Warnings Issued To Kite Flyers

Five "don'ts" were outlined today for boys and girls who fly kites by Mr. L. D. Stewart, manager for Texas Electric Service Company, in anticipation of the opening of the 1951 kite flying season.

As explained by Mr. Stewart, the five "don'ts" in order of their importance are: First, don't fly kites near electric lines. Second, don't use wire or metallic cord for kite strings. Third, don't use wire or metal in the kite frame. Fourth, don't fly kites in the rain, as even wet cotton string would become a conductor of electricity if it was wet and, fifth, don't attempt to remove a kite from electric poles or wires should it become entangled. Call Texas Electric Service Company's office and a lineman will come to the rescue if possible.

"The importance on the second 'don't' is dramatically illustrated by what happened in a Texas city on March 2 of this year," Mr. Stewart said. "A father was flying a kite for his son when suddenly a power line burned in two, two thirds of the city was deprived of electricity, two radio stations went off the air for want of electric power and numerous grass fires were started. Why? The man flying the kite was using a Christmas wrapping cord with tinsel woven in it. The tinsel, being a perfect conductor of electricity, shorted out the power line in which it became entangled. It was nothing short of a miracle that someone was not injured, or perhaps killed. "Local youngsters who fly kites have been very careful in the past about wires and when they flew their kites," Mr. Stewart stated. "We had a perfect record last year with not one boy or girl injured and only a few kites became demolished. This year I fully expect that even the number of kites lost will be reduced because it seems that every year, our boys and girls listen more carefully to our warnings and cooperate better in making kite flying safe."

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Edmondson were in Weatherford Tuesday where they attended funeral services for Mrs. Nelson Daniels who died at her home in Las Vegas, Nev. on Thursday of last week.

A businessman was in the habit of taking a cab from the station to his home each night. One evening he made the trip with a new driver who charged more than the usual rate. "I don't doubt it for a moment," replied the cabbie, "and don't think you're going to start now."

Death to Life Lesson for March 25, 1951

THE FLOWERS in the church on Easter morning will not have been there long. Less than 24 hours before, the church was dark and empty. At no time in the year does the church look gloomier than on Easter Eve. In many churches the altar is draped in black. Good Friday commemorates the saddest day in earth's history, Easter the most joyous. Yet they come only 48 hours apart. This reminds all Christians that neither Good Friday nor Easter stands by itself, but each gives meaning to the other.

Cross and Crucifix THE Protestant churches usually have a cross. That is because Protestants wish to remember that the Cross is empty, that it is not a dead Jesus whom we worship, but a living, risen, reigning Christ.

Even in the churches where crucifixes are numerous, there may be pictures or statues representing the risen Christ. Suppose there had been only Good Friday, suppose that had been the end of Jesus? Then there would have been no particular point in the cross.

The Resurrection showed who it was that hung upon the Cross; the Resurrection showed that the Cross was not a scene of failure but of victory. "Death could not keep its prey; He tore the bars away!" But on the other hand, what would the Resurrection have been without the Cross? Just another miracle—something to make our eyes pop, but not to make us grateful.

Victim and Victor THE New Testament represents the Resurrection in many lights. One of the most striking is that it was a reward, a reward for the Cross. That is, God "highly exalted" Jesus because of his willingness to die on behalf of others (Isaiah 53:12; Phil. 2:8). The Cross was the battle with the dark powers, and the victory; the Resurrection was the march of triumph.

On the Cross Jesus was both victim and victor; on Easter morning he was all the victor. The Cross was a perfectly natural event; by it Jesus underwent the worst that nature, and human sin, can do. But at the Resurrection Christ rose above nature, as nature's Lord.

"As He is, so are we . . ." THERE is another important truth about the Cross and Resurrection. From the very beginning, the church has refused to think of these events as concerned with Jesus alone. The Christian who has begun to work deeply into the meanings of his faith will see farther than the child does. He will see both Cross and Resurrection from the inside. The church has long taught that on the Cross God was doing something for us, and that through the Resurrection God is doing something for us. Paul expresses the life of a Christian as of one who is "dead with Christ" and "risen with Christ." The Christian life is thought of as one which has undergone both death and resurrection. Death to sin; rising to a new kind of life; death to a kind of existence in which we are slaves to what is worst in us; rising to a kind of life which we are "more than conquerors."

Not all Christians have understood this, to be sure. Perhaps the greater number of Christians think of their life as one of simply trying, not very hard, to do the best they can, and usually failing. But the really high-level Christians have discovered something; more profound; that the Christian actually has access, by faith, to an inner power which is the very same that raised Jesus from the dead. Every Christian can share now in the resurrection-life of Christ. And this is the secret of Easter.
