THE

SOME
"LANDMARK DAY!"

By Rosalie M. Gordon
Editor, America's Future

We had a perfect example last month of the mannequin in which we lose control of the money we work so hard to earn when we turn over to the bureaucrats in Washington the power to do with it as they choose. That big panhandler on the East River in New York known as the United Nations made another raid on your pockets, and you hardly knew it was happening. In addition, the raid was made despite promises of Washington officials that American taxpayers were going to be somewhat less the patsies for this international panhandler. To add insult to injury, note the cavalier way in which your dollars are treated. Here is the story.

Indignities

Several months ago much public indignation was aroused by the UN's grant of money to Communist Cuba and the issuance by UNESCO, a UN agency of a lying propaganda booklet by two Russian communists—all paid for in part with your money. The indignation seemed to penetrate the minds of our Washington officials but, as appeared later, only momentarily. We had been paying the greater amount of the costs—much more than our stated share—of the UN's aggressive war in the Congo and to keep UN troops there to make the aggression stick. Last March, our officials announced that we were now going to pay only our share of 32 percent instead of close to 50 percent, for the rest of the year. But like so many other determined statements issued from Washington, this one too turned out to be just talk. An extra two million dollars of your money is being handed to the UN to follow all your dollars down the UN's Congo rathole.

Qualified

Adlai Stevenson, our UN Ambassador, hailed the arrangement of which this was a part, to get the UN temporarily out of its financial hole, as a "landmark day." He did try to qualify this promise of a further drain on the American taxpayer by saying it was subject to approval in Washington. That was taken to mean perhaps by Congress, which might have given you something to say about it. But what was described as a "United States source" quickly pointed out that since only two million dollars was involved, it could be taken out of existing funds already appropriated to the Executive. Only two million dollars! And a "landmark day!"

Continuation

Meantime, more of your dollars have been pouring into the Congo in the form of foreign aid. Most of it evidently winds up on a thriving back market there. One report tells of Congolese women in Leopoldville carrying baskets of American butter on their heads. They are on their way to the river to sell the butter to boatmen who in turn smuggle it into other territories. We sent 1,000 trucks to the Congo, but nobody is sure where they are. Many of them cannot be located because they are grabbed by local politicians and given as gifts or bribes to their henchmen.

But after all, as one Washington observer remarked cynically, it's all only money and there's plenty more where this came from—from the world's biggest sucker, the American taxpayer.

Tactical Aircraft Flies Low Over Central Texas

Dyess AFB — You may be closer to the Air Force than you think. That was the word from Dyess Air Force Base, near Abilene, to residents of the Santa Anna area today. Giant C-130 Hercules assault airlift aircraft from the 516th Troop Carrier Wing at Dyess are now making frequent low-altitude practice runs that carry them over the plains of Central Texas at regular intervals.

Col. Burl W. McLaughlin, commander of the 516th, told The News the following facts about the new airlift operations at Dyess:

The C-130, backbone of the assault airlift force for the Tactical Air Command, USAF, is frequently used to carry and drop U. S. Army paratrooper in practice exercises, and, if need be, during the limited or brush-fire wars that may crop up anywhere in the world. In dropping paratroopers in or near enemy territory, the problem of detection by the enemy's radar network makes the job especially dangerous.

Close Look

Now, Tactical Air Command has developed a new method for overcoming this risk. C-130 crews fly into the battle zone at very low altitude—about 500 feet—flying under the radar scanning range. Just before the drop zone, the aircraft makes a maximum—performance climb to 1000 feet, releases up to 65 fully-equipped men, then rapidly drops back to its low-level route.

A practice drop zone has been in operation at Dyess AFB since last March, and it is now being used to qualify 516th crews in the new technique, dubbed "Close Look" by TAC. The flight pattern for Close Look takes in the area up to 100 miles north, east and south of Abilene. Flights over this area started in July, and are expected to continue until about August 1.

Safety Stressed

Col. McLaughlin, and Col. Paul J. Mascot, deputy commander for the 516th operational missions, stressed that the low-level flights are perfectly safe for both crews and the observers below. The main sign that Hercules aircraft are near will be the low drone of four turboprop engines. C-130s fly well below the speed of sound, and thus cause no sonic boom.

Central and West Texans can clearly identify the Hercules as it passes over the area. The plane is equipped with four engines, each with a propeller 13 feet in diameter. The props always rotate at the same speed—3700 RPM—and speed and altitude of the plane are changed by rotating the prop blades so that they "bite" more or less air as they spin.

The 516th Troop Carrier Wing flies the newest version of the C-130, the E model, and this plane has a giant pylon tank under each wing. Each tank holds over 1500 gallons of JP4 fuel, and the total fuel capacity of the E is close to 10,000 gallons. Each plane also can be identified by the red, yellow and blue Tactical Air Command emblem on the vertical tail stabilizer.

Soon, the 516th will make use of its new Close Look technique in Exercise Swift Strike III, a massive military exercise in North and South Carolina. Blue and Red armies and air forces will conduct mock battles to test the effectiveness of new techniques such as Close Look. The exercise is under the direction of Gen. Paul D. Adams, U. S. Army, and his joint Army-Air Force U. S. Strike Command.

Construction On Two Dam Sites To Begin Soon

Dave H. Williams of Coleman was apparent low bidder on Sites 11 and 12 Northwest Laterals at a bid opening in Temple July 18. The bid was $71,948.05. These structures are located in the vicinity of Voss, some 10 to 15 miles south of Valera.

Principal items involved in the job will include approximately 140,000 cubic yards of compacted earthfill material in the two dams, 3,800 pounds of steel bar reinforcement in 96 cubic yards of concrete for emergency spillways, 22,000 square yards, topsoil placed on dams and in emergency spillways for establishing and growing grass and approximately 8,500 feet of net wire fence around dams and emergency spillways to protect vegetative cover that has been established for more efficient maintenance.

Work is scheduled to begin on the two dams within 20 days and is to be completed within 149 calendar days.

Easements and land rights for constructing the floodwater retarding structures have been granted to the Central Colorado Soil Conservation District by all landowners involved. The Soil Conservation District provides technical assistance of the Soil Conservation Service Work Unit at Coleman to landowners in the Watershed for planning and applying needed conservation land treatment about each of the structures. Arrangement have been made between the Central Colorado Soil Conservation District and the Coleman County Commissioners Court for maintenance of the structures which provide flood protection to roads, bridges, as well as range and cropland in the flood plain below. John P. Curtis, Project Construction Engineer with the Soil Conservation Service of Coleman, will supervise construction of the work, according to E. J. Hughes, Area Conservationist at Brownwood.

Sample Soil Now For Fall Planting

Now is the time to have your soil tested in preparation for fall planting, says William F. Bennett, soil chemist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Early soil sampling is encouraged by the chemist to avoid the fall rush that crowds the state's three testing laboratories. Samples being received now are mostly from pastures, fall-seeded crops and lawn or flower beds, he says.

Bennett reminds that established legume pastures are among the crops that will need fertilization this fall. An increasing number of acres are being seeded to vetch, Crimson and White clover and since fertility needs of these crops vary, soil samples should be taken, he says.

For more information about soil testing and for instructions on the method of taking and submitting soil samples, contact your county agricultural agent.

Linda Pittard Interviewed About FHA Convention

(Editor's note: The following is an interview by Miss Earla Buse, with Miss Linda Pittard, delegate to the National FHA Convention, held in Kansas City recently.)

What was the theme of the meeting and do you think the meeting was successful? The theme was: "Your Home—A Key to the Future."

What was the purpose of the meeting? The purpose was to help members understand what constitutes good family life and ways they, as individuals, may influence future homes.

In what manner was the meeting conducted? There were general sessions with speakers; discussion groups; panel discussions and relaxers in the form of motion songs. There was officer participation at each of the general sessions, which were conducted by the girls themselves. The adults acted merely as consultants.

What did the program emphasize? The program was emphasized by keys to each general session. These keys were: Guidance: the home with reference to decision-making and the teaching of moral, social, and spiritual responsibilities; Communications among family members with emphasis on sharing responsibilities, love, respect and acceptance; Citizenship responsibilities of the family to the community and nation and an awareness of family attitudes.

What form of recreation was offered? On Tuesday night we attended the Starlight Theater and saw the musical, "Carnival" starring Al Hirt; on another day we toured the Truman Library and passed by Truman's home; we attended a banquet one night and after the banquet, the Texas National Officer was given a Coke party. She was presented as the "Yellow Rose of Texas." Also, we did some shopping in the large department stores.

Of what value was this meeting to you? I became better acquainted with the national program of work. I was made aware of the importance of preparation and training of life. Women in the future will lead a dual role—homemaker and career girl. The successful homemaker is the one who can understand herself and can relate herself to others.

Leland Williams is Summer Science Student at A&M

High school science students from 15 states, Mexico and the Canal Zone are studying on the Texas A&M campus this summer under sponsorship of the National Science Foundation. The 125 student, selected for the science institute include Leland Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Williams who live at Shields. The outstanding young scholar is a student at Santa Anna High School. He is 17 years old.

Chosen on the basis of competitive exams and high school record, the students participate in 6-week-long courses in physics, biology, geology or mathematics.

The unique program for sophomores, juniors and seniors is designed to further their education and interest them in a career in science. Neither grades nor high school credit are offered for the program.

Students receive travel and subsistence allowances based upon need. Fees at Texas A&M are paid by the National Science Foundation.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Allen and Sammie were in Ballinger Saturday night to attend the wedding of his niece, Miss Betty Allen.

Prince Albert introduced the Christmas tree into England.

The City Council of Santa Anna donated 10 acres of the Ranger Park land to Dr. Charles M. Henner last week for the construction of a medical center. The action came after a lengthy discussion with Dr. Henner as to the operation and staff of the proposed center.

Overall, the eventual plans was estimated to cost about $250,000 and will include a 60-bed rest home, a 14-bed hospital, offices for three doctors including a dentist, and a prescription laboratory.

Terms of the gift stated that construction on the rest home is to begin within 90 days, with the other construction to follow later.

Dr. Henner, operator of the Santa Anna Clinic, said he was sure he could begin the construction in that time. The first construction will likely be 30 beds in the rest home and as the need arises, the other construction will follow.

County Junior Rodeo Association Organized

A large number of boys and girls, along with several adults, from throughout the county, attended the meeting. After a thorough discussion of reasons for making the Junior Rodeo a county-wide affair, it was voted to do so.

A scholarship is presented each year to a senior member. This year it will be presented to some senior member from one of the county's high schools.

Anyone eligible who wishes to join the association may do so by contacting Mr. Hightower or Stanley Blackwell of Coleman.

Austin — Texas Legislative Council, research agency for the Legislature, is in the curious position of being asked to take a close look at the ethical standards of its own boss.

Council, meeting in Austin, agreed on a proposed study of conflict of interest questions affecting State officials and employees. Gov. John Connally and Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr suggested the study as a result of investigations into the private business affairs of former Railroad Commissioner W. J. Murray Jr.

A Travis County grand jury found Murray innocent of any violation of criminal laws during his terms of office. Carr observed in a later report that the Murray case raised "a serious question of a conflict of interest" between official duties and private interests.

Carr's report said Murray grossed $1,700,000 during his 16 years on the Commission — most of it from oil and gas ventures. Attorney general recommended "adequate laws" to control "any deviations from ethical standards."

Council will be responsible for conducting research and investigation of possible conflict of interest cases among all State officials — including the lawmakers themselves — with a view toward "improving our present code of ethics."

MORE REPUBLICANS?
Another action by the Legislative Council had interesting "two-party" implications.

Rep. Bob Johnson of Dallas was named executive director of the Council, succeeding Read Granberry who died last year. Johnson has resigned his Dallas legislative post to accept the $15,500-a-year assignment — creating still another vacancy in the eight-man Dallas delegation to the House of Representatives.

This leaves only one Democrat, Rep. Ben Atwell, lined up against the six incumbent Republicans.

Dallas Republicans surprised themselves and stunned Democrats last year by winning all the legislative races they entered. Speculation then was that the three remaining Democrats on the Dallas House delegation — Reps. Bob Hughes, Johnson and Atwell — would be in for a rough 1964 general election should Dallas Republicans oppose them, and an even rougher time if Barry Goldwater were chosen to head the GOP ticket as presidential nominee.

Hughes recently resigned his legislative post to accept appointment to a judgeship. This caused more speculation about a possible 1964 election sweep by the Dallas Republican organization.

Johnson's resignation has intensified the "Republican sweep" fears.

CRAM COURSE ON ANNEXATION
Texas Municipal League will conduct a special one-day "institute" in Austin on August 5. It will be a cram course for Texas municipal officials on the new law limiting city annexations.

William Olson, attorney for the League, will moderate a question-and-answer program, followed by a panel discussion featuring Mayor James McCrocklin of Kingsville, City Manager H. P. Clifton of Abilene, Planning Director William Anderson of Corpus Christi, and Steve Matthews, executive director of the League.

New law takes effect on August 23. But a provision in the Act requires that annexations pending or initiated after March 15 (1963) must meet terms set out in the measure. Furthermore these in-the-works annexations must be completed by November 23 or become null and void.

RAPID ERADICATING
Few eradication programs have produced such prompt and effective results as the U. S. Department of Agriculture's screwworm eradication plan.

A year ago scientists and field workers started the "saturation" release of sterilized flies to conquer screwworm population explosion.

Texas Animal Health Commission reported only 28 screwworm cases confirmed in a 5-day period — as opposed to nearly 3,000 cases recorded during a comparable period in 1962.

As further encouragement, the Commission noted that of last week's 28 reported cases, only five were in areas where the program's "controls" were in full effect.

HOW TO BE A COMMISSIONER

Frank Miskell, Texas' first Regulatory Loan Commissioner, is faced with the massive task of creating the agency.

Since state office buildings are filled his first job is finding office space.

Another immediate problem concerns selection of a deputy commissioner. He will assume much of the detailed work involved in establishing a budget and an organizational plan, setting salaries for employees, hiring employees from the third-ranking executive down to the secretarial pools and file clerks, purchasing office equipment and furnishings, and so on.

Miskell still hopes to have the agency set up by August 23. That is the effective date of the new law governing the licensing and practices of lending firms who charge more than 10% in-

HEALTH AND SAFETY TIPS FROM THE AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSN.

Home Safety

Home Sweet Home, that supposed pillar of sanctuary, is the site of more injuries each year than our nation's highways.

On the average, about 26,000 Americans are accidentally killed in their homes each year and four million are injured.

Most of these injuries and deaths occur through falls — particularly among older people. Of the 11,800 persons who died from falls in their homes in 1961, 10,100 were age 64 and over.

For the most part, these falls among older people occur at floor level — not from high places such as a ladder or roof. And in general they are easily preventable. When you can answer yes to the following questions, then you have set the pattern for safety proofing your home against accidents of the interest.

A flood of applications is expected from Texas loan companies seeking licenses and inquiring about specific provisions in the new lending regulations.

PROSPERITY, OR WHATEVER IT IS

Texas merchants continue to operate at a high level of retail sales volume.

Total retail sales show no dramatic increases. But the level for the first six months of this year is about two percent over the 1962 January to June period.

According to the UT Bureau of Business Research Ft. Worth and Austin are in the lead with increases of six percent. Dallas is next with three percent improvement, followed by San Antonio with plus one percent.

Cities recording disappointing half-year sales were El Paso, minus one percent, and Houston, with no change from the 1962 averages.

4-H Club Members Help Save Lives

Nearly every farm fire could be prevented, says the National Safety Council, and periodic inspections would remove most hazards.

Well aware of this situation are the state's 4-H Club members who try to use safety measures year-round in their homes, on the highways, on the farm and wherever their daily tasks take them.

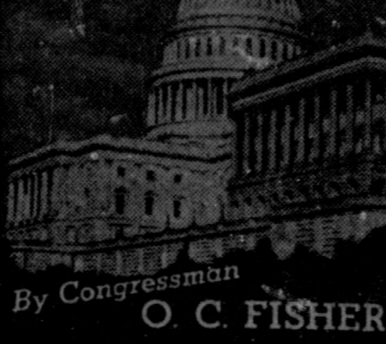

Nearly 1 in 10 of the 8,700 farm residents killed in accidents in 1961 died in fires. Right now 4-H safety project members are working to prevent fires.

They give these warnings: If a fire starts — be calm. Stop, think, then act. Get everyone out of the fire area, then turn in the fire alarm. NEVER go back into a burning building to save belongings.

So that these steps can be quickly taken, they suggest: Know where and how to turn in an alarm; know the fire department phone number; have a plan of escape from the home and outbuildings; keep fire extinguishers within easy reach.

Our WASHINGTON Letter

A PROPOSED ATOMIC TEST BAN, and a move to scrap our restrictions on admission of immigrants, topped the news in Washington last week.

The test ban treaty, which must be ratified by the U. S. Senate to be effective, would commit us, Britain, and the Soviet Union not to set off atmospheric tests. It does not apply to underground testing.

While the objectives are laudable, the value of this agreement must, in the final analysis, depend upon the extent of good faith on the part of the Russians. For they can continue atmospheric tests, with fear of detection, if such tests stay below one kiloton capacity. Our detection techniques simply will not reveal the light weight tests fired in the atmosphere. That is the view of Dr. Edward Teller, the father of the H-bomb and a highly respected authority.

"Such small tests", Teller wrote me recently, "could be decisive in developing missile defense, a field of utmost importance in which the Russians may already have a considerable lead."

Senate debate on ratification will be extensive, and every facet of the problem will be developed. Above everything, we must not lose sight of the fact that the Russians are still communists and are hell-bent on world domination. And up to this time they have never been known to keep faith with an international agreement, unless that course happens to suit their strategy.

President Kennedy proposed last week to scrap our quota system which restricts the admission of immigrants to this country. This system, which has been in effect for more than 40 years, limits the number of new immigrants from European countries and assigns to each country an annual quota based upon the proportionate number of Americans from those various nations, as of 1920.

Minority group pressures have been built up, calling for the scrapping of this quota protection. Certain racial groups from countries entitled to relatively small quotas, want the quota restrictions removed. Only in that way, they figure, can they hope to see more of their own racial group admitted. Hence, taking note of this pressure, and the political mileage involved, Truman, Eisenhower, and now Kennedy, have plugged for the scrapping of our time-tested method of admitting new immigrants from Europe. Let's leave it like it is.

Howard Payne To Begin 75th Year in September

Brownwood — With the opening of the fall semester at Howard Payne College, September 9, the college will also open its seventy-fifth anniversary year.

Building on the slogan, "Seventy-five years of Christian Education," an anniversary committee, headed by Dr. Frances L. Merritt, director of graduate studies and teacher education, is now completing plans for the year's observance.

Among highlights of the calendar will be the Founder's Day Convocation Sept. 23, the Homecoming Nov. 22-23, the opening of the new men's dormitory and student center now under construction, an historical pageant centered around the story of the school, and commencement month activities.

Special emphasis will also be given at various times through the year to the people who have built the school and to the students who have studied there in past years.

The seventy-fifth year will tell a story of progress built on tradition as the college, an honored, fully-accredited, liberal arts school with an anticipated enrollment of 1,200 opens its new dormitory and its nationally acclaimed Douglas MacArthur Academy of Freedom.

The school and its tradition of Christian education started in 1889 — only four years after the formation of the Baptist General Convention of Texas — when the Pecan Valley Baptist Association voted to found it at the suggestion of Dr. John D. Robinett, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Brownwood. The first class was enrolled in the fall of 1890.

Now arriving — New Fall Dresses, Juniors, Regulars and Half Sizes. Also new Fall Hats and Coats. Ladies Shop.

Read Job 42:1-10; John 17:9-21
The Lord restored the fortunes of Job, when he had prayed for his friends. (Job 42:10. RSV.)

At the close of Job's great trial, "the Lord turned the captivity of Job when he prayed for his friends."

Sometimes all we can do for those we love is to pray for them. They may be far distant — perhaps on the other side of the globe. They may be involved in trials and exposed to temptations of which we know nothing. Even when we know their needs, we may be unable to render any help.

In any case, praying is the best we can do, for God is always near our loved ones. He knows their needs and He knows their hearts. He knows what is best for them because He is infinitely wise. Not only can God do for them what we request; He can do "exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think."

He who in the love of God prays for his friends will try to show God's loving kindness.

PRAYER

Dear heavenly Father, let Thine eye be upon all whom we love. Each has his own special needs; and Thou, O God, knowest them all; and Thou alone canst supply them. Hear our prayer in their behalf. Above all, give to each one the guidance of the Holy Spirit, and draw all to Thee in Christ, in whose name we offer our prayer. Amen

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

By praying and giving thanks for others, we unite with God in caring for them.

Transparent Woman To Be Feature Of Dallas State Fair

She may not be fat but she'll never be "skinny".

That's not a riddle — it's a description of the brand-new skinless Transparent Woman who will make her debut at the 1963 State Fair of Texas, October 5 through 20 in Dallas.

Visi-Belle (her official name) will nonetheless retain a trait attributed to women: she will talk constantly.

The Transparent Woman, one of the few life-size figures of her type in the country, will be part of a giant $25,000 exhibit at the Dallas Health & Science Museum which will show through models, diagrams and pictures "The Story of Life."

It will be the most comprehensive exhibit ever presented by the Museum and will be one of the first exhibits of its kind shown to the general public anywhere in the country.

The Transparent Woman's mate, Visi-Bill, also will be on display during the State Fair in the Health and Science Museum.

Special exhibits for the 1963 Fair, "Exposition of Our American Heritage," currently are being planned and prepared by the other five museum at State Fair Park: Texas Hall of State, Museum of Natural History, Garden Center, Aquarium and the Museum of Fine Arts.

USDA Lists Five August Plentiful Foods For Texas

Careful grocery shoppers can look to five plentiful foods as they plan summer — perfect menus this August, reports the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Summer vegetables and canned tuna are featured on the official August list of plentiful foods, as determined by the U.S. Department of Agriculture in cooperation with growers and the food trade.

Also expected to be in supply that exceeds normal needs are watermelons, peanuts, and salad and cooking oils.

Supplies of specific summer vegetables will vary at different markets of the state. Generally, though, look for an abundance of tomatoes, sweet corn, green beans, beets, cabbage and lettuce. "Good buys" also will prevail on a number of in-season local vegetables.

Canned tuna joins the list because heavy inventories have caused concern among folks of the tuna industry. They're conducting a nation-wide promotion program that means economical purchases for consumers. Tuna is an ideal hot-weather meat, for sandwiches, salads, casseroles and other uses.

Watermelon supplies are expected to be at least as large as a year ago. Peanut foods, including peanut butter, are perfect summer snack items. Stocks of salad and cooking oils are about 700 million pounds larger than normal.

Wise shoppers can take advantage of the abundance of these plentiful foods by serving them often and generously. Lower prices and wider choice of quality usually accompany abundance.
