Tech-Made Suit To Be Woven From Campus Wool

A suit is to be made for President Paul W. Horn from material grown on the Tech campus.

He recently was presented several yards of woolen goods woven by the college textile department. The wool was clipped from sheep which were raised on the college farms. Although the textile department does not have machinery for the weaving of woolen goods, one of the cotton machines was adjusted for the work. It is planned to acquire several pounds of mohair to work up on the textile machines.

Dr. Horn owns a cotton suit, made several years ago by a local tailor from goods woven in Tech mills, from cotton grown on the Tech farms. When Governor Ross S. Sterling was inaugurated he wore a shirt made by Tech home economics girls from goods woven by the Tech mills.

Monument To Be Unveiled By Society

Museum Organization Will Erect Stone At Site Of "Old Man Singer's Store"; Burns In Charge

In connection with its meetings here February 26, the Plains Museum society will sponsor the unveiling of a monument through its aim to preserve local history. The stone to be erected on the site of the former "old man singer's store," will mark the location of the first trading center for frontier cattlemen and buffalo hunters of the South Plains. The building, which was about three miles northwest of the present town of Lubbock, and at the head of the waters flowing into the Yellow House canyon, furnished the background for many frontier dramas.

Burns To Officialize. Mr. E. C. Burns will officiate at the ceremony which will evolve the dedicating of the marble slab to be donated by the South Plains Monument company. Mr. Burns, a Lubbock citizen, perhaps the only man remaining to tell the tales about the old trading post, also witnessed the burning and rebuilding of the store in 1896. This building was moved into Lubbock in 1891 and is included among the first few establishments of the town.

In connection with the formalities, Dr. W. C. Holden, vice-president of the Museum society will give a brief history of Lubbock which originated as the result of the consolidation of two rival pioneer villages. One, Monterey, was located north of the campus, and the other, from which the present town got its name, was across the canyon and east of the Plainview highway.

Branch Laboratory Established Here

A branch laboratory for seed determination has been established in Tech by the State Department of Agriculture. Equipment has been sent from the central to supplement that of the college, and G. L. Bene, junior agriculture student, is in charge of the local work, all the rest being done in Austin.

Bene's work is for the benefit of West Texas farmers and seed dealers. Employed by the state, he receives their seed samples and makes his determinations, in carload lots. To date, he has made 70.

This work is of great importance to agriculturalists in this section. Heretofore they have sent their products to Austin for the testings. By shipping them to Tech, transportation charges have been greatly lowered.

James Potts is Bene's assistant.

'Farm Organizations And Marketing Programs' Is General Topic Of Discussion; Glen Blackman President

Principal Speakers Include C. C. Cogswell, W. E. Cannon, Sterling C. Evans; 315 Attend Annual Supper

More than 350 attended the South Plains Farmers' and Home Makers' conference in the Aggie pavilion, February 11 and 12. A number of men prominent in agriculture were on the programs, and Dean A. H. Leidigh pronounced the meet "quite a success."

"Farm Organizations and Marketing Programs" was the general topic for discussion. Glen Blackman, graduate of 1923 who is stock farming near Shallowater, presided. Although the conference was not held under the auspices of the college, Tech faculty members and students took an active part in all the meetings. Dr. J. O. Ellsworth, class in agricultural economics discussed "Farmer's Outlook for the Coming Year."

Supper Is Held. The Farmers' supper at the Lubbock hotel on Thursday evening was the feature of the two days. "Pioneers" was the theme of the pageant then presented, and old songs were sung in connection with it. Prof. H. J. Bower, of the agronomy department, and James Potts, junior Aggie, directed the educational numbers. Prof. Fred G. Harbaugh held the cartoon. The Glen Blackman for the affair reached 315, 26 of this number being sold on the campus.

Among the principal speakers at the conference were: C. C. Cogswell, well known master of the Kansas State Orange; W. E. Cannon, of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station; and Sterling C. Evans, of the State Extension department.

All those who are interested in this scholarship are requested to call on Dr. A. W. Evans of the department of education for further information.

Beauty Election Starts Tuesday

Eight beauties for 1932 La Ventana will be selected next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at an election at the College bookstore. They will be elected by popular vote of the entire student body. This method of selection is being introduced because of the dissatisfaction of the student body with former methods.

Heretofore the beauties have been selected by some noted artist or actor. According to the members of the staff, this method has met with much disfavor among the students, as some of them have intimated that there has been underhanded work carried on after the pictures were returned to the staff.

This year, instead of having the pictures judged by some celebrity, the entire student body will select the eight beauties for La Ventana, and the votes will be counted by a committee from the Senior class.

Jack Durham, president of the senior class, will be in charge of the ballot boxes, which will be placed in the bookstore next Tuesday.

Each voter shall select eight pictures and number them in the order of his choice. Anyone selecting less than eight will lose his entire vote.

Pictures for the contest will be accepted up until Monday at 10 o'clock. They must be turned in to "Red" Huff, editor of the year book. So far, 22 pictures have been submitted and several more are promised.

Davis of the 131 Field Artillery, Texas National Guards, and Major J. B. King will head the receiving line. He will have with him his staff and the commanding officers of the two national guard batteries here.

Hundreds Offer Testimony. President Horn intimated that he would "lay the facts" before the Tech directors at their meeting next Wednesday. Hundreds of students were ready to testify that they had never been taught atheism in this institution.

Last week six questions were received by President Paul W. Horn from Rev. J. Frank Norris, Fort Worth Baptist pastor. The Tech president stated late Tuesday that he had not yet answered the questions, but probably would within the next few days. The Fort Worth pastor wanted the questions answered "yes or no."

Dates Will Be Made For Fish

Bashful Freshman Will Have No Trouble In Getting Dates For This Dance; Committees Report Last Night

Bashful freshmen will have no trouble getting dates for the sophomore hodge podge this year, according to Bill Stubbs, president of the soph class. Stubbs urges all freshmen to take advantage of this and get their names in early. He says that he wants every member of the freshman class at the dance if possible, but he warns the boys that there will be only 40 fish stags admitted.

Final plans for the dance to be held February 26, were made at the Soph class meeting last night in room 220 of the Ad building. The committees reported that their work was well under way.

Stubbs said that the bids were being reserved and suggested that those wanting stags should get them soon as there are only a few left. Reservations may be made through Bill Stubbs, Carroll Thompson, and Harriet Roach.

UNITED WE STAND

Students and faculty members united in the recent protest against the charges brought by a local pastor on a Tech department head and his associates. Practically every student on the campus was ready to defend the Tech Professors.

Texas Tech can proudly boast of a cooperative spirit among the students and faculty members. On the Tech campus there is quite a contrast from what exists at many other institutions where each is for himself and "the devil the hindermost". Most members of the faculty are ready at all time to stand behind the students in their triumphs and defeats, and this time the students have proven they are ready equally to support the faculty.

It might be well to keep in mind that in building a great institution, as is being done here, that students and faculty members should remember the words of the civil war president, "United we stand, divided we fall."

SANDSTORMS

When the sandstorm tugs at your clothing like a small child clinging to its mother's apron strings; when the topographic surface of neighboring counties peppers your face; when your eyes are filled to the capacity; when you retrieve your hat after its three block flight and you have exhausted your vocabulary of uncomplimentary remarks featuring ill winds and sandstorms—check up and see if you owe nature any apology.

A sandstorm does not last nearly as long as the after rain of snow. Nor does it frost bit your toes, nose, ears, freeze your radiators, bury sidewalks or make streets impassable. Nor does the mosquito or polywog thrive in the sandstorm districts. Nor does it require overcoat or "slickers", snowshoes or overshoes, dog sleds or boats to venture out in it. A sandstorm could be much worse.

Shakespeare wrote of the beauties of winter, but the world awaits some literary genius to point out the similar beauties in a sandstorm.—E. F.

PUNISH 'EM

It is too bad that so many teachers and scientists in the colleges of the South and in Texas unsettle the faith of students in the fixed religious teachings given them in their early years. These theological dogmas must of course be right, coming as they do from clergy, most of whom were informed in their student days what should be held as final doctrine. University teachers should understand that they are unwelcome in our halls of learning when they teach our young people to think for themselves. Truth has been fixed once for all, it is in the possession of our ecclesiastical leaders, and what they say goes.

Some maintain that there is a larger truth not yet attained, and that honest doubt is essential in the search for this. But we in Texas must not permit our young men to seek for newer and larger truths. They might cease to believe some of the odd teachings given them in their callow years. In the universities students should be taught "safe" subjects only. Any professor, who whispers evolution or teaches modern biological or psychological teachings in his classes or in conversation, should be promptly burned at the stake as a heretic.

Socrates was put to death for misleading the youth of his day. It is a good precedent. The trouble is that some are in doubt as to who really did mislead the youth. Should Socrates have been put to death, or his accusers? —Dallas News.

Tag Day Is Set For Tomorrow

AWS Will Sell Tags Here This Week; Is To Promote Democracy And Friendliness On Campus

Tomorrow is Tag Day. It has been set aside by the A. W. S. council for the promotion of democracy and friendliness in Tech. And though Friday is the special day, students and faculty members are urged to buy tags today and wear them the rest of this week. The cards cost only five cents apiece. On them are written "Howdy", and there is also a space for the owner's name. When meeting on the campus, everyone is to speak and call each other's name. Tech girls' organizations are in charge of the sales, and a cash prize will be given to the club that sells the most. The money goes to the council. This is the first year for Tag Day to be instituted at Tech. The success of the experiment depends upon the attitude of the student body. Martha Alice Penney, chairman the committee, says, "We want everybody to buy a tag and get into the spirit of the day."

UNDER THE DOUBLE "T"

By Lyle Holmes, Torreador Sports Editor

The following is a letter received from a Tech student: "Dear Sports Editor: A great deal has been written about basketball, that is from the side of how it should be played, but I have seen little written from the side of enjoyment of the game. Few of the better class players realize that in many instances, the practice has become fairly prevalent of trying to boo the referee, and thus "get your opponents goat." I have noted in Tech that the students are not content with cheering the good shots made by the Matadors, but take extreme delight in applauding or booing just when a visiting player is about to try for a free shot.

"This is something of a new experience to me, and I put it down to the rough and uncouth manners of a few of the men who have enough to be satisfied that they do not care particularly what the visiting athletes think. Plainly they seem to feel that it is quite all right to boo the referee, which our own coach would not hire if he wasn't all right, and to do anything that might interfere with visiting players while they are making a free shot. Basketball to some of the students is pretty much the same as a prize fight; anything goes so long as they can win. Isn't there something that can be done to keep our basketball games here from degenerating to a plane of unsportsmanlike and boisterous practices during play?" Signed H. H. J.

There is no need to comment on the justice of the complaint which this student has registered. Likewise it may as well be admitted that conditions of this kind exist, and further that there is a distinct tendency on the part of some of the new students in this direction, not all of them by far, but some of them. They begin with a lack of understanding of the traditions of the game, this misunderstanding is probably gotten while they played with Groucheville high, and their natural assumption is that they will go along with the same tactics that they have seen applied by the routing section of their own high school.

All thoughtful fans appreciate the fact that much of the enjoyment of basketball depends on a faithful observation of its spirit and etiquette. There are those who feel that the request for silence while a player is making a free shot is largely pretense and humbug; they point out that boxers perform while thousands are yelling and hurrahing. In some respects basketball is related to other games which are fundamentally affairs of deliberation and careful concentration, for instance the free shot. However, the point here is not a debate of psychological effects. The very many years that have gone into the building up of traditions of the game are sufficient argument that these are soundly enough founded to warrant all real sportsmen in standing up for their observation and enforcement. We feel sure that the upper ninety-nine per cent of the student body, who represent the real sportsmen of the college, will in time have their influence over the other one per cent.

All-Intramural Team Picked; Seven Artists, Two Engineers, One Aggie, One Cadet Honored

Entire Artist Backfield Is Picked; Good Spirit Shown; Aggies Have Most Pep; Stars To Try Out For Varsity

BY BILLY BUSH, Assistant Sports Editor. By the vote of the student coaches of the Intramural league, the following represent the all-star players for both first and second teams: First Team: Wilson, Eng. re. Wilson, Aggie. rt. Malby, Eng. rg. Crawford, L. A. e. Welch, L. A. lg. Holmes, L. A. lh. P. ather, Army rh. Watkins, L. A. lb. Cannon, L. A. Scoggins, L. A. Beauchamp, L. A. Davis, L. A. Manager.

In the center of the line, Crawford Liberal Arts, is undoubtedly the best selection. His defensive play was outstanding along with his offensive work. He played the same type of game that enabled him to be selected on an all-state high school team of 1931. Maitly, Engineer, an ex-letterman of Tech, and Welch, Liberal Arts, just recently out of Lubbock high school, gave the best bid for the guard positions. Each were good in their interference running and were especially so on the defense.

Holmes and Davis of the Liberal Arts and Aggie, respectively, as tackles, worked like veterans and proved too much for Jordan, Army, and Williams, Liberal Arts, who landed on the second selection. The aggressiveness of Holmes and Davis overshadowed their opponents.

The all-round work of Prather, Army, made a place for him at left-end. For this reason he was placed on offensive right-end and defensive left-end. He proved especially good on the defense. Wilson, Engineer, former Lubbock high wingman, was chosen to hold down the other end position. His ability to snatch passes was outstanding and his defensive play was good.

Backfield Was Great. The Liberal Arts backfield qualified the same four backs as first string material. This combination of Beauchamp, Scoggins, Cannon, and Watkins proved to be by far the best backfield that could be selected from the remaining teams. The Liberal Arts placed seven men on the first team; the Engineers, two; the Aggies, one; and the Army, one. The four remaining Liberal Arts men were placed on the second aggregation.

From the point of interest and actual support, the Aggie school backed their team the best. During each of their games they had two girls leading yells and a good sized rooting section, including several faculty members. The spirit displayed by the four teams and the sportsmanship on the field was of the highest type. Coach Cawthon stated that several promising men of the four teams should bid fair for the varsity next fall. In a letter to the officials of the college, Coach Cawthon said: "It is gratifying to me to see so many students still greatly interested in this form of manly exercise. Texas Tech and Texas A. and M. are the only colleges of Texas showing enough real man power of this nature to conduct a league of intra-mural sports. The other colleges have gone in for sports of a "softer" nature."

We Must Be Good Sports, Regardless!

By LYLE HOLMES (An Editorial)

It seems to be the nature of our students to "boo" the most when the least can be done about it. The spirit shown by the student body during the past few basketball games was not in the least sportsmanlike. However, it is some relief to know that it is not the true spirit of the body, but a yielding to the sentiments of a few who apparently influence certain groups, and do not pause to analyze their own thoughts.

It is easier to be graceful winners than losers, but before we can consider ourselves sportsmanlike, we should train ourselves to be able to accept defeat without being so crude in expressing our sentiments, such as "booing" the referee when Tech is given a penalty.

It is an accomplishment to arouse men with a promise of victory, but it is more commendable to get them to accept defeat nobly, than excite hatred against those who came out with the laurels.

Matadors Win Final Contest

Tech Quintet Comes Back In Final Counter To Take Game From Wildcats; Show Off Form On Monday

After losing the opener to the Abilene Christian Wildcats, the Matadors came back in true form Tuesday night to win 35 to 23. The Matadors showed a complete reversal of form from the previous night. In the game Monday night, the Wildcats won 46 to 22 and showed a little of everything. Accurate passing, perfect crisp shots and long field goals is the explanation of their victory. While the Christians were "hot," however, the Scarlet and Black warriors were helpless. They couldn't pass, they couldn't make a goal and they let the Wildcats outplay them throughout the contest.

Cheves and Powell were stars for the Christians, while Thomas, Dunn and Moody showed up well for the Matadors. ing Liberal Arts men were placed on the second aggregation. From the point of interest and actual support, the Aggie school backed their team the best. During each of their games they had two girls leading yells and a good sized rooting section, including several faculty members.

Pop Warner To Instruct His Methods Here

Jack Meagher and Tiny Thornhill Are Also Added To Staff For Second Annual Texas Tech Coaching School

With the signing of Pop Warner, Tiny Thornhill, and Jack Meagher this week, Tech is assured of having the most outstanding array of coaches, ever to instruct at a coaching school, for the second annual coaching school to be held here July 11-22.

Hunk Anderson, Marcy Schwartz, Phog Allen and Clyde Littlefield, are the other coaches who have been selected by Coach Cawthon to instruct at the coaching school here.

Anderson and Schwartz will give instructions about the Notre Dame system of play. Anderson took Rockne's place and made a good showing his first year in competition. His first year with Notre Dame he won six games, tied Northwestern, and lost to the Army. Marcy Schwartz was an unanimous selection for quarterback on every All-American team. Dr. Forrest Allen, Kansas university, is the leading basketball coach in the United States today.

While playing with Kansas City Athletic club, Allen was twice chosen All-American guard. Since that time he has coached at Baker university, Haskell institute, Missouri State Teachers college, and he is now coaching at Kansas university. For the past eleven years he has been coaching with Kansas university and has won several championships.

Has Won Six Titles. Coach Littlefield is completing his twelfth year as coach of Texas university track teams. He has won six championships in the Southwest conference. His teams have won national championships in the four-mile relays at Drake, the mile-relays at Kansas university, and the mile-relay and 440 football relay at the Drake Relays. Littlefield will give the fundamentals and demonstrations pertaining to track.

Jack Meagher, head coach at Rice institute will devote his time to blocking, by demonstrating all blocks and other details in that phase of football. Meagher played end for Notre Dame, and was selected on Walter Camp's All-American team. During the three years he has been at Rice he has beaten Texas university two out of three years.

Warner Will Demonstrate Pop Warner, originator of the famous double wing back formation, has been selected to demonstrate his famous system. It is without doubt, as popular, if not the most popular offense, in football today. His system works because it has deceptive spinners, double spinners, reverses, and power all perfected where it can be used so as to be the most effective. Warner recently signed a five-year contract to coach at Leeland Stanford. He will advance his new double wing back formation, with to men doing the spinner in the place of one. Tiny Thornhill will help Pop Warner with his line instructions. Thornhill has been with Warner since the Warner regime on the West coast.

Last year Tech had the largest coaching school in the United States.

Seniors Asked To Check Requirement

All seniors in the different schools who expect to be graduated in June or August of this year should report to their respective deans' offices some time during this term to have their degree requirements checked.

Notice was sent to The Torreador last week that all seniors report to Dean Gordon's office, but this was a mistake, as seniors in the different schools are to report to their own deans.

All those who have not already filed applications for degrees should go to the Registrar's office and do this immediately. It is necessary that this be done before the beginning of the spring term, so that the senior list can be made up.

Misses Juanita Wilmeth, Nell Allen and Lucille Mays, all of Spearman, were guests at the practice house Saturday and Sunday.

What They Tell The Editor

Dear Editor:

There should be no protest this year against the lovely custom of Tech boys wearing hats in the corridors and classrooms. Why not?

For three reasons:
 (1) To possess a hat these days is quite a distinction and the wearing of a hat adds so much to the impressive appearance of our young and virile men.
 (2) Wearing a hat in the halls displays an unusual originality which is very commendable; the students are using their heads for something—yes, racking their brains.
 (3) Our modern jellies are so very busy pursuing their "studies" that the waste of time and energy in taking off and carrying a hat is uncalled for.

Sincerely yours,
L. W.

Personal to C. L. F.—Thanks for your letter, but as this controversy is about quieted down, I think it best not to print it. I think you are wrong in part of it, however, for the Lubbock pastor failed to prove his charge.
 Personal to C. B. C.—I agree with you in your letter, but think it best not to print it this time. Write again. The Editor.

Only Two Students Are Now Confined To Local Hospital

With the flu epidemic in Tech presumably over, only two students are confined to the West Texas hospital this week. Evelyn Worley is the only victim of the flu, and Olen Bryant has undergone an operation of appendicitis.

The one issued last week stating that eight students were confined there.

Pre-Law Trial

ing auditorium, before the Pre-Law court, Miss Dryden, aspiring young lawyer, will plead "not guilty" according to Coker. "The evidence," he says, "is purely circumstantial, and we are confident of a speedy trial that will bring about the acquittal of Miss Dryden."

The defense is assisted by Bill Leslie and Clyde James. O'Neal Believes He Can Convict On the other hand the prosecuting attorney, Charles O'Neal, believes that he has sufficient evidence to convict the accused of first degree murder. Settle, Settle, and Settle, attorneys at law, including Helen Christine, and Doyle, will coordinate in the attempt to bring about the conviction.

Judge Solon Clements, graduate government assistant, states that the charge is by far the most grave on the records of the Texas Technological college courts. He added that it is the first of its kind to be determined upon the plea.

Clements has appointed Mendall Hughett, president of the Pre-Law club to act as assistant justice. Doris Ladd Johnson is court clerk, and H. C. Garrard bailiff.

The judge promises that adequate protection would be assured all persons witnessing the trial, since the court room will be guarded by armed police forces.

Garland Smith, 18-year-old, Tech student, was found shot dead on the night of February 26, on the stage of the speech room in the administration building. Miss Dryden was arrested and indicted on the charge of the murder.

"You know Grandfather raised tobacco in his younger days, so he knows what's what. I don't, of course—but I do know that Chesterfields are milder. It's wonderful to be able to smoke whenever you want, with no fear you'll smoke too many.

"And it doesn't take a tobacco expert to prove that Chesterfield tobaccos are better. They taste better...that's proof enough. Never too sweet. No matter when I smoke them...or how many I smoke... they always taste exactly right.

"They must be absolutely pure... even to the paper which doesn't taste at all. In fact...as the ads say... 'They Satisfy!'"

Wrapped in Du Pont Number 300 Moisture-proof Cellophane...the best and most expensive model!
