Oil Price Spike Lands Farmers and Ranchers in Grim Situation

Most anyone who has paid a visit to the grocery store or gas pump lately can attest that prices are high and getting higher.

There's no relief in sight, and things could get a lot worse before they get better, the leader of Texas' largest farm organization said, particularly for the men and women who grow the crops and livestock that have become the backbone to food supplies the world over.

"I've been farming since the 1960s," said Texas Farm Bureau President Kenneth Dierschke, a San Angelo-area cotton and grain farmer. "In the years since, we've all seen dozens of grim situations in agriculture. They pale in comparison to the major problem that is shaping up in our industry at this very moment."

To raise awareness of the problems Texas farmers and ranchers are facing, Dierschke teamed up with several TFB state directors, as well as state and national Farm Bureau staffers, in what one newspaper called a "barnstorm tour" of six cities on June 17-18.

Joining Dierschke were Vice President and District 13 State Director Bobby Nedbalek, District 1 State Director Billy Bob Brown, District 11 State Director Tom Paben, TFB Public Relations Director Gene Hall and AFBF

Economist Stephanie Gambrell. Together, they addressed the food and energy price dilemma at media events held in Amarillo, Corpus Christi, Dallas, Houston, San Angelo and Waco.

The group offered presentations in each of the cities they visited and participated in question-and-answer sessions with reporters to dispel myths about farm prosperity and outline the effects of high fuel and fertilizer prices on family farms.

"I know that many Americans are being told that farmers are becoming wealthy in this run-up of commodity prices," Dierschke told reporters. "It's simply not true. Prices of petroleum-driven crop inputs have blown through the roof. I cannot imagine farmers putting seeds in the ground next year if the prices for row crops fall and if we are paying the current price for diesel—or more."

Dierschke went on to describe what has become a "slow train wreck" for the farmers of Texas.

"The situation we are in now will not change unless the price of oil is reduced significantly," he said. "Even with commodity prices at record levels, some farmers are being forced into making major modifications in the way they farm, including reducing the amount they produce. And if that happens, consumers and farmers alike could share in a farm crisis the likes of which we've never seen."

PR Director Hall said the message was well received, with 23 different media outlets participating during the two-day tour.

Those reporters have since produced a number of headline newspaper stories, radio interviews and television news segments.

"Our focus on an under-reported facet of the food and energy crisis drew great interest from the Texas media," Hall said.

Farms, Ranches Seeking Recognition for More Than 100 Years of Production Encouraged to Apply Now

Commissioner Todd Staples is encouraging families who wish to apply for the Texas Department of Agriculture's Family Land Heritage Program to get started on their applications now. The Family Land Heritage Program recognizes farms and ranches that have been in continuous agricultural production by the same family for at least 100 years or more.

"Since its inception in 1974, the Texas Department of Agriculture's Family Land Heritage Program has honored more than 4,300 Texas farms and ranches in 233 counties," Commissioner Staples said.

"This is proof Texas has a rich history of agriculture."

Applications, which are due Sept. 15, will be accepted for farms or ranches established in 1908 or earlier that are still owned and operated by the descendants of the founder, either through blood, marriage or adoption. The land must also fit the old U.S. Census definition of a farm: 10 acres or more with agricultural sales of $50 or more a year; or if less than 10 acres, sales of at least $250 a year.

The owners must reside in Texas and actively manage the everyday operation of the farm or ranch. If all the land has ever been rented or leased to someone outside of the family, it will not qualify. If only a portion was leased, and as much as 10 acres were retained in the family for agricultural production with sales of at least $50 annually, the property will still qualify. There is no cost to apply for the recognition.

For an application or more information, contact Michelle Sneed at 512-463-2631, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711. The application can also be downloaded at www.tda.state.tx.us under the Family Land Heritage link.

All TDA press releases are also available via the Internet at www.tda.state.tx.us.

Making Homemade Ice Cream Without Using Raw Eggs

Summer and the Fourth of July mean it is homemade ice cream time! With all the food safety concerns arising lately, it is important to remember to protect yourself from the danger of possible Salmonella infection by using a homemade ice cream recipe made with a cooked egg base, made without eggs or made with commercial PASTEURIZED egg substitutes. Egg mixtures used in making cooked bases for ice cream are safe if they reach 160 degrees F when tested with a thermometer. At this temperature, the mixture should coat a metal spoon.

Here are three possible methods for making ice cream without raw eggs.

Frozen Custard Ice Cream (makes 1 1/2 to 2 quarts)

6 eggs
2 cups milk
3/4 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups whipping cream
1 tablespoon vanilla
crushed ice (if required by manufacturer for your ice cream freezer)
rock salt (if required by manufacturer for your ice cream freezer)

1. In medium saucepan, beat together eggs, milk, sugar and salt. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture is thick enough to coat a metal spoon with a thin film and reaches at least 160 degrees F.

2. Cool quickly by setting pan in ice or cold water and stirring for a few minutes.

3. Cover and refrigerate until thoroughly chilled, at least one hour.

4. When ready to freeze, pour chilled custard, whipping cream and vanilla into 1-gallon ice cream freezer can.

Freeze according to manufacturer's directions using six parts ice to one part rock salt. Transfer to freezer containers and freeze until firm.

VARIATIONS

Banana Nut: Reduce vanilla to 1 1/2 teaspoons. Cook and cool as above. Stir three large ripe bananas, mashed and 1/2 cup chopped toasted pecans into custard mixture. Freeze as above.

Cherry: Reduce vanilla to 1 teaspoon. Add 2 tablespoons almond extract. Cook and cool as above. Partially freeze.

Add 2 pounds pitted pureed dark sweet fresh cherries OR one can (16 to 17 oz.) pitted dark sweet cherries, drained and chopped. Complete freezing.

Chocolate: Add three squares (1 oz. each) unsweetened chocolate to egg mixture. Cook, cool and freeze as above.

Plum: Reduce vanilla to 1 teaspoon. Cook and cool as above. Partially freeze. Add 1 1/2 pounds pitted, pureed, ripe, fresh plums. Complete freezing.

Strawberry: Omit vanilla. Cook and cool as above. Partially freeze. Add 2 cups sweetened, crushed fresh strawberries. Complete freezing.

Eggless Vanilla Ice Cream
This recipe is made without eggs.

2 cups milk
1 cup sugar
2 cups whipping cream or half and half
2 teaspoons vanilla

Combine ingredients and stir briskly about two minutes until sugar is dissolved. (Undissolved sugar crystals may be a cause of large ice crystal formation.) Pour into a 1-gallon ice cream freezer and freeze according to manufacturer's directions.

Substituting Pasteurized Eggs for Raw Eggs

According to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, you can still enjoy homemade ice cream without the risk of Salmonella infection by substituting a pasteurized egg product, egg substitute, or pasteurized shell eggs for the raw eggs in your favorite recipe. Egg products are eggs that have been removed from their shells and pasteurized. They may be liquid, frozen, or dried whole eggs, whites, yolks, or blends of egg and other ingredients. Egg products are not widely available at retail; they are predominantly used in institutional food service. Egg substitutes, which may be liquid or frozen, contain only the white of the egg, the part that doesn't have fat and cholesterol, and are readily available at most supermarkets. Pasteurized shell eggs are also available from a growing number of retailers; you'll find them located next to the regular shell eggs. These eggs look and taste just like regular shell eggs, though the white may be slightly cloudy, and they are nutritionally equivalent to their unpasteurized counterparts.

Even when using pasteurized products, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) advise consumers to start with a cooked base for optimal safety, especially if serving people at high risk. Additionally, you should ensure that the dairy ingredients you use in homemade ice cream, such as milk and cream, are pasteurized.

So dig out those ice cream freezers and start cranking! Your family will enjoy these delicious homemade treats in no time! Moreover, the pharmacist, in many cases is the medium through which the physician gains of his knowledge. To be progressive he is expected to know all the newer preparations that are available. As soon as any biological or medical discovery is proved of worth, he will have a supply on hand for the doctors and the public use.
