"He Profits Most Who Serves Best"

SMOKE FROM THE MOUNTAIN

When a young man in general (Newman Upton in particular) gets up at 5 a. m. to meet his girl who is coming in on an excursion train and she calmly rides off home with another guy, it's time to do something. Especially if he hates to get up as much as we do. But that's what happened Monday morning. We'll bet Rhea had a fall time getting him in a good humor that night.

The excursion train folks said that "smoke" should skip this week but what's the use of having eyes if you don't use them?

If you want to find a new way to make up a bed in a chair car, ask Arnold Richards. You don't fall on the floor more than three times an hour.

Hippo Fulton was the chief entertainer and waker-upper on the party. If one of the folks went to sleep on the train, did those cups and ice water come in handy?

The band caused a sensation when they got out on the platform at Brownwood and drew the attention of the townspeople.

We've heard folks say—they'd walk so far for a smoke, but if we wanted a coke or a candy bar we walked about a mile and a half on the train and that is no joke. By the time you walked up to the lunch car on that train and back you were too tired to enjoy what you bought.

Seems that Gale Collier and another conspirator became the bank for a certain girl on the train. Did you ever let her in?

Tribute was paid to the life of the deceased who was a loving wife and mother, always cheerful and willing to help her friends and neighbors in illness and in joy. The minister comforted the family with the service, saying that her three score years were well spent and that her Master needed her in the home where there is no more parting.

Loving friends laid her to rest and many beautiful floral offerings were placed on the mound.

Sealy Hospital One of Few On Approved List

American College of Surgeons Send Out List of Texas Approved Hospitals

The Sealy Hospital is among the sixty hospitals in Texas listed on the totally approved list of the American College of Surgeons, according to information sent out this week by the organization. Only thirty five towns in Texas have approved hospitals and Santa Anna is one of these and is given a rating equal to that of many hospitals in large cities.

According to this list, within a radius of approximately 100 miles of Santa Anna, four towns have hospitals totally approved on this list. These are Santa Anna, Abilene, Brownwood and Mineral Wells. Others within this radius have provisionally approved hospitals.

Ballinger Beats Santa Anna 33-0

By News Sports Writer

Last Friday night the Santa Anna Mountaineers took a drubbing from the Ballinger Bearcats, in a game that saw the local boys put up a gallant fight before being subdued by the terrific power of the Ballinger eleven. At the half the score was 13-0, but in the third and fourth periods the more powerful Bearcats wore down the stubborn defense of the Mountaineers and piled up an aggregate of twenty points.

All during the game the Mountaineers were consistent ground gainers on line plunges, and several times the local club got in scoring territory but penalties stopped the threat.

Just as the half ended the Mountaineers got deep into enemy territory when Lackey completed a long pass to Brewer who went to the ten before being shoved out of bounds.

The Ballinger offense featured long end sweeps behind beautiful interference, that mowed down the would be tacklers with machine like precision. All of the Bearcats scores came from long jaunts around ends by the fast and shifty backs.

The play of several Mountaineer boys stood out. In the secondary the play of H. L. Lackey, Bo Brewer, and Burton Gregg stood out while in the forward wall the play of Arnold Richards, M. L. Guthrie, and Charlie Wristen was of an outstanding quality. If it had not been for the outstanding play of these men the score would have probably been more. The score does not indicate the brand of football that the local club played. At all times they were a fighting ball club and at no time did they ever give up, even after Ballinger had the game on ice. The thing that contributed mostly to the Mountaineers downfall was the airtight pass defense that the Bearcats had. At no time were the Mountaineers able to get their pass offense to clicking for the great defensive secondary of the Bearcats. This week the local team goes to Brady to mix it with the all Powerful Brady Bulldogs.

"More than 99 and one-half percent of the 22,470 eligible employees of the Texas corporation and subsidiary companies in the United States and Canada have signed up under the corporation's group life insurance and pension plan. It was announced today by W. S. S. Rodgers, president of the Texas corporation. To date 113 employees have received pension checks and 26 death claims amounting to $77,719.82 have been paid."

Beaux Dated By Notes Fifty Years Ago; Messenger Boys Rewarded by Cake

(By Miss Luella Chambers)

Fifty years ago our beaux would take us to Brownwood on the morning train to attend service at the Baptist Church, take dinner at the hotel and supper with friends, attend the night service and return on the night train.

Sometimes we would go to Coleman on Sunday night and all go to the Florence Hotel for supper and attend services and then go home.

We had lots of parties in town and some in the country. We always were welcomed to the Herndon home north of the east mountain. Sometimes we would go in a two horse wagon and sometimes several couples would walk over in the moonlight.

The young men had to write to make a date so the little boys around town got to make some nickels. Charlie and George Aldridge persuaded the Mountaineers To Play Undefeated Brady Team Fri.

Fighting Local Team Holds Little Chance for a Win

By News Sports Writer

This week the Santa Anna Mountaineers journey to Brady for another conference contest this time with the loop leading and fast Brady Bulldogs, so far this season the Bulldogs have not been stopped, and only once have they been even halted, and this being at the hands of Winters. The Brady team features the fastest and neatest back in the circuit in one Charlie Dye. This boys' great running ability has been the mainstay of the Bulldogs for the past two or three seasons, and it seems that he is speedier and craftier this year than ever. He has run rough shod over all opposition this year.

The Mountaineers are not even given an outside chance to stop this onslaught of speed and power that the Brady team exhibits, but anything is possible in a football game. Coaches Little and Jackson have been scratching their heads and figuring for quite a while just how to stop this Brady Terror, Charlie Dye. They may not stop him dead still but it is believed that they will slow him down considerably.

The entire Mountaineer squad should be in fair physical condition with the exception of Captain Bo Brewer who received injuries to both knees in the Ballinger game, but he is likely to be in the starting eleven Friday night when the Mountaineers take the field against the Bulldogs Friday night. The local club has built up the reputation of being the fightingest club in the circuit, and it is a certain fact that they will not lose this title in Friday night's game. Should the Mountaineers come into their own and defeat the Bulldogs it would be the greatest upset of the season in this conference, and they might do just this.

Achievement Day Planned by Clubs

Beginning October 27 and continuing through December 3, a series of 21 Achievement Day events will be presented by Coleman County's 21 home demonstration clubs, according to Miss Chrystene Trowbridge, county home demonstration agent.

Most of the events, which are informal programs to demonstrate the achievements of the past 12 months, will be presented at either the home of a yard or bedroom demonstrator of each club.

"During these Achievement Events the club women will show their friends and neighbors what accomplishments they have made during the year," stated Miss Trowbridge. At the first of the year the clubs begin work on improving the yards and the bedroom. In working in their bedrooms the women have been interested in re-finishing the floors, selecting and hanging curtains, making chair cushions, dresser scarfs, and having useful and attractive accessories in the bedroom.

In working on the yards the clubs have learned to plant a lawn and care for it, to make and use lawn furniture, to plant shade trees, to make equipment for outdoor games and to give entertainments in the yard.

The schedule for the Achievement Day events follows:

October 27 Voss Home Demonstration Club.
October 28, Liberty.

Rockwood Wins In Melvin Game With Score 19-6

By Sports Writer

The Rockwood Yellow Jackets won their sixth game of the season Saturday by defeating the Melvin Bulldogs 19-6.

The Bulldogs had the honor of being the first of the season to score on the strong Class C Rockwood team.

The Yellow Jackets fumbled the ball, lost it and the Bulldogs covered it and passed for a touchdown in the first four minutes of the game. But the Yellow Jackets came back at them making three touchdowns and allowing the Melvin team to make only two first downs.

First touchdown was made by Bill Rutherford on a 30-yard run. Jim Rutherford made the other two, one on a 50-yard run and the other was made by hard driving of the Rockwood quarterback.

Rockwood is still tied with Eden for district 8-c. Rockwood has one more conference game while Eden has three.

The Yellow Jackets will play their next game at Lohn Friday 29. This is not a conference game.

Sealy Hospital On Approved List

The Sealy Hospital has the honor of being listed on the Hospital Approved List compiled by the American College of Surgeons, which sent out this data this week.

Only sixty hospitals in Texas rated this high, being on the totally approved status, although a few others are on the provisionally approved since they have met minimum requirements. However only thirty five towns in Texas have a hospital or hospitals wholly approved and Santa Anna is probably the smallest town listed in the entire group, while many larger towns with hospitals are left completely off the list.

We said that this rating was an honor and such it is, but it is a distinction which comes because of hard work and the integrity and foresight of the hospital authorities. It is an honor which the hospital deserves and which the city of Santa Anna should be proud of — that this town of 2,000 population can have at our service a hospital staffed as well and managed as well as those in cities of several hundred thousand population.

We who have always known the hospital know that this honor is deserved and rejoice with the staff on this high rating.

Approved Hospitals

Announcement by the American College of Surgeons of its 1937 Approved List of hospitals focuses attention upon an institution relatively inconspicuous in the community, considering the importance of its function. It would beyond a doubt be better for the community and better for the hospital if a more adequate conception could be conveyed of the constructive character of present day hospital service.

Whereas in times past the hospital in most cases could do no more than mend or patch seriously diseased and broken bodies, today in constantly increasing proportions it is returning them to society in a state of complete or practically complete restoration. Furthermore, it is so minutely noting and recording symptoms, developments, and responses to treatment, that every patient contributes a share to the advancement of medical science. Upon him is lavished the benefit of the extensive research and experimentation carried on in laboratories both within and outside the hospital, and he in turn passes on for further study a record of his individual reactions. Through his succeeding sufferers from similar maladies or injuries are given constantly better chances for complete recovery.

The hospital is constantly making known its records of experience and discovery, to the end that the public may be educated in health preservation. Prevention is the modern health gospel, and the hospital, though it is thought of as being dedicated to caring for the sick, is preaching that gospel, and practicing it.

Hospital service has been immeasurably improved through organized effort such as the Hospital Standardization movement originated by the American College of Surgeons with the aim of assuring as nearly perfect an environment as possible for the practice of surgery. All hospital patients have benefited by this movement, since improvements made to assure better care of surgical cases before, during, and after operations have necessarily extended to all departments of the hospital. Now every service directed toward the care of the patient is involved in the movement, and all patients whatever their ailments may be are better cared for because of it.

Surgeons grant that no matter how great the skill of the operator, deficient after care may convert a successful operation into an eventual fatality or a less degree of recovery than should have been attained. Hospitals have therefore been eager to cooperate with surgical groups in bettering their facilities, equipment, organization, methods and attitudes. The extent of their cooperation is shown by the fact that whereas twenty years ago, when the American College of Surgeons made its first survey of hospitals in the United States and Canada, only 89, or 12.9 per cent, of the 692 hospitals surveyed, merited approval. All the hospitals in this first survey had 100 beds or more. This year the survey shows that of 3,575 hospitals of all classes having 25 beds or more, 2,621 or 73.3 per cent are meeting the requirements for approval. Of the 1,787 hospitals having 100 beds or more, 1,674 or 93.7 per cent are receiving approval in 1937.

The hospital standardization movement has provided a convenient and reliable gauge whereby communities and individuals may judge how well the interests of the sick and injured in their hospitals are being protected, and whether those hospitals are fitted to function as health centers, leading as they logically should, in better health education.

A community is most fortunate in having approved hospitals. They are and will be increasingly vital, since medical knowledge is constantly growing, in assuring maximum health protection for its citizens.

A Good Day
Last Sunday was good in several ways. Although many were away on the Excursion trip, the attendance was up in Sunday School, and the response to the State Mission appeal was generous. The services at the Line School were very encouraging, and the evening service at the church was heartening indeed. A testimony period revealed many and varied Christian joys in the lives of the members, and this was further shown by the congregational singing both at BTU and preaching service. In many ways this was the best day in our church for a long time.

Responses Coming
Letters sent out for workers in the Fall Every Member Canvass campaign are coming back with acceptances. All those receiving them are urged to reply immediately as this is very important work. The date for the canvass will be determined by the enlistment of sufficient workers to do a worthy job of it.

The Critic
"The critic stood with scornful eye before a picture on the wall.
"You call this art? Now see that fly, it is not natural at all.
It has too many legs; its head is far too large—
Whoever saw a fly like that so limp and dead,
And wings that look as if they —pshaw!" and with a gesture of disgust, he waved his hand, when lo! the fly flew from the picture.
"Ah! Some dust," the critic said, "was in my eye."

World Temperance Sunday
Next Sunday is World Temperance day in Sunday schools of all denominations. With the Texas Legislature passing by the drink liquor law it is high time we awoke to the fact that we must re-educate the youth of today on the liquor question. One has but to look around a bit to see all the reasons in the world for opposing liquor, and not one sensible reason for allowing it. Perhaps even greater revenue could be had from legalized kidnapping, and far less homes would be affected, if revenue is the reason for allowing legalized liquor. But liquor ousted itself before, and with enough rope it will hang itself again. Meantime there will be much misery and moral delinquency that must ensue for the teaching of a lesson once learned, but seemingly forgotten. Go to Sunday school next Sunday in your own church!

Dinner Party Announces Betrothal of Miss Alice Hays to Hubert Crain

Announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Alice Hays to Hubert Crain of Waco and Norton, Mrs. Tom M. Hays entertained with a dinner party at her home Thursday evening, Oct. 21 at 8:30 o'clock.

The autumn motif was carried out throughout the decorations in the living room and dining room, which were beautiful with colorful autumn leaves, sent from an adjoining state. The dining table, covered with a lace cloth, had a centerpiece of tallsmen roses in a crystal bowl and at either end of the table crystal prism candelabra held tall orange tapers.

Fruit cocktails were served in the living room preceding dinner. Guests were seated at five small tables, each centered with a nest of autumn leaves which concealed a bowl of candy, shaped and colored like autumn leaves, and a fortune for each guest.

The lovely dinner served consisted of chicken a la king in patty shells, glazed carrots, green asparagus tied with red pimento strips, and hot rolls as the main course. A golden apple salad was served with this course.

Announcement of the approaching nuptials was made with the dessert course. As the pecan pumpkin pie and coffee were brought in, each guest received a plate favor consisting of a colorful spray of autumn leaves attached to a folded card bearing the inscription: "We'd just at last tell you now."

Shower Thursday Is Farewell Courtesy for Mrs. Childers

As a farewell courtesy for Mrs. Aubrey Childers, who will leave next week-end to make her home in Louisiana, Mrs. W. R. Mulroy invited friends to her home for a bridge party and miscellaneous shower on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 21.

The home was festive in gay Hallowe'en colors of orange and black with cats, owls and witches placed attractively throughout the room.

The three tables were also decorated in the same motif. The guest book, a beautiful silk bound book painted by Mrs. Neal Oakes, was presided over by Mrs. S. W. Childers. The book was Mrs. Oakes' gift to the honoree.

The gifts were brought in by little Miss Evangeline Mulroy, dressed as a pirate, and Billy Mulroy and Bill Childers who carried out the pirate theme by bringing the presents in a small cedar chest.

Refreshments of sandwiches, potato chips, ripe olives, cookies and hot chocolate with whipped cream, carrying out the colors of the season were served to the guests. Plate favors were small pumpkins tied with ribbon.

Shower, Kid Party Honors Mrs. Childers at Mrs. Berry's Home

A Hallowe'en color motif of black and orange was used Friday afternoon when Mrs. Charlie Berry entertained at her home honoring Mrs. Aubrey Childers who leaves soon for Shreveport, La. where she will make her home. Members of the Gladhand class of the Methodist Church were named guests.

Hallowe'en being a gay and festive season and especially enjoyed by children, the hands of time turned backward for guests who came dressed as Kiddies and brought their dolls, book satchels, crayolas, scissors and paste. Guests registered in a spooky orange colored book adorned with witch silhouette.

Amy Lois Childers was voted the most charming little girl present. Contests and games dear to the heart of every child were enjoyed and then a program was given. Bernice and Evangeline Mulroy sang songs; Amy Lois Childers gave a clever reading and Ione Caton sang a vocal solo and favored the guests with piano selections.

A fish pond proved great fun and guests caught all day suckers, chewing gum, candy and animal crackers on their fish hooks. Amy Lois Childers fished and successfully landed a huge Jack O'Lantern which was filled to overflowing with lovely handkerchiefs.

The chosen colors were very cleverly carried out in decorations of the home and marigolds and other fall flowers were used in the living room appointments.

Serving tables were laid with orange and black cloths and the Hallowe'en motif was further carried out in the refreshment plates which held decorated chicken salad sandwiches, spook faced orange cups holding cranberry jelly, stuffed olives, fudge sticks and hot chocolate. Whistles were given as plate favors.

THE STORY

"I don't know. This afternoon maybe." As she spoke she was surprised to find that she was ready to go. Last night had broken the spell of her chagrin and disappointment. She had no more great need of solitude, no more great need of reflection. Yet she wondered if she was perhaps more Eleanor's daughter than she wished and if she had veered round too quickly to have felt as deeply as she had imagined. "I'll study that out after I've had a bath," she decided. "I don't want to be a flutterbrain. But oh, I'm glad the worst is over!"

"Maybe We Can Have Lunch at the Tea Shop."

stores, or hailed old friends on the street. She told them all the same tale she had invented for Bob and felt she didn't care if they didn't believe it. At last she headed back to the house to be met on the terrace by an agitated Mr. Kreef. "Right away when I went over this morning I knew someone'd been in. And I ducked around downstairs and didn't find anybody, but up in your ma's room there was your suitcase and I recognized it. How to gracious did you get in?"

beach, just like you and him used to do. "Mr. Kreef, this is interesting!" exclaimed Rachel. "This makes a lot of things clear to me. What's the schoolteacher's name?" "She's a Miss Alice Hale. Hope you don't feel bad about it, Miss Rachel. I contend to Miss Kreef that you could have had him if you'd wanted him, but you didn't want him. A body with a pair glass eyes could've seen that he was after you last year. She's a light blonde."

"I wouldn't have any chance against a light blonde, so I'll have to make the best of it, though it breaks my heart."

"Now, Miss Rachel, quit your fooling. I guess you didn't want Mr. Eddis and I say you were right, for though he's a nice young feller, he's a mite, so to speak, peculiar. It's no way for a young man to live in a little made-over shack, housekeeping for himself. A hermit, you might as well describe him. And then, he don't like the radio. That's unnatural. He goes on like this and he'll just grow into an old crank."

Rachel turned to follow Mr. Kreef's glance, then she jumped up and ran to the door. The stranger was Curt Elinor.

CHAPTER XIII It took a little maneuvering to get rid of Mr. Kreef without hurting his feelings or indulging his curiosity, but it was managed at last. And this being accomplished and Rachel and Curt left alone, an odd restraint fell on them.

"Rachel broke it. 'I do believe you're disappointed that I wasn't in the hands of gangsters or something wild, so you could rescue me. Did you bring a tommy-gun?'"

"Not even a slingshot, Rachel, why did you come?" "Why did you come?"

"It's very pleasant here," he said. "Any room with sunlight and a fireplace full of driftwood is decorated. And besides, there's the sea over the dunes. It must be lovely in summer."

"But quite!" said Rachel, mockingly. "Too, too lovely! Simply devious. Gay rugs and chintz covers, ornaments on the mantelshelf, books, pictures and fresh flowers artistically arranged, my dear, you have no idea how really charming the little dump can be!"

"I don't deserve that, do I?" "But what do you deserve, Curt? I don't even know why you've come."

"But you're not sorry I came?" "No, of course not."

"I was worried about you, that's why I came. Pink showed me your telegram and I phoned Terriss and he said the Caynes had taken finding out about their son pretty hard and I was afraid they'd been so rotten to you that you'd run away. And then, another reason for coming, I didn't know when you were coming back."

"You could have wired me, or telephoned."

"I wanted to see you with my own eyes. You've been awfully overstrained, Rachel—remember the last time we talked? You were so undecided about searching that brat's room, you took it all so seriously, as if it mattered what happened to any of them. I got you into that job and I insisted that you ought to make the search, so I felt responsible."

"Finding me how?" "Yourself again." She left him lying on the sofa and went joyfully down the long road once more. Curt's coming had been a marvelous lift—and then, the news about Bob and this Alice Hale! Her mouth quirked remembering. No wonder he had been awkward and evasive! She stopped at the library and was glad to find him alone and she pulled her face into gravity. "Now, Bob—about lunch—" she began. But he stopped her.

"I'm—I'm awfully sorry, Rachel, I'm afraid we can't have lunch together today."

"That's all right. That's just what I came to say. I've been obliged to make another engagement—" She began to laugh. "It's almost impossible for you to look relieved and annoyed at the same time, Bob. Don't be fussed, Mr. Kreef told me all"—she was halfway out of the door, ready to jump—"about your light blonde." She banged the door and ran down the street and when she heard him call after her she dashed precipitately into the tea shop. There she leisurely purchased a quart of oyster stew, half a dozen sandwiches, celery and apple salad, a package of peanut brittle and a bottle of homemade cider.

"And if that isn't a magnificent lunch," she thought, "what is?" Then her eyes fell on a tray of fresh sugared crullers and she bought two dozen. All that she and Curt didn't eat she'd take to Pink as a home-coming gift. And though she was laden with packages, she went round the block to avoid passing the library again. It would do Bob good to wonder who might be her luncheon date.

Curt was fast asleep when she got back. She tiptoed past the living room into the kitchen and noiselessly hunted a pan to reheat the stew, got out dishes, spoons and glasses. Back into the living room and she set the pan on the coals and arranged the other food on the desk.

"But she found time to look at Curt and notice how sleep rubbed out the lines from his face and made him into a quiet little boy with flushed cheeks and a defiant curl in his rough hair. A quiet little boy, a good little boy. But not too good. There was no conscious merit about Curt's expression, either asleep or awake."

"He might just as well sleep a while longer," she thought. "I'll slip out and run on the beach. I must do that before I go."

The morning wind had fallen, the winter sun was almost warm and the sea had caught blue light from the sky. The path across the dunes was hidden under wind-blown sand, but she knew her way and down on the curve of the beach the sand was hard and smooth. That searching breath of the sea, cold to penetrate and envelop and make even wood and fur chill to the touch, yet giving a sense of vigor and power, welcomed her to the familiar sealop of the cove and made her want to shout. There wasn't a run, though it would be wiser not to shout, but run she did, all down the white causeway, turning to run back when she reached the rocks that led out to the point. Sun and sea, a hard beach, and best of all the maggot in her brain was gone, she had herself destroyed it. No more worry about her own mother, no more secret resentment against Anne! There was the old spar Anne had leaned against last summer when she'd told Rachel the story of Eleanor Cayne! Rachel stopped her running beside this relic. "I might put a tablet on it," she thought frivolously. "Place of revelation, or 'Here's where the blues began,' or something." And then, "I ought not to be high—after all, that poor Elinor—and Mr. Cayne—" But it was no use, they were gone, she couldn't drag them up from the shadows and reproach herself with them any more.

Then she heard her name called and saw Curt coming down the dunes.

Home Demonstration Notes

Miss Onah Jacks, State Agent for Girls, met with representatives from Runnels, Brown Palo Pinto, Erath, and Coleman Counties in Coleman Monday at the Camp Colorado Replica. The meeting lasted from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. About fifty 4H club girls, 4H sponsors, and home demonstration club women were present. Miss Jacks discussed 4H work giving the effect of 4H club work on girls, and the relation of the home demonstration agents and sponsors to 4H club work. The meeting was held informally with everyone contributing their problems and results of work, and served as a new inspiration and help for the members present.

Special guests present were Miss Bess Edwards, Assistant State Home Demonstration Agent, Miss Ruth Thompson, District Agent of District No. 6, Miss Maurine Hearn, District Agent for this district, Miss Myra Tankersley, County Home Demonstration Agent of Runnels County, Miss Massie Malone, Brown County Home Demonstration Agent, Mrs. Mary Sue Gessell, Palo Pinto County Home Demonstration Agent, and Miss Grace Cody, Erath County Home Demonstration Agent. A number of sponsors and club members of the counties were present. Miss Chrystene Trowbridge, Coleman County Home Demonstration Agent, presided at the meeting.

"I have certainly learned the value of entertaining in my yard rather than in the house," said Miss Myrtle Younglove, cooper in the Rae-Echo Home Demonstration Club. Miss Younglove and her sister, Mrs. Minnie Porter, have completed one of their goals for the year which was to have an entertainment in the yard.

"Entertaining in this way allows both the hostess and the guests more freedom. Too, it is possible to invite many more guests and have adequate room for them. We would have been very crowded had we tried to entertain our seventy guests in the house, but we could take care of them nicely on the lawn."

Miss Younglove and Mrs. Porter have arranged an inviting outdoor living room in their back yard. An old kitchen table was cleaned up and painted a bright color. Seats were made from broken and discarded school desks which had been repaired with pieces of old lumber. These seats were painted in a bright color to match the table. This attractive outdoor living room for which the only cost was paint makes an excellent place to entertain friends and for the enjoyment of the entire family.

"After moving into the house on the farm we found that many improvements had to be made to have a comfortable and attractive home," said Mrs. J. E. Adkins, cooper in the Rae-Echo Home Demonstration Club. "We began by removing the old wall paper. We painted the woodwork a light cream color so that the house would appear lighter. The floors were the most difficult job as the cracks had to be filled with putty and required three coats of paint in a dark buff color. New curtains and rugs helped to dress the rooms up and make the place more homelike. The chairs and living room suite were re-upholstered in colors to blend into the rooms. We soon began to feel our efforts were most worth while as the whole house became a liveable home."

The yard surrounding our home offered a very difficult problem as it was washed out and the plants or grass would not grow. We filled it in with forty-eight loads of new soil and ten loads of fertilizer and leveled and sodded this. Now, the grass is growing nicely and I expect to have a smooth grass lawn by next year."

Mrs. Clyde Larence was elected vice-president for District 7 which includes 15 counties at the meeting of the State Home Demonstration Association at San Antonio from Sept. 27-29. The meeting was held at the Gunter Hotel. Delegates from Coleman County: Mrs. Clyde Larence, Chairman of the County Home Demonstration Council, Mrs. Raymond McElrath, Mrs. Harry Dibrell, Mrs. Sanford Tune, and Mrs. Josephine Nalley. Miss Myrtle Younglove took the delegates.

At this meeting Mrs. Raymond McElrath was elected as State Parliamentarian for the organization.

The State Home Demonstration Association is an organization representing the club women of the state. The officers consist of the president, secretary, treasurer, and vice-presidents, one from each district and Parliamentarian.

Hallowe'en

EDITORIAL

Hallowe'en is a time for gaiety and pranks, a night to play at being witches, ghosts and fairies. The evening is so called because it is the eve of the Christian festival of the saints. The name means Holy Eve, a time set apart to honor the memory of all saints.

The building of bonfires, cracking of nuts, apples floating in tubs of water and telling of ghost stories are all relics of paganism. About thirteen centuries ago, pagans celebrated All Spirits Day when both good and evil spirits were believed to be on earth. Many strange ceremonies were performed. Even after Christianity was adopted, the Hallowe'en diversion of today

Support the Annual

EDITORIAL

Quite a number of years Santa Anna High School has had no annual. This was not necessarily due to lack of interest, but lack of funds.

This year at a relatively small cost, we have an opportunity to have an annual. The senior class will be primarily in charge of this and will devote their best efforts to the producing of such an annual as we have never had before.

The actual cost per annual is one dollar and fifty cents. Of course the merchants will advertise in it and that will enable us to produce a better annual for the cost.

It will be edited along the same lines as a college annual, but on a smaller scale. It will contain pictures of all the students, teachers and clubs. Also it will have jokes and other items of that type.

We can't have an annual without your support. Each and every one of you will be needed to put this thing over. Are you loyal? Do you support your school? Prove it by supporting the annual!

Tennis Club Is Organized

The senior girls division of tennis have drawn for the ladder and the list is as follows: Elisabeth Morris, Ima Niell, Lenora Oakes, Dorothy Ross, Bettie Ruth Blue, Elsie Haynes, Ara Belle Ragsdale, Wilma Mills, Gene Adams, Jessie Porter, Louise Oakes, Lorraine Parsons and Helen Oakes.

A sufficient amount of money has been made to buy the club twelve balls and a net. The courts are cleaned and lined off and everything is set for a big year for the tennis clubs.

Spanish Club Gives Program

Last Friday the Spanish Club gave a program during the chapel period. The school was honored by the presence of several visitors. Joyce Hensley, club president, was in charge of the program.

The program opened with the club song "Cuando Renimos." Walter Verner and Ruth Laverne Erick, king and queen, were presented.

Misses Spencer, Whitley and Watkins, the three mascots, gave a Spanish dance.

New members of the club introduced themselves to the audience. Songs, dances, poems and other entertainment was enjoyed. The club's dashing and gallant senior, Guillermo (Bill) Williamson played opposite Isabella (Bettie Ruth) Blue in a thrilling love scene.

Spanish II class sang several songs followed by a one act play starring Talmadge Turner, Joyce Hensley, Bartlett Lamb and O. L. Cheaney.

Ruth Laverne Erick and Gene Adams gave the "national Dance of Mexico and Spanish songs concluded the program.

The man who carries a rabbit foot for luck often finds it's a poor substitute for horse sense.
