Game room law approved

Legal age to enter businesses will be 18.

BY TIMOTHY P. HOWSARE
 thowsare@thepampanews.com

The Pampa City Commission passed on Tuesday an ordinance to regulate game rooms within Pampa city limits.

The intent of the ordinance is to provide for reasonable regulation of game rooms, including providing for unrestricted access by city police officers to all areas of game rooms and all amusement redemption machines for inspection by city police officers, providing for transparent glass and uncovered windows and providing for the prohibition of minors and alcohol in game rooms.

The ordinance passed on Tuesday has been amended since it was passed on first reading Jan. 14. The original version required that an individual must be at least 21 to play in the game rooms.

When the Commission gave second reading at its Jan. 28 meeting, Danny Martin, commander of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1657, asked the mayor and Commissioners whether they could change the minimum age from 21 to 18.

The Commissioners agreed to table the motion and asked City Attorney Lee Waters to investigate whether there are any other cities in the state that allow 18 year olds into game rooms. The motion that was passed Tuesday will allow 18 year olds into the establishment.

Crime Stoppers' Fugitive of the Week

STAFF REPORT

The Gray County Crime Stoppers' Fugitive of the Week is Chad Michael Richards, who is wanted in Grey County for bond surrender — possession of controlled substance, less than one gram.

Richards is a 34-year-old white male, 5-feet, 10-inches tall and weighs 155 pounds. He has brown hair and brown eyes.

If you have any information about Richards or any other fugitive, you are urged to call Crime Stoppers or submit a Web Tip. They don't want your name, only your information.

Never try to detain the fugitive yourself. In determining whether someone is a fugitive, a suspect must have a felony charge coupled with an arrest warrant that was not cleared within a week of being issued.

If your information leads to an arrest, Crime Stoppers will pay a cash reward of up to $200 and you will remain anonymous.

The wanted status of the posted fugitive or fugitives is updated as often as possible. Persons listed above may be arrested and no longer wanted. Upon confirmation of a person's arrest, Pampa Gray County Crime Stoppers will change or remove the post to reflect their status.

There are three ways to submit your tip, call 806-669-2222, visit Web Tips at www.pgcestips.com or text the word "pampa" along with your tip to 274637.

Pampa EMS has been at its new location on West 30th street since June, and since making the move, response time has decreased by almost an entire minute. Director of EMS Alan Price and Director of Operations Anita Aaron are among the many who are excited to share the changes of EMS with the community. Price has been with the EMS service in Pampa for 15 years and says that the current staff is the most experienced that the organization has had.

The new building houses not only Pampa EMS, but the Pampa segment of Lifestar. Lifestar moved into the building first in February 2013, and its employees are ecstatic about the move. EMS and Lifestar are kept completely separate in the building aside from the shared day room and kitchen.

They are on separate computer systems to keep their respective records private, as this is a Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA) requirement.

Flight nurse and medic Mason Birch compares the joint work environment to living in apartments together, adding that he enjoys the camaraderie of working so closely with EMS.

Aaron added that the two services working out of the same building has led to a better mutual understanding of each other.

Lifestar was based out of the hospital, and the helicopter remained fenced in outdoors at all times, whereas in the new building, it is kept in an attached hangar, which is a major positive point for employees.

The Lifestar pilot on duty has his own office in which he constantly keeps track of flight records, maintenance schedules, fuel, weather and all other details of flights. In this office, there is also a map with the minimal flight height requirements marked throughout the flight district.

Next to the pilot's office is the room where the active flight nurse and medic have their records and computer to write their reports. Lifestar has another base in Amarillo, and its staff rotates between the Pampa and Amarillo locations.

The Pampa location of Lifestar has a Bell 407 helicopter with a one-patient capability and from Pampa, the chopper can take patients as far as Oklahoma City and Wichita Falls when necessary. They are also able to call for a plane to take patients to Houston and other farther destinations if they deem the decision necessary.

Maximum weight capacity for flight patients in the helicopter is 350 pounds and a maximum girth of 52 inches. These requirements exist because patients must fit within

Mack Brown to get severance and new job at Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — The University of Texas will pay former football coach Mack Brown $2.75 million that would have been owed him if he had been fired, and place him in a $500,000 per year job as a special assistant to the president for athletics.

Texas spokesman Nick Voinis said Wednesday the school was honoring the terms of Brown's contract that ran through 2020. Brown, who stepped down on Dec. 14, had been reportedly trying to negotiate for more money.

The $2.75 million was to be paid in case Brown was fired before Dec. 31, 2014. The payments were to be made in four annual installments. Brown's contract included the job with the annual salary in case Brown resigned.

Brown has called his departure a "mutual" decision by himself, school President Bill Powers and athletic director Steve Patterson.

Tales from the Final Frontier

■ 'The Big Bang Theory' and how far it has come.

"The Big Bang Theory" is now in its seventh season and is by far one of the most popular TV shows still producing new episodes. The show is nominated year-in and year-out for various awards to individual cast members or the show as a whole. Jim Parsons, who plays Sheldon on the series, has won three Emmys and a Golden Globe himself!

JOHN LEE

The show is my favorite sitcom for a mile and largely because I felt like I could relate with something about each character. I think this is what makes the show great. I know I am not the only one who can relate to each character. If you look at just the guys, everyone has a little bit of Sheldon in them. Everyone has their weird, yet goofy moments, like Howard. But I have to say something that will seem blasphemous to some. I enjoyed the show more in the earlier seasons than the current seasons. While I understand the need to bring Bernadette and Amy onto the show, I have to say that I think the show has left its roots (a little bit) of the goofy, socially awkward nerds facing everyday trivial situations. Now they are goofy, socially awkward nerds facing relationship situations with their significant others.

Bernadette and Amy certainly make the show funny in their own way. Bernadette's take charge and humorous short-temper is definitely entertaining, especially when she is yelling at the guys. Amy Farrah Fowler's odd obsession with both Penny and Sheldon can be hilarious. Couple that with her jokes about being a biology scientist and what she does to the monkeys and you have a socially awkward character who fits in.

But do you not miss how Howard Wolowitz would always try to find a new way to pick up women? Remember when he tried to get into the "America's Next Top Model" mansion? What about when he first met Penny and would speak in French or another language to impress her? There were several times involving music too. Dressing up like a goth, making a human beat box and even telling Penny he sings Korean karaoke.

He is still entertaining with Bernadette, but it is hard to duplicate his goofiness as a bachelor.

Leonard and Penny are a good combination. The constant banter of their carnal life is entertaining. Plus the cat-and-mouse game they kept playing was getting old so you have no choice but to root for them. Oddly enough, Leonard is my least favorite character. But Penny continues to be entertaining and I think it is largely because, aside from her relationship with Leonard and going to college, she is still the same character she was in season one.

Raj has seen so much character growth and the way he is clearly in touch with his feminine side is comical. His care for his dog Cinnamon is something every pet-owner can relate to, especially in a "us against the world" scenario. His and Howard's relationship takes funny (and sometimes disturbing) twists every week. One of my favorite moments was when the girls' were telling them how they are at the restaurant alone and it is like they are a newlywed couple. Raj exclaims, "OH MY GOD! That is so US!"

Before anyone can think I don't like the girls on the show, let me tell you, they have certainly left the producers plenty of room to grow the show. Sheldon and Amy's relationship is such a baby-step entity that it will take another season to grow. Bernadette is hilarious, it is hard to describe why, but she is. I think it is a combination of her voice, her character and her relationship with Howard.

The show remains my favorite sitcom and second-favorite TV show behind Game of Thrones.

Big Bang Theory comes on CBS on Thursdays at 7 p.m.

EMS

the small designated area of the helicopter for the stretcher.

Pampa Lifestar averages about 40-50 calls a month. To be a flight medic, a person must have five years of high call volume EMS experience as well as a number of certifications.

To become a flight nurse, one must have three years of emergency room or intensive care unit experience and have EMT basic training completed.

Another improvement of the new building is the living quarters. EMS was previously located in the old fire station on Barnes Street, and due to space constraints, all beds were in one room and there was one co-ed bathroom. Now, both EMS and Lifestar employees have the luxury of each having their own private dorm and there are separate gender bathrooms and showers. There are eight dorms total, seven of which are in constant use. The last is currently being used for storage.

EMS and Lifestar employees are not the only ones excited about the upgrades of the new building. The EMS board members benefit from aspects of the building as well. The second story of the building, which is where EMS' computer system and records are kept, contains offices for board and director use. Though this floor is still under construction, Both Price and Aaron are excited about their new offices.

Upon completion, the board will have a spacious conference room to meet in (they currently meet at the conference table in Price's office). The EMS board of directors is composed of six members, President Gary Willoughby, Treasurer Dona Williams, Secretary Ellen Jane Steele, Boys Ranch Representative Mike Pacino, new member and Gray County Representative Gina Rigdon and Medical Director Dr. James K. Hall.

The board is required in order for Pampa EMS to remain eligible to be considered 501 c3 non-profit. The medical director is an additional requirement, and in Pampa's case, he happens to also be a board member.

The responsibilities of the board are to oversee the entire operation of EMS, including policies to operate by, all incoming contracts and fiscal responsibilities like approving bill payments. The board is not included in medical decisions or decisions regarding individual personnel. The board generally meets once a month unless it is decided that additional meetings are needed. "They work hard to promote Pampa and Gray County. They're great," Aaron said.

When it comes to the day-to-day running of Pampa EMS, it's Price's job to make sure that things are running smoothly and President Gary Willoughby keeps in close contact with him.

There is a second branch of EMS based out of Boys Ranch in Oldham County that responds primarily on the Boys Ranch campus, but it can respond to calls in Channing and on surrounding highways when needed. This location has one truck and two paramedics on duty at all times. Pampa EMS started here in 2009 and since then the organization has continued to grow. "We are proud of the organization and the people who work here," Aaron said.

Future plans for Pampa EMS include replacing two of the three ambulances currently in use by the organization. Due to the call volume, EMS had as many as 2,800 calls in its busiest year, and transfers, there are a lot of miles on the units, so they need to be replaced on average about every five years.

Pampa EMS is in the top three when it comes to call volume of ambulance services north of Plainview in Texas, and it responds to calls within a 900-mile radius as well as providing mutual aid in Lefors and McLean.

The new ambulances that have been looking at are $127,000 each, and Price and Willoughby have been actively fundraising and applying for grants to get the units replaced as soon as possible. Aaron added that there have been multiple significant donations to the account EMS has set up at Happy State Bank specifically for the replacement of the ambulances.

She also stated that there is more wear and tear on ambulances than an average diesel engine because when they receive calls, patients need care right that minute, so EMS employees do not have the time to let the engine properly heat before driving.

Aaron points out that a lot of people do not realize all that the staff at EMS does. "The education needed is incredible for these guys. They need 3,000 hours of training to be minimally qualified as a paramedic," she said. She added that the knowledge of the veteran paramedics combined with the newer additions constantly challenge each other, making for a mutually beneficial work experience.

Politicians say, "We're all equal," and pretend that they represent everyone.

JOHN STOSSEL

But, in fact, they constantly pick winners and losers. America is now like the place described in George Orwell's book "Animal Farm": "All animals are equal," but some are "more equal than others." "Animal Farm" was about Communism, but today the allegory applies to our bloated democracy, too.

During the "fiscal cliff" negotiations that Congress and the media made sound so tough — as if every last penny were pinched — Congress still managed to slip in plenty of special deals for cronies.

- NASCAR got $70 million for new racetracks.
- Algae growers got $60 million.
- Hollywood film producers got a $430 million tax break.

When America's going broke, how do moviemakers get a special break? By lobbying for it. Movies are a sexy business, so 42 states offer film producers "incentives" to film there.

(State legislatures are as shortsighted as Congress).

Michigan offered the juiciest handouts until the state ran out of taxpayers' money. Now Ohio, Louisiana and Georgia (that's why the latest "Hunger Games" movie was shot in Georgia) offer the biggest handouts. The mayor of Los Angeles recently declared a "state of emergency" — not over an earthquake or storm, but because so much movie-making has left California for states with bigger subsidies.

The U.S., which used to pride itself on being more free-market than Europe, is now hardly different from France, which crippled its economy by subsidizing all sorts of old industries, and even gives money to producers of American films that mention France.

Politicians everywhere are always eager to help out people who helped get them elected. In the U.S., labor unions were big supporters of President Barack Obama, and — presto — unions got 451 waivers from Obamacare.

Congressional staff got a special exception, too. Funny how many of these laws are supposed to be great for all of us but, once passed, look ugly to the privileged class. So they exempt themselves.

Even the crusade to save the earth is captured by the "special" people. Subsidies for "green energy" were supposed to go to the best ideas. Yet somehow your money went to companies like Solyndra, whose biggest shareholder just happened to be an Obama backer who bundled money for the president.

And somehow Al Gore, who had a modest income when he entered politics, reaped $200 million from brilliant investments after he left office. He must just be really smart.

On my TV show this week, progressive commentator Ellis Henican says this cronyism is "inevitable" and doesn't really bother him: "If we want roads and bridges and prisons and a military and a safety net, someone somewhere is going to benefit from that. But you can't use that as an excuse to not do important things for our society."

I say it's one more reason to keep government small.

Politicians doling out favors quietly shift where society's resources flow, who gets employed, what ideas are pursued.

It distorts the economy and the culture — and it turns us into a nation of favor-seekers instead of creators and producers.

What about all the new businesses that would have gotten investment money but didn't have Gore on their boards? What new ideas might have thrived if old industries weren't coddled? We don't know. We will never know the greatness of what might have existed had the state not sucked the oxygen out of the incubator.

Because of government's favor-granting, Washington, D.C., is now the place where the well-connected go to get rich.

For the first time in history, six of the richest counties in the U.S. surround D.C. When a small group of people gets to dispense $3.6 trillion and set rules that can help or kill your idea, you want to suck up to them.

As long as government has the power to grant favors, cronies and their lobbyists will seek those favors out.

The privileged win. The people lose.

Harvesters romp River Road 69-30 Tuesday

By JOHN LEE
jcleee@thepampanews.com

Every member of the Pampa Harvesters' varsity team contributed to the Harvesters' 69-30 win over the River Road Wildcats on Tuesday.

Head coach Matt Embry didn't even play his starters when the game tipped off Tuesday night. Senior Blayne Troxell got things started for the Harvesters with a 2-pointer. Following a Wildcat 2-pointer, senior Alex Marrufo hit a 2-pointer, followed by consecutive 2-pointers from Trey Miller. To close out the quarter, freshmen Brandon Sieck hit two 3-pointers, putting the Harvesters up 17-4.

The starters took over in the second quarter, going on an 11-5 run led by senior Cory Ponce. Sophomore Cade Engle and senior Brandon Stokes each had two points on the run.

Leading 37-13 after half-time, the Harvesters' bench got to have more fun with Marrufo and fellow senior Gabe Garcia getting in on the action, putting the Harvesters up 43-17. Sophomore more Kambrin Scott hit a 3-pointer late in the quarter as the Harvesters led 48-20. Senior Ryan Powell finished off the scoring from each Harvester with two free throws in the fourth as the Harvesters won 69-30.

The leading scorers of the night were Cory Ponce with 12 points and Trey Miller with 11 points. Alex Marrufo had 10 points and Brandon Sieck had eight.

Gabe Garcia had six points, Kambrin Scott and Cade Engle each had five. Blayne Troxell and Brandon Stokes each had four points, while Jonathan Stevens and Ryan Powell each had two.

The Harvesters will await their playoff fate as they will find out when and where they will play Lubbock-Estacado.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Friday, Feb. 14, 2014:

This year you could become easily irritated or have a problem when interacting with others. Use the power of detachment, and try walking in someone else's shoes. You will gain insight and compassion as a result. If you are single, you will meet someone you adore sometime after spring. You will love being around this person. If you are attached, when you become less triggered by interactions with your sweetie, you will be more accepting and loving. VIRGO can be annoying with his or her need for precision.

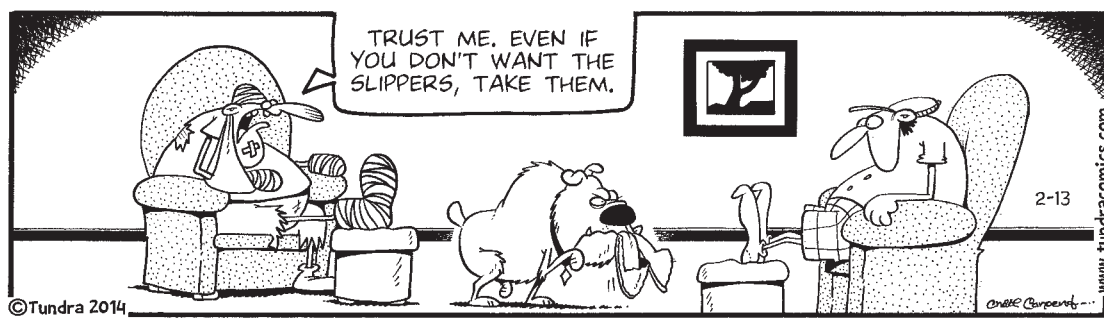

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★ You might go overboard when dealing with a child or new friend. Your creativity will flourish as long as you are spontaneous. An associate might interject him- or herself into a situation without realizing it. Make this OK. Tonight: Be the Romeo or Juliet of the moment!
TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★ Your feelings are a lot stronger than you realize. Someone in your immediate circle will encourage you to be more logical. You might feel as if this person is raining on your parade. Don't worry -- this behavior is only temporary. Tonight: Invite some friends over.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★★ Remain spontaneous despite a co-worker's or friend's attitude. You have much more than you want to share, and you will. You suddenly might switch from being in a rage one minute to being even-tempered the next. Extremes mark this day. Tonight: Do the Valentine thing.
CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★★ You might discover that you have more than one Valentine. Be careful when making plans, as there could be a conflict. Remember, chocolate works; nearly everyone loves it. Your feelings seem to be all over the place. Tonight: The going gets better as it gets later.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★ You'll want to pursue an important matter. Let a domestic issue sit for now, because you won't be able to change it. Be optimistic, no matter what happens. You will find a way to turn this situation around. Tonight: Too many people want to be your Valentine.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★★ Listen to the feedback you get, though you might want to confirm what you hear at a later point. You could be moving a lot slower than usual until later today. Postpone any meetings where you have to be alert. Tonight: Recharge your batteries. TGIF!
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★★ Run with the moment, and focus on your long-term goals. You could feel unusually tight when managing your funds. You might want to take a risk, but know that a more conservative course serves you well. Refuse to get angry with a loved one. Tonight: Honor Valentine's Day.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★★ Are the changes you're about to make positive? You might want to get feedback from someone who is straightforward. If you have made a plan at a time when you felt less than great, it could reflect a certain amount of negativity. Be realistic. Tonight: Use your imagination.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★★ Understand that your moods tend to go up and down. When push comes to shove, you might want to reach out to a partner. A friend could be overassertive, and you might feel the need to respond with irritation, if not anger. Tonight: Try to make peace, not war.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★★ Reach out to a loved one or dear friend at a distance. You have a way of communicating that lets the other person know you care. Use the upbeat mood of Valentine's Day to spread good cheer. A misunderstanding could arise from out of the blue. Tonight: All smiles.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★★ Listen to a loved one's feedback. Understand that the innate tension that seems to exist between you and others is part of the Full Moon today. Problems will be exaggerated in the present stellar atmosphere. Tonight: Look at the big picture, then celebrate Valentine's Day.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★ Tap into your imagination when making plans. You might notice that a friend, family member or loved one could be quite tense. Pressure builds and tempers flare as a result of the Full Moon. Try to stay clear of all the uproar. Tonight: Say "yes" to an offer.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: Earlier this year, my sister "Kathy" was diagnosed with breast cancer. She underwent a double mastectomy, chemo and radiation, and will begin reconstructive surgery soon.

Because of her diagnosis she encouraged me to visit my doctor for an exam. When I did, they found a lump, which needs further testing. I have chosen not to share this with my family because my sisters and parents have been deeply affected by Kathy's diagnosis, and I don't want to cause them needless worry.

My husband is angry and he said that because Kathy is their favorite they wouldn't be concerned anyway. I thought it was insensitive and cruel to me, but more to the point, I felt he wasn't thinking about how upset my doing so might make my family. Am I wrong to feel this way? — NEEDS FURTHER TESTING

DEAR NEEDS FURTHER TESTING: Certainly not. Your husband's comment illustrates the importance of keeping one's mouth firmly shut if one can't think of something helpful or supportive to say. It almost appears that he is angry at you for the questionable test result.

I can't blame you for not wanting to upset your already stressed family at this point, but if more testing confirms that you, too, have breast cancer, I think it's important that you let them know — especially your sisters, who might want to be screened sooner than later.

I hope your husband's apparent inability to support you emotionally during this difficult time is an aberration, but if it's not, you will need to find support elsewhere.

DEAR ABBY: About 15 years ago I committed a crime against a woman I cared about. I have felt guilt and remorse about it ever since. I can't speak to her or have any contact with her.

I would like to tell her I'm sorry for what happened. I have beaten myself up over this and thought about suicide. What do I do? Please help, Abby. — SO SORRY IN ST. JOSEPH, MO.

DEAR SO SORRY: The first thing you must do is talk with a mental health professional about your suicidal thoughts. Once you have been stabilized, you should then understand that you may have been forbidden to contact your former friend because what you did was so traumatic that it could cause her to re-live the incident, which could further victimize her. If you're looking for forgiveness, forgive YOURSELF and move on — but leave her out of it.

DEAR ABBY: Is there some sort of etiquette regarding inquiring about someone's country of origin?

While making polite conversation with a customer in my retail shop, I noticed she had an accent and asked where she was from. She became very evasive and seemed offended that I had asked.

She actually refused to answer my question.

I tried to recover from the awkward situation, but I can't help but feel I insulted her somehow. Was I wrong to ask? — FRIENDLY RETAILER IN KANSAS CITY

DEAR RETAILER: Perhaps. Some immigrants to this country feel the question you asked is a very personal one. There can be various reasons for it. The person may feel self-conscious about his or her accent, and you can't know the political situation in the person's country of origin or whether he or she has encountered bias because of where he or she came from.

BANANAGRAMS!

Change one letter in the top word to one of the letters that appears in the bottom word, then rearrange the tiles to form a new common word. Do the same with each new word until you arrive at the bottom word. For example, one path from BARK to PLUM is BARK, MARK, RAMP, RUMP, PLUM.
