MATADORS OFF FOR SAN ANGELO BATTLE

TODAY'S GAME EXHIBITION AT ANGELO FAIR

TECH MEETS SUL ROSS IN EXHIBITION GAME AT W. TEXAS FAIR

The fighting Matadors, accompanied by their coaches, and possibly 100 Tech fans, left yesterday morning at 10 o'clock for San Angelo where they will meet Sul Ross college today at the All-West Texas Exposition, and pitch battle on foreign field for the first time. With a brace of victories to their credit and a reputation to be envied by any team in the state, the "eyes of Texas" will surely turn, with interest, to the Bull Fighters' outcome in today's tilt.

Coach Bredland, in conversation with a Toreador reporter, immediately before departing yesterday morning, expressed the utmost confidence in the Matadors, and predicted Sul Ross to be the easiest victim of the season, despite the fact that the boys will not be in the best of condition, because of having made the long trip overland. Since the game will be played on neutral territory, and since Sul Ross has made no startling record during the season, it is evident that Tech will enter the game with a slight margin over the smaller school.

Since this game is to be one of the features of the All-West Texas Exposition, one of West Texas' biggest fairs, it is probably that the scarlet and black will flash before the eyes of thousands of Southwest Texas people this afternoon. The outcome of the game will likely serve as an eye-opener to a great many people who are not acquainted with the merits of the Tech, and the advertising to be derived from the trip will make it well worth while.

Although few students were allowed to accompany the team on this trip, it is understood that provisions are being made to run a special train to one of the other games at which time all students will be urged to go.

Orchestra Needs More Instruments

"Wanted—one flute, 2 clarinets, one trombone, and all the violins, cellos, violas and double basses possible. A soprano saxophone for the one part would also be welcome."

These are the plaintive notes which issue from the office of Prof. Waghorne, from which the musical organization of the Tech are directed. Prof. Waghorne has a nucleus around which he hopes to build a splendid orchestra, but he is in need of the instruments mentioned above. Those who are now appearing for orchestra practice are showing splendid development, and with additional instrumentation there will be nothing to hinder the organization of one of the best orchestras in this section. Attention is not given to anything but high class music.

Mr. Waghorne states that he is especially in need of clarinet players who can transpose "A" clarinet parts. Orchestra meetings are held on Tuesday afternoons between the hours of 4 and 5 o'clock.

Tech Librarian Addresses Women Of Hale County

Miss Elizabeth West, librarian of the college, spoke before the Federation of Women's clubs of Hale county, Saturday, Oct. 24, at Stoneback Public school. Miss West spoke of the service which the Tech Technological college hopes to render, its organization, the need of support from the people of Texas, and the work of the library and its part in the work of the college. She gave facts and figures of the present enrollment, and of the progress of the work being done.

STUDENT'S ASSEMBLY

At the request of the officers of the freshman class and the sophomore class, I am hereby calling an assembly of all the students, to be held in the Stock Judging Pavilion from nine to ten o'clock on the morning of Monday, November 2.

The chief object of this meeting is to consider the forming of a student's association.

P. W. HORN.

Dr. Horn Firmly Denounces Hazing In Tech

PRESIDENT SAYS SET STANDARDS OF COLLEGE NOW

DR. HORN OUTLINES SOME STANDARDS THE TECH SHOULD ADOPT

BY DR. HORN

In starting our school as a new institution it is especially important that we look out for the matter of standards. The pace that we make this year will to a large extent determine the pace that we make during the years to come.

For one thing, there is the standard of the kind of class work done. If, during the present year, the students make a record for careful study and hard work, it is altogether likely that students during succeeding years will at least tend to follow this tradition. On the other hand, if loose, sloppy work is done in classes, this year, it will be difficult to raise the standard for another year.

Then, there is the question of moral and social standards. If high ideals prevail along these lines during the present year, they will tend to keep ideals high during all the years to come.

One thing that should be borne in mind is that standards of conduct in college are, after all, not widely different from those in life elsewhere. Anything that a gentleman cannot do in business or in social life, a gentleman cannot do in college. Such things as stealing, drunkenness, lying, are not acceptable in any institution anywhere in life. The same things blameworthy as much in college as they would anywhere else.

Kindness and goodwill are just as truly golden traits in college as they are in business. Hospitality, a true welcome to strangers, and the extension of the kind hand mean as much in college as anywhere else.

It is the earnest hope of the Texas Technological College that it may be a democratic institution. This means that there should be no artificial distinctions between classes. It means that instead of terrorizing the newcomer, the college should endeavor to make him feel at home.

One of the few resolutions passed by the board of directors of the Texas Technological College before the institution opened, was one condemning hazing. Any student violating this regulation is not merely violating the law of the faculty and of the board of directors of the college, but he is likewise violating the law of the great state of Texas itself.

One of the ways in which moral standards make themselves felt in college is in the matter of honor examinations. It is commonly recognized

Geology Lab Is Established In Textile Building

Due to the overcrowded condition existing in the administration building, rooms in the engineering building have been equipped for geology laboratory, according to Dr. LeRoy Patton, head of the department. Heretofore, this department has been without laboratory exercises.

Aggie Club Meets To Elect Officers

The Aggie Club met Friday night in room 204 of the Administration Building. Orval Burroughs was elected as president; Guy Orr, vice president; Vance Gilbreath, Secretary-Treasurer; E. E. Kitchen, Reporter; Holmes Webb, Sgt. of Arms; C. D. McGehee, Social Secretary. Mr. Stangel was elected faculty advisor.

Representative Of School Journal Here For Story

Dr. Musselman, a representative of the Texas School Journal was in Lubbock Thursday of this week to gather data for a news story which will appear in that publication in the near future. His story will deal with the record enrollment and remarkable beginning of the Tech, and the prospects for its future ranking in the Southwest.

ORGANIZATION STUDENT BODY IS PROBABLE

Answering the call of Dr. Horn the officers of the Sophomore and Freshman classes met Wednesday in conference with Dr. Horn and Dean Gordon. At this meeting several vital questions concerning the future of the school were discussed. Dr. Horn stated emphatically that the fundamental principle of the Tech was democracy and that democracy meant no hazing. Continuing, the President said that this would be one school where hazing in any form would not be tolerated.

The organization of a Student Association was brought up and at the request of the class officers another meeting was held Thursday at which time the plan was gone into more thoroughly.

The duties of this Students Association have not been clearly defined as yet but the body is to act as the voice of the students as a whole and is to be the medium through which the plans and ideas of the student body are presented to the faculty for their final approval. The class officers did not favor this Student Association acting in the double capacity of Student Association and Honor Council.

At the request of the class officers a convocation has been called by Dr. Horn for Monday morning. Before the convocation, however, both classes will have meetings at which time they will discuss the matter of the Student Association and possibly they will nominate members for this body. It is to be a representative group from the student body as a whole and care will be necessary in the selection of members.

De Molay Club Elects Officers

The DeMolay Club met in the hall of the administration building Thursday evening. Only a small group was present, but a little business was transacted. The following officers were elected: John Forkner, president; Lyle Thomas, vice president; Jack Bond, secretary-treasurer; Curtis Reese, reporter. The constitution and by-laws were presented but because of the fact that so few members were present it was decided to postpone the reading of these laws until the next meeting. Another meeting will be held Monday evening after the class meetings.

Regular Sing-Song Held In Corridors

The first regular sing-song was held Thursday morning in the corridors on the second floor of the administration building at the 10 o'clock hour. About five minutes was given to the exercise and the sing-songs will be repeated regularly on Monday and Thursday mornings. The purpose of the exercise is to acquaint students with the songs which are sung by the students most frequently.

Dr. Horn Will Address Scientists

The New Mexico Science Association has extended an invitation to Dr. Horn to speak before their annual meeting in Albuquerque, November 6. Dr. Horn has accepted their invitation, and his subject for the occasion will be "The Scientific Spirit."

First Numbers Of Artist Course To Be Given Next Month

"The Elbow of Love," the first number of the Tech's Artist Course, will be presented at the Lubbock high school auditorium on November 16, according to an announcement made this week. The number will be presented under the direction of William Wade Hinchshaw, with an all-star cast including Mmes. Hazel Huntington, prima donna soprano, and Eleanor LaMance, contralto; Messrs. Thomas McGraham, tenor; Leo DeHelleopolis baritone; Francis Tyler, bassoon; with Willard Selberg, as musical director.

Engineers Form Organized Club

Called Meeting of Press Club To Hear Annual Staff Nominations

That a called meeting of the Press Club would be necessary to resolve and approve the nominations for members of the annual staff was announced at the regular meeting of the "Los Escritores" Wednesday night by the committee appointed last week to make and submit nominations. Consequently, the club will meet Monday evening at 7 o'clock, in room 202 of the administration building, for the purpose of hearing the report of this committee.

The called meeting is necessitated by the fact that an effort is being made to have the nominations ready to submit to the meeting of the faculty on next Tuesday night. The meeting Wednesday night was well attended. Dr. Harrison of the English department, sponsor of the club, was introduced at this meeting and gave an interesting talk on the work of the club, and especially the undertaking of the publication of an annual. He pointed out the dangers of class rivalry in student publications, and urged co-operation on the part of the entire student body. That the Spanish motif which is prominent in all college buildings should be carried out in the design of the year book was suggested by Mr. Harrison.

During the business session of the meeting, the committee on details and nominations announced that the report was not ready to be submitted to the body, and after short discussions the meeting was adjourned until Monday evening.

The second class meeting of the Freshman class was held Monday evening in the Administration Building, presided by Bruce Reed. About 250 students were present.

The first business of the evening was to elect the remaining class officers: Gordon Carlin, "Preacher" Horn, and Scott Pike were elected as sentinels and at once placed on duty.

The subject of Sponsor was next discussed. It was unanimously voted that Messrs. Gus L. Ford and W. A. Jackson were to be our Sponsors and faculty advisors. "Long live Ford and Jackson." Each was called on for a speech in which they expressed their appreciation for the honor bestowed upon them and offered their every service to the class.

Miss Anna Collins was elected as Class Reporter.

In order that the social side of the class might not be neglected a social committee consisting of Misses Addie Lou Posey, De Ann Sammons, Ruth Johnson and Messrs Lyle Thomas and Raymond Flanagan, was elected. With these fellow-clubmen as leaders we are sure there will be nothing to regret along the line of entertainment for the class.

Dean Gordon, by request, gave a very interesting and a very appropriate talk on what is expected of the "First Freshmen Class of Texas Tech."

John Forkner gave a brief discussion of the Annual, which is a very timely subject.

NEW TEACHERS APPROVED BY TECH BOARD

A meeting of the Board of Directors of the Texas Technological College was held Tuesday in the state-telegraph building at Fort Worth at which time the board approved eight new teachers recommended by President Horn. The new teachers are:

- Prof. Edgar Shelton, Architecture.
- Louis A. Ames, Mathematics.
- R. D. Campbell, Drawing.
- Mrs. R. A. Studhalter, Biology.
- Harry Hill, Professor of Physics.
- Mrs. J. N. Marshall, Chemistry.
- Mrs. Eunice J. Gates, English.
- James H. Murdock, Civil Engineering.

A report of the present enrollment was made by Dr. Horn. There are now 910 students enrolled, of which 642 are men and 268 are women. Of the two classes, 731 are freshmen, and 179 are sophomores.

A resolution of appreciation for the work that has been done by President Horn and Mr. Chitwood, business manager, was adopted by the board.

A life size statue of Jefferson Davis is to be placed either in the rotunda of the administration building or in the library. It was decided by the board. A committee composed of Clifford B. Jones, Amos G. Carter, and H. G. Kimbro was appointed to take care of the details.

No action was taken relative to the renting of part of the college campus for an airplane landing field in the event of securing an air mail route.

This matter will probably be taken up in a later meeting, at which time it is understood that it will be given favorable consideration, provided there is any possibility of Lubbock being placed on the air mail line.

Members present at the meeting were Clifford B. Jones of Spur, C. S. Meadows of Waco, Moss Newman of Sweetwater, Mrs. F. N. Drane of Corsicana, H. G. Kimbro. In the absence of Mr. Carter, R. A. Underwood, vice president, presided.

The next meeting of the board will be held on the fourth Tuesday in January, and will probably be held in Lubbock according to Dr. Horn, who returned from the meeting Wednesday.

Methodist Student Federation Meets In Ft. Worth Next Week

Manager Chitwood stopped over at Sweetwater on the return trip to look after business matters.

The final arrangements for the meeting of the Methodist Student Federation of Texas to be held at the Mosque, Lake Worth, Fort Worth, Texas, November 6-7-8 have been completed according to Bryan Hall, State President of the Federation.

The recreational part of the program will not be neglected. The big event of this part of the program will be a boat ride on the "Alves" Friday night. Miss Lucy Gillean of Dallas will be in charge of the recreational activities.

It is expected that three hundred students will attend the meeting, representing colleges from all parts of the state.

SPANISH CLUB

The Spanish Club met in room 217 Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock for the purpose of organizing. The following officers were elected: Cecil Goolbsy, president; Evelyn Porter, vice president; Inez Medlock, secretary; and Francis Smelser, reporter.

The next meeting will be called by the president and other business will be attended to. Nothing definite has been decided as to membership. The date of the next meeting will be posted on the bulletin board.

Miss Margaret Weeks assisted by Miss Johnnie McCreery complimented the Home Economics students with an afternoon tea, given in the Home Economics Building, Wednesday afternoon. About fifty girls and several members of the faculty, as honor guests, enjoyed the hospitality shown by Misses Weeks and McCreery.

STUDENT CONDUCT

The conduct of Tech students is being "aired" generally at this particular time, and the scope of criticism is broad, including such things as dancing, shirt tail parades, stealing milk, hazing and rowdism in general.

College students with any pep are not possessed with the men and dignity of more mature persons and we don't believe it should be expected of them. Furthermore, Lubbock people evidently knew something of the habits of college students before the Tech was located in their city, and those who are now building near the campus should not be surprised at a little loud talking and laughter.

Students are entitled to a little hilarity—they must give way to the pent up energy of youth—so long as they stay within the bounds of convention and good behavior.

It would be a mighty poor town that wouldn't tolerate shirt tail parades, and we believe most Lubbock people are becoming converted to this type of celebration. Occasionally you will hear someone "grape," but some people would gripe if they were to be hung with a new rope.

Of course, every bottle of milk that is missing is charged to the boys of the Tech. We know of one lady who solved the problem by having the milk sent "special delivery." The boys are not bold enough to go inside after it.

This column is not an exponent of the modern dance, but we know a lot of people who enjoy this form of social entertainment.

That every one is convinced of the great advantages to be gained by class rivalry goes without saying.

Class rivalry under the proper conditions, where a freshman, sophomore, and not John Brown, against whom a sophomore has a personal grievance, has no equal in getting a school started off on the right road to good fellowship and unity.

That hazing should at no time assume the proportion it has enjoyed the past week is generally conceded. It should be confined to class rivalry and at no time allowed to influence the co-operative work of the student body.

Hazing where there is an unwritten lay beyond which no one will dare step comes, of course, only with age.

Time will come when neither class will dare overstep certain well defined bounds set down as a sacred tradition which the most fool-hardy will not offend. Hazing must be considered as an expression of healthy class rivalry and rules made to govern its operation as is done in every other line of endeavor.

The Tech as a new school must set about in getting its proper place in the sun of American colleges and no internal wrangle with its attendant differences and class partisanship must be allowed to interfere with the perpetuation of a record of the year's work and play.

President Horn has declared the law regulating hazing and the student body will find it advisable to follow his directions in the matter.

Geology Lab Is Established In Textile Building

Due to the overcrowded condition existing in the administration building, rooms in the engineering building have been equipped for geology laboratory, according to Dr. LeRoy Patton, head of the department. Heretofore, this department has been without laboratory exercises.

Dr. Patton states that the lecture rooms and his offices will remain in the administration building and will not be affected by the change. Three divisions in geology will have laboratory exercises in the engineering building.

The Aggie Club met Friday night in room 204 of the Administration Building. Orval Burroughs was elected as president; Guy Orr, vice president; Vance Gilbreath, Secretary-Treasurer; E. E. Kitchen, Reporter; Holmes Webb, Sgt. of Arms; C. D. McGehee, Social Secretary. Mr. Stangel was elected faculty advisor.

TRADITIONAL BUNK (R. M. Reed)

Tradition is a wonderful thing, but frequently the traditional act, in the final analysis, proves to be nothing more than sheer fable, and on close inspection, it has the appearance of being pure bunk. This might be proved a dozen different ways, but let us base our argument in one isolated instance.

It happens that some "wise men" are trying to teach "good-loserism" at Texas Tech college. As a result we are getting some of the old stock on hand, who rather pride themselves on being good losers. Such an individual deserves pity! The so-called "good loser" is nearly always lacking in determination, and certainly he can not boast of fighting abilities. He will compromise at a loss. He will lose a battle and it appears, to him, to be the proper thing to do to accept defeat placidly and smile and smirk; to alibi the weather, the referee, and other remote causes.

It is difficult to trace the antecedents or precepts that have been responsible for so many men attempting to achieve momentary compensation by having someone (usually themselves), admit that they are "good losers." Perhaps back in the dark ages the axiom was written in a copy book. Regardless of its origin, the term has no place in modern life. The man who profits by defeat is not a so-called good loser. He does not grin weakly and content himself with pinning a "good loser" tag on his coat as he sulks from the scene of his defeat. On the contrary, what he is interested in is how to come back next time and win.

Here lies a "good loser," and let us speak
With due respect for such.

But we don't need 'em much.

One thing we can say, the Cheri Casa boys are certainly good sports, whether alone or in a crowd. Friday night we didn't hear "I don't want to" or "ask someone else" or "I don't want to play this." They were right there, full of pep and always in for any trick or amusement afforded by the girls. We are going to entertain our brother club every chance we get.

giving them a serenade and shower last Tuesday night. An auto horn furnished the music, and instead of "saying it with flowers," they said it with vegetables and grapefruit. Boys, you sure missed it by not seeing "Ponjola" stretch for the celery, too.

Bob Board and Ransome King announce the opening of a detective agency at Cheri Casa. After they find the preacher, they will attempt to solve the baffling case of the missing cylinder or where was the Dodge truck last Sunday night.

The old Dodge truck is all right. It gets you there, and though it does not bring you back—well, there are always two viewpoints, you know. It saves you the trouble of telling a lie, at least.

Mrs. Jessie Summers, Matron of Cheri Casa, spent the first few days of this week out of town. She returned Tuesday, reporting a very enjoyable visit.

Room Equipped For Department Of Public Speaking

The students of the Tech who like to "strut their stuff" on the platform are going to get a chance. A stage is being built in room 302 of the administration building, under the supervision of Mr. Warlick. Curtains have been ordered from New York and are expected to arrive Monday. These curtains will probably be used by the next regular meeting of the Dramatic Club Tuesday night.

Mr. Griffith of the Rex Furniture Company, has given the Dramatic Department a first class, a 1922 gray and blue rug, and a polychrome mirror. The department will be furnished with a piano, and many members of the club who live in Lubbock, have voluntarily contributed such small necessities as pictures, chairs, tables and pedestals. With a few weeks a suite of furniture will be added to the furnishings.
Miss Pittle has made arrangements to have all her classes in public speaking meet in this room, and it will become the regular meeting place of the Dramatic Club. The room has a seating capacity of approximately 100.
Some of the boys have arbitrarily objected to the stage, saying that the echoes from the shuffle of their feet will not be commendable to a good public speaker. However, Miss Pittle

The boys of Cheri Casa wish to take this space to express their heartfelt appreciation to the charming young members of College Inn for the wonderful time that was had by all last Friday night. (It has been reported that Jim Flanigan and John Forkner are putting it much stronger than that). Girls, we hope you have the privilege and pleasure of having us again sometime.

Judging by some things we have noticed since the affair, several of the boys have already started to express their gratitude. Five members of Cheri Casa were noticed at College Inn, taking possession of the parlor (and the fire-escape. Sh-h-h).

Messrs. Biggers, Flanigan, Brown, Montgomery, Forkner, and Thomas entertained the boys of Cheri Casa with a buffet supper last Monday evening between the hours of one and two A. M. in the room of Mr. Biggers and Mr. Brown. Written invitations were sent out about twelve o'clock Sunday night, and every boy in the dormitory was present.

The room was especially decorated for the occasion, everything movable being nailed down or hidden. Mr. Biggers, attired in a charming suit of baby-pink pajamas, acted as toastmaster. The affair was strictly formal, all of the guests being attired in bathrobes, or pajamas.

The party was started by the singing of a few familiar hymns, among which were "The Old Cox is Dead in Mobile," and "The Men, They Wash the Dishes in Mobile." Mr. Flanigan, dressed in a magnificent pair of red house shoes, made the speech of welcome, on behalf of the hosts. The guest of honor made the speech of acceptance, on behalf of the guests. Startling originality was displayed in the table service. Instead of the conventional dishes and cutlery, special dishes, made to resemble shaving mugs, grape nuts boxes, soap dishes, ash trays, etc., were used. The resemblance in some cases, was remarkable. Through the generosity of Mrs. Summers, a delicious five-course dinner was served, consisting of celery, cheese ala libit, turning au naturel, assorted fruits and cakes.
A very enjoyable time was had by all present, and it is hoped that this is just the first of a series of such entertainments, which will serve to place Cheri Casa firmly on the social map.

One of the Cheri Casa boys suffered a rather peculiar accident the other night. While walking down town Thursday night, he was struck on the boulevard by an automobile.

Several members of Cheri Casa took it upon themselves to return the compliment paid them by College Inn, by

Tech College Of Agriculture Is Well Advertised

While the School of Agriculture of the Tech cannot claim first place in numbers enrolled in its courses, it does have a decided distinction over the other schools in another way. Judging from the number of students who have come from a goodly distance, the school of agriculture is very advertised.

Of the sixty students enrolled in agriculture, about one half are from a radius of one hundred miles of Lubbock. The others hail from all over the northern half of Texas, while two students are from counties bordering the Texas-Louisiana line. Several students, who are considerable nearer the A. and M. college, have come here for their agricultural education.

LUBBOCK C. OF C. IS BEHIND TECH, SAYS MGR. DAVIS

"The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce was favorably impressed with the manner in which the Texas Technological college has begun its first year of work, and they are supporting every movement which will have a tendency to promote the interests of the institution," is the statement made by A. B. Davis, manager of the senior commercial organization in Lubbock, when interviewed on the subject Monday afternoon. "We were staunch supporters of the campaign which brought the Tech to Lubbock, and all of our plans for the future include the new school in their scope," was the assurance of Mr. Davis.

"Our organizations are this week beginning the greatest drive we have yet sponsored, and the major plank in our platform is to promote the interests of the Tech. More than 113 representative citizens of Lubbock are included in the team organization to actively direct the campaign. It is this teamwork on the part of the citizens, through the Chamber of Commerce, that Lubbock has come to be recognized throughout Texas as a city of enterprise and progress. Of course, the drive will be put over and the Tech will thereby receive greater support from the Chambers of Commerce," was the conclusion drawn by Mr. Davis.

While discussing the greater responsibilities thrust upon the Chambers of Commerce by the advent into the city of several hundred students, Mr. Davis quoted statistics upon per capita assessments and made the following comment: "A $2.00 per capita is the minimum need of the Chamber of Commerce in any growing town. College students require still greater needs."

In pointing out some of the reasons why the Chambers of Commerce are having to replenish their funds, Mr. Davis enumerated some of the activities in connection with the new college which have either been promoted or greatly assisted by these civic organizations. The ceremonies connected with the laying of the cornerstone were among the many things financed by the Chamber of Commerce after the establishments of the college. A campaign to secure homes to care for the students was sponsored by the organizations, and they were influential in arranging for the construction of the dormitories. Much has been done toward finding employment for those students working their way through school. "It was through the efforts of the leaders of the Chamber of Commerce that the Matador club—a closely knit organization of young business men to promote athletic activities of the Tech—was organized," Mr. Davis said.

"A city that supports a school like the Tech must have a civic organization that has: a working membership, and adequate income, a scientific budget, a definite program of work, a system of committee organization and management, proper publicity, intelligent local surveys, competent leadership, trained executive management; and must make the civic-commercial organization a clearing house for community thought and effort, and create a better spirit of co-operation. This organization in Lubbock is the combined Chamber of Commerce. It is the only community-wide organization in the city, and is non-sectarian, non-political, and represents all classes and creeds."

"An increase in membership means an increase in man-power, and the organization is in need of this element just now," Mr. Davis said.

"Members of the Tech faculty will be able to assist in this campaign for membership and their co-operation will bring about a closer relationship between college and civic enterprises."

EPISCOPAL CLUB

The second meeting of the Episcopal Club was held at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Harbo, Sunday evening. After supper was served, the topic, "Who am I Better than Myself?" was briefly discussed, and the business dismissed for an informal social evening.

The Episcopal Club expects to capture its share of the peppy good times in the Tech this year.

Mr. Stangel was in Sweetwater Friday of this week judging livestock. He was assisted by Dr. Williams of A. and M. College.

Tech College May Get Broadcasting Station, Is Report

Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of the Texas Technological college, is greatly interested in the establishment of a radio broadcasting station in the college and upon his return here yesterday from Fort Worth where he attended the meeting of the board of directors, had a consultation with Prof.

E. F. Ge... the feasibility of establishing a radio broadcasting station at an... That Lub... such a station is not doubted, and it is wholly possible that should Dr. Horn and members of the college staff find that a financial outlay greater than the college would wish to make be necessary for the installation of the station, this could be easily raised outside the college circles.

The desirability of having a high powered broadcasting set in Lubbock would not be debated, in fact, this question has been discussed on numerous occasions with unanimous approval of its advertising possibilities being voted in every case.

Members of the local Kiwanis club many months ago discussed the feasibility of establishing a radio broadcasting station atop the Lubbock hotel, that is now under construction, and agreed that with local talent that would be invaluable.—Lubbock Av-lanche.

MATADORS TAKE CLARENDON BULLDOGS INTO CAMP, 13 TO 7

The Tech Matadors added new laurels to their crowns here Saturday afternoon, when they completely overwhelmed the fighting Bulldogs of Clarendon College and took the big end of a 13 to 7 score. Despite the inclement weather, a greater part of the entire Panhandle area was represented in the reasonably large crowds which gathered to watch the first conflict between the state's newest institution of learning and the Panhandle's oldest college.

Very little surprise seemed to be experienced at the outcome of the game. However, a great deal of disappointment was noticeable among local fans when the Bulldogs scored, due to the fact that they were greatly outclassed. The touchdown came when the visitors scooped up a fumble and ran, almost without opposition, from near the thirty yard line. At no other time during the game was the Tech goal line threatened, and it is evident that the score could not have been made except on a fumble. This was the first touchdown marked against the Tech.

Between halver of the game the Matador mascot was officially introduced when the branding irons of the cattle range were brought into play and into contact with the back of a yearling bull, leaving the mark of 39-0, signifying the first victory of the Tech gridsters. The animal was presented to the college by Marvin T. Warlick, county commissioner and superintendent of the college grounds and buildings. The irons, which were heated over a fire in the center of the grid, were handled by Randolph McNeil, of Salon Soltero, on 14th street.

Woodridge Starts Game.

Woodridge, who proved the sensation of the Tech-Montezuma game by his generalship in the aerial attack that left the visitors dazed, started the game as quarter for Tech against the Bulldogs, and again showed his worth to the Matadors by his speed and shifty tactics. He was relieved at the opening of the second half by "Red" Hamilton, who is steady but consistent in his play, and keeps his opponents on the jump as to what might happen next. Woodridge was again sent in, however, near the latter part of the fourth, and called the play that gave Tech the win.

Contrary to his usual custom this season, Coach Freeland did not send in a new squad at the opening of the second half, but he did send in a fresh backfield with the exception of Gene Alford, wheel horse whose luck it seems to be to go the whole route during every game. Alford has not seen an idle moment during a game this year when his driving power was needed to find a hole and go through it.

Coach Freeland sent in Hill and Bourland to replace Nicholas and Archibald in the backfield, and sent Trosie in to give Miller a rest at center. All these returned at some time during the latter stages of the game, not that any fear was felt that the ones substituting could not deliver, but apparently because they wanted the ones who started the game to end it with victory hanging in their belts.

Tech showed a total yardage gain of 240 as against 134 for the Bulldogs, and made thirteen first downs while they were holding the visitors to two Clarendon lost fifteen yards on scrimmage plays, while Tech lost none, and penalties assessed against Tech amounted to 40 yards with thirty against the Bulldogs. One fumble cost the Bulldogs twenty yards, while Tech lost six on a similar play with the exception of the one that cost the touchdown.

Workmen have been busy this week regulating the thermometers in the rooms of the administration building. These thermometers control the radiators.

An airplane has been hitched on the south side of the college campus for the past few days. This may become a common sight if Lubbock is placed on the air mail route.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Dohoney had as week-end guests Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Long and Bert Lisman of Vernon, Texas. Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Dohoney of Amarillo were Sunday guests also.

Miss Margaret Huff, teacher of piano in the Tech, is now located at College Inn, where she will be able to serve the girls interested in this phase of work.
