Mountain Echoes

By Barbara Kingsbery

Editor Jack Scott of the Cross Plains Review had an interesting story in his Hometown column. Even Scott can't vouch for its veracity.

A motorist pulled into a Cross Plains service station recently and told the attendant that he had just run over a deer between Cross Plains and Rowen.

"I'm sure the meat will be good, if someone will go out and get it right away," he said.

"Was the deer a doe or a buck?" inquired the station man.

The motorist thought a minute and then replied, "I was in a hurry and didn't notice; I just took hold of the antlers and pulled the carcass off the pavement."

Our apologies to Lion Sandy King and others from Brownwood who did not get mentioned in the NEWS after visiting here recently. There was nothing personal in the omission, the Lions Club just doesn't have a reporter and we are never informed of the happenings just down the street. Maybe next time...

No wonder there is a parking problem in many places. Over half the people in this country have driver's licenses. Although many people prefer air transportation, 88 per cent of the nation's adults use automobiles as their ideal form of transportation.

The attractive sight of the flag-lined street on Veterans Day was appreciated by others besides local citizens. Groner Pitts of Brownwood, guest speaker at the Bangs American Legion Veterans Day program, mentioned in his speech the Santa Anna thoroughfare with the many flags displayed.

Dr. Herman Burgos, a former staff member at Santa Anna Hospital, is commuting from his home at Alvarado to Santa Anna a day or two each week to help out in the clinic here. We welcome him back to Santa Anna—even on a part-time basis.

Dr. Burgos and his family were active members of the community and have many friends here.

We refuse to predict the weather, and are almost hesitant to comment on it. We have had rain—off and on, also cold weather, warm weather, sunshine, etc. In other words, it's the usual unpredictable Texas autumn.

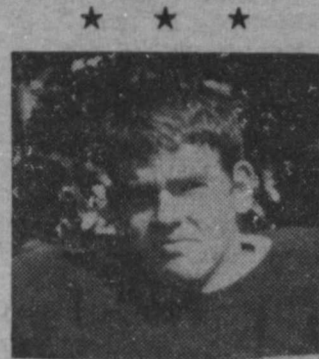

W. T. Hays offered to lend me his Bangs Gazette version of the Friday night football game. Thanks, but no thanks!

In Our Opinion

By W. T. HAYS

LAST WEEK I was privileged to listen to a speaker with whom I had to agree with wholeheartedly. He was Groner Pitts of Brownwood, of all things, a funeral director. But regardless of his occupation, he said some things we all need to be reminded of.

He said this country suffered from a patriotism gap, and with a group of dissidents in this country marching, protesting, and waving Viet-cong flags while their own country is at war with the very people they support, we would say that a patriotism gap was putting it mildly. If Congress had declared war instead of calling this thing a "police action" they would be guilty and subject to prosecution for treason, and that is what should happen to the lot. The least they are doing is giving aid and comfort to the enemy.

We might expect a mortician to be a quiet, conservative person who is not out-spoken, but Groner Pitts is far from this. He reminded us of the men who made this country great and said they all had one characteristic, "they believed in this country!"

We believe that the "great silent majority" of the people of this nation are getting tired of what a small group of militants are doing to undermine this country and that they are beginning to make themselves known. A good example was the reaction to President Nixon's speech recently when he took his stand on the Viet Nam war.

It is true that the vast majority of the Americans want to see a day of peace in this country—but the vast majority don't want peace at any price, and that is what the subversive elements who are supporting the Moratorium Committee want. They would like to see the United States pull out of Viet Nam immediately, regardless of the consequences—and so would the North Vietnamese.

Yes, and we might say that Red China and Russia agree wholeheartedly with this bunch of seditionists.

But as Pitts said, it is time for us to say without hesitation or embarrassment, "I love my country."

PROSPECTS OF a good political campaign seem to be in the making.

Governor Preston Smith and Lieutenant Governor Ben Barnes seem to be using the press to take mild pot shots at each other of late.

Of course the election is not until next year, but neither seems to be wasting any time in trying to feel the public pulse. The governor finally made his office after years of trying and Barnes has been on a steady climb, from the House to Speaker and now Lieutenant Governor.

Personally, we would like to see it come out into the open, because there is no time like an election year to get some things done that is good for all the people. After the election, the people don't seem to have the pull they did before, for some reason or other. Could it be that it is two years before they can vote again?

OFF WE GO, into the wild blue yonder, again on our way to the moon.

I don't know what these trips are accomplishing, and I guess we country boys are not expected to know much about scientific subjects, but you know, they are spending a lot of my dollars on these projects, and I would kinda like to know what I am getting in return.

Apparently, no one could live there, and nothing grows there, and it is kind of like the earth before our Creator took it over—without form and void.

Maybe Uncle Sam has moved up to an equal with God, and is going to make something out of nothing. Well, being a little bit old fashioned and a Christian, we don't quite believe he can do it.

how can Lone Star Gas help you get rid of wrinkles?

We know all wrinkles are not due to aging. Some are due to drying. And dryers. Some dryers affect clothes the way sun affects skin. They not only dry out moisture. They bake in wrinkles. Even in permanent press. But gas dryers are more sensitive to your family's clothing. And more sympathetic to your work load. Most new gas dryers have a special cool-down cycle that turns off the heat before your clothes become overheated. That means your clothes have fewer wrinkles. And you have less ironing. You also have less expensive utility bills. Because gas dries for about a penny a load. See your gas appliance dealer or Lone Star Gas Company. Find out how to take it a little easier. And avoid wrinkles.

Our esteemed fellow townsman, W. R. Kelley, has been at home this week nursing a sore foot.

A LETTER FROM KIMBLE COUNTY

We left dear old Santa Anna November 27, at 8:00 a. m. and arrived here December 2, at 10:00 a. m. We first stopped on Bear Creek at a little store and school house where we remained 1 month and 7 days, when we moved to the 70 pasture where we now live. It is seven miles southwest of Junction City. I will give a little sketch of this country. It is rough, rocky and mountainous, when we first arrived I didn't like the country but am pretty well satisfied now. There is lots of wild game here. The fox barks, the wildcats squall, and the turkey roosts on the highest branches, and deer are plentiful. This is a thinly settled country, but what few people are here are very sociable. Junction City is a very pretty little place of 600 inhabitants, situated at the junction of North and South Llano. This is a good stock country. Lots of goat and sheep ranches here. We have an abundance of the purest water on earth. It is a very healthful country. There is not much farming done here, but those who farm irrigate their land. In going to Junction City from where we live we cross Cedar Creek 13 times and it doesn't fail to be rocky. Our nearest neighbor is 4 miles away. But think this country will soon settle up as there is lots of school lands and it is a good place to get a home.

Well as I have given you a brief description of this country will close with best wishes for the News and my Santa Anna friends.

Wille Baldrige.

A LOG HOUSE IN THE GAP

By Leona Bruce

Every other day, in the '70's a mule drawn stage crossed Coleman County going west, entering the county near Turkey Water on Mud Creek, and leaving it about where Talpa now is; one stand, that is, the place where the tired mules were unharnessed and fresh ones put to stage, was owned by W. W. Hunter and his son, John, and was at the big hole on Mud Creek, and another, some say, was on Hord's Creek some six miles west of where the town of Coleman now is. This roughly followed the telegraph line from Camp Colorado to Fort Concho which by this time had steel poles, since the Indians persisted in burning the wooden ones used at first. The only known piece of any of these steel poles known to this writer is owned by John Bomar of Valera, near whose land the stage and telephone lines crossed.

W. W. Hunter had a comfortable log house, and part of while he took the cabin apart and hauled it, log by log, to the new site. A scout of Texas rangers camped at the mountain to watch for Indians, helped him raise the bigger timbers and he and the children put on a new roof. The passing trail herds soon bought everything he had for sale, the rich sandy soil would grow anything put into it, and they soon grew to love their home.

Louisa Walton was a musician, who loved to play her organ and sing; she taught all the children to sing well, including the twin baby girls, and what music they had. Travelers were glad to come there, and the little store prospered as the cattle drives grew in number and size. From this height, they could see the dust of the approaching herds for miles to the south. There was no store on this trail nearer than Trickham, nearly a day's walk for a herd, although there was a small rock cabin at the west end of the mountain which had been built by a squatter in 1873.

In 1879, a young man named W. C. Brooks came to the Walton store and offered a good price for it, which was accepted, and the Walton family went east across the Brown County line and they bought a place on a creek, likely Clear Creek. Friendly Indians were still in the country, probably Tomkays and they would go to any cabin begging food. Louisa Walton was not at all afraid of them, and usually divided with them whatever she had.

featherbeds, nearly all they had left of their former affluence. Walton knew that he could trade for their needs, and he bought a box of articles to take along, for trading.

The cabin on Mud Creek was small and crowded, with a dirt floor and a chimney of rocks, but even here he found space for a small stock of things for sale to passengers on the stage, rangers riding by, and other settlers. They were not far from the Hunter stage stand, and Walton soon saw that if he were farther away, and on a different trail, he could make more money. He had no horse, so he walked west along the stage line but turned south to the Santa Anna Mountains where he found several springs of good water, plenty of game and grass, and a cattle trail from the south through the gap. Here he would build.

The family went into camp while he took the cabin apart and hauled it, log by log, to the new site. A scout of Texas rangers camped at the mountain to watch for Indians, helped him raise the bigger timbers and he and the children put on a new roof. The passing trail herds soon bought everything he had for sale, the rich sandy soil would grow anything put into it, and they soon grew to love their home.

Trickham News Notes

By Mrs. Oscar Boenicke

Rev. James Gilbert, a Presbyterian minister of Denton, and his daughter came Saturday evening and spent the night with the O. J. Martins. Rev. Gilbert preached Sunday morning here. He is a former pastor here.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Martin and a friend from Garland, visited from Friday until Saturday evening with his parents the O. J. Martins. On back, came to the new cabin asking for meat. All the settlers had smokehouses where they salted or smoked a supply of meat each fall. This was in warm weather, and the meat was all used up, so Louisa took them to the smokehouse to show them that only a hambone or two still swung from the rafters. One of the women indicated with signs that they were good and she would like to have them.

As they were talking, a big worm fell off the bone into the dirt, and the woman picked it up and put it into the baby's mouth. The Walton children were horrified, and one of them, Mrs. Julia Catherine Wilson of Brown County, now 93 years old, has never forgotten the sight.

Along with W. C. Brooks to the Walton store came romance; Emma Jane Walton was soon married to the Brooks' son, William. The other Walton children were, Hugh, who married Nora Hasty, Susan, who married Duke Herring, Martha who married Franklin Rutledge, Ida May, who married Gordon Martin; and the twins, Lula and Julia, who married John Swanson and Henry Blachley Wilson. This last son-in-law was known as Blache Wilson, a very unusual name, still remembered well here, and it is his widow who survives to this day (1969).

J. C. and Louisa Walton are buried in the Mukewater cemetery in Brown County, as are his mother, Susan Stith Walton, and several other members of the family.

One feels that a song never dies, as Longfellow said in his poem. Emma Jane Walton Brooks could sing and play the organ as well as her mother and William bought her a new one. When one knows the Brooks family of Bangs, well known for their music, the work-worn hands of Louisa Walton and the music she made, with all her little children gathered about her on the dirt-floored cabin, made sweet sounds that seem to echo still, down the years.

Sunday afternoon the Martins and Rev. Gilbert and daughter visited in Bangs with Mamie and Stafford Stevens and Mrs. Zona Stacy and Mrs. Kingston.

Capt. Sherman Stearns called his wife, Dortha, in Kentucky from Japan said he would be in the hospital there until after Nov. 20. He would have to stay there until he got the stitches out. Then they would fly him to Texas. Dortha and son Clint came back from Kentucky after she got the call last Thursday.

Mrs. Howell Martin and grandson, Paul Martin visited her daughter, Mineola and Ray McSwain and family, at Fort Worth. They went Saturday morning and came home Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Byler of Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Curtiss Lewallen of Sweetwater, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Meek of Kerrville, spent the weekend with Rankin McIver and Sherrie. Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Durham and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Miller of Coleman visited on Sunday afternoon.

Visitors with the Lige Lancasters Sunday afternoon were Mrs. Keetie Haynes and Genia McIver and Lori Hornell and Virgil and Veta Lancaster. Lige has not been so well the last few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Bond Featherston visited Mr. and Mrs. Gid Mathews of Coleman on Saturday evening. We were glad to hear Gid can walk some with his walker and now also has the cast off his leg.

Mr. and Mrs. James Haynes and family of Lovington, N. M., visited his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Haynes on Sunday morning.

Several from this community attended a coffee and a wedding shower for Mrs. Inez Guthrie Thursday morning at Mrs. Vernon Herring's in Santa Anna. Marvin Guthrie and Inez Tucker had gone together so long we hope they will have a happy marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hiedbrier visited her parents, the Walter Stacys, Sunday. Also Mrs. Vaughn had dinner with them as it was her birthday. Bill went back to the hunting camp Sunday to hunt but did not have any luck.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie McIver and Linda Joe, and Bernice McIver and Royce and Terry McIver all were hunting and visited the Grady McIvers Saturday night. Sunday Mrs. Keetie Haynes and Terry and Orabeth had dinner with the Grady McIvers.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie McIver and family of Garland visited over the weekend with his parents, the Bernice McIvers. Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Durham and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Miller of Coleman visited a little while Sunday evening.

Oscar and I visited Saturday evening at the Brownwood Community Hospital with Marvin Whitley, also Fay and Julian were there. Marvin is doing some better. He will be moved to the Ranger Park Inn at Santa Anna soon. We also visited Glenn Haynes. He is improving and does not suffer as much now.

We had 14 ladies out last Tuesday for the Quilting Club that afternoon. We are proud we have a new roof on our community center. It looks much better and will stop the leaks, too. We hope to make other improvements later.

This Tuesday morning we have a cold norther blowing. We have winter again. After the killing frost last week the cotton farmers can get their cotton stripped now.

Curtis Collins visited one evening last week with the Hilburn Hendersons. Sunday night the G. K. Stearns visited them. Sunday afternoon Leona and Hilburn visited her parents, the Talmage McClatchys.

Tinker and Barbara Dockery and Lynn of Rockwood visited the Jack Dockerys on Sunday afternoon.

Attend church regularly.

AUSTIN — Gov. Preston Smith turned from reading political polls to Indian signs last week and came up with a proposal for a new park in the Amistad Reservoir area near Del Rio.

Smith made a day-long inspection tour by air, car and boat, primarily to view 8,000-year-old Indian pictographs in Seminole canyon.

Impressed, the governor said the area must be developed as a recreation site and necessary steps taken immediately to protect primitive art from elements and vandals.

Smith said he personally favors state park development but noted that legislation already has been introduced to create Amistad National Recreation Area covering some 63,000 acres of land and water.

Parks and Wildlife Department Director J. R. Singleton said state funds could come from future sale of bonds from the $75 million Texas recreation and park development bond program. However, Singleton favors waiting on federal action to establish a national recreation area and determination of funds that U.S. agencies will provide for access roads and other facilities.

Smith said he plans to consult with Singleton and request the PWD chief to call all appropriate state department heads together at an early date to explore the state's role in area development.

CRIME AND NARCOTICS — An anti-crime and narcotics education package is being drawn up by the Texas Education Agency for classroom use beginning in September, 1970.

Detailed proposals for a statewide attack on crime and narcotics will be drafted. State Board of Education has authorized the agency to develop proposals requesting funds through the federal Juvenile Delinquency Prevention and Control Act of 1968, plus state and private sources.

Program was initiated by the 61st Legislature, which directed the agency to develop "a course on the evils of crime and narcotics" which will be required of all students.

Next planning step will bring 100 educators and other interested persons together in Austin for the first National Leadership Methods Laboratory on crime and narcotics. Laboratory will be directed by R. T. "Sonny" Davis, Austin attorney.

Scope of the problem the legislature is trying to solve is illustrated with the latest figures compiled by the Department of Public Safety. During February through August, 1969, a total of 1,035 students in Texas in the 11 to 18-year-old age bracket were arrested on narcotics and drug charges. This includes 519 arrests for possession of marijuana, 243 for dangerous drugs, and 273 for narcotics.

COURTS SPEAK—Harsh editorial criticism of a university professor's anti-war demonstration activities did not constitute libel, since the man was a public figure subject to criticism, Supreme Court has held.

A Corpus Christi contractor must pay $127,700 damages to the widow and children of a man killed in collision with one of the firm's heavy highway construction machine units, high court said.

In other recent decisions, court concluded that:

• A new hearing should be granted in the state's suit for more than $10,000 in telephone taxes from a McAllen firm which installs and services auto telephones.

• No commission is owed a newspaper broker who said he had arranged for the sale of two Corsicana newspapers, since he had no written contract.

HOSPITAL FUNDS APPROVED—Texas' Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation has approved more than $6.3 million in new construction projects.

Included is $1.5 million for Corpus Christi State School, phase 3; Lubbock state school, $915,000, phase 3, and Richmond State School, $2.5 million, phase 3. Major expansions at three schools will provide 766 new beds for retarded.

Additional projects will be at Big Spring State Hospital, Rusk State Hospital, Vernon Center, Wichita Falls State Hospital and San Angelo Center.

Wichita Falls, Plainview and Midland received first-year grants for community MH/MR centers.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES — Deposit-type accounts may be accepted by state-chartered savings and loan associations under the Texas Savings and Loan Act, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin held.

In other recent opinions Martin ruled that:

• A county depository contract is not assignable by a liquidator of a defunct bank to a successor bank, and successor First State Bank of Aransas Pass, therefore, is not subject to terms of a depository contract with a defunct bank.

pointed to this board and the State Board of Examiners for Psychologists serve for two years except for initial appointees.

• Ex-officio members of the Texas Civil Judicial Council do not hold separate and distinct offices. Terms of appointive members are six years, one third appointed every two years.

APPOINTMENTS—Gov. Preston Smith appointed Hidalgo County Court-at-law Judge J. R. Alamia of Edinburg to serve as 92nd District Judge until the next general election. He succeeds the late Judge Tom L. Hartley.

Smith also made these selections:

State Antiquities Committee—Dr. W. C. Holden of Lubbock and Dr. Fred Wendorf of Dallas.

Good Neighbor Commission—Mrs. James Day of Brookshire, Earl William Gammage of Houston and James Weldon Thomas of Dallas.

Polygraph Examiners Board—Henry LeBrozec Canty of Austin.

Advisory Board, Texas Tourist Development Council—Gus E. (Gene) Lehmann of Kerrville, Mayor Wesley D. Rogers Jr. of Lubbock, Robert E. Conwell of Corpus Christi and Aubrey N. Kline of San Antonio.

House Speaker Gus Mutscher has appointed Rep. Cordell Hull of Fort Worth chairman of the House Interim Committee on the Utilization of Automatic Data Processing in State Government. Other members selected for the interim committee are: L. Dean Cobb, Dallas, vice chairman; Harold Davis, Austin; Elmer L. Tarbox, Lubbock; Jimmy Weldon, Port Arthur and Joe Allen, Baytown. Dr. A. W. Worthing, head of the department of industrial engineering at Texas A&M, will serve as an ex-officio member of the committee.

Rep. Russell Cummings of Houston will head the special committee to examine the management practices of the state agencies. Also on the committee are Reps. John Allen, Longview; Grant Jones, Abilene; Fred Orr, DeSoto and W. C. (Bud) Sherman, Fort Worth.

Rep. Jake Johnson of San Antonio has been appointed chairman of the House Interim Committee on Military Affairs by Speaker Mutscher.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes appointed the remaining members to the Senate Interim Committee on Public Utility Commissions. Sen. Charles Wilson of Lufkin had previously been appointed as chairman. Sens. H. J. Blanchard of Lubbock, Criss Cole of Houston, William T. Moore of Bryan and J. P. Word of Meridian were added to the committee.

Reps. Leroy J. Wieting of Portland and J. A. Garcia Jr. of Raymondville have been named to the House Interim Committee on Recreational Water Safety.

MILITARY LIQUOR SALES EYED—Liquor Control Board is reassessing its tax collection-enforcement limitations on federal military posts, apparently with intentions of increasing state revenues.

LCB ordered a staff study to determine those posts on which state jurisdiction has been yielded and those which have not. Members seemed to have an eye on collecting the state's new five-cents-a-drink service charge at clubs on military bases.

At the same meeting, Board turned down for the present the idea of a master club card which would create a system of guest reciprocity in participating private clubs. Proponents were offered a change to get an attorney general's opinion on the subject, however, if they would officially request a permit in writing.

MEDICAL ASSISTANCE UNIT TO FUNCTION—State Department of Public Welfare's first medical assistance unit will begin field operations from San Antonio December 1, serving a vast 48-county area of South Texas.

Team, headed by a doctor, will have responsibility for medical review and utilization review of services provided by physicians, nursing homes and state institutions participating in Medicaid. Unit will also offer consultation to nursing homes on patient care and social services and medical record keeping. Its consultation services will be available to state mental hospitals and schools for retarded.

Unit is due to be the prototype for similar services in 16 welfare regions.

Well, What Do You Know? fun, games and knowledge

by MARTHA GLAUBER SHAPP, Editor, The New Book of Knowledge

Do you know what a Möbius strip is?

The Möbius strip was named after the 19th-century German mathematician August Möbius. It has a very strange property. It seems to have two sides but it actually has only one. To make a Möbius strip, take a strip of paper, give one end a half turn, and glue the ends together. You can see that it has only one side by drawing a pencil line along the side of the strip. Draw the line, without taking your pencil from the paper, until the pencil comes back to the starting point. You made this line without lifting the pencil from the paper or crossing the edge of the strip. So the Möbius strip has only one side. It also has only one edge. Run your finger along the edge without lifting it from the strip. When you return to the starting point, you will have touched all the points along the edge.

What are the dog days?

The hot, muggy days of summer are sometimes called the dog days. They were named for Sirius, the Dog Star, the brightest star in the summer sky. Centuries ago ancient astronomers noticed that this bright star rose just ahead of the sun during the hot summer months from July to September. Sirius far outshone all other heavenly bodies, but only for a short time. Minutes later the sun rose and Sirius, the Dog Star, disappeared.

(For a free booklet, "The Magic Carpet," illustrated in color from The New Book of Knowledge, send name and address to Martha Glauber Shapp, Box 47, Putnam Valley, New York 10579.) 9-3

In Greek mythology Sirius was the faithful dog of Orion, a great hunter. Orion was mistakenly and fatally wounded by the goddess Diana. To atone for her deed, she placed Orion and his dog among the stars.

The early Romans believed the combination of the Dog Star and the hot sun so close together caused drought and illness. In order to pacify their gods, the Romans often sacrificed dogs during the hot summer months.

Do you know what makes the "ghosts" on your TV screen?

Ghosts, or double images, appear on your TV screen when the energy from the transmitter to your receiver is divided. Part of the wave is deflected by an obstruction and arrives a few microseconds late. This lateness creates a second image slightly to the right of the first. Ghosts are less of a problem in open country than they are in cities, where there are many steel buildings, bridges, and other obstructions.

DKG Chapter Has Meeting

During an initiation ceremony two new members were added to the teacher's group. They are Mrs. Vivian Humphrey and Mrs. Raye King, both of Coleman.

JIGSAW PUZZLE FANS HAVE NEW CHALLENGE

New puzzle can provide instant elation or gradual despair.

Now they've come out with jigsaw puzzles so hard to put together that even fans who are a cut above their friends may go to pieces seeking a solution.

Get the picture? You actually can't with the new puzzles, for there is no picture. Instead, the 15 interlocking pieces go together to form a chain outlining a well known shape.

At the Milton Bradley Company, where they make the puzzles, called "Gradual Despair," they say that people who can't solve the puzzle in the first five minutes may not be able to solve it even in five years!

WASHINGTON AND Small Business

BY C. WILSON HARDER

Token War Against Crime

In the nation's capitol right now, bus drivers are not allowed to carry money to make change. Instead, they issue scrip to customers who don't have the right amount of coin, or tokens, to drop into the box. The purpose of this order by the city's two transit companies is to reduce the amount of money bus drivers handle and make them less attractive holdup targets.

The public in Washington is advised that bus drivers no longer sell tokens. Handbills explain that scrip is being used to protect drivers and passengers from continuing and increasing crime.

The companies cite one murder of a driver and 479 holdups, many involving violence, within one year.

All around town, public transportation patrons are advised, "Have Exact Fare Ready" and "Bus Drivers Do Not Sell Tokens." Tokens can be bought and scrip exchanged for money, at six offices in the city. Obviously, this inconvenience thousands of residents and tourists.

So the impact of crime in the streets is brought home to Washingtonians daily. It is hard to believe that this is happening in the nation's capitol, where the Justice Department, FBI and Supreme Court buildings stand as graphic evidence of law and order machinery.

The tourist business has suffered badly in Washington, from crime and recent civil disturbances, forcing the historic Willard Hotel to close. People around the country who had put Washington on their sight-seeing lists now think twice about visiting D. C.

Understandably, George Wallace gets a big ovation when he tells an audience, "If I'm elected President, citizens will be able to travel in any section of our nation's capitol without fear, even if I have to order 35,000 soldiers into the city."

Driving a bus once was not considered a dangerous occupation, but this has changed with the rise of crime in the big cities. In San Francisco, the transit company temporarily cancelled service on several routes following the murder of a driver at the end of one line. Three teenagers are charged.

"Law and order" is a major issue in this Presidential campaign, and millions of Americans are perhaps more worried about crime, riots and militant threats than about the possibility of a nuclear war.

Gun registration is a controversial and related issue, and its opponents point out that its most likely result would be inconvenience to honest, law-abiding American citizens.

The crime record shows that the courts' go-easy approach to lawbreakers has failed and that too often the victims, not the villains, suffer the most.

Washington's bus patrons are a case in point, as thousands are inconvenienced each day in an effort to save a bus driver from a violent "end of the line."

Whon News

By Mrs. Tom Rutherford

An iron worker was nonchalantly walking the beams high above the streets on a new skyscraper, while the pneumatic hammers made a nerve-jangling racket and the compressor below shook the whole steel structure. When he came down a man who had been watching him, tapped his shoulder, "I was amazed at your calmness up there. How did you happen to go to work on a job like this?"

"Well," said the other, "I used to drive a school bus, but my nerves gave away."

Hilary Rutherford of Coleman visit his parents a while Saturday afternoon. We received a shower of rain Sunday night. We also had a killing frost one night last week. We wish for a long period of sunshine so those who have cotton can get it gathered following a killing frost.

Mrs. Aaron Avants reports her brother, Buster Wynn of Coleman, and a patient in the Coleman Hospital, con-bottoms were their haunts. Three rivers, the Nueces, Atascosa and the Frio, come together at what is now Three Rivers, a few miles west of Oakville. It is through this country that the Mexican general Santa Anna made his way via cart trail to the Alamo.

The community became Oakville, after Thomas Wilson gave a section for the county seat. The first Live Oak County officials were elected under a live oak tree (where else?) at the now extinct Gussettsville. Oakville grew and brawled and got a reputation for toughness second only to Cotulla's in all Southwest Texas.

The railroad cooled off Oakville. It went through west of the Nueces instead of east. Soon a newer town named George West got the county seat and built a colonial brick courthouse still in use.

In its livelier days Oakville had two courthouses (both gone) and at least as many jails. The last one, built in 1888 was turned into one of the most substantial dwellings in Oakville.

And that's what it still is, a block off State Highway 9 where the action used to be.

Oakville - Where The Action Was

For 63 years Oakville was county seat of Live Oak County. About all that is left to show is an old jail, an appropriate memento of the early wild days, if half the shooting and hanging yarns are true.

Oakville was a place where things happened—most of them to people and suddenly. In the decade after the Civil War more than 40 of the city's residents were shot, hanged or stabbed. Some of the killings were legal, too.

Live Oak County, organized in 1856, is about 75 miles below San Antonio. It was lonely and dangerous in the early days. Indians, cow-hunters, thieves, and men on the run—the brush and river

"Needle" In a Vietnamese Haystack

by Chas. M. Henner

Being Navy a good Navy story is always in order. According to the record a fellow, Leroy Dunnivant of Long Beach, Calif., was the Navy Chief Signalman. Everyone has heard about the needle in the haystack, but very few have tried to be such.

As the story goes, Dunnivant was the patrol officer with a river patrol force. In a twin boat patrol hiding and poking along the heavily overgrown bank of a canal down the Mekong delta. The intelligence had reported that Charlie would probably attempt to cross personnel and supplies about the time and area.

Presently several sampans were noted crossing the canal and Dunnivant ordered flares to light up the area. Instantaneously, bullets, machine gun fire and rockets were flashing and slicing the night. The Navy responded with 50 calibre and M60 machine guns when an enemy rocket hit his boat, wounding several of the men. Moments later the boat struck something and Dunnivant was thrown overboard. As he came up gasping for breath the VC saw him and honed in on him. With half a breath of air in him and his life at stake he polywogged to the opposite bank and hid in a nearby haystack. No sooner had he gotten inside the hay than he could hear the Cong stomping and talking all around him. Overhead a Navy Seawolf Helicopter gunship was busy hosing down everything in sight. Hours later when heat, the insects, and everything was about to get the better of him he heard the familiar tone of the PBR's coming back to look for his remains. Found, one happy squid!

Tonight, it is just a little after 11:00 now but I felt that many of you would like to know, actually, what has gone over her in the last 2 months. A flare just whooshes up outside my hootch and far in the distance I can hear the whump-whump! but this is dull and distant, probably 2-3 miles away. Occasionally the night air is interrupted with short bursts of automatic fire from various types of weapons in allied hands and only once this evening have I heard that familiar uck-uck of an AK 47 but this may be a captured weapon, so for all practical purposes, the evening is relatively quiet. This is no guarantee that something will not happen in a little while, but it is not likely. In the 10 mile valley just west of here where some 80 Americans have died in the Que Son since August 18, and more than 1,000 of the enemy have been sent to their death, there are still believed to be around 900 North Vietnamese in the Que Son Valley, but no contact was made this afternoon. We have some 3,000 allied troops positioned to the various approaches from the mountains of Laos which are the sanctuaries for these incoming troops and our forces are hoping to catch them in a trap but the mountains are deep, rugged and long, and the jungle is dense. One may pass within a few feet of someone else and never know that they are there. The elephant grass can be so dense that one can, with the best of help, by hand chop his way only 2-3 miles a day.

One evening our Commanding Officer, a big burly Eagle Pass Texan, Lt. Col. Mebane G. Stafford, in his early 40s asked me to fly down to Chu Lai, 20 miles away, home base

New Language Of Business

Do You Know The 10 Basic Words?

The language spoken every day in the business world is one that even businessmen do not understand clearly. The reason is the computer and the growing influence of electronic data processing on the American scene.

If you think you understand today's business language, here is a test prepared by the International Accountants Society of Chicago, using 10 common computer words. To businessmen, they should be as familiar as the contents of their wallet.

1. Bit
2. Program
3. Dump
4. Hardware
5. Terminal
6. Baud
7. Run
8. Unpack
9. Nanosecond
10. Routine

According to Jay Herrett, Director of IAS' Business Electronics Division, "If an executive knows only six or less of these terms, he is in danger of becoming a computer dropout. In fact, these are basic words used every day in many companies. And they are not too far removed from the daily conversation in homes across the country," Mr. Herrett added.

"We know from the number of students enrolling in our home study course in Business Data Processing how many businessmen are beginning to realize the importance of learning to live with electronic data processing.

"The revolution in space travel has brought new words into our vocabulary," Mr. Herrett says, "and so has the computer revolution."

Here are the definitions, taken from the concise Dictionary of EDP Terms published by IAS.

BIT — A contraction meaning a binary digit; a single hole in a punched computer tape or card. Bits comprise a character; characters comprise a word.

PROGRAM — A computer plan for the solution of a problem.

DUMP — To transfer all or part of the contents of one section of computer memory into another section.

HARDWARE — A term used to describe the mechanical, electrical, and electronic elements of a data processing system.

TERMINAL — A point in a system or communication network at which data can either enter or leave.

BAUD — A unit of signaling speed in data transmission. The speed in bauds is equal to the number of bits per second.

RUN — One performance of a program on a computer.

UNPACK — To separate diverse information which has been included into one machine item or word.

NANOSECOND — A billionth of a second. A time measurement used to measure the operating speed of a computer.

ROUTINE — A sequence of instructions which perform a definite function within a larger computer program.

How well did you do?

Plan for '70 Now

ASC NEWS...

by Joe K. Taylor

It is time to start planning your 1970 farming operations. The 1970 wheat allotments have been mailed to all producers and farmers will need to make up their minds soon whether or not they wish to comply with the wheat program.

The cotton allotments will be mailed shortly along with the feed grain bases. When these are received, the plans can be completed for 1970.

The 1970 farm programs will place added emphasis on the necessity to properly prepare land and care for crops in a workmanlike manner. This is necessary to be eligible for price support payments and cotton history credit.

Proper seedbed preparation is an essential part of workmanlike farming. In any case this may mean plowing of land in the fall or winter for spring planting for cotton and feed grains.

Early seedbed preparation may also mean the difference of getting a crop planted or not. Failure to prepare a good seedbed and perform other approved cultural practices will result in cotton and feed grain program participants being ineligible for price support payments. In the case of cotton the next allotment for the next year would be reduced.

WOOL PRICES—With most of the clip already sold, it looks as if prices for U. S. shorn wool in 1969 will average a little above 1968's 40.5 cents a pound, according to U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Projections for 1970 shorn wool indicate prices likely will average a shade below 1969. Increased competition from man-made fibers is expected in 1970 along with record wool production. U. S. wool production likely will decline, thus continuing an uninterrupted trend of the past decade. Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Clarence D. Palmby has this to say about U. S. farm commodities: "There is a growing opportunity to promote the use of farm commodities in terms of their end products as sold from retail shelves. In other words wheat can be sold as bread, soybeans as margarine and tallow as soap. The market consists of hundreds of millions of overseas customers. The U. S. is promoting its margarine in Japan, its soap in Taiwan, lean pork in Italy and raisin bread in the Far East. The purpose is to merchandise our products all the way to the retail store, which is, of course, the cash register end of the export effort."

Accent On Health

Accident - proofing your home doesn't happen accidentally, and it takes a little time and effort to make "Home Sweet Home" a "Home Safe Home," advises the Texas Department of Health.

Home normally is thought of as a safe, secure place, but it isn't always that way. In fact, it's a dangerous place which can cause death or injury.

As modern living has become more complex, man has built in many dangers. Gas and electricity are use tools, but they can cause fires or killing electric shocks. Our tiled baths, glossy floors, fancy draperies, decorations and never - ending supplies of new gadgets present hazards to our lives every day.

Last year the number of home deaths in this country was some 30,000 with falls, burns and poisons as the leading causes of these deaths.

Most of these deaths occur in the bedrooms, kitchens and bathrooms. Most people think of the bathtub, with its hazards of falls and drowning, as the number one killer, but it isn't.

Bedrooms rank first. Too many people smoke in bed and "wake up dead" from fire or lethal smoke. Many infants smother from improper covering or too large a pillow. And people get up during the night and fall over objects in the dark. Bad housekeeping is at fault here.

In our sick - floored kitchens we fall, burn, electrocute, bomb and poison ourselves. The oven cleaner, drain cleaner, bleach, dishwashing compounds, insecticide and furniture polish under the sink are products which are poisonous and easily accessible to children. Leaking gas—or fumes—may explode on contact with a pilot light on your stove.

In addition to falls around the tub, the bathroom has another potential killer in the medicine cabinet. It has been estimated that 302,000 children under five years of age ingested some potentially toxic product last year.

To prevent these home accidents, plan for safety. Keep medicines and home kitchen products out of the reach of children. Watch where you put your lighted cigarettes and matches. Put hand holds around your bathtubs and make sure all rugs are slide-free. Never place inflammables near a gas water heater. Before winter sets in, have your heating system checked to guard against fires—or carbon monoxide poisoning. Never touch any electrical appliance with your hands in water or while on a wet floor. And keep things in their places.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Fire Insurance: "A Good Bet"?
Suppose you notice that a neighbor's children have a habit of playing with matches. Could you, if you were so inclined, take out a fire insurance policy on your neighbor's house? It would be a "good bet," because of the relatively strong chance of a fire.

But the law would not recognize such insurance, because you do not have an "insurable interest" in your neighbor's house. That is, destruction of the house would not hurt you at all. The insurance thus would be gambling, pure and simple. And, as one court said, it is "a fundamental postulate of all insurance that it must not be a mere bet."

It isn't only that the law frowns on gambling. There is another reason for requiring an insurable interest: to keep you from temptation. If you have fire insurance on a house in which you have no real stake, you might be tempted to burn it down.

Of course, you have an insurable risk in your own home. But as a rule, that interest ends when you sell the property. Take this case:

A woman sold her house, but continued to "hold over" her fire insurance. Sure enough, the house did burn down a few months later. But a court ruled that the woman could not collect on the policy.

"She suffered no loss," said the court, "because the property destroyed was not hers."

On the other hand, you may have an insurable interest in a piece of property even though you don't own it — and never did. For example:

A man took out fire insurance on a house he was occupying as a tenant under a four-year lease. When this house burned down, he demanded payment on his insurance policy—and a court upheld his claim. The judge said a leasehold, too, is a valuable property interest, an interest that fire insurance could protect.

But the tenant could collect only to the extent of his leasehold interest, not for the full value of the house. In short, fire insurance is supposed to let you come out even. It is not supposed to let you make a profit.
