62 NEW STUDENTS IN WINTER TERM, NEAR 1,000 MARK

ENROLLMENT FOR YEAR HOVERS NEAR MARK OF 1,000

At it again. A phrase, short and snappy enough to suit the conditions, yet containing material for an excellent sermon if anyone felt so turned.

With the first of this week Texas Tech passed out of its first stage of infancy and entered the realm of established schools. Texas Tech, as has been said so many times, is made up of students. It is not so much that the buildings, magnificent as they are, have weathered successfully the tramping of men and women down its halls and stairways, nor that they have proven themselves out of danger from west Texas sand.

What matters most is that students have done their job. Some students, who have had work in other colleges, know what school work really means better, perhaps, than some just beginning in their college life.

The majority of students in Tech have not had, heretofore, any experience in college and some are just adjusting themselves to conditions they find here.

It is a relatively difficult thing for one who has been out of high school, even for a short time, to adjust one's self to college conditions, but it must be done. It is easy to let lessons slip in favor of some entertainment for the evening, but when they once slip, it is easier to do that thing again, and so until the prosecuting habit is formed. "Stay with it."

With these advantages and disadvantages in mind, we might be desired to review our work during the past three months. Is our work worth while? Do our grades as they have been determined set a standard for us to follow?

It might be worse than useless to ask "are you satisfied with your work?" because the answer to that question depends upon the individual. It is in direct proportion to the strength of purpose which that individual has that the answer to that question might be.

Within the first term of this college enough respect for the Alma Mater should have been aroused in the student body to make that sentiment strong enough to really mean something. Are you doing work that is worthwhile as far as Tech is concerned? Do your actions set up standards that it would be well for undergraduates from year to year to follow?

Some of us were disappointed either with or without reason. Others of us were elated, for the good reason of excellent grades. Others were "satisfied." Yet others didn't care; what mattered most was that they "got by." And some didn't get by.

With 62 new students enrolled in the Texas Technological college for the winter term, the enrollment for the year is climbing near the 1,000 mark, according to information given out by the registrar's office. New students are being received daily, and a number are taking entrance examinations preparatory to entering when the necessary requirements have been met.

College officials are well pleased with the increasing enrollment and consider it an indication that the institution is growing in popularity. It is estimated that approximately one-half of the new students are transfers from other colleges.

Faculty Members Are Active During Holiday Vacation

During the holidays following the close of the fall term several of the faculty members visited in distant places though some remained in Lubbock. Miss West, Tech librarian, spent the holidays in Lubbock and kept the library open to students remaining in Lubbock on all week days except Christmas eve, Christmas, and New Year's day.

Mr. Harrison of the English department attended the Modern Language Association at Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 29 to 31 and read a paper before the Shakespeare group. "The Influence of Shakespeare on Walt Whitman."

Miss Stafford of the mathematics department attended the American association for the advancement of science and the American mathematics society at Kansas City, Mo. While there she met many old friends and an enjoyable time was reported.

A party composed of President and Mrs. Horn, Dr. and Mrs. Granbury, Miss Ruth Horn, Miss Lulla Boone and Dr. Patton motored to Clovis, N. M., and while there were entertained by the students of Clovis. Dr. Patton took several pictures of geological formations while in New Mexico.

Vanity Fair Contest Closed Yesterday Noon

The vanity fair contest of La Ventana closed Friday at noon. As a result of this contest one hundred and seventeen annuals have been sold. Winners in this contest were as follows:

Miss Atton Gilkerson, 11,500; Miss Jane Mast, 4,800; Miss Edna Yonge, 4,600; Miss Ruth Officer, 4,200; Miss Maurine Hughes, 2,700.

These five winners will have their pictures placed in the vanity fair section of La Ventana.

KEYS SUCCEEDS MORRISON ON LA VENTANA STAFF

At the regular meeting of the Press club on Wednesday night of this week Rex Keys, of Hollis, Okla., was elected to fill the office of business manager of La Ventana, Tech's first year work, which position on the annual staff was left vacant by the resignation of Tom J. Morrison.

Mr. Keys, a sophomore in the Tech, is a former student of Oklahoma A. & M. college, where he had experience in annual work. He has been closely associated with the business management of the annual while serving as director of the vanity fair contest, and is probably better acquainted with the financial condition of the publication than any other individual student.

The position of associate editor of the LUBBOCK LEADER is left vacant by the resignation of Mr. Morrison, who made no recommendation as to his successor, stating that he would leave the matter in the hands of the editor.

Amarillo-Lubbock All-Star Game Ends in 7-7 Tie

One of the most exciting games of the grid season was played in Amarillo last night between players of Lubbock and Amarillo. The game was fast from start to finish and many brilliant runs and plays featured the contest. The final score was 7-7.

GRADES FOR FALL TERM ARE MAILED OUT DECEMBER 30

15 PER CENT OF FIRST ENROLLMENT MAKE GRADES ABOVE B

A duplicate list of the grades of the students enrolled in the Tech for the fall term was mailed out to the parents of the students the last week in December, and those who were spending the holiday vacation at home had the privilege of learning their grades before returning to school.

The number of failures during the fall term was surprisingly small, according to Registrar E. L. Doherty. Faculty members state that the class of work done was very commendable considering the difficulties and inconveniences under which the term was begun. Approximately 2 per cent of the enrollment made straight A records, 5 per cent made A and B grades, and 8 per cent of the enrollment had a B average.

The following list of honor students has been given out by the registrar's office:

Tech to Entertain Interscholastic League Meeting

The Lubbock district of the university interscholastic league which will be held here during April will be entertained by the college. The league meet heretofore has been handled under the auspices of the high school and everything has been in the care of the officials of the city schools.

Stangel To Select Foundation Stock Of Dairy Cattle

Mr. Stangel, Professor of Animal Husbandry, left for Dallas, Fort Worth and Waco Tuesday, January 5, to select the foundation stock of dairy cattle for the Tech. At Fort Worth he will select cattle of the Holstein-Friesian breed and at Waco and Dallas he will look over herds of Jersey cattle. While at Dallas he will also attend a meeting of the Jersey Cattle club.

STUDENTS PLUNGE BLINDFOLDED INTO DUTIES OF REGISTRATION

The grand rush accompanying the duties of registration Monday reminded one of a "closing-out" sale in a country store, where prizes are offered for the first eighteen women entering the store on opening day, or probably a fire sale in a college town, to bring the illustration nearer home. The waiting lines might well be compared with the waiting line at a soup counter in a large city, and many students were made homesick by recalling memories of the little red school house where they lined up to march in after each intermission.

SURPRISE DANCE AT HOMECOMING CHERI CASA BOYS

The enviable record which the Cheri Casa dormitory has established for its delightful social events was greatly strengthened on Monday evening of this week when Mrs. Jesse Summers, matron and proprietor of the home for boys, entertained the boys of the dormitory and their girl friends with a surprise dance, honoring the homecoming of the members of the Cheri Casa club following the holiday vacation. Mrs. Summers was assisted by Lieut. H. E. Killin and Chuck Collins and his Cheri Casans, who furnished the music for the occasion.

The entire affair was a surprise to the boys at the Cheri house, plans for the dance having been made before the return of the members of the club. This being the first social event of the winter term, it was accepted with delightful surprise and assisted greatly in breaking up the quiet "spell" which seem to invade the hall. The welcome was one that would eliminate any feeling of homesickness on the part of the inhabitants of the dormitory.

At the hour of 8 the girls who had been in vited to participate in the surprise arranged for the dormitory boys, assembled in the apartments of Mrs. Summers while the boys were invited downstairs and arranged for the surprise. When the setting was complete the girls came marching down the stairway masked, and singing the praises of the Cheri Casa lads. They were met at the foot of the stairs by the boys and were swept away in a masked dance. At the close of the first dance the masks were removed and the dancing programs were completed. Enthusiasm was kept high by Collins and his merry-makers, who comprise one of the most popular musical aggregations in the city, and the frolic continued until shortly after midnight. Delightful refreshments were served at 10 o'clock.

FIRST SWEATERS ARE PRESENTED MATADOR SQUAD

LETTER SWEATERS ARE PRESENTED TO MATADORS

Two dozen huskies of the gridiron "ball tagged out" in brilliant sweaters bearing the first letters to be issued by the Texas Technological college, was a sight which greeted the faculty and student body in convocation Thursday, following the presentation of the sweaters by Coach Freedland.

The stock judging pavilion rang with applause as the grid stars lined up for review by the convocation.

Following announcements by the faculty, Dr. Horn spoke briefly of the football season and stated that he was mighty proud of the boys in their first year of contest. He called on Dr. Jackson of the athletic committee for a few words. Dr. Jackson in a very elaborate manner complimented the boys on their playing and expressed his thanks to the student body for their support in making the season a success.

Coach Freedland then arose and announced the names of the men to receive the awards. He also expressed his thanks to the student body for their loyal support of the team. Captain Windy Nicklaus was called upon for a speech in which he expressed his pride at having been captain of the first Matador eleven. Captain-elect Carpenter then came on the stage and voiced his appreciation to the team for the honor of being elected captain of the coming season. He expressed his desire to aid in making the next season as successful as the past, and called upon the student body to give every possible assistance.

Coach Freedland kept the boys in suspense as to what was on the sweaters by telling of the difficulties in selecting the letter. When Captain Nicklaus stepped forward for his sweater, Coach held it so that the letter could not be seen. He told of some "sweater" an M, some a T, while he thought a P would be symbolic of the great surrounding country of the college. When Windy unfolded the sweater, he revealed two black outlined T's on the front of a solid scarlet body. Every boy on the squad was beaming with pride as he stepped forward to receive the greatest award of his athletic career. The following men were present and received the sweaters: Captain Nicklaus, Amarillo; captain-elect Carpenter, Sudan; alternate-captain Hill, Midford; White, Gies; Reed, Vernon; Miller, Cleburne; Smith, Vernon; Callaway, Hasaca; Wilson, Cleo; Alfano, Rising Star; Washridge, Dallas; Dolly, Floydada; Eikes, Granger; Dennison, Lorens; Trostle, Shamrock; Harris, Lockney; Hallmark, Belton; Hamilton, McKinney; Archibald, Linton, Ind.; Woodward, Comanche. The following men were not present, but will receive the awards: Alfano, Floydada; Fromm, Childress; Coaches Freedland and Higginbotham also received sweaters.

DEBATING CLUBS

The recently organized debating groups will meet Monday night for the first meeting of the term. The selection of officers will be a feature of the program.

Polish and Attire of College-Bred Fish Embarrassed by Bold Comment

The embarrassment that was felt by a number of the college students upon meeting the "rang" back home during the holidays, after a session of three months of careful training in collegiate manners and dress, can be most effectively explained by them. Below is given a statement issued by a Tech student, explaining how he was received by the natives in his home town and also pointing out some of the benefits he received from one term in college which did not meet with such adverse criticism:

"At the end of my high school days when I should have been through with school, a college career stood leering around the corner at me. So on the day of my graduation or as-soon thereafter as possible my parents set about selecting the proper school for me to attend.

"At the end of the first term in the Tech I came home and what those three months had done for me were more evident to my parents and friends than to me. Now I had spent quite a bit of energy and toll growing and training a mistake which my parents could almost see. It lay across my upper lip in a thin black line artistically curved. My younger brothers were awe stricken and wondered quite openly how I grew an eyebrow on my upper lip. My trousers flapped in what I considered a quite manly fashion. It was not long until I learned that mother had designs on

RAID ON POKER GAME AT CHERI CASA POLICE FORCE ASSIST IN INITIATION ENDS IN SHOOTING OF TECH STUDENT

Ralph (Pop) Johnson, with bullet wounds in his chest and stomach, lies at the point of death in a local hospital, while Windy Watkins, Forrest Matley, H. L. Myers, Jr., and William Elliott have been released under a heavy bond, the result of a raid by Chief of Police May and Officer Pikes on a dice game in which the students were engaged at the Cheri Casa dormitory late Wednesday night.

The intrusion of the law force came unexpected to every member of the house and they had secretly entered the place and had the participants of the game in custody before anyone knew of the occurrence. Although Elliott, in whose room the session was being held, was not taking part in the game, he was much against his will, apprehended with the rest of the culprits. It was Simpson, who upon starting to enter the room, discovered that the place was being raided and rushed downstairs to spread the news. He was later seized and questioned after which he was released.

A NEW BEGINNING

Once more we take up the duties of college life, and with us are many students who are here for the first time. The most of us well remember our first day in college and the general confusion which we all experienced. We also remember that it took us quite some time to get down to real work. For the new students much the same situation exists and any help or assistance which we may give them will help to cement that bond of friendship between the students of a college that is so essential for its growth and welfare. We have no doubt but that such a spirit exists in the Tech and our new students will soon be at home with us.

The Tech welcomes with open arms our new students and we feel sure that their work will be a joy to them as well as a credit to the institution. We trust that the goal of all the students of the Tech, new and old alike, may be expressed in the words of Woodrow Wilson:

"An educated man is a sort of spiritual knight who goes out upon his adventures to carry the torch that has been put into his hands so that other men may have the path illuminated for them that leads to truth, justice, and liberty. A man proves his right to the title of being educated by being the friend of mankind, a helper to the human race, a light in the midst of darkness."

GIVING THE PRODIGES A CHANCE

For generations the educational world has faced the problem of providing an educational system that will give the prodigies a fair chance to advance according to their ability. The theory has long been advanced that educational opportunities are lavished upon the dullards and dumbbells, and that in an effort to reach a happy medium between the dullard and the prodigy and provide a minimum of opportunity for all, a maximum of opportunity has not been provided for the brilliant and unusually capable student. This problem is noticeable even in the primary grades of the grammar school and becomes a serious one with institutions of higher learning.

It is interesting to note that a group of psychologists in California have selected 1,000 of the most brilliant children in the state and plan to raise several million dollars for their education in a special school where they will not be handicapped by being "held back for the rest of the class," a complaint that has been heard from fond parents and egotistical students for time immemorial. The world will carefully watch the results. The Fort Worth Star-Telegram offers the following comment upon the experiment:

"The outcome of the experiment will be observed with interest. But experts in these matters are aware that flowers of character, culture and singular talent often bloom amid most unpropitious surroundings. In the history of the most brilliant minds in science, literature and art is revived, it will be seen that many of the leaders in the quest of truth had a frail physique, a poor home, a meager education, perhaps a combination of these advantages, and triumphed over them by resolute effort of will. It is often observed, moreover, that children accounted unusually bright have sorely disappointed the expectations entertained of a brilliant career.

"Perhaps this latter is due to lack of just what the California scientists propose to supply—recognition of the special need of children of more than average intelligence and provision of proper facilities for developing that intelligence. This is another aspect of the experiment which is interesting."

WHAT DO YOU THINK ABOUT THE TECH AND ITS FUTURE?

Students who are interested in the welfare of the Tech must give the above question some consideration. With many new students entering our ranks, this question is of much importance just now. They are going to be influenced by the opinions of the old student body and the conclusions we have reached during the first term of work in the Tech. It is well that we should be careful of the impressions we make upon these new students.

We believe that for the most part the original student body of the Tech left for the holiday vacation instilled with praise for the institution. In many instances this praise has been the means of attracting the new students who come from towns already represented in the Tech. It is believed that the students in general are favorably impressed with the institution and are usually complimentary when voicing their opinions concerning the work and working principles of the college. They all believe in the future of the Tech. Ask any member of the student body if he likes the Tech and his answer will invariably be in the affirmative, and if he is in a normal mood he will be enthusiastic in his praise. But the trouble is we fall into the habit of expressing our dislikes when in actual contact with the work and are often inclined to "gripe."

It might be a good thing for us to forget the unpleasant things associated with our work at present and give some thought to the future of the college as it pertains to us, remembering that we are to be responsible, in a large measure, for the future success of the Tech.

Student Tailors To Pay College Expenses With Shop

Tech students have hit upon various plans to work their way through college and have invariably been successful in their efforts. The most recent venture in this direction was the opening on Jan. 30 of the Student Tailors, at 814 Main, in the rear of the Cozy Barber Shop, which is being operated under the management of Kern Aldridge of Wellington and Dal Blake of Vernon, assisted by "Preacher" Calloway and Milton (Dutch) Bauer as special representatives. These boys are organizing a student club and club tickets are being issued to the members, entitling them to slight discounts on their tailor work. A competent tailor is in charge of the shop at all times who is assisted by student help before and after school hours. They have enjoyed a liberal patronage thus far and are optimistic in their belief that the shop will do considerably in meeting expenses of school.

COLLEGE INN COL YUM

Geel! Isn't it great to get back to college inn and school and see all those dear old classmates again, and to welcome the new students? Will we welcome them? Well I'll say we will. There are only a few vacant rooms left in the dormitory and we expect them to be filled before long. After all there's no place like college inn.

Man! We're glad we all went home for Christmas. Hat-bags heavily laden with grocery stores serve the purpose for these never-to-be-forgotten midnight feasts. Just so you don't strangle on a chicken bone and wake the others up or spill the pineapple juice on the bed. Ghosts stories go pretty good with feasts too. Didcha ever try it? But have a game or two of bridge before retiring so you won't be afraid to go to bed.

Lila—Dad, you'd like it if I saved a dollar for you, wouldn't you?
Dad—Certainly.
Lila—Well, I did it. You said if I brought a first class report from my teachers this term you would give me a dollar and I didn't bring it.

Anna Belle (in Amarillo)—What time does the next train pull in here and how long does it stay?
Agent—From two to two to two two.
Anna Belle—Good grief! Are you the whistle?

Ruth Officer—Lucille's trip home did her so much good. She looks better, feels better and honest, it would do your heart good to hear her eat.

Edna—Where you really frightened, Punk?
Punk—I sure was.
Edna—Did you run?
Punk—I'll say so, why I ran so fast that if I had had one feather in my hand I would have flew.

"Deacon White," said Parson Jackson, softly, "will you lead us in prayer?"
There was no answer.
"Deacon White," this time a little louder, "will you lead?"
Still no response. Evidently the deacon was slumbering. Parson Jackson made a third appeal and raised his voice to high pitch that succeeded in arousing the drowsy man. "Deacon White, will you lead?"
The deacon, in bewilderment, rubbed his heavy eyes and blurted: "Lead yourself—I just deat."

Miss Boone Is Writing History Of South Plains

Miss Lilla Boone of the history department of the Tech, has begun the compilation of data for a history of Lubbock county and the south plains region which she will write in the near future. Several of the oldest settlers of Lubbock county are at present writing their memoirs which Miss Boone will include in the work. Among these are Messrs. Mobby, Earhart and R. C. Burns of Lubbock.

Miss Boone is now trying to locate the route of the old trails long used on the south plains. The work when finished will be used as a thesis.

Miss Alice Marie Jensen, of Houston, arrived Sunday night to succeed Miss Elsie Robinson as secretary of Dr. Horn. Miss Robinson is now a student in Texas university.

GOOD COLLEGE CITIZENSHIP

By MRS. HENRY
Good citizenship is characterized by three distinct elements, the spirit of democracy, the spirit of co-operation, and the spirit of loyalty. Good citizenship is an absolutely essential thing to the upbuilding of a state, a city, or a community, the same is true in the upbuilding of a college.

The value of a citizen to his community depends to a great extent upon the principles of democracy and friendliness lived out by him. When a stranger comes into a community, the spirit of friendliness shown him by the citizens means much toward his contentment and happiness in that community. The first impressions have a lasting effect upon a newcomer, and a hearty handshake and a friendly word give a feeling of comfort and cheer, as nothing else can.

Citizens should not only be courteous and friendly to the stranger but there should also be a feeling of good cheer and fellowship among the citizens themselves. The spirit of brotherhood should be manifested among all classes. The less fortunate man may be encouraged and made a better citizen, if an interest in him is shown by the men of better opportunities, the man who is educated, and the man who is better qualified to meet the problems of life.

These same rules for good community citizenship are also applicable to college citizenship. When the new student is enrolled, where so many people are strangers, there is a feeling of being alone, a home sickness, in a sort of left-out feeling. This is one of the times in a student's life when kindness and encouragement are really needed. If he is given a hearty welcome and made to feel at home, by the students who are already located, he will naturally fall in line with the college ways and rules, and endeavor to give his best to the school. If the friendly spirit is carried out in the college life, there will be a greater degree of happiness felt among the students, which will result in more efficient work, and in the upbuilding of the institution in every way.

The community that is made up of citizens who work on a co-operative basis is always a progressive community. When the institutions of charity, the churches, the schools, and all the different organizations of the community work in unity and co-operation, great and lasting good is accomplished in the advancement of the community life. The morals of the people are improved, the educational standard is raised and the finer and nobler things of life brought out. Co-operation of the citizens with the lawmaking body is one of the many ways to promote prosperity, and to establish justice and peace. The best laws for the people can be enforced by the men who are in power, if the citizens will do their part in carrying out these laws. In this way the general welfare of the people is promoted. This is also true of college life. When co-operation is shown among the officers, teachers and students, there will be great progress in learning and skill. The many activities of the school will be developed and carried on in a progressive way. The less fortunate students, who are unable financially, to stay in school, will be given work for support, and will be helped in other ways to stay in school. The weak or discouraged will be made stronger by the support and aid of his co-workers.

If the spirit of co-operation is carried out in the disciplinary rules, there will be no students suspended from school. Misunderstandings and troubles will not occur, and there will be a well regulated and systematic program in every department of the school work, and an interest in the school as a whole will be manifested by every one connected with it.

We have seen the importance of democracy and co-operation of the citizenship in the community and school, but without loyalty, they are of little value. If the citizen is not faithful to the obligations of his country, he is not dependable; if he fails in his duty toward his church he can not be trusted and loses the power of influence for good, if he is not loyal to the schools and other organizations for the upbuilding of the community. They will suffer for the lack of support. The good citizen is ever faithful to his country and his home, and there is no good citizenship without loyalty. Laws may be made, but without the support and loyalty of the citizens they can not be enforced, and are therefore of no value to the community. Friendship, without fidelity, really does not mean much.

Loyalty in the school is the keynote to success. If we are not faithful to our work, and do not give time for the preparation of the work assigned, then we are not true to ourselves and to our teachers. Who is it that will depend upon a fellow student after he has proven unfaithful in the every day problems of school life? If a friend betrays us, it is hard to put confidence in him again.

The good college citizen is one who will stand for his school in right or wrong; one who will uphold her name, and boldly defend her at all times. The good college citizen will not only hold up her name, love and cherish the principles for which she stands, and hold sacred the ties of friendship and love of the family life which she has given. He will ever be faithful and loyal to his college.

At a call meeting the W. A. A. girls met Thursday evening to discuss the season of basketball. Arrangements are being made to start practicing next week. By the number of girls that were present Thursday evening it looks as though we might have some excellent material. They were very enthusiastic over the prospects and are vying to go. We do not know now whether or not there will be any match games with other colleges but nevertheless we intend to play some very commendable games. Come out and support us.

THE GANG HEADQUARTERS

CHERI CASA COLYUM

Mrs. Summers, Lieut. Killin and Charles Collins and his orchestra were the hosts at a delightful "home-coming" dance given by the Cheri Casa club and the new residents of the hall. The affair was in the nature of a surprise party. Mrs. Summers inviting the young ladies and not letting the boys know until the dance commenced who they were with. A grand march with the ladies masked so the boys could not tell who they were dancing with was the first event of the program. During the intermission a buffet luncheon was served. A "Cinderella" dance was also on the program.

The dance was characterized by the usual display of pep and spirit that has made every Cheri Casa dance an event of importance in the social life of the school.

At the first meeting of the Cheri Casa club for this term "Red" Smith, president, "Ox" Keys, vice president, Jimmie Biggers, secretary, and "Boomer" Wallace, treasurer, were elected by an unanimous vote of the club to serve for the coming term. Six new members, Elliott, Meyers, Wall, Buchanan, Echols and Simpson, were admitted. Talks were made by the officers, the new members, Mrs. Summers, Lieut. Killin, Mrs. Harrison and several of the boys. The purpose of the club was stated and plans discussed for making the Cheri Casa club mean more than ever before this next term.

One outstanding event of the week has been the initiation of the six new members of Cheri Casa club. A committee, composed of Jimmie Biggers, chairman, John Forkner and Rex Keys was appointed to work out the details of the ceremony and arrange a program. The result was a two-hour ceremony Thursday evening.

The six candidates were assembled at 6:45 and placed under heavy guard. At 7 the program began. The candidates were brought down one at a time into the council room which had been prepared especially for the ceremony, blue lights being used to create a feeling of mystery and weirdness. Amid a deathly silence on the part of the club members who lined the walls of the council chamber, each candidate swore not to hold Cheri Casa club responsible in case of bodily injury. The program was carried out smoothly without a hitch, and for two hours the candidates were subjected to some of the cruelest and most brutal tortures that could be devised, all carried out in an atmosphere of mystery and awe that caused even the spectators to get frightened. After two hours of this punishment, six tired and aching boys were given the oath and the handshake of brotherhood in the Cheri Casa club.

It is with the deepest regret that Cheri Casa club announces that Jack Howell and Lytle Thomas were unable to return for the second term. They are gone but not forgotten and we hope that they will be with us again some time.

Mixed Program At Meeting Of Sock And Buskin

The first meeting of the Sock and Buskin club for the term was held Tuesday evening, in the public speaking department room.

No play was given, since the holidays had precluded any arrangements for such, but an excellent program was presented, and in all, was very enjoyable.

Business of the evening was presided over by Richard Cavett, chairman pro tem in the absence of the regular president. The feature of the evening was the item of membership cards to be presented each meeting of the club for entrance. After discussion pro and con, it was decided by vote that such membership cards should be used in the club.

The first number of the program proper was a violin solo by Miss Ennis Owens. It was an excellent presentation of the "Indian Snake Dance," and was well played indeed. Accompaniment upon the piano was played by Miss Ruth Dunn, one of the most widely known, perhaps, of pianists in Lubbock.

Miss Pirtle, director general of the Sock and Buskin club, read a delightful selection, "Romance." A very suitable subject, it was, and excellently presented. She presented the part of the young girl who had "fallen out" with her fellow, but who was frightened into calling him in to help her scare away a pseudo mouse, very cleverly, and kept the audience really amused during the whole time.

Dr. Pfeiffer was called upon for a reading, and responded with "Nathilda's Unlucky Husbands."

The Sock and Buskin club has passed very successfully indeed through one quarter, and, with the election of new officers for the coming term, will enter upon another quarter well established and looking forward to some excellent work. In addition to the regular weekly plays by members, one long play, "The Charm School," will be presented, directed by Miss Pirtle.

Addition Made To Faculty In Physics Dept.

Prof. Harry Hill, late of University of West Virginia, assumed his duties at the Tech Monday, Jan. 4, as associate professor of physics. Mr. Hill is a graduate of the University of Chicago and holds an M. A. degree from that institution.

Mr. Hill was a soldier during the world war and saw active service on the front in France. During his service with the University of West Virginia at Morgantown he was the commander of the local post of the American legion.

THROUGH THE BASKET

"Big" and "Big Un" will have a great time picking a quintet out of the four score and ten that are reporting for practice. It will be something like working out a Chinese puzzle.

However, the coaches plan to put one of the strongest teams in action in this section of the state.

Games have been matched with some of the best teams in the state, and the fans of Lubbock are assured of good games. The Mule Barn will seat around a thousand people.

Looking over the exchanges of several school papers from other schools, it will be noticed that in the review of the football season Texas Tech plays an important part.

Clarendon made mention of the fact that they made the first touchdown against the Tech and seemed proud indeed. West Texas Technological college stated that Texas Tech nose them out by one point. A. C. C. gave the Matadors due praise for their victory. Howard Payne gloated over their victory. The other teams also gave the Tech due praise for their first season.

With twenty-three letter men returning next year, the Matadors have a good chance of showing a superior brand of ball to the other teams of west Texas. The freshmen of next year will strengthen the team to such an extent that they are bound to be unbeatable.

Five T. I. A. A. teams are included on the 1926 schedule. Three of these are strong contenders for the title each year. Simmons, Daniel Baker, Howard Payne, A. C. C. and West Texas State Teachers all have games with the Matadors for next season.

For the basketball games, such clubs as West Texas Teachers, Daniel Baker, McMurray, Simmons, A. C. C., Howard Payne have always promoted champion teams in this sport.

Simmons always has a strong combination and will be a hard team for the inexperienced Matadors. West Texas Teachers have veterans from the championship team of 1924 and letter men from last season. A. C. C. will be just as hard to conquer as in football.

The winter indoor sport promises to captivate the fans of Lubbock. The mule barn makes a good place for the court, and the seating capacity will easily take care of the crowds. It is comfortably heated and cold weather will not interfere with the games.

We see whereby department basketball could be easily started. Many of the men coming out for the varsity must stay on the side lines during the games. Why not play some good games right among themselves? The different schools of the college should have teams on the floor. Inter-department athletics must be started, and now is a good time to begin. We wonder which department will elect the first manager and arrange for a schedule of games.

Each school should send a representative to a call meeting and work out a plan for these athletics. Talk it up in your school and organize. The winter term should be chock full of inter-department games.

We have plenty of room to work in. How would it be for the coach to order his men around the campus for three or four laps?

Announcement has been made that the third number of the artist course will be presented on Saturday night of next week. Students who have paid the artist course fee will be admitted free, upon the presentation of their permits.

Cage Practice Resumed After Holiday Season

Monday afternoon cage practice for the Matador quintet was resumed with the court covered with candidates for the season. Coaches Freeland and Higginbotham announced that practices from here on would go at a much faster pace in order to develop a good team for the games at the first of the season.

Work on basket shooting, running the floor and pivoting occupied much of the practice time during the past week. The men are inexperienced in the indoor game and need practice in handling the ball. Fundamentals of the game are the strong points being stressed by the coaches.

An unusually strong cage schedule has been arranged and the Matadors will face veteran teams in nearly every game. The first game will be played here Jan. 25 with Daniel Baker college of Brownwood. A good trip will be made south during the season meeting at least five teams.

Freeland and Higginbotham selected 15 men Tuesday afternoon for special practice. These men will work at night and will begin team work at once for the first game. Freeland stated that the selection was only temporary. Some men, who were selected may be dropped back to the afternoon practices and others take their places. The remainder of the squad about 50 men, will continue to practice in the afternoons. The following men were selected for the special night workouts: Gene Alford, Lanham Bucy, Gilbert White, John Burroughs, C. W. Ratliff, Van Zandt, Grimes, Brown, Graham, J. R. Dennison, Roberts, Claunch, Kenneth Hemphill, Dean and Pace.

Dean Leidigh of the college of agriculture, spoke to the Kiwanis club at the regular meeting on Thursday of this week.

Dr. LeRoy T. Patton of the Tech geology department, addressed the local Rotary club at its regular luncheon on Tuesday of this week, discussing the geology of the south plains.

DANIELS STUDIOS

FOR GOOD OLE TRIPE

Black November skies. No wind and tidings of snow. Real football weather—and it was the day of the final game of the season for Tripe university. To add to this, the game was to be between Tripe, and their age old adversary, Hattosis college.

The insidious thing to the supporters of "Good ole Tripe" was the fact that Hattosis was ceded to have the edge on them. In spite of this, they decided not to tell even their best friends and go down fighting if it goes down they must!

The hour of the game finally drew near. A thousand assorted "steweds" and studies wearing the black and pink polka dot colors of Hattosis had come down to support their team and the stands were crowded.

"Listo—Listo—Listorene Hattosis, Hattosis, You're our team," this yell rang out from the stands and the game, was on.

Even though the first quarter was without event, it bode ill for "good ole Tripe" for the ball was seldom far from their goal. In the second quarter the slashing Hattosis backs tore through the tough Tripe line for a long touchdown but they failed to kick goal. However the Tripe backers were not whipped yet.

"Chew your end—chew your end

Tripe will get their Blood—Blood—Blood," they yelled.

"Insidious thing—Insidious thing we won't tell you one darn thing," came back from the Hattosis side.

Tripe came back fighting in the second half but the score remained the same. Two minutes were left to play in the last period when the Tripe quarterback was gathered up on two towels and a stretcher and removed from the field. Professor Heza Drone, hatless, coatless and semi-shirtless rushed out of the grandstand and in a second was on the side line next to the coach.

"Our only chance to win is to let me play; I used to teach at Hattosis and I know their weaknesses," shouts the professor.

"Yeah, but you ain't a regular bonny-fide student of this here institution," squeals the coach.

"That's baloney," retaliates Professor Drone. "I'm taking a post graduate course in poultry dairying."

"But you've played your four years of college football," the coach plays his trump.

"More banana oil, I played in '97 and '98, and was ineligible in '96 and '95'."

"Well, grab this jersey and go at it," relinquishes the coach.

In three shakes of a tarantula's tail, Professor Heza had doffed his spectacles and had on the beautiful liverwurst yellow and mackerel purple jersey of Tripe and was calling "signals 21, 35, 17, a truncated triangular prism is equivalent to the sum of the three pyramids whose common base is the base of the prism and whose vertices are the three vertices of the inclined sections."

At the sound of their old professor's voice, the Hattosis players dropped off to their accustomed slumber while in his classes. Prof. Drone calmly received the ball from the center, walked down the field for a touchdown and kicked goal while the Hattosis players slept tranquilly on. They were rudely awakened by the timekeeper's gun.

The game was over. Tripe had won. "Good ole Tripe"—The Battalion, A. & M.

Convocations To Be Held Regularly Twice Each Month

Announcement has been made by Dr. Horn that regular student convocation will be held twice each month throughout the winter term. The first assembly of the students since the beginning of the term was held in the stock judging pavilion Thursday morning at which time the next convocation was announced for Monday, Jan. 12. The attendance Thursday was unusually large, despite the cold weather. It is believed that much interest will be taken in the regular assemblies which will be held in the regular assembly hall during the fall term.

REUBEN AGAIN TAKES PEN IN HAND

Lubbock, Texas,
January 7, 1926.
Dear Buddy:
You recollect that a month or so ago I wrote you about the Tech and all the funny things that they do here.

My Fair, Believe me, Buddy, little Reuben is going to see the whole works, for don't you forget it, I am a real College Chappie now.
I made a pledge last week and it cost me $5.00. As far as I can see the pledge proposition is like that old Grab Box that the Ladies Aid in Pe-dunk had at the corn-busking festival.

Lines By a Powder Puff

(In answer to a burst of envy by mere Man).
Oh my kind deluded Sir:
How is it that you infer
That my role is super-grand
In this shiny-noses land;
How came you by this illusion
Cried with envious effusion?
I have powdered Roman noses,
Noses red as summer roses,
Noses large and noses wee—
All have rubbed their shins on me
Thus by my soft application
Shine shall meet eradication.
