SANTA ANNA, COLEMAN COUNTY, TEXAS, THURSDAY, JULY 30, 1964

NUMBER 31

We have been asked once or twice who we think will win the Presidential election this fall. So far, we have managed to avoid answering, for there is only one thing sure about an election — whoever we pick to win will lose.

For instance, following the 1960 national conventions, we confidently stated that, and we quote, "The Democratic nomination is just an empty honor, because no one can beat Nixon this year." Score one for the Parker Jinx. Or again, we knowingly affirmed, after Lyndon Johnson became President, that "Barry Goldwater doesn't have a chance for the Republican nomination, now." Maybe it's possible to be more wrong, but we don't know how. We would probably have voted for Alf Landon against FDR in the 1936 election (which he lost by the greatest margin in US history) but for the fact that we were only two years old, and also we forgot to pay our poll tax that year.

Obviously, politicians are missing a good bet in not using our services. In fact, with this being an election year, we are thinking of going into business. It would work something like this: For a fee, paid by a candidate for office, we would publicly predict that his opponent was a sure thing to win. Then, with the Parker Jinx in effect, the opponent would be beaten before he started.

We are open to any reasonable offer.

We had a tragedy at our place last Sunday. Field Champion Fighting Creek Sam, one of the finest beagles in the Southwest, died at our home. Sam had been in bad health for about two months from a coronary condition, and we knew that it was possible for him to pass away at any moment, but even so we were shocked and saddened. Sam was the most versatile beagle in field trial competition in this part of the country, and he had also piled up an enviable record in show competition. In addition, he was a gentleman, a trait all too rare in either man or dog.

Cullen Perry stopped in before leaving on his vacation Sunday, to tell us about the new stage curtain in the high school auditorium. Says the best he can learn, this is the first new curtain since 1928, although this may not be correct. (He knows for sure there hasn't been any since he has been with the Santa Anna Independent School District, which has been a few winters). So unless someone can come up with information to the contrary, we will say these are the first new curtains since 1928.

Did you notice the convoys of military vehicles roaring through the streets of Santa Anna Saturday and Sunday? Unless you are blind and/or deaf you did. This movement was directed by Santa Anna's own (Captain) Billy Harvey, of the grocery store Harvey's. Capt. Harvey is motor transport officer of the National Guard unit to which the Coleman and Santa Anna group belong.

The Allyn Gills believe us when we say that classified ads in The News pay off. Allyn came in Wednesday with a "Lost and Found" notice about the Gill's family dog, a cocker spaniel. The paper came out Thursday, and by Thursday evening the dog had been located. It was at the Elgean Harris place. Apparently the dog had been carried off, had escaped, and was trying to get home. It came to the Harris place some time ago, with its feet so badly worn that it could barely walk. When the ad appeared the Gills were called, they went out and checked, and there was a very happy reunion. Sometimes even newspaper advertising has a heart.

How is this for a real vacation? This item is quoted from a recent issue of the Mason County News: "Mrs. Meta S. Amidt and Mrs. Cleo Norris accompanied by Mrs. Alpha Cowell of Woodboro and Miss Yvonne Kothman of Houston returned last week from a vacation trip which included the World's War."

Caution, Knowledge Necessary For Safe Skin Diving Participation

EDITOR'S NOTE: With the coming of summer, more and more people are indulging in outdoor sports. Becoming very popular very rapidly is scuba and/or skin diving. Recent news stories about the deaths of two scuba divers in a Central Texas cave point up the need for information about the dangers of this new sport. Anyone considering skin or scuba diving is urged to follow the recommendations in the following article.

The Texas Safety Association today issued a special bulletin citing the hazards involved in the sports of skin and scuba (Self-Contained Underwater Breathing Apparatus) diving. It was also emphasized by the organization that any person taking up either sport automatically takes on responsibility for his own safety over and above that associated with any other sport.

"The person taking up skin or scuba diving should know the inherent dangers in diving and the necessary steps to be taken to prevent mishaps," J. O. Musick, TSA general manager said.

"These steps are not complicated, but they are vital."

The safety director pointed out that the hazards peculiar to diving are of an unfamiliar nature. "Diving places the individual in a strange environment with the effects of pressure from surrounding water presenting danger of a physiologic nature," he explained. "The possible accidents and the noxious effects upon the body are numerous. These effects are unfamiliar to most people."

Musick said among the more common diving hazards are drowning, air embolism, decompression illness, carbon dioxide poisoning and exhaustion. Most divers are familiar with at least one or two of these diseases, but very few are fully acquainted with all the diseases.

Drowning results from breathing in water, and only a small amount is necessary to cause a spasm of the vocal cords, cutting off breathing.

Air embolism is a most serious diving disease that can occur at almost any depth — even in shallow water. It occurs when the diver ascends while holding his breath. The air in his lungs expands as he rises to the surface and finally the alveolar walls of the lungs break, rupturing the blood vessels.

Decompression illness is more often referred to as "the bends." When a diver is below 33 feet of water for a prolonged time, a high concentration of nitrogen from the air source will be absorbed by the body tissues. If sufficient time is not allowed ascent, permitting the nitrogen to be expelled before he surfaces, bubbles will form in the blood stream obstructing circulation.

Carbon dioxide poisoning arises from not adequately exhaling while submerged or from holding the breath in an attempt to swim long distances. This produces an accumulation of carbon dioxide in the lungs and can cause unconsciousness.

Studies of skin diving accidents reveal the type of person who is most often the victim is the "partially experienced" diver. He is most likely to venture into a situation of danger. The "novice" diver will usually venture no further than his experience allows, and therefore is relatively free from accidents. The "highly experienced" diver rarely has an accident.

Musick said the disregard for safety rules is among the factors appearing most often in diving fatalities. This includes the need for safety lines and diving buddies. Safety lines are a "must" for cave explorations.

Among other factors contributing to fatalities is over-confidence, carelessness, insufficient equipment or misuse of equipment and poor knowledge of techniques.

Adequate training courses are listed among the top needs in skin and scuba diving programs. Without proper training a diver may assume too much self confidence and may not really know how to handle the hazards he encounters underwater. A diver should be able to rely on a set of skills, such as buddy-breathing (sharing a single supply of air with another diver until reaching surface).

"Whether a diver confines himself to the snorkel, mask and fins of the skin diver, or carries his air supply with him, he should always remember that he is taking on responsibility for his own safety," Musick concluded. "He must make sure he knows the hazards of 'inner space' and what to do about them."

FRED R. GILBERT
New Coach - Teacher

Gilbert Hired; Faculty Complete

The faculty for the Santa Anna schools for the school year 1964-1965 has been completed with the hiring of Fred R. Gilbert as science teacher and eighth grade coach.

Gilbert, a native of Burk Burnett, attended Decatur Baptist College and graduated from Howard Payne College, with majors in physical education, secondary education, and physical science.

The new teacher, whose election filled the last remaining hole in the faculty lineup for the coming school year, will move his wife and their ten-month old son to Santa Anna in the near future, residing at 1005 Wallis Avenue.

Gilbert, who attended high school in Burk Burnett, comes to Santa Anna with one year of experience in actual teaching and coaching.

The Gilberts are members of the Baptist church.

GOSPEL MEETING AT SOUTHSIDE CHURCH OF CHRIST

The Southside Church of Christ is sponsoring a gospel meeting beginning Friday, July 31 and lasting through Sunday, August 9.

Visiting speaker will be Claude Walkup, of Gould, Oklahoma, who is well known in this area. His knowledge of the Bible should make the meeting of considerable value, according to personnel of the church. They noted that visitors will be enthusiastically welcomed.

Santa Anna Fireman To Firefighting School

The Farm Bureau sponsored the attendance of some 140 volunteer firemen from 59 counties at the 35th annual Texas Firemen's Training School, July 19 through 24 on the campus of Texas A&M University.

L. J. Clark represented the Santa Anna Volunteer Fire Department at the training school. This marked the fifth such session for Clark.

Conducted by the Engineering Extension Service in cooperation with the Texas Education Agency, the school offers latest information on fire protection and prevention as well as firefighting techniques. Volunteer firemen sponsored by Farm Bureau attended two special conferences on rural fire protection in addition to regular courses in the school.

County Farm Bureaus and the Texas Farm Bureau Mutual Insurance Company of Waco pay all except $5 of the $57.50 tuition which covers meals and lodging. This is the second year for the farm organization to provide training opportunities for volunteer firemen from small communities.

Texas Farm Bureau President C. H. DeVaney of Waco said this is a part of the farm organization's year-round rural fire protection program. The Texas Farm Bureau's affiliated insurance services pay $75 to fire department's answering a call outside city limits to fight a fire involving property insured with Farm Bureau. TFB Safety Director Joe Smetana has presented a fire prevention demonstration to 140 schools and 30 clubs in the past year. The organization also carries on a fire extinguisher project for its members.

The training school is the largest and oldest such school in the nation. Training includes a review of basic techniques, but emphasis is on new methods of fire fighting and fire prevention. Among items covered this year were new chemicals used in fire prevention, chemicals that cause spilled gasoline to gel, fire resistant paints, new techniques in fire rescue and first aid methods, new fire retardant foams, and other related topics.

Final detail in the school is a written test. If passed, it means the fireman's home city can obtain a fire insurance credit of from three to five percent on the key rate.

Library To Raise Funds With Rodeo

A unique way to raise money for the public library has been devised by the Santa Anna Library Board, which will stage an amateur rodeo on Labor Day, with proceeds going to redecorate, and to buy new books.

Mrs. Elgean Harris, Board president, announced plans for the rodeo, which will be held at the Buddy Neff arena, three miles north of Santa Anna, with stock to be supplied by Mr. Neff and others.

General rodeo events will be presented, and refreshments will be sold by members of the city library. Youth and junior contestants will hold the spotlight, but amateurs of all ages will take part.

Mrs. Tom Kingsbery is secretary-treasurer, and Miss Charlotte Moseley is vice-president of the Library Board. Mrs. Dovie Chapman is librarian.

Further plans for the rodeo will be announced later.

SERVICES HELD FOR MRS. SMART, AUTO ACCIDENT VICTIM

Mrs. Bessie Lorraine Smart, 42, was killed in an auto accident near her home at Cleburne, 10:00 a. m., Thursday, July 23. Mrs. Smart was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Baugh, and was born in Santa Anna and attended school here.

She is survived by her husband, Claud C. Smart; three sons, Clinton Ray, and Claud Duane, both of the United States Navy, and Ernest Lee; one daughter, Mrs. Lewis Moore, Salinas, California; two brothers, Raymond Baugh, Marina, California and Chester E. Services were held Tuesday, July 28, at Cleveland Methodist Church, with Rev. Hal Martin officiating. Burial was in the Cleveland Cemetery.

The members of Coleman County 4-H and FFA organizations will host their annual Beef Calf Tour on Saturday, August 1.

The tour will begin at 8:00 in the morning, leaving from the Coleman County Courthouse. A barbecue lunch will be served at the recreation building on the rodeo grounds, and the tour will wind up with presentation of awards to exhibitors at 4:30 p. m.

Among those showing their calf projects as part of the tour will be Sara Sue Taylor, Mary Lou Taylor, Ted Taylor, Paul Beaver, Scott Beaver, Sandra Hemphill, Curtis Skelton, Vickie Skelton, Jack Horne, Collier Watson, Franklin Quinn, Charles Cope, Dickie Horner, Joe Pat Hemphill, Tommy Mack Connelly, Ann Davis, Jay Davis, Karen Sims and Ronald Sims. According to County Agent Ray N. Sims, "The feeders have some outstanding calves this year, and we certainly hope you will make plans to be with us and see them."

The public is invited to take part in the tour.

CHOW TIME

"CHOW DOWN" is the traditional call, and Sgt. Tony Tucker, of Santa Anna, is putting it down pretty well in this photo taken during the Santa Anna National Guard unit's second week of Summer Field Training at North Fort Hood last week. The menu, in case you are wondering, is turkey and dressing.

Check Soils

Now is the time to test soils for salinity. Harmful salts, advises Dr. C. D. Welch, extension soil chemist, are often deposited in the soil during irrigation and while irrigation is active, it's a good time to do some checking.

Salinity may reduce crop yields as much as 25 percent and under extreme conditions may ruin soil for almost any type of agricultural production. All waters contain some salt and a salinity threat exists wherever irrigation is practiced, says Welch.

MONAHANS SANDHILLS STATE PARK — Both children and adults enjoy the cool, clean sand at Monahans State Park, a 15-square-mile area of wind sculptured sandhills in West Texas.

Sandhills Park Is Unique Texas Recreation Area Near Monahans

If you are traveling through West Texas on US Highway 80, you will find unique recreational opportunities at Monahans Sandhills State Park, located five miles east of Monahans. Monahans can also be reached by State Highway 18. The primary attraction of the Park is the 3,940 acres of wind-sculptured sandhills. Seventy-foot mountains of pure sand enjoyed by young and old, beckon visitors from afar. Sculptured dunes, constantly changing with the wind, cover 15 square miles. The Park is a fascinating duplicate of Sahara dunes, where you can ride "sand buggies" roller coaster style. Plant and animal life in the Park have adapted to the peculiar environment of the sandhills. Miniature oak trees that seldom reach a height over three feet struggle to maintain roots in the shifting sands, while wild flowers that grow at the edge of the sand dunes would do justice to the finest cultivated flower beds.

Because of the abundance of water in the sandhills, the Indians lived in the area for thousands of years. Amateur archeologists continue to find many artifacts that were covered by the shifting sands. Visitors occasionally find fossils and bones of prehistoric animals and there are rumors of buried gold from a wagon train massacre in frontier days. The Sandhills Museum, a modern stone and glass building that spans two sand dunes, is located just inside the entrance to the Park. There you will find displays of art, science, nature, crafts and antiques. For those who like to picnic, there are shelters to provide shade, barbecue grills and tables. Campers are also invited to spend the night in the sandhills. The Section House Saloon lends a "Western touch" to the area. It is located 1.6 miles north of the Park entrance. Here one may obtain soft drinks, and curios behind the swinging barroom doors. The Park is open daily throughout the year.

FBI To Conduct Several Seminars For Lawmen From West Texas

Special Agent in Charge J. Gordon Shanklin of the Dallas Office of the FBI has announced that a specialized law enforcement conference would be sponsored by the FBI at San Angelo, Texas, on July 31. This is the first of nine such conferences in the Dallas Division of the FBI.

According to Mr. Shanklin, the conference will be attended by representatives of the FBI and law enforcement agencies in this area. The meeting is being held in connection with a series of conferences throughout the nation between now and August 28.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover stated that officials attending the conference will be provided with full information pertaining to the FBI's responsibilities under the Civil Rights Act of 1964. Mr. Hoover stated that the nationwide conferences are being held in view of the numerous requests which have been received from police executives concerning the new civil rights legislation and its relationship to law enforcement on all levels.

The series will also contain a complete discussion of the provisions of the Fugitive Felon Act in an effort to inform local agencies of the services which can be rendered by the FBI where a fugitive has fled the state to avoid prosecution, custody or confinement after conviction of a crime which is a felony under the laws of the state where the crime occurred.

Meetings in Texas are scheduled as follows: July 31, San Angelo; August 4, Arlington; August 5, Longview; August 10, Mt. Pleasant; August 11, Sherman; August 18, Amarillo; August 19, Lubbock; August 21, Abilene; August 25, Wichita Falls. According to Mr. Shanklin, representatives of local, county and state law enforcement agencies will share the speaker's platform.

ROBERT R. PERRY
 New Baytown Kress Manager

Robert R. Perry Is New Kress Manager

Robert R. Perry, a 1958 graduate of Santa Anna High School, has been notified in Austin of his appointment as manager of the S. H. Kress store in Baytown, Texas.

Perry, who attended the University of Texas, has been employed by the Kress Company for four and one-half years. He is married to the former Dixie Deal, of Rockwood, and they have a two-year-old son, Greg.

Perry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Perry, of the Cleveland community.

If you and your family are going camping, along with thousands of others, before the summer is over, remember this: A camp can be a health resort if you keep rules of good health and sanitation foremost in your mind.

You will want to take along a standard first aid kit or at least a disinfectant, tape and gauze. Head off infection by washing and cleaning even minor scratches and cuts.

Choose a camp site near a source of water but away from marshes or likely places for insects to breed. You will need the water for washing even though you won't want to drink just any water.

Check with the Texas State Department of Health or health department of the state you plan to visit before you leave home, if possible. Otherwise, check with local authorities to see if the water source is approved, or safe, before you drink.

If, in case of an emergency, you must drink water from an unsafe source, strain it through a clean cloth and boil it vigorously for at least one minute.

Or you may also add 10 drops—about a teaspoon—of bleach per gallon of water. Mix the solution and wait 30 minutes before drinking.

You may choose camp sites which feature tables, fireplaces and toilet facilities. Or you may prefer strictly to rough it, setting up your own facilities. If so, choose a level, dry spot for the tent or sleeping facilities and put the food up away from curious and hungry animals.

You may construct a camp latrine by simply digging a trench some distance from camp or instruct each person how to dig a simple individual latrine in the woods.

Most campers prefer to carry a limited supply of dishes on a camping trip and wash them after each meal. Sand or mud and twigs are acceptable aids in cleaning pots and pans, although a scouring pad from home will do a quicker job. They can be dried and sterilized in the sun or over the fire. Slipshod dishwashing can produce both an upset stomach and an unhappy camper. Wherever or whenever you camp, remember — make your camp a health resort.

Good Political Sportsmanship

George Washington was the only President of this country elected to that office without partisan opposition. Every four years since, the nation has been embroiled in the same kind of ruckus that we are preparing to enter within the next few weeks — a Presidential election campaign.

Tempers run high and emotions run rampant at such times. The hard-fought battles for the ballots often leave lasting feelings of bitterness. Yet the country has managed to survive. Most of the men who have been elected have been adequate for the job, a few have been exceptional, one or two have been poor choices.

And yet the nation has continued. So let's fight for the candidate of our choice during the upcoming campaign, give our opponents the benefit of their freedom of choice — they are probably just as convinced of their man's merits as we are of ours — and after it is all over, and the voters have made their choice, let's remember that we are Americans first, and that loyalty to nation is far more important than loyalty to party. And besides, there's always another chance in four years.

An American Institution

The hot dog has long been an American institution, and in all likelihood it is destined for immortality. It is inextricably related to fun — whether that fun consists of sports, picnics, carnivals, fairs, or a still newer American institution, the backyard barbecue.

The hot dog's history is full of nostalgia. According to some accounts, it made its first appearance in 1871 at a Coney Island refreshment center and was an immediate hit. It solidified its popular standing at the Chicago Columbia Exposition of 1893 where Little Egypt was the headliner. Then came 1904 and the St. Louis Exposition — and the everlasting marriage of the wiener and the elongated bun. This happened after a peddler, finding that the "red hots" were too hot to handle, provided his customers with white gloves. But profits fast disappeared with the gloves, so he hit on the idea of a bun to fit the meat.

The hot dog was off and running. It soon became a familiar sight at carnivals, exhibitions and circuses throughout the Midwest. Later it formed its loving association with baseball — a game which seems to demand that we grasp a hot dog in one hand and something cool and bubbly to drink in the other.

The hot dog has just about everything. It's succulent and cheap, and nothing does more to happily perfume the air, whatever the season. Now, we learn, it is rapidly establishing itself abroad — one more of America's contributions to an older world!

Yesterday's News

FIVE YEARS AGO

A pioneer resident, John D. Whetstone, 90, a resident of Santa Anna since 1898, was buried here according to the lead story in the July 31, 1959 edition of The News. Another frontpage story tells of a new kiln being installed at the Santa Anna Tile Company. The kiln was transported from Los Angeles, California, and weighed 30,000 pounds. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace McKee returned home during the weekend from a 10-day vacation trip to Dover, Delaware.

TEN YEARS AGO

Governor Allan Shivers, who at the end of his present term of office will have served the state as governor for more than five years, longer than any other man, and is seeking a third elective term as governor, will face his most bitter opponent, Ralph W. Yarborough, in a runoff election to be held Saturday, August 28. — From a frontpage article in the paper for July 30, 1954. Tom Kingsbery, of Santa Anna, was elected a director of the Breeder-Feeder organization, which is seeking emergency drought relief for its members. Mrs. Charles Hosch, of Santa Anna, and Misses Imogene and Era Lee Ingram, of Coleman, spent Saturday in San Angelo.

A photograph in The News for August 4, 1944 pictures the new B-29 bomber, just then being introduced, comparing it in size with the old standby B-17 Flying Fortress. Boyce House tells of the visitor who asked the Texan if Texas folks don't look down on some people. The Texan replied, "Not that I know of, but we sure as h— don't look up to anybody!" Mrs. Dorothy Watson, of Seguin, and Miss Juanell Hull, of Copperas Cove, are visiting their mother and grandmother, Mrs. A. T. Hull.

A notice warns advertisers to send in the copy for their ads in the rodeo issue due out in a couple of weeks. According to the paper for August 4, 1939, the stretch of highway between Santa Anna and Coleman is the fifth busiest piece of highway in the state in vehicle traffic. Miss Aline Harper went to Canyon Friday, where she has enrolled in a three-week course at West Texas Teachers College.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

An unusual advertising proposition was put forward by The News for August 3, 1934. During a very dry year, The News made the following proposition. It would run advertising for any Santa Anna firm under a "Special Rain Ad" contract. All advertisers participating would get their advertising in the paper free during the month of August unless it rained two inches or more in Santa Anna during the month. If it rained, advertisers were billed at the regular rate. Maybe that would be a good thing to try now.

Steak was 12 cents per pound this week, with roast selling for a dime a pound.

The AMERICAN WAY

To most people American free enterprise is a nebulous thing because so few know what it is, how it operates or the vast contributions it makes to their own small world of luxury living.

During the next two years some 70 to 80 million people will learn for the first time how our profit-and-loss business system really works and why it is responsible for advancing the United States to the greatest nation on earth, with the highest standard of living known to man.

The opportunity to understand why Americans have more money in their jeans and enjoy more of the finer things of life is now afforded everyone at the greatest show ever — the New York World's Fair. On a staggering square mile of showmanship, private industry has outdone even its former self in bringing to the world the story of business' greatness, the fabulous contributions it has made to a better life and the many things it has in store for the future.

Unisphere Dominates Fair

Dominated by the 140-foot high Unisphere, donated by United States Steel Corporation as the Fair's symbol, are 175 separate pavilions, structures, towers, domes, pylons and other startling fantasies of architectural boldness. Many, housing exhibits of American enterprise, not only express the nation's industrial foresight on the outside, but on the inside tell in sound, visuals, color and design the story of its progress such as never before.

There's the dramatic Electric Light and Power exhibit, with its staggered prisms and 120-foot towers; the rounded dome Eastman Kodak pavilion, the International Business Machine's "egg."

General Motors, which literally stole the 1939-40 World's Fair, is back again with another Futurama, the largest and most elaborate exhibit ever constructed by one company or nation, which again promises to be a "show stopper."

Story of Free Enterprise

Then there are the Ford Motor Company pavilion, with its 64 towering pylons and great glass rotunda; the familiar red umbrella of Travelers Insurance Company, which appears to float on a fountain of water; the split-level Bell Telephone Company solid base pavilion, with a Fiberglass wing that seems to rest on air; the Festival of Gas pavilion, its roof hovering high above glass walls; General Electric's 200-foot wide dome crowned with 1,000 lights that make it appear to spin in space, and many, many others.

If the visitor's eyes become exhausted from looking, his hearing dulled by listening, or if his feet just plain give out, there is the Hall of Free Enterprise. Its sponsors, the American Economic Foundation and others, say "it is designed to give a clearer, better coordinated 'total' conception of economic life under the free enterprise system than is gained from a four-year college course."

More than $1 billion have been poured into the Fair to create a true-to-life picture of the past, present and future. Here on a 646-acre tract in Flushing Meadow, every American can learn what free enterprise means to him and his country.

Tour the Governor's Mansion

Near the entrance to the capitol grounds in Austin, you can see the white brick Governor's mansion standing just one block to the southwest.

As you approach the distinguished abode, with its well-kept lawn covering an entire block, you observe six huge Ionic columns prominently standing in front. These columns are made of cedar logs hauled from Bastrop, Texas, in 1856, when the mansion was built.

Upon entering the mansion, you see a spiral staircase rising at the back of the hall. Mounting the stairs you enter the mansion's most famous room — the Sam Houston Room.

Here you see the bed used by Sam Houston, the man who served Texas both as its President and as its Governor. In the same room you also will see the mahogany desk of Stephen F. Austin.

Of all the features of this great mansion, the Sam Houston Room is best remembered by its visitors.

Few things are more dangerous than a train of thought that carries no freight.

State Capital NEWS

The Texas Safety Association today warned homeowners of the misuse of pesticides and reported that about 75 percent of pesticide accidents occur to children under age 10.

"Householders, apartment dwellers, home gardeners and farmers are using more pesticide chemicals each year, and when used according to instructions these pesticides have achieved striking success," J. O. Musick, TSA General Manager said.

"However, pesticides must be handled with care and directions must be followed meticulously for safety as well as for best results."

There are about 50,000 trade-named pesticide products. These are made up from about 200 basic chemicals. These materials help keep homes free of ants, roaches, silverfish and other fish. They also protect flowers, trees from damage by insects and plant disease, and they keep out destructive rodents and clear lawns of unwanted weeds.

Pesticides which are highly toxic are required to be labeled with a skull and crossbones, the word poison printed in red, and the proper antidote.

Musick advised reading the label on each container before each use as pesticide spray in one container may be quite different from the spray in another.

He reported that about 75 percent of the accidents from misuse of pesticides occur to children under age 10, and about 90 percent of these occur among children under age five.

"Most of these accidents could be prevented if adults would follow the general safety rules for use and storage of pesticides," he emphasized.

The safety director suggests the following safety precautions:

1) Read the label. Follow instructions for application and heed all directions and warnings.

2) Store pesticides in locked cupboards or rooms where children, pets or irresponsible persons cannot reach them. Do not store near foods of any kind.

3) Keep pesticides in their original containers only. Always keep containers tightly closed. Never put pesticides in unlabelled gallon jugs, pop bottles, buckets, cups, paper bags or other common food containers.

4) Use only the amount of pesticides called for on the label.

5) Do not smoke while using pesticides, and avoid breathing spray mists or dusts. Be sure to wear a suitable mask or respirator if the label recommends it. Keep sleeves rolled down and collar buttoned.

6) Always wash hands and face after using pesticides. If exposed to dust or spray mist, change clothing. If pesticide is spilled on clothing, remove clothes immediately and wash yourself with soap and water.

7) When using insecticides or other pesticides sprays or dust in the house, remove or cover food and water containers. Do not leave aquariums or fish bowls exposed. Be sure to keep pets out of the treated area until the spray mist has settled completely. This is particularly important if you use one of the currently popular insecticide fumigating devices.

8) Don't leave empty pesticide containers where they will be a hazard to humans, especially children, or to animals. Burn paper bags and cardboard boxes, being sure to stay out of the smoke. Never re-use cans and bottles that have contained pesticides.

In closing Musick said if you should suddenly feel sick while using a pesticide, or shortly thereafter, call a doctor immediately.

"Doctors and hospitals have available information to treat you effectively if they are called promptly," he explained. "In an emergency, be sure to take the pesticide container and label with you when you go to the doctor's office or hospital."

Read Psalm 42.

My soul thirsts for God, for the living God. When shall I come and behold the face of God? (Psalm 42:2, RSV)

My Argentine physician friend was thirsty for God. He sought Him everywhere. He forsook civil life and went to a monastery. Later he left it, thinking he would never find God. For twenty years he gave up the search.

One evening as he passed in front of a church, the singing of a hymn caught his attention. Unwillingly, he entered the sanctuary and sat down. "If you want to find God, you must follow Christ," he heard the preacher say in the midst of his sermon. He found God and came rejoicing to tell me.

Then came the supreme surrender. To be just a member of the church was not enough for him! He dedicated his life to Christ's kingdom. Several months later he was in Bolivia working with the Indians of the High Plains. Now he is in the jungles carrying on under untold handicaps. God's love sings in his fingers and lips while he brings alive in his ministry of teaching and preaching the real meaning of the gospel of Christ.

PRAYER:

Give us, O God eternal, the blessing of finding Thee in lowly paths of service; for religion is not just a contemplation of Thy face, but the carrying on of Thy passion of love in a ministry of service. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Surrender to Christ and loving service in His name satisfy our hunger for God.

Your newspaper and 45 other papers in Texas cooperated in the finest tradition of the fourth estate by helping us out.

Your newspaper has been placed in a place of honor with the folks in the Information Section and the 36th Division. We've had wonderful comments from the many visitors who have seen our display of newspapers and clippings.

Again, on behalf of Capt. Larry Lawrence, Sgt. Richard Grimmitt, Specialist Fifth Class Bob Jackson, Specialist Fourth Class Gregory Olds and Private First Class Mike Corley, we want to say 'thanks' for your help and assistance during the past two weeks.

Kindest regards,
Jim Barnhill

Coffee Mill Church

Texas is well known for its German settlements. Of all the German settlements, the town of Fredericksburg in Central Texas perhaps has been the most frequented by tourists.

If you stumbled into Fredericksburg by accident it wouldn't take long for you to learn that you were in a German-styled, German populated town-ship.

Sights along its long, wide main street are varied and many. Perhaps best known is the Vereins Kirche.

It is called the "Coffee Mill Church" because of its octagonal shape.

A trip to Fredericksburg often is referred to as "the poor man's answer to a trip abroad."

Baptists Start Own Peace Corps

The Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board expects to have 50 single college graduates in strategic missionary tasks overseas by September 1, 1965, according to Rev. Louis R. Cobbs, director of its new short-term program.

Named the Missionary Journeyman Program, the project is part of the Board's plans for expansion calling for 5,000 missionaries. It is designed for college graduates who do not feel called to a missionary career but who have dedicated talents and vocations to Christ and are willing to serve overseas for two years.

Rev. Cobbs, an associate secretary in the personnel department of the Foreign Mission Board, says: "These trained young people will work in many of the 56 countries where Southern Baptist missionaries are now serving. There, under the direction and supervision of career missionaries, they will share their Christian faith and perform tasks to meet critical needs."

Single college graduates under age 27 who are active workers in Southern Baptist churches are eligible for consideration as missionary journeyman. Those selected will serve a two-year, nonrepeatable term after 10 weeks of intensive training. They will receive travel expenses, housing and meals, and small salary.

They will be sent to do specific jobs as requested by the Missions (organizations of missionaries). Early requests are for youth workers, a laboratory technician, an office secretary, a draftsman, a college teacher, a pharmacist, a youth and music worker, and a librarian.

Many young people have already requested application forms. These will be mailed October 15. Deadline for applications to be in is December 31. For additional information write: Volunteer Division, Foreign Mission Board, Richmond, Virginia.

Not Enough Use Limits Pond Fish

Although your farm pond is well-managed, properly stocked and fertilized, you may still be catching only a few fish — small ones at that. If so, you're probably not fishing your pond heavily enough, says Wallace C. Klussmann, wildlife conservation specialist, Texas A&M University.

If a pond is not fished heavily, the fish population will rapidly deplete the food supply, resulting in stunted fish. Research has shown that a surface acre of pond water that is well-managed needs from 300 to 500 man hours of fishing each year to keep fish production at a maximum, Klussmann points out.

Fertilized water is like fertilized soil, says the specialist. Fertile water will produce a larger crop of fish just as fertile land will produce more cotton or corn. Therefore, the harvest of fish from fertile water can and should be greater than from non-fertile water.

Fishing should begin about a year after a pond has been stocked. This will allow each species to reach sexual maturity and spawn. Klussmann says it is advisable to fish the pond heavily after this.

Sunfish have a tendency to overpopulate farm ponds so as many as possible should be caught. For every bass or catfish removed, at least 10 to 12 sunfish should be taken out. Small sunfish that are caught should not be returned to the water, adds the specialist.

Alternating periods of good and poor fishing are to be expected and even the best fishermen will not always catch fish. Water temperature, availability of natural food, and seasonal activities of fish will influence fishing success. Fishing conditions will usually improve if your pond is fished heavily enough. If your family cannot fish the pond as heavily as it should be, invite your friends to fish, suggests the specialist. They will enjoy the occasion and later benefits should result.

Even in light of the history of innumerable broken treaties between the Indians and the White settlers, the treaty of peace between twenty Comanche Chiefs and Meusebach, representing the German Colonists, was never breached.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY.

Hatfields vs McCoys — Texas Style

'Tis not only the mountain boys who have their feuds. Texans have had their share too.

Between 1841 and 1844 there was great loss of both life and property of warring factions around the town of Shelbyville, in Central East Texas near the Louisiana border.

End of this long and destructive, unorganized feud, known as the Regulator-Moderator War, came when the President of the Republic of Texas, Sam Houston, sent Texas forces under the command of General James Smith to restore order.
