Mountain Echoes

By Barbara Kingsbery

Local people watched with interest as a surveyor recently made notes on the lots where the new post office is to be built. Plans call for the new building to be on the Goodgion property at the corner of Avenue B and North Third Street. No dates have been set for the construction of the new facility.

Happy anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Baugh of Stanton. They will be celebrating their 62nd anniversary tomorrow, August 29. The couple was married between Trickham and Cleveland. The Baughs are new subscribers to the NEWS.

Names and addresses of the SAHS graduating class of 1959 are needed by the Ex-Student Association. If you have a family member from that class or know the address of one of the '59 grads, please call Lucille Wylie. A class reunion is being planned for the Homecoming.

The Santa Anna Cemetery is in fine shape under the supervision of J. B. Weathers, custodian. The Cemetery Association is fortunate to have such good help available, and local people should be proud of the well-kept cemetery. The association has an average monthly budget of about $500-$600 for maintenance alone, which includes minor repair of machinery, etc. The memorial donations to the association are used for the construction of the chain-link fence around the property.

Found: One partially smoked cigar on Billie Gregg's desk in the News office. The owner is urged to call for it as soon as possible.

The Sunday issue of the Hereford Brand had some funny stories related recently at the Hereford Lions Club by a highway patrolman.

Jim Freeman, a patrolman, told of the yam about the trucker, barreling along a Nebraska highway at 80 miles an hour, who, when finally stopped by the highway patrol, gave the following explanation:

"Well officer, you know I've got 83,000 lbs. in this truck, and I don't have any brakes. It's sure hard to stop this rig. Soon as I get home I'm going to have them fixed though. I live in Dallas."

The highway patrolman was almost speechless. Here this driver was heading down the road at 80 miles an hour with such a load on and no brakes. It was almost unbelievable.

"What would you have done," the officer asked, "if you had topped a hill and discovered a bad wreck up ahead?"

"Well sir," replied the driver, "I'd reached back and woke up Leroy. You see, Leroy ain't never seen no real bad wreck before."

Another story was about a fellow driving between Amarillo and Canyon, going about 90, when he realized he was about to pass a highway patrolman. Thinking fast, he started honking his horn and waving at the patrolman, then passed and slowed up, pulling off the side. Jumping out of his car and running back to meet the bewildered highway patrolman, he said: "Gosh you guys are hard to see ECHOS, Page 8"

Farmers Union To Organize In Coleman County

O. R. Lawlis of Coleman and Tom Kingsbery of Santa Anna, co-chairmen of the newly organized Coleman County Farmers Union, have announced that state Farmers Union president Jay Naman of Waco will address the charter meeting of Coleman County Farmers Union at the community room on the rodeo grounds in Coleman, Thursday, Sept. 4, 8:30 p. m.

Although this meeting is for the purpose of chartering the newly organized Farmers Union, the co-chairmen are urging all farmers, ranchers and all persons interested in area agriculture to attend the meeting.

The Texas Farmers Union president has recently returned from Washington, D. C. where he appeared with other state union presidents before the House Agriculture committee. Naman presented the National Farmers Union testimony on cotton.

The state farm leader's appearance in Coleman County is timely because of the growing controversy on future national policy regarding the major commodities produced in Coleman and adjoining counties. Farmers Union has expressed support for the extension of present commodity legislation with amendments to strengthen it.

The Farmers Union state president has indicated that he will also discuss tax legislation being considered in Austin and the Farmers Union's effort to pass legislative curbs on corporation farming in the regular session of the legislature. He is expected to touch on federal tax policy and the proposed legislation to give the farmers legal bargaining power.

Everyone is invited to attend the meeting Thursday night.

In Our Opinion

AS THIS IS BEING WRITTEN, the Texas Legislature has only 13 hours left to do something about a tax bill before the end of the special session.

Their big fight is whether to put beer and liquor under the sales tax along with groceries.

There didn't seem to be much dissention about putting groceries under the sales tax, but when it came to liquor, there came a big scream. It is amazing how much power the beer and liquor lobby has in Austin.

Let's get down to the facts. Children often pay more tax on a dollar's worth of soda pop than drinkers do on a dollar's worth of liquor. Yet the beer interests are yelling their heads off that they are over taxed. Why this preferential treatment of alcoholic beverages? This is a question the people of Texas ought to ask their representatives in Austin, and they should demand an answer.

They have an additional five cents on cigarettes in the bill and that is fine. Maybe some of us will get disgusted and quit smoking the things if we don't like the tax. We believe in taxing the non-essential items and cigarettes, beer and liquor fall in that category.

Instead, they can, with apparently clear conscience, put additional taxes on the very food we have to eat.

The more we learn about some of the goings on in Austin, the more we appreciate the fact that the voters turned down their pay raise bill. We don't believe that incompetence should be rewarded. If course we have some legislators who are trying to do the right thing. They have the state's best interests in mind in every vote they cast—but there are many about whom we wonder. They seem to be bought and paid for.

And the thought occurs to us—Is this their revenge for us turning down their pay raise?

THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN headed back to school this week, all full of nervous excitement—but with little though for safety. So we join law enforcement officials, automobile associations and others in urging extra care while driving.

Traffic accidents kill more children between one and 14 years of age than any other cause. Kindergarten and first grade children may be on their own in traffic for the first time. We urge motorists to be extra cautious, especially during the first weeks of school. Even though children should learn traffic rules, the major responsibility lies with the motorist.

So drive extra careful, particularly in areas where children might be playing.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT — Beer taxes have not been increased in 14 years. Liquor taxes have not been increased in ten years. The House wants to include food in the sales tax and to include other services, such as hair cuts. This tends to discourage haircuts and encourage drinking. Yet alcoholic beverages cause more crime, more welfare, more admissions to mental hospitals, more automobile accidents—more public tax burdens than any other single item.

Did you ever hear of a hair cut causing a rise in crime, or accident, or more welfare?

407 FISK BROWNWOOD, TEXAS

AUSTIN — Sharp division between the Texas Senate and House was responsible for the tough tax fight in the final days of the special session of the Legislature.

It was not possible to get a majority of the Senate to agree on a tax bill tilted toward salts tax, while House majority favored that route.

In past years, it has been the other way around, with the Senate sales - tax mined and the House reluctant.

This attitude goes back to the 1930's, when 59 members of the House blocked the "transactions tax" proposed as a constitutional amendment by Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, and approved by the Senate.

But the one - man, one - vote decision of the U. S. Supreme Court made the Senate more city - minded, and switched the role of the two houses.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, Speaker Gus Mutscher and Governor Preston Smith all were anxious to get the tax - and - spend issues settled by Tuesday's adjournment, because they had other engagements.

Barnes is president of the National Legislative Council, which opened its annual meeting in St. Louis, Mo., Wednesday.

Mutscher planned to head a delegation of House members to the same conference.

And Governor Smith was ready for the National Governors Conference in Colorado Springs, Colo., starting Sept. 1.

ANTI - CRIME PROJECTS FUNDED — Criminal Justice Council of the governor's office has recommended $252,499 in action grants for new local programs to fight crime.

Council voted funds from $1.1 million allocated Texas by the federal government under the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968. State and local matching funds also must be provided.

Largest of grants, $127,000, would go to Houston for an area - wide information and communication system to be tied into a computer and connected with a state and national system.

Fort Worth will receive $60,000 for a police - community relations program; Travis County $35,000 to expand its model adult probation project; North Central Texas Council of Governments $21,000 for a police training program;

San Antonio police department $19,680 for a police - community relations seminar program and $7,339 for a Bexar County juvenile delinquency prevention projects; Galveston $9,360 for a police department management survey; Houston $6,550 for a state school for prosecutors; and Alamo Area Council of Governments $1,500 for a four - week course offered 20 police officers in the region.

Council also accepted a study and report by System Science Corporation on a proposed statewide communications and information system to link the criminal justice system including police, courts, corrections and rehabilitation services.

OIL ALLOWABLE TRIMMED For third straight month, Railroad Commission cut statewide oil allowable, setting it at 52.1 per cent of potential.

September allowable maximum per day of 3,237,997 barrels. This compares with 3,284,263 barrels daily under August 53.1 per cent order.

Six of 14 major crude purchasers sought more oil next month than in August, three wanted less and five the same amount.

Allowable reached 21 - year peak in June when it rose to 63.5 per cent, but was cut to 54.7 per cent in July and 53.1 per cent for August. Railroad Commission Chairman Ben Ramsey said Texas crude oil stocks early this month totalled 104 million barrels, 200,000 more than a week ago.

TREASURE HUNT PROBE EXPANDED — Three member commission named by district court to inventory the treasure recovered from a Spanish galleon which sank off Padre Island 400 years ago heard testimony that:

- There probably is a lot more treasure beneath waters of the Texas coast.

- There is not much chance any two - man submarines carted off an appreciable amount of treasure as charged by Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler.

Diver Jeff Burke of Rio Hondo told the Commission several items not reported on the log of Platoro Inc., the exploration firm which brought up artifacts, were recovered. Burke predicted Platoro will win its lawsuit claiming title to the treasure and "open the door for every treasure hunter in the country."

Secretary of State Martin Dies said Platoro had no license for exploration from the state, and its find belongs to Texas.

Meanwhile, Rep. Frances Farenthold of Corpus Christi offered a House resolution proposing censure of Sadler for his handling of legislative committees and legislators seeking to probe the treasure case.

U. S. Bureau of Customs jumped into the controversy with a demand for an inventory of items salvaged, and

Medicaid Runs a Fever

The "something for nothing" get - rich - quick philosophy which helps explain the popularity of advertising contests, trading stamps and gas station games also extends to state and local governments, who should know better. Some are learning the hard way, that this is usually an illusion.

Some of the regional governments seem convinced that the Federal government is playing give-away with its state aid programs like urban renewal, welfare and highway construction. The Feds say "We'll put up 75 per cent of the money, you put up the rest" and it looks like a bargain.

Trouble is, there are strings attached. The state of Maryland, known for its horse farms, has learned to look a Federal gift-horse over pretty thoroughly, after its unhappy experience with Medicaid.

Before Congress drew up Medicaid to provide free health services for indigent persons (apart from Medicare), Maryland provided basic medical service for 150,000 poor. When Medicaid began, state legislators sized it up as a terrific bargain with the U.S. paying more than half the costs.

Maryland formulated a plan acceptable to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and budgeted 29 million for the first year, including the Federal money. But first-year expenses ran 38 million. Last year, the state budgeted 46 million but this was overspent by 12 million. Maryland's current budget is 74 million.

Needless to say, this brought on what is commonly known as "an agonizing reappraisal" of the situation. What went wrong? Under liberal Federal policies, eligibility was greatly extended, rates increased, drugs covered, and hospitals paid any "reasonable costs."

Skyrocketing hospital charges have been the biggest cost.

Faced with a crisis, Maryland decided to charge nominal fees ($1 per doctor's visit, 70 cents for each prescription, etc.) to the patients, but Federal Medicaid administrators objected, saying such charges would have to be proportional to each patient's income, not flat fees. The state decided this was much too complicated to even consider and dropped the idea.

Even Senator Clinton Anderson of New Mexico, called the "Father of Medicare," has been pleading for amendments to Medicaid before states are driven to the wall, as his own state was. He favors giving states flexibility in establishing and in modifying Medicaid plans. "We are not only virtually bankrupting many states and municipalities," he said, "but gouging more and more billion-dollar chunks out of the Federal budget."

States and cities anxious to accept Federal "generosity" might ponder whether the road to Utopia is really strewn with Federal dollars.

claimed they are the property of the U. S. until matters in controversy (including processing of entry forms) are resolved.

APPOINTMENTS — Edward M. Yturri, Corpus Christi attorney and city attorney of Mathis, has been designed assistant state chairman of the Texas Republican party and head of state GOP Mexican - American Advisory Committee. Job is one of five top leadership posts in the Texas party.

Governor Smith named Jimmy Ralph Morris of Corsicana criminal district attorney for the 13th judicial district, Navarro County.

S. H. Roberts of Austin is new U. S. Marshal for the Western District of Texas.

Speaker Mutscher selected Reps. John Traeger of Seguin and James E. Nugent of Kerrville as Texas delegates to the 22nd annual meeting of the National Legislative Conference in St. Louis, Mo.

Can You Afford To Get Sick?

You often hear someone say: "Only the very rich or the very poor can afford to get sick these days. The rich can afford the finest medical treatment and the poor can get it for nothing." This may be true as far as hospital and doctor bills are concerned. But it definitely doesn't apply to prescriptions at an average price of $3.35 per RX . . . at a total annual cost to the average family of only $48.25 for all its prescription needs . . . it's obvious that . . .

SPORTS AFIELD

Artificial baits . . . designed to tempt fish and fishermen . . . come and go. What is the rage today may only be an also-ran tomorrow.

Right now the headline grabber for big bass is the plastic worm. A short while ago it was the Rapala and its many imitations.

Some lures, like the Heddon Chugger, stand the test of time. This is a great compliment for most baits go through a period when they produce best, then suddenly they lose their appeal to a newcomer.

One reason, no doubt, is that fish become conditioned to certain baits. When the lure is something new, bass are uninhibited. They strike like crazy! But the more they see of the bait, the less inclined they are to hit it. That is, unless the fisherman catches the bass in one of these rare records, when they hit just anything.

We once read of a unique test made in a fish hatchery. One lure of only one color was used. On the first day the bass struck the lure as if there would be no second chance for a meal. On the second day its appeal was almost as good.

Then results started diminishing. More and more casts were required to induce a strike.

After a month it was virtually impossible to take a bass on the bait. Yet only a small fraction of the total bass in the pond were ever hooked and released.

Another contributing factor is that fishermen are a fickle bunch. Few can stick with one lure exclusively. Perhaps the answer is that one day, when nothing seemed to work, an angler tied on an odd looking creation that he had been carrying around for ages in his tackle box. And to his great surprise, it caught fish.

Quickly this information passes on to other anglers. They try the lure. Simply by exposure, the bait is presented to a lot of fish and it stands to reason that some of them will hit it. Its popularity grows as more and more people use the lure. Before we know it, we have a rage on our hands.

As this indicates, these fads often are started innocently enough. Believe it or not one of the hottest salt-water baits on the Texas coast right now is the plastic worm. Yes—the plastic worm—and in salt water.

No one knows for sure where the "plastic worm in salt water fad" started. T. Sgt. Phillip Schudder III of Orlando, Fla. claims he originated the idea. Until some rebuttal is sounded, we'll take his word for it.

Says Scudder, "In October, 1966, I was wading the flats of East Bay near Panama City, Fla., when I noticed several dead marine worms floating in the water. These worms were as long and as large as a pencil and of very flimsy texture.

"Gathering the few that I could, I used them under a float and fished them as you would any bait. Having good luck with these and unable to locate more, I substituted a plastic worm.

"Nearest imitation to the marine worm I could find was a yellow plastic worm with small black dots. I tried this worm under a cork with little success. So I removed the cork and simply cast the worm out and retrieved it slowly along the bottom, using a tiny sinker for weight.

"Right away I began to get strikes. But I caught very few fish since they were only grabbing the end of the long worm. Remedying this was simple: I merely pinched the worm off two inches below the hook. The birth of the salt-water plastic worm as we know it today occurred at that moment."

Thus a new rage was born. Today the plastic worm is noted as one of the very best baits for salt water, just as it is a top producer in fresh water.

County Agent Column

Solon Wilson from the eastern edge of the county was by the office last week. He was telling me about the rye and vetch patch he has sowed the last two years. He had them planted on some marginal land and grazed some 15 cows and calves on 40 acres all last winter.

Vetch and rye compliment each other and make a high quality forage.

Mr. Wilson said he pulled the cows off of about half of it and baled over 400 bales. Vetch and rye have always done well on sandler type soils and might provide some good supplemental grazing for livestock producers.

Last Wednesday I visited Benton Cassaday's farm at Talpa and looked over his swine operation. Benton is chairman of our swine subcommittee. Benton has a real practical set up and is expanding it as time allows. Our Beef Cattle Committee met Thursday morning. Zeno Hemphill, Charles Nolen, C. M. Huckabee, and I worked out the plans for our Pregnancy Determination Meeting to be held October 21, of this year and made some plans for next year.

Our conservation committee had a breakfast meeting last Tuesday morning. Hal Martin, Arthur Dooze, Beck Knox, Loy Jackson and Bob Pearson assisted the County Extension staff in developing plans for a conservation program next year. Brush, weeds and rogue grasses are giving ranchers a harder time of it every year. One of the things we plan to try next year is some range spraying of weeds to see if this is economically practical.

A lot of preparations are being made for our County Fair. I've been put in charge of the agricultural exhibits, so if anyone wants to make an agricultural display, I need to hear from you real soon to reserve booth space.

I received word from Dr. Merrill that entries for the ram progeny test at Sonora will be opened right away. If anyone is interested in entering rams in this, I have all the information in my office.

I received some of the results on one of our milo demonstrations this year. Bill Haas, of Mozelle had four varieties, all of them new and supposedly top varieties. There was a difference of 1100 lbs per acre on the top and bottom plding varieties, all grown side by side on identical land and under similar conditions. At the current price of around $2.00 per cwt. this amounts to $22.00 per acre difference. I think this illustrates the value of the crop demonstration work. More complete results of the demonstration work will be printed in a handbook this fall.

HPC Gets Early Start This Year

Brownwood — A record number of students is expected to attend Howard Payne College this fall.

The anticipated increase is based on student recruiting figures and on the number of applications which have been made in advance by prospective students.

Registration for the fall semester is scheduled earlier than normal this year, according to Mrs. Dora Mae Herring, HPC registrar.

She said registration will be held August 28 and 29 in the College's Walker Memorial Library.

Classes start at 8 a. m. on Saturday, August 30, for Monday, Wednesday and Friday sessions and at 8 a. m. Tuesday, Sept. 2, for Tuesday and Thursday sessions.

Reason for the early enrollment is to comply with new regulations set forth by the Southern Association of Colleges and Universities.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Freeman, Leslie and Linda of Fort Worth visited the past week with Mrs. Lester Newman, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Freeman and the Tom Newmans.

Well, What Do You Know? fun, games and knowledge

by MARTHA GLAUBER SHAPP, Editor, The New Book of Knowledge

Do you know how barometers work?

The barometer is an instrument that measures air pressure. There are several kinds of barometers, but the kind seen most often is the aneroid barometer. ("Aneroid" means "without liquid.") Inside the barometer is a small chamber with thin metal walls. Most of the air has been drawn out of this chamber. The thin walls move in or out slightly when there is an increase or decrease in the air pressure outside. A pointer on the front of the barometer is connected by a lever to the chamber walls. The pointer shows these small changes on a dial marked off in units of air pressure.

There are other kinds of barometers, however, that do use liquids. The very first barometers were of this type. An Italian scientist invented the mercury barometer in 1643. He took a long glass tube that was closed at one end and filled it with mercury. He turned the tube upside down in a pan that contained more mercury. The mercury in the tube started running out, but soon it stopped. The weight of the mercury in the tube was balanced by the air pressure on the mercury outside. When air pressure increased, the mercury column went up. When air pressure decreased, the column went down.

Because mercury barometers are very accurate they are still used today, mainly in scientific laboratories.

What is the difference between an invention and a discovery?

It is often hard to tell the difference between an invention and a discovery, but we usually speak of inventing something that did not exist before and of discovering something that did exist before but was not known. Thus we say that Galileo discovered the spots on the face of the sun. (Sunspots had always existed but no one knew about them before Galileo.) We say that Thomas Edison invented the phonograph, since there was no such thing until Edison created one.

Spotlight on HEALTH

HEALTH AND SCIENCE SHORTS

A two-day conference held at the New York Academy of Sciences dealt with a common problem that is often taken lightly, but is a frequent source of human distress: gastrointestinal gas. It has been found that 70 per cent of this problem is caused by swallowed air. People swallow air when they eat too fast or are emotionally upset. Only 30 per cent can be attributed to bacterial fermentation and food ingredients.

Dr. Jerome E. Weiss of New York City, a specialist addressing the Academy meeting, said that the distressing symptoms of distention and bloating are effectively relieved by Phazyme, a drug that contains digestive enzymes and simethicone, a specially activated defoaming agent that disperses masses of air bubbles.

Prudent exposure to the ultraviolet rays of summer sunlight has been found to help relieve psoriasis, a common skin problem. Also helpful is a daily tub bath in warm water to which a soothing bath oil has been added. And, to soften skin and speed healing, a modern version of a remedy that was known to the ancient Greeks is recommended by doctors. Called Alphosyl, it combines a refined coal-tar extract with allantoin in a nonstaining cosmetic cream and lotion.

"Puppy dog dermatitis" may be the doctor's diagnosis when a child has an otherwise unexplainable outbreak of itchy rash.

An Indianapolis dermatologist, Dr. Arthur L. Norins, explains that problems arise when mites—often found on fostered puppies, take up residence on humans and reproduce.

The physician, reporting in the American Journal of Diseases of Children, cites other recently published studies, including one by two army doctors. They prescribed for dog and for humans, an all-over, head-to-toe application of gamma benzene hexachloride lotion (Kwell).

Dr. Norins also found both Kwell and a second remedy known as crotamiton lotion to be effective.

Viet Nam--Looking Back

Dear Mrs. Kingsbery:

This past week I received a number of letters from mutual friends and acquaintances who seemed to show some interest in Viet Nam and what is going on over there.

The following is a few collected, historical items which may be of interest to folks at home, as a sort of background of what is going on at the present time.

Life in Viet Nam is a tragic comedy with very little in between. Moments of sheer beauty alternate with utter calamity. A land of Buddha where everything is judged to be relative, including suffering, fortune, misfortune, or death. Their time is figured in 12 year cycles, if it isn't done today, so what, tomorrow, and if not, perchance tomorrow, another year, or life re-incarnated.

Viet Nam's civilization is ancient, dating back to hundreds of years before Christ, rooted in Asian philosophies and religions. The legend of the dragon and a goddess came the 100 venerable ancestors of all Vietnamese.

This unifying belief of Vietnamese has enabled them to rally against all foreigners through the centuries. Until 1955 the Vietnamese coat-of-arms pictured a dragon carrying the country on its back. The current coat-of-arms displays the bamboo as the native source of strength and fertility.

Viet Nam originally occupied south and southeastern China. About 111 B. C. the Viet Nam kingdom was conquered and ruled by the Chinese for the next 1,000 years. An abortive revolt led by the Trung Sisters in 43 A. D. succeeded for a few years but the Chinese hordes returned and the Trung sisters committed suicide by throwing themselves into the river.

In 1284 they fought for a free nation and flung back the Mongolians under Kublai Kahn. In the next century they pushed south along the China Sea occupying much of what is now South Viet Nam, then pushing the powerful kingdom of Champa, gradually from the first major campaign of 1471 until the Chams disappeared in 1700, leaving about 25,000 primitive, unassimilated remnants in villages around Phang Rang, midway down the coast of South Viet Nam. The Cambodians were met and vanquished on the field of battle beyond the ridgeline Annamite Mountains dividing the Viet Nams from Laos and Cambodia.

400 years from the brilliant Le Dynasty of the 15th century saw a flowering civilization of Communists, agriculture, crafts and a code of laws and going down to modern times.

Two powerful families, Nguyen and Trinh finally divided the Le Dynasty between them, a Nguyen controlling the South and Central sections of the country and the Trinh controlling the northern. In 1802 the last surviving member of the original Nguyens succeeded to the throne and united all Vietnamese under a uniform government system and laws.

Then the French gradually took over Southeast Asia, and it became a colonial empire of French Indo China until the fall of France in 1940. Then the Japanese, who gave Vietnamese the independence in 1945, set up a puppet regime of Emporor Ba Dai.

In 1944 Ho Chi Minh, an ex-patriate, anti-French, dedicated Communist in South China returned to Hanoi, set up the Viet Nam Liberation

Army and soon destroyed the government of the puppet Emporor Pa Dai who abdicated to Ho. Control of Saigon was immediately set up with a committee of 9 members, 7 of whom were hand-picked Communists. The committee was called, "The Provisional Committee for South Viet Nam."

Ho Chi Minh and his cohorts pretended to be non-Communists so as to appeal to as many Viet Namese as possible, uniting them under the banner of the Viet Minh, for national independence.

The French returned after World War II in 1946 and the Viet Minh rally all Vietnamese in the bloody, 8-Year war of Indo China, which ended at the Geneva Conference in 1954, dividing the Viet Nams—The South, a Republic (RVN) with the capitol of Saigon, under Ngo Dinh Diem, and the North, Communists, Democratic Republic of Viet Nam with Hanoi as its capitol.

In 1955 South Viet Nam went to the polls choosing between the old regime under the Emporor Ba Dai and the new Republic of Ngo Dinh Diem. The new Republic won with President Diem, elected a constitutional assembly in March, 1956, adopted a national constitution on July 7, 1956 and began its long fight for existence which continues bloody with the tides of war until this moment of time.

Thirteen years have rolled by, war ravaged every family, institution and the nation. One million refugees poured in from Communist North Viet Nam upon a shattered, economy, rival political factions have flourished, the Viet Cong have done their damndest in cooperation with the North Vietnamese military regime to overthrow the elected, constitutional government of South Viet Nam by every known tactic of guerilla warfare, subversion, kidnapping, bombings, terrorisms, selective murder, mass extermination, kidnapping, bribery, torture, political organizations, Paris Peace Talks and all out war—and nearly succeeded on several occasions.

The Communist in Hanoi expected the struggling country of South Viet Nam to fall like ripe fruit into their hands, but instead it survived, prospered and grew, so in 1959 the V. C. guerrillas were launched on an intensive campaign of ruination, disruption and overthrow by guerilla terror and warfare directed by Hanoi and with aid and support from North Viet Nam and Red China.

The V. C. moved through the country on a wave of generalized destruction, blowing up crowded busses, boats, trains, bridges, schools, buildings, killing selective thousands of South Vietnamese leaders, officials, professionals, teachers, nurses, doctors, health workers and others who might oppose them or their ideologies. Sometimes entire towns and villages were completely destroyed down to the last infant.

In 1962 it became patently clear that help was needed desperately and immediately or the nation would fall beyond control beneath the iron hand of the Communists of Hanoi and Red China.

President Diem called on the United States and U. S. Military Assistance Command Viet Nam—MACV was born. Military and economic aid as progressively poured in to preserve the nation and its people. Thirty-six other free world countries have followed suit providing military or economic aid or both.

Now the long, high tide has turned. Viet Nam has 1,000,000 men under arms, has stabilized its country in developing education, industry, commerce and a more stable political and economic system is beginning to feel it can soon stand on its own two feet.

(continued from page 1. catch. There's a drunk on the highway about 5 miles back and he's going to kill someone if you don't stop him."

The patrolman turned and started back the other way in search of the drunk driver while the speeder went on his merry way. A bit slower than before, however.

When News

By Mrs. Tom Rutherford

We are glad to report a good rain Saturday night. On Sunday morning and Monday morning our gauge measured 3.4 inches. The moisture was needed and fell good, for which we are thankful.

Mrs. Hettie Turney informed me she had received word from her sister who is seriously ill in California and her condition remains the same. The sisters, Mrs. Lily Fox, Mrs. Inez Prater and Mrs. Genella Miller are with their sister the former, Nora Shields. We here are all hoping for better reports from Nora.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Avants and Mr. and Mrs. Cleburn Stanley were among guests with Mr. and Mrs. Bean Randle in Santa Anna Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Dumpy Rutherford of Bangs and Brownwood visited with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rutherford Sunday afternoon. D. Rutherford and Mrs. June Link were married at the Lady's home in Brownwood Saturday night and are this week moving near Bangs.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rutherford drove to Bangs Saturday noon and visited briefly with Mrs. Loyd Rutherford and Tonna. Loyd was attending National Guard drill in Brownwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Grehm Fitzpatrick and boys, Don and Neil, spent Saturday night with their daughter and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Jacky Boulton of Doreville.

Mr. and Mrs. John X. Steward of Rockwood visited with Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Avants Sunday afternoon. They brought their grandson Dougy Avants of Brady to visit his grandparents, the Avants, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Etoile Cozart of San Angelo spent Friday night in their home here.

Tom Rutherford was a dinner guest with Mr. and Mrs. Hilary Rutherford and children in Coleman on Friday.

Floyd Morris' brother, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Morris and children of California, returned to their home in California. They left Tuesday morning following visiting here with Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Morris and relatives in and near Brady.

Texas Has Many Capital Cities

They claim to be. And, perhaps they are.

There are seven cities that call themselves "Capitals of the World."

And they can build a pretty solid case for their claim.

Tyler is Rose Capital of the world. More than half of the fieldgrown rose bushes in the United States come from an area surrounding Tyler.

Bandera is the Cowboy Capital. And a corral-full of modern dude ranch resorts are sprinkled through the Central Texas Hill Country.

Terlingua, in the Trans-Pecos, may be the capital with the fewest citizens. The population is 9. But it's the site of the annual chili cook-out contest. And it's called the Chili Capital of the World.

The panhandle has two capitals—Frisco for its maize and Perryton for wheat.

Comanche holds title to the Peanut Capital. Stonewall is Peach Capital.

And the Spinach Capital is located in Crystal City—complete with the statue of Pop-eye.

What is Santa Anna's claim to fame? Perhaps we could be the "Mountain City Capital" of Texas

Dove Season To Open On Monday

The 1969 dove season will open next Monday, September 1, and hunting regulations have been recently submitted by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

An extra hour of hunting time is available for Texas hunters as the hunting will begin each day at 12 noon, DST. Last year the beginning time each day was 1 p. m.

Daily bag limit is 10 birds with the possession limit 20. The season will close at sundown October 30.

Some of the special notes for hunters include the following regulations.

No hunting permitted in game refuges, state and federal parks; game reserves or within corporate city limits. Shotguns must be plugged permanently to three-shell capacity and may not be larger than ten gauge. Hunting doves with rifles is prohibited.

In far south Texas, a fully feathered wing on dressed doves is required in those counties which have a white-winged dove season when both white-winged doves and the mourning doves may be taken.

Hunting prospects have been good in the Coleman County area in recent weeks, but is usually understood that the doves become more scarce after the beginning of the hunting season. Also, the recent rainfall may change hunting conditions in the county.
