SANTA ANNA, COLEMAN COUNTY, TEXAS, JANUARY 6, 1966

The new year is a time for hangover remedies and resolutions. The hangover remedies are to make you feel better for what you have already done, and the resolutions are to make you feel better about what you plan to do in the future. We imagine the most widespread resolution on New Years Day is a vow not to have a hangover next new year.

Actually, there are three different kinds of resolutions. The first type of resolution is the type that you know darn well you are not going to keep. These are the kind that you make to prove to yourself how much willpower you have, or to save your conscience a little for the wild and debauched life you have been living (and we would appreciate anyone who has been living a wild and debauched life in Santa Anna to drop by and tell us about it—we would like to get in on it).

The second type of resolution is the type you honestly intend to keep, but—well, the spirit is willing but the flesh is weak. Or since this is a dry county, perhaps that should read that the flesh is willing but the spirits are weak. Anyway, this type lasts a little longer than type one. A very little.

Type three are those resolutions that you are certain to keep, like vowing not to make any Gemini flights during 1966, or not to run against John Connally for governor (the cattle business is a little slow right now so he needs the job).

Making new year resolutions is particularly difficult for those of us who are so nearly perfect, but we will make a few, just to get into the mood of the season. We will make some resolutions in each of the three categories we mentioned above.

For instance, in category number one, we resolve not to write anything in this paper that we think will upset anyone and cause pressure to be put on us, even though we felt it is our duty to print it (and if you think we will keep that one, or if you hope we are, we are afraid you are in for a disappointment). We also vow not to get mad and kick the Lino-type machine any more—we have finally decided it is tougher than we are—and it only took three broken toes and a sprained ankle to convince us. We also resolve not to make new year resolutions next year.

In the second category—those that we plan to keep but probably won't—we affirm that the paper will be out early every week (stop snickering, we might do it. Russia also might elect Barry Goldwater as its next premier). We also resolve to tell only the truth about Pierre Rowe in this column (of course, if we do, we will probably get sued for libel or corrupting the morals of minors or something). We also vow to print all the news submitted by our hard-working correspondents (our life insurance agent told us we are not covered if we are brained by an irate correspondent—something about justifiable homicide or something like that).

Where we really shine is in category three—those resolutions that we know we will keep. With a firm eye and a clear hand, we peer forward into the new year and solemnly vow not to make a habit of smoking $1.50 cigars (unless, of course, a lot of millionaires in Santa Anna have babies). We also solemnly swear not to get into the 90 percent income tax bracket (it will be hard to keep this one, but we will call on all of our willpower). Nor will we waste money by hiring John Steinbeck to write articles for the paper. Nor will we swap beagles with Lyndon, no matter how much he begs. Nor will we—and this one will take some doing—drink more than 16 cups of coffee in a day (which will probably put Phillips Drug Store out of business).

One last comment on the subject of new year resolutions: Anyone who saves this column and comes around next year to see how well we did about keeping them, is a fink!

We heard a story about Pierre Rowe this week—whoops! we can't tell it. Can't break our resolution so soon. It was a good story too.

Did you know that you could eat in a different restaurant in New York City every day for 40 years, and never have to eat in the same place twice? Didn't think you did.

Only in the newspaper do you get useful information like this.

MISTER 1966 IN COLEMAN COUNTY is Randall Scott Beard, first baby born in Coleman County in the new year. Also shown is his mother, Mrs. Randy Beard, who was also present when he was born.

Santa Anna Hospital Scores Again With First Baby In County For 1966

For the fourth consecutive year, Santa Anna Hospital has welcomed the first baby born in Coleman County in the new year. This year's initial arrival is Randall Scott Beard, the eight pound four ounce son of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Beard.

Young Randall Scott arrived at 7:06 p.m., Saturday, January 1, 1966.

Proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Tom White, of Santa Anna; Mrs. James Avants, of Santa Anna; and Harold Beard, formerly of Coleman. Great grandparents include Mrs. Dora White, of Santa Anna; Mrs. Sudie Wilkins, of Coleman; and Mrs. Georgia Beard, of Coleman. Mrs. M. L. England, of Coleman, is the great great grandmother.

The Santa Anna Chamber of Commerce sponsored the program under which a group of gifts donated by local business firms were given to the first baby to be born in the area. Those contributing to the collection of gifts received by Randall Scott Beard include the Ladies' Shop (pair of baby shoes), Moore Mercantile (gift for the mother), Western Auto Associate Store (baby car seat), Williams Fruit Stand (nursing unit), White Variety Store (pair of baby shoes), Phillips Drug Store (nightlight), G&E Hardware (brush and comb set), Harvey Grocery (dozen cans of baby food), Hoshch Grocery (dozen cans of baby food), Piggly Wiggly (gift for the parents), and The Santa Anna News (one year subscription for the parents).

The month of January is the time established by law in the state of Texas for the purpose of establishing a school census in each school district in the state.

Cooperative Sets Talk Contest Here

One Coleman County boy and one girl will receive an all expense paid, 12 day, trip to Washington, DC under sponsorship of the Coleman County Electric Cooperative. It was announced this week. The trip will be awarded to the two top winners in the public speaking competition sponsored by the Cooperative, the second annual event of this type.

The contest is open to any boy or girl, at least 16 years of age, but not 18 years of age prior to September 1, 1966. Winners will join winners of similar contests across the state for the tour of the nation's Capitol.

The trip to Washington will begin on June 2, 1966. All expenses will be paid by the Coleman County Electric Cooperative.

In the competition, each entrant will be required to give a five to eight minute talk on the subject, "Rural Electric Cooperatives—Good For All Americans." Contestants must also answer one or more questions from the judges.

Judging will be on the basis of 40 percent for knowledge of subject, 30 percent for speaking ability, 10 percent for poise, 10 percent for personality, and 10 percent for appearance.

Entry forms may be obtained through the schools, or at the office of the Coleman County Electric Cooperative. Deadline for entries is Monday, January 24. All entrants will receive a list of the questions to be asked by the judges, and a packet of reference materials for use in preparing the talk.

Among stops on the tour will be Mount Vernon, home of George Washington; Arlington National Cemetery; the United States House of Representatives and Senate; the United States Department of Agriculture; and the Smithsonian Institute.

The Santa Anna show will have Harold Pittard, Novice vocational agriculture teacher, as judge. The judging of the 125 lambs, 20 sheep, five calves, and 40 hogs entered will get underway about 10:00 a.m.

The Santa FFA chapter will operate a concession stand during the show, which will take place in the vocational agriculture barn on the campus of Santa Anna High School.

The Coleman County show will have the screening of entries on Sunday, followed by judging on Monday and Tuesday. Judges will include Herman Carter, of Southwest Feed Yards, San Angelo; Dale Hering, of Talpa; Dewey Menzies, Concho County Agent; Bill Scott, Abilene vocational agriculture teacher; and Joe Tatum, vocational agriculture teacher from Fredericksburg.

The annual auction sale will be held on Tuesday.

Schedule for the judging will find the lambs being judged at 8:00 a.m. Monday; the capons at 1:00 p.m.; the hogs at 2:30 p.m. The Tuesday schedule will see the steers being judged at 8:30 a.m., followed by the breeding sheep at 9:30 a.m. The auction sale will get underway at 1:30 p.m.

Tom Kingsbery, of Santa Anna, is chairman of the show.

Brad Cosson, a university student in Austin, spent several days last week with his mother, Mrs. Lonnie Bledsoe.

Local Paper Marks 80th Anniversary

This issue of The Santa Anna News marks the weekly newspaper's 80th year of operation. The Santa Anna newspaper was founded in 1886, on Jaanuary 1 of that year, by Con Rowland, who had come to Santa Anna in an effort to recover from a lung ailment.

Later in the spring, The News will publish a special anniversary edition, which will include historical data on the development of Santa Anna as reflected in its newspaper for eight decades.

Water District Election Monday

The first ballot activity of 1966 will take place Monday, January 10, when voters of the Coleman County Water Control and Improvement District number 1 go to the polls to elect two directors for the District.

Balloting will take place at the Community Center, in Trickham. The polls will open at 8:00 a.m. and close at 7:00 p.m. Bond Featherston will be election judge.

Only announced candidates are incumbent directors E. R. Cupps and W. L. (Bill) Vaughn.

Mr. and Mrs. John Haynes and children, Mark and Allen, of Midland, spent several days last week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Bledsoe.

Typesetter paper at the Santa Anna News.

The first stirrings of what should be an active year, politically, are taking place in Coleman County. Several candidates have announced for county offices, mostly incumbents, one present officeholder has stated that he will not be a candidate for reelection, and the first contested race has developed. All this, of course, in the Democratic Party primary.

Several county offices will be up for grabs in the 1966 elections, including those of county judge, county clerk, county treasurer, county school superintendent, district clerk, county commissioners of precincts number 2 and 4, and the justice of the peace positions.

County Judge Frank Lewis has announced for reelection, as have County Clerk Lee Craig, County Treasurer Monte Gideon, District Clerk Tooe Hensley, and County Commissioners Thomas Wristen, Jr. (precinct number 2), and Ralph Brown (precinct number 4). County School Superintendent D. E. Loveless has stated that he will not be a candidate for reelection. Loveless is considered to be a top prospect for the position of superintendent of schools in the Coleman Independent School District, a position left vacant by the recent resignation of Terrell Graves to accept the job of acting postmaster of the Coleman Post Office.

Precinct number 2 Justice of the Peace Earl Irick, Sr. has not yet decided whether to be a candidate for reelection. In Coleman, former Santa Anna resident Walter Holt, who was recently appointed to serve out the unexpired term of Justice of the Peace Gus Winstead, following the latter's death, has announced that he will be a candidate for the office in the Democratic primary.

The only county race to be a race at the present time involves incumbent County Clerk Lee Craig, a 14 year veteran in the office, who is being challenged for the Democratic Nomination by Barney Ransberger, a Coleman service station operator.

Monday, February 7 is the deadline for filing for spots on the primary election ballot.

Coleman County Has New WUC

Robert F. Pearson, Jr. has been named to fill the position of Work Unit Conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service, in Coleman, assisting the Middle Colorado Soil Conservation District.

Pearson, a graduate of Texas A&M University in 1950, will replace Thomas G. Rockenbaugh, who has been promoted to the position of Area Conservationist, with headquarters at Pecos.

Pearson assumed his new position on January 3.

The new Coleman County Work Unit Conservationist has served with the Soil Conservation Service as a Range Conservationist at Balmorhea, Alpine, Johnson City, and New Braunfels. He served as Work Unit Conservationist at Benavides prior to coming to Coleman.

The Work Unit Conservationist is a government employee, an expert in practical conservation practices, who works with the local Soil Conservation District and with the District's cooperators, in the role of technical advisor.

The Pearsons have two children, David, age 15, and Debra, age 13.

Second Sunday Singing Scheduled

The regular Second Sunday Singing will be held at the Santa Anna Assembly of God Church, on Sunday, January 9, beginning at 2:00 p.m. and lasting until 4:00 p.m. As usual, an invitation has been extended to anyone wishing to attend.

Some Coleman County National Guard Members Are Part Of Special Force

By Staff Sergeant Bob Turner

A portion of the Coleman County National Guard unit has been designated as an SRF—Selected Reserve Forces—unit. This results from action taken by the Department of Defense several months ago to form a special reserve force of three infantry divisions, six brigades, and a number of smaller support units, into a super-ready reserve force. This special reserve force was to come mainly from the National Guard, with some Army Reserve units.

One of the brigades was to be formed from units of Texas' 36th Infantry Division. The new special units were to be maintained at 100 percent of their authorized manpower strength, and 100 percent of their authorized equipment. At that time, the 36th Division was manned at 65 percent, with many of the units in the Division not even up to this strength. For instance, the Coleman unit would have had to had 93 members to reach the 65 percent mark, and it has never had more than 83.

Since the deadline for forming the new brigade was November 1, 1965, it was necessary to transfer units in National Guard battalions into the new force that were actually not to be assigned to the special SRF forces, in order to obtain the required manning level. So while the Coleman unit was not one of those designated for the special force, a portion of the local unit has been attached to the San Antonio unit that is a part of the SRF concept, to give that unit the necessary manpower.

The Coleman County component of the SRF group consists of one complete rifle platoon comprising 43 enlisted men and one commissioned officer, and one 81mm mortar squad comprising five enlisted men. According to the plan, when the SRF units to which the local Guardsmen are now attached reach the required strength, the Coleman County members will be reassigned to the local unit.

The local SRF citizen soldiers continue to drill in Coleman, but they must make six or seven drills per month, instead of the former three to five monthly drills.

Purpose of the SRF concept is to provide a strong force in reserve, to avoid the necessity of calling up Guardsmen for 12 months of active duty training, such as occurred during the Berlin crisis in 1962.

Future Homemakers Hold Monday Meeting

By Sherry Thompson

The Santa Anna chapter of the Future Homemakers of America met in the Santa Anna High School auditorium, Monday, January 3, at 7:00 p.m.

Norma Jo Eubank, first vice president, conducted the meeting in the absence of the president, Anita Ellis.

During the business meeting, the members were urged to help with the chapter's January project—collecting magazines for rest care patients. Norma Jo Eubank was selected to help with registration at the Area IV meeting, to be held in Stephenville, March 4-5.

Following the business meeting, a program was presented with the theme of "Careers in Home Economics."

Refreshments were served to approximately 20 members and parents. The hostess committee was composed of Neta McClure, chairman; Janice Langford, co-chairman; Marguerite Horn-er and Judy McIntire.

Growing GRACEFULLY

It isn't automatic — this growing old gracefully. Worries seem to accumulate with the years. And there is often the gnawing sense that opportunities once brimming with promise lie empty where we tossed them . . . along a road without return.

But these later years are not meant to be a burden. There is much to suggest that God intended them to bring reward.

He gave us the blessing of memories, so precious moments of joy may be lived again and again.

He gave us the gift of love, so we can experience anew the adventures of youth, the achievements of maturity, in the lives of our children and grandchildren.

And He gave us a Way of Life, revealed in the teachings of Christ. So that every today . . . when it has become yesterday . . . will be another graceful stone in the arch of Tomorrow.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Don't Forget The Poll Tax

The last day of this month of January is the deadline for obtaining valid poll tax receipts or certification of exemption if such is required.

This year of 1966 will be an important one, politically. Those who fail to see to it that they are eligible to vote will not be able to cast their ballots in the local, county, state, and national elections scheduled for this year.

Among the races on which local voters will be deciding will be the election of three members of the Santa Anna City Council, a number of county offices (see story on page 1 of this issue of The News for a list of these offices), state offices including state representative and judicial and commission memberships, and Federal offices such as United States Representative and United States Senator.

Although a suit challenging the Texas poll tax as being discriminatory, and therefore illegal under Federal law, is being decided by a special three judge Federal court, the judges, at the time of the hearing, emphasized the fact that no ruling on the case would be made in time to effect the 1966 elections in Texas, and that to be eligible to vote, in elections this year, Texans would have to conform to existing state requirements. Of course, under Federal law, no poll tax may be charged to vote in national races, but this does not effect state contests, and those wishing to so vote must register.

The Texas poll tax originated as just that, a poll—tax on all citizens. When passed, however, the state legislature forgot to add any means of enforcement, in effect saying that people were supposed to pay the tax, but nothing could be done to them if they didn't. As could be expected, collections of this tax were rather small, and a later legislature, to gain the needed revenue, added the provision that unless a citizen paid the tax he would be ineligible to vote.

The poll tax must be paid by all eligible voters, with a few exceptions. Persons who have become 21 since the previous election—who will be voting for the first time, are not required to pay the tax, but they must register. Persons over age 60 are also exempted from payment of the tax as a prerequisite to voting. If these persons live in cities of 10,000 population or more, they must register. Otherwise they need only sign an affidavit at the time they vote affirming that they are over the age limit. Blind or disabled persons must pay only $1.00 for their poll tax receipt, instead of the regular $1.75 fee. Members of the National Guard pay only $1.00, also. Of the $1.75 poll tax assessment, $1.50 goes to the state, and 25 cents to the county.

The right to vote, to have a voice in your own government, is a privilege of great price, purchased with the blood of American fighting men on many battlefields. Be sure to pay your poll tax before January 31 so that you can take advantage of that privilege.

The Time To Be Twofaced

The month of January is named for the Roman God Janus. This Janus was the kind of character you would tend to notice if you happened to meet him on the street, since he had two faces (don't we all know a few people like that?). One of Janus' faces was located in the normal position, but the other was stuck on the back of his head, which provided quite a conversation piece, and also allowed him to watch where he had been as well as where he was going which is handy for avoiding bill collectors and hit and run drivers. The reason the month was named for this character was that he symbolized the new year—looking forward at what was to come, and backward at what had occurred in the previous year. (Some of the months were named for Roman emperors, such as July, August and October. Apparently no emperor wanted to give his name to the first month of the year, with the inference that he was twofaced. Of course, the Romans named November, the eleventh month, for the Latin word meaning "ninth," and December, the twelfth month, for the word meaning "tenth," which would indicate that the Romans were a little confused. But then if you had to do all of your figuring with Roman numerals, you might be confused too.)

Anyway, the Romans had a good idea about looking both forward and backward at the beginning of a new year. We hope all of us in Santa Anna can look back and profit from the mistakes of 1965, and forward to the opportunities and prospects of the new year of 1966.

DEAD LETTER LAWS

Over a period of 42 years, the crime committed most often in Washington, DC, was selling ice cream cones.

It seems that in 1921, as a health measure, the sale of ice cream in containers of less than one pint capacity was forbidden. Yet, through the years, millions of less-than-pint-size cones were sold in brazen defiance of the law. They were licked in plain sight by residents, tourists, Congressmen, perhaps even Supreme Court Justices. Not until 1963 did Congress finally end the scandal by repealing this obsolete law.

In Elko, Nevada, crime ran even more rampant. A 1918 ordinance, passed during the great flu epidemic, required everybody to wear a flu mask in public places. Not until 1964 did the city council let people breathe easier by revoking the ordinance.

Hundreds of such laws still remain on the books in various communities around the country. How does this happen?

The reason is simple: There is far more incentive to put a law on the books than to take it off. As the original stimulus for a law fades away, people gradually lose interest in it. No one obeys, no one complains, no one prosecutes.

Yet, these dead letter laws may do real harm. For one thing, they may breed disrespect for the law itself.

For another thing, they may give law enforcement officers too much leeway. If not probable, it is at least possible that a person might suddenly be prosecuted for doing something which he has been doing, in all innocence, for years.

Accordingly, as part of a broad drive to modernize criminal law, bar associations and other attorney organizations are trying to clean out these legal anachronisms.

It is not an easy job. Some laws are plainly useless. But others, while rarely invoked, may still have a useful deterrent effect. Still others might represent a kind of gentleman's agreement whereby the community salutes a moral standard principle while ignoring it in practice.

But it is a job well worth doing. No law should remain on the books for no better reason than that it has been forgotten.

Cotton Report

Cotton classing at the Consumer and Marketing Service office, in Abilene, continued its steady pace last week. About 31,500 samples were processed by 11 classers, which brought the season total to 337,800 bales classed.

Light amounts of precipitation and high humidity slowed harvesting for the past two weeks, which enabled classing to stay about current with sample receipts. B. B. Manly, Jr., of the United States Department of Agriculture agency office said he expects another three to four weeks of classing at the present pace, which will put the season classing total near the expected 450,000 bales.

Strict Low Middling Light Spotted cotton increased by 13 percent. This was probably due to less than ideal harvesting conditions and the harvesting of more rank cotton, says Manly. The percent of samples in each category was about the same, with 12 percent White, 83 percent Light Spotted, and five percent Spotted. Barky cotton increases from three to four percent. Predominant grades were: Strict Low Middling White, eight percent; Middling Light Spotted, 35 percent; and Strict Low Middling Light Spotted, 45 percent.

Staple lengths increased, with 69 percent measuring 15/16 of an inch, and only 22 percent measuring 29/32 of an inch.

Micronaire readings lowered slightly, but remained good, with 83 percent of the samples in the 3.6 through 4.8 range; 11 percent in the 3.3 through 3.5 range; five percent in the 3.0 percent in the 2.7 through 2.9 through 3.2 range; and one range.

The market became more sluggish. Most buyers offered less than the CCC loan rates for Middling Light Spotted cotton, and sales of that quality were light. About all white cotton was held or went into the CCC loan. Strict Low Middling Light Spotted and other lower colored qualities continued to sell, but at lower prices. Farmers received gross prices of $2.25 to $3.75 per bale above loan rates for these qualities. All offered prices were discounted 25 to 35 points on 3.3 and 3.4 mikes, 60 points on 3.0 through 3.2, and 165 points on cotton miking 2.7 to 2.9.

State Capital

NEWS

One of the big sleeper battles on the Texas political scene during 1966 will be for control of the state Democratic Party machinery.

Some observers think this brewing struggle is behind the fus between United States Senator Ralph Yarborough and Governor John Connally. Few think Yarborough has any intention of running against Connally for governor, as some have suggested.

But there is every reason to believe that Yarborough will be the key figure in any all-out Liberal effort to wrest control of the state party committee from hands of the Governor's friends.

Shifting population patterns and legislative redistricting tend to shorten the long odds against a Liberal victory in this year's convention. Half of the 6,000-plus delegates to the September state Democratic convention will come from 12 major counties where Liberals are gathering strength.

Furthermore, the big counties will have more members on state party committees. This is because of the Senate redistricting act, which adds senatorial representation in Bexar, Dallas, and Harris Counties.

A personality clash at the top leadership level is necessary to whip up enthusiasm for convention warfare. The feud between Connally and Yarborough most likely will provide the spark that sets off the 1966 version of the familiar state Democratic fight.

Stakes are high, for not only is the party committee an effective power base, but also a powerful instrument in the process by which delegates are selected to the future (1968) Presidential nominating convention.

Not since the administration of Coke Stevenson has a Texas governor lost control of the state Democratic Party machinery.

FEDERAL ROLE INCREASES

Federal government has been a virtual dictator over management of the Texas Employment Commission's operation of unemployment compensation and job placement programs, a new Texas Research League study maintains.

The Bureau of Employment Security of the United States Department of Labor has tightened controls over expenditures, administration, and program leadership, the study reports.

"The Federal-state partnership which Congress intended to prevail...has deteriorated to the point where the Federal agency tends to dictate the details of day to day management," says the League.

A real Federal-state partnership concept can be restored, the study observes, only if Congress: (1) Restores to states responsibility for allocating earmarked administrative funds on a workable formula; and (2) Provides for judicial review of issues between a state and Federal agency.

BUILDING GAINS

November building throughout Texas increased seven percent, despite a traditional decline during the eleventh month.

A report from the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research also shows total construction or the month came to $133,631,000, a figure exceeded only during August and in November of 1964. Texas building November did not set a record for the month, however. That honor belongs to 1964.

The United States Department of Commerce sees a nationwide increase of 11 percent in non-but only a "small advance" in private housing construction.

COUNTIES ATTACK PROBLEMS

Texas counties now may get busy planning to solve their complex problems on a regional scale with state and Federal aid.

State Attorney General Waggoner Carr paved the way with an opinion saying that the State Health Department is authorized by a 1961 act to "arrange planning assistance" when counties request it.

Cities and counties may pool problems and resources in a broad planning program under an act passed last spring.

The State Health Department has served as the administering agency for small cities in the past, and will continue in this function. Federal funds are available for part of the cost—normal two thirds for cities, and up to three fourths for cities in depressed areas.

Although no Texas county has a master plan in effect, some have been awaiting the green light from the Attorney General so the Federal agencies could provide the needed money.

Bexar, El Paso, Ector, Grayson, Jefferson, Nueces, Harris, Tom Green, Orange, Tarrant, Dallas, Denton, and several other counties with rapidly areas are expected to join the program. Applications are made to the State Health Department.

BOAT REGISTRATIONS DUE SOON

More than 200,000 motorboats in Texas are subject to registration by April 1, 1966, under Texas' new Water Safety Act, so warns the State Highway Engineer, D. C. Greer.

Present certificates expire on March 31, 1966.

The new law authorizes the motor vehicle division of the Texas Highway Department to issue certificates for boats operating in state waters. The same agency now handles license and title procedures for automobiles.

Renewal notices covering coats already are now being mailed out, along with a brochure outlining the Water Safety Act. Under the new provisions, state game wardens now have full authority, for the first time, to enforce water safety statutes.

New registrations will cover a two year period. Fees range from $3.00 for boats less than 16 feet long, to $12.00 for those 40 feet long and longer.

Safety equipment requirements include lighting, horns, bells fire extinguishers, and flame arresters. Also required are rearview mirrors on all boats towing water skiers.

SHORT SNORTS

Governor Connally's budget office has compiled an excellent summary of state services, spending, and trends.

The United States Department of Agriculture reports citrus movements from the Rio Grande Valley during the Christmas week were the heaviest of the season.

Read Acts 10:1-8.

Teach me thy way, O Lord, and lead me in a plain path. (Psalm 27:11)

Prior to studying for the ministry, I was employed by a Christian businessman. On one occasion, after I had discussed a certain business proposition with him, he said, "I shall take it up with my partner and seek his guidance." Being unaware that he had a business partner, I inquired of another member of the staff. He took me to a small room adjoining my employer's office. There we found him in prayer. He was discussing my proposition with God, his business partner.

The tenth chapter of the Book of Acts records how guidance through prayer brought together the apostle Peter and the Gentile centurion, Cornelius, thus changing the lives of both.

Many of us muddle through life in attempting to live on our own. We take chances even in matters of vital importance. But when we realize how helpless we are in directing our lives, we will seek the guidance of God through humility and sincere prayer.

PRAYER

Our Heavenly Father, we beseech You to guide us this day that at its close we shall find we have become more like Jesus in all our thoughts, words, and acts. Bless us with Your indwelling presence. Use us for Your divine purpose through Christ our Savior. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Santa Anna Girls In Finals Of DeLeon Tournament; Beat Novice Tuesday

The Santa Anna High School girls basketball team made it all the way to the finals, then lost to the Stephenville A team in a game that saw four Santa Anna girls foul out in the crucial moments of the contest, in the DeLeon tournament.

In the first game of the meet, the Santa Anna girls drew the DeLeon B team as their competition, and disposed of them by a 53-19 score. Lois Simmons led the scoring efforts of both teams with 18 points, followed by Beth Irick, of Santa Anna, and Charlotte Sadbery, of DeLeon, with 14 each. Helen Pinson scored 13 for Santa Anna, while Jean Robinett was adding five and Loretta Broadway was scoring two.

In the second game of the tournament, the local girls met the Stephenville B team, and walloped them by a mark of 55-21. Lois Simmons, with 21 points edged out Luttrell, of Stephenville, for scoring honors by one point. Beth Irick again scored 14, and Helen Pinson again scored 13. Loretta Broadway tallied four points, and Jean Robinett rounded out the scoring with three.

In the championship game, the Stephenville A team jumped off to a seven point lead at halftime, 30-23. In the first minute of the second half, however, the Santa Anna girls came storming back to a 31-30 mark. Three of the Santa Anna girls were eliminated from the game on fouls within the next minute, and the Stephenville squad went on to take a 61-35 win. In all, four Santa Anna players were ruled to have fouled out during the game, although records show one of the players with only three fouls. Needless to say, Santa Anna coach Rufus Cobern is not happy with the results of the game.

Lewallen, of Stephenville, led in the scoring column, with 29, followed by teammate Brown, with 22. Lois Simmons led the losers, with 14. Beth Irick got 10, Helen Pinson scored six, Loretta Broadway tallied three points, and Jean Robinett got two.

Tuesday, January 4, the local girls hosted the team from Novice, topping the visitors by 41-35 score. Novice led 13-8 at the end of the first quarter, and 21-14 at the half, but the Santa Anna girls roared back to take the lead in the third period, scoring 14 points during the quarter to go ahead, 28-25. Peggy Allen, of Novice, was the leading scorer, with 23. Beth Irick led the local contingent, with 17 points. Lois Simmons added 14, Helen Pinson scored eight, and Jean Robinett got two.
