HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Effects of the big hail storm which hit Winters Sunday afternoon, March 10, may be felt much longer than many of us had anticipated. Not just the repair work which was made necessary because of the hail—a big part of the work of repairing or replacing roofs has been completed, or will be completed within the next few weeks.

The most serious effect—and a hazard—facing us now, and one which is likely to face us for some time to come, will be the ROOFING NAILS which have been scattered around and can create a serious problem. Already there have been reports of flat tires caused by these roof nails; this writer can testify to at least two flats laid to the nails. Automobile tires have picked them up on drive-ways, one the streets and alleys. It is somewhat of a problem.

Now most every automobile owner can take a flat tire or two in stride—even though it is exasperating.

Flats can be fixed!

What we are talking about is the hazard created when ROOFING NAILS ARE LEFT LYING IN THE GRASS AROUND THE HOMES WHICH WERE RE-ROOFED! And it happens, no matter how careful workmen proceed. We had to re-roof our house . . . and raking in the grass afterward along only one side of the house uncovered A TWO-POUND COFFEE CAN FULL OF ROOFING NAILS! And this is only one instance; multiply this by the many homes which have been re-roofed within the past few days, and you'll come up with a big load of roofing nails!

These nails, left lying in the grass around a home, can cause all sorts of problems. With spring and summer coming on, youngsters will be out playing in force—barefooted. (Although when stepped on just right, one of these nails can penetrate a leather-soled shoe!) There's liable to be a swarm of limping kids, and a run on tetanus injections if we're not awfully careful.

The possibility of someone being injured from stepping on one of these nails in the grass is just a small part of the hazard, however. Lawn mowers are going to be out before long; then the danger will become actually worse. Because the whirring blades of a power rotary mower can pick up these nails from the grass, and throw them like bullets! Whatever they hit they're going to penetrate, too. And the marks they make are going to be beyond description, if some of them should strike some person. Such a missile would leave a terrible wound, perhaps worse than a dum-dum bullet.

So it would be a pretty good idea for all of us to make a thorough inspection of our yards after a roof is repaired. And we should look thoroughly thru the grass around our homes—the nails we see are not really the dangerous ones—it's those lying hidden in the grass that can cause the damage. Else we may be in for tragedy later on.

From The Fort Worth Star-Telegram:

One of the lessons to be learned from Lyndon Johnson's bomb shell announcement is that the office of the President had become virtually untenable in the climate of malignity that had begun to envelop the country. Viciousness was becoming fashionable, with a good deal of it centered on the occupants of the White House.

The spirit of the times has been described as angry, confused and mean, and this spirit contributed to President Johnson's stunning decision not to seek another term.

The spirit of meanness was nurtured by the sick joke turned vicious, as exemplified by the malevolent slogans hurled like harpoons at the President and his family. To any who are pleased by the thought that these barbarous epithets helped speed Mr. Johnson "back where he came from," we would offer this comment:

Ben Barnes Raps Ugly Dissenters

The irresponsible words and actions of a few people, so-called "dissenters," many of whom are in responsible positions, presents "the greatest internal threat to the security of the United States since the Civil War," Texas House Speaker Ben Barnes told a crowd of about 230 people Tuesday night at Winters during an appreciation dinner in his honor. When elected officials stoop to attempt to "destroy the prestige and honor of the office of the Presidency of the United States," he continued, "we are headed in the wrong direction."

Further, the candidate for Lieutenant Governor said, "If we don't unite" in a common cause for the future good of the nation, our children may not be permitted the opportunity to participate in any form of self-government. Speaker Barnes wound up a tour of the district he represents in the State House of Representatives, with the appreciation day dinner in Winters. He had started the day in the eastern part of his district—the 64th— with breakfast and coffee and luncheons in his honor. He was the guest of honor at a luncheon in Brownwood, then visited in Coleman and Ballinger, before reaching Winters.

He said that he had long planned to make this trip to this district "to come home and see all my friends and the people who have been kind to me." The Ben Barnes Appreciation Day dinner was planned by a group of Winters and Runnels County residents, and was attended by many people from all over the 64th District and from surrounding counties.

During his talk at the dinner Tuesday night, Speaker Barnes remarked that this was the only time he had had the opportunity to be the "keynote speaker" at an affair in his honor. Previous plans had been made for Hal Woodward of Coleman, chairman of the State Highway Commission, to be the "keynote" speaker, but Woodward was called out of state at the last moment and was unable to attend. Arrangements then were made to have Representative Gene Hendrix of Alpine to fill in; but weather conditions prevented him from flying into Winters Tuesday.

During the course of the evening's program, Rep. Hendrix called long distance on a special telephone hookup provided by General Telephone, and his phone call was broadcast by loudspeaker to the dinner crowd. He apologized for not being able to attend the affair, and thanked the crowd for being on hand to help "my friend and colleague."

Also telephoning during the evening was a Congressman Omar Burleson. He said he regretted not being able to attend the dinner, but praised the past performances of the youthful Speaker of the Texas House and the "next Lieutenant Governor." Cong. Burleson said President Johnson sent his best wishes and would have called but was tied up in a meeting. The Speaker's wife, Martha, had planned to join her husband Monday on the tour of his home district, but weather conditions grounded her plane at Austin. However, she was determined to attend the Winters celebration, and after several setbacks was flown in to Abilene late Tuesday afternoon, and then drove to Winters. Somewhere enroute her luggage was misplaced, but that fact did not prevent her from attending the dinner. The Speaker left Winters late Tuesday night for Dallas where he was to attend a rally Wednesday morning.

In his unprepared speech Tuesday night, Speaker Barnes said that President Johnson's decision not to run for re-election "will go down in history as one of the greatest decisions made by a president. Whether this president had been a Republican, Democrat, or some other party does not make any difference," he said. "President Johnson's decision has hopefully been a step in healing the split seen throughout our country, and has raised the esteem of the office of the presidency by setting that office above politics."

"Unity" is the greatest resource of the United States, the Speaker said. United, the country will survive; divided, it will not, he said. "I hope that President Johnson's decision" has given us one thing that our country has been missing for a number of years—a dose of old-fashioned patriotism," he said.

Following Speaker Barnes' talk, Runnels County Judge W. H. Rampe presented him with a leather-bound book with the names of all those who attended the banquet. The master of ceremonies, the Rev. Edward H. Otwell, presented the Speaker with a check with the proceeds of the $5 a plate dinner, to be used in his campaign for Lieutenant Governor.

Miss Nan Bryan, Editor Overseas Weekly, Visits Here

Miss Nan Bryan, editor of the Overseas Weekly for Asia based in Saigon, Viet Nam, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bryan in San Angelo. She also visited Sunday last week in Winters, in the home of her aunt, Mrs. Earl Roach and Mr. Roach.

Miss Bryan has held the post of editor for the weekly since October 1966, after she transferred from a similar position in Germany. Her first assignment was to establish the Asian edition of the weekly. She and one other reporter travel to troop areas gathering material for the military newspaper.

The weekly is strictly a GI paper with some state-side columns on entertainment, sports and politics, but no wire services. Features on outstanding soldiers and combat stories comprise most of the material, though court martial reports are included.

Miss Bryan covers court martials because it is considered a service to the military community. She is a former Standard-Times woman's editor in San Angelo.

She wears military fatigues and travels by military aircraft (helicopters and C130 transports) to outlying troop areas, gathering material for the military newspaper.

Miss Bryan was in Saigon when the Tet offensive began and saw the devastation to the city of the full scale attack by the Viet Cong troops.

He received the Purple Heart, Bronze Star, and Presidential Air Medal for participating in more than 25 aerial missions over hostile territory. The Sergeant also was awarded the Army Commendation Medal for Heroism, citation for which stated that "In September, 1967, Sgt. Dyess' quick action saved the life of a wounded comrade who was lying exposed to enemy fire."

While on leave, Sgt. and Mrs. Dyess have visited friends and relatives in Bronte, Norton, Iraan, Winters, Killen and Stephenville. He left last week for Fort Campbell, Ken., where he will finish his Army tour. Mrs. Dyess was to leave April 5 for Kentucky.

Cigarettes And Guns Taken In Triple J Break-In

For the fifth time in 15 years, burglars broke into Buck Matthews' Triple J Store on North Main Street Saturday night.

This latest haul by persons unknown, perhaps was the biggest of all the burglaries. Matthews said at least $400 in merchandise was taken Saturday night, and the total probably would be more than that because much canned goods could have been taken and there is no way of making a complete count.

Matthews said 100 cartons of cigarettes were taken in this break-in. "They took all the cigarettes in the store," he said, "even the packages in the racks." In addition, the burglars took a shotgun and a .22 rifle—and a case of 22 rifle shells. They also took the money from a soft drink vending machine—"around $8," he estimated. They also rifled the safe and desk, probably looking for more money. Other items may have been taken, he explained.

Entrance was made through the front door, Matthews said, "with a bright spotlight shining right on the doorway." The door was found open when he opened for business Sunday morning.

Winters police and county law enforcement officers are investigating the burglary. The store was hit by burglars about a year ago, Matthews said, at which time a .22 rifle was taken. The rifle was later recovered.

CONG. OMAR BURLESON
... Seeks Re-Election

Cong. Burleson Announces For Re-Election

Congressman Omar Burleson has formally announced his candidacy for re-election to Congress, subject to the Democratic Primary on May 4 and in the General Election in November.

"The people of Runnels County responded most generously to my campaign two years ago when I had an opponent and when the area was new to the District," Burleson said in his opening statement. Runnels County was placed in the 17th District by the State Legislature in 1966, and he began officially representing it at the beginning of 1967.

The 17th Congressional District is now composed of 31 Counties, covering approximately 30,000 square miles. Within this area live about 440,000 people.

"With this tremendous area, and the fact that the Congress is in session almost continuously, it is pretty difficult to see and know people as I think their Representatives in the Congress should," Burleson said in his comments. "I believe it is incumbent upon a Congressman to know people and that they know him, to have the best representation. This is fundamental to our system," he said.

In his statement, Burleson says, "During my tenure of office I have followed two guiding principles: First, to know the views of my constituents and reflect their sentiments to the greatest degree possible in my actions in the Halls of Congress. Second, to inform and advise as closely as I can on those issues which affect our District, our State and our Nation."

Burleson termed his approach to Government as one of "common sense," guided through the years of public service. "I have tried to see that the people's tax money is spent as wisely (Continued on page 5)

Mrs. Juanita O'Connor's Weekly Home Demonstration Agent's Column

Food packages can help the consumer, but they can also deceive her. They protect food and add buying and storing convenience; some are to eat from, cook in or reuse.

But packages in certain colors and shapes look larger and some are not always full. Mrs. O'Connor suggests the wise shopper look at the net contents on the package. Contents in the same size packages may differ.

Consumer can help stop package deception by reporting to the store manager misrepresentation and any attempt to deceive. And stop buying that brand. Purchase of a product is a vote for it with the manufacturer, so make choices carefully.

Strawberries and Cream: What could be better than the first luscious red-ripe strawberries of the season? Well, maybe these luscious berries served with tempting sweet or whipped cream. Sound mouthwatering? Of course it does, because these two items seem made for each other.

The French are credited with being the first to enjoy this tasty combination. And despite all the new innovations in serving strawberries, strawberries with cream still ranks as a favorite, says Mrs. O'Connor.

Look for strawberries at your favorite market or food store. USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service reports increasing arrivals throughout the area. Most of these are from California, Florida and Mexico, but a few berries are beginning to move out of Louisiana.

Separate refrigerator butter-flake dinner rolls into individual flakes. Spread each with butter mixed with chopped almonds and tarragon. Bake until golden and serve with luncheon fruit salads.

Turn canned cherry pie filling into baked pie crust. Fold drained, canned, mandarin orange segments and toasted slivered almonds into almond-flavored whipped cream and mound on pie.

The best advice nutritionists can give those who want to be well-fed is first to select a varied diet, including the nutritionally valuable fruits and vegetables, the whole grain and enriched cereal products, the lean portions of meat, and enough milk, and then to follow the key word "moderation" in the use of sugars, fats and unenriched grains.

"We need to establish a county-wide vocational-technical training center in every county in Texas. Such centers would decrease the number of high school drop-outs, and create a much needed skilled labor force that will attract new industry to our area. Home Town Talk--

The United States belongs to the people of the country, not just to the man who occupies it for four or eight years. Those who launch a campaign of vilification at the White House are demeaning the highest office in the land, not only for the incumbent but also for his successors. The hurling of vile epithets at Lyndon Johnson could set a pattern that might be turned back upon the very people who brought vilification into style.

Dissent is one thing, acceptable and necessary. But dissent has degenerated into rancor and rancor into violence. Dissent was becoming inflammatory in a way that contributed to the vicious meanness of the times.

Perhaps Mr. Johnson's decision will shame some of the nation's angry, confused people into more rational means of self-expression. For it cannot be denied that permissiveness had degenerated into bad manners, and bad manners into viciousness.

Always there will be those we dislike, even those we would call enemies. But anger uncolored and vicious unrestrained can only breed more confusion and unrest at a time when our country desperately needs a soothing influence.

For One Big Week!

STARTS APRIL 12
STATE THEATRE

Greatest tourist-vacation season ever experienced in Texas is about to get under way. Austin will share in it, as will every other town in Texas.

Gov. John Connally has just opened the first of the 10 new Texas Travel Trails—Mountain Trail in Trans-Pecos—and dedicated improved Davis Mountains State Park.

Spending by out-of-state visitors in Texas last year totaled $1,200,000,000. Indications are 1968 will top that substantially.

HemisFair opens April 6 (granted some near-miraculous feats of speed in construction and cleanup activities) and will continue through October 6. Historic San Antonio's 250th birthday will be celebrated in connection with the grand opening.

By conservative estimate, 7,000,000 visitors will attend the fair during its six-months run. Twenty-six foreign governments will exhibit on the 92-acre site. Texas' own $10,000,000 exhibit—the Institute of Texan Cultures, depicting the role of two dozen ethnic groups in building the state—is expected to be the main educational attraction.

A $5,000,000 U. S. Pavilion will feature a remarkable motion picture on the confluence of western civilizations.

In addition to the educational events, plenty of top-flight entertainment is booked in San Antonio's new civic center on the fairgrounds, and there are rides, souvenirs and fun events for all ages.

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson will head a group of dignitaries including Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall, who will preside over opening ceremonies April 6.

A great Texas attraction—Six Flags over Texas—will launch its eighth season (midway between Dallas and Fort Worth) April 13. Facilities have been expanded into a $2,000,000 program. The Pioneer Amphitheatre's 1968 production of "TEXAS" in scenic outdoor splendor near Canyon, opens June 29.

COURTS SPEAK

In a landmark case, the State Supreme Court found Methodist Church's Hilltop Village non-profit retirement home, which has some residents who pay up to $215 a month but cares for others on a charity basis, does not meet the test for tax exemption as a purely public charity.

In a long list of other decisions, the high court: Upheld a $5,500 judgment for a man hit by a train at Midland after he pushed a car containing a woman and eight children off the track.

Agreed that a Potter County widow should be allowed to seek damages from a builder for defective residence construction.

Held that Garland cannot require a permit of Texas Power and Light Company to serve an area the city wants served by its own power plant.

Decided that a suit against an interstate truck firm, which damaged equipment in an accident near San Marcos, must be tried under the Federal Interstate Commerce Act.

Ordered a hearing at Eastland on the effort of a candidate for district judge to prove that he meets the residence requirement necessary to get on the ballot.

Agreed with a judgment against the J. C. Penney Company for malicious prosecution of a man whose driver's license was used by another to cash a stolen $100 money order in their store at Marshall.

Accepted a motion to dismiss a suit against a Houston woman for refusal to tell a judge the whereabouts of her son who was involved in a divorce action.

Refused to grant an application for a writ of habeas corpus to obtain release from jail of an El Paso juror who was sentenced to three days and fined $100 for contempt after he flatly refused to obey a judge's order to wear a coat in the courtroom.

Austin district court has begun a long hearing on the application of Trans-Texas, Braniff and Continental airlines to enjoin Texas Aeronautics Commission from certifying Air Southwest Company's four-engine Electra flight service linking Houston, Dallas-Fort Worth and San Antonio.

HONORS ANNOUNCED

Sherman Birdwell Jr. of Austin and Garrett Morris of Fort Worth were named by Governor Connally to new terms on the Texas Employment Commission and the Texas Public Safety Commission.

Cong. Burleson--

and as judiciously as you would have spent it had you been in my place," he said.

"The record will show that a greater part of the time I have found myself in the minority in opposing the vast spending programs which have been put into effect in recent years. In every Session of the Congress the record will show my votes for expenditures below that recommended by the Executive Department and far less than actually appropriated by the Congress, except in the field of National Defense," Burleson said.

He continued, "Without meaning to appear boastful, if the Congress had followed those of us who have voted consistently over the years for fiscal responsibility, our financial affairs would not be in the shape they are today."

"In areas providing for the defense of our Country, I have always supported those things to make and keep our Nation stronger than any other in the world," he said.

"I have been concerned in separating those activities which the Federal Government was not designed to do, from those which are truly its responsibility," he said.

Burleson stated that activities of State and local governments, in accordance with the Constitution, should not be infringed and encroached upon by the Federal Government. "The Federal Government does have specific missions," he said. He gave as examples the conservation of our natural resources, the defense of the country and its general welfare.

"At the same time," he said, "the Federal Government can not and should not try to take care of everything from Washington. The Federal Government has grown to colossal proportions and centralized power in Washington has increased," Burleson pointed out. "To this, I am opposed and my record is clear in this respect."

Burleson is among the senior members of the U. S. House of Representatives in point of service. His seniority has carried him to the Chairmanship of the potent House Administration Committee, and to the second position to the Chairman of the powerful Foreign Affairs Committee. In addition, Burleson serves on two important Committees formed from senior members of the House and Senate, as Chairman of one and Vice Chairman of the other.

Burleson is a former County Attorney and County Judge of Jones County. He was appointed an FBI Agent, and served in a number of assignments over the U. S. He resigned from the FBI to join the Navy in World War II, and saw duty in both the Atlantic and the Pacific.

Burleson ended his formal announcement by saying, "Although not having opposition in this year's election, it is my hope to visit my constituency as opportunity affords. The Congress being in session at this time and expected to be long after the Primary Election, there will be little time to leave duties in Washington. I expect, however, to get back home at short intervals to do the best I can in seeing my friends and to make new ones."

"Waterhole No. 3"

The sleepy California desert town of Mojave, once the site of a fabulous gold mine in 1860, went completely "Hollywood" during filming of Paramount Pictures' comedy and Western "Waterhole No. 3," showing Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the State Theatre. It was the most excitement the area had seen since the 1932 earthquake.

In addition to the many Mojave natives, including local Indians, who appeared in the Technicolor film, the amount of cash spent by producer Joseph Steinkamp in the town was reminiscent of the boom days of the gold rush. Costs averaged $25,000 a day for the more than 100 people connected with "Waterhole No. 3." If you're not good at arithmetic, that's $2500 an hour for each ten-hour working day, or $41.67 a minute for each minute the company was there. Buses and cars needed when the company moved to and from the "Waterhole No. 3" shooting locations cut into the budget to the tune of $6,500 weekly. But other means of transportation were equally expensive. A herd of horses had to be rented from a local rancher for the film's cavalry scenes. If the horse actually worked, its owner received $25 daily, but if it merely stood around waiting, the price dropped to a mere $12.50. In all, the entire herd of four-legged "actors" picked up over $2500 a week, which isn't hay.

James Coburn, who stars in "Waterhole No. 3" as a smooth-talking adventurer involved in the theft of a fortune in gold bullion, was the main cause of all the excitement in Mojave. Whenever the lanky actor walked down the town's main street, he was followed by dozens of the local citizenry, ranging in age from six to sixty. Although more than $350,000 was spent in Mojave during location shooting on "Waterhole No. 3," it will probably be these memories of rubbing elbows with James Coburn, Joan Blondell and the rest of the cast that will remain with the residents of this sleepy little town for a long time.

"Oscar" Selections Often Contradict The "Experts"

Predicting "Oscar" winners is as hazardous as venturing an opinion on a professional football game.

For no matter what the so-called "experts" claim, history proves that "Oscar," coveted gold statuette awarded annually by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, seldom runs true to form.

From the above, it's obvious that the only rule that means anything is the one that says there are no rules you can depend on. And this is almost certain to be demonstrated again when the motion picture industry's most coveted Awards are presented for the 40th time on Monday, April 8.

Bob Hope will MC the exciting, star-studded program which will be presented in its entirety over ABC-TV, beginning at 9 p. m. (CST).

Those who claim that money talks should start a push to give taxpayers equal time.

BABSON'S POINT OF VIEW

1968 Crop Outlook

Babson Park, Mass. April 4. Prospective plantings this year, as indicated by the spring intentions submitted to the Crop Reporting Board, show 10 increases. However, the total for the 17 crops covered is down 2 per cent—or 6 million acres—from a year ago.

Feed Grains
Some 6 per cent fewer acres than last year are to be seeded to feed grains, with the cutback in corn slated to exceed 8 per cent. Even sharper paring is in store for sorghums, plantings dropping back 2 million acres—or nearly 12 per cent—from 1967. Indicated acreages for barley and oats are up 2.6 per cent and 2.9 per cent respectively from a year ago. Even so, proposed plantings are down appreciably from the 5-year averages.

The dip in feed-grain acreage is not surprising in view of last year's large outturn. Still it should be remembered that the total feed-grain supply this season is estimated to be somewhat below average. So, if farmers adhere to these early planting intentions, you may expect a generally firmer statistical position—and higher price averages—in the 1968-69 season.

Oilseed Acreage
Reflecting the current widespread opinion that cotton plantings were too sharply curtailed in 1967, growers now say they will seed 17 per cent more acreage to this crop. If this proves to be the case—and in the main it certainly promises to be—cottonseed oil and meal should move into somewhat better competitive position price-wise in the next season.

Much will depend, however, on whether growers stick to initial plans to hold the prospective boost in soybean acreage to 3 per cent. Even if this is done, total 1968 oilseed acreage will still be up 5 per cent from 1967 and some 11 per cent above the 5-year average. It looks to us as though over-supply would continue to be a factor in oilseed markets well into 1969.

Food Grains, Beans, Potatoes
Intended plantings of durum wheat are a hefty 20 per cent above a year ago but an anticipated 12 per cent decline in seedings to other spring wheat will make for a smaller total than last year. Including acreage sown to winter wheat last autumn, all-wheat plantings will lag 1967 by 8 per cent but still rule 16 per cent above the 5-year average. Given favorable weather, the full 1968 wheat outturn could approximate 1.5 billion bushels,—down only slightly from 1967 and still some 23 per cent above average.

Rice allotments were boosted 20 per cent above last year's level, and growers—wisely we believe—are planning to take full advantage of the increase by expanding acreage by just about that amount. The resulting larger production should certainly not glut the market. Nor should the proposed 12 per cent increase in dry-bean acreage lead to any marked over-supply. If potato plantings in toto are cut back by 5 per cent as indicated, output should be brought more nearly in line with the average of recent years. However, the large carryover may limit strength in the statistical position and in prices over the next several months.

Cattle And Hog Prospects
At the beginning of this year, the number of cattle and calves on farms stood at 108,813,000,—up slightly from a year earlier and about 2.7 million head above the 5-year average. Cattle and calves on feed top year-ago levels. Although no runaway marketings are presently indicated, our forecast is that consumers should be able to buy beef at lower than current prices in the weeks directly ahead.

The hog inventory on farms is a bit higher than a year ago and hog slaughter is expected to trend above comparable 1967 levels to mid-year and quite possibly beyond. This reflects the sizable fall pig crop... mostly in pigs that are slated to reach slaughter weights this spring. We predict a further backtracking in hog prices before any turnabout occurs, but foresee no very sharp decline from current quotes.

Job Rights Of Returning Veterans

Babson Park, Mass. When a worker has been away in military service for several years, it is easy for an employer to forget his legal responsibility to that veteran if he wants his job back when he returns. But the draft law spells it out, and the Supreme Court has brought down some decisions on special cases that are worth reviewing now that veterans are returning in substantial numbers.

First and foremost, the draft law specifies that young men discharged from the service must be treated exactly as though they had been on a furlough or leave of absence. Upon request, they must be given back their old jobs with no loss of seniority. Any fringe provisions must be theirs on the same basis that applies to employees granted leaves of absence by their company. In other words, such young men must not be deprived of any benefits accruing to their jobs while they were absent serving their country.

Personnel executives in companies both large and small should be well versed in the legalities and ethics of treating returning veterans who want their jobs back. Misunderstanding of the intent of the draft law and ignorance of subsequent court findings can cause embarrassment all-round plus possible tensions that may seriously damage labor relations as a whole. For unionized concerns, it is advisable for personnel officials to confer with labor representatives on such issues, especially if there are any uncertainties. Otherwise, the unions may later question the management's actions.

Specifics Of Seniority Guarantees

The High Court has made it clear that seniority must in no way be lost or lessened when a man is away in the service. Upon his return, a veteran must be treated precisely as though his employment had been continuous during his absence. Any changes affecting his position while he was in the service must apply to the job when he reclaims it. In at least one instance, even the elimination of their jobs through a labor-management agreement while the men were on duty did not release the employer from responsibility. The Supreme Court found that their stint for their country should be counted as working time in determining severance pay based on length of job tenure.

Recently, a returning veteran claimed a paid vacation that he had nearly accrued when he went into the military. The employer gave him back his position without controversy, but insisted that the employee would have to start anew in order to build up qualifications for holiday and vacation pay. Interest in the case was stirred when a federal appellate court admittedly divided in its decision) backed the employer in his stand. The High Bench, however, reversed the appellate decision by merely pointing to an earlier precedent which had supported the stand of the workers.

Solving Hypothetical Problems

It is not always a simple question of giving back to the veteran the job and rating he had when he left for his military term. Consideration must sometimes be given to any upgrading in his position that would doubtless have occurred had he remained on his company's staff without interruption. In one recent instance, a draftsman resuming his job after his service duty claimed that restitution of his former rating was not enough. He argued that a union agreement reformer rating was not enough. He argued that a union agreement required virtually automatic promotion as long as there was an opening on a higher level. Had he been there on the spot, he persisted, his qualification would have resulted in his achieving a more satisfactory rating. Here again, the court went along with the veteran pressing for somewhat hypothetical advances.
