WEATHER SUMMARY

The weather the past seven days has continued to be hot and dry. Farmers are wishing for additional moisture as cotton plants are blooming. A good two-inch rain would be a real blessing.

Further, he has spoken and taught at Full Gospel Business Men's Chapters in various locations. He has written and published a booklet entitled "An Introduction to Holy Spirit Baptism." He is composer of gospel music, including hymns, choruses, scripture tunes; and has published both sheet music and two long play albums of some of his own compositions. Both he and his wife, Evelyn, have worked as Youth Counsellors and as prayer group leaders in the C. F. O. movement and both are on the council ring of C. F. O. at Ardmore, Okla. They minister together often as a team and perform music together.

The 1976 edition of the Memphis Cyclone will take the field Friday night in a controlled scrimmage against the Stinnett Rattlers at 8 p.m. in Cyclone Stadium. The Cyclone after a 5-5 season last year, is taking on the Class A Rattlers who finished 3-7 last year, and neither team are picked very high in their respective district standings. The Rattlers return 10 lettermen and only three starters each way. Memphis returns 15 lettermen back, including seven offensive and four defensive starters. The only two Memphis backfield regulars from last season are Kirk Fields, 6-3, 175-lb. fullback and Pete Salinas, 5-6, 135-lb. wingback or tailback. Don Cofer, who saw some time at Quarterback last season, will be the man under for the Cyclone. Stinnett's backfield lost heavily to graduation as only R. L. Mondin (130 senior) is returning. Mike Leffew 160-lb. junior and Toby Stroud 155 senior, should be the running backs with Craig Snider 160 senior at starting quarterback. The Stinnett line has good size and experience with Guards Tommy Watson 180, Jeff Pendleton 185 and James Allison 180, all seeing starting duties last season, and Tackles David Buschman 205 and Leslie Burrus 220 adding size to the line. Center Rex Freriks 180 junior will anchor the middle of the line. The Rattlers could have the best line in their district, reports indicate. The Cyclone, on the other hand, will average 137 lbs. per man considering the 11 starters, small for a Cyclone squad. The Cyclones will be without starting service from Randy Orcutt, who has been bothered by a pre-season ankle injury which occurred the week before the season started while he was running preparing for the season. "I feel we are all looking forward to the scrimmage with Stinnett," Coach Clyde McMurray said Wednesday. "We need to find out how far we have progressed during these two-a-day sessions and a scrimmage is a good way to find out our good points and our bad points." "The coaches have certainly been pleased with the spirit of our players, our workouts have been good," he said. The Junior Varsity scrimmage will begin at 6:30 p.m. and the varsity scrimmage at 8 p.m. Friday. "These sessions probably went too long as we have 21 varsity players and they have 23," the coach said. Expected to start offensively for the Cyclone will be: Tackles Val Stone and Douglas Morgan, Guards Kenny Martin and Ricky Bloxom, Center Danny Murdock, Ends Anthony Johnson and Ricky Guy, Quarterback Don Cofer, Backs Rodney Hall, Pete Salinas and Kirk Fields. Varsity members also include: Steve Browning, Tracy Galloway, Eddie Williams, Terry Allard, Donald Ray Mathews, Eddie Bradford, Doug Hindman, Randall Shahan, Randy Orcutt and Woodrow Richardson.

EDITORIAL

American Voters Look On!

Americans the past few days have been looking on, listening to, and reading about, the 1976 Republican Party Convention, one of the stormiest conventions the G.O.P. has staged in many a decade, due to the Ford, Reagan factions.

Although this editorial is written earlier in the week, and by publication date the convention will be in the process of selecting a standard bearer, and possibly with a first vote victory by one of the candidates, the choice may have been made, the hard part is yet to come—how to unite their bitterly divided party so that it can make the presidential nomination worth the winning.

The boiling pot at the Republican Convention in 1976 is to be expected after the way the Grand Old Party leaders have been conducting affairs the past few years. Ronald Reagan has become the high Apostle of arch-conservatism, never having been accused of being "soft on liberalism", and he has chosen a somewhat liberal vice-president in Senator Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania, assuming of course that he ever will get a chance of officially selecting Senator Schweiker for his running mate.

President Gerald Ford, in almost a deadlock struggle over delegates, has wisely not voiced his choice for a running mate for the nation's second office. Ford appears to have control over the committees at the National Convention and a lot of in-fighting has been going on, which can not do anything but widen the split in the Grand Old Party.

Some citizens still hold to the belief that a Ford-Reagan ticket will come out of the Republican Convention, but we'd bet no odds makers are offering any bets on this possibility.

On the subject of party unity, the only real hope for the Republicans in the 1976 presidential race, little has been done, or is being done to unite the warring factions.

On the other hand, the Democratic Party unified before their convention. For the first time in 12 years, the Democrats are going into a presidential campaign united behind their ticket, if not entirely enthusiastic, at least satisfied. Also, organized labor, which sat out the 1972 campaign, is back in full support of the Democratic slate.

The Republicans still suffer from the scandals of Watergate, resignation of both the President and Vice President. The last time the GOP split on choosing a candidate was the Goldwater - Rockefeller feud in 1964 which proved disastrous for the party. The only time the GOP regrouped to stage a successful Presidential campaign after a convention battle was in 1952 when Dwight Eisenhower beat Robert Taft for the nomination, and went on to defeat Democratic Party hopefuls in November. Dwight Eisenhower was a national hero in the early 1950s after commanding U. S. Forces in Europe during World War II.

Both President Ford and Ronald Reagan arrived at the Republican Convention early to "promote party unity" but both spent their time directing efforts to win convention delegates to support them on the first ballot.

Voters, representing all fractions of society, sit by watching, waiting and thinking. November is not that far away and the process of making a choice has already begun.

What Other Editors Say

POSTAGE RATE: While we're on the subject of postal rates, this is a good time to remind our out-of-town subscribers of the high cost, to this newspaper, when they change address without notifying us immediately... or preferably, in advance. Unless the addressee orders newspapers and magazines forwarded (in which case an extra charge will be assessed to the addressee) the publications are returned to the sender with a non-refusable postage - due fee assessed. That fee has just zoomed to 25 cents.

And since the Postal Service has a quaint habit of letting these undeliverable publications - accumulate sometimes for two or three weeks before mailing the first change of address notice, it is easily possible for the cost to the publisher to become 50 cents or even 75 cents before correction can be made or the mailing stopped on a single subscription. The postage due fee used to be a nickel, stayed at 10 cents for a long time, recently jumped to 13 cents, and has just been increased to 25 cents. Since the Postal Service's open declaration of war on second - class publications (newspapers and magazines) it may double again tomorrow.

We are already facing skyrocketing costs of mailing our publications, and are still trying to hold the line on current $7.50 per year subscription rates outside our immediate area. We may have to raise that rate anyway, but rather than make a blanket increase to take care of this expensive postage - due problem, we are simply going to announce a new policy: postage-due charges (for subscribers who have moved without notifying us in time of changes of address) will simply be added to the subscription renewal price when it comes due again. You won't have to pay it if you don't simply be added to the subscription, but you will have to pay it if you want to keep the newspaper coming. We'd prefer, of course that you let us know that you're planning to move before you do it, so we can make the address change in time and save a lot of extra expense.

If you are interested there should be enough events taking place, on earth and outer space, to keep your mind busy around the clock. It would be hard to pick the event that is attracting the most attention at the moment, I assume it would depend on which group you might be talking to. Those of us interested in things political would probably give the presidential race top priority, even above the Gus Mutscher pardon and appointment as county judge. Those of a scientific bent naturally will have their attention focused on Viking 1 and the fantastic feats it has and is performing. The accomplishments of that little piece of hardware boggle the mind. Then there are Olympic Games to keep the sports minded, as well as the politically inclined, on the edges of their seats as the process of elimination continues. Then there is the religious war in the Middle East, between Arab countrymen and nations, that has a large percent of the rest of the world's population worried and concerned about its financial outcome. It is known that there has been a major earthquake in China, the extent of the damage in that tragedy is unknown and since China doesn't have a freedom of the press and speech clause in its national charter we may never know the extent of the earthquake damage. Our Bicentennial celebration may be overshadowed temporarily by any or all of these

BRIGHTEN UP YOUR MORNING—Breakfast doesn't have to be a dull meal. The Texas Department of Agriculture home economist suggests serving Cinnamon Surprise Buns. The "surprise" is that the marshmallow in center of the bun melts during baking, leaving a hollow bun coated with cinnamon-flavored syrup. Scrambled eggs, chilled watermelon-cantaloupe salad and tall glasses of ice-cold milk round out the meal.

CINNAMON SURPRISE BUNS

1 pkg. dry yeast	2 eggs, beaten
1/2 cup warm water	1/2 tsp. vanilla
1 cup milk, scalded	24 large marshmallows
1/2 cup sugar	1/2 cup chopped pecans
1/2 cup butter	1/2 cup melted butter
1 tsp. salt	1/2 cup sugar
3-4 cups all-purpose flour	1-1/2 tsp. cinnamon

Dissolve yeast in warm water. Add milk, 1/2 cup sugar, butter, salt, eggs, vanilla and 1-1/2 cups flour. Mix well. Add enough of remaining flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto floured surface and knead about five minutes. Place dough in oiled bowl; cover and let rise until double in bulk, about one hour. Punch down dough; place on floured surface and roll out 1/4-inch thick. Cut into 4-inch circles. Combine 1/2 cup sugar, cinnamon and pecans. Dip marshmallows into 1/2 cup melted butter, then into sugar mixture. Place marshmallow in center of each circle of dough. Wrap dough around marshmallow, pinching together securely at bottom. Dip top of roll into butter and then into sugar mixture. Place in greased muffin tins, cover and let rise until doubled. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes or until lightly browned. The marshmallow will melt, leaving the center of the bun hollow and coated with syrup. Yield: approximately 24 buns.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Auto insurance rates are going up again — but not nearly as much as they would if the State Insurance Board didn't install automatic deductibles.

The average statewide increase for private passenger cars will be 7.1 per cent, effective for policies renewed or taken out October 1. This follows a 6.5 per cent hike effective January 1.

Deductibles of $200 for collision and $50 for comprehensive coverage will be written into all policies unless the holder orders otherwise at an additional premium. Policyholders may deductibles themselves in event of claims. Companies pay the balance over $50 or $200.

Insurance companies put up for a 27.9 per cent increase, and Insurance Board staff members recommended 19.3 per cent using present optional deductibles.

Actually, car owners in 25 of the 40 rating territories over the state will have reduced premiums under automatic deductibles.

More than 90 per cent of motorists are expected to accept the new system.

Deductibles of $100 are written into most collision policies but not into comprehensive coverage.

Actuaries estimate the deductibles will eliminate $5 million in administrative expenses for insurance companies and save the companies $76 million in payouts to drivers.

Premiums vary on the basis of driving record, age, sex, make and model of car. Bexar County (San Antonio) drivers would bear the largest increase — about $13 — and those in Waller County would get the biggest reduction, $35.

Study Released

Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation adopted a study calling for a new approach to road planning and new financing methods.

The department earlier instituted one of the recommendations placing highway planning on a statewide system basis rather than the old project-by-project basis.

New test is how much a project contributes to the overall state system rather than how it answers a community's needs.

The report by McKinsey and Company of Dallas (result of a 15-months, $600,000 study) also recommends a moratorium on right-of-way purchases, since a large inventory is on hand which cannot be used for several years.

Many McKinsey proposals for financing highways due to the decrease in projected gasoline taxation already had been recommended by Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Prisons Crowded

Texas' prison population will increase about 50 per cent in the next five years, Department of Corrections Director W.J. Estelle told a House committee.

Estelle estimated the number of prisoners will increase from 20,847 to 30,153.

He is pushing for approval of a new prison facility. The prison system can build it for $72 million, he said, but the institution would cost $111 million if it is handled entirely by contract.

Estelle suggested the legislature consider giving the department authority to start pre-release programs for prisoners in local communities.

He backed a restitution program by which the inmates would use part of their earnings to pay victims of their crimes.

Texas Taxes

By BOB BULLOCK, State Comptroller

AUSTIN — There is considerable confusion among both businesses and those who pay the Texas Sales Tax about the difference between an Exemption Certificate and a Resale Certificate.

And the difference is considerable.

A Resale Certificate can be used only by a person or business holding a valid sales tax permit when buying an otherwise taxable item for the purpose of reselling the item.

For example an auto repair shop buys parts from a distributor or supplier who does both wholesale and retail business. The auto repair shop — which would have a sales tax permit — would give the distributor or supplier a Resale Certificate and no tax would be charged the auto repair business on the parts purchased.

The Resale Certificate issued the supplier or a hike from $360,313 to $3.8 million.

Comptroller Bob Bullock requested a 45 per cent increase to $53.7 million in 1978 and $56.1 million in 1979.

The Department of Public Safety held its request within general 18 per cent increase guidelines suggested by Gov. Dolph Briscoe and legislative leaders. DPS asked $89.9 million for 1978 and $97.6 million for 1979, and lamented that it had not put in for another 100 highway patrolmen.

Short Snorts

Tom Lorange of Houston launched a write-in campaign for the Texas Supreme Court against controversial Don Yarbrough.

State spending so far in fiscal 1976 totals $5.3 billion, 17 per cent higher than 1975. But revenues are also $5.3 billion, 11 per cent higher than the previous year.

Applications for permits to drill oil and gas tests in Texas totaled 10,396 through July, up from 9,256 for the same period in 1975.

The House Administration Committee plans a $200,000 savings on bill printing by turning the work over to Texas Legislative Council.

distributor by the auto repair business would bear the same number that appears on the sales tax permit issued the auto repair business.

The repair shop would then sell the parts to its customers, charging them the sales tax and remitting the tax collected to the state. The distributor would retain the Resale Certificate in its files as proof to the state that the items sold to the auto repair business were for resale.

The Comptroller of Public Accounts has a suggested form for the Resale Certificate and usable copies are usually available at business establishments which deal in both wholesale and retail activities.

The important item to be put on the Resale Certificate is the sales tax permit number of the purchaser.

No business engaged in wholesale and retail activities should allow a customer to purchase items tax free for resale unless the customer can provide a valid Resale Certificate.

An Exemption Certificate is for use by organizations whose tax-exempt status is authorized by law. These are generally religious, educational, and charitable groups and all governmental agencies. Additionally, Exemption Certificates can be issued for the purchase of otherwise taxable items, that are exempted because of the way the item is to be used, such as component parts of a product to be manufactured and machinery and equipment used on a farm or ranch exclusively for the production of food.

THERE IS NO SUCH THING AS AN EXEMPT NUMBER. The way an Exemption Certificate works is that when the exempt organization makes an otherwise taxable purchase, the organization provides a signed statement saying the group is exempt to the seller.

If the retail merchant making the sale has any doubt about the organization's exempt status he or she may ask for proof. This proof may be in the form of a letter from the Comptroller's Department certifying their exempt

FCC Classes To Be Offered At Clarendon JC

An eight week course will be taught evenings from 6-10 p.m. at Clarendon College for those needing or desiring to receive first, second, and or third class Federal Communications Commission License.

The course will be taught four hours a day, five days a week beginning September 7 through the college Adult Continuing Education Program to enable people working at various radio and television stations to attend the class.

For additional information, contact Beryl Clinton, Dean of Instruction at Clarendon College.

Eddie Foxhall, who is a student at the University of Texas, Austin arrived this week to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Foxhall, for a few days between the summer and fall semester.

status.

The retailer would retain the Exemption Certificate in his files to show why that portion of his sales weren't taxed.

Generally, the seller is considered by us to be in compliance with the law if he accepts a Resale or Exemption Certificate in good faith.

An Exemption Certificate or a Resale Certificate is not required for each tax-free sale, but one must be retained by the seller for each person or business to whom tax-free sales of a similar nature are made.

Once again, for emphasis: A sales tax permit number is required to make a Resale Certificate valid. There is no such thing as a number for an Exemption Certificate.

Also included is a directory of nearby campgrounds and reservations forms for campsites and bus tours.

Farmers Urged To Plant Cover Crops Now

Many farmers in the Hall-Childress Soil and Water Conservation District are making plans to inter- seed cover-crops of rye and winter peas to protect their land from blowing, according to Charles Wade range, conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service in Memphis.

A good cover of rye or winter peas will protect the land from wind and water erosion as well as adding humus and organic matter to the soil. The organic matter and humus contain plant nutrients and will improve the soils ability to absorb and hold water as well as increase the soils capacity for aeration and increase porosity.

Windstorms in the spring of 1976 did moderate to severe damage to some 90,000 acres of land in Hall County. This damage was due to lack of cover. Not only did these sandstorms damage valuable farmland, damage was done to fences, roads and bar ditches.

Now is the time to take action to get cover crops planted. For further information contact the Soil Conservation Service on planting cover crops.

Mr. and Mrs. James Elkins have been visiting in the home of his mother and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Meek. They made a tour through Libby dam and also went through Glacier National Park. While gone they also did some fishing.

Panhandle SWC To Meet In Tampa Aug. 25

Several members of the Soil and Water Conservation Service are making plans to be in Tampa on August 25 to attend the Panhandle Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts meeting which will be held at the Shriners Club Building beginning at 10 a.m. Making plans to go from Tampa are Henry Gregory, Jack Richards, Jan Turner, Ernest Rea and Don Raybrook.

Dr. John Shipley, a research economist and head of the Etter Research Farm at Etter, Texas will present a paper on the experimental results of irrigation on the high plains.

During the business session, districts will have the opportunity to submit resolutions to be acted on at the meeting of soil and water conservation district directors in McAllen on October 24.

Frank Gray, member of the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board and Charles Wood, a state director of the Association of Texas Soil and Water Conservation Districts, will present reports on the activities of each organization.

State Senator Max Sherman of Amarillo and State Representative G. R. (Bob) Perry of Perryton have been invited to participate on the program.

Twenty-five soil and water conservation districts are members of the Panhandle Association of SWCD's. They include: Hall - Childress, Tule, Gray County, Capitan, Donley County, Dalhart, Salt Fork, Lipscomb, Loving, Moore County, Hemphill County, Pecos, Wheeler County, Childress, Tierra Blanca, Roberts, Hutchinson, Palo Duro, Garfield, Hartley, Oldham County, Staked Plains, McLean Creek, Sherman County, and Canadian River Soil and Water Conservation Districts.

Officers of the association are Don W. Rader, President; James Bible, Vice President; and Frank Buzzard, Secretary.

The Lipscomb Soil and Water Conservation District will host the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lockhart of family spent last week in Dallas, N. M.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Ray Davis of Wellington announce the arrival of a daughter on August 15. Weighing 7 pounds, 14 ounces, she has been named Stephanie Paige.

Litter Hurts People And Other Animals

AUSTIN — A jagged piece of beer bottle in a clear pool on the Gaudalope River near Kerrville marred a Memorial Day weekend swimming party when it gashed a child's foot, resulting in an emergency trip to the doctor for stitches.

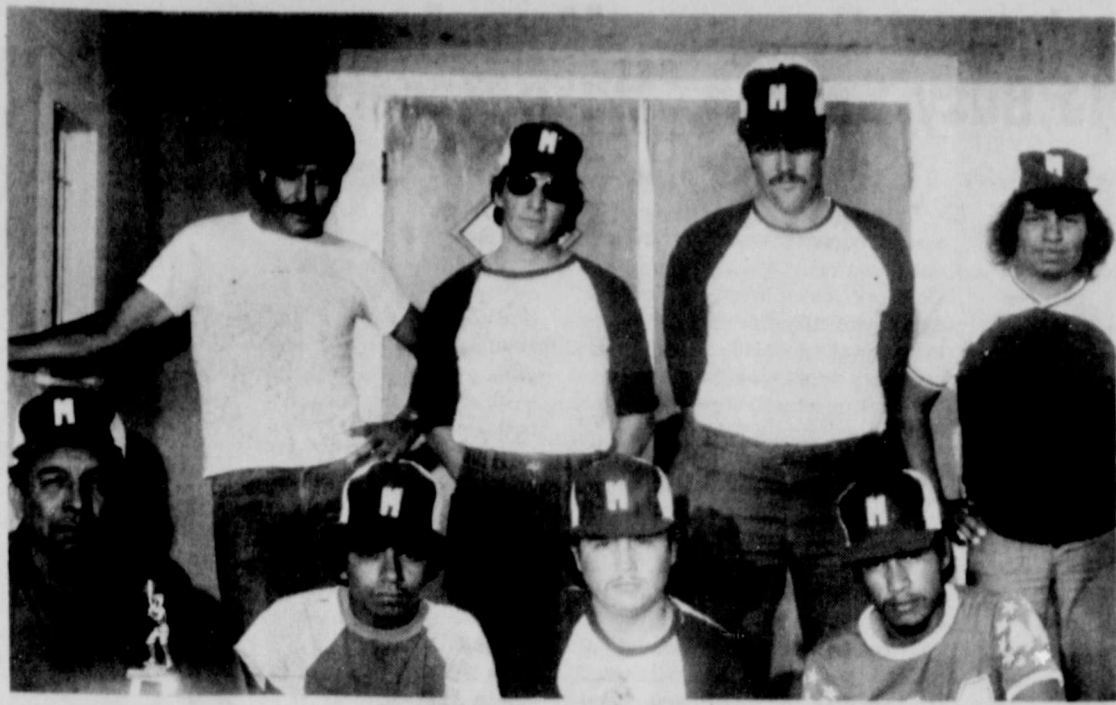

A garbage heap of old refrigerators, scrap building materials, nail - filled boards and general household trash, topped off with offal from a local fish house, guards the approach to a nice little bay near Rockport. The land would be a natural park, if it were not being used as a dump by a few local residents.

Every day some birds and animals die after becoming entangled in discarded monofilament line. Sometimes a coot will mistake monofilament for something to eat and start swallowing it. After a while, the gizzard becomes full and the coot dies because he no longer is able to swallow.

Plastic six-pack holders catch birds; pull tabs from beverage cans cut human feet and trap small fish. Abandoned nylon trotlines snag birds, boat propellers and an occasional swimmer.

And each weekend, a number of boat trailers fail to make it home because a piece of monofilament line has wrapped around the trailers' axles, ruining the bearings.

It has always been man's nature to litter his nest. This fact pleases archeologists. But now, with more people in

Social Security Paying $217,448 In Hall County

Social security benefits were being paid to residents of Hall County at a rate of $217,448 a month at the start of 1976, Jim Tadbol, social security manager in Amarillo, said today.

Of the 1,389 social security beneficiaries living in Hall County, 908 are retired workers and their dependents. Another 225 are receiving benefits as the survivors of workers who have died, and 256 are getting benefits as disabled workers or their dependents.

In Hall County, 384 people under age 65 and 1,005 people age 65 and over are receiving monthly social security benefits. Of total beneficiaries 504 are men, 733 are women, and 147 are children.

The children receive payments because a working father or mother has died or is getting social security disability or retirement benefits.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Cross had as visitors one day last week their daughter, Mrs. Benny Osburn and Dorcas Osburn, both of Clarendon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stargel and Slade of Houston were here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Stargel.

Tips Given On Safety Operation of Power Mowers

The power mower has become a part of the Texas family scene, but it can be as dangerous as a coiled rattlesnake.

There's no refuting the labor - saving qualities of mowers, but they should be handled as carefully as you would a rattler, says Dudley J. Johnson, chief of the Consumer Health Bureau of the Texas Department of Health Resources.

Cuts, bruises and puncture wounds are typical of the injuries which the machines can inflict. The gasoline used to power these mowers causes fires which have killed people and burned down the homes of others, says Johnson.

More than 50,000 adults and children are treated each year in hospital emergency rooms for injuries associated with power lawn mowers, says the US Consumer Product Safety Commission.

Accidents can happen in many ways. Nancy was mowing long wet grass when it became clogged in the discharge opening. When she tried to dislodge it, the whirling blades struck her fingers. One finger was amputated.

Jim's father was mowing grass in a hickory tree grove. A nut struck by the blade ricocheted off the house and hit Jim, blinding the right eye.

Bake Sale To Be Held Sat.

Members of the United Pentecostal Church will hold a bake sale Saturday, August 21 on the square in front of Perrys, it was announced this week.

A variety of cakes, pies and cookies will be offered for sale.

Mrs. Herschel Combs and Mrs. David McKay of Clarksville visited in Wellington Friday with their mother and grandmother, Mrs. L. A. Dick-ey.

obstacle such as a rock and the victim's foot slips under the housing.

Wire, rocks and twigs can be shot out either through the discharge chute or from under the housing. Many victims in these cases are bystanders.

Overturning — Riding mowers used on steep slopes are involved in this type of accident most often.

Mower running over the victim — This often occurs when a riding mower or garden tractor is being driven in reverse. Push type mowers are dangerous when the operator pulls the mower backward over the foot, or slips going uphill, allowing the mower to roll backward.

Experts at the Texas Department of Health Resources say that reel lawn mowers are safer than rotary lawn mowers, primarily because their blades move more slowly than those of rotary mowers. A common accident pattern with reel lawn mowers, however, is attempting to release the reel when it is jammed by a twig or other object without first shutting off the engine.

Since reel lawn mowers cannot cut tall grass efficiently, most consumers prefer rotary mowers. Almost 90 percent of all power lawn mowers manufactured each year are rotary mowers. Their blades can reach speeds of 200 miles per hour and can hurl objects 50 feet or more, unless the mowers are equipped with chute deflectors.

If your mower has such a deflector, don't take it off and thereby invite an accident to happen.

How about the gasoline used to power your mower? It can be a time bomb just waiting to explode or catch fire.

One of the biggest "don'ts" in handling gasoline is: Don't store it in a glass container.

BRISKET THAT'S "BARBECUED" IN THE OVEN—Tender, juicy, flavorful brisket is always a popular summertime entree. The Texas Department of Agriculture home economist suggests serving "Oven Barbecued Beef Brisket." The meat is marinated overnight in liquid smoke and then baked for several hours at a low temperature. Barbecue sauce added just before the last hour of baking gives just the right touch to the tasty brisket.

from the TAP kitchen

Texas Department of Agriculture—John C. White, Commissioner
OVEN BARBECUED BEEF BRISKET

- 5-6 lb. boneless beef brisket
- 1 tsp. onion powder
- 1 tsp. garlic powder
- 1 tsp. celery salt
- 1-1/2 tsp. salt
- 3/4 tsp. black pepper
- 1/2 cup liquid smoke
- 1/2 cup Worcestershire sauce
- 1 cup barbecue sauce

Place brisket in heavy duty aluminum foil and sprinkle on both sides with liquid smoke. Then sprinkle with onion and garlic powders and celery salt. Place in covered container in refrigerator and let marinate overnight (at least 8 hours). Next day, sprinkle both sides with salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce. Wrap securely in aluminum foil and bake covered at 275 degrees for four hours. Uncover and pour barbecue sauce over the brisket. Cover and bake one hour longer. Cut in 1/2-inch slices and serve with additional barbecue sauce. Can be served hot or cold. Yield: 8 to 10 servings.

For additional beef recipes send a postcard request to Commissioner John C. White, Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711.

Hall County Is Eighth Largest Guar Producer

AUSTIN — Hall County farmers placed eighth in 1975 Texas guar production with a crop totaling 1,610,000 pounds. Agriculture Commissioner John C. White reported. County farmers harvested 2,800 acres with a yield of 575 pounds per acre. Texas guar production is concentrated on the Low Plains and Cross Timbers with small acreages seeded in South and Southeast Texas. Experimental acreages have also been planted on the Edwards Plateau and Trans-Pecos areas. While guar is a legume crop and some fields are turned under for soil-building purposes, most of the crop is harvested for the bean. Guar can be planted as late as July and farmers will plant it as a catch crop for cotton or sorghum that has been hailed or flooded. Wilbarger County led the state in production with 12,702,000 pounds. Complete figures for Texas field crops have been complied in the "1975 Texas Field Crops Statistics." Copies may be obtained by writing Agriculture Commissioner John C. White, Texas Department of Agriculture, P. O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711.

SEED CERTIFICATION CHANGE

Planting seed in Texas for the 1977 season will be certified for genetic identity only, so farmers must take a close look at the labels accompanying the seed. The new certification label assures that the seed is the variety stated on the label. The big change is the fact that it does not relate to any seed quality factors such as purity, inert matter, other crop seed, weed seed, noxious weed seed and germination. The Texas seed law, however, still requires that this information be truthfully stated on the analysis label accompanying the seed, points out a cotton specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Mr. Glenn Downs of Panhandle was a Sunday visitor in the home of his daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Ed Posey, Shari, MariAnn and Kari.

Moving Equipment Becomes More Accessible If You Avoid Busy Season, Make Reservations

This year, as in past years, one family out of five will move to a new residence. More than two-thirds of these people will move between Memorial Day and Labor Day. If you will be one of these people, there are some things you can do to eliminate problems and reduce costs. Here are a few tips:

Plan Ahead: Even though the demand for moving equipment is heavy throughout the summer, it is heaviest on weekends, especially around the first and fifteenth of the month, and there are some big peaks in demand in early July and late August.

If you can, avoid moving at those times. You may not be able to move in mid-winter when demand is nil, but you can help yourself if you avoid peak times. Helping yourself means that the equipment is more likely to be available.

Thus: Move during the week, Monday through Thursday. If you're moving locally, it really won't matter whether you move on a Tuesday or a Saturday as far as work is concerned. You're going to have to pack ahead of time, unpack for several days or weeks afterward. So, why not move when the equipment is available, rather than on a weekend when everyone else in town wants it?

Reservations: Make reservations well in advance. That helps the moving people — van lines and rental dealers alike — schedule the use of their equipment and have it available when needed.

By making a reservation you will assure yourself of the lowest possible rate if you're using rental equipment. One-way (rent-it-here/leave-it-there) rental rates may fluctuate according to supply and demand and equipment inventory situations around the country. Making a reservation guarantees that you will get the lowest rate, be it the one quoted at the time of the reservation or the one prevailing when you pick up the equipment.

Substitutions: Occasionally a dealer cannot obtain the particular size equipment that the customer requested. Should this happen to you, your dealer will make a substitution and rent you the next larger size truck for the price of the smaller equipment you originally requested.

Or, if you wish, you can ask for a smaller truck or trailer at its usual rate. In fact, many people find that by packing and loading properly, they can fit their possessions into a smaller truck or trailer than they thought they could use. Of course, using smaller equipment means you will have to pack more efficiently, but you will be rewarded for the extra time you spend by the dollars you save on the rental.

Redistribution Charges: Sometimes on one-way rentals a "redistribution fee" is added to the basic rental rate. This charge is applied when you are taking a truck or trailer from an area where that particular equipment is in short supply to an area where it is surplus. Redistribu-tion fees occur in fewer than five percent of all rentals.

Should you find your destination city requires you to pay a redistribution fee, there are several ways to avoid or minimize the charge. First, look into the possibility of renting a truck of a different size. A redistribution fee is applied only to the particular equipment that is in a surplus-shortage situation. A smaller truck might not only save you from paying a redistribution charge, but it will cost you less to rent overall.

Second, if a different piece of equipment will not meet your needs, you may be able to rent the equipment you require and drop it off at a nearby city where the redistribution fee does not apply.

In conclusion, rental companies, such as U-Haul, make every effort to have the equipment you need at the lowest possible cost. You can do your share to avoid problems and lower the cost of your move by timing your move, using the smallest equipment possible, and packing properly. By planning your move in advance, you will be free to enjoy the new world that awaits you at your destination.

Look What Goes in a Rental Trailer!

How much furniture can you load into a do-it-yourself rental trailer? In three words: quite a bit! This tandem-axle van-type trailer is specially designed for household moving, featuring weatherproof construction, locking doors, smooth interior sides and floor, padded rub rails. This particular trailer has a capacity of 383 cubic feet — about 2,700 pounds of household goods — space enough for two to four rooms of furniture. The household goods arranged beside the trailer are equal in size to the capacity of the trailer and will, with proper loading, fit inside. Smaller van-type trailers and a variety of open trailer models are also available for do-it-yourself movers or weekend haulers who want to save money. All are available for local use or one-way, rent-it-here leave-it-there moving.

The Identity Discovered of the Mysterious Killer in Bitterweed

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

In the western half of Texas grows a bitterweed that's a multi-million dollar killer of sheep, goats, and sometimes cattle. Such shocking annual losses sustained each year by producers may soon be reversed due to the discovery by scientists of the killer ingredient and its experimental antidote.

Consumers will benefit who appreciate the great textile qualities of wool and mohair or savor leg of lamb or cabrito (goat) barbecue. Indirectly, you see, consumers help bear the cost of such losses through higher prices.

"Animals grazing bitterweed can eat only a little of it and get ill but recover," says Dr. B.J. Camp, one of the scientists who did this research for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, in cooperation with scientists at Sonora and College Station.

"The average poisonous dose is 1.3 per cent of the animal's weight and the plant is more poisonous during drought," Camp says. "Of course, that's when other grazing is most scarce and when an animal is most likely to eat bitterweed."

The poisonous substance in bitterweed is an alpha-methylene-sesquiterpene lactone whose antidote is L-cysteine, according to Camp. He gives equal credit to fellow researcher, Dr. H.L. Kim, who is also a toxicologist in the College of Veterinary Medicine at Texas A&M University.

Scientists have long sought the cause of poisoning from bitterweed. Now we know the substance and have an experimental antidote.

But research by the range scientists with the Experiment Station shows that prevention is still the best cure. Dr. Leo Merrill, a Texas Agricultural Experiment Station scientist at Sonora devoting much research to grazing management, confirms that good range management is one of the most effective methods of avoiding bitterweed problems. Merrill says that the 4-pasture system on the Sonora Station, in the presence of bitterweed, has had no sheep losses.

However, in many parts of West Texas, loss of ground cover from periodic drought and short-time overuse during seasonal dry periods have resulted in continual bitterweed poisoning problems. Extended droughts in 1917-1918, the 1930's and 1950's greatly intensified the bitterweed problem.

Poisoning problems are aggravated by fluctuations of the weather aside from droughts, Merrill says. Bitterweed poisoning may intensify during periods of freezing temperatures and ice storms, and when early fall rains encourage early emergence of the bitterweed plants.

Bitterweed is spread by water, soil and livestock, according to Dr. Charles Scifres, a range scientist with the Experiment Station in College Station.

Scifres says that bitterweed has several years' reserve of seed in the soil that will keep replenishing bitterweed infestations regardless of control and management efforts. Therefore, economically feasible control efforts that may be employed for several successive years, if necessary, are badly needed.

A number of herbicides, applied in very low dosages at the right time, will give 100 per cent control of existing growth. Trouble is, it's all to do over again next year, and the next, and the next... At present, in an effort to counter this, a residual herbicide is added to 2-4D to kill seedlings.

Another problem is that many of the herbicides also kill desirable plants that livestock need for grazing. Further studies are planned for this.

An astonishing side effect of the herbicide use is that the bitterweeds, in dying, don't immediately dry up. Instead, for a short time, they increase their water retention and become extra palatable to livestock. And at that time, livestock can apparently eat the bitterweed without being poisoned. A note of caution — sheep are sometimes poisoned when eating sprayed bitterweeds.

Currently, research is concentrating on developing a low-cost antidote for use on poisoned animals and seeking economic chemical control of presently infested ranges.

At the same time, range management practices are being studied that will prevent reinfestation of treated rangeland.

Wild Animals Suffer from A Multitude of Diseases

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

Wild animals have always been valued by landowners for the beauty they possess, but until recently they didn't represent much of a monetary asset. Now, with increased interest in hunting, fishing and other kinds of outdoor recreation, the status of wildlife has changed, some wildlife populations represent an important portion of landowner income.

County agents in Texas estimate that game leases add about $50 million annual income to the state, and this total is increasing by $5,000 to $10,000 each year. Despite the fact that wildlife represent a major source of income to our landowners, few people worry about the loss of wildlife to disease.

Disease is so prevalent among wildlife populations that losses to disease generally exceed numbers harvested by hunters each year, according to Dr. Nick Robinson, scientist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Robinson is a pathologist at Texas A&M who has been studying wildlife diseases for the past 15 years.

"Such heavy losses to disease would be intolerable in domestic animal production, and should be so viewed in our valuable wild resources as well," Robinson said.

"We can no longer be apathetic about a state industry that represents $50 million annual income to Texas, let alone ignore the untold suffering experienced by our diseased and uncared for wildlife. Sick wild animals crawl away and hide in order to survive; seldom does anyone see them. "Many people don't realize the extent of wildlife diseases because other wild animals consume the remains of dead or dying animals. Still another factor is that wild animals are not contained by the usual pasture fences, so they may be found on one person's property one day, then a considerable distance away the next."

Studies begun in 1961 and continued until 1974 at Texas A&M University revealed that a considerable loss of Texas wildlife is due to disease problems. Those studies enabled scientists to pinpoint the diseases causing specific problems.

Diseases shown to have a significant impact on our game populations include salmonellosis, an infection of young fawns in the eastern portions of the state. This disease is difficult to control and may destroy as much as a third of the fawn crop in some areas. Bluetongue, a virus found in deer, causes losses in certain areas of the state each year and may also be transmitted to (and from) domestic animals.

Babesiosis, a disease specific to deer in East Texas, results in rapid death of susceptible individuals. Theileriasis, a blood parasite of deer, affects those that are poorly nourished but has little effect upon those that are well fed.

Fowl cholera, a deadly infection of waterfowl, results in the loss of thousands of ducks each year in Texas. And these are only a few examples of the great number of diseases that affect wildlife.

Are these diseases a new thing?

"We think not, but feel that the sick animals are just more obvious due to shrinking habitat and concentration of the wildlife into ever smaller ecological areas," Robinson said. "Proper game management can reduce this loss, and thus result in greater potential harvest, more income to the landowner and more enjoyment of wildlife by the general public. It may even be possible in the future to vaccinate wild populations and improve the general quality of the animals just as we do in domestic livestock.

"Biological control of insect vectors (insects that serve as disease carriers) is another fascinating posexperimentally to vaccinate Bighorn Sheep in the wild against bluetongue, and it did work. It proved that in some cases natural vectors may offer efficient solutions to such problems. Treatment of water sources, the use of baited feed and other management techniques also might be used to alleviate the suffering of our wild animals.

In addition, the role of wild animals as potential carriers of disease problems to domestic livestock has always been worrisome to the landowner. This problem, based on previous studies, appears somewhat overrated, but until the disease-carrying role of the wild species is investigated thoroughly, this question will always be bothersome," Robinson concluded.

Both from the monetary and humane standpoint, it's obvious that only knowledge gained by adequate investigation coupled with proper management can solve the disease problems in one of the state's natural resources—wildlife.
