Tour Indicates Good Peanut Crop For Area

By DeMARQUIS GORDON
County Agricultural Agent

Thirty-three men met at the Pioneer Farmers Coop on Sept. 30 and went with us on a peanut tour. Most of these were peanut farmers, but we had a few out of county guests who came to see some of our Eastland County crops. Among these were Dr. Charles Simpson, Agronomist at the West Cross Timers Experiment Station in Stephenville; James Denton, Extension

Farm Management Specialist from Stephenville; and John Galloway, Farm Editor for Radio Station KBWD in Brownwood.

I think everyone was impressed with the good crop prospects we saw in the tour. We saw dry land peanuts that should produce over 50 bushels per acre at J. T. Biggs' and Conrad Schaefer's. Conrad also had the best crop of grain sorghum I have seen in Eastland County. Several of the men guessed at the yields. The guesses ranged from 2,000 pounds to 4,000 pounds per acre.

The double row peanuts at Cowan Hutton's and Edwin Schaefer's caused a lot of interest.

There were disagreements as to when the peanuts should be dug. At each stop some men said they would dig these peanuts in a few days if the crop was theirs. Others said they would leave them three weeks to a month before digging.

Edwin Schaefer is one who believes in leaving the peanuts until they are 130 to 140 days old which is much longer than most farmers want to wait. It's hard to argue with Edwin. His peanuts graded 79 last year and produced high yields. He said he has about crop when it is harvested. He leaves them in the ground as long as possible to make as much as he can. Some farmers have trouble with Southern blight and have to dig before the peanuts start coming off.

The most pleasant surprise of the tour was at Drew Dan Jackson's. His wife and Mrs. Herman Schaefer had cold drinks, hot coffee, cookies and cake waiting for the men on the tour. After four hours of riding and walking in the sand the brownies and drinks sure were good.
