State Treasurer Says 'Vote Yes On 8'

Would you buy a home without knowing what it looks like, how much it costs and how long it's going to take to pay off your mortgage?

Of course not! The same common sense guidelines and requirements that apply to buying a home, a car - or anything for that matter - should apply to state government when it comes to authorizing debt.

For that reason, I am vigorously endorsing passage of Proposition 8 on the Nov. 5 constitutional amendment election ballot. Passage of this amendment would ensure that future ballot propositions calling for the issuance of state-backed bonds clearly state the amount of the issue, the purpose for which the money will be used and the method and source of repayment.

Proposition 8, which I call the 'truth in advertising' proposal, is a major step in the direction of good government. Texans deserve no less from their elected representatives than what Proposition 8 would require.

As state treasurer, I have pushed for a state debt policy and have made debt management one of my top priorities. At the heart of this policy is fostering a relationship of honesty and integrity with Texas voters.

Under the current system, Texans are asked over and over again to approve huge amounts of debt without knowing how much it is, what it's for and how it will be repaid.

A classic example of this took place on Aug. 10 when voters were presented with a constitutional amendment that would have authorized the issuance of general obligation bonds to provide educational loans for students.

This statewide proposition, which would have provided low-interest college loans for students to attend our colleges and universities, did not reveal the amount of bonds voters were being asked to consider. The amount was up to $300 million.

I am convinced this proposition was rejected in August because the ballot language was confusing, the amount was not stated and voters ultimately were skeptical about what they were being asked to approve.

This same amendment, Proposition 13, will be reconsidered by voters in the Nov. 5 election. This time the amount of the bonds will be clearly stated. I favor the issuance of these state bonds to fund the Hinson-Hazelwood College Student Loan Program. Beginning in 1993, the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board says the entire program, including administrative costs, will be self-supporting.

This is not a new issue. Two years ago, voters approved nearly $2 billion in state debt under the same confusing circumstances.

In that 1989 constitutional amendment election, one proposition read, "The constitutional amendment authorizing the Legislature to provide for the recovery and further development of the state's economy, with goals of increasing job opportunities and other benefits for Texas residents, through state financing of the development and production of Texas products and businesses."

That proposition's passage led to the authorization of $75 million in state debt.

On Nov. 5, we have the opportunity to make it mandatory that all future debt-authorizing measures be stated in plain English.

Passage of Proposition 8 will ensure that we never again are asked to by the State Legislature to support the issuance of state debt without knowing its future costs and from what source it will be paid. It would place the state under the same standards that now apply to local government entities.

Passage of Proposition 8 will help solve part of the problem Texas voters have faced in the past. But even with this policy in place, there still needs to be legislative leadership to assure that all ballot propositions - not just debt issues - be stated clearly.

It is imperative that we take this first step in the direction of good government and public policy by supporting and voting for Proposition 8. The outcome of this proposition and the other 12 issues on the Nov. 5 ballot could have a tremendous impact on the future of Texas.

Editor's Note: The following poem, which has been printed in previous years, was submitted by a reader with the admonition: "It applies to our volleyball girls, too."

He's Only a Boy
Please, don't curse the boy down there,
He is my son you see,
He's only just a boy you know
He means a lot to me.
I didn't raise my son, dear fan
For you to call him names,
He may not be a super-star
It's just a high school game.
So, please don't curse those boys down
there,
They do the best they can
They never tried to lose a game
They're boys and you're a man.
The game belongs to them you see,
You are just a guest,
They do not need a fan like you,
They need the very best,
If you have nothing nice to say,
Please leave the boys alone.
And if you have no manners,
Why don't you just stay home.
So, please don't curse those boys down
there
Each one's his parents son
Win, or lose, or tie, you see
To us they're NUMBER ONE.

ABOVE GROUND PRECAUTIONS FOR UNDERGROUND SERVICE

Transformers, junction boxes and meter pedestals for underground power lines are almost always installed above ground. Unless you are digging, trenching or drilling, you are not likely to come into contact with the buried conductor - except where it enters an aboveground enclosure.

AVOID UNWANTED CONTACT WITH UNDERGROUND POWER:

- Make sure that all transformer enclosures are kept locked - and alert your electric utility when they are not!
- Never allow children to play on or near enclosures or other electrical facilities.
- Don't allow garbage cans, junk or wood piles to be stacked on or near enclosures.
- Don't allow construction of fences or outbuilding to contact enclosures or to restrict access to them.
- Immediately report any damage to enclosure structures or foundations to your electric utility.
- Never assume that an enclosure is safe to touch - some damage may cause metal cabinets to become energized and dangerous.

CAUTION: Always call your electric utility before digging.

Go Cowboys!!

Plains Junior Varsity traveled to O'Donnell to take on the Eagles for the second time this year.

The Cowboys started the game kicking off to O'Donnell. They held the Eagles on downs and took over at O'Donnell's 45 yard line. Ladd Winn threw a long pass to Shannon Ward, who made a spectacular catch on the two yard line. David Bitolas carried the ball into the end zone from there with 4:41 left in the first quarter. The two point conversion try was no good.

O'Donnell was unable to move the ball after receiving the kick and had to punt. Brad McMinn blocked the punt and Plains took over at the 10 yard line. A holding call moved the ball out to the 20. The Cowboys were not able to capitalize on the turnover and O'Donnell takes over as the quarter ends.

The Eagles mount a scoring drive late in the second quarter. They scored on a five yard run. The extra point was no good.

The Cowboys quickly moved the ball down the field on runs by Bitolas and two passes to McMinn for six and 18 yards. The clock ran out on Plains leaving the halftime score 6-6.

The third quarter was a seesaw battle with neither team scoring.

O'Donnell scored on a 25 yard run with just two minutes left in the game. The extra point try failed.

With great determination, the Cowboys took the kickoff. They started at their own 34 yard line. Winn's pass to Ward was good for 10 yards. Winn's next pass is caught at O'Donnell's 10 by Ward. Winn once again found Ward, even though the ball was tipped, he managed to catch the ball and score with 32 seconds left on the clock. Winn kicked the extra point to put the Cowboys ahead. The Eagles were unable to move the ball and Plains regained possession with two seconds left in the game. The final score was Plains 13, O'Donnell 12.

Patriotism Is Program Theme For Tsa Mo Ga Study Club Meet

Dolores Davis directed a program on "Patriotism" for members and guests of Tsa Mo Ga Study Club Monday evening.

She showed a film on American Patriotism music, detailing the history of "Yankee Doodle" and the use of music in the military. "Hail Columbia" was the first song words and music to be written by an American.

"Star Spangled Banner" was inspired by the battle at Fort McHenry and was adopted as the National Anthem in 1931. Written in 1832, "My Country Tis of Thee" has been sung to inspire patriotism from the Spanish-American War through World War II. "Battle Hymn of the Republic" was the rallying song of the Union Army during the Civil War and "Dixie" became the patriotic song of the Southern Army during that war.

Katherine Lee Bates penned "America, the Beautiful" in 1895 after a trip to the summit of Pike's Peak.

Sit Jones gave a reading of a speech by Gen. H. Norman Swarthopf to the joint session of Congress May 7, 1991 after the successful completion of Operation Desert Storm.

Several members presented a skit based on Roger Simon's recent newspaper column on the method used to select Supreme Court Justices.

Club members urge every registered voter to exercise his or her privilege of voting in the Nov. 5 amendment election.

Kathy Jones, hostess, served cheese and crackers, apple pie and ice cream.

Next meeting will be at 7 p.m. Nov. 11 for a program directed by Helen Hunter and Betty Rushing on "The Constitution: The Words We Live By".
