ASCS NEWSLETTER

by W. M. Overton, Office Manager
The Yoakum County 1970 cotton allotment is 41,859. The cotton allotment and yield notices and ballots to vote in the cotton marketing quota referendum were mailed to Yoakum County farmers Friday, November 28th. The 1970 farm allotments have been increased approximately 6 per cent over the original 1969 allotment. The county projected yield was down approximately 11 per cent. Farmers were requested to file their production records for the 1966, 67 and 68 years. Those that did file and showed an increase in production for 3 years over the 1969 projected field received equal to their production records. The remaining farms were factored down which amounted to approximately a 13 per cent reduction. Some few adjustments were made by the County Committee. Under the 1970 program as announced there will not be any required diversion. Farmers may plant their entire effective farm allotment. The price support payment will be made on 65 per cent of the allotment, if planted. The price support payment has been increased from 14.73 cents to 16.80. This increase in price support payment with the increase in allotment will make a payment for 1970 a little larger than for 1969 with the 13 per cent reduction in yield.

The program as announced depends on the outcome of the Marketing Quota Referendum being held this week. Farmers that have not cast their ballot should deliver them to the county office in person not later than 5:00 p.m. on December 5th or mail them so that they will be postmarked not later than December 5th. Farmers should carefully read the pamphlet that was mailed with the ballots and should also carefully read the cotton allotment and yield notice.

TEXAS HIGHWAY COMMISSION

The Texas Highway Commission today approved development of 8.5 miles of Farm to Market Roads in Yoakum County as part of the 1969 Texas Farm to Market Program.

District Engineer Oscar L. Crain of the Texas Highway Department said estimated cost of the work is $266,000.00.

Work in this county includes: From US 82, SW of Plains, S. along New Mexico State Line to St. 83 W. of Denver City.

The work will be under the supervision of Carl Hart, Supervising Resident Engineer, of Brownfield, Texas.

Work authorized for this county is part of the 827.1 miles of Texas Farm and Ranch, to Market Roads earmarked for development in the new program.

The program lists 214 projects in 138 counties. Estimated total cost is $22 million.

Mileage included in the program totals 237.2 miles of new roads with an estimated cost of $10.3 million.

The remaining 589.9 miles, to be developed at an estimated cost of $11.7 million, was designated previously and is being constructed in stages.

The additional mileage brings the designated Farm and Ranch to Market Road system in Texas to 39.5 thousand miles. This is equal to 1 1/2 times the combined total of all State-maintained highways in the six New England States.

Plans call for an eventual RM-FM system of 50 thousand miles. Originally conceived to "get the farmer out of the mud," the network has contributed to the economic and social well being of millions of rural Texans.

For example, 127.5 miles of 54 per cent of the new mileage added in the program announced today is on school bus routes. Fifty per cent or 118.3 miles are on rural mail delivery routes.

Not just the rural residents of the State have benefited from the system, however. The Farm to Market system is equally a "market to farm" system, serving as the framework for distribution of manufactured goods and supplies moving from commercial and industrial centers throughout the State.

In recent years, the FM-RM system has assumed a new major role. A Texas Highway Department study shows that some 2,022 miles of FM-RM roads are used primarily or partially to provide access to 163 water reservoirs throughout Texas.

Roads on the FM system have opened up new vistas and recreational opportunities to everyone. One third of the 6.9 thousand miles included in the Texas Travel Trails are FM Roads.

FERTILIZING NEXT YEAR'S CROP

by Leo L. White, CAA
Now is the time to plan the fertilizer program to be used on the 1970 crop of cotton and grain sorghum. Use a soil test to determine the amount of plant food to be added on each particular field and set a target date for application. The application date is almost as important as the rate and the mixture used.

According to a recent report from Jim Valentine, area Extension soil chemist at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock, nitrogen fertilizer materials can be watered if applied too early. Re-

CAR AND PICKUP COLLIDE AT INTERSECTION

Converging highways are often confusing and when traffic laws are not strictly observed they are a sure source of accidents. Such was the case at the junction of Highways 380 and 82 Tuesday at 3:15 p.m. when a 1968 Buick car traveling east on Highway 380 and a Ford pickup traveling east on Highway 82 collided at the intersection of Ave. B on the west side of Plains. As M. P. Salinas, field serviceman for Ideal Derrick Service of Odessa, Texas, approached the intersection he found himself confronted with the pickup driven by Tom Purdon of Plains. According to reports of eyewitnesses, Purdon had attempted to execute a left turn from the Highway 380 traffic lane north into Avenue "B".

As the right front fender came in contact with the pickup on the left side slightly forward of the door, the car was turned to the north. According to witnesses both vehicles came to a stop in the center of the intersection, a few feet east of the median of Highway 380. A few moments later, Purdon drove the pickup one block north where he resides.

Aside from a bruised knee suffered by Salinas, no injuries were reported. Both vehicles left the scene of the accident on their own power. Damage to the pickup appeared to be light, while the Buick suffered a badly mangled right front fender and dented right side. The car was a company.

Deputy Sheriff Bob McDonnell investigated the accident and Purdon was taken into custody. No estimate of the damage was expressed by the deputy.

Mr. Salinas was returning from Ideal Derrick Service where he had been called by the FWA drilling company of Midland, Texas, to the scene of a drilling accident at their rig 20 miles northwest of Crossroads, New Mexico. He reported that at about 8:00 a.m. the driller had run the traveling block into the crown. The drilling line had been severed and the blocks fell to the floor. In the fall the blocks hit the racking board on which the derrickman was working, killing the man and tearing the racking board from the derrick. A brother of the derrickman who was working on the floor was seriously injured.

Mr. Salinas said that the damaged derrick would have to be replaced before drilling operations were resumed. The names of the individuals connected with the accident were unknown at the time the accident was reported.

After investigating the tragic rig accident, Mr. Salinas felt that the traffic accident at Plains was a little more than a man deserved in one day's work.

longing to Joe Pierce of Plains had caught fire under the dash. The fire was extinguished but considerable damage was sustained.

Sunday at 3:00 p.m. the department answered a call at the Jim Warren farm and miles west of Plains on the Lovington Highway, where a cotton trailer was on fire. It was reported that the trailer and most of the cotton was saved.

The Plains Volunteers do an excellent job. They play a very important part in the health and welfare of the Plains community. However, they are handicapped by a lack of members who live and work within the city in the day time. The present membership consists primarily of men who live in Plains, but are employed out of town during their working hours.

The Department is badly in need of new members and anyone caring to have the responsibility of fire protection in the community will be heartily welcomed.

WEATHER REPORT

While light precipitation hindered the cotton harvest the first two days of this week's weather, no damage was reported and the interference did aid the ginners in that it helped to unload some of the much needed cotton trailers. The balance of the week was favorable harvest weather.

Temperatures for the week were:

High----- 68°
High Average----- 56°
Low----- 19°
Low Average----- 24°
Precipitation----- .18 in.

PLAINS VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT

TSA MO GA

Members of the Tsa Mo Ga Club will hold their regular meeting in the home of Mrs. C. C. Perkins on Monday evening, December 8th, at 8:00 o'clock p.m. Mrs. Joe Henry Thompson and Mrs. A. B. Carpenter will be co-hostesses with Mrs. Perkins.

A Christmas Program will be enjoyed with Mrs. Joe Henry Thompson as Program Director.

Roll call to be answered with "One of my Favorite Christmas Customs". Mrs. Edmund Vickers will read "This Was Christmas" by Jesse Mae Coker. Rev. Jim Mosley, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will bring the Christmas Message. The program will close with a song fest of carols.

WORKERS

A frightened mother rushes a child with a temperature of 103 degrees to a hospital emergency room.

But care must be delayed because the doctor is stitching up a cut head and the nurse on duty is looking after four other patients.

This is not an isolated incident. Such cases are frequent in hospitals across the state.

HOME ON FURLOUGH

Sgt. David Lusk, who has been stationed at McChord Air Force Base, Washington the past year is home on furlough. Sgt. Lusk is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John McConnell, editor and publisher of the Plains Review. After a furlough that will extend through the Yule Season, David will attend training school at Enlin AFB in Florida. On completion of this course he will return to Vietnam, where he previously served a one year tour with the 309th Special Operations Squadron.

David is happy to be home again and enjoy the opportunity to visit with old friends and relatives. His presence in the home for the Christmas season affords a great pleasure to his parents.

CHRISTMAS LIGHTING CONTEST TO BE JUDGED DEC. 18

The judging of the home Christmas decorations sponsored by the civic clubs of the city will be under the auspices of the local Lions Club. The judging will take place December 18th. The prizes to be awarded are: 1st place - $25, 2nd place - $15, and 3rd place - $10.

According to the rules of the contest, this year no entry is necessary. All homes decorated will be considered as entries. All will be in the same category and the judging will be based on uniqueness, imagination and originality rather than on the amount of lighting.

Anyone residing outside of the city limits and wishing to be in the contest is asked to notify Mr. Cordell Huddleston, Lions President, prior to the judging date.

Remember that if you decorate you are in this contest. The judges will drive about the town and all lighting will be considered.

MESA DISTRICT BANQUET HELD AT LAMESA

Members of the Plains FFA Chapter attended the Mesa District Banquet Monday night. Those attending were James Stewart and Rolan Taylor as voting delegates, Gail Ancinec, FFA Sweetheart, Wayne Wasson, escort, Floyd Gossett, FFA Advisor, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ancinec, Gail's parents.

Gail represented the Chapter very well. The FFA Chapter is very proud of their Sweetheart for the 1969-70 year.

FINAL ANNUAL SALE

The 1970 COWBOY ANNUAL will go on sale December 8-12. An annual staff member will be in each of the three school buildings each morning before school. Annuals are $5.20. This will be the final sale of the year. If you have not purchased an annual and wish to do so, this will be your last chance.

BAND BOOSTERS NEWS

The Band Boosters had their monthly meeting Monday night. There was 17 members present. The Projects Committee gave a report on the sale of Fruitcakes, which has been going real well. We will have another order in by the first of next week. If you are still needing one please contact one of the Band Boosters. We will have a table set up in the Post Office one day soon. We have had several orders which we are grateful for. It speaks well of the Product. So if you are still in doubt just contact someone that has already served one. They are delicious!

Mr. Sech gave us a report on Band Camp. The date for this is August 2, 1970. The buses will leave then and return the following Sunday, August 9th. The camp will be at Highlands University in Las Vegas, New Mexico. Sponsors will be some of the School Faculty. He gave us a list of the activities that he has planned for them each day. He has encouraged each of us to encourage our children to make this an outstanding camp. To be sure and plan to attend, because there will be much to learn. There will be a woodwind man and a percussion man to go. These men are from Texas Tech. He will be glad to answer any questions you might have. Also he will get a letter to the parents before school is out, so you will have plenty of time to make these arrangements.

The next meeting will be January 5th. Mark your calendars and make plans to attend. Thanks again for buying the Fruitcakes.

OUTSTANDING YOUNG WOMEN OF AMERICA

EDITORIALS

Billy Kennedy and John Camp were busy this week erecting the Christmas decorations on the streets of Plains. After viewing the decorations in surrounding towns, the Plains decorations appear to be a bit meager. While exorbitant decorating often obscures the view of traffic lights and signs, too little could portray the lack of prosperity in the community. Numerous individuals have expressed their desire for new and more extensive decorations for the City of Plains. While it may be late to improve the condition this season it surely should not be overlooked before another year rolls around. The pride of any city is vitally important to its prosperity.

ADVERTISING MISLEADING

From the flood of advertising that is flowing into town these days by box-holder, hand bill and daily newspaper inserts it would appear that out of town merchants were of the opinion that without their aid Plains would be devoid of a Christmas.

The big drive on the Plains market that has been in progress for several weeks completely ignores the existence of the businesses in Plains. They also under rate the intelligence of the people who live here, when they offer a great discount on a few articles with bold type for a come-on, then hit the buyer with exorbitant prices when they arrive at the market place.

Folks should realize that such come-ons as, "Just Say Charge It", are misleading and only apply to folks with established credit. Those who check with their local merchants before spending their precious time and car expense to travel to these mystical dream worlds, will find they have saved in the long run.

INFLATION

Inflation becomes a stark reality when it affects such little homelies as a friendly chat over a cup of coffee. Remember the furor that was raised when the price of a cup rose from 5¢ to 10¢? Well it soon will be 15¢.

It doesn't sound as if any cut backs or controls were in store for the near future. No wonder folks are wondering about the old campaign promises.

Sudie Thompson Says.....

Shopping for a Christmas tree always is exciting. First, you decide where you're going to put the tree and what size it should be. Will a tall, stately fir look good in the livingroom or should you get a shorter fuller tree like pine and put it in the family room?

Choose the spot carefully, because a Christmas tree should not be near a fireplace, radiator, television set, or other source of heat. Then with the perfect spot picked out and the size of the tree figured, you can decide about the kind of tree you want.

Scotch pine, a fast-growing tree that holds up well through the holiday season, is about the most popular Christmas tree. Most varieties of Scotch pine have bushy branches and long needles (up to 3 inches) like most other pine trees. Douglas fir, which has short, soft needles that are attached all around the twig, is second on the list of favorites. Balsam fir has short, rather rounded needles and twigs that grow at right angles to the branches so they look like crosses. Eastern redcedar, a relative of the juniper tree, looks graceful and feathery, with its small, scale-like leaves. Red or Norway pine, with slender needles 5 to 6 inches long, is the fifth favorite Christmas tree. The symmetrical spruce trees with their short, rather stiff needles, are also popular in many areas.

Whichever kind of tree you choose, your next decision is probably when to buy it. Specialists say your Christmas tree will probably keep fresher longer if you buy it early and keep it in water, even if you don't want to decorate it right away.

When you get the tree home, saw about one-half inch off the bottom so it will absorb water. If you buy the tree early, keep it in a bucket of water in a cool, shady place, preferably outside, and saw another half-inch off the butt when you put the tree in a stand. Use a stand that holds water and keep water in the stand all the time the tree is up.

You'll have a tree you'll enjoy throughout the holidays if you choose it carefully and keep it fresh.

Now for the big decision on the Christmas tree lot! Which tree looks best? USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service has developed U. S. grades for Christmas trees, as for most other agricultural products, to describe different levels of quality. The grades for Christmas trees--U. S. Premium (top quality), U. S. No. 1, and U. S. No. 2--are based on shape, density, freshness, and cleanliness of the tree and an absence of defects. While the grades are used mainly in wholesale trading, you may sometimes find trees tagged with the U. S. grade.

But if you don't, here are some things to keep in mind when you select your tree:

*To be sure it's fresh, rap the base of the tree on the ground. If many needles drop off, the tree is too dry.

*Look over the tree in an open space with good lighting (daylight, if possible) so you can check its shape.

*Don't forget to look for crooks in the trunk or large bare spaces between branches.

*If you use a star or angel on top of the tree, you'll want to be sure to have a strong single leader at the top.

When you get the tree home, saw about one-half inch off the bottom so it will absorb water. If you buy the tree early, keep it in a bucket of water in a cool, shady place, preferably outside, and saw another half-inch off the butt when you put the tree in a stand. Use a stand that holds water and keep water in the stand all the time the tree is up.

You'll have a tree you'll enjoy throughout the holidays if you choose it carefully and keep it fresh.

The Methodist Church held services, on their regular Sunday in November, at the Plains Nursing Home. A very large crowd attended from the church. The patients thoroughly enjoyed these Sunday evening services given by the different churches here in Plains.

Conservation Cropping System means many things. In this picture we see cotton planted 2 in. and out then over seeded with small grain and plowed to cover the seed. Planting was done in late August this year. You can see the good growth of the small grain and the protection it is giving the cotton by holding the soil the cotton will not be off color, thereby a better grade. This good conservation farming is being done on the Bill Moore farm East of Denver City.

of the Year Award. Katharine Elkus White, former U. S. Ambassador to Denmark, said of the women honored in the 1968 addition, "You should be complimented upon your achievements, because you must constantly strive to reach your goals, and along the way you are forced to overcome many obstacles. You have not lost the pioneer spirit, the urge to succeed that forged our country and made our Nation a World Leader."

Outstanding Young Women of America was conceived by the leaders of the nation's women's clubs. They felt that young women who give their time for community projects should be recognized. The recognition of these outstanding young women can serve to inspire others to give their time to additional civic responsibilities.

Guidelines for selection include unselfish service to others, charitable activities, community service, professional excellence, business advancement and civic and professional recognition.

ese days. And the same is true of other institutions charged with providing direct or indirect health care and services -- clinics, doctors' and dentists' offices, laboratories and agencies.

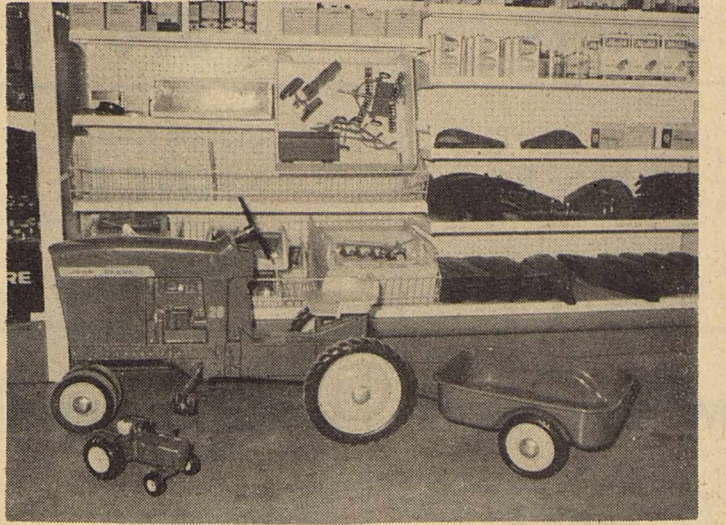

The reason? A growing lack of workers in all areas of the health field -- a dearth that leads O. Ray Hurst, executive vice president of the Texas Hospital Association to comment, "The shortage is no longer critical. It's catastrophic."

The severity of the shortage is contained in an extensive survey conducted last spring by the hospital association in cooperation with the State and numerous health associations. This report has been made available in booklet form to health planning agencies and associations.

While it has long been suspected that health personnel are in short shrift, the survey is the first effort to pinpoint the number of workers needed in Texas -- and where.

Surveyed were all major allied health personnel employers, including federal and state agencies, junior and senior colleges, local health units, hospitals, nursing homes and laboratories qualified for Medicare payments, as well as doctors, dentists and podiatrists.

In carrying out the research a total of 21,321 questionnaires were mailed out. Of that number, 57.44 per cent were answered and sent back, which is considered an excellent return for this type of sampling.

Briefly, the study shows that while 158,198 personnel, excluding doctors, are at work in the health fields at the present time, openings are available for an additional 8,863 people.

In reality, however, the figure is nearer 20,000, contends Bob Jones, assistant director of the hospital association's health careers program.

The questionnaire, he explains, calls upon employers to list not only full- and part-time personnel but also the number of "budgeted vacancies". In other words, if a hospital administrator knows he cannot possibly find the 10 nurses he needs he may request only the number he can realistically expect to employ.

In addition, doctors in private practice do not always operate on a formal budget and, therefore, do not have "budgeted vacancies."

Figures also do not include openings in public schools, industry and private laboratories, along with lesser employment categories. As a result, Jones labels survey figures as "extremely conservative."

Hardest hit by the shortage, according to the survey, are hospitals and related institutions, which accounted for 61.20 per cent of all budgeted vacancies. The greatest need for workers, the survey reveals, is in the field of nursing, in which approximately 4,700 jobs are now open for registered nurses, licensed vocational nurses, aides and orderlies.

Also desperately needed are medical technologists and technicians, x-ray technologists, social workers, inhalation therapists, pharmacists, speech pathologists and physical and occupation therapists.

The current shortage is minimal, however, the survey points out, compared to the needs of the future. Unless ways are found to train more personnel, demands for workers will become inestimable as populations increase, new technology emerges and better methods of health care delivery develop.

But what's to be done? The solution lies in not one but several directions, the survey contends.

For one thing, the survey calls for greater cooperation between health institutions and agencies in the establishment of new recruitment and training programs to meet short- and long-range demands for personnel.

Existing recruitment efforts should be redoubled, the survey notes, with greater emphasis on attracting members of ethnic groups into the health fields.

In establishment of new training programs, the survey states, curriculums should be designed so that graduates have a common level of knowledge. Training also should be planned to provide lateral and vertical mobility.

The survey also calls for financial assistance to private institutions with programs for training allied health personnel.

Funds for carrying out the hospital association study were from the Texas Hospital Education and Research Foundation and the Texas Education Agency.
