AGRICULTURAL SHORT COURSE TO BE HERE

Nationally Known Lecturers For Short Course

February 16th and 17th have been selected by the local committee as the dates for holding the two-day farmers' and housewives' chautauqua, which will be conducted at the High School here.

The program committee is engaged in preparing a program which will include musical and other numbers by some of our best local talent, and educational lectures and demonstrations by members of the short course crew. These lectures will deal with many of the problems of the farm, the orchard, the home and the community, and will be given by nationally known speakers.

The lecturers will include Mr. H. S. Mobley, Mr. John M. Hanon and Miss Grace Marlan Smith. Mr. Mobley is one of the most prominent lecturers on agricultural and community subjects in the country. He has been a member of the extension department for many years, and is superintendent of the Harvester Company's demonstration farm near Montgomery, Alabama, where so much is being done to show the value of diversified farming, crop rotation and dairying.

Mr. Mobley long was active in farmers' organizations, of the legislative committee of which he was chairman at Washington during the time such bills as the Farm Loan Bank, Parcel Post and Smith-Lever bills were discussed and enacted. For many years he has been a practical and successful farmer and, looking at things from a farmer's viewpoint, he is able to talk to farmers as few other lecturers can. As a result of this success as a livestock and alfalfa grower, and as a community builder, he has a fund of information, based upon experience, which

Lions Club Have Important Meet

At the regular Tuesday luncheon, which was well attended by the members and at which a number of out of town guests were entertained, plans were made to "put over" the Agricultural Short Course, that is to be held February 16 and 17. Committees were appointed to finance, advertise and entertain this two days school, which will mean so much to the entire county.

MRS. R. VAN DOHEN LAID TO REST AT ROCKWOOD

Miss Jose Coben was born in 1859 in Little Rock, Arkansas. At the age of five she came, with her parents, to East Texas. When only fifteen years old she was married to Sam Fleming, a native of Tennessee. To this union were born nine children, two of which survive, Sid Fleming of San Antonio and Mrs. W. O. Barton of Trickham. There are 30 grandchildren and seventeen great-grandchildren. Her husband died in August of 1903 and sixteen years later she was married to R. Van Dohen at Fairview. For fifty-three years she had been a faithful member of the Christian church. The last two years of her life was spent as an invalid in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Barnett, where she passed away last Monday.

She was a dear mother, wife and friend. Her trials made her life the sweeter.

She was buried Tuesday afternoon at Rockwood cemetery, where Elder Salyer of Bangs, held the service, and the Santa Anna Undertaking Company being in charge of the funeral arrangement.

Cleburn Willis and family have moved to Coleman.

D. D. Boler of Lubbock was visiting relatives here this week.

Ross Sterling Governor of Texas

Local Boy Named Chairman Council Hall at Simmons

William V. Wheeler, senior from Santa Anna, has been elected chairman of the Ferguson Hall council for the year. In a meeting after chapel Saturday the men chose their self-governing body. Noell Sewell, was chosen as senior representative, J. Frank Norris, junior representative, Pat Paterson from the sophomores and Fred Ball was elected from the freshman group.

In a brief talk with the boys Dean Wiggins outlined the council and its work. "The work of these boys is not to spy or sneak around and see what they can discover, or who they can catch violating some of the rules. That is not the purpose at all. They are more or less a go-between body for the students and the administration. You tell the boys on the council your troubles and they will come to us and help clear up matters. In turn they will explain to you our viewpoint. We do not want to make them policemen or anything like that but an organization that will help us all and prove a great benefit."

There are always five men on the council. One senior that is elected as chairman of the entire council. Then one senior representative, one junior, one sophomore and one freshman. The four upperclassmen are chosen and then they meet and decide the freshman member. The council that met chose Fred Ball.

Euster Wheeler has lived in the dormitory for three years, and has served on the council two years, during his freshman days, and when a junior. This is also Noll Sewell's fourth year in the hall, but his first position on the council. J. Frank Norris and Pat Paterson are both living in the hall for their second year.—Simmons Brand.

Sterling Inaugurated Governor of Texas

Say Agriculture Is Backbone of Civilization

Ross S. Sterling of Houston, wealthy newspaper publisher, builder and former oil man, Tuesday became Governor Sterling, chief executive of Texas.

As if the fates which had aided him rise from a barefoot farmer boy to his present position, wealth and power were still with him, the weather was ideal for the inauguration ceremony. The exercises were held on an improvised platform in front of the capitol at Austin, before and around which 10,000 or more of Mr. Sterling's admirers crowded. Governor Sterling was introduced by Dan Moody, the retiring governor, who was inaugurated on the same spot four years ago. The oath was administered at 12:20 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by C. M. Cruetion, chief justice of the supreme court. A few minutes earlier Judge Cureton had administered the oath to Edgar E. Witt of Waco, new lieutenant governor.

Governor Sterling in his inaugural address characterized agriculture as the "back bone of civilization," and said that Texans, through development of agriculture and other natural resources, should first start building Texas.

He hammered home a message on farm relief. He said it could best be attained by relieving Texas farmers and stockmen of their terrible tax burdens.

"Live at home," was a keynote in his message on farm relief.

Governor Sterling said farm relief by legislation seemed a difficult undertaking.

In his live at home plan he said the farmer should be encouraged to raise his own feed and food. His children should be given the best educational advantages. Harmony in the home, on the farm, as he emphasized harmony in state affairs, so that farmers and farmers' families would be content to live on and love the farm, was another high light of his speech.

"Thus can Texas be made a greater agricultural state, and thus will her vast undeveloped lands be settled and cultivated, supplying food and other commodities to the markets of the world, and wealth to her own citizenship," he said.

SUNDAY AT METHODIST CHURCH

The services Sunday at the Methodist church will follow the usual schedule, but that you will attend these services praying for an unusual manifestation of Divine presence.

Those who, during the union revival, expressed a desire to unite with the Methodist church, will be received into the church at the morning worship hour. And it is hoped that others who should do so, will join this group in uniting with the church next Sunday morning.

The young people are especially invited to attend the evening service.

Sunday school, 9:45. Morning worship, 10:50. Sermon subject, "Christ Is For Us." League, 6:15. Evening worship, 7:15. Sermon subject, "It Can Be Done."

NEIGHBORHOOD PRAYER MEETING

The union neighborhood prayer meetings that were held during the revival were so much enjoyed that there is talk of continuing them. One circle has already announced that they will have a meeting each week. This is a good way to get better acquainted and to form new friendships.

Red Cross to Aid Needy In County

At a meeting in Coleman Monday, which was attended by the majority of school trustees of the county, a survey of the needy of the county was made.

An appropriation of fifteen hundred dollars is to be allowed by the National Red Cross organization for the relief work in this county, which will be extended thru the cooperation of the school trustees and sub-committees.

Anyone desiring Red Cross aid will have to see one of the committees and fill out an information blank, which is to be sent either to the secretary of the Red Cross at Coleman or to Miss Grace Mitchell in Santa Anna. An order for food, clothing or medicine will then be issued and the merchant receiving the order will deliver the articles, which will be confined to staples in groceries and as little as can possibly be managed with in clothing and medicine, for the funds now available are very limited and the calls are many.

Miss Brent, county demonstration agent, has kindly volunteered to can any meat that the committees could get donated for this relief movement.

Lemon Brown was in Abilene yesterday on a district committee meeting, which is under the supervision of the government division of Drouth Relief, and while the Red Cross has nothing to do with this phase of relief, it is urging every family to join in the movement sponsored by the Texas Drouth Relief committee to have every family grow a garden.

With farmers and small town families growing their own vegetables, and with the aid of the county home demonstration agents, canning the surplus and living at home would be the surest and easiest form of drouth relief. Government loans can be negotiated for garden seed to the amount of $15.

The following sub-committees were appointed by the County Drouth Relief Committee to work with them in the distribution of the funds. Sub-committees are urged to meet with the committee at the court house in Coleman at 2 o'clock p. m., Saturday, January 24th.

Poultrymen to Hold Egg Discussion Meeting

The question of great concern to the average poultryman today is how can I produce eggs below cost of production? This is the subject that will be discussed in full at a meeting to be held in Vinson's Grocery Friday night, January 23rd.

A complete discussion of this subject will be made at this time by Messrs. Ross Horick and V. R. Glazener, of the Purina Mills. Management pertaining to increased egg production, a clinic with specimens to illustrate and a culling demonstration will be features of this meeting. Poultrymen are urged to attend this meeting and acquaint themselves with the latest ideas in poultry management.

AMERICAN LEGION

The American Legion over the nation as a whole and Texas in particular is now facing a test on its legislative program. If this program is successful it must have the immediate support of every American Legion Post, every Post Officer and every Legionnaire.

There is now pending in the Congress of the United States the Wright Patman bill which provides for the immediate payment in cash of the Adjusted Service Certificates. This measure will be voted on by Congress within a very short time.

The success or failure of this bill will depend upon how much strength, represented by Legion membership, the American Legion can muster within the next three weeks, and since the Department of Texas was first to endorse this measure and since it was introduced by a Texas Congressman who is a member of the Legion in this state, the success or failure of the measure will depend largely on what the Legion in Texas does!

Congress listens to the plea of the veterans only through the American Legion. So, let no man escape without paying his dues for 1931!

TAKING INVENTORY

At last mid-term examinations are over and both teachers and students are feeling better. Exams have been taken, papers graded, grades recorded and a half year's work is now history. Now is the time to take inventory. We are advised to take an inventory of past life at the beginning of a new year. Why not take inventory at the beginning of another half year school work?

To the Seniors it is the first lap of the final race. By taking inventory they see how much one must study in order to graduate. To the lower classmen, it is another race, won or lost, in a series.

Teachers should also take inventory. As you look over your past half year's work, see what you have left undone and be sure that you do not overlook anything in days to come.

In a nut shell, may we all take inventory and have a clean sheet on which to begin the new half year's work.

FORMER SENIOR MOVED

Ona Mae Smith, a former prominent Senior of this school, has moved to San Angelo, Texas, where she will attend school and where she intends to graduate.

Ona Mae has been in school here ever since she was in the fourth grade and has missed the honor roll but very few times during her high school career.

We also know that she will do as well in San Angelo as she has here, and we extend to her all the success and happiness one could wish for in the years ahead of her.

THE OLD HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING

All the Seniors will stand by me in saying what grand times we had in the old high school when we were Freshmen. We remember distinctly how we dodged upperclassmen's belts, ink bottles and chewed chewing gum in seats where we were supposed to sit.

In the old high school there was some chance of getting out of school for a half day or possibly a whole one for fear the strong winds would blow "old faithful" down.

Those days were spent much more happily than these days we are living in this high school. Everything must be "so-so" and and there are no ink bottles thrown across the study hall when the teacher isn't looking, nor is there any chewing gum circulated in our dear old high school now.

YOUR WINTER DIET NEEDS IRON

And You Can Count Your Calories With These Recipes

Take the iron out of our conversations and we probably should not suffer much. But take the iron out of our diets we all would probably turn anemic. For iron helps supply those red corpuscles that make a healthful blood supply, and must be added to the phosphorus, the protein, calcium and the like, for a well-balanced diet.

It's not much trouble to see that the meals contain iron in the good old summer time, when vegetables and fresh fruits are fairly thrust upon us. But in the Jack Frost months, these are not so readily available, especially in the rural sections, and we must look elsewhere for our mineral supply.

Not that we have to look far—right under our noses is an excellent source of iron, dried fruits, always in season and everywhere available. The pasteurized dates contain 3.4 'shares' of the mineral in one serving alone, and we need but 30 'shares' daily, all told. Besides this iron content, dried fruits add bulk to the diet, not to mention vitamins and calorie content, nor to say one word about the flavor!

The following recipes will be found useful in bringing iron into the diet in the pleasantest way possible. You will notice, too, that some recipes carry the number of calories they contain, so you may count them, if you like.

Stuffed Apples Glace
(Approx. 230 calories to serving)
6 sour apples, 12 pitted dates, 1-2 cup water, 1-2 cup corn syrup (butterscotch or maple flavor).

Wash and core apples beginning at blossom end. Pare skin one inch from top. Place two dates in center each apple. Place in oiled baking pan. Mix corn syrup and water and cover apples. Bake in hot oven 450 degrees about half hour until apples are tender. Baste several times during cooking with syrup. If necessary, add more water as the syrup thickens.

Iron Salad

3 cups shredded cabbage, 1-4 package pitted dates, 1 cup diced pineapple (fresh or canned), lettuce, salad dressing.

Soak cabbage in cold water until crisp. Drain thoroughly. Add pineapple, dates and French or mayonnaise dressing and toss with two forks until well mixed. Serve in cup of lettuce leaves.

Honey Boy

(A Laxative Confection.)
1-2 cup shredded coconut, 3-4 cup raisins, 1-2 pkg. pitted dates, 1-2 sq. chocolate, 2 cups flaked bran, 3-4 tbsps. honey.

Run the coconut, raisins and dates alternately through a food chopper. Stir in melted chocolate, then bran and honey alternately. Form the mixture into a roll about one inch in diameter. Cut in slices with sharp knife. The roll keeps fresh for several days if wrapped in waxed paper and stored in a tightly covered container. Yield one pound (about 32 pieces).

Health Cookies

(Approx. calories: 80 each cookie.)

1 cup white flour, 2 tps. baking powder, 1-4 to 1-2 tsp. salt, 1 cup whole wheat flour, 1-2 cup sliced dates, 1-2 tsp. vanilla, 6 tbsps. shortening, 2-3 cup brown sugar, 1 egg, 1-4 cup milk, 1-2 cup nuts.

Sift white flour, salt and baking powder. Add whole wheat flour. Mix dates and coarsely chopped nut meats through flour with finger tips. Cream or pour the shortening, stir in sugar gradually, then un-beaten egg. Mix well, add milk and vanilla. Stir in dry ingredients. Drop mixture by heaping teaspoonfuls onto a well oiled baking sheet or inverted dripping pan. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for about 10 minutes. This recipe will make about 36 cookies.

Fruit Spread

(Approx. 200 calories to serving.)

1 package (10 oz.) dates (pitted), 3-4 cup (1-4 lb.) walnuts, 1-2 lb. layer figs, boiling water, milk, cream, or fruit juice.

Pit dates, remove stems from figs, shell walnuts. Put the fruit and nuts through the food chopper, using the medium knife; or chop them to a paste in a wooden bowl. Add liquid until the mixture is of the proper consistency to spread. This recipe makes sufficient filling for two dozen sandwiches. If part of the mixture is to be stored, only a small amount of boiling water should be added before storing and the additional liquid at the time of making the sandwiches.

Miss Odell Brown has returned home after an extended visit in Colorado City.

R. P. Crum has been confined to his home from illness for the past several days.

SELF CULTURE CLUB

The Self Culture Club meets Friday, January 30, to have the lesson scheduled for December 26th.

Mrs. Clint Lowe is the leader and the subject is, "Development of and Relations Between the Western South American Countries, 1825-1870."

Mrs. Lowe will discuss the first topic, which is, "Establishment of and Character of the Government of Chile."

Mrs. J. W. Sheppard will give a discussion of the "Rise and Fall of the Peru-Bolivian Confederation," and Mrs. C. P. Petty's topic is, "Spanish War Against the Western South American States."

Questions for the general discussion are:

1. Who was the ablest statesman of Chilean history?

900 Meals Each Year

The average Home Manager must plan, prepare and cook approximately nine hundred meals each year. Truly, a stupendous task... and one which is frequently underestimated by all save the one to whom it is entrusted.

Modern science has come to the rescue in simplifying the job of cooking—and in making the work easier has also improved the results to be obtained.

Electric Cookery—to quote the familiar "Five C's"—is Clean, Cool, Comfortable, Convenient, and accurately and scientifically Controllable. In short, it means the introduction of modern methods of production in the home.

Thousands of West Texas Home Managers stand, as enthusiastic evidence to the value of the modern electric range. They are enjoying hours of freedom formerly spent in a hot and disagreeable kitchen. Investigate the many advantages of electric cookery—you'll find it more than ever economical under the schedule of the new Home Comfort Rule.

Editorial

THE UPRISE IS BEGINNING

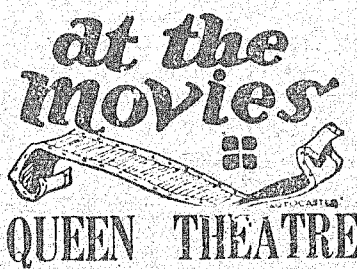

Reports from all over the country are to the effect that the Christmas trade everywhere was far better than merchants had anticipated, and that stocks of merchandise have been so far sold out that the shelves are practically bare in many sections in every line of goods.

This month in the larger cities the big stores are cashing in with post-holiday bargain sales to clear off the rest of their stocks, and people are buying much more freely than six months ago.

That is the most encouraging sign of the times. It means, of course, that the retailers have got to begin buying right away from the wholesalers, who in turn have got to send orders to the mills and factories. The wheels will begin to turn more rapidly as soon as this flood of new buying orders is under full headway. Men will go back to work, and in turn will have money to spend.

Unless something unforeseen happens, we cannot look for an instant return of the old prosperity. It will creep upon us unaware, as it has always done in the past, until some morning, while most of us are still croaking about hard times, everybody will realize at the same moment that the hard times are over. That is what has always happened, and there is no reason to think it won't happen that way this time.

A real western picture is offered this week-end at the Queen Theatre, in conjunction with the usual comedy and the serial, "The Lone Defender." The plot is laid on Wind River Ranch, owned by Martin Stavnow, where Jim Brandon is foreman. Harvey, a youthful cowhand, is in love with Ronnie Slavnow. Brandon also loves Ronnie, but he is unaware that the boy loves her too, and does not suspect him of plotting to break up the match. Jim likes the boy tremendously and protects him like a brother. Harvey's love is spurned by Ronnie. The boy decides to go bad and joins up with Red Slade's gang, with whom he plots a raid on the round up herd of the Wind River ranch. Harvey is killed in the fight as Jim forcibly attempts to take him away from the Slade gang and back to Wind River. Through the aid of Tarzan, his horse, Jim foils Slade's attempt to stampede the Wind River herd. During the fight Slade crawls in the chuck wagon where Ronnie is hiding. The team runs away with the wagon. Jim rescues Ronnie from the wagon just before it dashed over a cliff with Slade riding to his doom.

Warner Fabian, possibly the foremost writer of modern jazz life and the author of "Flaming Youth," has written another of his incomparable comedy-dramas based upon the vivacity and allure of present day life in the fast young society set.

This story was written especially for use on the screen as the Universal special production, "What Men Want," which comes to the Queen Theatre the first of next week.

An outstanding cast portrays the story, headed by Pauline Starke, Ben Lyon, Barbara Kent, Robert Ellis Hallam Cooley, Carmelita Geraghty, and others. Production is on a most lavish scale, with many beautiful settings in the country club, the elaborate apartments, and many beautiful sumptuous locales of the enticing plot.

Those who think there is no romance in the modern fire equipment, with powerful motors and shrieking sirens, must surely see "The Third Alarm," the Tiffany production showing at the Queen on Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

There they can compare the new with the old, for when the third alarm is turned in that brings out all the apparatus left in the city to fight the conflagration that is destroying the Children's Home, an old fire engine is brought out. Three huge white horses draw it. Flaming coals scatter from its fire bed, smoke and steam issue from its engine as it careens through the traffic of busy city streets. Thrilling? See for yourself. Hear it.

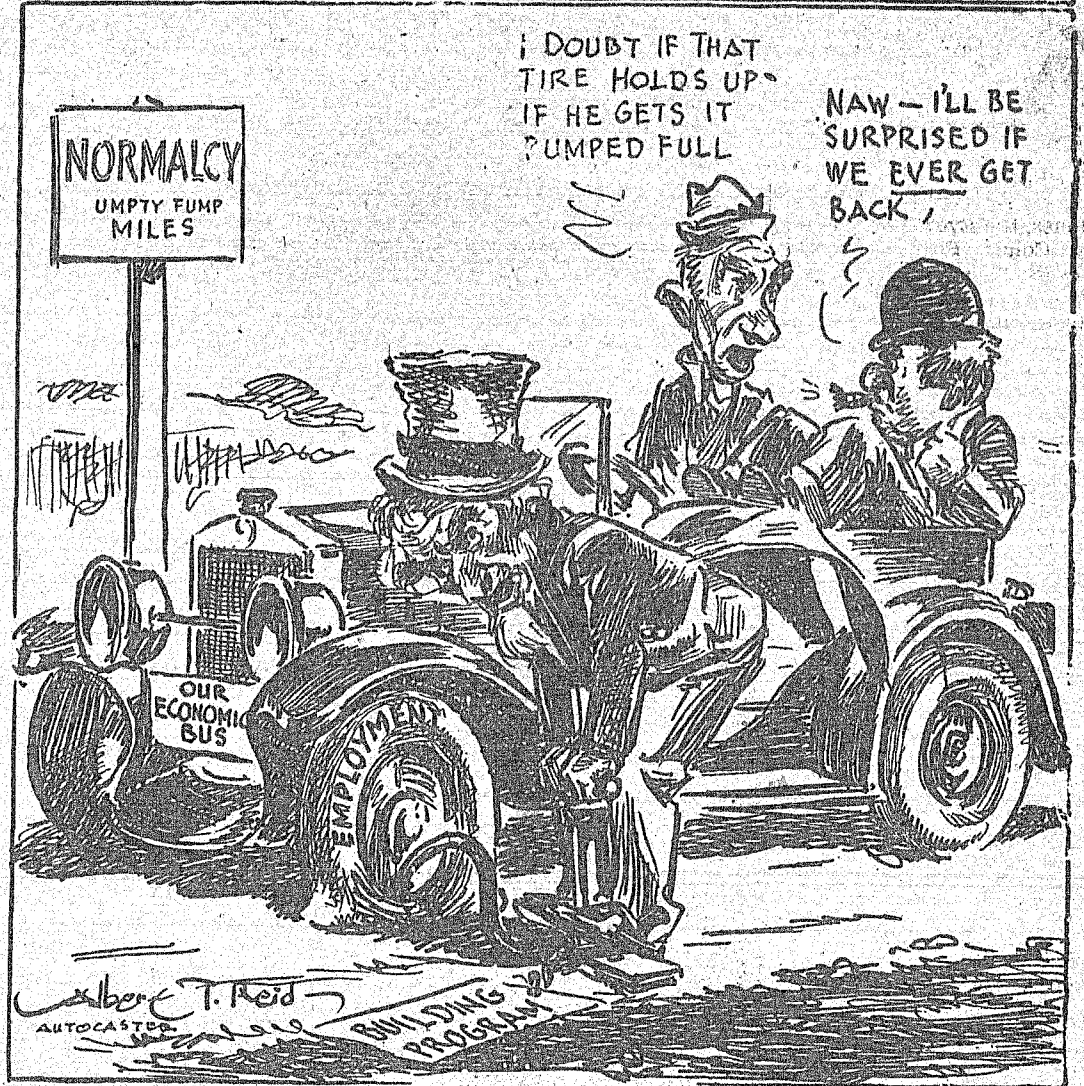

This picture will be a benefit show for the City Fire Department. They will appreciate your support and as the picture is a vivid drama glorifying those men who face the terror of flames with iron hearts—who face death as their duty. You will be glad you saw it.

TWO BROTHERS BURIED AT ROCKWOOD

J. C. Lovelady was born in Caldwell County, Texas, August 18, 1859. He moved to Coleman County and settled in the Rockwood community about forty years ago, and has resided there every since. His remains were carried to Rockwood Monday afternoon for burial, following funeral services held at the Rockwood Baptist church, of which he was a very loyal member. The funeral oration was delivered by Rev. C. V. Carroll of Brownwood, under whose preaching Mr. Lovelady was converted in the summer of 1893. The Rev. Mr. Carroll also baptized Mr. Lovelady in the Colorado river following his profession, and the two have been very warm friends since. The elderly minister spoke very affectionately and with much feeling in referring to his good friend during his life as a pioneer Christian in the southern part of Coleman County. The pastor, Rev. Liscomb and Rev. Hal C. Wingo, pastor of the Santa Anna Baptist church assisted in the services.

Deceased is survived by his widow, six sons and two daughters: Mrs. Alice Lovelady of Rockwood, Oscar Lovelady of Whon, Guy and James, Jr. of Rockwood, Dr. Ray and Howard Lovelady of Santa Anna, Carroll Lovelady of Bangs, Miss Alta Lovelady, teaching in the public schools at Sweetwater and Miss Myrtle Lovelady of Los Angeles, California. All were present except the latter.

The writer has known the two deceased brothers for several years, and learned to appreciate them for their several good qualities shortly after forming their acquaintance. They were honorable, God loving citizens in the county. They have passed to their reward, but had no fear in crossing the silent stream. They are now at rest with their Creator, but the influence such men leave behind will live on. Each contributed a family of respected and useful citizens to the world and are now at home with God. Peace to their ashes.
 J. J. Gregg.

The BEST Gray Hair Remedy is Home Made

To half pint of water add one ounce bayrum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub out.

Fourth Installment

Maggie Johnson, whose father is a letter-carrier, is the domestic drudge of the humble home where her mother does little except bemoan the fact that she has "seen better days" and her sister Liz, who works in a beauty shop, lies abed late. Maggie has to get the family breakfast before she starts out to her job in the Five-and-Ten-Cent store. There's a new boy at the Five-and-Ten, Joe Grant. He tells Maggie that he has been assigned to work as her helper in the stock room. He seems rather lumb, but Maggie helps him through his first day at the store and shares lunch with him in a cubbyhole of a place that belongs to a mattress factory next door to the Five-and-Ten.

Maggie, at home, begins to suspect that her mother's complaints are due to that lady's belief that happiness depends upon material things, while at the store she continues to surprise Joe by her appreciation of the realities of life.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Fifth Installment

"A lot of it's bluff," he said carelessly. But he liked her blind admiration, neverthe less. "Does your mother work?" she asked him one day.

"My—?" He started, considered.

"Not now," he said. "She split a Board the other day," he said, after though.

Maggie saw nothing unnatural in this. She visualized a sturdy, bareheaded old woman helping with the family supply of kindling.

"What does your father do, Joe?"

"The only real work Dad does now is on a golf course, at a country club," Joe answered scrupulously.

"A gardener?" she asked, widening her eyes. "A caretaker?"

It was a shame to tease her, but then she was such a simple little dumb-bell, Joe reflected. Grimy little face, grimy little hands, mud-colored apron, and boots a size too big.

Maggie was talking.

" . . . but she was quite a swell. She didn't have much money, mind you, but he did. Mackenzie was in the business then, an' they say he named his son for him."

There was a familiar ring about these facts; could she possibly be speaking of her employer and of his father?

"What on earth are you talking about?" he asked blankly.

"Merrill," she answered readily. "Mackenzie was the brains, they say—he was the Mack—but he's dead. But Merrill is the soul of honour, and he not only has the faculty of drawin' good men about him, but he has made a small fortune out of the Mack, took care of most of her family, an' has kep' sev'ral of her relatives out of jail for what they done profiteering in war-time as well!"

Joe was staring at her, oddly, a slow smile spreading on his face.

"Who taught you that piece?"

"Ev'ryone knows that."

"Is—that—so?" He grinned. Relatives of his mother kept out of jail, eh? That was probably Uncle Irvine and young . . .

He looked at her, musing in his turn.

"I'd like to walk Maggie in on the old man some day—or better yet, walk him into the store and introduce Maggie as the fine, independent girl he's always talking about," Joe reflected. "I'd say, 'You keep suggesting that I get out and meet a real girl—well, she's real, Maggie. And she's going to step right off the floor of the Mack into the position of your only daughter-in-law!'"

"I might bluff it, anyway," his thoughts ran on. "Maggie's such a little sport, she's enjoy playing the part. She'd make up for it and carry it off like a comedienne!"

But he couldn't play any games with Maggie. The poor kid was falling in love with him fast enough as it was.

"It's probably her first crush," Joe thought, watching her not without a sort of generous pity. "She'll have it bad. But it won't hurt her, it never hurts anyone."

She was far enough from my appreciation now, at all events, as she chattered on of everything she found interesting, sometimes making him laugh, sometimes—oddly—giving him a prick behind the eyes that owed itself to a very different sensation. Maggie had never thought of love, for herself.

Her own affairs, indeed, were entirely secondary.

But she betrayed herself to Joe with almost every word and glance.

"I'll tell you what, Joe, I like you better than anyone else except my own family!"

"Don't like me as well as your sister, huh?"

"Well, I like somethings about you as well as I like anything about Liz," she might finally decide.

and small, cut from magazines and newspapers.

"Oh, Joe, it's awful cute the way you learn me!" she said, her betraying eyes luminous, her whole being melting toward him visibly, irresistibly. And she presently reported that her mother and sister had made dry, half-contemptuous reference to the fact that she did not drop the ubiquitous final consonant any more.

found full of printed "G's" large. She told him that he had brought her all her luck.

"It was the day you first"—she paused—"first came," she resumed briskly, deciding upon her verb, "that I got on to the ideal idea. And then 'member that you gave me one that night going home? Well, I put it up by the clock, and we—we just about live by that card. It's made a difference in Pa, an' it's made a difference in me, an' in

"I'll tell you what, Joe, I like you better than anyone else except my own family!"

"I hope you're not beginning something that you can't finish, Maggie!" he said to himself more than once.

One day he brought her a long envelope, which, upon opening it in an expectant flutter, Maggie everything.

"I see a difference in you," he said seriously.

"Oh, Joe, honest—do you?"

"Honest, I do."

"How?"

"Well, in everything. The way you talk, the way you look, the way you act," he said.

"Oh, I wish—" she said elatedly—"I wish you could see the difference in our kitchen! Pop an' I ask each other every night, 'Is it ideal?' And we won't go to bed unless it is!"

It soothed him to have her so openly, so completely adoring. She thought him brilliant, she thought him well educated, she thought him wise and witty and loveable, when his own father had

And her laughter! The divine, the inimitable gift of mirth had been given her—Joe first thought Maggie pretty when first he saw her laugh. She lived in delicious gale of it.

That little soft touch on his coat, that little soft girl-person jumbled against his shoulder for a minute, in the crowded aisle, those black-fringed eyes brimming with mirth and affection—those were all dared agreeable things, his thoughts would agree.

A hundred times, a thousand times, he heard her call herself lucky.

With her usual eager rush she retailed a hundred reasons. Her health, her wonderful family, her mother—described as "genteel," her dashing sister, who had such a good job, and her father—without whose assistance Maggie's yearnings toward the "ideal life" would have been crushed in the bud, and whose companionship meant everything to the washer of the Johnson dishes and the keeper of the Johnson kitchen.

"But you've had hard luck, Joe," she agreed pityingly.

This vexed him, too. Or perhaps the pricking, uncomfortable emotion it aroused, was not vexation, but something deeper—something nearer compunction. Of course he had had a rotten deal. But for Maggie to be the one to see it!

"How d'ye mean I've had hard luck?"

"Oh, well, every way! You weren't raised for this kind of work—and you hate it, and you keep thinkin' that you'd rather be somewhere else, doin' something else, an' you don't like these girls here in the Mack?"

"Does your mother cook well?" she asked.

Bill Winslett and family moved to this community last week from Coleman Junction. We are glad to have them back with us, as they have lived here before.

There are none so blind as those who think they see it all. We are sorry to report Miss Mary Middlebrook on the sick list.

Listen! Folks! There will be a play, "A Little Clodhopper," Friday night, January 23, at the Baptist church. An admission fee of 10c will be charged everyone. "A little Clodhopper," is a comedy-drama in three acts, by Walter Ben Hare. It is a bright comedy with a laugh from start to finish.

Maybe the reason prosperity doesn't round that corner is it has been buttonholed by a pessimist.

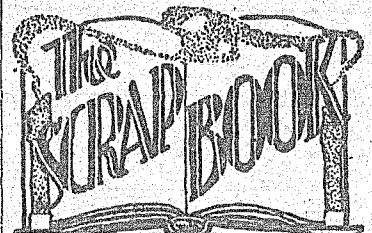

Rev. Gilbert of Brownwood will fill his regular appointment at the Baptist church next Saturday night, Sunday morning and Sunday night. Everyone is invited to attend these services.

The Philadelphia Inquire carries an editorial headed, "Will Blonds Become Extinct?" Not unless drug stores do.

The Cowboys were scheduled to play Loss Creek Tuesday, but Loss Creek gave them the game. We wanted to win the game, but would have much rather won it on the court.

The Cowboys have been successful so far in the precinct games. We hope that the future games will turn out like the past ones have.

Don't forget "The Little Clodhopper." A little dime isn't much, and anyway, it is worth a dollar to see such a side-splitting play.

DAYBREAK

By Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

A wind came out of the sea, And, "O mists, make room for me!"

It hailed the ships, and cried, "Sail on, Ye mariners, the night is gone!"

And hurried landward far away, Crying, "Awake! it is the day!"

It said unto the forest, "Shout! Hang all your leafy banners out!"

It touched the wood-bird's folded wing, And said, "O bird, awake and sing!"

And o'er the farms, "O chanticleer, Your clarion blow, the day is near!"

It whispered to the fields of corn "Bow down, and hail the coming morn!"

It shouted through the belfry-tower "Awake, O bell! proclaim the hour."

It crossed the church yard with a sigh, And said, "Not yet! in quiet lie."

The contest for naming the New Hatchery ends Saturday. Send in your suggestion today. Winner will be announced in next weeks paper. Oma Robertson, Mathews Building.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Boggus were in Fort Worth Thursday and Friday of last week.

Clinton Lowe, John Lowe and A. L. Oder were in Brownwood Monday.

Carolina Woman Lost 47 Pounds

In 3 Months and Feels Years Younger

"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for nearly 3 months. I have continued taking one teaspoonful in warm water every morning. I then weighed 217 pounds, was always bothered with pains in my back and lower part of abdomen and sides.

"Now I am glad to say I am a well woman, feel much stronger, years younger and my weight is 170 pounds. I do not only feel better but I look better, so all my friends say.

"I shall never be without Kruschen Salts, will never cease taking my daily dose and more than glad to highly recommend it for the great good that is in it." Mrs. S. A. Solomon, New Bern, N. C., Jan. 1930. "P. S. You may think I am exaggerating by writing such a long letter but truly I feel so indebted to you for putting out such wonderful salts that I cannot say enough."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85 cents at Turner's Drug Store and druggists the world over. Take one half teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast.

Attention to diet will help—cut out pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—the Kruschen way is the safe way to lose fat. Try one bottle and if not joyfully satisfied—money back.

Poultry Culling Demonstration

There seems to be a big demand for poultry culling in Coleman County, and rightly there should be. Farmers who have farm flocks for home use or to supplement the farm income and poultry producers in general are waking up to the fact that it does not pay to care for and feed poultry flocks which have 25 to 30 per cent of hens that are non-producers. With the present prices of feed and the market price of poultry products no money can be made from poultry unless it is culled to get rid of the drags.

Culling is not a sure way to make a poultry flock pay but it goes a long way toward that end. Proper care and feeding plays a very important part in the profits derived from poultry, but culling has to be done. The flock should be 100 per cent productive to show a profit and the only way to get it that way is to cull, care for, and feed correctly.

For the benefit of those communities that are interested and want a poultry culling demonstration the Department of Vocational Agriculture at both Santa Anna High School and Coleman High School, together with the County Agent, will train a poultry culling team and bring it to any community asking for it. All that you have to do to get a poultry culling demonstration for your community is to see one of the undersigned men and he will give you a date.

We have hit upon this plan due to the fact that we have so many calls for this work from individual men that we do not have time to get around to all of them. By having these group demonstrations we can benefit more people quicker.

If you want a demonstration for your community get busy and make a date for it.

Mr. Hannon has been a memperience in landscaping. Miss Smith grew to womanhood on a farm, taught in both rural schools and city schools and for a number of years has been an extension worker for the Harvester Company and for the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Her talks are always full of helpfulness and inspiration. Large charts, lantern slides and motion pictures will be used to illustrate the lectures, and questions relating to matters discussed will be invited and will be conscientiously answered so far as possible.

Interest Increasing In Farm Records School

NEXT MONDAY NIGHT TO BE LADIES NIGHT; POULTRY CULLING DEM.

There is increased interest in the evening school on farm records that is being conducted by the Department of Vocational Agriculture of the high school. Farmers are learning of the meeting and taking more interest every day.

The subject for last Monday night was a continuation of the discussion of "How to Keep an Account of a Crop." Some time was given to the Red Cross and Drought relief work.

Next Monday night the subject will be, "How to Keep a Poultry Account." Half of the program is going to be given over to poultry culling with live birds on hand to demonstrate with. The farmers are going to bring their wives, since they usually care for the poultry, and the night will be a Ladies night.

Any lady who is not lucky enough to have a husband in attendance is invited to attend if she is interested in poultry culling and poultry records. Bring your husband along too.

The meeting will be held at the High School building at 7:00 p. m.
