FRANCES LONG CROWNED QUEEN OF WEST TEXAS

Abilene Girl Holds Court Assembly Attended By Splendor and Gaiety.

Special to the Telegram.
FORT WORTH, June 19.—
Crowned Queen of the vast empire of West Texas in the presence of goddesses who bestowed good gifts and the thousands of persons who packed the stadium of Texas Christian University Monday night, Frances of the House of Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Long of Abilene, revealed her identity for the first time and began her regal sway over the new empire.

Texans from practically every city in the western section of the Lone Star State filled the amphitheater to capacity to witness the coronation of their queen and the equally colorful pageant and a pyrotechnical display such as Texas never before has seen.

The coronation of Miss West Texas took place in the center of the spacious white stage while thousands of lights reflected the glory and the beauty of Her Majesty and her attendants. The train-bearers, looking like tiny fairies from the same land as the goddesses who presided over the festivities, were little Misses Ruth Carter and Ann Elizabeth Evans
Ladies-in-waiting, who were exquisite gowns shimmering in the brilliant light and glowing softly in the moving shadows added to the beauty of the royal group. They were Miss Grace Brewster, Perryton;
Miss Mildred Linkerhogtr, Abilene, and Miss Frances Key, Lampasas.

Prime Minister
R. W. Haynie, Abilene, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, was the prime minister, who placed the crown on the royal head. Amos G. Carter Jr., was the crown-bearer and L. J. Gostch, Abilene, was an attendant to the prime minister.

Adding much grace of the court from different sections of the empire took their places at the outer edge of the stage, their elaborate gowns contributing numerous colors and much dazzling brilliance to the picture. Miss Virginia Ester, Longview, was Miss East Texas; Miss Dorothy Greathouse, Portales, was Miss New Mexico;
Miss Nina Mae Brand, Sweetwater, was Miss Blue Bonnet; Mrs. Paul Miller, Tahoka, Miss South Plains;
Miss Sarah Dunman, Coleman, Miss Heart of Texas; Miss Frances Hill, Crowell, Miss Bell-Pease River Valley; Miss Pansy Walker, Fort Worth, Miss Fort Worth, and Miss Alice Johnson, Fort Worth, her lady-in-waiting.

Princesses from all parts of the realm were presented at court.
They were beautiful and becoming evening gowns, each to suit her own personality. Moving across the promenade they were individual units of beauty played upon by the lights and admired by the enthusiastic throng that was actively applauding throughout the presentation of the royal ladies.
Their names were emblazoned in electric light letters three feet

FOUR SEEKING OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

Nominating Committee West Texas Chamber of Commerce Has Hard Task.

Special to the Telegram.
FORT WORTH, June 19.—
Faced with the job of nominating a president, 25 vice presidents and 90 directors, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce nominating committee is holding a series of conferences in the director's room at the Association of Commerce, presided over by W. P. Hallmark, of Dublin, chairman.

Their report may not be completed until Wednesday, when it will be presented to the convention for ratification. Heretofore there never has been any contest on the floor of the convention ad, while such is permissible under the organization's laws, none is expected this time.

The majority of vice presidents and directors will be re-elected, it is predicted, but perhaps half-dozen new vice president and the same number of new directors will be chosen.

Frank Frazier of Baird Dies From Injuries In Crash

Frank Frazier, 36, Baird, died at the West Texas Clinic and Hospital, Ranger, last night at 2:30 o'clock from injuries received in an automobile accident five miles east of Ranger Sunday night at 11 o'clock. He died without regaining consciousness.

His brother, Ed Frazier of Baird, took the body there this morning for burial. It is the second time in two years that Frazier has taken a body of his brother from Eastland county to Baird for burial. Two years ago a younger brother was killed in an automobile accident on the Cisco-Breckenridge highway.

Mob In Missouri Has Lynching Itch

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 19.—
A mob threatened to storm the county jail here last night, following the killing of Policeman Frank Dearmond by Dobb Adams.
The officer was shot when he attempted to arrest Adams after the latter had shot his mother-in-law and stabbed his sister-in-law.

Police were prevented from removing Adams to another jail by the mob, which demanded that he be turned over to them.

Dearmond had been a member of the local police force many years.

KINNAIRD HEAD OF EASTLAND LIONS CLUB

Succeeds Holloway, Resigned, and Tells Members They Must Enlist for Service.

Donald Kinnaird, recently elected first vice-president of the Eastland Lions Club was elected president of the club by the board of directors to succeed Sterling G.
Holloway, recently elected president, who resigned for the reason that he is leaving Eastland to go to Brownwood.

In assuming the duties of president of the club, President Kinnaird told the members that he wished to make the club a service club and not merely to stand and for this purpose to stand and the entire membership stood.

Due to the fact that a change in officers was being made no program had been arranged for today's meeting. The matter of financing the Eastland band was brought up, however, and a committee composed of Lions Madden, Bryant and Gill was appointed to make an investigation and report back to the club. In appointing this committee, President Kinnaird told the club that hereafter it would be his policy to have matters that are to come before the club taken up with the board of directors and by them recommended to the club for action. Another important thing, President Kinnaird said, would be his policy was that of opening and closing meetings promptly and on time.

The entertainment committee appointed by the president is composed of Lions Madden, Campbell and Collie.

The Lions met for the first time today in the roof garden of the Connellise Hotel, which will be their regular meeting place.

New Federal Court Sits In Lubbock

LUBBOCK, June 19.—After fourteen years of consistent work citizens of Lubbock backed by a number of South Plains citizens, and organizations have succeeded in having a new federal court created on the South Plains with headquarters in Lubbock.

Nineteen counties are included in the area to be served by the new court. They are: Bailey, Lamb, Floyd, Hale, Motley, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Dickens, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn,
Garza, Gaines, Dawson, Borden,
Scurry and Kent.

The bill was passed by the House and Senate recently and was signed by President Coolidge May 26. It was first taken up by Lubbock citizens in 1914.

the ship approached, the crowd had become a throng. Workmen rushed from all over the area during their lunch period. Special motor bus parties were arriving momentarily.

News that the flyers had left Burry Port was given out by the United Press. The crowd as-

PRESBYTERIAN AUXILIARY ENTERTAINED

The Presbyterian Auxiliary had a delightful afternoon yesterday at the home of Mrs. Charles Winston, assisted by co-hostess, Mrs. Louis Pitzer. The session was called to order by Mrs. R. L. Perkins, in the absence of the president, Mrs. George Cross, unable to be present, as she was in attendance at the bedside of her mother in Cisco.

The devotional period was the 91st Psalm. Subject, "Safety and Trusting in God, led by Mrs. J. L. Arnold.

The lesson centering about the perils and lives of foreign missionaries, was interestingly presented by Mrs. Hogan, with special talks given by the younger Presbyterian daughters, Barbara Ann Arnold, who told of Robert Morrison, the first missionary to China; Kathleen Cottingham; a description of Mr. and Mrs. Judson, first missionaries in Burma; and Phyllis Johnston, of the first missionary to India, William Kay.

A dainty fruit salad with iced tea was served at close of afternoon. Adjourned to the first week in July, as the auxiliary will hold but one meeting in that month and August.

The entire residence of the hostesses was brilliantly decorated with roses.

Members present: Meses, J. LeRoy Arnold, R. L. Hogan, Harry Sene, J. L. Cottingham, O. H. Moore, Jack Meredith, M. C. Hayes, B. Nemir, J. H. Pangburn, James Horton, R. L. Perkins, Charles Hubbard, G. H. Pillings, Homer, Stewart, E. L. Thomas, Harry Johnston.

Guests were: Meses J. R. Cornish, and B. E. Tate; Mrs. Delaney and Miss Stewart of Fort Worth, the house guests of Mrs. E. L. Stewart.

REV. AND MRS. TURNER OFF FOR CONVENTIONS Rev. W. T. Turner, the pastor of the Baptist church, and Mrs. Turner, left Eastland noon yesterday for Detroit, Michigan, where they will attend the Northern Baptist Convention, and from there proceed to Toronto, Canada, as delegates to the World's Baptist Alliance, which meets only once in five years, and once in ten or fifteen years in North America.

They are delegates of the Eastland Baptist church, which is sending them.

B. W. M. S. CIRCLES HOLD MEETINGS Mrs. V. E. Davis was hostess to the West Circle of the Baptist Woman's Missionary Society yesterday afternoon, with session conducted by the chairman, Mrs. L. J. Lambert, assisted by Mrs. O. A. Cook, with devotional, and reading of first chapter of Romans. The circle will be hosted by Mrs. A. M. Hearn, Monday. The attendance was small and included Meses, Joe Mead, Fred Davis, A. M. Hearn, L. J. Lambert, O. A. Cook, and hostess.

The South Circle met with Mrs. Elso Been, with session in charge of Mrs. R. L. Young, chairman, assisted by Mrs. J. A. Crouch in devotional, using the fifth chapter of Romans. Both hostesses served iced cream and cake at close of a pleasant afternoon. Those present were: Mrs. W. A. Owen, Carl Springerr, J. B. Overton, J. A. Crouch, R. L. Young, and hostess. The circle will meet next Monday with Mrs. J. R. Crouch at 3 p. m. at her residence.

Due to the absence of Mrs. Turner from the city, the society will forego its assembly meeting in the church next Monday and substitute the circle sessions for that day. There was no report from the Central Circle.

PICNIC AND SWIM IN HONOR OF BIRTHDAY In honor of the fifteenth birthday anniversary of Bessie Taylor, a group of young folks was entertained Monday with a picnic at Olden Swimming pool, a swim and dinner. The hostesses, Mrs. Jean Taylor, Mrs. R. M. Taylor and Mrs. Ernest Simmons, planned and carried out a delightful occasion, with plenty of good things to eat and a merry time for all. The guests included: Hazel Tillie, Beth Judkins, Blanche Simmons, Edith Fairbee, Frances Harris, Edith Woods, Margaret McCormick, Polly Rumph, Marjorie, Dalphna Mae Blair, Ella Mae Taylor, Flora and Vela Taylor, Mae Taylor, Bessie Taylor, Audrey Fay Taylor, Lee Jones, Andy J. Taylor, Billy Simmons, Bobby Simmons and Bobby Taylor.

OFFICERS COUNCIL MEETS TONIGHT The officers council of the four B. Y. P. U.'s will meet in the Baptist church cottage tonight, for the transaction of business called by Miss Iva Moore, president of the Eastland Zone, B. Y. T. U. This is the usual monthly council, delayed to this date on account of the recent revival in the church.

About forty officers are expected, who represent the senior, intermediate, and two junior B. Y. P. U.'s.

METHODISTS ENJOY NOVEL MISSION PROGRAM Mrs. I. J. Killough was at home to the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist church yesterday afternoon, and, with her co-hostesses, Mrs. G. W. Bull, and Mrs. June Kimble, made the meeting one long to be remembered in point of hospitality and charming surroundings.

The entire residence was aglow with many beautiful bouquets of wild flowers, arranged in baskets and vases, their deep glowing tints carried out later in the brick cream and iced cake, served at close of a program centering about the general subject, "Healing the Nation," and entitled, "Medical Missions After Fifty Years," arranged and directed by Mrs. Frank Crowell, as a tabloid playlet, adapted from a leaflet, pertaining to lesson.

The session was opened with devotion by Mrs. Frank E. Singleton, and the usual hymns.

The little play was exceedingly clever, and represented the mission room of the hospital, with the furnishings of wrought iron bed and other accessories. The lesson of the manner of treating illness and reaching Christ through missionary physicians and nurses' teaching, was aptly illustrated.

The real characters impersonated were: Mary Bailey Sloan, head physician in Margaret Williamson Hospital, Shanghai, China, played by Mrs. Singleton.

Nurse, Mary Hood, was delineated by Mrs. Castleberry, who enacted the duties of the head of the Nurses' Home and Training School in Shanghai.

Mrs. J. A. Caton impersonated Mrs. Wang Pfo-ng, whose husband was the native doctor in charge of hospital.

Mary Nell Crowell, was the little patient, and Mrs. Frank Crowell characterized Mrs. F. F. Stevens, of Columbia, Mo., president of the Woman's Missionary Council of M. E. Church, South, a visitor engaged in getting data on medical missions in China.

Those present were: Meses, Castleberry, Pettit, McCormick, Milton Lawrence, Coleman, C. E. Sikes, Martin, Harvey, Constable, Singleton, H. C. Williams, H. O. Satterwhite, Mary Huges, Barber, Joe Stephens, Iola Mitchell, guests, Meses, Frank Killough, E. A. Hill, Miss Ruth Mitchell, little Miss Mary Nell Crowell, and Frances Crowell, Olivette Killough, Doris Lawrence, Clare June Kimble and leader of the lesson, Mrs. Crowell, with hostesses, Meses, I. J. Killough, G. W. Bull and June Kimble.

BOOSTER CLASS HAS DELIGHTFUL PICNIC The Booster class in the Methodist church enjoyed a delightful outing and swimming party at Lake Olden, last evening, the regular session night and one for which Mrs. Frank Crowell was chairman.

Everything delicious to eat imaginable was assembled from the picnic baskets, and enjoyed by Meses Ava Matthews, Salie Hunt, Stella Lou Butler, Opal Hunt, Jessie Lee Ligon; Messrs. Hugh Ayres, Huffman, Bruce Butler, Wright Ligon, Clyde Johnson, Mrs. C. G. Stubblefield, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crowell, and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Parker.

The kiddies present were Julia Parker, Mary Nell Crowell, Frances Crowell, and Ray Stubblefield.

COOKING DEMONSTRATION BY COLLEGE STUDENT Mrs. Allen Dabney opened her home to a number of friends, informally, yesterday afternoon, to witness and enjoy the demonstration lesson in keeping with the Better Homes Movement, the summer work of W. P. Murchison, of the A. and M. College, who is being introduced to Eastland friends, by his college chum, Robert Cox.

The delicious foods prepared and cooked in less than one hour, and thoroughly enjoyed by the interested observers, included beef roast, baked apples, potatoes, carrots, and delicious rice.

Those present were: Meses, W. E. Chaney, J. B. Leonard, A. G. Simmons, H. W. Wrye, S. Bartley, Ora B. Jones, L. B. Scott, Ben E. Hamner, L. E. White, W. A. Teatworth, Joe H. Jones, W. S. Poe, Jim Harrell, George Glascock, Jep Finley Little, Misses Beulah Frost, and Ruth Bartley.

MRS. CARLISLE ENTERTAINS SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS The Intermediate department of the Methodist church Sunday school was entertained by Mrs. W. R. Carlisle, with an outing and picnic supper last evening, at the grounds of the Magnolia Pumping station. Tables in the park and the cheerful glow of many electric lights through the trees helped make the outing a delightful one. After a big ball game, the supper was assembled from the generously laden baskets and a real spread laid for the crowd. Sandwiches, fried chicken, potato flakes, olives, delicious cake and lemonade made up the delicious spread. Teachers of the department who accompanied Mrs. Carlisle were Meses, R. C. Ferguson, Joe H. Jones and G. H. Herring, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Spears were guests. Class members included, Nahoma Turner, Nell Sikes, Frances and Opal Harris, Beth Overby, Hazel Tilley, Eva Davis, Margaret Bell Wynne, Marjorie McGough, Corinne Harris, Theolee Roper, Blanche Simmons, Beth Judkins, Edith Farabee, Elbert Turner, George Brogden, Jr., Rob Roy Sparr, Joe Gray, R. S. Harris, Jr., and Hampton Singleton.

MRS. GEORGE K. TAGGART ENTERTAINS WITH CARDS One of the prettiest and delightful card parties of an intimate nature given this season, was that of yesterday afternoon, by Mrs. George K. Taggart, entertaining informally at her home in honor of Mrs. Schenck visiting her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Schenck, and Miss Coyner of San Antonio, who leaves for Marshall, Texas, today, following a pleasant week's visit with Mrs. B. D. Hampton.

Tallies were in the form of ballerines with big bouquets, and bridge appointments and other effects were carried out in tones of rose. Big bouquets of sweet-peas and roses added their attractive note. Delicious iced punch was served throughout the afternoon.

Heads Trainmen

A. F. Whitney, formerly of Chicago, has been elected to succeed W. G. Lee as president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. Lee served as brotherhood chief for 19 years. Whitney was formerly general secretary and treasurer.

By Mrs. Taggart's daughters, assisted by little Miss Belya Dee Hillier.

Guests included Meses, George Davison, W. E. Stallter, W. K. Jackson, Curtis Corzelius, B. L. Hampton, Roland Schenck, E. D. Townsend, Jep Finley Little, Maurice Stallter, Mark M. Norton and honorees.

High score favor for auction, a dainty water color picture of wild flowers, framed, was awarded Mrs. Little.

Mrs. Schenck was presented a charming novelty gilded wicker basket, with passepartout roses on handle, a similar basket gilded in silver tone, going to Miss Coyner.

Dainty refreshments of fruit ices and coconut cakes carrying the color tone, were served.

EASTLAND PARTY IN CROWNING OF QUEEN Eastland was splendidly represented in the coronation of the Queen of West Texas at the pageant of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, in Fort Worth, Monday. Miss Daphna Grisham, Princess of Eastland, had for her escort Tom Matson, and Miss Virginia Weaver, maid of honor, was attended by John Williams of Dallas.

Nine-year-old Jack Irons has been sick several days at the home of his parents, the Wilbert Irons.

Mrs. S. Bartley and daughter, Miss Ruth Bartley, of Springtime, Texas, are guests of Mrs. W. A. Teatworth, whose mother is Mrs. Bartley.

Miss Ruth Ramey, county home demonstration agent, and J. C. Patterson, county farm agent, went to Rising Star today to attend club meetings there.

NEW KEYNOTER WILL RALLY THE HOSTS OF DEMOCRACY AT HOUSTON CONVENTION

In that year John Worth Kern became United States senator from Indiana, and he took Bowers to Washington with him as his secretary, a post Bowers held until 1917.

Bowers got a close-up of national politics and politicians; also, in his spare time during recesses, he got acquainted with the congressional library beginning there the research that later was to bear fruit in his histories.

In 1917 he returned to Indiana to become editor of the Fort Wayne Journal-Gazette. He held that post until 1923, and waged many a political battle with the opposition paper, the News-Sentinel. The Journal-Gazette, of course, was a democratic paper, and Bowers attracted considerable repute by his party services.

So, in 1923, the New York Evening World took him as editorial writer. Bowers went to New York far removed from Hoosier politics; and while his position required him to become familiar with New York politics and to express his opinion thereon, it might have seemed to his friends that he had left active political life.

This impression probably was strengthened when he began to attain fame as an author. In 1916, while browsing through the congressional library, he had gathered the data for his first book, "Irish Orators." Two years later he had written a biography of Senator Kern. In New York his talent really came to flower in two books that gained large circulation. The first was "Party Battles of the Jackson Period; the second, "Jefferson and Hamilton—the Struggle for Democracy in America."

Democratic leaders in New York knew him as an exceptionally able, clear-thinking speaker, and it was their influence that made him Jackson Day speaker last winter. His speech there, delivered with the fire of a polished orator, made his selection as keynoter at Houston practically a foregone conclusion.

His speech in Houston will be heard by millions all over the United States, by means of the radio.

MOM'N POP

MOM GOT A GIANT THRILL THE DAY SHE HEARD THAT BRUCE DANGERFIELD, AN OLD GIRLHOOD SWEETHEART, AND RIVAL OF POP'S, WAS RETURNING AFTER 12 YEARS.

YOU'D NEVER GUESS WHO'S COMING! BRUCE - DANGERFIELD! WON'T IT BE GREAT TO SEE HIM?

WHAT? THAT CAKE-EATER? WE'LL BE AS WELCOME AS A CRY FOR HELP, AS FAR AS I AM CONCERNED.

THE NEWS CAME THROUGH A LETTER FROM BRUCE TO MRS. SNOOP, HIS COUSIN, AND WHEN MOM IDENTIFIED HIM AS HER ROMEO OF OLD, MRS. SNOOP MADE A GOOD STORY OUT OF IT TO THE NEIGHBORS.

YOU SHOULD HAVE HEARD HER CRY ON WHEN I READ THE LETTER. YOU'D NEVER SUSPECT THAT SHE HAD A PERFECTLY GOOD HUSBAND.

-AND THREE CHILDREN!

MOM WILL BE PLAYING WITH FIRE.

OF COURSE, THE SAME NEIGHBORS ABOUT-FACE AND MES HER ON, SEEING THE ROMANTIC POSSIBILITIES OF HER RETURNING ROMEO.

WHO WOULDN'T BE A LITTLE BIT EXCITED? THE MEMOIR OF GIRLHOOD LOVES AND ROMANCES ALWAYS STICKS.

YOU'LL WANE POP CRAZY, HE'LL BE SO JEALOUS!

WELL, I'LL BET IF I HAD MARRIED BRUCE -

COULD I LIKE TO LAY MY HANDS ON THAT BABY!

HOW DARLING AND ROMANTIC!

I WISH IT WERE ME, I'D BE THRILLED TO DEATH.

AND POOR POP HAS BEEN HAVING THIS PITCHED AT HIM FOR A WEEK.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

THE LITTLE BOY, WHOM FRECKLES RESCUED FROM DROWNING, HAS TURNED OUT TO BE THE CANNIBAL CHIEF'S SON - TO SHOW HIS GRATITUDE TO FRECKLES AND BETTY, THE CHIEF HAS TAKEN THEM INTO HIS VILLAGE AND HAS SPOONERED THEM WITH GIFTS OF ALL KINDS - IN THIS SAME VILLAGE IS UNCLE HARRY - OF COURSE NEITHER KNOWS THAT THE OTHER IS HERE.

ALL OF THESE THINGS THEY'VE GIVEN US ARE ANWFUL NICE, BUT I HOPE THEY GIVE US A BOAT, OR SOMETHING, SO I CAN KEEP ON LOOKING FOR MY UNCLE HARRY - RIGHT NOW I'D RATHER HAVE HIM THAN ANYTHING ELSE IN THE WORLD!

YOU SAW A MONKEY THAT LOOKED LIKE BOBO? YOU MUST REMEMBER THERE ARE MILLIONS OF MONKEYS OUT HERE!! ARE YOU POSITIVE, AIGGINS?

YES SIR - I'D SWEAR TO IT THAT THIS MONKEY LOOKED EXACTLY LIKE HIM, AND THAT HE HAD A FEZ ON HIS HEAD.

"Please—open the door," she begged, hardly above a whisper.

"Not yet," he refused; "not until I tell you something more about love, my old one."

He came toward her and Virginia stepped back to escape his outstretched hands. She looked beyond him at the door but he was still too near to her for her to get past him.

"Don't be alarmed," he said, observing her fright. "I shall do nothing but talk to you and as you have expressed your opinion of me and Clara's you must be fair enough to hear what I have to say."

Virginia retreated another step. This brought her to a chair and she sank into it helplessly.

"You think you know what love is," Dean sneered. "Why, you haven't even tasted life yet. And you're willing to let a foolish infatuation for a young upstart rob you of your birthright, the only kind of life you know how to live. I hoped you would come to your senses in time and get rid of him, but since matters have been precipitated by Clara's blundering you might as well know that I intended to offer you a chance to live as you were reared, in luxury, before you could marry that jackanapes."

"Oh, you are even worse than I thought," Virginia cried furiously. "I guessed you must think I'd listen to such a horrid proposal, but I never dreamed that you would make it."

"Then you must be a trifle thick, my dear," Dean returned smoothly, not at all offended. "For it isn't so absurd as you seem to think. You are the prettiest girl I know, and a charming one. I'm bored with smart women who hunt big game in the Social Register. And you've lost a fortune. That puts each of us in need of the other. It's perhaps a little drawback that I'm not your age, but nothing is perfect in this world, and I assure you I've had younger girls than you are literally thrown at my head by mothers I've known since their debuts."

He stood before her now, his case of manner completely restored and his voice back to its normal, agreeable accents. He even permitted a smile to rest lightly upon his thin-cut lips.

"You and Clara both seem to have suffered at the hands of fortune hunters," Virginia said scornfully. "But if you find it so easy to buy what you want—a wife that is young and pretty—why have you chosen to insult me with the offer?"

"Because, my dear, you are more than young and pretty. You're something that I want above all else in the world. You see, you have the power to stir my imagination," he added candidly.

Virginia flushed painfully under the direct gaze he sent upon her. Her temples throbbed with the rush of blood to her head and she was conscious for the first time in her life that desire could be degrading.

"I wouldn't marry you if I were starving," she cried, jumping to her feet. Dean let her get to the door before he answered.

"But I think you would redeem your father's honor," he said slowly.

Galloway Named To Manage Wichita Falls Ball Club

By United Press
DALLAS, June 18.—Carl Williams, for two years manager of the Wichita Falls baseball club, resigned today, President Alvin Gardner, of the Wichita Falls club, announced here.

James Galloway, former Dallas and Beaumont manager, has been appointed to Williams' post and will take charge of the club at once. Williams said ill health was the reason of his resignation.

Gardner said relations between Williams and officials of the club had never been anything but pleasant.

Siamese Prince Urges Youths To Go To U. S. Schools

By United Press
BANGKOK, Siam, June 17.—Siam will be well advised to take America as a model in all things, H. R. H. Prince Svasti declared in speaking before a gathering of Siam students educated at universities of the United States.

Although a graduate of Oxford himself, Prince Svasti—father of the Queen of Siam and one of the most progressive members of the royal family—believes in American education and has three sons in American schools.

In the course of his address, the prince voiced the wish that Siam had more men trained not only in American schools, but also in American science and business methods.

"There is a real and distinct American spirit," he continued, "and I hope that we in Siam will take that spirit to our hearts."

"It is a spirit of high courage and perseverance, a spirit of getting things done regardless of obstacles. The American mind is a questioning mind, delving into the why and wherefores of everything—and finding an answer. The American mind takes nothing for granted—it is always seeking a better way of doing things."

"Siam should follow in the footsteps of America, and in saying this I am repeating the thoughts of his majesty the king. Siam today is in the state of the great Mississippi valley a century ago—awaiting full development—and we would do well to pursue our task in the spirit which impelled American pioneers to transform forests and waste places into thriving cities and communities. Ours is the advantage, since we can follow the path which America has already laid out for us."

"In international relations, too, our path lies with that of America. Ours is a spirit of friendliness to all peoples. We wish to avoid any entanglements. We wish only to be left in peace to pursue the development of our country."

"It was the United States who first recognized Siam as a sister among the nations by abandoning extraterritoriality. And we hope that we shall always have American support in our desire for peace and independence."

"I hope that America will learn to know Siam better. I hope that through an increased knowledge of our country, America will come to consider us as her sister of the east."

"I hope that more Siamese students will go to American colleges and universities, and I should like to see the day when our government might subsidize not only students, but also bright young business men who might go to America to study commercial methods there."

"In every way—in science, in education, in trade and in sympathy, I want to see us establish close contact with America."

Rotarians Gather In Minneapolis

By United Press
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 18.—Registrations at the 19th annual Rotary International convention were swelled to approximately 14,600 with the arrival of 20 special train loads of delegates.

Sir Donald Maclean of London headed a delegation of 238 members from European countries. Sir Donald, one of the principal convention speakers, will address the assembly on Wednesday.

Hoover Hailed As Farmers' Friend

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Herbert Hoover was hailed as the ideal farm candidate today by Senator Oddie, Republican, Nevada, one of the first senators to return to his office from the Kansas City convention.

"The farm problem is fundamentally an economic problem. Hoover is a great economist, as great as a great engineer. If anyone can solve the farm prob-

Earthquake Expert Explains How He Makes Predictions

FARENZA, June 15.—Raffaello Bendani, "the earthquake man," told in an exclusive interview with the United Press the story of how he became a seismological expert.

By trade a cabinet-maker and wood-carver, Bendani spent much of his time in the study of physics, astronomy and geography, but it was the famous Messina earthquake in 1908 that set him thinking of the possibilities of forecasting the seismic disturbances.

He now asserts that he can infallibly forecast the date and time of any earthquake in the world, though at present he can only state the region and not the precise locality where trouble may be expected.

Signor Bendani's laboratory is in his own house, and he has put most of it together with his own hands. For his first seismograph, constructed by himself, he was obliged to use for the counterpoise, a bust of Seneca which had remained with him as a relic of his school days.

Speaking of his life's work he said, "I have examined the reports of 20,000 earthquakes that have occurred throughout the world and have foretold the coming of hundreds and hundreds."

The little cabinet-maker has volumes of press-clippings from nearly every civilized country in the world in which his predictions are borne out by facts.

His correspondence is voluminous and includes requests from timid folk for a reassuring word that their part of the world is not in danger from earthquakes, letters of congratulation, of disapproval and offers of marriage.

With regard to future earthquakes, Signor Bendani's predictions are as follows: seismic disturbances during June in Northern China and the eastern part of Siberia. Light earthquakes in Asia Minor and Thrace. The Sandia lakes and Southwest Mexico are zones where seismic disturbances will occur. In Italy there is nothing in view at present.

Texas Mother Knew Answer

"Yes sir, I am certainly proud of my little boy," says Mrs. J. S. Bellah, 104 Huff Ave., San Antonio. "He's the picture of health as you can see, and I feel like he'll always be that way as long as I can get California Fig Syrup. I have used it with him ever since he was a year old. I knew what to give him for his colds and his feverish, upset spells because Mother used California Fig Syrup with all of us as children. I have used it freely with my baby and he loves it. It always fixes him up, quick."

In many homes, like this, the third and fourth generations are using pure, wholesome California Fig Syrup because it has never failed to do what is expected of it. Nothing so quickly and thoroughly purges a child's system of the soiling waste which keeps him cross, feverish, headachy, bilious, half-sick, with coated tongue, bad breath and no appetite or energy as long as it is allowed to remain in the little stomach and bowels. Fig Syrup gives tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act as Nature intends them to do, and helps build up and strengthen weak, pale and underweight children. Over four million bottles used a year shows its popularity. The genuine, endorsed by physicians for 50 years, always bears the word "California."

Mat Warriors Expected To Put On Thrilling Bouts Tonight At Elks Club

BILLY EDWARDS, WELTERWEIGHT WRESTLER

In addition to the main event which between Kid Leon, Dallas wrestler, and Joe Chastain, Oklahoma star, which is carded for Tuesday night at the Elks Club, promoter Jimmie McLemore will offer as a semi-final bout a one-fall match between two of the foremost welterweight grapplers in the profession.

The welterweight grapplers are Leo Fox, of Dallas, and Bobby Edwards, the famous Kansas City leadlock star.

Edwards has appeared here one time before. He came here as a substitute for Bernard Cook when Billy Fox was running the wrestling bouts here. Leo objected to go under the name of Cook but the promoter had insisted on it, so Leo did not object until after it was too late. Now that McLemore has approached him with an offer to wrestle here Fox comes out and demands that he be matched here under his right name.

Edwards is one of the world's best welterweights, ranking as the foremost contender for the crown having wrestled Jack Reynolds, world's welterweight champion two years to a draw only two weeks ago. Bobby specializes on a headlock called "the chiropractic headlock" rated by experts to be the most terrible kind of a hold. This hold was invented and taught to Bobby by his famous brother, Billy Edwards, famous Kansas City roughhouse light heavyweight who formerly held the light heavyweight title of the world.

With two such matches as these to offer fans the promoter is of the opinion that Eastland fans will witness one of the best all round card ever offered here.

Kid Leon is in hard training for his match with Chastain. The Oklahoma boy is expected to arrive Monday morning from Okmulgee and says that he is determined to pin Leon's shoulders to the mat in short order.

Leon is not expected here until Tuesday morning. He will drive through from Dallas.

Hooks and Slides

Let's Have One More!
Ted Lewis is back in the United States doing business in the same old line and some original promoter, with an eye for novelty, might match him with that distinguished old gentleman of New York and Florida, Jack Brown.

Britton and Lewis met only 22 times during their more active days and from the looks of them they might be able to do about 10 more numbers before real old age comes upon them.

The Britton-Lewis fights were one of the pet subjects for the vineville hams and the comic gag writers for years, but the customers always fell for them.

Talking about them not long ago, Dan Morgan, Britton's manager, recalled that the two fighters first hit the big dough when they got $1600 a piece in Canton. Then they jumped up to $7000 a piece in Jersey. Then to $16,000 a piece for the last fight in New York.

Lewis hadn't divorced his old pal and gone back to England they could have gotten 25 grand each for another fight in New York, Morgan said.

Well, of all things!
After having seen practically all the great English fighters, Morgan insists that Lewis was the greatest of all of them—and he says there can be no doubt that he was one of the meanest and dirtiest fighters that ever lived.

"The pet piece of strategy," Morgan said, "was to pull his hands out of the opening hand-holds and sneak over a stiffener on the jaw of some green kid. He usually got away with it but Carpentier gave him some of his own medicine and nearly killed him. And Lewis would have won that fight if Carp hadn't sneaked one on him in a break."

Lewis Had More Fun.
Lewis made a barrel of dough in his good days but he hasn't a dime now. He always was a free spender and he associated with a bunch of big dough young nobility in London's bohemian society circles. He was barred from England for some time because of an income tax jam but he finally had it settled.

Britton made more money than Lewis and he never threw any of it away but he is not so well fixed now if he is not actually broke. His dough went in the Florida bubble.

Let Him Have It.
A Princeton golfer hit a brassie shot the other day. The ball hit a swallow and was deflected right on the green and the shooter scored a birdie four. The swallow was killed by the golfer wasn't when he told the story.

It's tough on the two magnates who will have to stagger through the remainder of the season on regular business. But the American league already has had its "crocial series." The Yanks knocked the "crocial" out of the A's in the very first one.

Makers of the winter books might give you a price now on the Yanks in the 1930 race.

Ancient Statue Recovered From Waters of Tiber

ROME, June 15.—The head of a colossal statue of Pope Paul IV which lay in the bed of the Tiber for centuries opposite the papal castle of St. Angelo has been recovered and identified.

Pope Paul IV was bitterly detested by the Romans, and when it was known that he was dying the populace in its rage pulled down all the statues and heraldic emblems of the Pope, including the huge statue more than 20 feet high which stood in the Castle St. Angelo. The head of the statue was severed from the trunk and rolled around the streets of Rome by a jeering crowd until it was finally cast into the Tiber.

Some years ago, during the dredging operations, the head of the statue was recovered, but it has only now been identified by General Borgatti, director of the military museum in Castle St. Angelo with a nasal tara. General Borgatti suspected it to be the head of the statue of the hated pope. Only one statue of this pope is existent in Rome in an ancient patrician palace.

Big Aid to Cubs

Mickey McGuire, the young second baseman of the Chicago Cubs who has made "Sparky" Adams' absence unnoticed, McGuire once tried out with the Giants, but was released because he was said to be weak physically. But when the Cubs traded Adams to the Pirates this winter, Joe McCarthy got hold of McGuire, and he has made good on the job.

Tariff On Oil Is Urged As Remedy To Halt Surplus

AUSTIN, June 15.—The state railroad commission, which has been pro rating a fixed amount of oil production in the Winkler field of West Texas had the question of their power to do so put squarely up to them in the hearing this week on proposed similar pro rata orders for the Yates field.

The commission prefaced its Winkler field order on the ground that it was to prevent waste.

J. C. Adams of the Transcontinental Oil company told the commission that to say a field should produce so much oil and then pro rate it was not a practical method of preventing waste. If any individual well is actually wasting oil by its method of production, the commission already has the power to stop that waste without pro rating, Adams pointed out.

Adams declared that the real difficulty is that foreign oil is coming in that amounts to the distress production which the commission is trying to abate.

His remedy is a tariff on oil. Adams argued that in any event there is no ground for the state to step in and put forth unchangeable rules so long as a voluntary pro rating in the field is getting results by its flexible methods.

That most of the operators have made a pro rata agreement was boldly admitted at the hearing.

though Attorney General Pollard was present. This was taken to indicate the operators believe the anti-trust law cannot be applied to oil production. The agreement expires June 30.

Another pointed question asked by the opponents of the pro rata order was to why a production as low as five percent of the estimated capacity be put on the Yates field while oil production is not similarly curtailed in other sections.

The rule should be the same for all fields, was Adams declaration. The situation in the Yates field is further complicated by river bed leases from the state. Holders of these leases point out that the legislature has laid down rules for such leases and mildly inquire how the commission is going to consider them.

Another poser put to commission was how to justify a pro rata agreement on acreage basis when owners of large acreages can take their full allotment from wells closest to wells of owners of small tracts, thus gradually draining the small tracts.

Three Cow Needs Three Milkings Daily
NORFOLK, June 15.—Three milkings a day are required to handle the milk production of a Holstein cow owned by the Ponca valley farm at Monowi. The cow gives 100 pounds of milk every 24 hours. She is the grandmother of the famed Sir Pieterje Ormsby Mercedes, 37th.

A 28-month-old heifer on the same farm produces an average of 62 pounds of milk every day. The cow produces 12 1/2 half gallons of milk a day and a heifer eight gallons.

Nature, in its wonderful way, has done its part when it produces for Lucky Strikes the best of tobaccos that can be grown; but these tobaccos are vastly improved when toasted. It is not surprising that 20,679 doctors say that Lucky Strikes are less irritating to the throat.

PLAINVIEW TO HAVE 8-STORY HILTON HOTEL

Contract Placed By C. N. Hilton for Structure Having 110 Room With Bath.

Special to the Telegram. DALLAS, June 19.—With Henry Coke Knight, Dallas architect assigned to draw plans for the proposed new Hilton Hotel at Plainview, construction will start within sixty days, C. N. Hilton, president of the Hilton Hotels, said Saturday.

Contract for the hotel, which will be the fifth in the Hilton Chain of Texas hotels, was signed Friday. It will be an eight-story building located at Austin and Sixth streets and will contain 110 rooms with baths, a banquet room, private dining rooms, mezzanine, coffee shop, and five stores.

Mr. Hilton also announced that the third hotel in the Hilton chain, at Waco, would be formally opened July 3, with Sidney G. Abbott, one time assistant to Otto Herold, president of the old Oriental Hotel in Dallas, and former manager of both the Dallas Athletic and the University Clubs, as managing director. The building is of twelve stories, covering property 100x165 feet in size at the corner of Fourth and Austin streets.

The ground floor of the building contains the hotel lobby, the hotel offices, a coffee room, a cafe, a drug store, a tailor, a barber shop and a haberdasher. The mezzanine contains a lounge, a hall room, private dining rooms and four special guest rooms. A special kitchen has been constructed for the service of the private dining rooms.

Several suites have been constructed in the hotel, which contains 200 rooms, each with bath, circulating ice water, ceiling fan and telephone. The furnishings are in walnut.

Bids for the construction of the fourth hotel in the chain, that at San Angelo, will be opened in the Dallas offices Thursday.

SLATON BAND TO PLAY IN EASTLAND TUESDAY

Special to the Telegram. SLATON, June 16.—Slaton's delegation to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention in Fort Worth, June 18-20, will leave Slaton by automobile caravan-early Sunday, June 17, going via Abilene, Eastland and Mineral Wells. The party will include the Slaton Band, with 34 members, and about an equal number of Slaton business men. Upon arrival at Eastland Sunday afternoon, the Slaton Band will give a short concert before proceeding to Fort Worth.

Mexico's Worst Bandit Proves Big Source of Trouble

MEXICO CITY.—With the returns still incomplete it looks as though "El Catorce," who might be described as the man nobody knows, would win the title of "Mexico's worst bandit."

In the central states of Jalisco, Michoacan, Colima and Guanajuato, El Satorce, deservedly or not, has through his deeds both imaginary and real dwarfed to extinction all other reputations and advertised himself to almost national fame.

El Catorce is blamed for everything these days in the way of bandit or revolutionary activity, which is sometimes filling a large order. Now and then this bandit is said to be only 20 or 30, sometimes several hundred. Frequently Catorce is killed or wounded or otherwise exterminated on paper. Like a villain in a movie serial, however, he always turns up in the next episode as if by force of habit so as not to spoil the plot.

The words "el catorce" mean "the fourteen." The urge to explain the origin of that name by a hair raising, bloody account is perhaps one of the most tempting that ever confronted a conscientious correspondent.

One may be sure, however, that the real version would be better than anything one could invent, so why bother?

In the capital it is said that El Catorce got his name in one of two ways. One was that he first sprang into prominence by making a railway attack at a milepost labeled "Fourteen." The other is that Catorce was once personally responsible for the execution of 14 prisoners. A smoking revolver in his hand, Catorce put away these 14 behind a convenient hillside—a woodland re-encantment of what happened to the famous 14 found on a dead man's chest.

Despite his fame, however, most persons do not believe that El Catorce is worthy to be compared with Francisco Villa. Making due allowances for prejudice and the difference in the Spanish and English languages, there are some who describe him as "a bum."

The only question is whether Catorce has been present on all the occasions on which he is said to have been. If he was, he cannot be dismissed so lightly. Catorce is said to have been responsible for the Guadalajara train holdup in April, 1927, one of the most horrible events of its kind. More than a hundred persons were killed or injured and one man whose entire family had been wiped out was brought to the capital insane. Wholesale disasters of this magnitude are rare in Mexico even in the most dangerous districts and this incident alone would have been enough to make Catorce renowned.

More recently El Catorce is said to have been one of the rebel leaders in a battle at San Francisco del Rincon, state of Jalisco, in which it was unofficially reported that 120 revolutionaries were killed.

Catorce's command of 200 was nearly wiped out in a battle the latter part of May in the state of Coahuila, according to the newspaper El Sol, which says that Catorce himself was badly wounded. Only night and rough country in which the battle occurred saved Catorce from falling into the hands of the federals, this account says.

Being from the battleground, Catorce's men are said to have met accidentally a band of pilgrims returning from the Shrine of Guadalupe and whom they mistakenly believed to be federal soldiers. Practically all were killed on the spot and their bodies strung on trees lining the highways as an example to anyone who should oppose Catorce.

Although all the evidence seems to show that El Catorce comes under the bandit classification rather than that of a rebel, he has frequently been mentioned in connection with the so-called Catholic rebel activities. The Catholic forces in Guadalajara are said to have aided him in obtaining arms and supplies and Catorce, it is rumored, is not afraid to go into a city in disguise for the purpose of conferring with his friends.

All internal conflicts in Mexico, different sides have made use of bandits and it is possible that if there is any link between Catorce and what the government terms activities of the Catholic separatists, it is on a business basis.

Cuba's Executioner Granted Discharge

HAVANA, Cuba, June 16.—Cuba's "minister of executions," Francisco de Paula Romero, who, during the past two years has supervised the execution of nine persons on the garrote, has been discharged from the national penitentiary as a reward for the faithful performance of his duties.

Romero, serving a twenty year sentence for murder, two years ago consented to turn the fatal lever of the garrote Cuba's medieval means of executing persons condemned to death. For each death penalty carried out Romero received $16 gold and a number of months off of his own term of imprisonment.

Romero has announced his intention of returning to eastern Cuba and becoming a farmer.

NASH MOTORS HAVE NEW CAR TO INTRODUCE

Revolutionary Models To Be Shown Next Thursday for First Time.

KENOSHA, Wis., June 18.—That the traditional business uncertainty of a presidential election year has failed to impress leaders of the automobile industry or to affect the vast preparations for expansion in 1928 and 1929 became apparent today when officials of the Nash Motors company consented to partially reveal their plans for the introduction on Thursday, June 21, of the new and revolutionary Nash cars.

Ordearly activities of the big Nash organizations in Kenosha, Kennebec, and Milwaukee have been stepped up to maximum speed in the last month and several thousand of the handsome new models which have been the center of industrial curiosity and speculation recently, are well on their way to every market center in the United States for their initial displays.

Whole trainloads of the new cars, carefully guarded still against the possibility of revealing Nash construction secrets before the announcement date, are moving away from the plants daily to supply dealers throughout the world with models for this, the most spectacular Nash introduction in company history. Sales floors are being cleared rapidly for the unique public presentation, which promises to set new interest records for the industry, and the Nash merchandizing organization everywhere is laboring overtime in the preparation of display settings which will make picturesque frames for the new mechanical masterpieces.

At factory headquarters in Kenosha today the sales department was making every effort to fill telegraph orders from dealers who have been bombarded by old Nash enthusiasts for immediate delivery of new models in spite of the fact that none of the purchasers and few of the dealers had actually seen the cars they are so eager to acquire. The wires were coming in from every point on the compass and some of them disclosed a lively rivalry among dealers.

Further revelations of the construction and design of the new models indicate that one of the most interesting features of their power plants will be a new and greatly advanced use of new engineering principles in relation to a score of mechanical innovations to improve operating control and riding comforts. The models, according to engineers, combine unequalled "performance" with a beauty in line never before achieved in their field.

The new bodies are said to be salient features of the cars. They are the result of more than a year's co-operative effort on the part of Nash engineers and Seaman coach-builders, who have succeeded in perfecting co-ordinating body and classic design.

Although company officials declined today to make public further details of construction, they declared that American automobile fans may expect the thrill of the season next Thursday when the complete public showing will be staged in every city and town of the country.

5 Girls Tell What They Would Do With $250,000 In Year

M'COOK, Neb.—Asked what they would do if they were given a year to live and $250,000, four out of five local girls answered they would spend their time in travel. The fifth, a nurse, said she would launch an extensive public health campaign over the country. She said she would expect no return except the satisfaction of knowing that there would be an improvement in the boys and girls of the future.

The cases of the five Newark, N. J., young women who sued to obtain $250,000 each from a radium paint company for which they worked, because of poisoning they received was outlined to the McCook girls by a newspaper reporter. The Newark young woman, it was explained, were given 12 months to live.

The first girl interviewed—a telephone operator—said she would leave part of her money to an orphan asylum and spend the rest in world travel. The second—a stenographer—would buy a good supply of beautiful gowns and set out for France, Italy, England and the Orient. She would stop at Monte Carlo, Cairo and London in Europe and spend much of her time in the United States in New York City.

The third young woman—a waitress—would see the wonders of California and then take a trip around the world. The fourth—a county judge's daughter—would attend the best of grand operas all over the world and make a study of how grand opera singers achieve fame.

The fifth—a nurse—thought it selfish to spend all the money on herself. She would do what she could toward starting an extensive health campaign in this country; and furthermore, she would expect no monetary return.

He has won fame in yellow fever research and during the World War was director of medicine for the A. E. F.

Goat Raisers To Meet July 24-26

SAN ANGELO, June 19.—The conventions committee of the San Angelo Board of City Development is making extensive plans for the entertainment of members of the Sheep & Goat Raisers' Association of Texas who will gather in convention here on July 24, 25, and 26.

Outdoor dances, dinner and banquet programs, baseball, golfing, polo, other forms of athletics, swimming and boating in the placid waters of the Concho rivers and other entertainment features are being arranged, making the program a most attractive one and giving room to the belief that a new attendance mark will be approached at the San Angelo Convention.

"Dead" 13 Years Soldier Returns

ROME, June 16.—After nearly 13 years' silence, during which time he was supposed to be dead, Dionigi Moduschi, an Italian soldier taken prisoner by the Austrians, has reappeared.

He walked into the Italian embassy at Moscow the other day, and begged the authorities to communicate with the Rome foreign office in order to find his relations and inform them that he is alive.

OIL SHALE DEPOSITS ON ESTONIA COAST

Extend From Near Capital, Tallinn To Eastern Frontier. Billions of Tons In Sight.

LONDON.—The oil shale deposits in Estonia, which are now being operated by a Swedish concern, Emissions Institute, A. B., extend from within about 30 miles of the capital, Tallinn, right up to the eastern frontier, the principal field being at Kohla, on the railway between Tallinn and Lemnigrad. The shale is present in five strata each of several feet in thickness, with bands of limestone in between, and it is estimated that some 5,000,000,000 tons have been located.

Exploitation of these deposits was first begun in 1916, when the Tsarist Government of Russia found itself faced with a serious shortage of fuel. When the Estonian Republic came into being it took over the workings, which have been operated on a continually growing scale ever since, the output having gone up from 9650 tons in 1918-19 to something in the neighborhood of 300,000 tons.

Many of the Estonian factories burn the oil shale in its raw state, and all the locomotives on the broad gauge railways of the country use it thus. One of the disadvantages is the large amount of ash—over one-third of the total weight of the fuel—and it is a common sight to see large yellow dumps of it by the side of the permanent way in Estonian stations. It has been discovered, however, that this ash contains nearly all the elements of Portland cement, and works have been established in which the residue of the oil shale is being successfully used for the manufacture of this product.

Some 5 concessions have been taken up in connection with the Estonian shale oil deposits, or rented an area from the Government. The block of the Emissions Institute is situated about halfway between Kohla and Narvo, Estonia's eastern frontier station. Two large concessions were taken up by the New Consolidated Goldfields, Ltd. These are situated some 10 to 20 miles south of the main railway and a similar distance to the north of Lake Peipus. Some of the shale oil is being worked by large consumers in Estonia but the largest producer hitherto has been the state at and near Kohla.

At the outset, most of the deposits were worked on the surface, but this meant that work had to be discontinued during the winter months when the ground is generally covered with snow. Much of the exploitation is now being carried on underground, where incidentally the seams have a higher percentage of oil. Hitherto most of the shale has been used in its raw state, but as early as 1925 crude oil distilled from the shale was successfully used in Estonian ships.

Three New Wells In Northwest Eubank Extension Brings Total of Producing Wells To Fourteen

CROSS PLAINS, June 19.—The addition of three producers to the northwest extension of the Eubank pool brings the total of producing wells to 14 in this area.

Drilling in the extreme south end of a high hill Cranfill & Reynolds touched the sand at 1252 feet on their No. A-4 J. B. Eubank and after having drilled 14 feet of sand it began flowing at the rate of 29 barrels hourly. The first two feet of sand was very hard but softened and gas showed up. After drilling four feet farther into the sand the oil began to rise and started flowing natural at five minute intervals.

After failing to find the Fry sand, the Bradstreet-Mahstedt No. 2 J. B. Eubank was plugged back to the Cross Cut sand, given a 40 quart shot, and is now standing better than 200 feet of oil in the hole. It is estimated that it will make 15 to 20 barrels when placed on the pump.

Offsetting to the south the Sinclair Oil company has just drilled its No. 2 Eubank and tests show it to be placing 125 barrels in storage daily. Rigs have been moved in and work started on two tests offsetting producing wells. Cranfill & Reynolds are well under way on their No. 5-A Eubank which is 300 feet north of their No. 1-A producer. Bradstreet-Mahstedt have started their third well on location north of their discovery well.

The Sinclair Oil company is only a few feet off the sand and should drill in in the early part of the coming week.

R. E. Pitts and George Wilson have a small amount of oil in their wildcat four miles south of Cross Plains at a depth of 850 feet. Several bailers of live oil were obtained when a lime formation was drilled. A number of nearby leases have been made and several tests will be made in this vicinity soon. The discovery of oil in a lime formation at this shallow depth is very unusual in this part of the state and many are inclined to believe that it is seeping into the lime from some sand which may be picked up when other tests are made nearby.

Tom Bryant has succeeded in drilling up the bailer which was dropped into the hole at 2000 feet and work is progressing nicely on this deep test.

Dude Ranch Idea Spreads to Florida

MIAMI, Fla., June 16.—The "dude ranch" idea is growing in popularity here. The first such ranch in Florida will open here in the fall with all the wild west trimmings, including bucking bronchos, cow-punchers and cattle roundups. The ranch will be under the supervision of James H. Bright, prominent Florida developer, and Zack Miller, rancher, circus man and cattle dealer. The stables will include 75 horses, many of which have yet to be saddle-broke. All the stock has been imported from Wyoming.

Varicose Veins Reduced or Money Back

Simple Home Treatment That Is Giving Amazing Results. If you have varicose veins or bunches you can start today to bring them back to normal size, and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil at any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning to the enlarged veins. It is very powerful and penetrating. After a few days' treatment the veins will begin to grow smaller and by regular use will soon reduce to normal size. People who want to reduce varicose veins, or get rid of eczema, ulcers, or piles in a few days should not hesitate to get a bottle at once. It is such a powerful, penetrating antiseptic oil that a small bottle lasts a long time. Any pharmacy can supply you, Toombs & Richardson sells lots of it.

To turn a belt right side out that you have stitched on the wrong side, pine a safety pin on one end and use it as a bodkin.

Dallas To Have 300 Square Miles In New Metropolitan Area With Total Population of About 375,000

Special to the Telegram
DALLAS, June 19.—The Chamber of Commerce completed work whereby Dallas will be expanded into a metropolitan district, including in its area of 300 square miles the 27.5 square miles in the present corporate limits and also including in the district to be formed 375,000 inhabitants, as compared with the 291,000 people now living within the city's corporate boundaries.

The study was made on request of the United States Census Bureau, since that organization plans to and undoubtedly will officially create the metropolitan district and include it in its 1930 population figures, according to Robert J. Smith of the chamber. Its effect, Mr. Smith said, will be formally to designate those portions of Dallas county that are thickly populated but not a part of the city, as urban and as integral parts of Dallas.

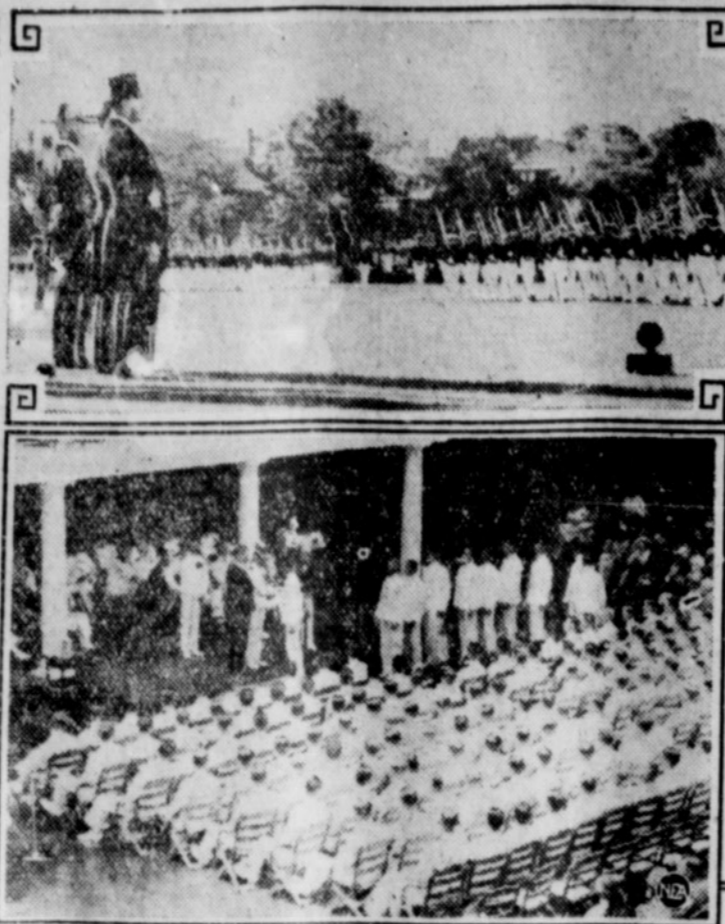

Appeal to Industry
He pointed out that save for a meaningless boundary, large portions of Dallas county outside the city limits are properly a portion of the city and are entirely urban in all their characteristics. Under the present arrangement Dallas is officially presented to the Nation by the Government and by the Chamber of Commerce as a city of 291,000, when as a matter of fact nothing but arbitrary lines prevent it from being classed as a city of 375,000. A much greater appeal to industry could be made, Mr. Smith said, if Dallas could be presented as a metropolitan district rather than as it is now presented.

The new area approaches Duncanville and Hutchens on the south, takes in Mesquite, New Hope, Rowlett, Garland and Sachse on the east and indeed proceeds somewhat further east than these towns, while on the north Richardson and Carrollton are included and on the west Irving and Grand Prairie.

Defining the area more closely, the southern boundary of Justice Precinct No. 7, forms the southern boundary of the new district while the eastern boundary of the precinct serves as a slight portion of the new area's eastern limits. Continuing on the east another segment of the new district's boundary is identical with the what may be termed the southeast boundary to Precinct No. 1. The outer lines of Precinct No. 3 furnish the southeast boundaries of the metropolitan district, as well as the eastern and a portion of the northern boundaries. The remainder of the northern boundary is defined by the northern limits of Precinct No. 2, the western side of this precinct furnishing a portion of the metropolitan district's western limit, the remainder of the new district's western limits being defined by the northwest boundary of Precinct No. 1, and the western limits of Precinct No. 7. The southwest boundary of the new area is defined by the northern boundary of Precinct No. 7.

The Making of American Ensigns

"Pass in review!" With Secretary of the Navy Wilbur and other high officials looking on, the midshipmen of the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis are pictured, upper left, as they paraded at the commencement day exercises. Below is the graduating class, all in immaculate whites, receiving their diplomas from Mr. Wilbur. Then came the biggest thrill of all, scores of very private little ceremonies like this one caught by the camera. Miss Louise Clow, of Annapolis, pins on the brand new epaulettes that make H. F. Ransford of Iowa, an ensign in the U. S. Navy.

Roughly then, the new area takes in Precinct No. 7, most of which lies out of the city limits; Precinct No. 3, all of which lies out of the city limits; Precinct No. 2, all of which lies out of the city limits; Precinct No. 1, much of which is within the corporate boundaries of the city.

Solves Annexation Problem
The creation of a metropolitan district will solve the difficulties of annexation, at least from a commercial and industrial standpoint. Mr. Smith declared. Annexation, he pointed out, is difficult and often undesirable. A city must guarantee police and fire protection, sewers, streets and schools before it can broach political annexation. It is obviously impossible for Dallas to furnish this service to 30 square miles at this time.

David Belasco, the dean of the American theatre, brought to the stage in 1924 a most popular stage play entitled "Laugh, Clown, Laugh." In the leading role appeared Lionel Barrymore, well-known stage and screen star. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer purchased the screen rights to this play and will present the motion picture in Eastland at the Connellee Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday. Lon Chaney is to be seen in the role played by Barrymore on the stages.

The story is one of conflicting love. Chaney is seen as an Italian music hall clown loving and loved by Simonetta whom he has reared from childhood. Chaney passionately loves this beautiful girl as a woman. . . a prospective wife, while she loves him as a father. For a while, he is content to find happiness in her companionship, suppressing his desire to pour forth his love and devotion.

Negro Arrested As Murder Suspect
FORT WORTH, June 19.—Ben Washington, negro, charged with the killing of Lawrence Barnett, 24, of Dallas, here Sunday night, has been partially identified as the person who fired the shot, according to the assistant district attorney. Washington surrendered at the sheriff's office, Monday, after he heard he was sought. He declared a Mexican had done the shooting.

Slaton Only 17 Years Old But Growing

SLATON, June 19.—The city of Slaton is just four years shy "the voting age." The city was 17 years old last Friday, having been founded June 15, 1911, by the Santa Fe Railroad Company.

No formal celebration of the city's natal day was staged. A big affair was staged a year ago when the "Sweet Sixteen" celebration was held. However, business men, prominent citizens, old times and other who gathered at public meeting during the week and turned to reminiscences of other days.

A large number of Slaton citizens who have lived here ever since the city began her career are still present to give accurately the history of happenings through these years. All of them agree that no other West Texas city has developed faster in such a brief time.

In 1920, the government census gave Slaton a population of 1,525. At this time, what are believed to be conservative estimates place the number of Slaton inhabitants at 6,000. These figures are reached on the basis of scholastic enrollment, water meters, light meters and other accurate data available. There are 1,430 scholars in Slaton, according to the 1928 census.

With a record of almost 400 per cent gains in population during the past eight years, J. W. Hood, president of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce, has pointed out that if like gains are made during the next eight years Slaton will have a population of nearly 25,000 people.

Why Are the Wild Flowers Wild?

Because of the pleasure derived from wild flowers, the steps just taken to kindle public interest in preserving the plants in their native haunts are certain to find a general response. Campaigns have been started to promote plant observation, and appeals to the public are taking many forms, not the least striking of which is a poster depicting the feelings of wild flowers as a group of tourists prepare to make a raid on them, and bearing the humorous and expressive legend, "What Makes the Wild Flowers Wild?" The illustration is aimed not at people who gather a few wild flowers with discretion and care, but at those who thoughtlessly or deliberately despoil the countryside of its beauty.

Memories evoked by the sight of wild flowers are usually pleasant and inspiring—the tiny yellow primrose carries the thoughts of men and women thousands of miles across land and sea to a sheltered glen or dell where it grows in gorgeous profusion; the bluebell is a fairy ship of swift passage for journeys into enchanting valleys and moorland paths; the wild rose, its pink-and-white petals and delicate fragrance loved by all, sings of woodlands where raspberries grow, or of an elbow of land whose twisted lices enhance the beauty of a river course.

daisies are "gold and silver treasures" to the poet.

George Elliot thrilled at the sight of wild flowers. "The wood I walk in on this mild May day," she said, "with the yellow-brown foliage of the oaks between me and the blue sky, the white star-flowers and the blue-eyed speedwell and the ground ivy at my feet—what grove of tropic palms what strange fern or splendid broad-petalled blossoms, could ever thrill such deep and delicate fibres within me as this home scene?"

With many the daily walk is still a favorite pastime. In the woods it affords an allembraing variety of charm, but without wild flowers it would be stripped of much that makes it interesting and inspiring and an enduring pleasure. The movement to protect wild flowers from the depredations of the unthinking or ruthless is, therefore, deserving of every support.—Christian Science Monitor.
