CAGERS OPEN SEASON MONDAY

(On Being Friendly) If predominating influences springing from this subject might be caught, examined, and labeled, there is a chance that the keynote of the thought might be something along the line of "on being friendly."

Like the rose which, under another name, would smell just as sweet, being friendly finds itself with the same advantages under the caption "Hello Week." Another factor which presents itself is "national smile week," as the current month has been designated. These three things go hand in hand, a friendly feeling, a good, hearty "hello," and a smile.

With all the students of this school—citizens, as they are, of a city of their own—there should be a marked sense of oneness in the institution. It cannot be said, however, that this condition exists just now. With daily schedules ranging from an 8 o'clock and a 9 o'clock class on one extreme, and an empty program up to 4 o'clock M. T. on the other extreme, there is not a very great chance for really complete acquaintance among the entire student body.

There are other conditions which, it is true, do not add in any measure to the general "family spirit" of the school. There is, for instance, the convocation, held only alternative weeks, not so very conducive to an excessive number of acquaintances. It is such a thing might exist. There is the working student reporting for a class and right back on the job. There is any number of hindrances present, to keep Tech from becoming really, honestly, a friendly place.

HOWEVER—where there's a will, there's a way.

It would be a pitiable occurrence if one should sit day after day in a class and not know even the last name of the fellow on the girl sitting next to him.

Change it! SAY HOWDY!

Of the several hundred people doing work in the school, there is not one person who could know all the others, but a large percentage of these hundreds of people know only extremely few of their fellow students.

Another sad circumstance: stamp it out! SAY HELLO!

More important, perhaps, is the fact that college students are really beginning to live, and life without friends is a lonesome thing. High school friends are quickly forgotten; high school friends are easily lost track of—there is no really distinguishing mark or trait by which we remember them clearly.

College associations are not so men are known as men, and women as women—as they are, and as they will be. Know your fellow student; in knowing him, you know a citizen of the world.

It is well and good, and desirable to some, to "live in a house by the side of the road, and be a friend to man," yes—but how much better it would be to go about one's daily work—busy as he might be—and at the same time, be a friend to man.

Friendliness, a smile, and a greeting: a triumvirate, powerful as any ruling force ever existing—dominating, yet democratic! SAY HELLO!

That $7,000,000 offered to former Kaiser William of Germany by Prussia, of course, does not represent his earnings as a sawyer of wood.—Canton Repository.

VARIOUS SECTIONS ARE PLANNED FOR LA VENTANA; DIVISION PAGES WILL BE PRINTED IN THREE COLORS

The vanity fair section and the buildings section of La Ventana will be equal to any similar sections in any annual in the state according to the staff of Tech's first year book. Mr. Taylor, field representative of the Southwestern Engraving company was in Lubbock Monday and Tuesday conferring with the editor of La Ventana and several novel and unique ideas in regard to these sections were worked out. A special trip will be made by the editor, Jas. Higgins, to confer personally with officials of the Southwestern Engraving company, who have recently been to Chicago, attending the annual engravers conference, and who will have many new and clever ideas as to arrangement of these sections. Many valuable ideas for the other sections of La Ventana will also be obtained by this trip to Fort Worth, also.

TECH 'SCHOOLS' WILL EDIT ONE ISSUE TOREADOR

SCHOOL EDITION WILL BE ISSUED NEXT MONTH

Each school represented in the Texas Technological college—the school of engineering, liberal arts, agriculture and home economics—will be responsible for one issue of The Toreador during the months of February and March, according to an agreement reached this week between the present management of the student publication and the deans of the four schools. These special editions of The Toreador will take the place of regular class editions which are issued annually in other institutions.

Each of the four schools will elect a staff from among the students classified and specializing in the work offered in that school. The clubs representing each division in the institution will probably take the matter in hand. In the school of liberal arts, the staff will likely be selected from the membership of the various clubs, each club being represented by one or more of its members.

The selection of the staffs will probably be made by next week and each department will start its work at once. The school of liberal arts will be responsible for the first of these editions on Feb. 13. The other editions will appear as follows: Feb. 27, the school of engineering; March 17, the school of agriculture; March 27, the school of home economics. The Toreador will be issued bi-weekly during the months of February and March. Inasmuch as the schools have requested a uniform issue size of 8 1/2 x 11, to conform with the editions.

The schools are aware to the advantages offered for special publicity through the school editions. They will have access to the regular routine of news, but will probably devote a great deal of space to outlining the nature of the work in these several departments, which are being accomplished in the first year of the work. An effort is being made to create a spirit of competition or contest between the schools, which will further promote the success of the editions.

PERCY GRAINGER WILL APPEAR ON ARTIST COURSE

The attention of all of those students who have purchased artists course tickets is called to the fact that these tickets provide for them free admission to hear Percy Grainger at the Baptist church on the night of Feb. 5.

However, since this concert is to be held in a different building from that in which the others were held, it will be necessary for holders of artists course tickets to exchange these for reserved seat tickets. This they may do without any additional cost by calling on Miss Bennett in the business office of the college.

Percy Grainger is one of the great pianists of the world. No one can afford to miss hearing him. Consequently those who have tickets for the artists course should not fail to see Miss Bennett at the business office and to obtain the reserved seat coupon.

VARIOUS SECTIONS ARE PLANNED FOR LA VENTANA; DIVISION PAGES WILL BE PRINTED IN THREE COLORS

The vanity fair section and the buildings section of La Ventana will be equal to any similar sections in any annual in the state according to the staff of Tech's first year book. Mr. Taylor, field representative of the Southwestern Engraving company was in Lubbock Monday and Tuesday conferring with the editor of La Ventana and several novel and unique ideas in regard to these sections were worked out. A special trip will be made by the editor, Jas. Higgins, to confer personally with officials of the Southwestern Engraving company, who have recently been to Chicago, attending the annual engravers conference, and who will have many new and clever ideas as to arrangement of these sections. Many valuable ideas for the other sections of La Ventana will also be obtained by this trip to Fort Worth, also.

VANITY FAIR BEAUTIFUL POSE FOR CAMERA

The fairest and most popular of the Tech co-eds, according to the decision of the students who bought annuals and voted in the Vanity Fair Contest sponsored by La Ventana, were introduced to the student body and members of the faculty, assembled in convocation, Monday morning by Rex Keys, business manager of the year book. After the girls were introduced individually, they were called back to the limelight to pose for a representative of the Daniel Studios. The photos will not only be used in the annual but will appear in the daily newspapers of the state.

'HI TECH' WEEK IS SPONSORED BY TOREADOR

EVERYBODY SAY HELLO IN TECH NEXT WEEK

In an effort to stir up a spirit of friendliness among the students of the Tech and bring a "national laugh month" to a pleasant conclusion in the institution, The Toreador, with the cooperation of the Art club, is sponsoring a "Hello Week" or "Hi Tech Week" to make it more individual, beginning next Monday, Jan. 25. It will be noticed that much publicity is being given to the matter this week, and the Art club will cooperate by displaying as a final reminder on Monday morning.

Some of the local merchants have caught the spirit of "Hi Tech Week" and are thus greeting the students in their advertisements in this issue. If the same amount of enthusiasm can be created among the students, and if the Art club will cooperate by displaying as a final reminder on Monday morning, the undertaking a success, there will be fewer strangers in the institution at the close of next week and everyone will be better acquainted.

The movement to get acquainted among the students is just a little late this year, but in this direction, so the movement is still a timely one. Such campaigns will probably be started in the early part of each term in the future.

FIRST PROGRAM IS GIVEN BY PRESS CLUB

The first literary program to be arranged by the "Los Escritores" was given at the club meeting Wednesday evening. The meeting was held in the reading room on the third floor of the administration building. Tables were placed at ends with each other and chairs were gathered around for a round table discussion. It was the most enjoyable and beneficial of the meetings held recently.

Two of the world's most famous humorists and columnists, Ring Lardner and Stephen Leacock, were reviewed in the program. R. L. Burchfield gave the "Who's Who" of Ring Lardner and Mr. Jackson read some specimens of his work. Miss Anna Belle Collins gave a biographical review of Dr. Leacock and Dr. Harrison, head of the English department, read selections from the volume of "Literary Lapses." An interesting contrast was pointed out in that Mr. Lardner never finished his college education while Mr. Leacock has acquired his Ph. D. degree from the University of Chicago, and is one of the few humorists to hold the doctor's degree.

The club authorized an order for 15 volumes of journalistic writings and one writer's periodical, as a nucleus around which a press club library will be built.

Mr. Guo L. Ford will address the club on Wednesday evening of next week. This meeting will be held in the library, at 7:30 o'clock.

Miss Margaret Bennett and Alice Cline were admitted to membership in the club.

DEAN LIBERAL ARTS SPEAK AT CONVOCATION

DEAN GORDON SPEAKS TO ASSEMBLY ON MONDAY

Dean J. M. Gordon of the college of liberal arts spoke to the students and members of the faculty Monday morning in the stock judging pavilion at the second convocation held this term. He also acted in the capacity of chairman in the absence of Dr. Horn. The meeting was well attended and was featured by the address of Dr. Gordon and the introduction of all the winners in the Vanity Fair Contest recently conducted by the management of La Ventana, the Tech Year Book.

The program of the convocation was opened with a song service conducted by Prof. W. R. Wagborne, and the audience joined in the singing of familiar songs and others not so familiar. Some of these consisted of popular tunes with specially written words arranged by Prof. Wagborne and members of the girls' glee club.

Dean Gordon outlined briefly the course he would follow if he were entering college as a freshman again, pointing out the necessity of an understanding knowledge of the specialties which the institution offers in the way of music, public speaking and expression, an appreciation of the finer arts and encouraging participation in athletic and student activities. He also encouraged independent and broad minded thinking in making application of the knowledge acquired in attending college. The address touched upon practical things, and Dr. Gordon's pleasing presentation paved the way for a good reception on the part of the audience.

The date of the next convocation arrangements having been made for student assemblies twice each month, they will be held at alternating periods in order that the work of any particular class will not be affected by having to omit more than one period during the term.

SELF-SUPPORTING TECH STUDENTS NUMBER 200

There are approximately 200 students in the Tech who are making all or a part of their expenses while attending school, according to a report arranged in the office of the registrar. Students who are working to pay expenses registered at the office the first of this week. This information will be used in the first general catalog which is now being arranged, and will speak well for Lubbock and the Tech.

It is likely that the list compiled is incomplete, but the following reports were received at the request of Mr. Dohoney:

- Ladies: Office work 17, house work 17, telephone operator 2, teaching plane 3, laboratory assistant 2, library assistant 2.
- A partial list shows the number of young men employed in the following occupations: Experimental station 1, assistant librarian 3, assistants in the physics department 4, textile engineering assistants 3, chemistry assistants 5, stenographers 11, office work 11, college cafeteria 6, janitors 22, clerks 22, tallies 4, moving picture operator 1, house work 4, surveying 1, musician 6, college dairy 2, waiters 5, carpenter work 2, garage work 4, telephone exchange 2, printers 2, chauffeur 1, railroad employe 1, newspaper work 3, radio expert 1, city employe 4, photographer 1, bakery and confectionery 4.

Samples Of Grain Are Received For Agronomy Courses

Dean Leidigh of the school of agriculture of the Tech has received several gifts of samples of grain from the United States department of agriculture this week. These will be used in the agronomy courses and consist of the following: Two lots of rye, 18 lbs. of oats, 18 lbs. of barley, 18 lbs. of wheat, 18 lbs. of corn, 18 lbs. of soybeans, 18 lbs. of clover, 18 lbs. of alfalfa, 18 lbs. of timothy, 18 lbs. of lucerne, 18 lbs. of vetch, 18 lbs. of red clover, 18 lbs. of white clover, 18 lbs. of bluegrass, 18 lbs. of orchardgrass, 18 lbs. of timothy, 18 lbs. of lucerne, 18 lbs. of vetch, 18 lbs. of red clover, 18 lbs. of white clover, 18 lbs. of bluegrass, 18 lbs. of orchardgrass.

'HI TECH WEEK'

(An Editorial)

Several weeks ago The Toreador encouraged the student body of the Tech to cultivate the habit of saying "Hello!" on the campus. We are still of the opinion that the habit should become a tradition. With this in mind, The Toreador is this week sponsoring a "Hi Tech" week, beginning Monday, January 25. Throughout the week Tech students are not to pass, especially on the campus, without an exchange of this greeting. Many new students enrolled at the beginning of the term are not any better acquainted today than the day they arrived. Not a single reception has been given, and the opportunities of making acquaintances are few indeed. The Toreador encourages the cooperation of every club in the institution in undertaking the task of placing the entire student body on a more common footing and creating a spirit of friendliness and association. Say "Hi, Tech" to everybody, and especially those students you have not met. January is national laugh month, and we have given it little consideration. We have a week or a day for everything under the sun, but the Tech remains unconcerned. Let's make a go of "Hi, Tech" week.

If that's a student you do not know, Walk right up and say "Hello!" Say "Hello, and how-de-do!" He's the world a serving you?" Snap into it—don't go slow! Walk right up and say "Hello!"

All-College Party Will Be Given By W. A. A. Saturday

The first all-college party to be given since the opening of the Tech and the first assembly to which all college students are invited since the reception tendered by Dr. and Mrs. Horn the first week of the opening term, is being sponsored by the W. A. A. and will be given on Saturday evening, January 30, at 8 o'clock in room 305 of the administration building. This is the first of the all-college parties which will be given once each month throughout the remainder of the year, it is said.

The party which is now being arranged for next week will be a typical private party, according to Miss Johany Glikerson who is in charge of the arrangements. Every individual connected with the entertainment of the evening will be dressed in pirate attire, and the affair will be carried out in the decorations as well as the program of the evening. The tully cards will bear the pirate emblem of the cross bones and some gruesome vanguard scenes. Poken may not be included in the program of entertainment, but it is probable that the "jack" will have much to do with the high score of the evening.

The private party will be discussed by the presidents of the various clubs and organizations in their meeting Monday afternoon, and it is probable that dates for other all-college parties will be arranged.

One-Hour Social Is Enjoyed By Dramatic Club

The regular meeting of the Sock and Buskin club on Tuesday night of this week was featured by the first social hour held since the organization of the club. The social was arranged for the purpose of getting acquainted, according to the director, Miss Ruth Pirle, and the entire hour was spent in earnest conversation interrupted by the mixing and mingling of the members of the club.

The short program of entertainment included special musical numbers by Prof. W. R. Wagborne at the piano, and Miss Annis Owens on the violin, also a vocal number by Mr. Wagborne. These were given impromptu and fitted in well with the spirit of the evening, and added greatly to the success of the meeting.

Miss Pirle was in charge of the social program. The club members gathered in couples and were presented with paper and pencil with instructions to trace the profiles of each other in turn. The public speaking studio and much of the corridors were converted into art studios while the club members engaged themselves in the task of tracing shadows, adjusting movable chins, noses and lips, and peculiar antics of free hand drawing. After the work was completed, the specimens were placed on exhibit in the room, and the biggest task of the evening was undertaken by those who attempted to make identifications.

Toward the close of the hour, digital punch and sandwiches, which had been prepared by Misses P. Ann Sammons and Jane Mast, were served to the more than 70 club members. Dainty burkins, also prepared by Miss Sammons, were given as favors. The club will not meet on next Tuesday night due to the basketball game.

TO MEET DANIEL BAKER QUINTET IN TWO DAY TILT

HILL BILLIES COMING FOR TWO GAMES NEXT WEEK

Coach Higginbotham is tonight putting his cage team through their last workout, in final preparation for the two big opening games with the Daniel Baker Hill Billies to be played in the college gym at the Mule Barn on Monday and Tuesday nights. The stage is all set for the Grand Opening and it is expected that the entire student body, eager to see just what Tech's first Basketball team is going to do, will crowd the arena for these games.

During the last week he has been putting the men through stiff workouts, and will present a variety of plays for the first game. He has several good men for each position and has not yet decided just who will comprise the starting five.

Daniel Baker comes here with a strong team, having played in games before the contest Monday night. They have defeated some of the strongest quintets in the newly organized Texas conference. The two teams will be using practically the same style of play as Higginbotham came here from Daniel Baker and coached a majority of players on the Hill Billie team last season.

In the practice games during the past week, the Hill Billies played like a team so well as expected. They are not yet acquainted with each other's style of playing and were slow in team work. Higginbotham spent the last three days of this week in developing that phase of the game. The Matadors are expected to reach their stride in the initial contest Monday and give a good exhibition.

The probable lineup for the first game will be: Alford and Van Zandt, forwards; Bury, center; Walker and White, guards.

DECISION IN MOCK TRIAL BEFORE LITERARY CLUB IS INFLUENCED BY DRINKING OF COCO COLA BY WITNESS

A good representation of the membership of the club, and many visitors were present at the mock trial presented by the Literary Club, group A, on Monday evening of this week, when Ottis Koen, a member of the club, was convicted for "kissing a colored girl on April 1, last, under a grape arbor and while the moon was shining." According to the verdict of the jury, the decision hinged upon the fact that Jack Bond, an eye witness for the prosecution, testified that he was under the "influence of Coca Cola at the time of the occurrence."

The prosecution of the case was handled by Harold Cooper and Elbert Bateman, while H. P. Cooper and "Shorty" Tolbert defended the culprit. Jack Bond and "Red" Lyle were witnesses introduced by the state. Mr. Koen took the stand in his own defense. A touch of realism was added to the court room scene by the impersonations of Grady Mingo and Irving Coleman, judge and sheriff of the court, respectively.

The entire case was well arranged and the testimony and procedure was thoroughly enjoyed by the club members and visitors. The whole thing was a good satire of a case in court, the witniest and cleverest of the satirical being furnished by the judge in making his decisions. English history, the Panama canal, bird seed, and many other items entered in as a basis for his sustaining or overruling an objection of one of the attorneys. The testimony took an interesting turn when the defense attorneys introduced evidence to prove that the girl in question had been sobering up in which she played the part of a negro woman busy to smiling to the grape arbor. This evidence would probably have swung the decision in the favor of the defense had not the witness been led by the attorney.

TO THE STUDENT WHO "SHOOTS SQUARE"

He weren't no saint—college students
Are not that way, by heck!
He had a sweetheart back home, I guess,
And another one here, in Tech;
A little timid in his talk was Jim,
And an awkward hand in a row,
But he never flunked, and he never lied,
I reckon he never knowed how.

With due apologies to John Hay, we dedicate this attempt at an editorial to the student who "shoots square." The Tech is filled with a number of persons who are never heard from except through their work as students; a group of persons who attend to their own personal affairs and do not meddle with the affairs of others. They lend a helping hand when called upon, but do not force themselves to the foreground and are not seeking glory through their efforts. They rank high in their scholastic standing, and their work is a credit to them and to the institution. Just because they do not possess the initiative to push themselves out into the limelight and to seek glory in their college life, they are usually classed as "back numbers." But these students can be depended upon to keep their obligations. One may leave his belongings in their presence without nailing them to the floor. The honor system was not intended for these students, for they do not lie and cheat in examinations.

We realize that it is not the popular thing to do in this modern age to hold the "goody-goody" student up as an example, and such is not our intention. But it would do us proud for others to say that we "played the game square," just as we have said of the students to whom these lines are dedicated.

A HEART-TO-HEART TALK

It might be of interest to note that this derivation from the regular editorial calm is not as radical as our feelings. It is just a heart-to-heart talk with the student body of the Tech about things which should be of interest to every individual in the institution—student or faculty member. The Toreador is eternally referring to the lack of college spirit, and we believe that we are just a little nearer an understanding of the cause than ever before. We are going to designate it as a lack of understanding between the students and the faculty members and officials of the college, and the lack of confidence in the student body on the part of both the students and faculty members. This opinion has been greatly strengthened this week through our efforts to arrange for the "school editions" of The Toreador which will appear in the months of February and March.

Dean Miller of the School of Engineering, when approached concerning the matter, said: "If my boys are not interested, I think it is my duty to get them interested. It is a splendid opportunity for them." We are predicting now that the school of engineering will have the banner issue of the school editions. It is that kind of spirit, and understanding between the faculty and students, that is needed throughout the institution.

However, we did not receive this encouragement from every quarter. It was evident in some instances that confidence in the ability of the students was lacking, and remains to be seen if the understanding mentioned above really exists. We are confident that each of the schools will succeed with its edition if an effort is made, but it is essential that a better understanding exist between the students and the faculty.

We look at this lack of confidence in the light of a challenge to the students to make good in the undertaking. It is quite evident that there is a doubt in the minds of several as to the success of the editions. It is now up to the students to override the indifference that exists, or sustain the skepticism of the pessimists, by failing.

COLLEGE TRADITIONS

A great deal is said in this issue of The Toreador about college traditions, and mention is made of some of the traditions the Tech should adopt and encourage. This publication has made a weak but an honest effort to encourage proper traditions for this new institution—an institution which is obviously slow in adopting any of the things which would have a tendency to distinguish it from other colleges. As a result of this negligence, many students are likely to leave the institution at the end of the first year without having been brought under the spell of loyalty which a student should feel for his Alma Mater. There are certain traditions, such as the use of the paddle, hair clippers, war paint, instruments of torture, and other forms of class hazing which will never be permitted in the Tech. But there are many other things which should become as much a part of the institution as the regular curriculum.

"Tradition, in the true sense of the word, is a great thing to have in a college. The atmosphere of antiquity and tradition which a school possesses is an asset in creating a spell of loyalty and affection in its students. Tufts should have traditions, but we should not be caught confusing taboos with traditions. The customs and rules of a college should act as positive agents for developing the character of men, not as negative instruments for repressing individuality and setting up false values on unsupported foundations.

"Tufts has traditions which are worth perpetuating, and it needs to recognize other traditions of a worthwhile sort . . . traditions which are part of the history of the college and the ideals of its founders. . . .

"These might be: the pursuance of the educational ideal in a broad way; the recognition of Tufts as a thoroughly democratic institution, where free expression is to be courted and any repression condemned as hypocrisy; the improvement of college personnel from year to year by improvement of the members already here; the tradition of leadership in recognized fields, such as music, the drama, etc. We think of a score of others, and any one of them superior to the whole category of paddle and repression flapdoodle."

CHERI CASA COLYUM

No, the man who writes this column isn't dead. At least, he isn't quite dead. He was asleep last week and Saturday caught him before he could write a thing. That's why Harry had to fill in space with a corset ad last week.

Our Cheri Mother, Mrs. Summers, made a business visit to Dallas Monday. She will return to her orphans about Saturday.

Famous sayings of famous men:
"He may mean the world and all to his mother but he's"—Windy Watkins.

"Who's game to go to South America?"—Boomer Wallace.
"I hear you calling me"—Sal Heptatics.—"Song by Dan Jenkins.

Cheri Casa club will be on hand with an act for the all college frolic when the time arrives. How about your club?

Horn—What do you think of Alice?
Pet—Why, I can't tell after the first meeting.
Horn—Oh, go on, I want let it out.

Elkier, after having finished relating a "Window scene," which goes to show dear fellows, that people who live in glass houses should have neighbors with glass eyes.

George Buchanan a former Cheri Casan who calls Midland home, left last Friday for a short visit with the home folks, Tuesday, word was received to the effect that Buck was on his way to South America. A position was offered him by the Standard Oil Co. at a very attractive salary, and he saw no way out of the matter except to accept the position and sail for Venezuela. Good luck, Buck, old klick, and look out for the "brownskins."

Will someone please classify the girl who, one night cries in accents wild that "she loves no one but you and that she is going to be your only" and the next night pulls up in front of the drug store where you're working, with a "coupe date" and raises h— about the service.

Annual Staff Locates Office

After a frantic search which involved a few weeks time and lots of worry, La Ventana has finally located an office. Perhaps some of you have noticed the little green building which helps to fill in the landscape between the home economics building and the cafeteria.

The Y. M. C. A. has shown its sympathy for the cause and has agreed to share its office with La Ventana. This will enable us to turn out some real work and establish a permanent "bureau of information."

We feel that we are on the road to success. Please help to keep up this spirit by buying your annual now and signing up for club pictures. Now, if Mr. Chitwood will give us the loan of a desk, everything will be "holly toly"—we already have a hat rack.

COLLEGE INN HONORS DR. HORN AND MRS. DOAK

The most elaborate social function in which students have participated since the opening of the winter term was given at College Inn last evening, when the girls of the dormitory honored Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of the Tech, and Mrs. Doak, dean of women, with a well appointed dinner. With Mesdames Studeman and Thompson as hostesses, plans for the evening were appropriately carried out.

The living room and dining room of the dormitory were beautifully decorated, pink and orchid being the dominating colors. A centerpiece of orchid and pink sweet peas adorned each table, and the candlesticks at each end of the tables contained pink candles. After dinner nuts and mints were served in tiny pink baskets tied with green. The place cards were little old fashioned ladies.

Places were set for 67 guests and the following menu was served:
Fruit cocktail

Salad Cheese straws
Turkey Dressing
Cranberry sauce
Cream Potatoes
Peas Olives
Celery Hot Rolls
Briek ice cream Angel squares
Salted nuts Coffee

During the course of serving, the following toasts were given: "The occasion," Mr. Carol Thompson; Dr. Horn, Miss Agnes Brown; Mrs. Doak, Miss Lucile Davis; "College Inn Family," Miss Edna Yonge. Mrs. Doak responded in a pleasing manner, and Dr. Horn delivered a splendid after-dinner speech.

Other guests present were: Mrs. P. W. Horn, Miss Keith, Miss Ruth Horn, and Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Chitwood.

After dinner the guests assembled in the living room where a short program was given, including a piano solo by Miss Dennis Cobb, and a reading by Miss Ruth Pirtle.

Dr. Horn Makes Speaking Tour Of East Texas

President Horn has just returned from a tour of several east Texas points. He attended a meeting of the heads of the various state colleges at Greenville the first of last week. The purpose of this meeting was to plan ways of putting into effect the recommendations of the Texas school survey pertaining to the higher institutions of the state.

From Greenville he went to Commerce where he attended the formal inauguration of President Whitley of the East Texas State Teachers' college. At Sherman, where Dr. Horn once lived, he addressed the students of the Sherman high school. He is expected to receive many Tech students from Sherman in the near future.

Dr. Horn will speak at a teacher's institute at Kelton Jan. 30.

Dr. J. C. Granbury has just returned from a meeting of a rural church conference at Dallas. Dr. Granbury has been interested in this type of work for several years.

Male Quartet Will Make First Appearance Soon

The Tech male quartet was organized Tuesday afternoon with H. C. Cooper as president and manager and Grady Moore as poet general. Attendance at the meeting was small, but the following selections have been made: Grady Moore, second bass; H. A. Cooper, first bass; Clarence Whitehides, first tenor, and the Messrs. Vernon and Ethridge Eagen who sing first and second tenor, respectively. The organization will be a double quartet and the other members will be selected within the next few days.

Mr. Wagborne is well pleased with the personnel and ability of the quartet and expects to develop them into a group of real harmony-makers. It is probable that these male song birds will make their first public appearance at the next student convocation, according to the manager, Mr. Cooper. It has been predicted that they will prove quite popular.

"On The Convenient Corner."

Dawson County Students Active

On last Thursday night, Jan. 21, the second meeting of the Dawson County club was held, with a good attendance.

At this meeting it was definitely decided that meetings should be held every two weeks on Thursday night and that every alternate meeting should be in the form of an entertainment of some sort.

The club will meet in two weeks from date at the home of Mr. James Harris. A reporter was appointed to cover the meetings.

It was also voted that a fine, not to exceed 25c should be imposed on members who were absent from meetings without a reasonable excuse.

This is the first organization of this kind at Texas Tech and all the members are anxious that it be made a success.

Home-Ec Club Meets First Time In Winter Term

The home economic club met Friday, Jan. 22, for a short business session and a social hour. As this was the first meeting of the second term, the roll was checked and new members admitted. We now have an enrollment of about 40 members and others who are interested and intend joining.

The first meeting in each month will be for business purposes; the other meetings will be social and instructional. Once a term some kind of entertainment will be afforded.

Miss McCreary spoke to the girls on "Home Economic Week." The idea caused much interest and enthusiasm and this club intends sponsoring "Home Economic Week" at Tech some time in the future.

Dump Life

Gosh, I'm lonely, gee, I'm blue, Haven't got a thing to do, Wish to heaven I were dead, No more books to the my head, What'd you say the telephone? Tell the boob I'm not at home, Wait a minute, guess I'll go, This you Jack? Hello! Hello!

Black despair, biting days of agony spread over these individuals as they returned to their rooms after this particular party. Loud cries of horror could be heard from room 216, 210 and 212 as the inmates searched for castor oil and paraffin. The lights were out, it was in the dead hours of the night. As the members of this party retired, they uttered a loud prayer. They thought of how their parents were laboring for them, and to think they had come to this!

credited high school subjects, not more than four of which may be vocational subjects; total 15 units

Requirements for graduation: (1) English, 2 courses, (one-third of the second year course may be taken in public speaking.) (2) Foreign language, 2 courses; if three or four units have been offered in high school and the same language is continued in college, 1 course only. (3) Social science, 2 courses; if three units have been offered in high school, 1 course only. (4) Mathematics, 1 course; if three units have been offered in high school 2-3 of a course only. (5) Science (must be laboratory science), 2 courses; if two units, (3 if general or introductory science is included) have been offered in high school, 1 course only. (6) Psychology or philosophy, 1-2 of a course only. Total of maximum requirements for graduation, 9 1-3 courses; total of minimum requirements, 6 courses.

In addition to the above, the student must have a major and one or two minors. Three advanced courses constitute a major while two advanced courses in an allied subject, or one in each of two allied subjects, constitute a minor or minors.

In the foreign language requirements the present "A" courses are made numbered courses; that is to say, a student who enters with two years of Latin, for example, may meet the college requirements with only two years of a foreign language, including the beginning course if he does not continue his Latin.

Stangel Speaks To Swine Breeders At Auction Sale

Mr. Stangel, professor of animal husbandry of the Tech, addressed a crowd at the sale of 71 head of pure bred Duroc-Jersey hogs of C. H. U. Earl of Pollett, Texas. Mr. Stangel pointed out the need of hogs on the plains together with a system of diversified farming. With the help of the cow, sow and hen, the farmer can not starve, Mr. Stangel asserted. Mr. Stangel was followed by addresses from Mr. Mowery, vocational agriculture teacher of the Lubbock high school, and by Mr. Parnell, teacher of vocational agriculture at Littlefield.

The hogs brought to Lubbock by Mr. Earl from one of the best herds in the state, some of these hogs having taken high prices at the various fairs of the state, notably the Tri-State fair at Amarillo. The male bringing the highest price was "Great Heritage," which sold for $95, and the highest sow, "Miss Eureka," sold for $91. Many of these animals were sold at a sacrifice and the farmers of this section were fortunate in securing them.

Mr. Stangel's class in animal husbandry attended the sale and were thus enabled to see a fine assortment of pure bred swine.

ANNUAL EDITORS BEEF ABOUT PHOTOS

Now that the taking of annual pictures has stopped, and the tumult and the tumult has died away, peace and quiet reign once more in the halls of Texas Tech. It was a hot and furious time for a while, though, almost 700 of the unwary students were entrapped and their photos snapped. Daniels studios have resembled a mad house, and for a few days the scene would have made the battle of the marne look like a quiet Sunday afternoon in an old soldiers home. The following statistics have been gathered out of the smoke of battle:

Number of students having their pictures made during time limit first set-63. Number of students asking that time limit be extended-650. Number of students having their pictures made after time limit was extended a second time-197. Times that time limit had to be extended-5. Number of students who came around after last time limit had expired-120. Number of times that the remark "I know I look better than that" was heard-23,987.

Number of times that the remark "I won't take that picture. It flatters me" was heard-2 (both times by John Forkner).

Number of portraits of pretty girls that Daniels was using for samples that disappeared-157 (that was all there were displayed).

Number of pounds of cosmetics used in preparing for pictures-3,000. Amount spent on marcel waves for purpose of looking good in portraits-$5,888.

Number of minutes spent by the student body in having their pictures made-42,000 minutes.

Number of students pleased with portraits-1.

One student "beefs" as follows: "Why don't some of the energetic Tech students, who are swamping the employment bureau for work, install a check room in the hall near the chemistry lecture room and rent pillows to the students at the rate of 10c an hour. This would enable the students in chemistry to rest better while sleeping through the lectures three times each week."

Dean Leidigh says: "The biggest criticism I have to offer of the present management of The Toreador is its likeness to a high school publication and the high school atmosphere."

Students were again reminded in convocation Monday morning that there are many who have not received the physical examination required and have not been vaccinated. Some one is now wanting to know why a student will pay his medical fee and then not take advantage of the accommodations offered, when it is all in his interest.

Lieut. Killin states that he has "beefed" continuously since the opening of school on the subject of P. T., but that his beefing days are over. Many students who signed up for physical training at the beginning of the term have never reported for the work, but Lt.

Cadets Parade Town Friday

That the Tech cadets and the high school cadets would parade through the city Friday afternoon at the regular time for drill practice was announced at the meeting of the officers' club Thursday evening. A good representation of the cadets was present at the meeting which was presided over by vice president Cadet Capt. Harber, in the absence of the president. All cadets were urged to be present on the drill grounds promptly at 2 o'clock Friday in dress uniform, preparatory to the parade. Regulations of the uniforms were again discussed.

Lieut. Killin, commandant, stated that he had succeeded in getting three 27 calibre rifles. With these rifles and those belonging to members of the corps, the cadets will be getting some practice in indoor gallery firing within a few days. He also stated that he had sent in a requisition to the government for army rifles and necessities, including 9,000 rounds of 30 calibre ammunition.

Early Birds Begin Tossing Horsehide Lured By Spring

The warm days of the past week captured lovers of the spring sports and many were seen out on the football field participating in the preliminary work of the national pastime. Coach Frelund will not make the call for baseball until the last of February but several of the men plan to be in shape for the Matador nine. Headed by Sheriff Miller, the men tossed the horse hide around for a few afternoons. Snagging long flies and playing catch comprised most of the practice. Sheriff stated that he intended to make a hard fight for the team, Eldorado Red, better known as Big Jim Finley or Eldorado, Texas, was there and seemed to take the balls with ease. Rigney, a cousin of the famous Topper, was another apt pupil in snagging the long balls.

One aspirant of the cinder was out limbering up. His name is Vernon Neil and he hails from Cleburne. He runs the half and mile. Many other track men are expected out soon as the long training grind will start soon.

STUDENT CONVOCATION

The next student convocation will be held in the stock judging pavilion Feb. 2 at 10 o'clock. This was announced from the office of the presiding yesterday. A good program is scheduled for the meeting.

NOTICE CONTESTANTS

The subjects for the extemporaneous speeches are being mimeographed and will be handed out Monday. See Miss Pirtle in room 202.

Two-Headed Calf Brought To Tech Will Be Mounted

On the farm of Mr. G. F. Hollingsworth of the Falls community last week a two headed calf was born. The calf died shortly after birth and the case was reported to Mr. Stangel of the Tech. Other such cases have occurred but this is exceptional in having two perfectly developed heads the tops of the two heads were cemented together.

Mr. Hollingsworth made a gift of the calf to the Tech and it has been sent to Brownfield to be mounted. The calf will be placed in the zoological museum of the Tech. This is the first specimen received by the Tech for the museum.

Farm Editor Is Visitor At Tech

Mr. Wellington Brink, associate editor of "Farm and Ranch" of Dallas, visited the agricultural school of the Tech Monday, Jan. 18. He seemed well pleased with the work and addressed some of the agricultural classes. Mr. Brink promised to give the Tech all the publicity possible.

THROUGH THE BASKET

Higg has the squad in pretty good shape for the initial contest Monday night. He hopes to give the fans an exhibition of the Matadors at their best for an unexperienced team.

Daniel Baker plays 10 games before Monday night. Seems like the Matadors will be hustling against great odds. Every player intends to give his best in the first case squabble of Tech as Tech.

The students are requested to take the seats in the west end of the pavilion, leaving the east end for the town people and visitors. Why not try out the divided seating section Monday night, that is the eds on one side of the court and the co-eds on the other. More pep can be displayed in this manner and more pep than ever must be shown Monday night.
