FOCUS ON BREAKFAST

HOW CORN FLAKES BEGAN

The size of the morning meal has seen its ups and downs. History has recorded breakfast menus that sound more like banquet fare, requiring a leisurely pace to eat all the food that was served. Whether light or heavy, fried or baked, breakfast foods have always played an important part in providing valuable nutrients for a healthful diet.

Near the turn of the 20th century, something happened that would change breakfast history. A ready-to-eat, nourishing cereal, the wheat flake, was developed by Will Keith Kellogg and his brother, Dr. John Harvey Kellogg at the Battle Creek, Michigan Sanitarium. They were experimenting with boiled wheat when they accidentally came across the flaking process. It was later patented and used for making corn flakes and other flaked cereals.

Corn flakes have become a staple in American homes.

When served in a bowl with milk, the cereal was a perfect alternative to heavier breakfast foods. Ever since the first cereal flake was eaten, the acceptance of ready-to-eat cereals has been phenomenal.

Today's fast pace of life is part of the reason why ready-to-eat cereals are part of today's breakfast tradition. A cereal breakfast is quick to fix and easy to eat while being nutritious and good-tasting.

Mike Coleman Shoots International Trap

Michael Coleman of Ackerly, Texas, has recently returned from Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, where he shot International trap in the Canadian Grand Prix of 1982. This is an extremely tough range to shoot on. It is the best International trap range in North America and consist of three bunkers with sets of fifteen traps in each bunker. Bunkers are used for all European competition, but there are only three or four bunkers in the United States.

Mike set a new club record on the Alberta range with a 195 out of 200 targets. He won first place while Wally Zobell, another U.S. shooter from Montana, won second with a 191. A 194 out of 200 is the highest score that had ever been shot on this range, and it was shot by Canada's own World Champion Shooter, John Primrose, at an earlier date. The World Moving Target Games are to be held on this range in 1983 and Mike has an invitation to attend from the Canadians.

With a one night stop at home, Michael went to Indianapolis, Indiana, to compete in the National Sports Festival. This was a very big event with about 3500 of the top athletes of the United States in all Olympic events participating. It was a very heart touching, patriotic experience, as well as a very colorful event. All of the participants were divided into four groups; the South, North, East, and West. They were all dressed alike except for color. The South was green, the North was gold, the East was blue, and West was red. This was very colorful with all of the flags, parades, and opening ceremonies. The Olympic flame was brought from Pike's Peak in Colorado by runners to light the Olympic flame for the National Sports Festival at the opening ceremonies where it burned until all of the events were over. Bob Hope and Miss America entertained the participants at the opening ceremonies.

Mike won a bronze medal at the National Sports Festival. He shot 195 out of 200 American trap targets on an American wobble trap. This was a very drastic change to come from the fast, hard targets of International trap in Canada to the much slower targets of American trap. One's timing on the targets has to be changed completely.

QUALITY QUEST, 'ECONOMY' SPURS HOMESEWING OUTERWEAR

A growing quest for quality and economy is spurring many Americans to try their hands at sewing outerwear-jackets and coats, for example.

As the national recession continues, so does the search for value and durable goods. Investment dressing is the key this year.

People are looking for longlasting good looks and quality that may be lacking in ready to wear.

Prices are up and workmanship is down in some ready to wear, and that means we will see an upswing in homesewing for the coming year.

Financial savings in outerwear are significant for home sewers-they save 40-50 percent over the cost of ready to wear.

Homesewers want good looks and endurance from thier garments. They don't mind spending for the higher priced materials if it menas they will have a high quality finished product.

Don't waste water close the tub drain BEFORE turving on the bath water, instead of letting the first cold amounts go down the drain while you wait for hot water. Water will soon be hot and you can adjust the tub water temperature as the tub fills.

LAMB AND WOOL PRODUCERS TO VOTE ON PROMOTION PROGRAM EXTENSION

Lamb and wool producers will have an opportunity during an August 16-27 referendum to vote on whether they want the American Sheep Producers Council, Inc., to continue its market promotion and improvement program on their behalf by entering a new agreement with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The agreement to be voted on is similar to one approved in 1978, except it would authorize larger deductions from producer incentive payments. By approving it, producers would authorize deduction of up to 4 cents per pound on shorn wool and 20 cents per hundred weight on unshorn lambs marketed in 1982. Deduction rates from 1978 through 1981 were 2 1/2 cents and 11 1/2 cents, respectively, he said.

The new agreement would provide for USDA to withhold part of any wool incentive payments that might be made to producers on 1983-85 marketings to finance the council's promotion activities.

Deductions would be used by the council to finance advertising and sales promotion programs for wool and lamb, and programs to develop and disseminate information on product quality, production management and marketing improvement for wool and sheep.

Copies of the Agreement and Ballots were mailed to Borden County Wool Producers on Friday, August 13, 1982. Producers may cast their ballots by mailing or delivering them in person to county ASCS offices by the close of the referendum.

The agreement requires approval by two thirds of the total volume of producers, or two third of the total volume of production represented in the referendum.

The National Wool Act of 1954 provides the authority for deductions and for promotion activities. Sheep producers have approved the program in each of the seven referendums held since 1954. In the most recent referendum of 1978, 75 percent of the producers approved of the program.

FREE EDUCATION AND THE UNDOCUMENTED WORKER

On June 15, 1982, The Supreme Court ruled, 5-4, that Texas and other states must provide free public education for the children of undocumented workers—people in this country illegally.

Our current Lt. Governor, Mr. Hobby, was happy with the decision, praising it as the "only rational decision" the court could have made.

On the contrary, I think it was a wrong decision that defied both law and logic.

One of the principal underpinnings of an orderly society is that one should not benefit from breaking the law. All around the world, thousands of people stand patiently in line at our embassies, waiting for legal entry into this country. By its recent ruling, the Supreme Court told these people that, if they are smart, they will ignore our immigration laws, find some other way to enter, and then there's a good likelihood all manner of taxpayer-supported benefits will be open to them and their families.

We can all feel sympathy for people driven to emigrate by desperate economic conditions. And I believe we should be compassionate toward the children of undocumented workers who are here through no fault of their own. We have been told we must educate these children and we will: it is our duty.

But I am deeply concerned about the effect this will have on our school systems and the quality of education. We have only a certain amount of desks and dollars with which to address the problems of educating Texas' children.

The court was essentially establishing social policy under the guise of ruling on a constitutional question. The result was bad law and bad social policy. It should now be up to the Federal Government to help pay for the mess they have created by not properly policing our borders.
