WE SHOULD TAKE A BIG, PERSONAL INTEREST IN OUR BANK . . .

A bank should not be looked upon as "just another business in our city" . . . a bank is something more than just a place to cash a check, deposit money, or a medium through which a loan can be obtained. Take a bank out of a city and you have a city stifled and stunted. We should take a big, personal interest in our bank.

The general financial condition of a city and surrounding territory can most generally be determined by reviewing the statement of the local bank. As a city and surrounding territory strengthen financially you generally find that the local bank also is making progress.

Too many people never give their local bank a thought; it's the bank and that's about all they ever think about the matter. But when some situation develops, the bank becomes very real and very personal . . . it is a haven of refuge. A bank smooths the way for individuals, for business concerns, and takes a leading part in all civic matters, particularly those that require some temporary or permanent backing.

A bank financially cannot be successful without possessing a large total sum in deposits. A small total amount on deposit in a bank handicaps the operations of that institution, and when a bank does not have

WORK ON CITY WATER JOB IS TO END TODAY

Final Touches Being Added To Motors As $48,000 Project Closes

With the larger of the two motors in the new power house in perfect working condition, and the smaller expected to be in working shape late today Supt. W. S. Charles expects to turn Littlefield's PWA financed $48,000 water improvement project into the hands of city officials sometime Friday.

The 110-horsepower Cooper-Bessemer diesel-type natural gas-burning motor answered perfectly to a test Tuesday while the smaller mo-

Lights And Water Now On City Current

Power to supply current to light Littlefield streets was switched from Texas Utilities motors to the city's new 100-horsepower natural gas-burning diesel-type unit at 3 p. m. Wednesday. The move was pronounced a success.

Now, both street light current, and the juice which pumps city water to consumers is generated by city motor units.

Said Mayor L. R. Crockett late Wednesday:

"Littlefield's $48,000 water improvement system is finished. Everything was handled satisfactorily and we are more than pleased with the result. We hope to effect a savings soon by arranging an irrigation rate to city users so that they may water lawns and cultivate gardens at much lower rates."

Installation of a special meter to gauge exact amount of water used by Littlefield consumers under the new setup was to have been completed Thursday, Charles said.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles, and R. B. King, office man for the Forney concern, are scheduled to leave Friday for Sheffield, Ala., to begin work on a tri-city distribution system, the superintendent said Tuesday.

JOE HILL TO LECTURE HERE THIS SATURDAY

Proceeds To Help Pay Expenses Of Representative To Scout Jamboree

Under the auspices of the Boy Scouts of Littlefield Joe Hill, Jr., of Canyon, Texas, will deliver a lecture on the Byrd Polar Expedition, Saturday at 7:30 p. m. at the Ritz Theatre, Littlefield. On the trip down, he was orderly to the Admiral, and at Little America he was a member of the tractor division, and driver of the tractor that reached Admiral Byrd when he was sick at his advance outpost, after all other attempts at rescue had failed.

Joe carries about 100 lantern slides that he used to illustrate his lectures. He has with him Neeka, one of the trail dogs that did so much work with the party that penetrated Marie Byrd Land, and a few relics of the trip, including some of his clothing.

In connection with the lecture will be shown a good Western feature picture.

The proceeds of the show will go to help pay the expenses of the local Scout representative to the World Scout Jamboree to be held in August in Washington, D. C.

R. P. Jarrett, Dean of West Texas Teachers College says "Joe Hill's story is given in simple, yet interesting narrative style and is based upon those places of the Expedition which will give to the audience a bird's eye view of various sections of the journey, of a number of items of interest in connection with Little America itself, and of an interesting account of the various expeditions made from the main base. The presence of Neeka, one of the dogs used on the various expeditions gives coloring to the address, and the various exhibits he shows are of unusual interest."

SOUTH PLAINS PROGRESSING

All the indications that we see and hear of make it look to us as if the drought cycle has come to an end. This year, for the first time in five years, enough rain has fallen over the greater part of the drought-stricken areas, to bring the storedup ground-water supply up to a level where it can be reached by the roots of the farm crops.

We would not be so bold as to suggest that the cure for the depression may be found in this fact. But somehow it seems to us to be a hopeful sign for the future when Mother Nature comes once more to the aid of the farmer and makes it possible for earth to produce her bounty in its old profusion.

While the South Plains never was considered a drought-stricken area, we could have used more moisture last year. With abundant rains this year, conditions on the South Plains are undergoing a tremendous change. It appears to us that everybody is more optimistic, and that everybody is striving to accomplish the utmost at this time and planning for greater accomplishments in the future.

Such a condition is outstandingly healthy for the South Plains. We, of the South Plains, are pioneering and progressive; our greatest joy is in accomplishment. Given a little encouragement, we quickly forget the unpleasant events of the past and move forward joyful that new opportunities have been given us.

Those who knew the South Plains of 10 years ago marvel at what has been accomplished in the past decade. Those who know the South Plains of today will look back in 10 years and marvel at the accomplishments in the immediate past decade.

PROGRESS IN HOCKLEY COUNTY

The Avalanche Journal Monday said: "Editor W. J. Baldwin of the Hockley County Herald turned back the pages of his publication for a decade to delve into the history of the coming of the Santa Fe to that town, ten years ago next month.

"It was on Aug. 6, 1925, that the first train puffed into the depot at Levelland. There were between 10,000 and 12,000 people there to welcome its arrival.

"Levelland at that time was not much more than a 'wide place in the road,' with hopes of a railroad and development. Buildings were mostly temporary in nature; the country was new; settlers were coming in and the future looked bright.

"Ten years later Levelland is one of the hustling, bustling good county seat towns of the fastest developing area in Texas. It has a courthouse, second to none in Texas for a town and county of its size; street paving, sewer and water systems, a large number of substantial business buildings, nice homes and other things that go up to make a good county seat town.

"Mr. Baldwin used half a column in his last week's issue to mention some of the then residents of the town. Many are still there. Levelland is no longer a dream, it is a reality and one of the fine towns of this section. The county during the decade from 1920 to 1930 made one of the greatest percentages of gains of any county in the nation, in population."

C. O. Stone Takes Over Duties At Lamesa Tuesday

C. O. Stone, who has been a resident of Littlefield since 1923, and cashier of the First National Bank since 1928, left Tuesday to take over his new duties as Secretary-Treasurer of the Lamesa National Farm Loan Association.

Mrs. Stone and daughter Carra Lou will join Mr. Stone at Lamesa Saturday or the middle of next week. Mr. Stone will have his office in the Lamesa National Bank Building, which he said he had just arranged for previously to returning here, and was having completely equipped ready to start on his new work Tuesday on his arrival in Lamesa.

As the Lamesa National Farm Loan Association is a part of the Farm Credit Association, Mr. Stone's duties will take him afield into Dawson, Borden, Gaines, and Terry counties.

Mr. Stone expressed to the Leader representative his great regret at leaving Littlefield, stating that it was only the splendid opportunity that had been offered him which tempted him to sever business connections here. He said it has been a great pleasure to serve the people of Littlefield the many years he had lived here; that he and Mrs. Stone would greatly miss their Littlefield friends, and the people with whom he, daily, in his banking duties, came in contact with, and that he wished for Littlefield and the citizenship every success and good fortune.

Mr. Stone said when he came to Littlefield in 1923 there were only about 250 people here.

"Star Of Midnight" To Be Featured At Palace Saturday

Love and mystery form an intriguing combination in "Star of Midnight," RKO-Radio's romantic drama, starring William Powell and Ginger Rogers which will be featured at the Palace Theater Saturday night, Sunday and Monday.

Telling a strikingly different type of love story, in which the delectable Miss Rogers, fresh from triumphs in the musical "Roberta," is the pursuer, and Powell the ostensibly wary quarry, the picture deals with a baffling mystery in modern New York's pageant and glitter.

A beautiful woman disappears, a newspaper columnist is killed under strange circumstances, and three different factions undertake the solution of the case . . . each with a separate motive.

"Star of Midnight" is based on the serial of the same title by the late Arthur Somers Roche. It ran recently in the Red Book magazine. Howard J. Green, Anthony Veillar and Edward Kaufman are the scenarists.

(Too Late For Last Week)

Our Sunday school and church services were very well attended Sunday as usual. Bro. Dye of Olton filled the pulpit at the morning hour.

Coye Dunn and wife of Turkey spent the week end with home folks here.

Joe Nixon of Rocky Ford, with his two brothers of Spade went to Altus, Oklahoma Wednesday in response to a message stating their father was not expected to live, we have not learned whether they are back or not.

Mr. McCreary and family of Turkey spent the week end with Mr. Grant and family.

Claude Rogers went to Frederick, Oklahoma to visit his mother the last of the week.

L. L. Dunn and wife and Herbert Dunn and wife of Amherst were called to Abilene last week to the funeral of a relative, who was killed by a drunken car driver. Another mighty good reason why we should put liquor far from our borders next month.

Garland Vandell and wife and Jay Parks and wife entertained several young people Sunday afternoon. After serving ice cream and cake they went away declaring they had a huge afternoon.

Our farmers have their crops in good shape and are ready for a good rain which would be welcomed by all.

Mr. Rogers, father of Cleo and Cliff Rogers have moved to the house on the Farmer farm recently vacated by the Booth family. They came here from Plainview and we welcome them to our community.

Bro. Booth is in New Mexico near Portales, holding a revival meeting.

Interesting Letter Received From Mrs. T. J. Pritchard

The Leader is in receipt of the following letter, which will be of interest to many of the earlier settlers and friends of the writer:

Yuma, Ariz.,
July 15, 1935.

Morley B. Drake,
Dear Sir:

"As I have been in the hospital ever since receiving your last letter I am now sending the 75 cents, remainder of the $2.00 subscription and magazine offer. It's a bargain at that.

Just received my Leader and read it from start to finish and enjoyed all the reunion news, as I personally know all the people who gave you the early history of the city. My only regret is that I can not be present at the reunion. But send my best wishes to them all.

The picture on the front page is more familiar to me, and looking down in the right hand corner, I see the tree, to which I have tied my speckled pony a thousand times. Any of the old timers will remember me.

I was married by Jess Mitchell, owner of the Leader in 1923 and left there. Have lived in California and Arizona since. Am looking forward to a visit to my folks in the near future. G. A. Staggers is my daddy.

Best regards to Littlefield and the Leader.

Mrs. T. J. Pritchard."

Mayor Crockett Visits His Old Home Place; Meets Boyhood Friends

Mayor and Mrs. L. R. Crockett and daughters, Helen, Blanche and Thelma returned last week from a ten day trip into Oklahoma, Missouri and Arkansas.

Mr. Crockett reported the "most wonderful trip." He said they visited the ranch at West Plains, Mo., where he had been reared and lived while a boy. He had not been back for 32 years. He stayed at the same ranch, and visited the boys and girls he had gone to school with, recalled early days and renewed old acquaintances.

Mr. Crockett said his parents were born and reared in Missouri. Their ranch consisted of a large roomy home of 15 rooms, and the largest barn in that part of the state. Mr. Crockett recalled that his father had owned some of the best saddle horses in the country.

The ranch home, which Mr. Crockett left 32 years ago, is now owned by a millionaire, who had made and kept the ranch, as the Mayor described it as "the most beautiful place you ever saw."

On arriving at the ranch he said his daughters exclaimed "Oh, Daddy, why did you ever leave such a beautiful place?"

They also visited Ira Miller and his son at West Plains, and a cousin, Walter Crockett, and a brother-in-law, Chaney Delano, who operates a hotel at Shawnee, Okla.

Lady's Painful Trouble Helped By Cardui

Why do so many women take Cardui for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs. Herbert W. Hunt, of Halleville, Texas, describes. She writes: "My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramping. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just drag around, so sluggish and 'do-less.' My mother decided to give me Cardui. I began to mend. That tired, sluggish feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me. . . . If Cardui does not help YOU, consult a physician."

Flyers, All Stars Disband and Quit City League

SOFTBALL DADS TO MEND SLATE

"Too Hard To Keep A Full Crew," Say Bosses

Faced with the task of mending an unbalanced schedule precipitated by disbanding and withdrawal of the Flyers and All Stars from the City League, softball fathers looked forward this week to a special session.

Two likely alternatives are offered. The six teams will either play seven games to fill out a six-night playing week, or will play fewer nights per week than before.

Ross Maynew, Flyer pilot, Dude Altman, field captain of the All Stars, and Jim Davenport, Star manager, gave as reasons for disbanding the fact that most of their boys were tired getting into town for the games, and that it became too costly to get a full crew together every night.

FIREMEN 8, ABERNATHY 7 FRIDAY

By stretching seven hits into eight runs the local Ed Wynn men managed a one run margin over Abernathy under the lights here Friday.

Abernathy made three in the 7th to tie the score, but Roles, Smoky Wright fielder, with the aid of an error scored a stolen base, pushed across the winning run in the last half of the final inning.

King and Roles, with two hits apiece, led smoky offensive while the homer and a single by Nels, visiting pitcher, and a double by J. Vineyard backstop, featured Abernathy's willow workings. H. Vineyard, visiting center gardner, pounded out a brace of bingles.

SUNNYDALE, 12, FACULTY, 6

Thursday last week

Pounding in 4 runs in the first and 5 in the 4th, the Hanksmen led a contest which saw twirlers Geron and Monroe let 15 Sunnydale hits slip by them. J. Hanks allowed the coaches six hits, one of which (James) was good for a homer in the first with two men on.

Joe Fisher tripled in the first with 2 men on base, while Brother Jack did likewise in starting off the fatal fifth stanza which clinched the match for Hanks' lads.

FLYERS 13, ALL STARS 7 Friday

A sixth-period rally featured by doubles by Timian and Atman followed by a four-base clout by Keithley failed to measure up to a 5-run Flyer edge. Triples by M. Swanner and Kimmel in the first and Kasseroler in the sixth, and doubles by Moore, Kimmel, Graham, D. Swanner and Dyer boosted the Flyer cause.

Wilson's homer, scoring Edwards and Hulse in the first, coupled with the memorable Altman-Timian-Keithley offensive in the sixth laid groundwork for the Stars' three runs in the first and four in the seventh. Davenport allowed 14 Flyer hits while the losers slapped only 7 of Moore's offerings.

Earl Hobbs, originally named Wildcat mentor to replace Barksdale, new Wayland coach, will take the job of Grammar school coach by his own choice.

Sanders, graduate of Simmons and for the past two years principal of a school in South Texas, was a four-letter man in college athletics, and was acknowledged to be the best punter in the Texas conference during his grid career at the Abilene school.

Sanders will teach history and mathematics in addition to his coaching job.

SPORT WORLD

By BILL NORRIS

Let's quaff a stein To Jawn Q. Smythe Than whom there is None bolder;

He asked the Ump To change the lights To shine o'er his Left shoulder!

When minutes of the meeting which saw Bill Sanders named Wildcat coach for next year are approved tonight, the husky 180-pound ex-football star of Simmons will officially take over a job . . . and I mean, a JOB. "Brack" Barksdale, big pilot of the Cats through 1934-35, found it a job to turn out a presentable crew, and Barksdale was a good man.

Sanders, from info we have gotten from authoritative sources, is also a good man. Barksdale found it tough sledding to mould a first-class grid machine, and Sanders, despite his undoubted ability, will also find it no easy problem.

The answer. It's simple enough: lack of good material. While Wildcat football has been heretofore of a fairly smooth brand, it has been nothing to do nippus about . . . and NOT through any flaw in coaching, either. It's been merely a shortage of top-notch material from which to build a heavy and yet speedy first string.

Mentor Sanders will find on hand this fall about the same calibre material which Barksdale had at the opening of last season. There will be a minus sign hanging against the backfield, due mostly of course to presence of only one regular, Bob McKnight. Weight in the line, and a possible shift of linemen to the backfield, might help, should Sanders figure on a switch . . . but you can slice it a dozen ways, and the shortage will still pop up.

Sanders, by the way, was very salty in things football during a fast four years at the Abilene school.

Classed the best punter in Texas Conference grid circles, his powerful toe booted out the framework for an early conference training victory over Texas Christian and helped forge a tie with S. M. U. Sports scribes agreed, with no dissention, on his ability as a kicker.

Besides this, he was a four-letter man, and was All-Conference half-back two years. His career, a powerful saga of the uprights by any standard, shows promise of possible good things to come. Good hunting, Bill.

Bouquet of the week goes, without a shadow, to Earl Hobbs, likeable teacher who helped W. T. Hanes coach the Grammar school boys into high school shape during 1934-35. Hobbs, picked by trustees to pilot the Cats, withdrew voluntarily in favor of a more experienced man. Realizing the other man's superior training and experience, Hobbs gladly gave way and will do a world of good with the neophytes this fall. Another splendid example of sound reasoning and good judgment . . . have an apple, Earl.

Intelligence sifts into this department that the Flyers and All Stars, tired of trailing in the tightly contested race for the last half, have thrown in the sponge. Out of the tangle comes Davenport, Wilson, Edwards and Dude Altman to slay with another trailing outfit, the faculty . . . In their first game under the strengthened setup, the teachers whipped the Legionnaires, first half victors, 11-10. Watch these instructors during the rest of the half . . . It might be a show.

Slumbering Gold—

do was use an oar occasionally to clear a rock or shoal. The dog had come to a bend in the creek. The canyon was narrowing, and it was plain that they were reaching the limit of the boat's draught. They now looked around for a covered mooring place. With strange providence, it was Rusty again who found the place to cache the boat. He halted at the foot of a mountain ravine, down which a thick growth of brush fell into the creek. Between the outer fringe of vegetation and the bank, a concealed tunnel flowed under the brush. The space would have been large enough for two canoes, and it neatly harbored their boat when they had unmoored it. This discovery did not look like accident. The place appeared to have been used before. It was possible that they were picknick up a hidden trail, which others had searched for and puzzled over through a whole winter. Their interest in what they were about to do was taking on a tense precision. "I've said the magic was simple," observed Speed. "Now we're goin' to see whether it's true."

The dog scrambled up the cleft of the ravine under tangled brush. Their range of view was painfully restricted, and they knew how invisible Dalton's trail could be. At the head of the ravine they emerged on a blind, steep-walled gulch. Here Rusty stopped and looked at them expectantly as if it were now their move. "Doggone," Speed muttered, and frowned at the blasted pine which Rusty seemed to have regarded with a little more intention than the stone. The dead tree spread its limbs close to the cliff; one of the high branches almost touched the rock face. Uncoupling a rope from his belt, Speed made a careful throw at the pine limb—and tightening the rope on it he securely, hauled himself up the trunk. He climbed till he reached the limb that touched the wall, crawled out on it to the end, and dropped to a ledge. There he gave a shout of discovery. His partner swung up the rope he had left dangling, stepped out along the high limb, and joined him. Above the ledge there was a fault in the cliff, a fissure with broken steps that offered an ascent to the summit. It seemed to be one trail of entry into Dalton's secret range; there might be others. They hoisted the dog and the packs with the rope and then hauled Pete up. From the cliff summit Rusty kept climbing into a high, wild country near timber line, with a certainty that confirmed Speed's guess, and over a trail that grew more and more rugged. The snow was still free of footmarks. Rusty's climb ended at the head of a snow-trougued, rocky gulch. Where the gulch broke away, Rusty stepped to a ledge hardly wider than a sled track, and went around the cliff face. They came out on a widening step of the mountain. A rough log cabin was perched on this sloping rocky platform. From the brink of the mountain step, Maitland looked down into a yawning chasm. He shivered to think of the odds that might favor a desperate man at bay in this straggle.

Though the cabin seemed deserted, Speed motioned them to keep back, while he carefully approached the door. His knock echoed in the hollow chasm. The door yielded stiffly to his pressure. From the threshold he nodded to the others.

Not only was the interior unoccupied, but it evidently had not been in recent use. The walls were covered with trophies and tools; some of rather crude make; traps, dog harnesses, snowshoes and canoe paddles. Opening the stove, Speed found wood laid in it, ready for lighting. He touched it with a match.

"Ain't got back from up the river yet," he said. His voice had a deliberately casual tone, as if he were trying to make light of a dark sign. "Anyhow, let's eat."

Pete removed a gun stock and a half-mended snowshoe from the table, and had lifted the cover to shake it, when he paused to look more closely at the table top.

The table boards were made of split logs with the hewn side up, and leveled off with some care. But this smooth wooden surface was discolored, tattooed and smeared with a maze of marks and drawings that almost hid the grain. The drawings had been made with lead, ink, spilled coffee, whisky, lampsoot—almost anything, apparently.

The drawings were similar in subject but greatly varied in detail. They seemed to represent a gulch with a stream running through it, and with the ruins of an Indian settlement at one end, denoted by the scrawled words, "Siwashigloos," or "Siwash ruin." A figure like a pick was posed experimentally at different points in the gulches.

"These all seem to be pictures of the same gulch," Speed said. "The gulch where he found the gold . . . ?"

He studied the table until burning pans called him back to the stove. When he served the rashers and hot bread, they sat down to supper with fifty confused pictures of Dalton's gold prospect staring up at them from the table top.

"Must have been almighty puzzled some time about where that gulch was," said Speed.

"I think he found it once, and then couldn't track it," Pete said vaguely.

Maitland noticed the veiled question in Speed's look at her. "Did Bill tell you that?" he asked.

"No," Pete's answer seemed reluctant.

"Maybe the igloos are a symbol of something else," Maitland ventured.

"Then why are they drawn so clear," Speed said doubtfully. He gave the thought a more mystical turn. "You'd think some jinx was ridin' Dalton. His hidin' from every one because of the gold, and the gold hidin' from him."

Knowing the gambler's vein of superstition, Maitland was not altogether astonished to hear him ask her, "That strange figger you seen, Pete, didn't maybe give you a whisper about Dalton's reasons for keepin' his trail so dark?"

Pete was visibly disturbed by the question. She parted her lips as if to answer; then changed her mind and shook her head.

They did not speak for a while, but sat pondering in the gloom over empty plates. Rolling and lighting a cigarette, Speed said, "Anyway, it's a quiet place to wait in. If we wait long enough, somethin' or other is pretty liable to show."

The night passed uneventfully. During the next day, they found a distraction in exploring the single approach to the cabin, and examining the traps and tools that lay in open view. Speed spent some hours puzzling over the table drawings. They left the chest by the wall untouched.

WORK ON CAMP PUSHED; HOPED TO END AUG. 1

Nine Structures Will Be Finished Today; Other
Three Are Started

With setting up of only two buildings yet incomplete, workmen went steadily ahead this week with construction of Lamb County's CCC camp at the site near Simpson Sanitarium.

Ready-cut sections of ten of the 72 buildings called for under the plans had been bolted together yesterday and workers were tightening the final nut on the remaining two structures.

Lieut. D. S. Holten will be commanding officer of the camp when complete, expected to be sometime around August 1, he announced Tuesday. Workers are headed by H. P. Denton of Denton & Testers, Littlefield.

While no notice has been received by Lieut. Holten as to exactly when the 200 men and about 11 officers, instructors and technical advisors will occupy the camp and begin work, belief is that occupancy will take place before the middle of August.

We Think—

A large total sum on deposit that bank cannot make a liberal number of loans and carry on in a big way the various functions of a progressive financial institution.

We have often thought as we looked at young men from 17 to 27 that we would like to make them understand that the very foundation of success rests in saving a portion of the money which passes into their hands. Every boy and girl, every young man and every young woman should save a portion of the money which comes into their possession. We believe that a survey in Littlefield, or any other city, would reveal that not one boy or girl, or young man or young woman up to the age of 21, saves five cents a week out of the money they obtain either by working or from their parents. Those who do not save make various excuses; they say they need their money for this, or they need their money for that. Such statements are probably true, but it would be better to go without something that they think they need and save a little each week. We make the statement, and challenge contradiction, that any young man or young woman who saves consistently from the time they are 21 until they are 40, that they can be independently well fixed financially; in fact, very few of them would have to work at the age of 40. Cash on hand is the greatest weapon in hewing a pathway toward success that any boy or girl, man or woman, can possess. Cash on hand opens up opportunities. Be prepared at all times to grasp opportunity by having cash on hand.

We expect a few people who read this article to laugh and say: "It's easy for that editor to write that line of bunk; I bet he didn't save anything either when he was my age."

The latter part of such a statement is absolutely correct; he didn't save anything until he was up around the thirties.

But if he had saved, he would not have to work for a living today.

And if you think this editor is just spilling bunk, ask any man who is highly successful in a financial way, medium successful, or who is working hard today to earn a living, what he would advise you to do. We know that he will tell you not to let another sun set without starting to save money.

When we started out to write the "We Think" column we intended to tell you about the recent financial statement of the First National Bank, Littlefield and territory have every reason to be proud of the financial statement of the Littlefield bank. The bank has a capital structure in excess of $66,000.

Each statement reveals increased strength. A summer statement of a bank, the latest of the local bank, as of June 29, is not expected to show the strength of an early spring, fall, or winter statement. But direct your attention to some of the figures of the June 29 statement and you will immediately see that the local bank is in excellent condition, and that all items are in the correct proportion which should obtain in any healthy financial institution. For example, you will notice that cash resources total $301,206.73 and that loans total $128,615.57. Cash resources are made up of the following items: Government cotton, $551.78; stocks and warrants, $39,759.67; bills of exchange, $183.30; cash and exchange, $260,711.48. Deposits total $383,482.79.

Other items in the statement include: Banking house, $13,500; furniture and fixtures, $4,500; capital $50,000; surplus, $2,500; undivided profits, $13,598.73.

The First National Bank is to be congratulated on such an excellent summer financial statement, and Littlefield and Lamb county have every reason to be exceedingly proud of the First National Bank.

We extend our personal congratulations and best wishes to President J. C. Hilburn, officers and directors of the bank, and to the entire personnel.
