MEETING OF COMMERCIAL BODY HELD TONIGHT

Meeting of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce in the offices of the Yellow House Land Co., Saturday evening, agreed that a big mass meeting of all citizens and business men of Littlefield should be held this evening, (tonight) in the room of the Gold Star Hotel for the purpose of taking necessary steps toward the improvement of the roads leading into Littlefield.

Attention farmers have made a complaint regarding the condition of some of the roads, in places they were practically impassable at this time of the year. It is a well known fact that there are certain stretches of roads that will be impossible to travel with team or auto when the winter sets in. In the interest of the business it is very important that these roads be repaired.

There are also other matters of importance to the future well-being of Littlefield that will be discussed on this occasion and a representative attendance is urged. A program has been arranged. There will be several speeches, music and other entertaining features that cannot afford to miss, also a "show of hats" before the big dinner. Every loyal booster for Littlefield should be there promptly at 7 o'clock, as that is the time the program will begin.

Hamilton Wright Pays Respects To County Paper.

Hamilton Wright, staff correspondent of the Fort Worth Record, was in Littlefield last Friday gathering data for a series of articles on the South Plains to soon be run in his newspaper. He stated while here that there was no section of the country anywhere that was attracting the attention of the public generally as this. Only a few days ago he had a message from the Los Angeles Examiner asking him to send them a story of this country by telegram.

While in Littlefield Mr. Wright, who is an old acquaintance of the editor of this newspaper, called at the office and paid his respects to the Lamb County Leader. He declared that without any exception it was the best published paper in West Texas.

TO BUILD BRICKS

R. E. Cole, of Kalleen Makes Big Investment Here.

R. E. Cole, of Kalleen came into Littlefield this week and was so favorably impressed with the future prospects that he immediately made substantial investments in city property. He purchased the business lot just north of the Shaw-Earnest Co., and one just south of the brick now being erected by John Blair. He states that he will cover both lots with brick buildings.

NEW BUILDING

The new high school building will be ready for occupancy in about two weeks. The equipment is now arriving. Plans are being made for a formal dedication about December 1.

LAMESA GARAGE MAN KILLED WHEN STRUCK BY AUTO SATURDAY

"Skets" Emboden, of Lamesa was instantly killed last Saturday night about 7:30 o'clock, when struck by an automobile driven by J. C. Whaley and Temple Louis, the fatal accident occurring about three miles west of Roundup.

Emboden and Grady Scott, both employees of the Ford Motor Co., at Lamesa, had been to Littlefield after cars and were returning home that night. Emboden was driving a truck and Scott a coupe. About three miles west of Roundup the water gave out in the truck and Scott went on to Shallowater for a supply with which to replenish the car. In the meantime Emboden drove his truck over to the right side of the road, and taking the cushion from the cab, sat down on the ground between the truck and the ditch. It is not known whether he fell asleep or not.

Shortly after J. C. Whaley and Temple Lewis, enroute to Lubbock, came upon the car, and, according to report, when they first saw it, thought it was a car approaching them without lights and driving on the wrong side of the road. They naturally supposed the driver would swing to his own side of the road, but too late to discover their error, they found the rear end of the truck facing them and stationary. To avoid a collision, they swung to the right side of the road, passing into the ditch, their car striking the sleeping driver as they went by.

It is stated that they stopped their car as quickly as possible and went back to the scene of the accident, picking up the unfortunate man, putting him in the car, and driving with all due haste to Lubbock for medical attention. Emboden died before they reached Lubbock. Later examination revealed that his back was broken and there was an ugly cut in his skull. He never regained consciousness and probably never knew what killed him.

Scott, having secured the water for the dry truck, returned but failed to find his companion driver, and did not know of the accident until advised by parties from Littlefield, who were informed by travelers passing the truck and assisting the unfortunate man being taken to Lubbock. Emboden had been in Lamesa only a few days, where he is in the employ of the Ford Motor Co., of that place. Very little is known of him, but it is thought his parents reside somewhere in Wisconsin.

NEARLY EVERYONE READS THE LEADER

One thing certain, when you pick up a copy of the Leader—you know you are reading what nearly all the people of Littlefield and surrounding community read—your home town paper. And for news, it is right on the job every week. It is the desire of the publisher to make every issue better than the previous one. The more news we can get, the better paper we can give. Every happening in this community will be appreciated. Phone No. 27.

The accident is deplorable indeed, but it is stated by people who visited the scene of misfortune that Messrs. Whaley and Louis were in no way responsible. Their actions were in perfect keeping with the traffic laws, and it was simply one of those unfortunate occurrences that now and then happen wherein death reaps a toll regardless of circumstances.

SPADE RANCH ROUND UP WEEK MARKS PASSING OF LAST GREAT RANCH

This week W. L. Ellwood is shipping to market 6,200 head of three year old steers that were last week rounded up on the Spade ranch. This number represents the last big round up of the ranches on the South Plains and will require four trains of 41 cars each to move the cattle to market.

This big round up was held last Friday. In some respects it was a gala time, but in others it was a rather sad occasion, for it marks the pivotal point of a tract of land made famous in years gone by for its fine cattle raising, now soon to be turned to agricultural purposes.

There were nearly 200 present, including the owner, W. L. Ellwood. "Uncle" Dick Arnett, 75 year old cow puncher, who was the first foreman of the Spade ranch when I. L. Ellwood bought it 36 years ago. Otto Jones, manager of the Rendebrook ranch in Mitchell county was there, Stanley Watson, the man who is turning the ranch into farm lands at the rate of several thousands of acres per day, about 20 cow boys, a big bunch of old timers and numerous friends from Lubbock, Littlefield and other surrounding sections.

A photographer was present with a big panoramic camera and took a circular swipe at the bunch of folks, including the big herd of cattle. Dinner was served at the chuck wagon, cowboy style. There was plenty of barbecue beef, son-of-a-gun, sour dough biscuits and all the trimmings that go with a full feed on such occasion, everybody sitting around in a circle, cross legged style on the ground, and everyone had to wash up their own dishes after the feed was over.

Following the mess of eats the cowboys turned out in their flaming red shirts, chaps, spurs and nine gallon hats and gave a miniature rodeo, doing all kinds of stunts, including roping, hog-tieing, broncho busting, steer riding and milking the wild bovine for the amusement of the guests present.

It was a strenuous day for W. D. (Tom) Arnett, to see that everything went off in pompous style. Tom has been foreman of the Spade for a good many years, and a mighty good one he has made, too. A number of the guests were asking him what he was going to do when all the pasture was sold, and some of them imagined there was just a faint trace of moisture in Tom's lamps as he said, "I guess I'll have to buy me a milk cow and a pair of long ears and raise cotton."

This round up is a day long to be remembered, both with the old timer and the new comer. Scarcely a month ago the Spade ranch was sawed into 160 acre chunks by the surveyor and put on the market. Stanley Watson, the whirlwind realtor of Kansas City, who put over the Sod House pasture for the Halsell interests in record time, was turned loose on it. Already he has placed 27,000 acres of the land with bona fide farmers some of whom have already begun their homestead improvements. The Yellow House Land Co., has bought 36,000 acres of it and have begun its re-selling to cotton farmers coming here from East and Central Texas.

It is now nearly 36 years ago that this property comprising some 175,000 acres was purchased by I. L. Ellwood of D. H. and J. W. Snyder, then making their home in Georgetown, Texas. They paid between two and three dollars per acre for the entire body, and little did he realize that the time would come when his son would sell it for a dozen times what he paid for it, but with the western march of events and the increasing demand for homes and farm lands, such is the case.

For many years W. L. Ellwood has been considered one of the wealthiest and most powerful land barons and cattle men of the South Plains, but the time has come when this land is too valuable to be used merely as a pasture. This last round up of cattle is said to represent a sale value of approximately $476,000, they having been purchased by Jones & Price of Emporia, Kansas, to which state they will be shipped for market finishing. In fact, it is said that this one firm, during the past few years, has purchased of the Spade ranch more than 120,000 head of cattle, they always bringing a good price because of their superior qualities.

But those days are now about over. Other and much smaller shipments will be made from time to time, as the land is sold. Every time a new settler comes in a bunch of cattle will have to go out, and this will continue until within a few months the well known pasture will be no more. It is a case of the spade displacing the spur, the tractor the cow pony and the harvesting crew the cowboy round up. In another year, where once roamed the cattle there will be great fields of waving grain and snowy cotton glistening in the autumn sunshine.

County Home Demonstration Agent Brings U. S. Agriculture Department To the Doors of Every Farm Woman

The expense of the County Home Demonstration Agent comes from the general fund of the county. The expenses for the Home Demonstration Agent is a fraction over one and one-half cents on each hundred dollars valuation. For example, a person whose tax valuation is two thousand dollars, the expense to him for the County Home Demonstration Agent would be thirty cents per year.

The biggest feature of the County Home Demonstration Agents work is educational. It is an accepted principle that education is a task of government, national, state or local. No one criticizes the structure of the public school system or the fairness with which it is supported by taxation. All classes benefit from the educational work of the County Home Demonstration Agent. Statistics show that the counties which have constantly kept agents on the job have made the greatest progress. The service is here and this public servant is anxious to be of use. The largest possible benefit to the communities, the county, and the state will come from a friendly attitude toward the work and full cooperation on the part of the country people with this department.

The county agent brings the services of the United States Department of Agriculture to the very doors of practically every farmer and farm woman in the county. Its value, especially in a new country, is incalculable.

JESS. MITCHELL,

Editor and Publisher

Subscribers who change their addresses, or fail to get their paper, should immediately notify this office, giving both new and old addresses. Communications of local interest are solicited. They should be briefly written, on but one side of the paper, and must reach this office not later than Thursday noon of each week. The right of revision or rejection is reserved by the publisher. Advertising that does not show in its text or typography that it is paid for must be marked as an advertisement. All local advertisements remain in this paper for the time specified or until ordered out. All notices, matters not by whom nor for what purpose, if the object is to raise money by admission fee or otherwise, is an advertisement and when sent in for publication must be paid for at the regular advertising rate per line for each issue printed. Obituaries, cards of thanks, and resolutions of respect will also be charged for at the same rate. Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation which may appear in the columns of the Littlefield Leader will be gladly corrected upon its being brought to the attention of the publisher.

THE TRAFFIC ORDINANCE

The flagrant and frequent violation of the local traffic ordinance is inexorable and excusable. Littlefield now has a traffic ordinance backed up by the state highway laws, yet every day there are persistent violations, and not a week goes by but a serious accident is narrowly averted.

It is alright for officials to be lenient with the public for a while, but most of the public understands well the traffic laws; they understood them before they came here and they have had a month in which to get acquainted with them here and learn to abide by them. The time has arrived when enforcement is in order and the teeth of the law should be put into effect.

BIG MEN NEEDED

Every town needs men who are BIG—not necessarily physically, but in spirit. It needs men who are builders—too big as builders to let little factions and personal spites influence their actions in any public work.

Public life often calls for many sacrifices on the part of citizenship; for a service often rendered without recompense or glory, and here is where the big man has a real chance to assert himself, even tho his task may sometimes conflict with his own personal convenience or business welfare.

The man who, regardless of personal aggrandizement, renders honest, conscientious, impartial service to his community, even tho it conflicts with his private interests, is a big man. It is such a man as this that boots big for the welfare of the community in which he lives. May their tribe increase.

SCHOOL ATHLETICS

That the athletics of Littlefield's school deserve the whole hearted backing of the entire community there can be no doubt.

The teachers are doing all they can to make athletics in the school as representative as it should be. The pupils are working to win and are winning. The local squad is making a fine showing already, and they have only begun.

Before long they will be playing on the home grounds and then the patrons and citizens should turn out in big numbers to lend encouragement. "Rooting" for the home team helps to keep up the spirits of the players. It's a great incentive for the boys on the turf to do their best if they know they have the backing of the republic.

We have recently been reading the winnings from other towns, and we noticed that in every case the winning teams are those where the towns stand squarely behind their high school teams.

Littlefield should be no exception. The Wild Cats are winners, and the citizens should back them to the limit.

CONSISTENT CITIZENRY

Scarcely a week goes by but there are tangible evidences that there are still a few people in this town who do not yet realize the value of their home newspaper, and sometimes the editor of this sheet is tempted to believe that after all his constant preaching about "patronizing home industry" may be a mistake.

When an editor goes into a place of business he is expected to shut his eyes, take what is offered, and pay the price—and he generally does, largely because he believes in patronizing home industry. But frequently when the other fellow wants a little printing done he shops around among all the shops within fifty miles of his home town, not infrequently going as far as Dallas, and then asks his local printer to beat the price.

We had a case like that last week—a man whose business this newspaper has constantly and consistently boosted for the past year. In the very nature of his business, this newspaper, through its wide spread publicity, has brought numerous customers to him, yet he presumed to "jew" on a very reasonable price offered him and at which hundreds of similar jobs have been turned out to the complete satisfaction of the purchasers.

If the editor of this newspaper had wanted to pick a get-rich-quick business he certainly would never have chosen the newspaper business. He has never cared for riches, but he has always had a consuming desire to be of benefit to the community in which he lives and to render assistance to his fellowman. This newspaper has and always will be conducted along that line.

The editor of this newspaper does not have to betray any egotism when he states that this paper is one of the best published in West-Texas today—too many people who know newspaper values have told him so; too many people have voluntarily stated that they were citizens here today because of this newspaper's publicity campaign; too many citizens send copies back home to the folks they want to come out here to live; too many real estate dealers buy this paper in 100 lot quantities to send to their prospective customers; too many new subscribers are received every week—there is no doubt as to the value of this newspaper toward the present welfare and future development of this town. It is but right and just then, that it be accorded business considerations in keeping with the cause it has espoused.

"Consistency thou art a jewel; come let us reason together."

THE RUT

The longer one drives a vehicle in the ruts of a muddy road, the more difficult it is to get on level ground again. The same is true in general life.

It is very easy for people to get into the habit of traveling in a certain groove. Habit is a great taskmaster, and oftentimes hard to overcome.

The fellow who forms certain habits in his old place of residence often finds a new country a good place to get over them. Here, among new acquaintances, surrounded by new environment, he may be living over again.

The one who acquires the custom of putting the "best apples on top," or shaving every pound of butter just a little, or slipping by the street car conductor, etc., is getting into a dangerous moral rut which may eventually prove his eternal downfall.

A new country ought to be able to help a man morally as well as financially, and it will, if given the opportunity.

THE SIN OF NOT VOTING

The duty to vote rests upon every man and woman in this country. Failure to go to the polls is equivalent to casting a silent vote against the continuance of the democratic form of government.

Statistics of the last two or three elections reveal considerable delinquency on the part of many men voters and bashfulness on the part of many women voters. This election is the first in which complete suffrage will be effective, tho it was nearly so in 1920.

From 1888 to 1912 the vote for President of the United States increased at the rate of about 600,000 ballots every four years. In 1916 it reached 18,528,748 votes, an increase of 5,497,574 in four years. In 1929 with women voting in many states, the total vote was 26,705,346.

Large as this figure was it was disappointing since the men who might have voted numbered 27,661,880, and the women numbered 26,759,952—a total of 54,421,832. When compared with the vote of 1916 this small showing is attributed to a large extent to the failure of women to go to the polls.

If the fidelity of women to civic duty equals their devotion to home and family, their vote should equal vote of the men and the total should exceed 50,000,000.

It is only a few days now until the deciding date—let every man and woman go to the polls and vote as their reason and conscience dictates.

ON GETTING OLD

A friend of ours remarked the other day that he was loosing his pep, and guessed he was getting old. Yet he was only a little past forty, and we were discourteous enough to laugh in his face. Judging from the halitosis of his breath, all he needed was dose of calomel.

Very often people, as they advance in years, find their ideals, their ideas and appetites changing. The things that once interested them no longer appeal. They are satisfied to go to bed earlier, even tho they miss some things. But they are not necessarily getting old; they are simply getting sense. They are slowing up, simply because nature, after it has worked off its exuberance and done a lot of fool things, has a habit of settling down and going to work.

When a man of forty of thereabouts, begins to talk agoet getting old, we cannot help but smile up our sleeves a little and do a little recollecting. We remember that Dr. Samuel Johnson did not begin his dictionary until he was thirty-nine. "Les Miserables," the greatest work of Victor Hugo, was written after its author had passed his sixtieth year. Carlyle was forty-two when he wrote "The French Revolution." Cervantes wrote "Don Quixote" at the age of fifty. Milton was fifty-seven when he wrote "Paradise Lost."

And yet there are some who begin to feel that the jig is up because they are around forty. For shame! The best years of their life is still ahead of them. The sanity and vision which come only through experience and suffering are still theirs. Instead of being the halting amateur, as in former year, they have become the confident expert. The brain has just begun to hit the stride intended by its Creator.

They may be old in minutes, day and years, but young, virile and sure-footed in the knowledge and poise born of the years gone by.

Besides all that, they are living in West Texas where folks are supposed to either shrivel up and blow away or else suddenly become translated to the realm of eternal youth and perfect existence.

JUST FLOATERS

No community was ever perfect, nor was any given community ever composed entirely of ideal citizens. With all the good folks that come to any new country there are also to be found a certain number of the wishy-washy, unstable kind.

One cannot tell where they are or what they say today where they will be or what they will say tomorrow. They may work for one concern today and another tomorrow; they may be a member of one political party today and another tomorrow; they may belong to one church today and another tomorrow; they may argue with you today that black is black, but tomorrow they may argue that black is white.

One cannot count on them. Undependable, unstable and unstandable they float about, helter skelter, anywhere, everywhere, nowhere. They remind us of the snake whose track in the sand became a thing of much discussion by nearby villagers, as some poet expressed it:

"It wiggled in and it wiggled out, it kept the people all in doubt,

As to whether the snake that made the track, Was going to town or coming back."

A larger, livelier Littlefield is what we all want. We want to see the wheels of progress revolving more rapidly. We want better streets, better homes, more beautiful lawns, better civic activities in general, to attract new-citizens and capital investments. These are the things which make us go forward and cause business to grow larger and better every day, in every way.

The ladies of the Baptist church will serve dinner in the Fred Heaven building, Tuesday, Nov. 4th. Chicken salad, sandwiches cake, pie, and everything good to eat, hot chocolate and coffee. Everyone's patronage appreciated. 28-14c

You would better lay aside a letter or telegram without opening it.
Neither should you lay aside your home newspaper without reading every advertisement it contains.
Merchants, manufacturers, trade and professional men are talking to you. They are telling you of their goods and their wares and their services. They tell of opportunities. They give you invitations.
It is impossible for these business men to send letters to all the readers of this news paper.
So here in the paper today are their letters to the whole community—and to you as a part of the community.
Reading them will help you to economize and post you on business news just as well as if each advertiser sent you a personal letter.

BUILDING TOMORROW'S CITY

When we build, let us think that we build forever. Let it not be for the present delight, nor for present use alone. Let it be such work as our descendants will thank us for, and let us think, as we lay stone on stone, that a time is to come when those stones will be held sacred because our hands have touched them, and that men will say, "See! This our Fathers did for us."

The Levelland Post Master Given Term In the Penitentiary

Barnett E. Gunn, former postmaster at Levelland has been sentenced to two years in the Federal penitentiary by Judge James C. Wilson. He entered a plea of guilty of the embezzlement of postal funds.

Gunn's wife and two small children were in the United States marshal's office when sentence was passed. He walked into the office and kissed his wife goodbye. When she was told of the sentence she became hysterical and had to be carried from the federal building and taken to a doctor's office.

"How can I live without him?" God help me and my babies?" cried Mrs. Gunn as she was carried from the building.

Gunn pleaded guilty to having embezzled $8,554.30 of postal funds. Shelby S. Faulkner, assistant United States district attorney in making a statement of the case before Judge Wilson stated that Gunn had drawn 127 money orders for $100 each and deposited them in the bank at Meadow, Texas. The bank being unable to cash the orders they were sent to Lubbock where they were cashed and the Meadow bank credited with the proceeds. Mr. Faulkner stated that Gunn has remitted for all of the orders except $8,554.30.

Senator W. H. Bledsoe of Lubbock represented the defendant in the case and stated to the court that prior to his offence Gunn had borne an enviable reputation and that at one time he had been a minister.

Senator Bledsoe asked the mercy of the court and Judge Wilson without interrogating the defendant sentenced him to two years in the Federal penitentiary.—Amarillo News.

AMHERST NEWS

Amherst continues to grow and develop, and steady but sure, it is becoming an excellent little city.

This week the new brick building constructed for E. T. Daniels, of Idalou, is being completed, and will be occupied about the first of November by the Ackers-Overland Co.

On the east side of town A. E. Boyd is putting up a home that will be one of the most attractive in the community. It has a concrete basement and, when finished, will be equipped with all the modern conveniences.

M. E. Thornhill is also erecting a nice home on the east side of town which is to be equipped with individual lighting plant and many other modern conveniences.

A casual survey of the building program of this community now reveals the fact that there are at present about 25 homes under construction, at an approximate cost of $20,000.

One of the largest and most important business additions to the City of Amherst during recent months is the opening of the new brick building on Main street, belonging to Earnest Ackers.

In this building will be housed a choice stock of variety goods, groceries and novelties, being arranged this week.

Cotton in this section is now opening fast and one may drive in any direction witnessing great fields of many acres white with the fleecy staple.

Every day pickers are arriving, one man bringing in 19 on the train yesterday. The local gin is now running full blast, and every one speaks in the highest terms of the fine quality of work they are turning out.

The Halsell Lumber Co., established here at the opening of the townsite more than a year ago, was this week sold to the Panhandle Lumber Co., and B. E. Payne, of Groom, Texas is here to take charge of the business.

Mr. Payne is an experienced lumber man and will, no doubt prove a valuable addition to the business circles of this little city.

His wife is at present one of the teachers in the Groom high school, but as soon as she can be relieved will join her husband here, when they will erect a modern home.

The Advocate is this week in receipt of a telegram from J. T. Beggs, of Devol, Okla., ordering the placing of his name upon our subscription lists and stating he is taking up with local authorities the matter of putting in an electric light plant here.

A carnival will be given at the tabernacle Hallows'een night under the auspices of the D. B. Club. Plenty of amusement will be furnished. Come and go through the chamber of horrors and see the dance of the seven veils, and many other mysteries. Admission 50c.

crowd of 30,000 people for this occasion. A platform to seat 500 state officials, including Governor Pat M. Neff and a special delegation from Austin, school men of prominence throughout the Southwest, distinguished visitors from adjoining states, and others, is being built. 5,000 Texas flags will be carried by the school children of Lubbock in the gigantic parade that will precede the program at the Tech College site.

Governor Pat M. Neff has assured D. Paul W. Horn, president of the College, that he will be present on the occasion to deliver the principle address of the day. More than one thousand ex-service men and National Guard members will take part in the program with a formal military flag raising and other maneuvers. A salute will be fired from the famous French 75 following formal military retreat—which will close the day's program.

A special program and feed will be given the ex-service men and National Guard in the evening at the City Auditorium. Old army chow has been contracted for with a program full of old army fun. Special delegations of ex-service men from all over West Texas have signified their intention of being present and plans are being made for a real celebration for the evening of the 11th.

The Tech College belongs to all of Texas—especially to West Texas and we want all of them to come to the cornerstone laying," said H. T. Kimbro, general chairman of arrangements. We want the people of Texas to see how the work is progressing and what Lubbock is doing to keep pace with the College. All of West Texas is making strides of development, growth, progress and enjoying a real prosperity. The College is being opened just in time to take part in and contribute to this great expansion and we of Lubbock want the folks of Texas to keep in touch with the institution.

LAST OF THE FUREY GANG SENTENCED AND REMAINED TO PENN.

Austin, Texas, Oct., 27.—The last of the group of alleged professional swindlers, who were trailed over the country by J. Frank Norfleet, after he charged they had duped him out of $45,000, lost his appeal last week before the court of criminal appeals. An eight year sentence, four years on two counts, was affirmed against W. B. Spencer at Fort Worth.

It was charged that Spencer and his associates accepted thousands of dollars from Norfleet on a fake stock gambling proposition. Norfleet then started out to bring the alleged fakers to justice. He traveled over a large part of the United States tracking them down, and finally landed practically all of them in the penitentiary. Spencer was brought from the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., to stand trial. He was serving a sentence there on a similar charge.

Of the Furey gang, of which Spencer was a member, Joe Furey and E. J. Ward are dead, and John Gerber is serving time in the Huntsville penitentiary. Ward killed himself after being convicted in Fort Worth and taken to Washington, D. C., to answer further charges. Furey died in the California state prison.

Norfleet is well known in this vicinity, having for several years made his home on a ranch near Hale Center, just a few miles east of this place.

Did You Ever Stop To Think

That these are competitive times. That in modern business, it is invariably the concern that advertises that gets the business.

That the concern who keeps their business constantly before the people is the concern that reaps the reward of such progressiveness.

That today is the age of publicity, and modern business pays much attention to this most important branch of modern business.

That to hold the attention of the buying public, is the first principle of advertising.

That advertising should be given earnest attention. Ads should be attractive. They should show merchandise or service of real value and backed by business integrity.

That as success in business is to a large extent dependent on public sentiment toward a business; truthful, persistent advertising must be used in order to attract favorable attention to it.

That business concerns who hesitate about advertising are hesitating on the road to better business—don't hesitate.

IBANEZ AND MAE MURRAY

Mae Murray, whose latest Metro picture, "Mademoiselle Midnight," which is coming to the Lee Theatre on Monday Nov. 3, has inspired Vincente Belasco Ibanes, author of "The Four Horseman of the Apocalypse," to write his first play directly for the screen. The picture will be called "Circe" and it promises Mae Murray a wonderful opportunity to display the dazzling gowns and sensational dances that have helped make her famous.

WILD CATS GET ALL CLAWED UP BY THE TIGERS AT SLATON

The Littlefield Wild Cats went out of their class last Friday to be defeated by the fast and versatile Slaton Tigers. The final score of the game was 62-6.

The Tigers made most of their gains on straight football, relying on their weight and interference to carry them through the lighter line of the Wild Cats.

The Wild Cat score came in the second period, when with the ball on their own 18 yard line, Mueller passed 25 yards to Wood, who ran it to the Tiger 22 yard line before being tackled. Another pass, Mueller to Porter, netted eight yards, and Smith made a pretty tackle back for three yards, giving them first down on the nine yard line. Mueller plunged for seven yards, Wood hit the line savagely to put the ball on the six inch line, when Mueller bucked it over for the only Wild Cat score.

Most of the Slaton scores came as the result of line plunging plays, the five of the touchdowns were due to blocked punts and intercepted passes. Walliver and Hendrick were the stars of the Slaton offense, while the Tiger line in general held like a stone wall.

Courtney playing at guard for the Wild Cats deserves much credit for his consistent work, while the entire Littlefield squad fought hard, even though they knew they were fighting a losing battle.

The sportmanship of the teams was unexcelled, and coaches Miller and Lewis are to be commended for inculcating such spirit into their teams. The fight was clean and friendly throughout.

MAE MURRAY—MONTE BLUE

With his appearance in "Mademoiselle Midnight," the Metro picture coming to the Lee Theatre, Monday Nov. 3, Monte Blue plays opposite Mae Murray once more. The Murray-Blue combination was considered to be an ideal one not so long ago. Mr. Blue made screen love to Miss Murray in "Peacock Alley" as Elmer Harmon, Indiana business man, and in "Broadway Rose" as Tom Darcy, gentleman-farmer. In "Mademoiselle Midnight" he portrays Owen Burke, a virile, fearless American.

Passing of the Yellow House Ranch Marks Beginning Of New Epoch On So. Plains

At the rate prospectors are constantly coming into Littlefield and land is being purchased, it is only a matter of time until the famous Yellow House ranch will have passed into history, and nothing will remain to tell the stories of its past activities, save the bluff behind the big windmill tower and the Indian caves dug into its sides by the original aborigines, who inhabited them a hundred or so years ago.

J. P. White former owner and manager of this famous ranch is now making preparations to go to Roswell, New Mexico, where his family has already preceded him. "Cap" Roberts, who has been with the Littlefield and White interests for the last 40 years, all the time disclaiming the steady encroachments of the 'nestors' has already gone to his home in New Mexico. Geo. Smith, who entered the employment of the L. F. D. people away back in 1873 as bookkeeper, has recently retired to New Mexico, also.

The fine herd of mare belonging to the Yellow House ranch, from which have been bred nearly all the cow ponies used on the ranch, has been sold and shipped. It is said that J. P. White first bought this herd of mares at $7.50 per head, and, besides keeping a sufficient supply of good cow ponies on hand at all times, has sold thousands of dollars worth of fine animals on the market.

Thousands of head of cattle, of all grades, are now being sold and shipped, the fat cattle to market, the steers to buyers, the calves for feeders and the bulls for canners. Where formerly, on these ranges were cattle everywhere, one now rides for miles without seeing a single animal, because the land is being rapidly sold to the farmers who are now coming in and taking possession of their new holdings to improve them.

Only one bunch of small antelope, about five in number, remain on this famous ranch, where once they used to run care-free in large numbers. In a few months more, they too, will be driven back, or else killed, for there is no longer any big range for them to caper over and they will not be tamed.

But with the passing of this famous ranch a new epoch is being ushered in an epoch which will remain for generations to come; for these virgin acres which first fed the buffalo and then the long horns are destined to furnish food for the multiplied thousands of new settlers now coming to the South Plains to make their future residence. Here magnificent homes are being reared, broad acres turned under the plow, and producing tons of feed, bushels of grain, and bales of cotton. The Yellow House ranch will remain yellow, but it will be the yellow of ripening harvests, dotted here and there with the snow white of the fleecy staple.

A. Ritz, George G. Wright, Ella D. Hammett and husband J. P. Hammett and J. M. Hammett Banking Co., a corporation, whose residence is unknown, to be and appear before the Hon. District Court, at the next regular term thereof, to be holden in the County of Lamb at the Court House thereof, in Olton, Texas, on the Fourth Monday in Nov., A. D. 1924, and being the 24th day of Nov., A. D. 1924, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court, on the 4th day of October A. D. 1924, in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court No. 102, wherein Thomas Karcher is plaintiff and L. A. Ritz, George G. Wright, Ella D. Hammett and husband J. P. Hammett and J. M. Hammett Banking Company are defendants. The nature of the plaintiff's demand being as follows, to-wit: suit against defendants in trespass to try title to the North one-half of section No. thirty-eight in block No. two, W. E. Halsell subdivision in Lamb County, Texas, alleging that on the first day of September 1924, the plaintiff was lawfully seized and possessed of said lands, claiming same in fee simple and that the defendants on said date unlawfully dispossessed the plaintiff to his damage in the sum of $5,000.00; the plaintiff alleges that he has title to said lands by common source with that of the defendant L. A. Ritz and holds title from L. A. Ritz under Deed of Trust executed by L. A. Ritz with power of sale in favor of George G. Wright, and that under resignation of the trustee in said Deed of Trust and the appointment of a substitute trustee, deed was made by substitute trustee to the defendant J. M. Hammett Banking Company, and deed by J. M. Hammett Banking Company to Ella D. Hammett, and by Ella D. Hammett to plaintiff, also by J. M. Hammett Banking Company to plaintiff and that in deeds from Ella D. Hammett and husband to plaintiff there is recited vendor's lien in favor of Ella D. Hammett, and conveyance subject to deed of trust lien in favor of J. M. Hammett Banking Company, but each of said recitals was a mistake and erroneous, it being intended to recite assumption of payment of a consideration growing out of a note of $2500.00 executed by Ella D. Hammett in favor of the defendant, J. M. Hammett Banking Company which said note has been paid and released; also alleges as Count No. 2, that the plaintiff and those under whom he claims have had peaceable, continuous and adverse possession of said lands and premises, cultivating, using, enjoying the same and paying taxes thereon, claiming each and all of said deeds being of record in Lamb County, Texas, in proper records thereof for a period of more than five years next before the first day of September 1924, and claiming the same under the 5 year statute of limitation which he pleads and prays for judgement for the title and possession of said lands and premises, for writ of restitution, for costs, damages and general and special relief such as he may be entitled to in law and in equity.

Herein fail not, and have you before said Court, on the first day of the next term thereof, this Writ, with your endorsement thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Littlefield Now Has An Organized Band With Fine Prospects

That Littlefield is to have a municipal band now seems an assured fact. Two weeks ago Prof. Clayborn Harvey, of Abilene came here to interest local musicians in such an organization, and is meeting with fine success. At present there are 18 musicians who have signed up for membership and others are expected to be added this week. The instrumentation is now assured, several new instruments have been ordered and the boys have begun practicing in dead earnest. They are making fine progress, and it will not be long now before they will be ready for an open air concert.

Prof. Harvey is himself an excellent musician and has had considerable experience in band direction. He has been assistant director of the bands and orchestra of Christian and Simmons Colleges, Abilene, director for three years of a band at Munday, Texas, and also director of the Zaneis band at Wilson, Okla. He is a most excellent gentleman and comes to Littlefield highly recommended both in character as a citizen and ability as a musician.

For more than a year the Leader has been arguing and emphasizing the need and value of a band. It now feels that its hopes in this direction are about to be realized. As an advertising feature alone a municipal band is well worth every cent it costs the community.

Since Wright Armstrong organized the "Old Gray Mare" band at Brownwood that town has become well known, not only throughout the State of Texas, but all over the South and West. It was the 165 piece band that Lamesa sent to the last meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce that started the boom of Dawson county. It was the "Saxophone Six" from Ballinger that gave Runnells county so much free advertising at the same meeting. There is no reason why Littlefield should not be able to enter the band contest for one year old bands at the meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to be held at Mineral Wells next year—and carry home the honors.

Every citizen of Littlefield should get squarely behind the band.

NEGRO PREACHING

Many White Folks Attend Services For First Time.

The Right Rev. W. T. Lucas, a negro Baptist minister recently from Marshall preached Sunday afternoon at the John Kling farm.

Kling has here about 75 negroes picking cotton, and among them is Lucas, who took advantage of the opportunity to bring a Gospel message to his people. There were several white people to attend the services, many of them it being their first experience of hearing a negro preach and the singing of their weird dialect melodies.

Lucas is an ex-slave, a good old man, has taught school in Marshall for several years, and is above the average of the preachers of his race. He expects to preach here again before the cotton picking is over.

THE ANNUAL

The high school is again making preparations to put out an Annual. Work on it has already begun. A complete staff will be announced later.

SPADE SELLING FAST

Grandson Pays $33 Bonus for His Grandfather's Lands.

Spade farm land is selling very rapidly, according to Sales Manager Stanley Watson. Up to date about 27,700 acres of the famous Spade ranch has been sold.

One interesting sale made last week was to Harvey Jones, of Georgetown, Texas. Jones is the grandson of D. H. Snyder, one of the owners of the land when purchased by the Spade family 36 years ago.

The grandfather sold this ranch for about $2.50 per acre, but the grandson paid $33.00 per acre for the 640 acres he purchased last week. He expects to improve it immediately.

ENTERTAIN AT BRIDGE

Mrs. Shaw's Home Scene of Party Saturday Night.

Misses Marie Patton, Mona Horton and Thelma Wardlow were hostesses to a number of their friends Saturday night in a bridge party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Shaw. High score was won by Miss Anne Douglass. Dainty refreshments were served to all present, and a delightful evening was spent playing the fascinating game of progressive bridge.

Those present were: Misses Anne and Gladys Douglass, Patsy Lively, Marie Patton, Mona Horton, Thelma Wardlow, Pierce Barry, Arbie Joplin and E. D. Parnell.

ADDITION NEARLY SOLD

High School Addition Acreage Tracts Prove Popular.

The High School addition, consisting of 135 acres put on a few weeks ago by Messrs. P. W. Walker and Pat H. Boone is proving a very popular piece of suburban property.

This tract was subdivided into 1, 2½ and 5 acre tracts, about 35 of which have already been sold, leaving about a dozen more which will probably be cleaned up within the next two weeks. Last week about $30,000 worth of the tracts were disposed of to eager buyers.

Several buildings have already been started in this addition, and it is stated by the owners that within the next two weeks there will have been erected or in the process of erection at least 20 residences.

GOES TO MUNDAY

E. C. Cundiff will Take Birds to Poultry Show.

E. C. Cundiff, Littlefield's well known chicken fancier, will leave next week to attend the Mid-West poultry show to be held at Munday, taking with him about 25 birds of the Rhode Island Red variety for display.

Mr. Cundiff has been very fortunate this year in pulling down a nice string of ribbons at the Tri-State and South Plains fairs, and is quite hopeful of bringing back with him some honors from this show.

He states that there will be high bred chickens from all over the Southwest on exhibit there, and the man who gets in on the premium list may indeed be proud of his winnings.

MEETING OF THE BIRDS

The Red and Blue Birds of the Junior Epworth League had a very interesting meeting last Sunday afternoon, at which time an offering for Mexican Missions was taken.

At the next meeting Sunday the program will be as follows: Special prayers; song service; Scripture, Psalm 103; Miss Pauline Courtney, leader; roll call answered with Scripture on prayer; "The Boy Who Prayed a Garden of God Into Africa"—Earstine Davenport; violin solo, Winifred Willis; "How Mina Polk's Prayer Was Answered," Middle Beth Butler; solo, Wyvon Mason; "The Boy Who Prayed Himself Into a Shepherd," Edwin Butler, also prayer discussions by Lucile Priest, Prudence Courtney and Avis Dow.

RINSE EMPTY MILK BOTTLES PROMPTLY

All Utensils Should Be Thoroughly Washed.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
As soon as a milk bottle is empty it should be rinsed first in cold and then in warm water, until it appears clear; then set bottom up to drain, says the United States Department of Agriculture. It should not be used for any other purpose than for milk.

Bottles Should Not Be Made Breeding Place for Fleas.

All utensils with which milk comes in contact should be rinsed in cold water, washed, and scalded with water at or near the boiling point every time they are used, and set away unwiped. In no case should they be cleaned in water that has been used for other utensils, or wiped with a towel that has been used for other dishes since it was scalded.

Kitchen Not a Wash Room

It is better to use the kitchen only as a place for preparing and, if necessary, serving food. This is more sanitary and permits more compact and convenient arrangement of equipment, the United States Department of Agriculture believes, than having it a combination cook room, laundry, wash room, passageway, and dining room. Laundry, wash room, and general storage room are sometimes combined and used as a place for men and children coming in from out of doors to leave work clothes and muddy boots and rubbers, but if possible this should be separate from the kitchen.

Appliance for Holding Beads of Tire Casings

A piece of 3/8-inch rod, bent to the shape shown, is a handy appliance for holding the beads of a tire casing apart while making interior repairs, or patching. In addition, if made the correct size, it will serve as an inflation-test gauge. To accomplish this, pump the tire up to the right pressure, and measure the casing directly under the wheel hub, with the weight of the car resting on the axle. The distance between the points will not, of course, be standard for all tires, but will depend on the size of the tire being measured. A gauge of this kind has perhaps no great accuracy, but is far cheaper than the dial type, and as it only applies to one size, it is less likely to be stolen. Also, it is a much simpler operation to caliper the tires than to unscrew the cap and apply the pressure gauge.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Burned Fuse in Country Is Quite Inconvenient

A burned-out fuse on one's car in the country is very inconvenient if there are no spares with which to replace it, but if the motorist will carry a little tinfoil in his box of odds and ends he can make a serviceable temporary repair in a minute. As a matter of fact, any one who smokes cigarettes or chews gum or eats candy on the road usually has some tinfoil on his person, and so it is not necessary to make a special point of including it with the tools.

To rehabilitate the burned fuse it is wrapped with one or two layers of the foil and reinserted in the fuse box. Care should be taken not to wrap the fuse too heavily, as if this is done damage is liable to result to the wiring if it is suddenly stressed with an overload.

Exhimo Music

Exhimo music consists chiefly of songs, chants and melodies. Many of these possess considerable musical rhythm. Although the tunes to which they are sung are crude they can be traced to keynotes. The melodies especially are said to be very pleasing and a number of them have been published with corresponding music.
