1946

Anyone who spreads fears that we may be facing another major depression ignores completely how much America has changed since the 1930's.

Industrial research and development have broadened the base of our entire economy and, even more important, have laid the groundwork for a steadily increasing expansion in the years to come.

Here are just two examples of what has happened.

The first electric refrigerator with a sealed-in mechanism was introduced by General Electric in 1926, and its production in that year required only a few hundred people. Today, refrigerators and freezers make up a billion-dollar business which employs more than 100,000 men and women in manufacturing, plus additional thousands in retailing and distribution. The freezer itself has made possible another whole new industry, frozen foods.

In 1939, most of us knew electronics only as tubes in our radio, and the entire industry sold 230 million dollars' worth of equipment. Electronics is now a 4 1/2-billion-dollar business, and some experts predict it will grow to 20 billions in the 1960's. General Electric, just one producer, now has electronic equipment factories in 13 different parts of the country and has stepped up its payroll in this field to 27,000 in just 15 years.

This trend of expansion is not slowing down. It's rapidly accelerating.

Many exciting new industries are predictable as we learn how to make full use of atomic energy. Another important new field will be electronic machinery that will make work easier, production swifter. Our scientists are experimenting with metal crystals 50 times stronger than any metals we now know. New and better home appliances are on the way. More uses for the gas turbine are coming out of jet-engine experiments.

These are only a few of the things General Electric is interested in, and other companies, of course, are hard at work on equally promising projects.

Our belief in a long-term period of industrial growth is not wishful speculation. It's being backed by the greatest building program America has ever seen. Last year, the nation's industries spent 28 billion, 400 million dollars for new plant and equipment; this year, they will spend only slightly less. Our own investment since 1946 has already reached more than a billion dollars. In 1954, a record 175 million dollars will be invested in new plant facilities by G.E., 24% more than last year.

This is the kind of confidence we have in the country's future.

... will continue to keep America's economy expanding

Progress Is Our Most Important Product

sociation of University Women and of the Business and Professional Women's Club. The bridegroom has a B. A. degree from Tulane University, New Orleans. He is manager of Montgomery Ward Company in Manhattan, Kansas, where the couple will make their home.

Pled Pinions BY MRS. J. M.

Highlight of the Texas Press Association this year was, personally speaking, meeting and hearing Paul Crume, "Big D" columnist on the Dallas News.

Speaking of columnists, we lifted the following from another of our favorite columnists, Effort of the Duluth Publicity, who took it from Jack Mills, news editor of the Montevideo American:

Answer to "What is a columnist?"

Between the innocence of a pressman and the dignity of a janitor we find a questionable character called a columnist. Newspaper columnists come in assorted sizes, weights and colors but they all have the same creed: "To irritate unintentionally as many people as possible in a single column."

Newspaper columnists are found everywhere: Under Duplex presses—in bars—swinging from typewriters—climbing a round job presses—in bars—in stores—in and in bars.

Their relatives love them, advertisers hate them, friends tolerate them, pressmen ignore them, but their readers—Thank God—their readers protect them.

Columnists are truth with a typewriter, wisdom with a humorous message in mind—and the hope of the future with a pun in its pocket.

A columnist is a composite: He has the mind of a gopher, the courage of a Casper Milquetoast, the imagination of an insect, the shyness of a politician, the audacity of a steel trap and the wit of a hypochondriac.

A columnist is not much for water in any form—working an extra hour—words of more than three syllables—or getting up; yet nobody gets up as early nor goes to bed so late as newspaper columnists.

Columnists are blamed for the weather, the election of Truman, the re-election of McCarthy, and the administration's farm program. They have at the same time an opportunity to perform public service and they have an obligation to render that service without bitterness, rancor, prejudice or pay. The only reward is an occasional remark from a friend or a letter from a reader.

One such letter started out by telling me that I was the best columnist she had ever read. I was the most informed writer in the business. I selected only the best jokes for my columns. My manner of writing was so soothing and restful. To her I probably had an otherwise bleak and dreary day.

The letter went on in the vein for some time and then concluded with a deathless promise to read my work faithfully forever. There was also a P. S. thought interesting: "Please excuse the fact that I used a large type to print this letter—you know where I am they won't let me near any sharp instruments."

political battles in Texas history, Harold H. Martin reports in the current (June 26th) issue of The Saturday Evening Post.

"Pistol-toting rangers patrol the sun-baked towns, and national guardsmen stand 'ready to move in if violence should flare between the trigger-tempered factions', the author continues in an article entitled 'Tyrant in Texas.'"

After eighteen months of gathering evidence, the administration of Governor Allan Shivers is challenging, at the polls and in the law courts, the power of a family dynasty that has held oil-rich Duval County in political thrall for more than forty years, Martin states.

Commanding the battalions of lawyers, auditors, handwriting analysts and undercover investigators that Shivers has thrown into the fray is a resolute young state attorney general named John Ben Shepperd, a man of such unbending rectitude a Methodist bishop might feel unworthy in his presence, it is reported.

Duke Of Duval

The man whom Shepperd has vowed to lasso, hog-tie and brand as a rascal before the electorate is George Berham Parr, the so-called Duke of Duval, a millionaire rancher, oilman, banker and deputy sheriff, who once served a term in Federal reformatory for evading his income tax, the magazine says.

Mr. Shepperd is said to charge that, as a political boss whose rule was absolute, Mr. Parr has been guilty of even greater crimes against the democratic process. For two decades, the attorney general alleges, Mr. Parr has driven the Latin American citizens of his county to the polls like docile cattle, there to vote them as he pleased.

Martin relates that Mr. Parr, a dapper, confident little man of fifty-three, does not strongly demur to this allegation, claiming that the voting loyalty is an expression of the Mexicans' gratitude for their unflinching benefactor.

Man Of Violence

Such statements by Mr. Parr are called "purest balderdash" by Attorney General Shepperd, who contends—and these charges have been made in court—that Mr. Parr is a man of violence who rules by blows and threats, by economic boycotts and by maintaining a private army of some 200 gun-toting "pistoleros" who, masquerading as special deputy sheriffs, terrorize the electorate.

It is true, Mr. Shepperd admits that Mr. Parr has been generous with those who pleased him and kept his commandments. He could afford to be. It was not his Shepperd maintains, but tax funds drained illegally from the county treasury and the coffers of the school districts.

Governor Shivers is reported to concur in this harsh judgment of Mr. Parr's activities. "For many years," Shivers says, "the Parr regime has been a cancer.
 The light of freedom has been snuffed out in Duval County.
 There was no law there, no liberty, no free elections. It is our purpose to put some of these people down there in the penitentiary."

SODA-SWEET TEA MAKER

By making iced tea in an open saucepan you can make large quantities to have on hand when guests drop in or the family wants a tall cool refreshing thirst quencher. But tea has a habit of picking up odors from soap and other foods. To be assured a perfect brew, clean your saucepan with a baking soda solution. Soda whisks away the greasy film which clings to pots and pitchers, harbors odors. Just wash tea utensils in a solution of 3 tablespoons soda to a quart of water. For stubborn stains rub a little dry baking soda on the spot with a damp cloth or sponge. Gentle soda sweetens and cleans, leaves your iced tea utensils sparkling bright.

Old-Time Cowboys Look Forward To Stamford Reunion

STAMFORD—Pioneer cowboys already are looking forward to the Texas Cowboy Reunion and officials are busy with plans for the unique occasion in Stamford, July 1, 2, 3 and 5. Each year, between 400 and 500 old-timers of the range gather to greet former associates swap stories, do some square dancing and domino playing and eat chuckwagon fare. And the sprier ones compete in the old-timers' calf-roping contest. Some bring bedrolls and sleep out under the sky. The early-day cowboys are guests at the big rodeo which is a feature of the reunion.

Quite an elaborate plant has been constructed since the reunions began back in 1930—Roundup Hall, scene of a nightly square dance; the Pavilion, where more modern dances are presented each night; the Bunkhouse, where business sessions of the Texas Cowboy Reunion Association are held; the chuckwagon area where 2,000 visitors are fed. Then there is a sparkling lake, a guest house and the rodeo arena and grandstand, with a seating capacity of approximately 7,500.

W. G. Swenson of Stamford, manager of the SMS Ranch, is president-manager of the Texas Cowboy Reunion, which is host to the Cowboys and produces the rodeo. Otto F. Jones of Colorado City, manager of the Stamford Ranch, is president of the Old-Time Cowboys' association. The must have been a cowboy who worked on the range at least 25 years ago.

The annual celebration is a four-day affair, climaxing on the fall on Sunday this year. There will be no rodeo that day but night performances on July 1 and 2 with night performances on the first three days.
