Point Rows

By Bob Parker

Well, here we are in the editor's chair at The Santa Anna News, trying to get the feel of it. We know from past experience that the editor's chair is usually an interesting place to sit, occasionally an uncomfortable one, and every once in a while it reminds us of that high-voltage chair they have down at Huntsville.

This column will appear regularly on the front page of The News from now on, concerned with a little of this and a little of that. Our readers who are familiar with farming will recognize the title. Point rows are the little "leftover" rows in a contour-plowed field, caused by the irregularities in the contours or terraces. They are small and a little hard to farm, but what they produce has been the difference between profit and loss for many a farmer. That about describes this column, made up of items and ideas that might not get full-fledged coverage in the news sections of the paper, but which are informative or interesting or fun enough to merit consideration.

To start with, we would like to say an official "Hello" to all of you, and to tell you how happy we are to be in Santa Anna. The town of Milford, between Waco and Dallas, has a sign on the highway which says: "Welcome to Milford, home of 750 friendly people and three or four old grouches." We think Santa Anna can go Milford one better, because if there are even three or four grouches around here, we have yet to meet them.

With our usual luck, we managed to get into trouble before we had been here more than a couple of days. Our hobby is raising registered beagles, a breed of dog that is becoming famous because President Johnson finds their ears pullable. Anyhow, just before we left Waco, a fellow we knew came to us and asked if we would take care of their beagle for them—he had just received a scholarship to the University of Houston Dental School, and they couldn't take their family-pet beagle along. We said yes, as a favor, because he was obviously so concerned and worried about the dog. A few days later, we came to Santa Anna. That's when the trouble started, because this new beagle, called Diddle, had been raised as a family pet since early puppyhood and thought he was a people instead of a dog. So when we left him alone in the pen with the other beagles, he was quite lonesome and insulted, and he showed his displeasure by howling. Now, nothing in the world can howl like a beagle. At their best, they sound like a cross between a banshee and an air-raid siren, with a little bit of sonic boom thrown in. Diddle howled a good part of the first night he was in Santa Anna, which caused a great deal of discomfort and unhappiness among our new neighbors (on whom we were anxious to make a good impression). Beagles can and should be trained not to howl—ours are from the age of six weeks, but Diddle, being an older dog, wasn't about to learn such new tricks despite our best efforts. As a result, we were pretty unpopular in our new neighborhood. What a way to make a good impression on a new town!

So Diddle went back to Waco, my pronto, where he was given to a family with three small children, and he is quite happy now, getting lots of attention, not howling, and as convinced as ever that he is a human being. And we went around apologizing to neighbors. If we missed anyone, we hope they will accept this public apology. We're sorry. Sometimes it just doesn't seem to pay to try to be a good Samaritan.

The recent move from Waco to Santa Anna was our first effort at moving our kennel of beagles such a long distance. We hope we made two such moves in one—our first and our last. To add to our dog troubles, our pen, constructed in advance, sprung a leak, and we have had to keep some of the beagles in the house until we can get the pen repaired. Thank goodness they are all housebroken. The patter of little feet around the house is nice, we understand, but this is ridiculous.

Didn't intend to make so much of this column about our hounds, but since we are certainly in the midst of "dog days" temperaturewise, maybe it's appropriate.

OPEN LETTER To Santa Anna News Readers

As you read in this paper last week, The Santa Anna News has been leased from John Gregg. The purpose of this open letter to our readers is to tell you something about your new editor and about what he hopes to do with this newspaper.

First off, we came to Santa Anna from Waco, where we have been serving as editor and publisher of Soil and Water Magazine, a national monthly magazine serving the field of conservation. We had been with this magazine for four years prior to our move to Santa Anna. Before that, we served a hitch of active duty with the Marine Corps, as a combat correspondent (there was no combat going on at the time, but that is what they called us, anyway), and before that we worked in an editorial capacity with a magazine publishing firm in Dallas.

On the personal side, we are thirty years old, single, Methodist, independent when it comes to politics, somewhat forgetful, and we like the New York Yankees, Mexican food, and fishing. Our main hobby is the raising of registered beagle dogs, and (bragging a little) we can say that our Rio Peco Kennels have one of the best-known beagle bloodlines in Texas. In fact, we could say that we are bringing a new, if small, industry to Santa Anna, as our puppies are in demand all over the state. We enter our dogs in beagle field trials and in shows.

Although for the past six years we have been connected with the magazine field, our early background, training, and interest was with weekly newspapers. That is one reason we leased The Santa Anna News. Another reason, the reason we chose Santa Anna, is because we were so favorably impressed by the town, by its prospects, and particularly by the people. When we mentioned our interest in Santa Anna to friends in Waco, many of them said: "Santa Anna has the friendliest people of any town I've been in." And nothing that has occurred during our short stay here has caused us to disbelieve that statement.

It is our belief that a newspaper can be of tremendous importance to the growth and progress of a town. That is what we want to do here. We, at The News, stand ready at all times to work with anyone or any group interested in advancing Santa Anna.

We want to produce the kind of paper you will enjoy reading. You will notice a number of new features in this issue of The News. Let us know how you like them (and if you don't like them, let us know that, too). Of course, coming to a new town, we don't know as much about what is going on as we should. We are asking that all our readers help us even more than usual in finding out about what is going on, letting us know about things that should be in the paper.

We hope this will be a long, enjoyable, and profitable relationship. With some hard work on our part, and a lot of help and cooperation on yours, we are sure it will be.

We hope each of you will come by The News office and give us a chance to get acquainted with you. The coffee pot is always on. We will be looking forward to seeing you.

Sincerely,
Bob Parker
Editor and Publisher

County Farm Bureau Leaders Head For Brownsville Meeting

Some 300 county leaders are expected to attend the 16th annual Texas Farm Bureau Institute in Brownsville, July 21-24, according to TFB President C. H. DeVaney of Waco.

At least six Coleman County Farm Bureau members plan to attend this session, including Mr. and Mrs. Tom Starnes (Mrs. Starnes is Farm Bureau secretary), Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gilder and Mr. and Mrs. James Hargett.

The institute is conducted to provide training for volunteer leaders who have positions of responsibility in their county Farm Bureaus. Regular courses will include instructions in specific areas of Farm Bureau activity as well as agricultural economics.

Two general sessions will carry out the Institute's theme: "Our American Heritage." Speakers include Dr. George S. Benson, president of Harding College, Searcy, Ark., noted authority on Americanism and Communism; and John Noble, Wheaton, Ill., author-lecturer who spent 9½ years in a Russian slave labor camp. J. D. Hays of Montgomery, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau, will be speaker at the luncheon concluding the four-day school.

Guest instructors include: Dr. Jarrell Gray, Commerce, head of department of agricultural education at East Texas State College; Prof. Glyn Turner, Huntsville, history instructor, Sam Houston State College; O. R. Long, Chicago, field services director for the American Farm Bureau Federation; and Warren Newberry, Vernon, field services director for the AFBF's southern region.

General sessions will be held in the Fort Brown Memorial Center with classes in adjacent Texas Southmost College.

Noise In Night Spells Death For Rattler

Mrs. Ed Jones can say "amen" to the warning in the story in last week's Santa Anna News about watching your step because of poisonous snakes.

Mrs. Jones was awakened Wednesday by cries from baby rabbits under the porch steps. When she investigated, she discovered a rattlesnake in excess of three feet long. She called Mr. Jones, who shot the rattler. On examination it was found that the snake had six rattles.

When the mother rabbit returned to the nest, she immediately moved the baby rabbits out. If she could talk, she would probably repeat the warning: Watch out for poisonous snakes during this time of year.

Stones used to beat other stones into shape are assumed to have been the first tools used by primitive man.

HOME COMING
SANTA ANNA SCHOOLS
SATURDAY,
SEPTEMBER 26, 1964

The Santa Anna contingent of Coleman County's own National Guard unit, Company A, 1st Battalion, 142nd Infantry Regiment, 36th Infantry Division, left for 15 days of annual field training on Sunday, July 12.

The Santa Anna men, who up until recently have been attached to the Brownwood unit, met with the rest of the Coleman County Guardsmen in Coleman early Sunday morning, then headed for Fort Hood by truck and jeep.

The Santa Anna boys got a last chance to say "so long" to the town when the convoy stopped off here for coffee.

Part of some 6,500 Guardsmen at Fort Hood for the summer camp, the Coleman County citizen soldiers met with other sections of the 36th Division in Brownwood and proceeded to North Fort Hood.

Two details about this year's summer camp will be more appealing to the men of the Division than in previous year. For one thing, they will not be spending the Fourth of July in camp, as they have for the past six years. Too, they will receive a weekend pass from about noon next Saturday until about 10 p. m. Sunday.

First week of annual field training will be spent at North Fort Hood's "tent city" bivouac area, but starting Monday of the second week, the unit will go into the field and camp out there most of the week, returning to the main area on Friday.

The Santa Anna unit will return home on Sunday, July 26. Commanding officer of the Santa Anna unit is Lt. Howard O. Davis, of Brownwood.

"Our men moved into camp as though it were a daily occurrence."

These were the words of Lt. Col. James L. Moreland, Abilene, commander of the First Battalion, 142nd Infantry, 36th Division, Texas National Guard, who was more than pleased with the manner in which units from companies in Abilene, Coleman, Brownwood, Brady, Ballinger and Santa Anna moved into camp Sunday.

"They made the journey to camp by convoy without a single accident," Col. Moreland said. "And they immediately got down to the business of setting up housekeeping in their new surroundings for the next two weeks."

Col. Moreland heaped additional praise on the advance detachment, commanded by Maj. Everett S. Pitts, executive officer from Brownwood.

"Because of the splendid efforts of this group, our move into camp was greatly aided," Col. Moreland remarked, "they were ready and waiting for us."

Son Of NEWS Worker Injured

Jim Tom Steen, of Mason, son of The Santa Anna News production supervisor Grady Steen, was injured Wednesday, July 8, when a truck he was driving toppled over while unloading dirt at the construction site of the spillway at Fort Phantom Lake.

Seven stitches were required to close a cut on Steen's head, and he sustained leg injuries also, but was not otherwise seriously injured.

Santa Anna Oil Well Proves Dry Hole

Santa Anna's hope for another producing well in the city limits fell through when a well being drilled in the east edge of town, on land belonging to the Santa Anna Co-op Gin, proved dry.

The well, which was begun July 6, was projected for a depth of 1,800 feet by the POCO, Inc. company of Wichita Falls. It was plugged July 14.

BOY SCOUT MEETING

The Santa Anna Boy Scout Troop will hold a reorganization meeting at 7:00 p. m., Monday, July 20, at the regular meeting place at the City Hall. All members and prospective members are urged to attend.

Austin — While you are reading this, your problems are multiplying.

The problem: mosquitoes. At this time of the year they are multiplying by the score. One female may lay several batches of eggs — from 50 to 200 in a batch. She will leave her eggs only where there is water. These eggs will hatch into swarms of insect adults to vex and plague you this summer.

Mosquitoes continue to be a vexing and sometimes serious problem for everyone. In your home or yard and in public parks, they can interfere with man's chores and spoil his enjoyment of leisure time. They may reduce the efficiency of outdoor workers and cause farm animals to lose weight by driving them from lush pastures to barren hillsides.

Some species of mosquitoes transmit diseases such as malaria and yellow fever to man, encephalitis to man and horses, and heartworm to dogs.

By acting now, you may save yourself time and trouble later on. The simplest and most effective method of cutting down or controlling mosquito population is to eliminate their breeding places. You might simply say it's a matter of killing them before they multiply.

Mosquitoes cannot hatch unless they are in water. Double-check your home for standing water. You may be surprised at the number of small puddles of water you'll find.

Discarded bicycle and automobile tires and tin cans will probably hold at least a small amount of water, or water may collect in rain gutters or on a flat roof.

Cisterns, cesspools, septic tanks, rain barrels and tubs provide excellent breeding places unless they are tightly covered.

If there is standing water on your premises that cannot be eliminated, examine it to see if larvae are present. To do so, dip up a cupful — preferable a white cup of water weekly. The small dark larvae will show up against the light background if they are present.

Should you find larvae in the water, apply an insecticide. If the water is not to be used for human or animal consumption, you may apply a spray containing 1 percent DDT; 5 percent lindane, 2 percent of malathion or full strength kerosene or fuel oil.

Whatever action you need to take, do it now... save yourself a lot of problems later.

DA Cotton Classing Offices Prepared To "Mike" Ali Samples

With micronaire readings now required on each bale of cotton that enters the government's loan program, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Abilene Cotton Classing Office is prepared to run "Mike" readings on all samples it classes, reports B. B. Manly Jr., chairman of the office.

The Mike fee will be 6 cents per sample during the 1964-65 season, if application for the service is made by the ginners prior to submitting samples. Manly says; otherwise, it will cost 25 cents per sample. Last year the fee was 8 cents.

All ginners have received application forms for the service. Samples will be Miked at the same time they are classed for grade and staple under the Smith-Doxey Act, administered by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service.

Planning Can Avoid Misery For Vacation

Outdoor vacations, camping trips and even family picnics can be ruined, reminds W. R. Long, regional information-education officer for the Parks and Wildlife Department, by accidents, injuries, illnesses and many seemingly insignificant quirks of nature.

He says a little care and caution, plus some advance information, will eliminate and lessen these inconveniences.

"The addition of a snake bite kit, sun-tan oil, insect repellent and a spray-type disinfectant in your camping gear," advises Long, "will alleviate many possible discomforts. Those susceptible to the toxicity of poisonous plants need to visit their physician for advance shots or medication, and the thoughtful camper will do well to get a tetanus shot, or if this has been done, a booster.

"Brushing up on first aid techniques may save a life, and knowledge of boat safety rules may prevent disaster. The cautious boater knows to stay with his boat, using it as a life preserver, if an accident occurs.

"Guns, boats and cars do not kill people; people kill people! But the careful camper has the fun-filled outdoor world at his doorstep!"

Texas' Kissin' Trees

Texas offers an added attraction to out-of-state tourists. An abundance of mistletoe seasonally is found growing among trees in both town and country.

This is a common site to Texans. But to many out-of-staters mistletoe is seen only at Christmas time... and then only in small bunches... bought at fairly high prices.

Mistletoe has a varied history. It was the instrument of death, in the form of an arrow, that was used to kill the Sun God, Balder, in Norse mythology. It also was known as a medical charm to Europeans who once carried it around for good luck, as well as a cure for ulcers, epilepsy and infertility.

But Texans and the rest of the nation seem to prefer the modern use for mistletoe — an excuse to kiss some fair lady.

'Different' Offerings Made By Adventists

Offerings in the church are not as a rule considered very interesting but the investment offering of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church is different.

Members of the local Adventist church are lately thinking up ways to invest a portion of their time, money, labor, or all three in a project for the Lord. Some are investing a portion of their offerings; others are planning to invest a few dollars in material and make aprons to sell. The proceeds go into the Investment Fund. The gardeners of the church set aside a few rows of vegetables, a fruit tree or a baby calf or perhaps a certain hen and give any income derived.

In launching the 1964 Investment Program in the local church, Mrs. Ray Osborne, the Investment leader suggested a goal of $500.00 for this particular fund. Last Saturday she said the returns from investment was coming in satisfactorily.

Millions of dollars have gone into the Investment offering since it was begun years ago. This offering is one of the means that support Seventh-Day Adventist missions in 183 of the 203 countries of the world, and in 726 languages.

Adventists Holds Camp For Youth

Five Santa Anna and Coleman boys and girls will join approximately fifty other youths from Texas in a five-day summer training camp for underprivileged children opening July 27 at Lone Star MV Camp at Athens, Texas.

The camp is sponsored by the churches of the Texas Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists and is for children of all denominations who would otherwise be unable to attend any camp. R. A. Bata, Texas Welfare Director, said, "We are prompted to conduct this welfare camp by the words of Christ: 'In as much as ye have done it unto the least of ... ye have done it unto me.'"

Beamed for the 9-13 age group, the summer training camp provides not only a retreat in the out-of-doors for the youth, but also instruction in nature lore, leather, wood and other crafts, swimming and boating.

The camp is organized for special features appealing to both boys and girls. It is subdivided into control units of seven and eight youngsters with an adult counselor in charge of each. Counselor units remain intact throughout all activities. The camp will be supervised by W. E. Burns, Youth Director of Texas Adventists, and Bata. Associated with them as unit counselors and instructors will be school teachers and qualified laymen.

A day's program commencing at 7:00 a. m. reveille, and climaxing with a 9:00 p. m. curfew.

Type Of Fish For Stocking Tank Depends On Type Of Fishing Desired

A question asked by many people every day is, "What kind of fish shall I put in my pond?" "Stock your pond with whatever kind or kinds you like to catch," says Wallace G. Klussman, Extension wildlife conservation specialist, Texas A&M University. "If you are a catfisherman only, then there is no reason to stock other species; the same goes for bass or sunfish. If you want all kinds, then bass, channel catfish, and redear sunfish are compatible."

Evidence indicates that it is not necessary to stock a forage fish along with largemouth bass, explains Klussman. Many sources still recommend stocking a sunfish such as the bluegill along with bass. These cover large sections of the country including states north of Texas where the growing and spawning seasons are shorter and more favorable for bass-bluegill combinations.

A female bluegill can spawn as many as four times during a single season in Texas, notes the specialist. The result is thousands of small bluegills that never reach edible size. Another factor contributing to the bluegill dilemma is that bluegills are not the "ice cream" in any fish's diet. Bass prefer feeding on their own kind and other species rather than on bluegills, says Klussman. Channel catfish are scavengers and eat few bluegills.

If sunfish are desired, the most suitable species is the redear since it spawns only once a year and thereby lengthens the time before overcrowding occurs, says the specialist.

Crapple or white perch should not be stocked in ponds having less than five to 10 surface acres because, like bluegills, they will overpopulate a small pond in one or two years.

A pond should always be stocked with fingerlings that are approximately the same size, such as those obtained from state and federal hatcheries, says the specialist. Never go to a nearby stream or pond and seine fish for stocking.

"A balanced fish population is almost impossible to obtain if stocking of all sizes and kinds of fish is practiced. Never introduce fingerlings into a pond containing adult fish, particularly bass," warns Klussman. "A pond should be stocked with a balanced group of fingerlings only after the adults have been removed."

Fingerlings for stocking private ponds can be obtained free of charge from either state or federal hatcheries.

Application forms and stocking recommendations can be obtained from the local county agent or game warden, adds Klussman. Requests for stock fish may be made at any time.

It is important for pondowners to fill the application card correctly and not to "hedge" on the size of the pond in an effort to get more fish, comments the specialist. It is just as bad to stock a pond with too many of the right kind as it is to stock it with undesirable kinds. Just as range land has a certain capacity for a specific number of animals, a pond can only support a specific number of pounds of desirable fish.

'Oldtimers' Win In Baseball Tuesday

With a great deal of wheezing, puffing and some good baseball, the "oldtimers" from Santa Anna topped their counterparts from Bangs in a regular grudge game Tuesday night.

Local druggists expect liniment sales to be very good Wednesday morning.

When man communes with nature anything can happen, and usually does. H. M. Walton, manager of Fort Parker State Park near Mexia, found himself in the middle of nature's happenings when he explored a wood duck nest recently.

Walton used a stepladder to elevate himself to a wood duck nest located in a tree near his bathing beach. He wasn't the first to arrive, however, and was greeted at the doorway of the hollow tree by a large, and very unexpected rat snake. Before actually seeing the reptile, his hand was doing more exploring in the nest than was felt necessary by the snake.

A man on a stepladder is not, according to Walton, exactly prepared for such an encounter. It's understandable that spectators nearby found little cause for complaining about the various types of amusements often seen in our State Parks.

There are no drugs or treatments which can cure baldness, make the hair grow, or "feed" the hair roots or scalp.

GATOR STORY

When a strange varmit's running loose in the pasture it's usual to drop a rope on him. Not so usual is the type of varmit roped by Elmer Easterly in his pasture near Pritchett in East Texas. His lasso found itself around a seven-foot alligator.

Easterly named his intruder "Bigun", estimated his age at more than seven years, and promptly boned up on alligator lore in an encyclopedia. He figured that reading was safer than a close-up examination. This, according to W. R. Long, information and education officer for the Parks and Wildlife Department, is likely correct.

There are muddy sloughs nearby, and presumably alligators sometimes get bored with their surroundings. Then it isn't unusual at all for them to pack their alligator suitcases and move.

After the pastoral hubbub, Easterly counted his cows, found them all present and accounted for, then began looking for a home for the reptile.

Unightly weeds can invade and ruin a beautiful lawn when proper management is neglected, says Albert C. Novosad, Extension pasture specialist, Texas A&M University. A vigorous turf is the best control for weeds and weedy grasses, but when they do infest a lawn, elimination and control with chemicals or by hand becomes an important management practice.

Some chemicals available for controlling lawn weeds include disodium methylarsenate, amine methylarsenate, maphtha, endothal, silvex, and 2,4-D reports the specialist.

Workshop Set In Brownwood

Some 50 to 600 public school guidance counselors enrolled in a two-week workshop this week at Howard Payne College, according to Dr. Jane M. Carroll, workshop director.

The workshop will be one of the highlights of the second six-week term at the college. The workshop will end on July 24, but other courses will run for the full six weeks.

Some outstanding consultants are to be present for the workshop, Dr. Carroll said. Included in the group will be Mrs. Leona Allman, consumer consultant with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Dallas; Mrs. Elsie T. Bundy, visiting representative from the College Entrance Examination Board, Austin; H. H. Davis, representative of TE-Ad, Inc., Dallas;

Also Donald E. Hood, from the Texas Education Agency; Mrs. Vivian Ferguson, guidance counselor, Brownwood High School; Miss Evelyn Miller, reading consultant with Houghton Mifflin Co., Austin; Dr. Vernon Odom, district director of the American College Testing Program, Lubbock.

Hours for the workshop are from 1-5 each day. The course carries three hours credit.

Cats have highly developed vision and hunt by sight, while dogs rely on their keen sense of smell.
