POKA-LAMBRO TO PROVIDE CELLULAR SERVICE SOON

Poka-Lambro Telecommunications recently received a construction permit from the Federal Communications Commission allowing construction for the rural cellular telephone system they have been selected to build in West Texas. The area to be served by Poka-Lambro consists of Lamesa, Tahoka, Post, Seminole, Andrews and the rural areas surrounding these cities. Tentative operational dates for Lamesa, Seminole and Andrews are late in the third quarter of 1990 and early in 1991 for Tahoka and Post.

Pricing plans for the new service have not yet been finalized, but will be "market-driven", according to Mickey L. Sims, General Manager of Poka-Lambro. "This technology is state of the art and will be of great benefit to the residents of the South Plains", added Sims. Cellular telephones provide high quality mobile communication for transmitting and receiving phone calls using standardized technology to provide a future nationwide calling scope.

Poka-Lambro currently sells, installs and maintains cellular phones at its headquarters 11 miles north of Tahoka on US 87. "We simply assign a Lubbock (or Midland-Odessa) number to the unit and agree to make a Poka-Lambro number available when our system is operational", said Sims.

Poka-Lambro Telecommunications is the wholly owned subsidiary of Poka-Lambro Telephone Cooperative, Inc. Southwestern Bell Mobile Systems and CP National are limited partners with Poka-Lambro in the venture.

Loan Program Will Benefit Local Farmers and Ranchers

Borden County area farmers and ranchers will find it less expensive to finance the purchase of new and used equipment through a new Texas Production Credit Association loan program, effective August 1, 1990.

The program offers a stated fixed rate of 9.95 percent for loans up to five years with no repayment penalty. All qualified farmers and ranchers in Texas are eligible.

"This program is intended to help local farmers and ranchers make equipment purchases in time for the coming harvest season," said Ken Smith, Texas PCA president.

Financing is available for the purchase of such things as tractors, combines or other farm and ranch equipment.

Established in 1933 in Texas, Production Credit Associations are specialized agricultural lending institutions owned by farmer-borrowers and managed by agricultural financing professionals. PCAs are part of the nationwide Farm Credit System.

Additional information on the equipment loan program may be obtained at any Texas PCA office or by calling (915)944-9265.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON TAX INCREASE

The (Borden County I.S.D) will hold a public hearing on a proposal to increase total tax revenues from properties on the tax roll in ( 1989 ) by ( 14.9263 ) percent. Your individual taxes may increase at a greater or lesser rate, or even decrease, depending on the change in the taxable value of your property in relation to the change in taxable value of all other property.

The public hearing will be held on (August 15, 1990) at ( 6:00 P.M. ).

FOR the proposal: Jack McPhaul, Joel Dennis, Randy Adcock, Jon Monger, Scott Clayton, Tom Ed Vestal

AGAINST the proposal: None

PRESENT and not voting: None

ABSENT: Kenny Hensley

(Names of all members of the governing body, showing how each voted on the proposal to consider the tax increase and, if one or more were absent, indicating the absences.)

The statement above shows the percentage increase the proposed rate represents over the ( 1989 ) tax rate that the unit published on ( August 3, 1989 ). The following table compares taxes on an average home in this taxing unit last year to taxes proposed on the average home this year. Again, your individual taxes may be higher or lower, depending on the taxable value of your property.

	Last Year	This Year
Average home value	13,403	14,357
General exemptions available (amount available on the average home, not including senior citizen's or disabled person's exemptions)	7680	7871
Average taxable value	5723	6486
Tax rate	.46	.49 (proposed)
Tax	26.32	31.78

Under this proposal taxes on the average home would ( increase ) by $ ( 5.46 ) or ( 20.74 ) percent compared with last year's taxes.

Comparing tax rates without adjusting for changes in property value, the tax rate would ( increase ) by $ ( .03 ) per $100 of taxable value or ( 6.52 ) percent compared to last year's tax rate. These tax rate figures are not adjusted for changes in the taxable value of property.

Packing the Perfect Picnic

by Liese Cochran
PM Editorial Services

From the first signs of summer through Labor Day and beyond, one of America's favorite pastimes is picnicking. Whether it's part of an outing for two or 200, a picnic can be a simple, perfect way to enjoy the outdoors during the warm weather.

No one is really quite sure just when and where the first picnic took place; however, most believe it derived from a European farmers' tradition of taking food into the fields to eat during work breaks. This "continental" picnic typically consisted of a loaf of bread, cheese and wine.

While Americans have embraced this custom heartily, they have introduced their own elements into picnic fare over the years. Early additions to the menu included cold meats, smoked fish, tomatoes and fruits for dessert. Today, every food imaginable has found a place in the picnic basket. So although the classic continental picnic is still a favorite, it is not unusual to find chilled lobster, pasta salad or paté sharing space on the picnic blanket with cold-cut sandwiches. And that, in fact, may be the secret to the picnic's popularity. A picnic is one of the few things in life that can be whatever you want it to be.

Here are a few suggestions for simple but delicious additions to your next picnic basket.

Venomous Evaluations

Snake bites cause considerable panic but are rarely fatal. Improper emergency medical care and management, however, can turn a relatively minor incident into a real medical emergency.

In fact, snake bites can cause considerable pandemonium among emergency care personnel because most health-care providers at all levels have little experience with these bites, according to Dr. Hugh A. Frank, founder of the regional burn center at the University of California San Diego. To minimize the number of cases that escalate into medical emergencies each year, physicians throughout the country are recommending changes in the way snake bites are treated initially.

"Since the snake's poison is essentially its digestive enzyme, it will tend to digest the tissue into which it has been injected. Depending on the amount of toxin injected, there is usually a rapid progression of swelling," Frank said at a program on wound management presented by the UCSD School of Medicine.

Proper care in the field, he said, includes application of a tourniquet with enough pressure to obstruct venous return and lymphatic flow, thus delaying absorption of the poison. The tourniquet must not be applied so tightly, however, that it obstructs arterial inflow. Also, the pressure should be released every 15 to 20 minutes to let some blood circulate through the affected area.

"A tourniquet that's too tight can be considerable damage, as can soaking the bitten area in ice water," Frank said. The wound should be kept cool, possibly with an ice pack, to slow absorption of the poison, but the overuse of cold can cause a lot of damage."

Tourniquet application is a somewhat controversial issue, with some physicians preferring the use of blood pressure cuffs when available. After bearing witness to too many poor outcomes caused by overconstriction, Dr. William Banner, Jr. of the University of Utah School of Medicine now shuns using even the term "tourniquet."

Instead, if the wound is seen fairly soon after the bite occurs, he prefers inflating the blood pressure cuff on affected limbs to lymphatic pressures, about 20mmHg to 25mmHg. This supposedly retards venom entry into the body's circulatory system. He also agrees that cold can do considerable damage and does not recommend the use of cold packs or ice at all.

If a tourniquet has already been applied before EMS personnel reach the patient, it is important not to remove it too quickly. A sudden surge of venom into the circulatory system can cause a patient to go into shock within two to three minutes. "You can find yourself in big trouble fast," Banner warned at an emergency medicine and toxicology update presented by San Francisco General hospital and co-sponsored by the San Francisco Bay Area

Regional Poison Control Center.

He recommends establishing an IV hydrating the patient for shock, placing a blood pressure cuff higher up on the extremity, inflating it to lymphatic pressures and then releasing the tourniquet.

The biggest change in recommended treatment involves initial attempts to remove the venom from the victims. "The X-marks-the-spot, cowboy movie approach" to lancing and extracting venom from poisonous snake bites is no longer recommended, Banner said, and "people are getting away from taking a knife and doing open explorations."

He indicated that the only gadget that may be useful for EMS teams attempting to remove venom is a device called the "Extractor". After the fang mark is minimally lanced, the extractor is applied to the site, at which time it produces a negative pressure. This device can be "marginally" helpful in removing venom if applied within 30 to 60 minutes after the bite occurs. "Much like the debate over ipecac and gastric lavage for poison ingestions, you can't expect to get a great deal of venom out," he said.

Since incisions can cause damage to major vessels, nerves or tendons, particularly on the hand or foot, Frank agreed that these incisions should be minimized. He also noted that, when possible, they should be made only by emergency medical personnel with a fair amount of anatomical knowledge. One myth associated with snake bites and emergency first-aid care is that the patient should take a "belt" of liquor before the incision is made, but according to Frank, "nothing could be further from the truth." The patient should actually avoid ingesting any alcohol while the venom is still active in the circulatory system.

The snake bite area needs to be elevated to heart level and immobilized, Frank said. next, an IV infusion of balanced salt solution should be started, and oxygen and appropriate vasopressors should be made available. In moderate to severe cases of envenomation, a central venous line should be placed to monitor pressure. A respirator and renal dialysis should be available in case of respiratory or renal failure.

"In very severe cases, some physicians have recommended total excision of the bite area, but it really is not necessary and in fact may be more damaging to the patient than the bite itself," Frank said.

Snake bite victims should be transported promptly to the nearest medical facility and, if at all possible, should be prevented from walking. Since appearance of symptoms can be considerably delayed, when physical examination discloses minimal or no envenomation, the patient should remain under observation for 24 hours, Frank said. "If proper emergency treatment and management are conducted, most snake bite victims recover without any serious complications," he concluded. "These bites don't merit the fear that's frequently associated with them but they do require proper respect for their potential severity."

Davy Crockett

August 17 marks the birth anniversary of Davy Crockett, legendary American frontiersman, politician and adventurer. Crockett was born in Hawkins County, Tenn., in 1786. He first made a name for himself fighting in the Creek War from 1813 to 1815, a U.S. victory over Creek Indians in Tennessee who were actually British allies.

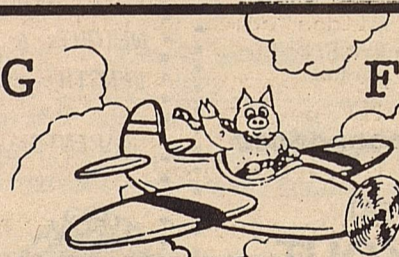

Crockett was elected to the Tennessee legislature in 1821 and served for two terms. He then was elected to the U.S. Congress in 1827 and served two consecutive terms. He lost the election in 1831 but was elected to serve a final term in 1833.

Crockett perhaps is best known for his last contribution to his country. He was part of the American forces that perished on March 6, 1836, defending the Alamo. ll

EMERGENCY HAYING AND GRAZING

Borden County has been approved for emergency haying and grazing of ACR and CU for pay effective immediately. Interested producers must come to the county office to designate the acreage to be hayed or grazed and sign a register prior to any haying or grazing.

Producers need to keep the following provisions in mind:

1. The emergency haying and grazing period begins immediately and ends December 31, 1990.
2. Hay or grazing may be sold to anyone at any price.
3. After haying or grazing, producers may plant another approved cover for haying or grazing.
4. Producers shall not:
  - a. Remove cover to the extent that the land is not adequately protected from wind and water erosion.
  - b. Harvest the approved cover for grain or seed.
  - c. Hay or graze land that has been irrigated this year.

This authority does not apply to land enrolled in CRP.

ACP

Remember that we are operating ACP with a continuous signup period. When you recognize that you need ACP cost sharing that is when you need to file an application. The county committee each month reviews each request on file and if funds are available, will approve as many requests as possible. The August and September committee meetings will be devoted to obligating as much of the outstanding ACP funds as possible in this fiscal year.

MEASUREMENT SERVICE

Well, here it is the first of August, the skies have been cloudy for three weeks, and no slides have been flown for the county. The September 1 deadline to complete measurement service rapidly approaches. Were it not for the requests we completed on the ground, we would be in a worse predicament.

As soon as slides come, we will do everything possible to complete the requests by September 1. In the event we are unable to timely service the request, we will be forced into cancelling your request, refunding your measuring service fee and requiring you to certify your acreages by September 1.

1988 AND 1989 OVERPAYMENTS

A few 1988 and 1989 overpayments were made to producers due in large part to the restriction on producers receiving both deficiency and disaster payments on the same pound or bushel on the farm. These overpayments are due and payable on July 31, 1990. Notices have gone out and reminder letters every 30 days will continue until the overpayment is repaid. Thirty days will be allowed for the overpayment before interest accrues. After 30 days, interest of 9 percent will apply. If the repayment is not made within 90 days, an additional 3 percent interest will be added. A prompt payment will save you money and us a lot of paperwork.

FAILED ACRES

Program crop acreages that fail due to natural causes must be treated properly to receive planting credit. Do not mechanically destroy failed program crop acres until the following has occurred:

1. Notify the crop insurance agent of the loss, crop appraisal, and furnish apprai-

2. File form ASCS-574 with ASCS after crop acreages have been reported.
3. ASCS will make a field visit to measure total acres of crop that failed and review insurance appraisal, if applicable.
4. ASCS will release the failed acres to producer for disposition.

A producer without crop insurance may request a crop appraisal on failed acres. ASCS will appraise at the rate of $25 for the first plot and $5 for each additional plot. The only reason for an ASCS appraisal would be for disaster purposes in the event a disaster program is approved later.

ACR MAINTENANCE

All ACR and CU for pay must be maintained until December 31, 1990. By maintained, we mean kept free of weeds and protected from wind and water erosion. If you planned to fall-seed your ACR, please notify the county office when these acres have been seeded.

they won 1st. place in the Jr. division with Guy Will shooting a perfect 15 birds.

Borden County 4-H Shooting Sports will sponsor a day of shooting Sporting Clay. The county is fortunate to have one of the few sporting clay ranges. The Parks family, owners and operators of the range, built it in the scenic Caprock country of northeast Borden County. Everyone is invited to attend and enjoy this new and entertaining shooting sport. It will be held Saturday, August 11, starting at 9:00 a.m. Proceeds will help finance Borden County 4-H shooting sports in 1991.

Y.E.S. PROJECT UNDERWAY

A plan to build bridges across the generation gap in 20 South Plains counties and improve the quality of life for both youths and rural senior citizens has come off the drawing board and gone into construction in Lubbock.

The project is Youth Exchanging with Seniors (Y.E.S.). The goal is to promote positive intergenerational relationships between youth and seniors by providing assisted-living services that allow senior citizens to maintain independent lifestyles in rural communities.

Y.E.S. is a cooperative effort of the Texas Tech University Health Science Center, the Texas Tech College of Home Economics and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, an agency of Texas A&M University System.

The effort will link members of 4-H Clubs and Future Homemakers of America with senior citizens in 20 South Plains counties.

It is a model program, funded principally with a grant from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, the nation's largest health care philanthropy. It is intended as a pilot effort that can be duplicated across the nation.

Co-directors of the project are Dr. Sheryl Boyd, assistant chairman for development in the Department of Internal Medicine and associate professor of health organization management at Texas Tech; Dr. Betty Stout, assistant professor of home economics education at Texas Tech; and Dr. Kathy Volanty, district director with the Extension Service.

The program was initiated this summer with two-and-a-half days of training for adults and a day-and-a-half for teens. More than 100 high school home economics teachers, Extension Service agents for home economics and senior citizens and some 20 4-H Club and FHA members from the 20 counties took part.

"This institute is not just about the Y.E.S. Project. It's about aging," Volanty told the participants. It included such topics as understanding aging processes, myths about aging, the project structure, existing services, involving youth and seniors, strategies for community involvement and support, fostering business skills of participants, county planning and program implementation.

"The two best resources we have in our rural communities are our youth and our elders. This is matching them up," Boyd said.

Institute trainees from the nucleus of county resource teams that will coordinate efforts in each county. Teams will include an Extension Service home economist, a high school home economics teacher and a health care professional or senior citizen.

In the next two months, these teams will enlist a variety of community volunteers from business, health care and civic organizations to teach the youth service providers and match them with seniors requesting services. Seniors will also work with youths to carry out a joint activi-

CRAWFISH: A LUNKER'S FAVORITE

Crawfish are indeed one of the favorite foods of bass. Until fairly recently the look-a-like lures of these crustaceans have been overlooked by the angler. Now I should clarify one thing when I say these lures have been overlooked. Many anglers have been using crawfish imitators but they may not realize it.

Take the jig and pig for example. Many anglers will readily tie on a jig and include a chunk of Uncle Josh pork frog as a trailer. However, when a pork frog is fished on a jig, it is doing a whole lot more than it is frog imitating. Let's face it, how many frogs do you think actually "hop" around on the rocks on the bottom of a river?

The crankbait is another lure that anglers use as a baitfish imitator, but has caught many bass that thought they were eating a crawfish. This is especially true when the crankbait is digging into the bottom. Even though it may have a perch colored pattern, when its kicking up a trail of mud on the bottom, it sure appears to be a crawfish to a bass. Crankbaits, especially those with crawfish colors and patterns are very effective. Among the best crawfish crankbaits are the Rebel Craw, Bomber Model A, and the Hawg Boss Super Toad. Under the right conditions there are no finer lures.

However, when it comes to working an area over carefully, slowly, and deliberately the best choice is one of the many soft plastic crawfish lures. These lures can be easily put in the right spot and worked slowly enough to entice even the most finicky bass into striking.

as you can get without getting your fingers pinched! Strike King also makes a crawfish look-a-like called the Flip'n Craw.

Either of the two types work well and can easily fool even the weariest of fish. If you have been overlooking the lure that is a favorite of bass just about everywhere, then give a crawfish imitator a try. I think you will be pleasantly surprised with the results. God bless you and thanks for going Fishing with Mark Weaver.
