Dr. Chudleigh Announces Office Hours At Plains Clinic

Dr. James Chudleigh of Denver City has announced plans to conduct office hours in Plains Medical Clinic beginning Monday, Dec. 10 at 8 a.m. Initially, plans are for the doctor to be in Plains from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Hours will be expanded if the need develops, the doctor states.

Ed Rogers, Yoakum County Hospital administrator, announced that Dr. Chudleigh moved to Yoakum County in August because he and his wife wanted to raise their children in a rural community. The people, schools, medical facilities and dry climate were mentioned as factors in their decision.

Dr. Chudleigh moved from the Houston area where he was in practice

10 years. He trained at Scott & White in Temple. His family practice includes delivering babies, minor surgery and weight control. He enjoys seeing patients of all ages.

"If you have any medical problem, your family doctor is the best place to start," he says.

Anyone wishing to make an appointment should call Plains Medical Clinic.

Rodgers expressed appreciation to County Judge Dallas Brewer and Commissioners Fitzgerald and Barron for encouragement and assistance. "These gentlemen made this effort a pleasure. We all feel this will benefit both Plains and the County," he says.

Jo Lena Powell Among 4-H'ers Honored At Lubbock Banquet

Jo Lena Powell, Yoakum County's Gold Star 4-H member was among 29 outstanding 4-H members across the South Plains honored recently at the District Gold Star Banquet in Lubbock.

Attending with Miss Powell were her parents, Ty and Linda Powell, and Judge and Mrs. Dallas Brewer, Commissioner and Mrs. John Avara, Commissioner and Mrs. Bob Thurston, Commissioner and Mrs. Jim Barron, Commissioner and Mrs. Johnnie Fitzgerald, Barbara Thrash, Mary Dale Williams and Kirk Lewis, County Extension Agents.

Dr. James Wild of Texas A&M University challenged his young listeners to stretch their horizons and continue to develop talents for service to their communities and the world.

Mistress of ceremonies was Suzanne Cain of Lamb County, president of South Plains 4-H Council. Kip Huffan of Lubbock County spoke the invocation. Welcome was given by Charles Castleberry, general manager of Swisher Electric Cooperative. Response was by Charlie Buasby of Scurry County.

The event is sponsored annually by 12 area electric cooperatives of Bailey County, Caprock, Deaf Smith, Dickens, Lamb County, Lea County, Lighthouse, Lone Wolf, Lyntegar, Midwest, South Plains and Swisher.

Awards were presented by Dr. Kathy Volanty and Dr. Bob Robinson, Extension Service district directors. Recipients were introduced by 4-H'ers Pattie Shepard of Hale County and Stephanie Evitt of Lubbock County.

Calling this a time of celebration for the award winners' accomplishments, Wild also told the youths it was a time of greatest opportunity ever for young people. He noted agriculture is playing vital roles in such uncommon areas as human medical research, space technology and international policy.

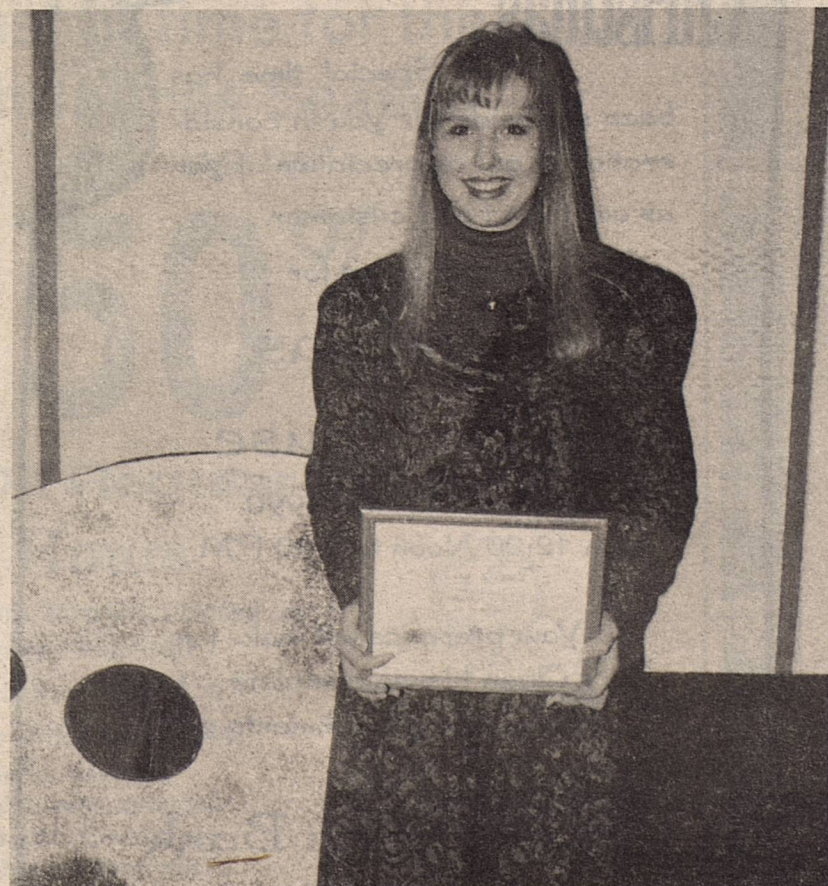

"Young people that come from your background only have one major fault," he told the youth. "You don't realize how much capability, how much potential impact you have."

He listed five characteristics for success in the future: 1) Have a Can-Do attitude. 2) Go out with an expertise in something specific that's important to people. 3) Have established leadership skills. 4) Have social obligations and a social courage to stand up for what's right. 5) Have the ability to work hard, whether or not anyone knows you are working.

LETTER TO EDITOR

During this holiday season, I have good reason to be thankful. I am recuperating from surgery, with my recovery being aided by generous gifts of flowers, green plants, scented baskets, cards, food, candy and loungewear. The new year will mark the beginning of my second term as Criminal District Attorney. I am blessed with a wonderful staff, and they have served us all very well while I have been out of the office. Thanks, Linda, Judi and Marcella!

I will forever be indebted to Sheriff Jim Rice and Chief Joe Hester and their employees for the support my office always receives, and for their good work throughout the year which contributes to the quality of our lives in Yoakum County. They, too, have been especially helpful and considerate during my recuperation.

There are also some very special county officials and county employees in Plains and Denver City who work closely with us throughout the year. Their friendship and support are appreciated. This group certainly includes the hardworking personnel at the probation department!

Finally, there are the people of Yoakum County. You have supported your law enforcement community as witnesses, trial jurors, grand jurors, and as voters. I am grateful for your continued support, and send you all warm wishes for a happy holiday season and a prosperous and peaceful New Year.

Sincerely,
Linda Lowrey

Former City Employee Receives 10-Year Probation

Former city employee Gracie Lazos was sentenced Monday afternoon to a ten-year probationary sentence and $500 fine. Handing down the sentence was District Judge Ray Anderson, after Mrs. Lazos entered a plea of guilty to the charge of stealing more than $750 as a public servant.

Mrs. Lazos was indicted last March for stealing more than $20,000 in city funds. The charge, a second-degree felony, could have earned her a maximum sentence of 20 years in prison and $10,000 fine, according to Linda Lowrey, District Attorney.

A second charge of theft of more than $20,000 by a public servant was dismissed as part of a plea bargain agreement between Mrs. Lowrey and Sam Ogan, Lubbock attorney representing Mrs. Lazos.

Mrs. Lazos will appear before Judge Anderson Jan. 7 to learn how much restitution she must make to the city.

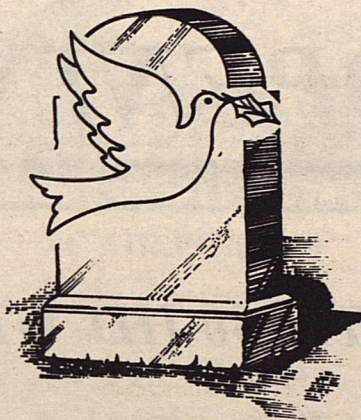

A clerk for the city for nine years, Mrs. Lazos was indicted by a Yoakum County jury March 2 on 34 counts of theft of more than $20,000. Indictments stemmed from an investigation made last January after city officials learned that the city's bank account in Plains State Bank was overdrawn by a large sum. The investigation revealed that Mrs. Lazos apparently forged a bank teller's initials on deposit slips on a number of occasions and kept the money.

District Attorney Lowrey stated, I very reluctantly agreed to a probated plea. She has no criminal record. Probation is the best avenue of repayment." She stated that none of the money taken by Mrs. Lazos has been returned to the city as yet.

The dismissed charge, she stated, depended "more on circumstantial evidence as proof" while more evidence existed on the charge to which Mrs. Lazos pleaded guilty.
