Wardlaw Addresses Eastland Audience On Issues of Gubernatorial Campaign

Louis J. Wardlaw of Fort Worth, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of Texas, spoke Saturday morning in the city hall here on issues of the campaign. He was introduced by T. L.
Overbey and on the platform with them were John Thurman, mayor of Ranger, and Wade Swift of Ranger, both long time friends and the latter a former schoolmate.

Mr. Wardlaw is an interesting and entertaining speaker. His voice was husky from frequent speaking, often in the open air, in the campaign he is now making throughout Texas, but it became clearer as he progressed. His audience was not so large as it would have been at any time other than Saturday morning, but was very enthusiastic. He was introduced as "the next governor of Texas."

Mr. Wardlaw expressed the pleasure it gave him to find old-time friends in Eastland, mentioning Mr. Thurman, Mr. Swift and Judge T. J. Cunningham, a friend of 30 years' standing. He said that a candidate for office needs friends, for it is by the friends that he is elected.

First declaring that the governor of a state be versed in business, know the value of money and be ready to give service. Mr. Wardlaw expressed the opinion that the present governor of Texas, who is seeking re-election, is lacking in business experience, has never handled litigation involving an amount above $1,000, and spends too much time out of his office, hunting and fishing, closing schools and opening bridges, and making week-end visits to Dallas.

AIRMEN GIVEN GAY WELCOME IN AUSTRALIA

Captain Charles Kingsford- Smith and Companions Idolized As National Heroes When Land At Brisbane.

By United Press
BRISBANE, Australia, June 9.
—Wild with joy at his safe return, Brisbane welcomed Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith back to his native land.

The triumphant return flight from America to Australia was ended and the Australian airline's three comrades were idolized as national heroes.
The big monoplane Southern Cross glided to earth at 10:15
Saturday morning which is 8:15
p. m. Friday, eastern standard time. Stepping from the cabin, Capt. Kingsford-Smith and his companions were surrounded by thousands of cheering Australians and carried from the airfield on the shoulders of their admirers.

The trip, which was made from Suva in 21 hours and 20 minutes was the third leg of their voyage over the Pacific. It was 1,765 miles long.
Seldom has this country been so stirred as by the courage of the two Australians and the two Americans in their conquest of the untried air lanes.

Garcia, according to authorities went to the home of Fred Aragon, mail carrier, where he boarded, last night and told his wife that Aragon was ill downtown and needed her. She left the child in bed and went to her husband's assistance.
Arriving downtown the pair met, and suspecting trickery, returned to their home where they found the child missing. Stripped of its clothing, cut and bruised, the baby was found in a pen at the stockyards. Physicians say it cannot live.

Speakers declared that they hoped to "sell Mr. Jones on Waco."
Mr. Jones declared that the plan of 100,000 farmers who have announced they will march on the Republican convention in Kansas City because they have not received needed farm relief was a bad sign.
"Revolutions are started thi way," he said. "The Republican administration has done nothing for the relief of the farmers. The

WARDLAW ADDRESSES EASTLAND AUDIENCE

The office more than half the time during working hours. The administration of the highway department by his agents and assistants has been one of favoritism in certain sections. A majority of the counties of Texas have paid hundreds of thousands of dollars more than they received back in the form of maintenance and new construction, and this money has been expended chiefly in the territory adjacent to the City of Austin, the home of R. A. Sterling, chairman of the State Highway Commission, and around Abilene, home city of W. R. Ely, highway commissioner.

Mr. Wardlaw said that two years' appropriations for expenses of the state amounted to $25,500,000, but that a larger sum, about $27,000,000 was administered by the Highway Commission, composed of three men appointed by the governor, two of them being lawyers without any road building ability and the chairman equally inexperienced in building roads. "They just spend your money, using it to match the county money and calling it state and federal aid," declared Wardlaw. He declared the highway commissioners should be elected by the people and suggested four representing the four sections of the state, two to be elected every two years.

Pledges Service

Declaring that increased salaries of state officials and other unwarranted expenses had greatly increased the cost of government, Mr. Wardlaw promised that, if elected, he would give all his time to the duties of office, and would reduce, by the use of the veto power, the taxes of Texas to not exceeding $40,000,000 for two years, or a saving of about $11,000,000 each year; that he would seek to fix the automobile registration fee at not exceeding $3, and would try to abolish excessive hunting and fishing fees.

"Governor Moody, in his campaign two years ago, asserted that every administration should stand on the record it had made," said Mr. Wardlaw. "If his administration will not bear scrutiny, if he has not kept his pledged word, then the statements he made from the stump two years ago apply to him and he should be retired to private life."

Mr. Wardlaw went from here to Breckenridge, where he spoke Saturday afternoon.

FREYSCHLAG IN LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE

The State Insurance Commission, addressed the association at the beginning of the morning session on "Some Observations on the Local Agency Situation." Following Cousins, L. B. Shaver of Denton, an authority on farm insurance, spoke on "How to Write Farm Insurance Successfully."

A. R. Caldwell, president of the Louisiana Insurance Exchange told "How to Run a Small Town Insurance Exchange Successfully."

On Fire Prevention Miss Olga Juniger of the State Fire Insurance Department, closed the addresses with a treatise on "Fire Prevention in Public Schools" in which she discussed the work done in grade and high schools. Exhibits of posters and models were shown that members might see the work done in teaching fire prevention.

First Picture of New Rocket Auto

Attaining a speed of 125 miles an hour in 45 seconds from a standing start, this rocket automobile, a German invention, amazed Berlin spectators with its tremendous speed in recent tests. Fritz Von Opel, its driver, intends to experiment again in July to attain a greater speed. Tests are limited as each rocket costs a small fortune. They fire from the tubes shown on the rear of the machine. The rocket motor is also being tested for airplane use.

R. Q. Lee To Speak Monday In De Leon In His Campaign for Seat In Congress

Special to the Telegram. -CISCO, June 9.—One hundred automobiles and 400 to 500 people of Cisco and community are the goal of friends of R. Q. Lee, candidate for congress from the 17th district, when he speaks at De Leon Monday afternoon. The motorcade will assemble at the Cisco city hall at noon and leave for a group.

A. D. Anderson of the Blease Motor Co. is in charge of the party. Automobile owners who will have space for extra passengers are requested to telephone Anderson at 244 or 245. Persons desirous of going but who are without autos also should get in touch with Anderson. The suggestion that Cisco business houses be asked to close Monday afternoon was not approved by Lee and the idea was dropped. He said that while he appreciated the motive in the suggestion, it was asking too much of the business men. However, it is expected that virtually every business firm will have one or more representatives in the delegation to De Leon.

Lee's platform, in which farm relief plays a prominent part, was announced Wednesday. It was as follows:

Farm Legislation. I shall favor every conservative measure, which will benefit the farming and stock raising interests, which are among the chief industries of this district. I shall favor placing a reasonable tariff on jute and similar products, in order to increase the use of cotton baling, in which to wrap cotton, and all other measures that will tend to increase the use of cotton. I favor legislation to restrict the operation of exchange handling farm products to the extent that they will be operated in the interest of the farmer instead of the speculator. I shall favor broadening and extending the scope of the Federal Land Bank, so as to provide money for the farmers on the most liberal terms possible, consistent with safety. I shall favor federal aid in the establishment of demonstration farms in districts so laid out as to have common soil types that to be operated by practical farmers, who will work in cooperation with and under the supervision of the county agent, thus giving to the farmers the benefits of demonstration farms near at hand operating under varying soil and climatic conditions.

Since farming and stock raising are chief industries of this district, I shall apply myself to the task of studying legislation to give relief and extend benefits to these industries.

Policies. I have been a Democrat all my life. Having been raised in the South, I naturally am imbued with Southern ideals and have held consistently to the principles of Democracy.

World War Veterans. I shall favor legislation to provide for the dependent families of the killed and wounded World War veterans and for dependents of disabled veterans in hospitals and elsewhere, as well as to provide the best of care for the maimed and disabled boys who gave their health and bodies in defense of our flag. There has been a great deal said about cancelling the debts due the United States for money furnished the allied nations during the war. I shall oppose the cancellation of debts due by any nation, but shall favor arranging liberal terms for the payment of such debts and I see no reason why such money should not be applied to the relief of these distressed American boys and their dependents.

National Defense. I shall favor maintaining a small regular army, together with such war vessels, submarines and airplanes, forts and

WRESTLERS TO GRAPPLE NEXT TUESDAY NIGHT

Match Between Tom Stracener and "Kid" Leon Awakens Interest. Both Are Rough Artists.

The match between "Kid" Leon, Dallas grappler, and Tom Stracener, local favorite is drawing more interest from fans every day, and the promoter looks for the Elks Club to be packed Tuesday night. Leon, a fearless and rough young star from Dallas comes here with a long string of consecutive wins to beat Moore in quick time. "I have heard all about Stracener and although he rates as a pretty tough boy, I am sure that I can win from him in fast time," Leon said Sunday.

Stracener is not commenting on what he will or will not do. He is satisfied to take things as they come and get down to hard training and be sure to be in extra good condition when Tuesday night rolls round.

These grapplers are clashing for the first time. Neither has ever seen the other in action and neither knows anything about the tactics the other uses other than what they have heard.

It is rumored that Leon's pet hold is called a "Fireman's pick-up." A new and effective hold invented by himself. This hold is secured by crotching a man, raising him above his shoulders and slamming him to the mat as hard as possible. This hold never misses and if Leon uses this hold as good as reported then Tom is going to have something to worry about Tuesday night.

Leon and Stracener are to grapple for the best two out of three falls to a finish, no time limit. A classy card of prelims will open the card at 8:30 p. m.

Galli Curci Tells How To Choose and Hold Her Husband

A woman should be twenty-eight before she chooses a husband; at nineteen or twenty a girl is apt to be blinded by the physical side of things, declares Amelia Galli-Curci, world-famous prima donna, in July McCall's. "A woman should never sacrifice her own personality. It is God-given. In the truly happy marriage neither 'one is boss,' but a comrade who understands and respects the other. "Surely it is better not to practice camouflaging during the engagement. To show defects as well as the best side of their natures is the honest course for both man and woman. Before marriage she has given her best attention to proving attractive to him; after marriage this is equally important. But there is a scientific method which, in choosing wife or husband, would seem to prove invaluable—psychiatry. "In certain countries or Europe laws have been made demanding

The close of the revival services is here:

Today brings us to the close of a very precious revival. The attendance has been good at practically all of the services. A fine spirit of co-operation has been shown by a large number of the membership. Fourteen have already joined for baptism and several by letter. A large number ought to join this Sunday. Our people have greatly enjoyed the singing of Bro. Roy Camp. Let every member of the choir, and all the boys and girls of the Booster Band be present to back him up in these closing services.

The attendance has been good on the part of the boys and girls for the Bible stories. Mrs. Turner will have a very brief message for them following the close of the B. Y. P. U.

First Baptist Church

St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church

REV. MICHAEL COLLINS Acting Pastor

Mass at 10 a. m., Sunday, June 10.

The gospel of today is taken from the gospel of St. Luke, 14: 16-24. It deals with the parable of the man who made a great supper and set out his servants to invite all—rich and poor, young and old. Many refused to come and made excuses. The host said of those who refused to come: "None of those men that were invited shall taste of my supper."

The supper is the last meal of the day; and after it there is no other meal; night comes; labor ceases and all go to rest. The church is like a supper. She is the last institution for the salvation of mankind. In the first period of the world which embraces about twenty-five hundred years the true religion was with the patriarchs; then came the Jewish church, established by God as the institution for the salvation of men, which lasted from the time of Moses to that of Christ, an interval of about fifteen hundred years. Jesus Christ then appeared and establishes His church which which is to last till the end of time. Hence those who wish to be saved must belong to that church because He established only one church, and that alone is the true church because truth is essentially one. Hence the seventy or more leading Christian denominations cannot all be true because the teachings of each one of these churches is contradictory and often contrary to the teachings of another Christian church; and as Christ does not and cannot contradict Himself there can be only one true church. That church must have the same teachings and doctrines that Christ gave His Apostles. It must have authority to teach, it must be infallible otherwise it may err and lead others into error, and it must be indefectible—last till the end of time.

"Overseers of the Church" After the ordination of an elder and three deacons at the 11 o'clock service, the sermon following will relate to the duty of church officials and the support due them from the congregation. The Lord purchased the church with His own precious blood, and outlined for its prosperity a perfect organization. The congregation with its elders and deacons all working together as indicated in this great system lead to gratifying results.

"Some Big Fools" A demerit fool, an egotistical fool, a hypocritical fool, and an avaricious fool, with "the fool" that "hath said in his heart, there is no God," will be the flock of fools considered in this sermon Sunday night. The Bible does not use the soft pedal in dealing with sin, and the individual that is eternally lost cannot accuse the Bible of soft soaping the way. If a man steals a nickel or million, he is a thief according to the Bible at either end of the road. A liar is a liar, and not a polite prevaricator. The Bible makes thing plain, covers up nothing. Let us reason this matter together, and see if anybody in this end of the pasture is guilty.

Church of Christ

Christian Church

Rev. P. W. Walthall, Pastor

The purpose of the church is to deal in plain terms with the supreme things in human life. It seeks to promote a conception of nature, history and the meaning of life in accordance with the facts of experience and the progress of growing knowledge. It is essentially religious, not in the traditional sense alone but in the scientific and ethical sense as well. The church regards religion as spiritual energy directing itself toward the enrichment of the individual life and the perfection of the social order.

Had the doctrines of Jesus been preached always as pure as they came from His lips, the whole civilized world would now have been Christian.

Next Sunday we as a church are going to be guests of the Methodist church. They have invited the pastor and his people to come and spend the day with them and the Christian church voted as a unit to go.

I am going to do my best to bring just such messages as I think will be helpful. I will feel just as free to deal with some problems now confronting the world in the Methodist church as if I was in my own pulpit.

My subject Sunday morning will be, "The Tragedies of Protestantism." You can come feeling free to think as you please and you will not hear anything that would hurt your feelings regardless of what your religious faith may be.

At the Christian church we will have our Sunday School at the usual hour and then in a body go to the Methodist for church services.

First Christian Church

Church of God

The Sunday morning message will be on the subject "Companionship." This is a great subject, but it is much neglected.

The church and the ministers are helpers of God in establishing His Kingdom but they are not mediums. Save the Holy Ghost, which is his own spirit. He works directly with the individual. Love cannot be transplanted from one heart to another, but is engrafted, as Paul says, contrary to nature from the heart of God to the heart of men, alienating man's love from things of the world to things heavenly. Such a transaction as this can only be accomplished through the personal work of the Lord, and by His constant abiding in our hearts. This brings us to our subject, that of companionship or constant abiding. Come and hear this great subject, Sunday morning.

The message for the evening hour will be on "The Judgment."

Rev. H. M. Sell

and will be a continuation of the sermon of last Sunday night. We hope to bring a more thorough message, covering the detailed accounts as recorded in the Scriptures. This will be the last message by the Rev. Mr. Sell before going to the International camp meeting at Anderson, Indiana, as he will leave immediately following the University board meeting on Tuesday of next week. He will be gone for two or three weeks. Rev. E. W. Barnett will have charge of the work in his absence. Rev. Mr. Barnett will be the teacher of Bible in the university next fall and is here now in the interest of the university.

The congregation will go to Gorman, in a body, Sunday afternoon, to attend the C. G. Y. P. Rally. There will be several special choruses and two special speakers. Services will be held in the State Tabernacle of the Church of God. Everybody is invited to come.

We have made some changes in the Sunday School program, to meet the needs of the hour and feel that we are better able to handle the situation now before us. A men's Bible class is to be organized Sunday morning. This class will be taught by Rev. E. W. Barnett.

The primary department has been enlarged to meet the present need. This remodeling necessitated the use of the pastor's study, Rev.

Mr. Sell now has his study at his home at 209 So. Ammerman, where he recently moved. Those wishing to see Mr. Sell will find him at the above address. The telephone has not been changed yet, but will be soon.

The Sunday School convenes promptly at 9:45 a. m. There are classes for all ages, and if not in any Sunday School, we would welcome you to ours.

University Plans Entertainment for Fourth of July

AUSTIN, June 8.—Independence Day celebration on July 4 will climax the entertainment program for the university of Texas during the summer, according to Dr. Milton R. Gutsch, general chairman of the entertainment programs. Detailed plans for the affair have not as yet been made, but it is hoped that it will be an even greater success this year than ever before.

This year will mark the fourth such celebration for the University, Dr. Gutsch said. Last year, the attendance ran to about twelve thousand, a crowd which has never been equaled in the Texas Memorial Stadium save at the Texas A. and M. football game two years ago. Costs of carrying out the program will run between $2,000 and $2,500, according to Dr. Gutsch.

Among the other entertainment features for the summer school students will be the presentation of "The Imaginary Invalid," written by one of the French master playwrights, Moliere, by the Coffey-Miller Players of Classical Comedy, on June 12. This program will be offered at the Austin High School auditorium.

Musical concerts, arranged by David Griffin, director of the University summer choruses, will be rendered every Thursday evening at the open air campus theater.

Folk Nights, in charge of the various language departments of the University, will be held several times during the term, Dr. Gutsch said. These will consist of songs, dances, pageants, motion picture reels and lantern slides showing the customs of the particular country. Folk customs portrayed during the first term are those of the negroes, on Wednesday night, June 13, presenting the Negro Jubilee Singers of the Austin Ebenezer Baptist church; the Germans, on Wednesday, June 27, under the direction of Miss Hilda Widen; and the Scandinavians on Tuesday, July 10, also under the direction of Miss Widen.

When A Girl Loves

by RUTH DEWY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Nathaniel Dann, struggling artist, gives a party at his studio in honor of his fiancée, Virginia, beautiful daughter of Richard Brewster, Wall street financier.

Niel's model, Chiri, is jealous of Virginia and tells him that he will spoil his career if he marries a wealthy girl who cannot appreciate his art. He says their love will overcome all obstacles and they are making happy plans until her father dies suddenly of heart failure and Virginia is protrait with grief.

The doctor advises that death was caused by worry and shock, and it is later revealed that Brewster had lost his fortune in speculation. Niel urges an immediate marriage but his pleading is interrupted by Frederick Dean, an old family friend, who persuades Virginia to come and live with him and his daughter, Clarissa, who is a girlhood chum of hers. He wins her consent by saying that an immediate marriage would be disrespectful to her father's memory.

Niel is furious when Virginia tells him her decision, for he suspects Dean's motives, and does not like the shallow Clarissa, who has just announced her engagement to Russell Wainwright. He takes Virginia to her new home and returns unhappily to his neglected studio, where he finds Chiri, who has cleaned his apartment and has hot coffee waiting for him.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER V

Nathaniel groaned. "Get away from that phone," he ordered but Chiri only turned her back for another. Putting the mouthpiece to her lips she said:

"Mr. Mann is not in. What's that? Walker 8726? No, it isn't. I guess you've got the wrong number. I understood you to say you wanted Mr. Mann."

Nathaniel strode over and took the instrument out of her hands as she replaced the receiver.

"If that was Virginia she'll probably call again. For Pete's sake, Chiri, keep quiet if she does, will you?"

"You wouldn't deceive her, would you?" Chiri mocked.

"I've got to. She wouldn't understand your being here at this time of night."

"Night? Your looney. It's morning."

"Then get out, will you? I want a bath and—yes, yes, this is Walker 8726. Virginia? Of course it's Niel—my voice? Oh, I only just got up—yes, I slept a little. Didn't you? Worried?"

Please don't do that, sweetheart—of course I understand—I'll be right up."

"One of those clogging females," Chiri muttered scornfully. "Expects to find you just where she thinks you ought to be every time. That'll be sweet, when you get over being gaga."

"I ought to pitch you out on your head," Nathaniel told her; "but I suppose you've earned your breakfast."

"Is that so? Well, I wouldn't eat with you if that's the way you feel," she flared back at him.

Nathaniel saw that he had touched her pride—that vagrant pride that he never could prosecute.

"Oh come, Chiri, don't be silly; I'm not pleased you got the odd place in shape for once, but you mustn't expect gratitude from me. And you will get me in a hole with Virginia, you know, if you keep this up. She simply couldn't understand your sort."

"I should hope not! Narrow little soul, squeezed up in tissue and mothballs."

"You don't know what you're talking about, Chiri."

"Well, isn't it narrow to think a lot of dirt simply because I spent the night here? That's what you're afraid your Virginia would think if she knew, isn't it?"

"No, it isn't. I mean she would not be able to understand your staying here as an unwelcome guest. She would think I wanted you."

"Well, what if you did? Hasn't a man a right to have the people he wants around him? We haven't harmed anyone, have we?"

"It's all a matter of viewpoint, Chiri. That's the only real difference between any two people. You and Virginia are like the East and the West simply because of the way you look at things."

"I suppose I'm the East. Well, thank the gods that the sun rises in me."

"Now that we've settled that will you cook us some breakfast while I take a bath?" Nathaniel asked with evident relief.

"The sweetest breakfast you've ever had, humbly says your slave."

Nathaniel felt less depressed than he had since Virginia first told him she meant to accept Mr. Dean's offer of a home. She had called him up to say she had worried all night about making him unhappy. He could tell that she really was anxious for his consent. It soothed him to know that he mattered so much to her.

"Anyway, I've got a crust to ask her to pass up a home like Dean's and cramp herself up in the kind of apartment I could afford," he argued with himself, trying to drown the persistent feeling that it was a bad move for Virginia to go to the Deans. He couldn't tolerate Clarissa and he couldn't see how Virginia could either. "Unless it's because, having grown up with her, so to speak, she overlooks her faults through force of habit," he thought, "or because she learned to like her before the age of discrimination."

He hurried through his bathing and dressing, partly so as not to keep Chiri waiting and partly to get an early start to Virginia. She had said she needed his help with some packing.

But he noticed as he knotted his tie and brushed his coat that the sounds from the cubby-hole and studio had ceased. He sincerely hoped Chiri hadn't been more deeply offended than he had thought. She was a kind-hearted little "mug" but quite a bit dangerous, too, as "freed" people are apt to be, he felt.

She was gone. He made sure of it and then set about to prepare his own breakfast, but he discovered that she had left everything ready for him on the table. A napkin was spread over the toast and eggs to keep them warm.

Thoughtful kid.

The grapefruit looked tempting, so nicely cut and juicy. Nathaniel attacked it with eagerness and a bent spoon. Whew! What the devil? He spluttered, picking up his coffee cup and dashing wildly to the sink. Salt! And lots of it. He pushed the grapefruit aside and started in to breakfast on toast and eggs, but when he lifted the napkin he found only a couple of slices of bread that had been burned black and an egg that looked as if it had started to fry itself on a red-hot coal and then changed its mind.

"That's what I call a fiendish trick," Nathaniel raved. There was nothing left now but the coffee and he had little faith in it. He was entirely justified in his belief as he learned when he charily took a sip of the most vile-tasting stuff he'd ever beheld in a cup. His nearest guess was that Chiri had boiled coffee and tea together.

"Well, she got even," he granted; "if she had a grievance."

He got a cup of coffee at a coffee shop where he knew there wouldn't be any of his friends to engage him in conversation and delay his getting to Virginia's apartment.

When he arrived there he was prepared to endeavor to make her believe he had come round to her way of thinking. If she would not marry him now there was no use in making her more miserable than she already was, he told himself.

Virginia greeted him most flirtatiously. She looked very tired and fragile in a black chiffon hostess gown, and when Nathaniel came to her she went into his arms and relaxed in his embrace with a soft sigh. It made Nathaniel feel very manly. He bent his head and buried his lips in the verbenescene lure that was her hair. Then he rubbed his cheek against it very gently.

"I was a brute to you yesterday," he confessed; "but I'm different today. I won't make you unhappy again, sweetheart."

Virginia lifted her head to look at him.

"Last night, thinking about you and how you felt about my going to Mr. Dean's, I wondered if you would believe that I don't care enough for you, Niel, to do as you ask," she said.

"I did doubt you a little," Nathaniel confessed but the way he said it revealed to Virginia that he no longer doubted her.

"I called you early this morning because I was afraid you wouldn't want to come and I had to know if you felt like that," she hastened to confide.

Nathaniel laughed at her. "Do you think my love is made of self-concern? That if I can't have my own way I will stop loving?"

"No, but I want you to know that I don't love you selfishly either. I want to give in to you with all my heart, Niel, darling, but that would be selfish because I know it isn't best."

Nathaniel compressed his lips over an impulse to argue with her. After all, he had nothing but a groundless objection to her plan and his own disappointment to back him up in opposing her. And he wanted to make her happy.

"At least you will promise to marry me soon, Virginia? You ought to go fifty-fifty with me on giving in, you know."

"I know I should, Niel. You're being very good. Just let me get over this terrible blow and then perhaps I won't be so fearful of the future. I'll try to see things as you do."

They sealed their agreement with the seal of the ages between men and women and then Nathaniel asked to be put to work. There were a few books and pictures that Virginia felt entitled to take away with her and these she and Nathaniel packed into a couple of suitcases. They had to go over the place carefully to make sure that nothing she ought to take, such as papers and personal belongings, was left behind.

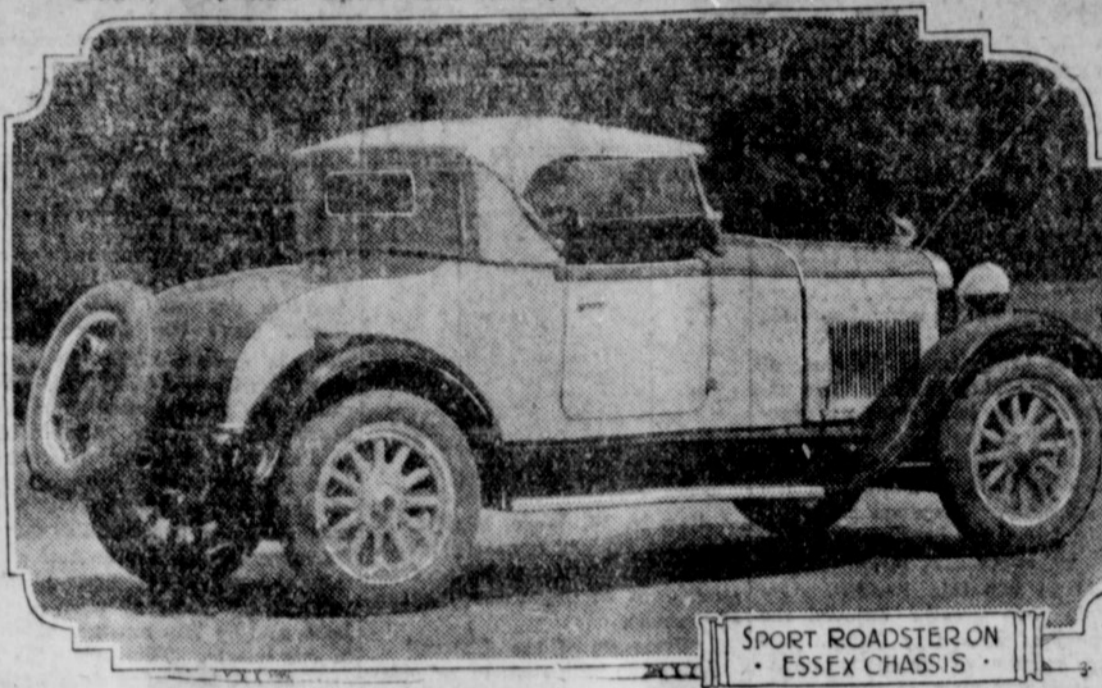

Nathaniel glanced frequently at Virginia, watching solicitously for signs of a breakdown. It was a sad task, this saying goodbye to a home and a happy past. Nathaniel's own eyes smarted more than once as he saw Virginia surreptitiously press a beloved object to her heart and then replace it with reluctant hands.

For what he felt would be the only time in his life he welcomed the presence of Clarissa when she appeared with a demurring young man in her wake. The call would serve to take Virginia's mind off the past, he hoped, but a moment later he had cause enough to regret his credence.

AN ORDINANCE

An ordinance providing traffic rules and regulations for the operation of vehicles within the corporate limits; requiring the police force to be uniformed and to enforce such rules; requiring the public to comply with the directions given by the members of the police force; prescribing what vehicles have the right of way; prohibiting the use of sirens; prescribing a speed limit; forbidding the reckless operation of motor vehicles; forbidding the operation of motor vehicles with defective brakes and steering gears; providing for the erection of stop signals; prohibiting the malicious driving over of said signals; requiring all traffic to come to a full stop at said signals; fixing an age limit for drivers of vehicles prohibiting double parking; prohibiting parking in reserved and restricted space; prohibiting the driving over fire hose; prohibiting the driving through blocked or closed street; prohibiting parking near fire plugs; prohibiting the parking of a car with motor left running; prohibiting the obstruction of side walks; defining the manner of parking; prohibiting the holding on to moving vehicles; providing that this ordinance shall be cumulative with all other er traffic ordinances except where in direct conflict with the provisions hereof, and providing that in the event of such conflict, that all prior conflicting sections or portions of ordinances shall be and are hereby repealed in so far as such conflict exists; and providing a penalty for violation hereof; and providing that the holding of any portion hereof to be invalid shall not affect the validity of any other portion or provisions; and creating an emergency.

—WHEREAS, the constant increase of vehicular and pedestrian traffic in the City of Eastland has made traffic conditions so congested that it has become imperative as a police regulation to protect the life, safety and convenience of its citizens to enact rules and regulations for the operation of vehicles within the corporate limits, according to the terms and provisions of the following ordinances:

Now, therefore, be it ordained by the City Commission of Eastland, Texas:

Section I.

Definitions—Unless it appears from the context that a different meaning is intended, the following words shall have the meaning attached and applied to them by this section:

(a). The term "curb" shall mean the edge of a roadway or street, marked, designated or otherwise commonly understood to be such.

(b). The term "vehicle" shall mean and include any automobile, truck, wagon, cart, buggy or conveyance of any kind or character, motorcycle or motor vehicle, and shall also include a horse.

(c). The term "to park" as herein used, means to stop, stand, remain or occupy a certain position on any portion of the street designated.

Section II.

Each member of the City police force shall be furnished with a distinctive uniform and a traffic whistle, said uniform to be worn while on duty, and each member of said police force shall at all times be charged with the duty of enforcing these regulations while on duty.

Section III.

Drivers of all vehicles at all times must comply with any directions by voice or hand of any member of the police force as to stopping, starting, approaching or departing from any place, the manner of taking up or setting down passengers, the loading or unloading of goods in any place, and the failure to comply with any of such directions upon the part of any driver of any vehicle shall be a violation of this ordinance.

Section IV.

Police, fire department, emergency repair vehicles of the public service companies, United States mail vehicles and ambulances shall have the right-of-way on any street and through any procession when in the regular course of their proper duty.

All vehicles going in an easterly or westerly direction shall have the right of way over all vehicles going in a northerly or southerly direction.

Section V.

It shall be unlawful for any person to use a siren on any vehicle except those used by the fire or police department or ambulances on emergency calls.

—WHEREAS, the constant increase of vehicular and pedestrian traffic in the City of Eastland has made traffic conditions so congested that it has become imperative as a police regulation to protect the life, safety and convenience of its citizens to enact rules and regulations for the operation of vehicles within the corporate limits, according to the terms and provisions of the following ordinances:

Now, therefore, be it ordained by the City Commission of Eastland, Texas:

(c). The term "to park" as herein used, means to stop, stand, remain or occupy a certain position on any portion of the street designated.

Section II.

Each member of the City police force shall be furnished with a distinctive uniform and a traffic whistle, said uniform to be worn while on duty, and each member of said police force shall at all times be charged with the duty of enforcing these regulations while on duty.

Section III.

Section IV.

Police, fire department, emergency repair vehicles of the public service companies, United States mail vehicles and ambulances shall have the right-of-way on any street and through any procession when in the regular course of their proper duty.

All vehicles going in an easterly or westerly direction shall have the right of way over all vehicles going in a northerly or southerly direction.
