Board Of State Water Engineers Pays High Plains Water District

The Lamb County FFA 4-H Club Fat Stock Show, which holds sway in Littlefield next Monday, with its more than 100 exhibits, and almost an equal number of 4-H and FFA boys as trained exhibitors, staged at the Fair Grounds, where comfortable pens and ample space is provided—is a far cry and a sharp contrast with the first of these shows held in Littlefield twelve years ago—on Saturday, March 10th, 1939—twelve years ago.

From that small beginning has grown the present annual Fat Stock show, just as in those twelve years, numerous other West Texas Fat Stock shows have grown up in every county seat town, and many of the other cities and towns, which are not County Seats.

First Fat Stock Show

The first Lamb County Fat Stock Show, actually, came into being under another non de plums, a different name. It was called the "Lamb County and FFA Calf, Pig and Sheep Show," staged in conjunction with the Cotton Products Exhibit under the sponsorship of the Lamb County Home Demonstration Clubs.

That first show, important as it was then, and important today, in the sense that it pioneered a yearly show in each succeeding year, to make it possible to refer to next Monday's show as the "12th Annual Fat Stock Show," had no home, and had difficulty in finding a home, or exhibition site—a place to hold this first stock show.

Show Held Downtown

Finally it was decided that the proper place to stage it was right downtown on Main street, and the vacant business lot almost directly opposite the Leader office, next to then W. J. Aldridge grocery store, was chosen—it was explained that it would attract a larger number of visitors if held right downtown. There were no pens, and Lowell Short, then manager of Higginbotham - Bartlett Company, offered to supply the needed lumber, without charge—and the offer was eagerly accepted.

If we recall correctly, and we feel sure that we do, the man most responsible for the staging of that first show, and a man to whom the Littlefield Shows of the eleven following years, including next Monday's, which is certain to be the best of them all, because this show was the pioneer, the daddy of them all, that man is W. H. Frazier, then Vocational Ag teacher in the Littlefield school, and leader of the ten newly organized Littlefield FFA club. Admittedly, and certainly, there were numerous others, who had a part, and a big part, but there is no question that to Mr. Frazier goes the bulk of the credit for making it a success—good enough to be carried on year after year. For a month before the show, he worked day and night to make the arrangements, and had most of the members of his FFA club working with him.

Merchants Donate Prizes

Merchants about town donated the prizes for the first show, practically all of them in the form of merchandise or orders for merchandise. Today, and for many years past, Littlefield Chamber of Commerce has sponsored the entire show, and has taken over the responsibility of providing all of the prizes—and will do so again this year, at next Monday's show.

Some of the 4-H and FFA boys who exhibited at that first show were Billy Ray Pool, J. R. and Elton Nixon of Spade, Leon Brown, Spade, Jack Parkard, Springlake, Earl Scott, John Face, Chester Toney, Gerald Wedell Williams, Kendrick Williams, and numerous others. At that time there were four FFA clubs in the county, and the total 4-H enrollment was 289.

One could write on and on, about that show, but suffice to say it was enough of a success, to come back again next year, bigger and better—even though the dust did blow something terrific that day of that first show, and a lot of folks came, but few stayed very long, because the dust swirled over that vacant lot—and made even the eyes of the show animals weep.

Frazier Responsible For Show

W. H. Frazier, mentioned above as the man most responsible for that first show, had decided before the day was half over to make

Plan New Outpost Well Near Hobgood No. 2

Humble Oil and Refining company has scheduled a one-half mile east outpost to the three-well Anton West-Clear Fork pool in north-central Hockley county.

The High Plains Water Conservation and Users Association immediately started preparing to petition for a High Plains Water Conservation district, following receipt of word from Austin Thursday of the designation of the High Plains area as a specific water reservoir by the State Board of Water Engineers.

Arthur P. Duggan, Littlefield Attorney, who has been working with President Fortenbury of the local Water District, expects to return from Austin at once, and will start drafting the petitions, asking that a High Water District be formed, in conformity with the designation of the specific water reservoir.

Favorable Action Assured
When petitions are signed they will be sent to the Board in Austin, and a public hearing held, with favorable action almost a foregone conclusion, now that the named "Underground Water Reservoir designation."

Elections will then be ordered and if the vote is favorable the new district will become a permanent reality, and a permanent board of directors will be named at the same election.

21 Counties Involved
The reservoir, officially designated "Underground Water Reservoir, Subdivision One, High Plains Area, Ogallala, South of Canadian River, Texas," includes: All of Hale, Lubbock, Parmer and Swisher counties and parts of Armstrong, Bailey, Bristoe, Castro, Crosby, Deaf Smith, Dickens, Floyd, Garza, Hockley, Lamb, Lynn, Oldham, Potter, Randall, Terry and Cochran counties.

A legal map showing exact boundaries has been filed in the county seat of each county.

Purpose of the new proposed district is to space and regulate irrigation wells, police pollution, and conduct water re-charging experiments.

LITTLE GIRL SUCCUMBS TO LEUKEMIA GETS LAST WISH: DRESS AND PINK CASKET

8-year-old girl, School taught by Mrs. Corneliuss Williamson, and a number of her little classmates will act as flower girls. Four pall bearers have been selected to carry the tiny casket. Phyllis Kay was a member of Brownie Girl Scout Troop No. 14, and also loved and attended Sunday School before she was taken sick last August.

Shortly after being taken ill, with the dread blood disease, she was taken to Dallas, where specialist diagnosed her case leukemia. But there was little that could be done for her, and the disease steadily progressed.

During the months of her illness, as word of her sickness was spread through the press, by radio, and through personal letters, cheering letters and cards, more than 500 of them came to her from all over the United States and brought much joy to the little invalid.

In addition to the sorrowing parents who survive, others surviving include both the maternal and paternal grandparents. A brother died in infancy.

Hammons Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements, and following the funeral services here, the remains were taken to Quanah, where they were placed at final rest.

You and Your Congress

House Members eagerly began a ten-day Easter recess, for they hoped to get a little vacation and to re-establish contact with their constituents.

The holiday came at a strategic time. For when the members return, they will plunge immediately into debate over whether the 19-year-old draft act should be lowered, and whether they are going to establish a Universal Military Training program. There were some on Capitol Hill who believed the vacation opportunity to discuss these fundamental changes with the folks back home might work against the legislation.

The Senate, having decided to start voting on April 2, took little time out from its debate on the great question of whether Congress should approve the sending of more than four new divisions of troops to Europe.

The principle of drafting 18-year-olds for military training and service did not encounter much trouble in the Senate, even though quite a few restrictions were placed on the original Truman proposals.

It may be different in the House what the debate begins on April 2. In the first place, U.M.T. for years has been less popular there than at the other end of the Capitol. Secondly, the flood of mail against both that and the lowered age limit for induction has more direct effect on the House members than it does on the Senate. Senators face that problem once every two years. House members face it every year.

Congressional mail on U.M.T. has been reflecting more and more a concern over the cost of the program, and of the entire defense effort, for that matter. Proponents of the draft act answer that the military training program for all youth will not actually be started until after the current emergency ends.

The House bill would lower the training and service age to 17. Whether that figure will stand up during the strenuous debate is open to question. All sides concede, however, that the bill, while quite likely to pass, is in for heavy going.

This question of the cost of the nation's defense effort is beginning to trouble many members—but not enough of them.

Two recent bills discouraged advocates of economy. Senator Dirksen (R-Ill.) sought to defeat a bill to provide $240 million annually to states for local health unit work. One-third of that amount would be appropriated by Congress and $160 million would have to be provided by the states. Economy advocates numbered 35 when the roll was called. But 28 Senators said the program was needed, so it passed.

The 25 absent Senators could have made a difference.

In the House, the first appropriation bill to the session went through with 161 members absent on the final vote. On earlier—and more important—votes, as many as 200 of the 435 members did not vote. When it came from the House Appropriations Committee the bill, providing funds for the Treasury and Post Office Departments, carried a total of $2,858,125,000. The committee reduced it only about 1 per cent below the amount President Truman requested. The House itself increased the reduction only fractionally.

That is not much progress on the 10 per cent cut many people hope to make in Mr. Truman's projected $71 billion spending program.

The significant point was, however, that even with the cut, the total was about $125,000,000 higher than last year.

Relief therefore is not yet in sight for the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee of the House. The committee men have been hoping against hope that appropriations might be reduced so that the better new revenue would therefore be reduced, slightly at least.

About $1.5 billion in new taxes would be required if Congress is to balance the huge spending budget of the President. The Treasury weeks ago asked for $10 billion quickly and proposed that the other $6.5 billion come along later. The details of that second "bite" will be disclosed by the Treasury on April 2.

As the Committee wound up public hearings on the first $10 billion, one of the members—Rep. Kean (R-N.J.)—said that federal revenue is running substantially more than the Administration has anticipated and that a $10 billion tax increase should put the government on a pay-as-you-go basis.

food so they don't require isolation from other people.

Bacillary dysentery, caused by plant-life germ, is not as serious or as prolonged as amebic dysentery, caused by animal-life germ, but it is more easily spread. Towels, eating utensils, and food handled by a person with bacillary dysentery or the germ which causes it may spread it to others. Within a day it makes itself known by cramping of the intestines, fever, and watery bowel movements.

Bacillary dysentery can usually be controlled by proper treatment within one to four days without occasional attack of arthritis.

Amebic dysentery, on the other hand, doesn't usually make you suddenly sick; it starts off with minor cramps in the abdomen, alternate periods of loose bowels and constipation, and slight fever if any; but there is usually some weight loss and a general feeling of illness along with flecks of blood and mucus in the stools.

It may affect other organs of the body, especially the liver, and may become quite serious.

It is spread only by direct contact with the germ passed from another's body so that proper sewage disposal could prevent its spread.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

Health Talks

Prepared by the State Medical Association of Texas

Infectious diseases usually settle in one particular part of the body first and then sow their seeds or poisons of discontent that spread to other parts of the body. Treatment in many diseases consists of routing out the germ where it first set up housebreaking and then helping the rest of the body get rid of the remains.

Anthrax usually shows up on a hand, face, arm or neck when the germ is spread from livestock to a human being. At first it's just a round red spot, then it rises up into a blister with other blisters surrounding it. When the outer breaks, the rim of the sore gets red and the middle of the sore fills up with an ooze then dries into a black scab, and the whole thing starts swelling.

The infection tries to spread from that sore into the body by way of the lymph glands; these may swell up while they are forming a dam against the spread of the disease, but if they are successful in holding that dam, the sore of anthrax will start disappearing with the swelling going down, the scab dropping off, and leaving a scar behind which soon disappears. Special kinds of medicine applied to the outside of the sore will help those glands inside keep the infection from spreading. This same sore may start in the lungs or in the intestinal tract and it is then more serious.

There is no such distinguishing sore when the disease is botulism, the kind of food poisoning you can get from improperly canned food. With this disease, it is the food which is poisonous even before you eat it. The germ which causes the food to be poisonous is seemingly quite safe as long as it gets plenty of air; you eat it on fresh foods without ill effects. But when that germ is left alive in a spot with out air, like in a can, it starts brewing up a poison. High pressure canning kills the germ; it has been over 25 years since a case of botulism was reported from the eating of a commercially canned product. Improper home canning without keeping the moist heat high enough for the time required to kill the germ is the main cause of botulism.

Botulism doesn't always show up in the looks of the food. Naturally, if the food looks spoiled or smells funny, you should not eat it but should throw it out without even tasting it. Otherwise if it has been properly canned, boil the food for at least ten minutes before serving it.

That poison that the germ makes in the food is known as a toxin. A different brand of germ goes about the business of creating the disease of diphtheria in pretty much the same way. In diphtheria, the germ latches on to some part of the body, usually the throat, builds a leathery patch over itself and starts making a poison out of the juices and tissues of your body. The germ itself doesn't move but the poison digs downward into the blood stream and flows through the body. This poison, or toxin, makes a bee-line for certain nerves or maybe the heart or other organs and interferes with their proper function.

When your doctor finds that leathery patch, he knows that means diphtheria. So he removes the patch to keep any more poison from being manufactured and gives you medical and bedrest treatment aimed at keeping the poison from doing harm before the body gets rid of all of it.

Since diphtheria is contagious, other people are kept away from anyone who has it. Anthrax is spread only by animals and botulism is spread only by poisoned

ly Feminine Look Animates and Handbag Collections

Manipulations of leather to give them a dainty, ladylike character.

Sling heels are more popular than ever, and platforms are soaring to new heights of fashion importance.

The sling-heel, platform pump is the darling of the season, with platformed anklet sandals sharing honors.

Black patent leather gleams in the spotlight of fashionable favorites for an early Easter. Patent is a practical choice in shoes with a matching bag, for it looks well with almost any style or color.

Navy blue shoes and bags, in both calf and patent, are giving black patent close competition as might be expected in this navy-important spring.

Navy is also the perfect accompaniment for fashion's wonderful new crop of pinks.

Red shoes dance merrily across the scene, for red is a smart companion for navy as well as a versatile color to complement a wide range of hues.

For high-fashion accents there are calf bags and shoes in bamboo, spic, and cinnamon shades; in melon, fuchsia, green, and violet; in ombre browns and blues; and in striking multi-colors.

Reptile leathers, such as Calcutta lizard, appear in many exciting high-colors—and bags to match are available.

With the approach of warmer weather, linen shoes will join the fashion parade in pastels, in prints, and with new surface interest such as embroidery.

Handbags to accompany spring footwear fashion, feature neat, tailored silhouettes with softness in detailing and unusual frames.

New-looking combinations of textures and colors are shown: patent with other leathers, patent and fabric combinations, and two-tone effects in straws.

Boxy types are still the favorite shape, but they're sleeker and less "gadget-y" this year.

Tophandles are important in frame bags, satchel variations and vagabond types. Clutch bags and envelopes are beautifully simple, and basic and look right with suits and tailored costumes.

Daytime handbag styles are available in leathers and colors to ensemble with all the leading shoe fashions.

Brothers In Business

Business practices of 1951 are a bit different from those of seventy years ago, but according to William H. Carter (left), a good businessman has to stay young in his thinking, even if he's an octogenarian!

The 86-year-old president of one of the country's most progressive industries, Carter's Underwear, has been active in the knit underwear business for seventy consecutive years. His brother, Horace A. Carter (right) who is executive vice president, has been associated with the company for sixty-six years.

"Mr. W. H." has been affectionately dubbed the "General," and the medal proving how he ranks with his co-workers is a lapel pin with five diamond studded stars. Both brothers feel that eighty years-plus of living and working is the best test of a man's worth. The knitting business founded by their father will be just as old this year as its live-wire president.

Church Ceremony Sunday Unites Patricia Pierce to Gerald Elkins

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Pierce, 225 N. Westside Avenue, are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss Kathryn Shackelford, Cotton Miss Patricia to Gerald Elkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Elkins, of Olton, which took place at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the First Presbyterian church.

Rev. Straus Atkinson, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Kermit, and uncle of the bride, performed the double ring ceremony. The church was decorated with greenery, tall baskets of Easter lilies, and white tapers in double candleholders.

Beverly Yohner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Yohner, and Nancy Atkinson, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Straus Atkinson both cousins of the bride, lighted the candles before the wedding ceremony. Miss Yohner wore a yellow dotted swiss, while Miss Atkinson, chose pink dotted swiss, and both were fashioned alike and similar to that of the dress of the brides.

Given By Father

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an informal wedding gown of white organdy over white taffeta, fashioned with a full gathered skirt to a fitted bodice, with a Peter Pan collar and matching cuffs on the sleeves. Tiny self covered buttons were placed down the front of the waist of the dress. Her only jewelry was an old fashioned locket belonging to her aunt, Mrs. Darwin Pierce, which she wore when she was married, and has been in the family for a number of years. The bride also wore the traditional blue garter, and a penny in her shoe for good luck. She carried a white Bible belonging to Miss Bobby Yearly, the maid of honor, which was topped with a single orchid, with white satin streamers. She wore a shoulder length veil of illusion, scalloped and edged with Chantilly lace, held in place by a halo of seed pearls and rhinestones.

Maid of Honor

Miss Bobby Yearly served as maid of honor. She wore a blue organdy dress over blue taffeta, in ballerina length, and carried a nosegay of pinoch roses, with white satin streamers.

Bridesmaids

Bridesmaids were Miss Vonntia Elkins, sister of bride, who wore green dotted swiss, and Miss Ann Schoonvelt of Hale Center, who wore orchid dotted swiss, and Miss Kathryn Shackelford, Cotton Center, who wore orchid dotted swiss. The dresses were all designed similar to that of the brides, and they carried nosegays identical to the maid of honors.

Pamela Pierce—Flower Girl

Little Miss Pamela Pierce four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Pierce, served the wedding party as flower girl. She wore a yellow organdy dress, and carried a basket of rose pedals.

The ring bearer was the bride's cousin, little four year old Roy Dale Pierce, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Price, who wore a navy wool suit with white shirt and shoes. He carried a miniature white satin pillow, bearing the two rings.

Cousin Best Man

Johnnie Sinclair of Cotton Center, cousin of the groom, served as best man. Ushers were Kenneth Bourland, Cotton Center, Leroy Abbey, Olton and Billy V. Mealer, Sundown.

Reception Held

Immediately after the wedding a reception was given at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Yohner, 623 East 9th Street. Mr. and Mrs. Yohner greeted guests and were joined by the bride and groom, and their parents.

Baskets of Easter lilies formed a decorative background for the refreshment table, which was laid with a handsome hand crocheted cloth, over green. Single layers of wedding cake on a three tiered cake stand, centered the table. The cake was decorated with white icing and tiny wedding bells. The top tier was decorated with a miniature bride and groom. The open white Bible topped with the bride's bouquet was the only floral decoration on the table, and it was placed directly in front of the cake. After the bride and groom had cut the first slice, Miss Bobby Yearly served the cake. Punch was served by Miss Kathryn Shackelford, while Miss Ann Schoonvelt assisted in serving the cake.

Guests registered from a bride's book, which was placed on the refreshment table.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Pierce wore a navy printed silk dress, with navy accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations. Mrs. Elkins, mother of the groom, wore a navy blue fallie dress with navy accessories, and her corsage was white carnations.

On Wedding Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Elkins left following the reception for a wedding trip to New Mexico. They will return this weekend and will be at home in Olton.

Graduate Class '50

The bride is a graduate of Littlefield high school with the class of '50. She entered Draughn's Business College at Lubbock in September, where she has been a student until the first of this month. While in high school she was active in school affairs, and was a member of the Sub-Ded club, the Pep Squad, and the F. H. A.

SALT FOR WITNESSES

ER ROSEIRES, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan—(P)—You don't take the testimony of witnesses here with a grain of salt. The witnesses take the salt. This strange quirk developed at a court inquiry called in this Blue Nile province. The Falubud tribesmen, who live near here, refused to take the regular oath, saying they had their own form. The witnesses ceremoniously placed some grains of salt on their tongues—followed by a red pepper, a piece of charcoal and a grain of wheat—carefully chewed, then spit the lot out the nearest window. They offered no explanation, but said it was now impossible for them to tell a lie.

CANADA GETS SKILLED MEN

TORONTO—(P)—A heavy movement of technicoltr and skilled workers from England to Ontario is under way by sea and air and is expected to be in high gear by mid-April. Immigration officials dealing with immigration said eight ocean liners have been mustered dto bring the immigrants across the Atlantic Ocean in groups of 400 and 500. One United States ship has been diverted to call at Halifax to handle the traffic. Trans-Canada Air Lines is landing about 150 persons a week and has a waiting list of about 1,400.

By Frances Ainsworth

There's been so much talk, so many newspaper articles lately about tularemia—that I asked our family doctor to give me some information. Because we're all trying to protect our families from these dreaded diseases, I thought you'd be interested in what he told me.

Tularemia is an infectious disease which is transmitted to man through the bite of a fly and other insects. It may also be contracted by dressing the carcass of a rabbit or squirrel—or by eating meat of infected animals before it has been properly treated and cooked. The symptoms are similar to those of undulant fever or the plague, consisting of prolonged fever, and often swelling and suppuration of the lymph nodes near the site of the infection.

If a human does get tularemia, he's apt to be mighty sick—but today, antibiotic drugs have taken away much of the fear of this disease. Up until 1946 the rule was "31 days of fever, 31 days in bed and a total duration of disability for about 3.5 months." But, with the discovery that streptomycin helped to cure the disease, this was cut down. In 1949, doctors began using the wonderful aureomycin from the Lederle Laboratories, and this was discovered really effective as a cure. It's being used today to cure patients in a few days.

We are certainly fortunate to have such an effective antibiotic drug available... for it takes away most of the worry regarding such dangerous diseases as tularemia—and gives us the confidence that we can protect our families and keep them safe and well!

Report Shortage of Cotton Planting Seed For 1951 Crop

Commissioner of agriculture John C. White expressed alarm over cotton planting seed in Texas and urged farmers to exercise extreme precaution when making purchases.

"It has been known for some time that a shortage of cotton seed existed for the 1951 goal of 11,000,000 acres", Commissioner White stated. "Quality seed were booked early and supplies completely exhausted. Texas seed stocks were supplemented by what amounts could be purchased from other states and much of this seed has come in labeled below standard for germination or approximately 60 per cent."

"Additional seed stocks needed for this year's acreage in Texas will come from seed at gins, oil mills and from farmers themselves", White explained. "It is this seed about which I am alarmed and concerned since we have found in our two state seed testing laboratories that samples submitted from these sources run as low as 3 per cent germination."

The Commissioner reminded seed purchasers that every sack of seed offered or exposed for sale in Texas is required by law to have a tag attached showing germination percentage. "In the case of bulk seed", the Commissioner added, "the seller is required to furnish on tag for each one hundred pounds of seed sold."

"Urging all purchasers of cotton seed to exercise every precaution and care. The facilities of our seed laboratories are available to all Texas farmers. A little discretion at this time in demanding to know the germination percentage of the seed will eliminate disappointments in stands as well as time, money and possible loss of crops", Commissioner White said.

Magic Truffles, Made With Sweetened Condensed Milk, Easy Candy To Make

Helping Mother make a batch of candy is one of the happy events of childhood long remembered in later years. With Mother superintending the project, the small fry delight in mixing and measuring—taking time out now and then for licking chocolate covered spoons and bowls.

For a candy-making afternoon, here is a failure-proof recipe for delicious creamy candy called Magic Truffles calling for sweetened condensed milk, a rich combination of whole milk and sugar that comes in a 15-ounce can. It blends magically with the melted chocolate to make the smoothest candy imaginable.

The only time the stove comes into use (an important consideration where children are involved) is in the melting of the chocolate bits. Mother can take care of this step.

Magic Truffles
1 pkg. (6 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate
1/4 cup plus 1 tbs. sweetened condensed milk
Pinch of salt
1/4 teaspoon vanilla

Melt chocolate, without stirring, in top of double boiler over rapidly boiling water. Remove from heat. Add sweetened condensed milk, salt and vanilla; stir only until blended. Turn into container lined with waxed paper and press into block 1 inch high. Chill in refrigerator until firm (about 2 hours). Turn out of container, remove waxed paper and cut into serving pieces. Store in airtight container. Makes more than 1/2 pound.

NUT VARIATION: Reduce flavoring to 1/4 teaspoon and add 1 tablespoon ground nut meats after flavoring.

So this is HOUSEKEEPING

There are times when even the most devoted of brides feel a wild desire to wallop their beloved with the nearest available object. For fifteen minutes I had been patiently watching Jeff wander silently from room to room picking up articles and putting them down, rattling doorknobs, poking in cabinets. Finally, in as polite a tone as I could muster I inquired:

"Looking for something?"

"Just curious," he volunteered at last. "I wondered how many items we have around here made of copper. You know, with the silent butler, plant holders, trays, fireplace stuff, doorknobs, and I don't know what all, we have enough copper to start a small war!"

"No, thank you," I put in firmly. "But that's exactly where copper is going," Jeff replied, "because without it our fighting men would simply have to give up! That red metal is vital to practically all modern weapons. Furthermore," he said, warming up to the subject, "we take so much copper in this country for peacetime uses that about one third of our requirements have to be imported."

It finally developed that Jeff had read an article describing a new government copper order effective March 1st which will prohibit the manufacture of more than three hundred items using copper and its alloys. What piqued Jeff's curiosity was that the article declared the order would affect every American. He pointed out the truth of this statement by listing a few of the prohibited items such as jewelry, dress ornaments, and decorative accessories used in homes. Even more important, the ban will reach many fields including building which depends heavily on copper for hardware, for roofing materials such as flashing, gutters and downspouts, and for pipe and tube in plumbing systems.

We discussed the situation at length and I forgot about earlier urges toward mayhem. Only why did he act male-like and explain the picture after he poked into everything? I had thought he was bad after all!
