Eagle Scout Dan Curl To Go To Eagle Scout Bicentennial Cele.

Eagle Scout Dan Curl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Curl of Memphis, has been selected by Adobe Walls Council, Boy Scouts of America, to be the Council Representative to attend the Eagle Scout Bicentennial Celebration in Washington, D. C.

Scout Curl will be flying from Lubbock to Washington, D. C. on Tuesday, June 22, and will return on July 5, 1976.

The purpose of the Eagle Scout Bicentennial Celebration is to provide to Eagle Scouts a unique cultural and educational experience and to support the efforts of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration during the summer of 1976 in Washington, D. C.

The President of the United States appointed an American Revolution Bicentennial Commission to "forge a new national commitment, and new spirit of '76". Accepting the challenge, the Boy Scouts of America has pledged to "deliver to the nation on its 200th anniversary a new generation of prepared young citizens." As part of Scouting's 4-year commitment to the bicentennial, it was proposed that Eagle Scouts from across the nation gather in Washington, D. C. to perform service tasks in support of the bicentennial.

Between June 6 and Aug. 30, there will be 760 Eagle Scouts and leaders in troops of 40 each who will take part in a 14-day period of activities and service.

Each of the 430 local councils of the Boy Scouts of America has selected at least one Eagle Scout to participate.

Thomas Turner, Chairman of the Eagle Scout Bicentennial Celebration Committee said in a letter to Scott Curl, "It is a real pleasure to congratulate you officially on your selection to participate in the Eagle Scout Bicentennial Celebration. This event promises to be a great historic adventure in our nation's capital during the summer of 1976.

"You will also have the opportunity to represent the Boy Scouts of America to the many thousands of visitors in Washington during the summer of 1976. You and your fellow troop members will perform Scouting skill demonstrations for these visitors and be their host when they visit our Scouting USA Center on the Mall.

The Scouts, on their second through fifth days, will be at the Scouting — USA Center. The sixth through ninth days will be spent at the National Capital Parks Service, while the tenth through thirteenth days at Recreational and Tours.

Little League In Full Swing Now

ALMOST A HIT — Tiger pitcher Ronnie Smith is shown connecting with a pitch from Indian pitcher Scotty Lockhart Tuesday. The hard-hit ball was fielded by second baseman Paul Richardson who tossed it to the first baseman for an out. The Indians won the game to remain in the lead. These two clubs meet again tonight.

The Little League season is in full swing now, with the local teams playing Tuesday and Thursday evening, with first games starting at 6 p.m.

Tonight, the Tigers will play the Indians in the first game, and the Yankees will be playing the Giants in the second game. These teams played each other Tuesday night and have returned matches tonight.

Little League schedules require teams to play each other twice in the same week in order to equalize pitching skills. A pitcher is only allowed to pitch a maximum of six innings a week (or four if they are in the same game.)

The past two evenings of play have brought about a League leader, as the Indians have survived the last two nights undefeated, and have only one loss to their record.

Last Thursday night, the Tigers defeated the Yankees 9 to 6 in the first game. Then, the Giants and Indians had a real tussle with the game ending 10 to 8 in favor of the Indians. The victory was aided by a home-run hit by Scotty Lockhart.

Tuesday evening, the Indians won a 10-0 victory over the Tigers to go out in front in the league race. The Giants and the Yankees played to a 9 to 9 tie, and the game was stopped because of time no longer being available. The game resumed after 9:30 p.m. The game got down as one-half game — unless they figure into league championship race, then their games can be played over.

Next Tuesday night, June 15, the Giants will play the Tigers in the first game, and the Indians will play the Yankees in the second game.

The Farm teams play on Monday nights, with three teams participating this year.

Letters Needed To Put Dennis In P.S.H. of F.

Memphis has had its fair share of outstanding athletes over the years, but none have had a more lustrous career than Hubert Dennis, who has spent much of his life associated with sports and schools.

Memphians have wanted Hubert to get some recognition, so many have tried to get him installed in the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame, an honor which is long overdue.

Putt Powell of the Sports Department of Amarillo Daily News, one of the few "old-timers" who can remember Hubert in his sporting days, offered a challenge to Memphians this week in his column "Short Putts."

"Teachers in Brooklyn had their pupils write letters to the Baseball Hall of Fame committee urging the election of Gil Hodges, first baseman when the Dodgers were in Brooklyn. That would be a good idea for students in Memphis to do on behalf of Hubert Dennis gaining membership in the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame. The letters could be sent to John Heetland at the Amarillo YMCA."

Hubert Dennis is well known in sports circles by the old timers for his contribution to football in its early years. Here in Memphis, despite his retirement, he sells tickets to games, runs game clock as official timer, and this year he will be selling advertisements on the football program, working with the Cyclone Booster Club.

Some Children Back In School Again!

With many of the churches conducting vacation Bible schools during this month, a good portion of the children are back in school again. We'd venture to believe that these children who take advantage of these "special" school classes will come away from the experience with a more wholesome outlook on life.

For at these schools a code of conduct is taught by word and example that can be impressive on young lives. A child's character is guided along lines of Christian principles.

But considering the realm of public school education in our nation, and the picture is not one that citizens can be overly proud. Summer vacation this year has only allowed a resting period for troubled schools. The problems will still be there next fall.

Student violence, disrespect, rudeness, discourteous and insolent behavior, and in some instances horrible crimes of rape, armed robberies, burglaries and destruction of property, and even murder, await the opening of schools again.

Who's to blame for what's happening? It's little wonder that as a nation, education in our public schools is suffering. Students are making lower and lower scores on tests than they did 10 years ago, and even lower scores than five, or two years ago.

Some leaders feel that schools will be forced to put armed police in the corridors, taking offenders to court for violations. Other leaders lay the blame on parents for not being willing to give their children care, motivation and chastisement.

One bright spot in the picture is the work being done by American Institute for Character Education. It has a program designed as an aid for teachers and is based on a theory that school-age children who are taught to consider the likely consequences of their behavior will behave themselves.

One conclusion to be drawn is the known fact that physical suppression has never checked the spread of violence.

So, unless students are given incentive to be better citizens, to consider the likely consequences of their behavior, then nothing much can be done with the bad situation.

But then, remembering that in some states, teachers have walked out on strikes, many of which were illegal, closing schools and showing open defiance of law, it is little wonder that school children scoff at society's rules of conduct.

We are fortunate to live in a section of the country where students are respectful and co-operative with the teachers and there exists a certain amount of school spirit and pride. For the most part, parents, in a large majority of instances, are concerned with the well being of their children.

There is nothing which gives a parents a warmer feeling than to have a teacher say, "it is a pleasure to have your child in class." Nor is there anything that brings the "dark cloud" to parents as quickly as to have a child in trouble.

Top 'Idle Money' State

Texas leads the other states in the amount of interest lost annually through "idle" public funds. These funds, according to Bob Bullock, state comptroller, are public money kept in checking accounts and earning no interest.

The problem is a combination of unwise and outdated investment policies, some dictated by state law and others by poor management, he added. Estimates of the amount of money lost to the state are placed at "at least $10 million a year."

That's enough cash to justify rethinking the state's policies. A comptroller study shows that in 1973 Texas had an average of $485 million in checking accounts. Seventeen other states surveyed had a total combined average balance in such accounts of only $319 million. Three-fourths of the money Texas agencies keep in checking accounts that don't draw interest could be deposited in interest-bearing time accounts, the study indicated.

Texas' largest banks are the only beneficiaries of this outdated system. Present policy and law require state government to keep "tremendous amounts of money in checking accounts" and prevent the people of Texas from earning interest on millions in tax dollars.

Of the state money in checking accounts, $175 million was kept on deposit without earning a penny of interest last year in only four banks. The banks, of course, earned millions of dollars at the state's expense by loaning out the money themselves at interest.

Changes in such fiscal policies should be at the top of the list of legislative priorities next year.

CHARITIES OUT OF LUCK

From time to time the Herald gets a request to publicize a drawing where something is given away and usually the request is accompanied by the reminder that it is for a good cause, usually a charitable cause.

We cannot publicize a drawing because it is a lottery and the federal postal laws prohibit any newspaper from carrying either news or advertising regarding a lottery. If we were to do it and be caught by the postal inspectors we would be liable to a fine and loss of our second class mailing privileges.

Not only that, but the lottery itself is illegal in Texas.

Attorney General John Hill has reaffirmed that the Texas Constitution and state laws prohibit lotteries of any kind even if they are for charity.

In response to a request from Denton, Hill ruled that all of these proposals are illegal:

To sell tickets to a drawing at which $10,000 worth of prizes would be given away.

Give tickets to a drawing at which $10,000 worth of prizes would be given away to persons who make a specific donation to a fund to benefit a charity.

Sell admission tickets to a carnival. Each person who bought a ticket would be eligible to win a door prize. Winners would be determined at a drawing at the carnival.

Sell tickets to game booths at a carnival at which admission would be free. Each ticket purchased would give the purchaser a chance to win a door prize. Winners would be determined at a drawing at the carnival.

Sell a commodity such as a box of candy or bumper stickers. Each person who bought a commodity would be entitled to win a door prize at a drawing at the carnival.

Sell memberships to a club organized on behalf of a charity. The club would conduct a free drawing from its membership roll for prizes.

Hill said a lottery consists of three elements: A prize in money or something else of value; distribution of the prize determined by chance; and valuable consideration given by contestants for a chance to win.

We have known of lotteries in our own community which violated all these yardsticks and were therefore illegal. People can keep on having lotteries, but if we can help it, the Herald won't publicize them.

DEATH PENALTY

The Supreme Court is delaying its landmark decision regarding the constitutionality of the death penalty and while the court is delaying, prisoners await their fate on death row in a dozen states.

Considerable sympathy has been generated for these prisoners. It is lamented that it is never right to take a human life.

Opinion is divided on it, of course. Last week in Amarillo there was a panel discussion on the issue between several leading ministers, for and against. Dr. Winfred Moore, pastor of the largest church in Amarillo, the First Baptist, defended the death penalty and quoted several Scriptural references. Other ministers, opposed to the death penalty, also quoted the Scripture in support of their position.

The young man in Amarillo Jim Vanderbilt, got the death penalty for the admitted murder of Katrina Moyer, a beautiful and popular young high school girl. He admitted that he kidnapped her with intent to rape her but after taking her to his house he got cold feet after noticing her making mental notes of her surroundings.

So he drove her out to a country road, pulled out a pistol and killed her in cold blood so that there would be no witness to the crime of kidnapping and attempted rape.

After the jury found him guilty and the death penalty was assessed, he claimed he got a dirty deal. He said he was promised a life sentence if he confessed to the crime. However, he said he was not worried because he would never have to face the electric chair.

Why is it that people who practice the death penalty never believe in it? This man was willing to assess the death penalty to his victim but claims it should not be applied to him.

Richard Speck, who killed eight Chicago nurses, and Charles Manson, who directed the killing of dozens of people, got life sentences and are now eligible for parole in three more years. Something is out of kilter in our system of criminal justice.

SS Benefits To Be Increased Next Month

A cost-of-living increase in monthly social security benefits will be included in checks delivered in July, according to Jim Tolbert, social security district manager in Amarillo, Texas.

The increase will amount to 6.4 percent for most people getting social security payments. The cost-of-living provision was added to the social security law in 1972.

"People getting social security checks don't have to do anything to get the higher payments," Tolbert said. "The increase will be added automatically."

The increase is based on the rise in consumer prices from the first 3 months of 1975 to the first 3 months of 1976.

With the cost-of-living increase, average social security retirement payments to retired workers will go from $210 to $224 a month. Average social security disability payments to disabled workers will go from $228 to $242 a month. Average social security survivors payments to widowed mothers or fathers with two children in their care will go from $479 to $510 a month.

Social security pays monthly benefits to over 32 million people. The payments are funded by social security contributions from employees, employers, and self-employed people.

Employees and employers contribute 5.85 percent each of the first $15,300 of yearly earnings from jobs covered by social security. Self-employed people contribute 7.9 percent. "Those figures remain unchanged," Tolbert said.

The Amarillo Social Security Office is located at 317 East Third Street. The phone number is 376-2241.

Texas Taxes

By BOB BULLOCK, State Comptroller

AUSTIN—We have rewritten our sales tax procedures on agricultural exemptions to make them easier for farmers and ranchers to understand, as well as easier for the Comptroller's Department to administer.

The new procedure is scheduled to be effective July 15.

Our previous regulations on agricultural exemptions had been written case by case over the years since the state adopted the sales tax.

What we wound up with was an arm-long list of items that were taxable and an arm-long list of items that weren't. And there were plenty of things a farmer or rancher could buy that were sometimes taxable, sometimes not.

For example, the old rules exempt baling wire when hay is baled for resale, but not when it is baled for use by the owner. Farmers and ranchers got the exemption if they bought a bolt from a farm machinery dealer, but not if they bought the same bolt from a hardware store.

Under the old rules the exemption was not granted for treated fences and automated laying houses because they were considered permanent improvements to real estate rather than agricultural equipment. But the Internal Revenue Service recognizes those same items as eligible for the federal investment tax credit.

Our new procedures tie in with IRS regulations this way: if the IRS allows an item as an investment credit, that will be evidence to us that the item should be exempt from the sales tax.

The farmers and ranchers weren't too happy with our old regulations, and neither were we. Frankly, they were a headache to administer.

The new procedures make it clear that these items are exempt from the sales tax: expendable supplies such as hand tools, baling wire, binder twine; hardware, tires and lubricants for farm machinery; fences, pens, gates, cattle guards and chutes; and all structures that can be considered a piece of equipment, such as automated laying houses and farrowing houses.

However, most farm buildings, such as barns, garages, warehouses and family dwellings, are taxable. In addition, medications and tonics for farm animals will be exempt whether administered by a veterinarian or by the farmer or rancher himself.

Any farmer or rancher seeking an exemption must have an exemption certificate on file with the retailer at the time of purchase.

IF YOU HAVE ANY STATE TAX PROBLEMS OR QUESTIONS, CONTACT YOUR LOCAL COMPTROLLER'S FIELD OFFICE OR CALL TOLL-FREE 1-800-292-9687.

Farmers Union Presents Views On Estate Taxes

From the time of the last revision of federal estate taxes applicable to farms which was made in 1942, farm real estate values have soared from $33.6 billion to more than $370 billion, Jay Naman, President of the Texas Farmers Union said here today.

Naman made the statement as he released a copy of the testimony which was presented by the National Farmers Union to the Senate Finance Committee which is writing legislation revising the nation's estate tax laws.

Naman said one of the problems, brought out in the testimony is that "farm real estate values have almost doubled since 1970, pushing many farming units into a valuation level making them subject to estate taxes which virtually prevent the land from being kept in the family."

"Whereas, the transition of the farm from father to son was still possible a few years ago, it is a difficult matter today."

Reuben L. Johnson, Director of Legislative Services for National Farmers Union presented the farm organization's views before the Senate Committee.

The Farmers Union official said that on the basis of the comparative purchasing power of the dollar in 1942 and today, the federal estate tax exemption would have to be adjusted from $60,000 to about $200,000.

Naman also stressed the need for any legislation which may be adopted by the Congress in regard to federal estate taxes to include a provision requiring farms to be valued for estate tax purposes according to their value for farming, rather than their possible value for other-than-farm use.

Unemployment Presents Major Health Problem

Prolonged unemployment can be more than a pain in the pocketbook. It can cause depression, anger and even sexual impotence in some people, according to the Texas Medical Association.

Some social psychologists say unemployment is one of the nation's major mental health problems. About 283,400 Texans are unemployed, according to the most recent Texas Employment Commission statistics.

A recent study outlined in "Today's Health" magazine that people often rely on their jobs for a sense of identity and self-worth. A job even gives people a sense of time since they must function on some type of set schedule.

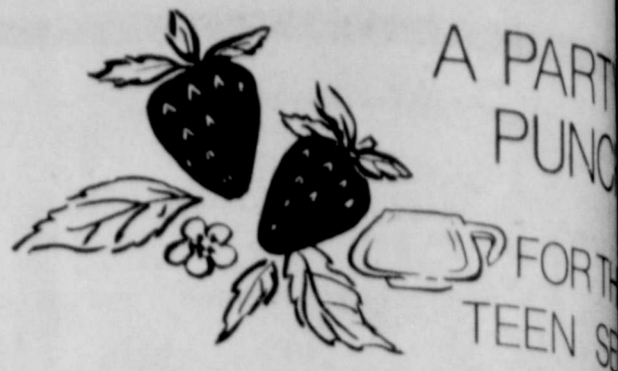

Work can give people status, a sense of independence and a means of contact with society. "Lack of work, especially for a male, puts him in a psychological no-man's-land," says the study's author, Hannah Levin, Ph. D., a New York psychology professor.

Dr. Levin says these feelings of helplessness can cause sexual problems and medical complaints and can encourage criminal behavior.

Sometimes people, attempting to relieve their feelings, strike out in anger at the nearest object. Some turn to alcohol or other drugs. Others flee to schools, hospitals or other institutional settings.

Obviously the best cure for the ills of unemployment is getting a job. But it is equally obvious this can be very difficult.

One psychiatrist suggests people work off their anger by participating in sports and other physical activities. Expanding anger in physical activity can keep stress from being internally disabling or exploding destructively.

Walter Keislager, M.D., president-elect of the Texas District Branch of the American Psychiatric Association, also suggests people keep working toward their long-range goals even if short-term aims such as quickly finding a job are frustrated. He says any kind of self-improvement effort will help keep a person from feeling powerless, apathetic, and hopeless. Study, skill improvement and exploring job possibilities in new fields all can be helpful.

People can break out of their job-hunting skills sometimes get job leads. The Texas Employment Commission, placement centers, schools, books, and press services that charge nothing. The Better Business Bureau should be consulted for using agencies or persons charge for their services. YMCA, YWCA, and others may also be able to give about classes and courses.

Mrs. Kenneth Swartz, Leslie and Lesia visited over the weekend with their mother, Mr. and Mrs. Odom.

HAMLETS... AN IMPRESSIVE BEGINNING!

Great dinners deserve an impressive beginning. Why not treat your guests to a delightfully different appetizer like Hamlets? Served piping hot from the oven, Hamlets are ham wrapped appetizers filled with either a savory mushroom rice blend or with bright asparagus spears and Swiss cheese strips. Preparation for the Hamlets is simplified by using helpers from the freezer like frozen long grain white and wild rice and frozen cut asparagus spears in butter sauce. These frozen prepared vegetables in the stay-perfect pouch will shorten the preparation. Topping the Hamlets is a bubbly, sherry flavored cheese sauce, garnished with a sprinkling of almonds.

HAMLETS

- 1 12-ounce package frozen long grain white and wild rice
- 1 9-ounce package cut asparagus spears frozen in butter sauce
- 1 2½-ounce jar sliced mushrooms, drained
- 3 8-ounce packages cooked ham slices
- 1 package Swiss cheese slices, cut in 24 strips
- ¼ cup slivered almonds

Cook rice and asparagus according to package directions. Slice ham lengthwise to form two long strips.

Mushroom Rice Filling: Place rice in a bowl, add mushrooms and fluff with a fork. Place a generous spoonful of the rice mixture on one end of half the ham slices. Roll up and place seam-side down on a 13x9 inch shallow baking dish, leaving room for the Asparagus-Cheese Hamlets.

Asparagus-Cheese Filling: Place asparagus pouch and butter sauce into a small pan; set aside for 5 minutes. Place a strip of cheese on top of the remaining ham slices. Place several cuts of asparagus at one end of each. Roll up and place seam-side down on a 13x9 inch shallow baking dish, leaving room for the mushroom filling.

Cheese-Sauce: Add 1/2 cup condensed milk to 1/2 cup cheese soup, 1/4 cup butter, 1/4 teaspoon salt to the sauce in the small bowl. Blend together until smooth. Heat through.

Pour 1/3 to 1/2 of the sauce over the Hamlets; then, sprinkle with almonds. Cover loosely with foil and bake in a 350° F. oven for 15 minutes or until heated through. Serve with the remaining sauce. Makes 48 appetizers.

Use Care In Canning Low-Acid Tomatoes

COLLEGE STATION — Tomatoes generally have a high acid content and therefore are a natural for canning.

However, certain factors can lower the acidity of these vegetables, and this calls for an additional step in canning. "Over-maturity is one of the key factors that reduces the acid content of tomatoes,"

O. D. Phillips Celebrates 90th Birthday May 30

O. D. Phillips celebrated his 90th birthday Sunday, May 30, with a party and fish fry at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. N. Helm, Jr.

Mr. Phillips enjoyed a lovely decorated birthday cake and received a number of gifts and cards.

Approximately 35 were present for the occasion.

points out Al Wagner, food technologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "This loss of acidity occurs both on and off the vine. Soft, water-soaked tomatoes should not be canned since the end product will be unsatisfactory and the risk of food poisoning is high."

Excessive rainfall combined with high temperatures can steam tomatoes, causing them to become water-soaked and to lose their acidity, explains the Texas A&M University System specialist.

"Certain varieties of tomatoes are less acid although information is still lacking on this factor," notes Wagner. "The Golden varieties have a tendency to be lower in acidity than most other varieties, but there is no real proof that they fall into the low-acid class. The varieties Patio and Beefsteak have also been considered by some to be lower in acidity."

If the housewife happens to have a supply of low-acid tomatoes to can, what steps should be taken to do this safely?

"The best precaution in canning low-acid tomatoes is to add 1/4 teaspoon of citric acid per pint," advises

Income Tax Refunds Still Available

COLLEGE STATION — Federal income tax refunds may still be available to some consumers even though the

Wagner "Although this lowers the acidity of the tomatoes to protect them from food poisoning bacteria, it will not improve the quality of the tomatoes. Therefore, it's important that only fresh-picked, firm tomatoes be canned."

The main thing about canning tomatoes is to maintain the acid level below a pH of 4.6 to keep the spores of Clostridium botulinum, the most potent of all food poisoning bacteria, from germinating. A simple boiling water bath which is sufficient for processing high-acid tomatoes is not safe when canning low-acid types, cautions Wagoneer.

April 15 deadline for filing, a tax return has passed, Lynn Bourland, a family resource management specialist, says. "Those not required to file a federal income tax return may still be entitled to a refund and earned-income credit refunds range in amounts up to $400. The Internal Revenue Service expected three million returns for this type of refund and have received only 300,000," she said.

Miss Bourland is with the Texas Agricultural Extension service, The Texas A&M University System.

Consumers who meet these requirements should file now, she said.

Individual or couple, must have at least one dependent child who is a student or under age 19 and living at home.

Earned income or adjusted gross income for 1975 must have been less than $8,000.

Gross income does not include Social Security benefits or the portion of pension benefits that is a refund of the original retirement investment.

Questions Commonly Asked About Frozen Foods

Q. Can the handling of frozen foods impair nutritional qualities?
 A. Improper handling of frozen foods can cause nutritional losses. Frozen foods should be stored as soon as possible after purchase. A freezer temperature of 0 degrees or lower assures the best retention of vitamin content. At storage of above 15°F, easily oxidizable vitamins will be lost after a while.

Q. How can you find out if your freezer is at 0 degrees?

A. Equip your freezer with a refrigerator/freezer thermometer and check the air temperature fairly often. Adjust the temperature as close to 0°F, as possible.

Q. Do frozen foods lose a lot of their "fresh" quality due to freezing?

A. No. Frozen foods are frozen at the peak of perfection, before there has been deterioration, either nutritionally or in flavor, quality or texture. In the case of vegetables, frozen food packers freeze and lock-in quality as quickly as possible after picking. Frozen vegetables retain virtually all of the characteristics of fresh-picked vegetables. The color and texture remains the same as when fresh.

Q. Can frozen foods "spoil" if you keep them in the freezer too long?

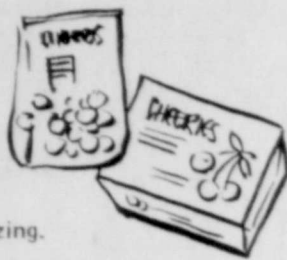

A. Estimates show that frozen foods will last up to a year if stored consistently at 0°F. A general rule is that as the temperature is raised, the life of the frozen food is decreased. Frozen food does not "spoil" in the freezer. However, it can lose some vitamin content, color, taste and texture if kept at too high a temperature for an extended period of time.

Q. What food should not be frozen at home?

A. Some foods should not be frozen at home because of spoilage, bacteria or just an unappetizing appearance when thawed. For example, you should not freeze milk and cream, yogurt or similar milk products. This goes for creamed cottage cheese and unwhipped whipping cream (you can freeze it after it is whipped). Also, cooked macaroni, spaghetti, noodles and rice do not take to home freezing. Fresh, whole tomatoes, raw potatoes, potato salad, unbaked butter or yeast dough, custard pies, layer cakes with soft fillings, egg white frostings and cracker canapés also are not recommended for home freezing.

Q. Isn't food frozen at home just as good as food that has been commercially frozen?

A. Usually the quality is not the same. Home freezers do not freeze food as fast as do commercial freezing operations. Therefore, the original quality of the food is better when it has been commercially frozen. Moreover, commercial freezing utilizes foods grown especially for processing and these are more suited to freezing than raw ingredients purchased from a store.

Q. Do frozen foods need to be thawed before cooking?

A. Many frozen products are formulated and packaged expressly to be cooked from the frozen state. The best source of information on thawing and cooking is the package. All frozen food companies have worked out heating or cooking methods which are best for that particular product.

Richburg Family Enjoys Weekend Reunion At Community Center

June 5th and 6th was an important date for 80 guests and descendants of Henry Clinton Richburg (early Texas settler) when they met for their annual family reunion at the Community Building in Memphis, Texas.

The first session of the reunion was at 7:15 p.m. on Saturday June 5th. Approximately 60 persons attended this initial meeting where a "snack" supper was served. The program for the evening consisted of a talk with flanel-graph illustrations by Byron and Marjorie Richburg of Neosho, Missouri. This talk was information on the Richburg family tree which this couple had been researching for some time. They reported that only recently they had made the complete "link" back to 1699 when the first Richburg of their line came to this country from France, via England. Following a question and answer period about various members in the family line, gifts were presented to the special honored guests, the living children of Henry Clinton Richburg; Mrs. Ollie Dunlap, Mrs. Viola Stroup and L. C. Richburg. One child, Monroe, could not be present and his gift was accepted by his daughter, Mrs. Lois Clements. These gifts had been prepared by Byron and Marjorie in recognition of this being the Bicentennial year. Just before adjournment, this couple was presented a "love offering" in recognition of their efforts in compiling the family history and to help defray some of their expenses in this effort.

The group reconvened Sunday morning, June 6th, with approximately 80 persons in attendance. The morning was spent in visiting and comparing notes over the past year's events (and considerable discussion and picture showing of grandchildren). Following the noon meal, Mrs. Alma Earl, Fort Worth, the 1976 Reunion President, called the group to order for a short program and business meeting. Mrs. Earl asked for reports from family members as to some of the individual accomplishments for the year. Several reports were given and special recognition was made of the 1976 graduates. Mrs. Sue Price of Hope, Arkansas, was recognized for her efforts in preparing a "Richburg Reunion" cake and for the piano and dulcimer numbers she had presented earlier in the day. Mrs. Buena Dunlap of Chanute, Kansas, gave a brief memorial in honor of those family members who were deceased, closing with a moment of silence and prayer. The Secretary - Treasurer, Mrs. Mozelle Richburg, of Lakeview, reported on the cost of the Reunion and each family's responsibility. Officers for the 1977 Reunion were elected as follows: Byron Richburg, President; Marjorie Richburg, Vice-President; Mozelle Richburg, Secretary - Treasurer. The 1977 Reunion again to be in the Community Building in Memphis the first weekend in June.

The following persons attended the 1976 meeting:

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Richburg, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Earl, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Colvin, of Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stroup of Paradise; Mr. and Mrs. James Spencer, Gary, Linda & Connie, Mrs. Sandra Penn, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Browder, Paul, Penni, and Misti of Amarillo; Mrs. Ollie Dunlap, Mr. and Mrs. M. Mrs. Summerour Takes Honors With TFWC

Mrs. Buzz (Nell) Summerour of Dalhart, formerly of Estelline and daughter of Mrs. W. P. Couch, has received several awards through her work with the Las Viajeras Study Club of Dalhart, a member of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Summerour, who was instrumental in starting a hot lunch program for the Satellite Day Care Center for retarded children in the Dalhart Community, was named the Outstanding Clubwoman for Top of Texas District two years ago.

The club also used the Hot Lunch program as their Community Improvement Project which is a two-year contest, and was chosen as winner of the Top of Texas District, thus being eligible for the state contest.

At the TFWC state convention in Lubbock on April 28 and 30, the club won 5th place for their CIP entry. The club was awarded a check and certificate. The money received will be used for the lunch fund.

A graduate of Estelline High School, Mrs. Summerour will be remembered as an outstanding basketball player. She played for Dowells Dolls in the AAU tourney her senior year.

Mr. and Mrs. Summerour have three children, Shana, 14, Shelly 12, and Berry 9. They are part owners of the Summerour Registered Hereford Ranch near Dalhart.

Take A Lemon-y Patio Break

It doesn't really matter whether you have a fancy patio, airy porch or old-fashioned front stoop to use as your outdoors get-away. What does matter is if you have a batch of Lemon Squares on hand to enjoy with a cooling glass of lemonade or iced tea when you take a break to chat with friends, admire the neighborhood or watch clouds roll by.

These Lemon Squares have a wonderfully refreshing filling made in a jiffy with just three ingredients. The top and bottom crust is crisp and crunchy, a blend that includes 3-Minute Brand Oats, brown sugar and butter. The sweet, nutty flavor of the oats crust provides the perfect flavor match for the tart lemon filling. The oat for all seasons finds one of its best uses in these Squares. Take them on your patio breaks now — but don't forget them when you move in beside the fire this winter!

One of the things happening among some of the country's top economists today is to move back to basics under the complicated sounding title "microeconomics." Applying some of the principles of the "new" approach does prove helpful in understanding some of the old economic cliches such as "spend money at home." Let's look at a town through a "micro" view. Call the town Supersmall . . . only five people: Aaron, Bertha, Charles, Dorothy and Edith. Economically the town is stable until Aaron receives $100 dollars as a Christmas gift. He buys groceries sold by Bertha, who buys a new dress made by Dorothy, who buys a new battery for a car from Charles, who buys a special home-cooked meal from Edith, who puts the money in her savings account, which will be used by the bank for a loan to Aaron, who will buy from Charles . . . etc. . . etc. At any point, if one of the people involved in the chain had spent the money out of town, all other economic benefits would have been lost. If things stand, the ten dollars could easily improve the economy of Supersmall by ten to twenty times the original value. Even though super-simplified, the "micro" look at a town's economy is very accurate. Think about it the next time you buy.

The Scientists Tell Me...

Texas Food and Fiber Production Is Boosted by "Super Cottons"

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

Cotton, an extremely important source of food and fiber, has responded to scientific improvement efforts with astonishing yield increases.

Texas has been the nation's leading cotton producing state since 1880 and produces about 30 percent of the cotton grown in the U.S. and 7 percent of world production. This "white gold," as it's sometimes called, means much more return to Texas than just hundreds of millions of dollars of income.

Food, feed, and natural fiber are all produced by this remarkable plant. From its fiber comes duck, denim, and a variety of more delicate fabrics widely used for clothing, sheets, towels, upholstery and draperies.

From its seed, when crushed, we get an oil used for cooking and making food such as oleomargarine. The crushed seed make a nutritious meal widely used for livestock feed. And harvested cotton, before ginning for lint removal, is more than two-thirds seed.

A new use for the seed is as a tasty human food called TAMU nuts. These nuts are made by a process developed by scientists with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES).

Heavy Rains Affect Some Produce Areas

COLLEGE STATION — Consumer care in fresh fruit and vegetable selection is the byword for the next few weeks, as produce supplies may be out of balance due to heavy rains in some growing areas.

Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt advised consumers to make selections carefully — from a quality and price standpoint. The consumer marketing information specialist is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

At vegetable counters carrot prices are up slightly, but they are still the low "cost-per-serving" choice, she said.

Vegetables with lower prices are soft shell squash, especially the yellow variety, and corn from Florida.

"New-crop red potatoes are more plentiful — while other good choices are cabbage, collards, mustard greens, radishes and green onions."

At fruit counters, grapefruit remains moderately plentiful — and strawberries are lower in price as supplies increase.

"Cantaloupe supplies are increasing, but they continue rather small in size — and a few honeydew melons are available at relatively high prices.

"Other economical fruit choices are apples, bananas, pineapples and pears."

At beef counters, consumers can expect price increases on the retail level — due to higher prices at the wholesale level, Mrs. Clyatt said.

"If consumers find 'specials' on beef cuts that they use often — and they can spare the money, it would be well to buy extras to put into the freezer," she added. "Generally, for greatest economy, consider chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks and liver."

At poultry counters, fryer-chicken specials make them a good choice in many stores, and turkey parts offer good eating at reasonable prices, Mrs. Clyatt said.

Egg prices are a bit lower — with large size the best combination of quality and economy.

Consumer Watch words: Breakfast economy can be tricky, especially with biscuits, hotcakes or waffles.

"From-scratch" biscuits are more economical than ready-to-bake or "mix" varieties.

But hotcake or waffle mixes cost only about two-thirds as much as homemade varieties — and frozen varieties are three times as expensive.

Still other uses of the seed include cottonseed flour, which is extra high in protein.

So, in view of cotton's usefulness, it's good news that scientists have developed improved cottons that are better suited to Texas conditions and give remarkably better yields.

As an example, cotton yields on a per acre basis have doubled in San Patricio County, Texas, during the past five years. And most of the gain can be attributed to Tamcot SP37, a new cotton variety planted on 93 percent of the cotton land in the County last year.

SP37 is one of a number of improved varieties farmers are already calling "super cottons." The first releases (Tamcots SP21, SP23, SP37) are early steps in a long-range cotton improvement program. These newest varieties called Multi-Adversity-Resistant (MAR) cotton, are the result of years of breeding work by scientists with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES). Some even newer varieties being tested, when released to producers about 1979, are expected to give a 100-pound per acre yield advantage over today's "super cottons" and cut production costs by about 30 percent.

MAR cottons have resistance to a multitude of problems that hurt yields in ordinary cottons. Among these are a host of insects as well as seed mold, seed deterioration, seedling diseases, bacterial blight, the Fusarium wilt-root knot nematode complex, Verticillium wilt, nematodes, Phymatotrichum root rot, boll rots, fungus leaf spots, and Southwestern cotton rust. Did you realize a poor cotton plant had so many enemies?

The MAR genetic improvement procedure makes it relatively easy to combine high yield potential and earliness with resistance to adversities. This means that cotton produces a crop earlier in the year to escape such problems as damaging fall rains and insect buildup.

For example, okra leaf and frego bract characteristics are both readily visible to the eye and are now being incorporated into MAR strains. The okra leaf character has the desirable advantages of earliness, reduced boll rot, an overall reduction in trash, and reduction in boll weevil damage.

The frego bract resists boll weevil damage. The cotton fleahopper is the major plant bug species which occurs in the Coastal Bend area. So TAES scientist Luther Bird, who has been a leader in developing these improved cottons, now seeks to add these characteristics that give resistance to the boll weevil even though frego bract increases susceptibility to the fleahopper.

An associate of Bird's, Ed Pieters, says that from a pest management point of view, it is far easier to manage fleahoppers than boll weevils. Generally the level of fleahopper populations can be estimated through sampling and subsequently controlled with insecticides that are cheaper and less ecologically disrupting than those used on the boll weevil.

Such plant improvement work, when combined with management research, should give systems for cotton production that will make it possible for Texans to average more than one bale per acre for the state by the end of this decade. A 5-million acre crop would have an annual value (40 cents per pound for fiber and $100 per ton for seed) of $1.25 billion for fiber and seed. This will make a significant contribution to making Texas number one in agriculture.

The goal is to immunize the population in a three-month period running from September through November of 1976. The nation has never attempted an immunization program of such scope and intensity. It will require a major effort by both the public and private sectors of health care.

Essentially, the plan relies on the Federal government for its purchasing power to obtain the quantities of vaccine necessary, and for technical leadership and coordination through the national Center for Disease Control. State health agencies will be called on to translate the plans into action, using their manpower and experience in conducting systematic immunization programs. The private health care sector has joined in to offer its support and its extensive medical and other health related resources. The Texas Medical Association unanimously passed a resolution supporting the mass flu immunization campaign at their recent state meeting.

The strategy is to tailor the approach to the opportunity and the need — using mass immunization techniques where appropriate, but also using delivery points already in place, such as physicians' offices, health department clinics, and community health centers. The use of volunteers and volunteer organizations will also be a very important part of the campaign.

Actually, the first stages of the mass immunization campaign will begin about mid-July. A special vaccine for older people and people with chronic illness will be made available at that time.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fowler and granddaughters, Sarah Fowler and Julie Fowler, have returned from a two weeks vacation in the northeastern states.

While gone they visited New York City, Boston, Washington and many other scenic points in that part of the United States. They reported a most enjoyable vacation.

Sandy McMurry of Amarillo has been visiting here for the past two weeks with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gip McMurry. She returned home at mid-week.

Immunization For Swine Flu Now Underway

A new strain of influenza virus appeared in February at Fort Dix, New Jersey. This newly identified virus has antigenic properties (or antibody producing characteristics) similar to a flu virus that occurs in swine. This small outbreak in New Jersey was the first instance of the swine-like influenza virus being transmitted from man to man.

Because of the implications of this new flu outbreak, health officials in Texas are now gearing up for the largest mass immunization campaign in the state's history. Part of a nationwide effort to protect the American people from an expected epidemic of New Jersey A flu (sometimes called "Swine flu"), the Texas campaign will attempt to provide the protective vaccine to at least 10 million Texans.

The goal is to immunize the population in a three-month period running from September through November of 1976. The nation has never attempted an immunization program of such scope and intensity. It will require a major effort by both the public and private sectors of health care.

Mrs. Herchel Combs visited in Wellington Sunday with her mother, Mrs. L. A. Dickey and aunt, Mrs. L. W. McClure.

A "bivalent" vaccine providing protection from both the New Jersey A influenza virus (Swine Flu) and the recent Victoria A strain of last year will be available to this target population considered to be at risk. The immunization of the general population against the New Jersey A virus will begin about the first of September.

One can imagine the complexity of trying to immunize almost the entire population of the nation in such a short period of time. Fortunately, public health authorities and private medicine in Texas have had a recent experience in mass immunization. Since the passage of the mandatory "school immunization law" in 1972, several million Texas school children have been immunized against certain diseases. It was accomplished by the Texas Department of Health Resources' public health regions, by local health departments across the state, and by physicians in private practice.

The mass flu immunization campaign will, of course, be a voluntary participation campaign. But state health officials emphasize that to prevent an epidemic, it is necessary that practically all of the people be vaccinated.

The swine influenza virus has been implicated in the 1918 epidemic of influenza that killed 20 million people all over the world, with over 500 thousand deaths in the United States. The 1918 "pandemic" (or world-wide epidemic) was unique because of its high mortality and the fact that so many of the fatalities occurred among apparently healthy young men and women. By comparison, the Asian flu of 1957 — the most severe influenza epidemic since — caused an estimated 70,000 deaths, primarily among the elderly or individuals with chronic illness.

Influenza is a respiratory disease caused by a virus. There are two main types of influenza virus — A and B. Each type includes various strains. Type A epidemics are generally more frequent and severe.

From time to time, new virus strains develop. When this happens, and if the strains are quite different from previous ones, they may

Senator Bentsen Writes -

Bentsen Bill On Social Security Will Improve Fiscal Soundness In Funds

In 1972 Congress acted to stabilize the Social Security system and protect recipients from political whim.

The problem is that the amendments approved by Congress contain hidden defects that will mean long-term instability for the system and anything but peace of mind for the millions of Americans who depend on Social Security.

I have offered legislation to correct the problem. And a recent report by the trustees of the Social Security system confirms that my bill would stabilize the system and cut the projected long-term deficit by half.

The goal of the 1972 amendments was sound. Months, sometimes years elapsed between the time the cost-of-living changed and the time Congress acted to make Social Security benefits reflect that change. These amendments automatically tie the benefits to the cost-of-living. If it goes up, benefits do too. If it goes down they follow.

But the mechanism for determining changes in the cost-of-living is flawed. Although the legislation works as it was meant to work now — and will continue to do so in the near future — it will eventually lead to wide discrepancies in the relationship between an individual's earnings before retirement and the Social Security benefits that person later receives.

Over the next 50-75 years, individuals who retire could receive benefits as high as 245 percent of their earnings before retirement. Clearly, this kind of benefit — exceeding a worker's highest earnings — was never intended to be offered by the Social Security system.

If the flaws in this legislation are not corrected the tax needed to support such a system could be as high as 40 percent of a worker's earnings because people have not had any previous exposure to them. Consequently, the population has not built up any specific immunity against them.

Once every 10 years or so the change is more dramatic, and this is when we have extensive outbreaks such as the pandemic of Asian flu of 1957 and the Hong Kong flu of 1968.

When a new virus appears, it's normally followed by an epidemic. Public health officials want to keep history from repeating itself in the form of another flu that could take thousands of lives.

persons currently retired and receiving benefits. And it would not change the provision enacted in 1972 for automatic cost-of-living increases in benefits after retirement.

Right now people are contributing to the Social Security system without any idea of what benefits they will get when they retire. They can even be sure that the system will have enough money to pay them what they are entitled to.

My bill will improve the fiscal soundness of the Social Security trust funds by stabilizing the relationship between earnings and benefits. It will insure that the Social Security system performs creditably over the long haul.

It would have no effect on percent of this country's payroll, or in the alternative, the Social Security system would go bankrupt.

Today, one out of every seven Americans receives benefits from our Social Security system. And over 100 million Americans are paying the taxes that support it.

We must reassure beneficiaries and taxpayers alike that the system is working and that it will remain financially strong.

My bill, which has the full support of the Federal Council on the Aging, is a vital step in that direction.

Here is how it would work.

As the law now stands the ratio between a worker's earnings and his projected Social Security benefits changes each year according to changes in the cost-of-living.

The Bentsen bill would stabilize the Social Security system by providing a stable relationship between earnings and benefits.

It would have no effect on

She is ready to give a program for Rotary and Clubs. Best wishes for safe return home and she has not taken up foreign language that I do not understand.

I received a letter from Gammage the past week. She enclosed a check for her husband, Will E. Gammage. Sammie, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Salmon, graduated from Lakeview High in 1861. After graduating she attended nurses school in Fort Worth, lived in Lubbock and in Ohio two different times and in Florida four years. She is now living in Clarendon. The Roland Salmons, the others are Mickie of Austin and Nolan who lives on the farm west of Lesley. The other child in this family is Gay who served 8 years in the Marine Corps and is now living in San Luis Obispo, Calif. Sammie is now Mrs. Goodwin and has a daughter 11 years old. Roland's father, Morgan Salmon, moved to Hall County near Brice about 1890. Mrs. Roland Salmon had the distinction of being born in two counties, Hood and Coryell, as their home where her parents lived was on the line of these two counties. Our best wishes and congratulations to Sammie on her art work.

We visited with Mack Graham a few days ago and found out that he has reached a goal in his life here that might be hard to catch up with. Mack has worked for the Memphis Press for a total of 54 years and worked with four generations of people. He has probably helped press 5 million bales of cotton. When most of the boys started playing a violin for the past 60 years, Mack does not believe in retiring as he thinks he might rust. HIGHTOWER WASHINGTON HIGHLIGHTS from Congressman Jack Hightower

Congressman Jack Hightower today introduced a bill that would mandate accountability by the federal bureaucracy. The bill, which could be characterized as a "sunset bill," would eliminate within five years of its enactment certain federal regulatory agencies or significant major functions of those agencies which the President and the Congress determine to have outlived their usefulness. Thereafter the remaining agencies, their successors or new regulatory agencies would be evaluated at least once every seven years by the President and the Congress and subjected to the same test of usefulness. They would automatically be terminated unless the President and the Congress agreed that their continued existence was justified.

If an agency were eliminated, the bill would authorize the orderly transfer of such functions, power and duties

Tulare, Calif. Contributions may be made to the Friends Comm. on National Legislation, 245 Second St., NE, Washington, D. C. 20002. Charlotte and Elizabeth Boykin are daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Boykin who were early day pioneers here, and I think Mr. Boykin moved here from Chicago after a stock market crash and put in one of the first lumber yards in Memphis. The Boykin Drive on Highway 287 was named for this Boykin family who moved from Memphis several years ago. They will be remembered by many of our senior citizens.

Word came to us that Mrs. Pearl Massey, mother of Alvin, fell and broke her hip. She is now in the Baylor Medical Center Hospital at Dallas.

A quote was brought to my mind the past week with the passing away of Mike Tucker, "The old MUST die and the young MAY die." A few months ago Mike's grandfather, Tommie Potts, passed away at 85 years of age and the grandson passing away at an early age of 34. Both of these men lived a useful and colorful life in the time they were spared on this earth. I think Tommie Michael chose his profession at an early age, as I can remember when Grandpa Tommie bought his grandson the largest "Gene Autry" two-gun double holster set that Mike could hardly walk with it at his early age. Mike Tucker and our oth- er highway patrolmen patrol two highways, our state and the highways of life. We do not know the number of lives that Mike saved on the highway of life when he placed his life ahead of the people on the highway to protect their lives. Mike passed away performing his duty. I wonder sometimes how many of us utter a prayer for our highway patrol who take so many chances of life as they patrol the two highways and so many times almost have to be a judge and a jury as well as a doctor. May the Good Lord watch over our highway patrol each day of their lives.

that had been determined to be essential to the President or to a successor agency designated by him. Such a transfer plan submitted by the President.

Hightower said that long before he was elected to Congress he recognized the fact that regulatory agencies had become a form of government unto themselves. "Before my election I said they should be subjected to intensive congressional review every 10 years," he said. "Having witnessed firsthand some of their actions during the past 17 months, I have become convinced that 10 years would be too lenient."

The Congressman said rules and regulations promulgated by regulatory agencies touch virtually every aspect of our lives. "Supposedly each agency was established to satisfy a critical need," he said, "but their growth in recent years has been phenomenal and they seem to create needs to justify their existence."

"Regulations concerning everything from hospitals to funeral homes have literally made the federal government the unwitting partner of every individual from the cradle to the grave," he said.

Hightower said the most alarming tendency of the regulatory agencies is to ignore completely the intent of Congress in the laws that provide the basis for the rules and regulations.

"The bureaucracies make their own interpretations of the laws enacted by Congress," he said, "and by the time the law has been translated into rules and regulations there is often no detectable relationship to the original law."

Hightower said other bills similar to his have been introduced and that he believes more will follow. "I believe there has been a change of attitude, even in this Congress," Hightower said. "Although far too many Members still believe the federal government can solve all our problems, there seems to be an increasing willingness to vote for amendments that would place some restraints on the regulatory agencies."

SUMMER FLOWERS FOR INSTANT COLOR

Many types of flowers are available to provide instant color for the summer landscape, points out a landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. These include petunias, marigolds, coleus, celosia, dwarf dahlias and phlox, impatiens, begonias and periwinkles. To get the best effect with these flowers, try concentrating them in a few strategic locations. Buy plants that are short and stocky with healthy green foliage. For immediate color, buy plants with flower buds showing.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights
by Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — A five per cent reduction in state government workers during the next three years has been recommended by the joint Advisory Committee on Government Operations.

The payroll cut was among 15 recommendations of the 18-member panel headed by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

Executive and legislative budget boards were directed to formulate a plan to increase productivity of state employees starting Sept. 1, 1977.

Panel members figured a five per cent work force trimming can be brought about largely by leaving jobs vacant when employees resign or retire.

Commission members deadlocked on a proposal to limit the expansion of government employment to the population growth rate of about 1.6 per cent annually. Instead, they came up with a general limitation on increases to be lifted only when existing employees can no longer handle the work load or new assignments mandated by federal action.

The number of state employees grew 107 per cent between 1963 and 1975, and payroll costs have grown 357 per cent. During the period, the population increased 19 per cent.

Commissioners also recommended abolishing the State Building Commission, consolidating 300 state funds and allowing the legislature to give the governor budget execution controls.

Special Session Urged

A new call for a special legislative session on rising utilities bills was issued by Sen. A.R. Schwartz of Galveston.

Schwartz presented a petition by voters in his district urging Gov. Dolph Briscoe to summon lawmakers for rescue measures benefitting consumers.

The senator also pre- filed in the Senate three bills designed to cut utilities bills as much as 15 per cent. They would remove the sales tax from residential gas and electricity, shift gas regulation to the Public Utilities Commission and impose a five cents per 1,000 cubic feet tax on natural gas producers in place of the present levy to equalize the in-state out-of-state tax load.

Storm Toll High

Recent storms in Texas did more than $7 million worth of damage, according to Texas insurance industry estimates.

Heavy damage was recorded in Dallas, Graham, Mineral Wells and Olney. Estimates did not include damage from Central Texas and Hill Country storms.

State Insurance Board Chairman Joe Christie said the insurance industry is trying to handle storm claims promptly.

Bank Study Out

Total reorganization of the State Banking Department, better-paid bank examiners and changes in examination procedures were recommended by a recent management study.

Courts Speak

Court of Criminal Appeals reversed a Fort Worth kidnapping conviction because prosecutors suppressed the fact an accomplice witness was involved in plea bargaining. Texas Supreme Court heard oral arguments over whether deposed District Judge O.P. Carrillo can be removed from the bench through Judicial Qualifications Commission action for misconduct not related to his judicial duties.

A 53rd District Court jury awarded $10,000 damages to an Austin black man who charged two Austin police officers used excessive force in arresting him for allegedly violating their order. Lawyers for the policemen say they will appeal.

AG Opinions

Texas Railroad Commission is not authorized or required to issue certificates of convenience and necessity to gas utilities under the Public Utility Regulatory Act., Atty. Gen. John Hill stated.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded: Teachers employed by Texas Youth Council have vacation rights of state employees and cannot transfer sick leave benefits from other districts.

Cities can contract with a private organization for restoring, operating and maintaining historic homes for public benefit.

Whether a natural gas pipeline or a gas utility is a common carrier subject to Railroad Commission regulation depends on whether it holds itself out as available to transport gas to all who desire its services.

Portions of an El Paso Special Commission on Crime report evaluating identifiable employees are exempt from required public disclosure.

Handbook Published

Eighty per cent of Texas' population is now classified as urban, according to the updated Handbook of Governments in Texas. The Handbook is a compilation of information on functions, government organization and finances of Texas' 254 counties and 192 home-rule cities.

Texas now has 13 home rule cities over 100,000, 15 with 50,000 to 100,000 and 164 under 50,000. Eighteen counties have more than 100,000 population and 153 more than 10,000.

Texas cities spend the largest percentage of their funds (26 per cent) on utilities, 11.1 per cent on sewerage and sanitation, 10.2 per cent on police protection and 9.5 per cent on highways. Counties spend the most (30.9 per cent) on highways. General county operations take 13.5 per cent, hospitals 13.3 per cent and police protection 6.6 per cent.

Short Snorts

Millions of dollars in crops were lost due to recent storms which slammed the state.

The Railroad Commission called a July 12 hearing on Southern Union Gas Company's application to abandon service July 26 to rural unincorporated areas in the Panhandle formerly served by Western Gas Service.

Applications to drill oil and gas tests in Texas totaled 7,328 through May, an increase from 6,447 for the January-May period in 1975.

A $2.1 million highway safety improvement program calls for work in Amarillo, Fort Worth, Odessa, Lufkin, Austin, San Antonio, Beaumont and Pharr districts.

Gospel Tones To Represent County At Panhandle Festival '76 Sunday

The Gospel Tones will be performing at the Panhandle Festival '76 in Amarillo Sunday, June 13 in behalf of Hall County for the Texas Panhandle wide celebration.

The group is being sponsored by the Memphis Chamber of Commerce and members of the gospel singing group are: Mary Fulcher and Jenny Glenn of Wellington, Ginger White and Janiea of Memphis.

The Gospel Tones will be among the many performers appearing during the 3 day festival located on the Amarillo Tri State Fair Grounds this weekend June 11, 12, and 13th.

Local Boys State Delegates Arrive In Austin

Austin, June 9 — The thirty-sixth annual American Legion Boys State sponsored by the Department of Texas and held on the Campus of The University of Texas, got under way today as 900 high school boys from all parts of Texas, and two from Mexico, began registration, Larry Labajo, Department Commander, announced.

Among those registering from Memphis, were Charles Dean Gregory, Val J. Stone and Paul Blaine Ables, who were sponsored by local American Legion Posts.

Following registration, each citizen was assigned to one of two political parties: the Nationalist or Federalist. Each citizen then functions as a member of his party, he attends its precinct, county and state conventions and votes in its primary.

Boys State helps to develop civic leadership and pride in American citizenship. This program arouses a keen interest in the detailed study of our government. These civic workshops stress the importance of maintaining our form of government and bring better understanding of our national traditions and beliefs to the more than 28,000 young men who are participating this year.

In Boys State, The American Legion provides the type of program where the young citizen has the opportunity to learn for himself that his government is just what he makes it. The boy learns to do by doing.

The program takes on added significance since the vote has been extended to 18 year olds. Most Boys Staters are in the 16 to 17 age category.

Highlights of Boys State will be a trip to the Capitol on Tuesday morning where each elected Boys State Official will be given an opportunity to serve in his respective office for a day.

Charles R. Townsend will be on sale at the Memphis Chamber of Commerce booth all three days of the Panhandle Festival '76.

All of the Texas Panhandle counties will have their bicentennial medals available during the Festival and this will be the only opportunity for area citizens to see and inspect all of the many designs that each county has designated for their commemorative bicentennial medal.

The Chamber of Commerce booth will be located in the Arts Exhibit Building all 3 days of the Festival and will be operated by Chamber secretary Sandra Egan, Stacy Farnsworth, Pam Penny, and several of the Chamber Directors.

Everyone is invited to attend the 3 day event most especially the children of Hall County. This is the climax of our bicentennial activities for the year.

A dead person may vote, legally, if he mails an absentee ballot and then dies before election day.

The Veterans Administration forecasts the nation's veteran's population will peak at 39.7 million in fiscal year 1979.

POULTRY RECEIPTS UP FOR 1975

Although poultry consumption was down in the U. S. last year, total cash receipts from poultry were up, note poultry specialists for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. In Texas cash receipts from poultry were up $39 million from that of 1974 and $8 million above the previous high of 1973. Cash receipts from poultry in Texas in 1975 totaled $343 million, over 5 per cent of the total poultry industry in the U. S. Texas ranked sixth in total cash receipts from poultry products last year.

Holdout Communities Face Loss Of Boll Weevil Program Help

LUBBOCK — Communities along the eastern edge of the Caprock of the Texas South Plains face possible loss of participation in the joint producer - USDA funded Diapause Boll Weevil Control Program if holdouts in their area continue to thwart efforts to stop the weevil's migration onto the Plains.

In a strongly worded statement released recently in Lubbock by the steering committee of the boll weevil control program, steps were mapped out which would lead to the exclusion of communities where producers having significant amounts and locations of acreage refuse to participate.

Such action could possibly affect several area counties where pockets of holdouts exist.

The statement was compiled by the Technical Advisory Committee of the control program and adopted by the steering committee. The advisory group is made up of representatives of Plains Cotton Growers, based in Lubbock, Plant Protection and Quarantine Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Texas Department of Agriculture, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Texas A&M University, and several representatives of the cotton and allied communities.

The steering committee is composed of 10 persons from the South Plains area.

The Diapause Boll Weevil Control Program was begun in 1964 along a 15-county area stretching from the upper South Plains southward and southwestward to the New Mexico line; along the Caprock. Its purpose is to use pest management concepts, including spraying and field scouting, to prevent the boll weevil from migrating westward from its overwintering areas along the Caprock.

Officials believe they have successfully prevented the establishment of overwintering infestations above the Caprock on the Texas High Plains and eastern New Mexico by treating infested fields along the Caprock. Cotton producers in this area voluntarily participate in the program which is administered by producers through Plains Cotton Growers and the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Plant Protection and Quarantine.

Producers refusing to participate give a number of reasons for holding out, the statement said. Many of them say they are fearful that treatments may open the door to bollworm infestations.

To overcome the threat of a bollworm problem, officials have adopted recommendations of the advisory committee that treatments for boll weevil control be delayed from August 25 to September 6. This has the effect of delaying the disruption of beneficial insect activity which keeps the bollworm in check.

A second step to counter the objection would be to continue the practice of providing for bollworm counts in the field along with weevil counts. During the fall, field scouts are customarily sent out to survey weevil infestations. This second measure includes survey of bollworm activity as well.

According to the statement, the steering committee aims to "make the best use of public and private funds which have been made available in good faith." The way to do this, the report concludes, is for treatment activities to be restricted to those areas in which there is "a reasonable chance that effectiveness can be maintained."

To accomplish this, the committee outlined in the statement the following procedures for dealing with the holdout problem:

Contact will be made with holdouts in efforts to persuade them to participate on a continuing basis. If this fails, an appropriate committee will consider and evaluate their cotton acreage and its location within the community. Should this acreage and location render impractical and ineffective the spraying of other cotton in that community, that community will be dropped from the program.

If the community should be dropped, financial and agricultural leaders as well as news media in the area will be notified of this action.

The community (a defined geographical area) to be determined by the review committee) will be excluded for the remainder of the season or until such time that the requesting readmittance.

Provisions also were outlined in the statement for dealing with potential holdouts. When USDA and PCG personnel are notified by growers that they do not want their fields to be sprayed, efforts will be made to "persuade them to say in the program. If this fails, the growers will be told that their request will be honored, but that their names can not be held confidential when there are inquiries about holdouts."

USDA and PCG officials say the steering committee adopted the statement with no ill feelings or harassment intended, but simply to make the best use of tax money and private funds which have been made available to the Diapause Boll Weevil Control Program for its specific goals.

The recommendations of the statement take effect with the 1976 treatment program which already is being napped out.

Officials said information about the statement can be obtained by calling or writing Plains Cotton Growers or USDA-Plant Protection and Quarantine, in Lubbock.
