Pre-Law Mock Trial Delayed

Defendant Faints Before Grand Jury; Insanity Will Be Plea Of Accused; Chamberlain, Harrell Freed Of Suspicion

The Pre-Law mock murder trial scheduled for Monday February 8, was postponed until some later date due to a nervous breakdown of the defendant, Miss Mary Elizabeth Dryden, indicted by a grand jury of the Pre-Law for the brutal murder of Garland Smith, a sophomore liberal arts student, on the night of January 27, fainting after hearing the accusation and has not left her room in College Inn since being carried home by an ambulance.

Insanity may be the plea of the defense, according to the attorneys, Glynn Coker and Clyde James. Prosecuting attorney Charles O'Neill states that although the state's lawyer, Settle, O'Neill and Settle, will fight to the last ditch to defend the laws of the State and carry the campaign against crime throughout the precinct. There will be little response for the State if Miss Dryden pleads insanity.

John Chamberlain and Silve Harrell have been released from the Pre-Law jail on the basis of the new evidence brought against Miss Dryden. Chamberlain and Harrell were held in suspicion after the murder, but the grand jury failed to return an indictment for either of these gentlemen.

The Right Attitude Is Missing

(An Editorial)
BY MARSHALL C. FORMBY
The recent criticism against a Texas Tech department head in which it was charged "a department head and a group of professors associated with him are teaching atheism and infidelity" is certainly unfounded, illogical and uncalled for.

The Toreador has failed to find this week, a single student who will admit he has ever been directly taught atheism or infidelity in this institution. Furthermore, the speaker would quote no names connected with the accused teaching which certainly was an indication that his facts were none too well founded.

But if we should sweep everything else aside and grant for argument's sake, to the Lubbock pastor that atheism and infidelity are being taught at Texas Tech, it can not be denied that the local pastor used very undiplomatic means in trying to get the facts settled. The Toreador is certain that a pulpit is no place to unearth criticism but rather a place for the preaching of the Gospel. There were various other means of settling the question without his devoting a sermon on the subject.

It is our certain knowledge that this local pastor is connected with a committee which considers problems of this kind. He has had two recent chances to bring this problem up before this committee, but declined to do so, rather choosing to attract 'so called popularity' by preaching it from the pulpit.

Perhaps the minister had a good aim in view when he unearthed the criticism. But his right attitude is missing and he certainly went about settling the matter in the wrong manner.

Speech Correction Clinics Established

College Speech Department Supervises Work In Public Schools Of City; Major Students In Charge

Seven clinics for speech correction supervised by Miss Ruth Purdie have been established in the local public schools by the college speech department. Fifteen speech majors conduct them and, working in groups of two, hold two 30 minute classes a week.

So far 80 pupils have been found who have impediments. The teachers report the cases from their rooms to the principals, and then the Tech students diagnose them. The children are grouped according to the different defects and receive the same instruction that is given in the big city systems.

A daily record of the progress of each pupil is being kept in the speech office and according to Miss Purdie, successful cooperation has been given by the whole public school system.

The following students have charge of the work: Polly Barrow and Melba Watson, Central Ward; Graydon Ausmus and Juanita Beard, high school; Marjorie Wimberley, Grace Stevenson, Aileen Graves, and Jean Suits, K. Carter; Bernice Deen and Loraine Gable, George M. ## Local Pastor Says Atheism Being Taught

Rev. Campbell In Sunday Sermon Charges Tech Head Of Department With Teaching Atheism And Infidelity

Statement Made

President Paul W. Horn Issue Statement Saying He Believes Tech Is Trying For Right Religious Influence

Widespread interest was caused this week following a sermon Sunday by Rev. R. C. Campbell, pastor of the First Baptist church, in which he charged "a department head and groups of professors associated with him" on the Texas Technological college faculty are "teaching atheism and infidelity."

President Paul W. Horn indicated that he would "look into the matter." He also said that he would talk with the Lubbock pastor and ask for evidence. He made the following statement late Tuesday to The Toreador: "I don't think there is another institution anywhere which is trying to better influence the religious life of our students than Texas Tech. We have in our college a YWCA and a YWCA. Two Bible teachers are located here. A large majority of the members of our faculty are active church workers in local churches."

The Lubbock pastor said in part: "There are a few professors in our colleges and a group in Tech who delight in airing their skepticism, doubts, atheism and infidelity in classrooms and in conferences." He said, "Among these is the head of a certain department who, from all reports, is undermining the faith of students and leaving them wandering and groping in the dark. The faith

THE FISH QUEEN ELECTION

Freshmen students will within the next few days choose some first year co-ed to reign over the annual ball next month. As is the custom, this election will be sponsored by The Toreador.

Queens in the '35 class are numerous and consequently it will be hard for many freshmen to decide for whom to cast their votes. It is every freshman's duty, however, to indicate his choice.

It might be pointed out that there is much difference between co-eds who are beauties and those who are queens. Some girls may be beautiful but are everything else but queens. It should therefore behoove every voter to cast his ballot for a queen, instead of the prettiest girl or the one who has the most dates.

The Toreador repeats that there are many queens in the fish class. May the "sweetest" one wear the crown.

THE MILITARY RECEPTION AND BALL

Tech students should take advantage of the 'open house' being held at the armory on February 22, and attend it. This is the first event of this kind to be held in the new building, recently moved into. Beginning at 8:30 that evening the first annual military ball is to be held.

Since the arrival of Col. Charles A. Davis to the Tech military department, rapid progress has been made by the college cadets. The department is to be commended for the program it has planned in celebration of the 200th Birth anniversary of the Nation's first president.

MID-TERMS

Three terms each school year, at the half-way mark of the fall, winter, and spring terms, Tech students become classified into two groups—those who take the mid-term quizzes seriously and those who don't. Many at the first term begin in the number one manner but by the second and third are swiftly approaching the second category.

Some instructors firmly believe in tests of the students knowledge after six weeks' work and base approximately a third of the final grade on it; others give them merely as a matter of course or as another weekly quiz while others give none at all, placing the responsibility of the term grade almost wholly on the final exam.

If some system could be incorporated whereby mid-term exams were definitely required or abolished, maybe by substituting small tests throughout the semesters before the finals, the academic pressure might be spread out more evenly, rather than brought to bear so strongly twice each term.

IS PROMOTED

Miss Margie Collier, former Tech student, who has been in charge of the Mexican school in Stanton, Texas, has been promoted to teacher of English in the Stanton grade school.

Pioneer Diary Will Be Read

Colorful Record Of Life Of Frontiersman To Be Read At Museum Society Meeting Here On February 26

From the diary of a frontier freighter, members of the Plains Museum society will receive first-hand glimpses into the days of 32. At the meeting of the society held on February 25, Dr. M. A. Stainbrook is to read accounts from the life of a great-uncle, J. A. Stainbrook, who came West with one of the early wagon trains. The record tells of a trip along the old Santa Fe trail, which starts from Independence, Missouri, and has its destination in Santa Fe, New Mexico. From there the writer trailed down to Chihuahua, Mexico, and across to the Pacific coast of Mexico. Stirred by the spirit of the gold rush young Stainbrook sailed up to California to join the hordes of miners that were pushing into the new state.

Relates Narrow Escape The diary relates observation throughout the journey, and speaks of numerous threats and narrow escapes from the Indians. It mentions many hardships, and times during the trip when water supplies were low. While in California Stainbrook tells of taking out small quantities of gold, and describes life around the mining camps.

TIME AND TIDE

BY WILL BRISBARTON

(This column is being written this week by an ex-student of Tech who presents here his reactions to the charges preferred by the Rev. Mr. R. C. Campbell in a sermon at the First Baptist Church last Sunday night. The Toreador does not present these views as its own. Opinions expressed here are interesting as those of a former student who attended Tech four years, taking courses in every department of the school of liberal arts, except physics and German, and courses in the schools of engineering and agriculture.)

BROTHER CAMPBELL is a sincere man. He feels certain that he has been able to work up a unique partnership with God. By all the rights of a big booming voice and a burly mass of visibility Brother Campbell is spokesman for the partnership. God's only function is to lend his sanction and authority to the solemn sentences that follow forth upon the waves of the big booming voice. Of course, in the opinion of Rev. Mr. Campbell it is unthinkable that God would double cross a partner by withholding His official sanction. That would be downright betrayal.

Yet some of us poor sinners cannot believe that God has neglected to read the lexicons of the English language. We ascribe to God the attribute of omnipotence. We can not conceive of an ignorant God. Especially do we find it hard to believe that God would be peculiarly ignorant of that particular word which denies His existence. Realizing thus, we are inclined to believe it is the Reverend Mr. Campbell who does not know the meaning of the word "atheism." It is pretty hard on God for Him to have to take the blame for lending His authority and sanction to every irresponsible and foolish utterance that proceeds from the mouth of the numerous gentlemen who claim to be His spokesmen. In the first place, these gentlemen disagree among themselves and put God in the embarrassing predicament of sanctioning statements that are obviously contradictory. Since each one is quite certain in his own mind that he is the voice of God, and it is axiomatic that God would not contradict himself, it appears to us that some of these gentlemen might possibly be mistaken as to the unique position they claim to occupy.

Now the Rev. Mr. Campbell may never have been oriented into the intricate method by which a word is located in the dictionary. Even so, if his curiosity had been healthy enough, he would soon have run onto it by beginning at the first of the book and reading progressively forward—for strangely enough the word is found only alphabetized under the first letter of the alphabet in the fore part of the dictionary.

NOW attention, in case Mr. Campbell is not a sincere man, and if he is a sincere man, simply means the denial or disbelief in the existence of God or a First Cause. It has nothing to do with the virgin birth and certainly does not mean "a disbelief in Baptist theology," as Mr. Campbell interprets it. Infidelity, another word Mr. Campbell knows how to pronounce, depends entirely upon who is speaking. Mr. Campbell believes immersion is "following Christ in baptism." I don't think the physical symbol has little to do with the spiritual truth involved for that matter, but believe that history, tradition, and scripture support sprinkling as the mode. That's alright. There's no argument. You take the method that satisfies you and leave me my belief. I haven't the slightest desire to persuade you to my way of thinking. But the point I'm merely trying to make is: from the Baptist viewpoint we people who belong to the Jewish, Catholic, Episcopal, Presbyterian, and Methodist churches are "infidels." We don't believe. From our viewpoints the immersionists are "infidels." They don't believe. An infidel is merely a person who doesn't believe what we believe.

So Mr. Campbell would call a person an infidel who does not think the virgin birth is Jesus' credentials to a divine mission and sonship but finds his credentials in the message he taught and in the spirit in which he lived. Unitarians are commonly called Christians—and unusually intelligent and devoted ones at that—and this is their interpretation. What man among you will say William Howard Taft was an infidel? Yet Taft was a Unitarian and his noble Christian life amply attests the potency of his religion. Thomas Payne, Benjamin Franklin, George Washington were deist—they did not interpret the virgin birth as Baptist theology does. And Mr. Campbell would call these infidels. Understand I am not arguing for their beliefs. The point is, a man has as much right in this free land of ours to be a Unitarian as he has to be a Baptist.

Of course, it is not becoming to assign ulterior motives, yet one cannot help but recall that Mr. Campbell is a director of Baylor College for Women at Belton and that this little college is badly in need of both students and funds. If enough people can be scared away from state institutions, prospects will look brighter for little Baylor Belton.

The chief virtue of these little denominational schools is that all knowledge has been carefully culminated of any disturbing facts and your person can attend such an institution for four years and come away as innocent and ignorant and as thoughtless as he was upon entering. These students are informed on the authority of the informer what the truth is and then professes to be so. They are not to be surprised to warp and twist and strain at opportunities and isolated segments of thought until they build up a fairly presentable support to the thing they already knew was right. In such fashion do some dogmas perpetuate themselves. How do I know? I attended such a college once.

Mr. Campbell needs to be plainly told that Tech is not a denominational college and not subject to denominational dictation. He has a chair of Bible out here whose occupants is both able and willing to dispense the particular brand Mr. Campbell favors. That is the limit of denominational jurisdiction. The field is open for proselyting if Mr. Campbell and his brethren care to proselyte. The campus has been placed generously at the disposal of all denominations. More than that, the college has given untiring cooperation to all religious endeavors on the campus. I assert without fear of successful contradiction that no faculty in the state has been selected with such extreme care as to the moral influence that would be exerted upon the students by faculty members. This includes denominational colleges as well as the state schools.

Mary Beth Sheely returned to Lubbock this week after a two weeks absence because of a throat infection.

Plans For Coaching School Are Nearing Completion

Anderson And Schwartz Are Added To Staff

Plans Well Under Way For Second Annual Coaching School; Littlefield To Instruct Track Tactics

In addition to Coach Clyde Littlefield, of Texas university, the Tech coaching staff have announced three new additions who have been signed for the second annual coaching school of Texas Tech. They are Hunk Anderson, present Notre Dame instructor; Marchy Schwartz, unanimous selection for halfback on every All-American team; and Phog Allen, basketball instructor from the University of Kansas. Two coaches for the Warner system are yet to be announced.

Hunk Anderson will give instructions about the Notre Dame system of play. He was one of the greatest linesmen ever turned out by Rockne. In the eight years following his graduation, he was assistant to Rockne. One time, in 1928, he left Notre Dame to become head coach at Saint Louis university, but he did not like this and came back to Notre Dame to help Rockne mold the line for his national championship team in 1930.

Is Great Coach
Anderson is very modest, quiet, but forceful enough to be a capable leader of the Notre Dame grid team. He took Knute Rockne's place and made a good showing his first year in competition. Chick Meehan says the Hunk Anderson mission being the coach of the year by just sixty cents. This was the last minute in the Southern California game.

In his first year with Notre Dame, Anderson won six games, tied Northwestern and lost to the Army. Marchy Schwartz will help Anderson with the Notre Dame system by giving backfield demonstrations and lectures on the pass defense. He is the most brilliant half back in Notre Dame history. The way Schwartz performed in 1930 has been acclaimed by experts to be directly responsible for Notre Dame's national record. In every game he performed like a champion. He averaged five yards every time he carried the ball against Northwestern and averaged almost fifty yards with the ball almost too slippery for handling.

Schwartz will probably be Anderson's selection to coach the backfield of Notre Dame next year. He will be selected to demonstrate blocking, passing, and broken field running.

Allen To Come Here
Dr. Forrest Allen, the leading basketball coach of the United States, will be at the second Annual Texas Tech Coaching school. Allen was an All-American guard while playing with the Kansas City Athletic club in 1904 and 1905. He came to the Kansas City club after playing with the University of Kansas. Since leaving the Kansas City Athletic club in 1906, Allen has spent his last 25 years in coaching basketball.

Allen first coached at Baker university. He beat every important college team in Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska were defeated by his teams. Next, he became coach at Haskell Institute. He carried his Indian team on a five-thousand mile basketball trip, winning 24 out of 25 games. In 1908 and 1909 he went to Kansas and won the Missouri valley championship for two years. He next went to the Missouri State Teachers college and never failed to win a championship while he was there. Since 1919, he has been instructor of basketball at Kansas university, and his teams have won several championships.

Later two coaches to instruct the Warner double wing-back system will be selected for the coaching school. Judging from the number of inquiries, the coaching school this year will be larger than the one last year. The school last year with an enrollment of 300 was the largest in the United States.

Tech-Simmons Play Tonight

Last Of Four Game Series Is Tonight In Tech Gym; Cowboys Boast Of Youngest Team In America

Tonight the Matadors will engage the Simmons Cowboys in the final game of a series of four between the two schools.

The Cowboys are present basketball champions of the Texas conference. In the past years their most frequent losses have been to the Canyon Buffaloes of the T. I. A. A. conference, frequently they have won rather handily against the Southwest conference teams.

The Cowboys, like the Buffaloes have something extraordinarily to boast of. They claim to have the youngest team in North America—not a single member of the regular quintet is over 19 years of age.

Loss To Bufts
The only losses sustained by the Cowboys this year have been against the Buffaloes of Canyon. Their most recent loss was to the tall quintet of Ed Sam Burton. It was lost on their current road trip. They are a couple of high scorers in McCollum and Neely, who are leading the Texas conference at the present in scoring. It will be principally against these players that Coach Moran will direct his defensive forces.

Under The Double "T"

BY LYLE HOLMES
Toreador Sports Editor

Again our downtown editor, Collier Harris, sees fit to make a discreditable comment in his column concerning intramural football in Tech. He also states further, that not a single player came up from the intramural ranks of last year. We can quote him three players off-handly who made their name in intramural football, and were stars there before they made the varsity. The men we have in mind are: Turner, Harris and Hittcock. All three had never lettered in high school or had never played with any kind of a Tech team to do any good before. In reply to his statement, that the only good that was derived was the physical exercise. It occurs to us that apparently our sports editor does not fully understand quite a few things that goes on out here at Tech. We suggest that he come out and look things over very now and then.

From the showing made by the Cameron Aggies and regardless of the showing they make against the Simmons Cowboys, we know that they have some real scoring punch stored away, that apparently up to date they have not fully called out. Most of the men have been together for the last three or four years. In the last three years they have had three different coaches. It is not easy for a team to adjust itself to a new coaching method each year.

Coach Cawthon is not doing any minding around when it comes to selecting a staff for the Annual Tech Coaching school. With Littlefield for track coach, Anderson and Schwartz for the Notre Dame system of football, and Phog Allen for basketball, he has probably the most popular array of outstanding coaches ever got together. Not content with these men alone, he will select a couple more men to give instructions about the Warner system. Although we do not know definitely yet who the men will be to direct the Warner system, it is a sure bet that Cawthon's selection will be equally as good as the others.

Just having the men who have been selected for our coaching school to come here will mean that Tech will get more valuable publicity than they have ever gotten before at one time. Before Cawthon came here, the only athletic recognition ever gotten by Tech was during the reign of Ransome Walker. Walker's participation in the East-West game was the only publicity Tech got in an athletic way. Since Cawthon was selected head coach there has been an constant stream of athletic comment about Tech. If for no other reason just his presence here would be considerable information for publicity.

Les Tribble is planning some real bouts for the all-college fun night. He has under his care a string of fighters and wrestlers. Some of the most prominent boxers are: Demp Cannon, from Slaton, he got his name Demp from being able to handle his duking so lively; Cy La Master, Cook, Luper, Toby Greer, Poole and Connor, Tribble and Juley Owens head the list of wrestlers. Oh! yes, we forgot to mention Lou, the tough boy from Weatherford Junior college, he can box plenty handily and mixes the rough stuff along with the entertainment all-run night will be boxing and wrestling, so those of you who want to get their fill of many sports had better be there.

Preparations are being made for the spring. A track meet has been arranged for the tracksters to attend. They may also enter the Great Plains meet. Amarillo Junior college wants to schedule a couple golf matches with Tech. It is likely that we will first send our golf team there, then they will give us a return match here.

How many of you have been contributing to Jay's collection, which will be used to help pay for some material that was used in the bonfire before the New Mexico university game? He will appreciate all donations, no matter how small they are.

W. B. Rushing, Cecil Bickley, Toothacher, Homer Roberts, Claude Barker, and other tennis enthusiasts report that they have been getting in some practice during the past week. It is their hope that they will be able to get as much practice as possible, because of the comparatively short time before season will open in that sport.

Liberal Artist Sweep Games In Intramural Contests To Retain Title Of Tech Campus

Last Games Held Last Saturday; Baird Is Big Threat For Aggies; All L. A. Players Play Good Ball

The Liberal Artists swept through intramural competition without much effort, winning three games and losing one. Their final triumph was Saturday, when they ran roughshod over the Engineer aggregation, 19 to 0. In the first game of the afternoon the Aggies tied the Army, 9 to 0.

The final standing leaves the Liberal Arts head and arms ahead of the other teams. The Army, Aggies, and Engineers are all three tied for second place. There will be no playoff for second position.

The first contest between the Aggies and the Army was a nip and tuck affair. Both teams featured former Matador lettermen. The lettermen playing with the Aggies were: Hodges, Nixon, and Murphy. Those playing with the Army were: Malby and Allen. Baird was without a doubt the biggest offensive threat of the game. His returning of punts, his broken field running, and passing were without a doubt remarkable. It was his advantage offensively, that gave the Soldiers the edge in first downs. The Army made 19 first downs against 6 registered for the Aggies.

Army Threaten
Several times the Army advanced the ball within scoring distance, only to lose it by a fumble or an intercepted pass. Once an Army man caught a pass with an open field and dropped the ball almost on the goal line where it was recovered by the Aggies. Hodges, fullback for the Aggies made the only yardage picked up by the farmers. The most thrilling play of the contest happened when Baird punted on his own goal line and punted out on the Aggies 5-yard line.

The Liberal Arts continued their march to victory as they have done in past encounters with other intramural teams, by drubbing the Engineers, 19 to 0. Simmons and Don Maddox were the only outstanding stars for the Engineers, both boys carried the agate for gains and were almost deadly on the defense. Without Maddox and Simmons the Engineer team would have been like a duck without water.

All Are Outstanding
For the Liberal Artists every man of the eleven was outstanding. The line was almost impregnable, and it opened huge holes time after time for the plunging backs to dart thru Scoggins, Beauchamp, Bush, and Watkins, romped almost as they pleased about the field. The first touchdown came in the early part of the game after a march down the field. Scoggin carried the ball over. Trial for the extra point failed. The next two touchdowns were made in the final minutes of play. The first was made by Cannon on a broken field dash through the center of the entire Engineer aggregation for about 30 yards. The next was made by Johnny Beauchamp, Artists quarter when he intercepted a pass and returned it for a touchdown from the 35 yard line.

According to Head Coach Pete Cawthon, the past intramural football season has been the most successful ever held at Tech.

Matadors Win Couple From Cameron Five

In Both Contests Last Thursday and Friday Nights, Tech Trails Until Final Minutes Of Game Then Forges Ahead

In two of the most hectic games ever witnessed on the Matador home floors, the basketballers of Tech won handily over the Cameron Aggies of Lawton, Oklahoma, Thursday and Friday nights. The first game was won 37 to 32 and the second 37 to 29.

The first game ended with the Matadors in the lead after they had trailed the Aggies for a hard fought first period. The Tech sees came back in the closing half primed for action and with a dead head on the basket. At no time was the Cameron lead very large.

Despite the fact the lead won by the Aggie in the first game, Haden Moody demonstrated the best exhibition of scoring witnessed by local fans to date. Practically all his shots were from a distant vantage point. His total was 17. Little Eskew nosed out the elongated Smith for his team's laurel with 16 points, and then came back Friday evening to the Moody's record with 17 points. Crews was the leading scorer the final night for the Matadors with 15 points, although he was hard pushed by Fisher, who was jumping center for the Techites.

Fouls Are Numerous
The final fray was marked by spirited play on the part of both clubs, especially in the last half. Two Aggies were banished on fouls, and a couple of Matador went the same route. Counts and Gower featured the Aggie defense while Thomas and Dunn were outstanding for the Matadors.

Ball passing and close guarding was noticeably speeded and intensified at this point with Crews and Moody furnishing the gallery with plenty of excitement and thrills. Tadlock was functioning properly in breaking up the Farmer passes, and Hill's recovery of shots from the backboards was nothing short of remarkable.

Both games were almost alike, the Matadors trailed until the final minutes of play in both and then forged ahead. In both games the Matadors exhibited at least one scoring threat. In the first game it was Moody who could not be stopped, and in the second Crews came forward to offer his assistance.

Attendance so far this season has been nothing extra. There are many Tech citizens who haven't seen a basketball game this year. Tonight is their chance to see one of the best games of the year.

Texas Tech's Matadors meet the Simmons Cowboys again at the gymnasium at 5 o'clock this evening. Scores of the other three games with Simmons for this season are history. Tonight is another night. Last fall the Matadors ruined the Cowboys' homecoming celebration by downing them 8 to 0 in football. During their visit to the Cowboy camp last month, however, the Matadors dropped both cage games.

Tech must beat Simmons tonight. Every student must do his share and attend the game. The Matadors can play much better ball when the gym is filled with loyal Tech students supporting them. Victory tonight will be more certain if 1,500 students are present.

Fowler Talks At Architect Society Meet

Is First Of Speakers To Be Secured; Davis Conducts Business Meeting; Annual Picture Is Made

Mr. Henry Fowler of the firm of Peters, Strange, and Bradshaw, Lubbock architects, spoke to the students of architecture Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. J. B. Crisler, 2112 14th.

Mr. Fowler's speech was centered upon "design and working drawings" in which he introduced examples to emphasize more clearly their connection and consideration in actually producing architecture.

Mr. Fowler and Prof. Klein-schmidt were "school mates in architecture" in France. Mr. Fowler is the architect of Lubbock's new Senior high school building. He is chief designer for the local firm of architects with which he is connected. He is a graduate of the school of architecture of the University of Texas. Some of Mr. Fowler's work that he did while studying in France is an exhibition in the Engineering on Tech campus.

Davis Conducts Meeting
R. V. Davis, president of the society, conducted a business meeting in which future plans were made. Also at this meeting, members of the society including the visiting speaker were photographed for this year's picture in the annual, as the architects will have a full page as has been the custom.

Valentine Festivities Planned By Social Clubs

St. Valentine's Day is at hand, the time when lovers should not forget their sweethearts and surely no man his wife. The shop windows are filled with reminders—heart shaped boxes of toothsome candies, bewitching messages of flowers that have a wealth of secret meaning if you know the language of flowers, and hundreds of quaint and charming missives ready to express exactly the right thought.

Now is the time for entertaining and with the Valentine theme, quite a few interesting events are scheduled.

The annual Valentine ball of the Las Chaparrillas club is to be given Friday evening at the Uptown Dance palace. At this time, new members will be formally presented.

Mrs. Vernon Brown, 2410, 14th street, is to entertain Tech students who stay at Duck Inn with a Leap Year Valentine bridge party and dance from 9 until 12 o'clock and Saturday the students are to bring guests.

The annual banquet of Las Leales will be held at the Hilton hotel at seven o'clock Saturday.

Members of the Ko-Shari club are to attend a dance at the 20th street, Saturday evening.

The Tech Faculty women's monthly tea will be held at 3 o'clock in the Home Economics tea room Saturday evening.

Ko-Shari Club Has Chinese Dinner

Mysterious Mike Moses Around

I reckon that on account of LONNIE LANGSTON has been been a wanting someone or other to make a snufflet report on the gongs on of the Yungzer generation out at the Tech, I kinda tell it my duty to help him, so I goes over to the Jim and gets a Stop watch from Mister "DUTCHIEY" SMITH, the track coach and I kum back to the Ad Building and this here is what I found out: HARRIETTE ROACH AND JAY TIMMONS held hands for 2 minutes and 30 seconds—CLAYTON REED and FLORENCE MOSES held hands for 1 minute and 45 seconds—MELBA GILBERT and "BUD" HOFFMAN, I calculates about 3 minutes—JELLY BROWN AND "JINNER" MURRAY, about 20 seconds, ED BROWN and MARY EARLE LOFLAND about — well right here the bell rung and I goes on to my speaking class so I kum back and dogged if them two weren't still down there a holding hands, so I "lowed as how they were a holding hands approximately 35 minutes and 50 seconds, roughly. Looks like they would get tired, don't it. I tried to catch AKE LOUGHBRIDGE and GERTRUDE STANDEFER and "JELLY" KELLY and CAMILLE and you know I stayed almost all day and nary a one of em made a move toward the tub.

RALPH PENNEY seems kinder a fallin for LAVOYCE DYSON, and not only that but she is a beginning to become kinder a fallin for him.

BOB CRAWFORD is a going to make a good Matador for next year, I bet. And as I walks around the campus, I can't help but notice the SUE BARTON sure is a missin' some feller, some body from the champion cotton city.

I seen SYLVA WILSON who runs the dean of women's office and acts as guiding star of Las Chaps over at the bookstore counter drinkin' coffee.

Oh, well, Ain't love grand. I reckon I could talk to youans most a day on the love affairs rite here on this campus but the Toreador bossess limits my talkins to purt-night nothin', so well, so long—Next week, I got a good'un on VETA STARFORD.

yours, Mike

P. S.—Someone or other told me that LONNIE RIGGINS, is the old-fashioned boy who wont kiss his girl.
